WEAK IN EDUCATION

One of the Vulnerable Points of the Whitney Administration.

R. R. Hall accepting West Peterborough Liberal nomination condemned the inefficient administration of the Agricultural Department, which had resulted in a decrease in the rural population of Ontario. The failure to develop the agricultural resources of New Ontario, showed that the Government did not appreciate the responsibility. The extravagance of the Government, which had practically doubled the expenditures in six years, was to be condemned, with a revenue practically stationary. The weakness of the educational policy was shown by the abolition of the model schools, which deprived the poor man's son or daughter from aspiring to the teacher's profession, and had so greatly diminished the supply that in Peterboro' county 42 per cent. of the schools were without qualified teachers, and the bilingual schools were also failures from lack of qualified teachers and efficient inspection. Deals like the Gillies limit showed a disregard for public interests and wasteful alienation of public property. License administration had become extremely partisan, and temperance people had been forced to partnership in the profits of the traffic by the tax on bar receipts.

AWKWARD QUESTIONS

Dr. Rankin Says Sir James Whitney Wishes to Avoid Them.

Dr. Rankin speaking at the North Perth nomination said that although Sir James Whitney called an election now, in the hope of annihilating Ontario Liberals, he would find himself mistaken when he encountered the fighting spirit of his opponents. There were some awkward questions Sir James wished to avoid. There was the question of bilingual schools that he had shouldered on a Commission. The report was understood to be ready, but Sir James dared not make it public yet, as there were a number of ridings where he depended upon the French vote. For that reason the Premier was likely to allow the teaching of French, notwithstanding that Bishop Fallon and other authorities were against such a course.

As to hydro-electric power the path had been blazed by Sir George Ross, and in this as in other respects, Sir James Whitney had followed along the road already made. In seven years Sir James had not been engaged in any big scheme of his own, but had been merely marking time. He was confident that North Perth could be redeemed.

SEVEN LOST YEARS

A Port Arthur Paper Complains of Sir James Whitney.

For seven years Sir James Whitney has had the opportunity to institute a policy for the development of northern Ontario, says The Port Arthur Chronicle, and he has failed to make a move. He has been supported in this wanton neglect of the great storehouse of the Province by his entire Cabinet. No voice has been raised in demand of the right to have its resources developed, save the voice of the Opposition speakers and press. But no heed was given them by the dictator at Toronto or the men whom he made serve his views in his Cabinet.

HON. A. G. MacKAY

Liberal Candidate in North Grey.

A NOTE FOR DR. PYNE

Guelph Conservative Paper Says Improvement is Needed.

Guelph Herald:—Farmers and teachers both have not felt sure how to teach agriculture in the comon schools. The difficulty lies mainly in the false standard of education that the teachers as a body now set up and still continue to prescribe. If our teachers were thoroughly practical and constructive in their ideas of schooling, they would soon fit the "case to the circumstance." There must first come an evolution or rather a revolution in the minds of teachers as to what the processes of the school are for. The old classical standard still obtains and useless studies are carried on because of false notions of value.

ROMANTIC HISTORY OF LUTTRELL ESTATE

The Many Changes Through Which the Manor House Has Passed Because of War

Few families possess a longer or more romantic history than the Luttrells, of Dunster Castle and the Manor of East Quantoxhead, Somerset. As stated in the annual report of the Commissioners of Inland Revenue, the East Quantoxhead estate—which has an area of 2,295 acres and is of the annual value of $7,000, has remained in the hands of one family since the time of William the Conqueror, with the exception of one brief interval. Before the year 1085, when William ordered the survey of England, referred to by the present commissioners of Inland Revenue as the last occasion in which the feat of valuing the whole country was attempted, the estate had fallen into the hands of Ralph Paganel, a follower of the Conqueror. One hundred and fifty years later, through failure in the direct line of issue, East Quantoxhead passed to Andrew Luttrell, who had married Frethesant, granddaughter or great granddaughter of Alexander, younger son of Ralph Paganel, the Norman. The "fine" paid on that occasion for the succession was 100 marks.

The manor remained in the possession of the Luttrells until 1463, one of the holders in that period—Sir Hugh Luttrell—being a privy councillor to Henry V. and one of the commanders under the martial monarch at the reduction of Harfleur, 1415, and at the siege of Rouen.

Evil days overtook the family fortunes in the Wars of the Roses. They took the Lancastrian side, and in 1463 Sir John Luttrell, then dead, was tried for treason by Edward IV., the treason consisting in his having supported Henry VI. The dead knight was found guilty, and his heirs were dispossessed of their land, which remained confiscated until after the battle of Bosworth (1485) and in possession of William Herbert, Earl of Pembroke.

Sir Hugh Luttrell was among the persons of note who joined the Earl of Richmond (afterwards Henry VII.) at his landing, and when the successful issue of Bosworth, where Richard III. fought and fell, placed the crown upon Richmond's head, the estates of the Luttrells were immediately restored to the family, in whose possession they have remained ever since. Among Luttrells of distinction since that time were Francis Luttrell, a colonel in the army of William III., and Alexander Luttrell, who served in all the wars in Flanders throughout the reign of King William and in Queen Anne's time was colonel of the Royal Regiment of Marines.

The old manor house of East Quantoxhead was put in a good state of repair between twenty-five and thirty years ago, and it stands grim and staunch, overlooking the waters of the Bristol Channel. It is now occupied by Mr. A. Fowne Luttrell, the squire of Dunster.

Sweet Pea and Consumption.

The sweet pea is the latest ally of the health crusaders, and it is claimed to be a valuable agent in the prevention of consumption. "The sweet pea has one great virtue," said the manager of the exhibition opened in London in connection with the National Association for the Prevention of Consumption, "it drives the flies away. Where there are sweet peas there are no flies, and where there are no flies the danger of spreading consumption is considerably lessened."

Gifts to Royalty.

The Prince of Wale's little Welsh terrier is not so strange a gift as some which have from time to time reached the Royal Family. King Edward received from the other side of the Atlantic a present of a nugget of pure gold found in the Klondyke, and valued at $1300. PRINCE EDWARD BONNIE SAILOR

Young Edward Went Through Naval Drudgery Like a Man—He Visited a University

The Prince of Wales has completed his service as midshipmate on H.M.S. Hindustan, and is to spend the winter at Sandringham, next year to enter one of the great universities. The Prince seems to have enjoyed his life on the Hindustan, although a great deal of hard work fell to his lot. He escaped none of the drudgery, and was engaged part of the time in coaling the ship.

When the Prince of Wales joined the Hindustan it was arranged that the cruise should be for three months, which were for him an exceedingly arduous time, filled with exacting and responsible duties. These were performed with a cheerful willingness and intensity of purpose which won for the Prince the high appreciation of his superior officers and the respect of his colleagues. Rarely, if ever, was demanded of an officer so young the great task required of the Prince during his career on the battleship.

Throughout the four years spent at Osborne and at Dartmouth Naval College he lived the life of an ordinary cadet, and shared and shared alike with all his fellows of whatever station. He experienced all the drudgery and all the arduous phases of life which fall to the lot of a naval cadet, as well as the more pleasurable side of the calling, and cheerfully submitted to the common discipline of both establishments.

On board the Hindustan there were some departures from general practice, but they were certainly not discriminatory in his favor. Captain Campbell, who had charge of His Royal Highness, was anxious to give him at least a fair insight into all departments of a great battleship, and as the programme had to be compressed into three months some modifications of the usual course of training were inevitable.

The Prince accordingly received his instruction from or through the head of every single department on board. He had to perform for a period the duties of a gunnery lieutenant, and those of practically every other rank on board ,and the result was that he acquired some experience of every department of work and duty.

Although at first, perhaps, a little retiring, the Prince afterwards displayed a bright and cheery disposition, which made him popular on both the quarter and lower decks. It is an open secret that His Royal Highness left the Hindustan reluctantly, for he obviously enjoyed the life, but the Prince is among the first to realise that his lot is to prepare himself for other and higher branches of the public service.

Captain Campbell said the Prince was a very hard worker. He had taken part in every duty which an officer was liable to be called upon to perform. He had done his night watches, taken part in the general drill and the landing of parties with small arms. His Royal Highness had also experienced, like every other officer, the toil and drudgery of an inspection, as well as the spectacular phase.

"In fact," said Captain Campbell, "he is what we naval men call 'the live thing.' The Prince is a long way ahead of his years, which is due to the fact that he is an extraordinary hard worker."

A BISHOP'S CRITICISM

Wishes a More Vital Application of Christianity to Problems

In his address at Carlisle Diocesan Conference at Windermere, the Bishop of Carlisle, Dr. Diggle, claimed a more effective and vital application of Christianity to modern problems. "Our age," he said, "is an age of enormous material prosperity. Money is growing into a god and worshipped with an idolatrous and materialistic worship. On the other hand, we are losing the sense of the dignity of labor. The heightening of the habits of living has everywhere increased its cost. These, with other causes, are producing an unrest amounting almost to perilous despair among the lower laboring classes, who often work eighty hours a week for twenty shillings. These things ought not to be. They turn the brotherhood of man into a sham."

The Largest Egg.

The largest known bird's egg is that of the extinct aepyornis of Madagascar, of which the museum of New York has now a specimen. It has a capacity of two gallons, measures 26 inches round the middle, and the shell is ⅛in. thick. The largest egg of a living bird is that of the ostrich, which is equal to about 24 hen's eggs.

The Chinese Week.

The Chinese week consists of only five days, which are named after iron, wood, water, feathers, and earth.

MUST GO FORWARD

Conservatives Have Lost Their Initiative and a Liberal Attack is Needed.

That the progressive element of the Conservative party will be sorely disappointed by Sir James' address is beyond all question, says The Globe. The Premier does not seem to know that there is profound discontent in the Province in regard to educational administration and grave dissatisfaction because of the utter failure of the Attorney-General's Department to ferret out crime. The incapacity shown by the departments having to do with the opening up of the great northland is patent to everyone. To the progressives, who hoped for an advance all along the line, Sir James gives the order to man the trenches and remain on the defensive.

The way lies open for a strong Liberal attack on a Government that seems to have lost its power of initiative. The Conservative party cannot hold power indefinitely on its two important forward measures: the Hydro-electric policy, which was supported by many Liberals and condemned by many Conservatives, and Mr. Hanna's excellent prison-reform program, which has not become a political issue at all. A constructive policy must be forced upon Sir James if he will not go forard vplantarily.

TALE OF SHIPWRECK

Story of Passing of Steamer Nautilus that Turned Turtle

One of the strangest maritime accidents in the annals of English shipping came to light with the return of the captain and nine survivors of the coasting steamer Eastern Counties, trading between Yarmouth and Hull, which turned turtle off the mouth of the Humber, resulting in the death of four of the crew. The rescued men came to port on the steamer Nautilus, which picked them up shortly after the accident. The Eastern Counties turned turtle without warning and in perfectly calm weather. None of the rescued can give an explanation for the accident. Accompanying Captain Rogers was a Mr. Tunbridge, who had a remarkable experience. The heeling over of the vessel threw him from his berth to the floor. Seizing overcoat and boots, he rushed on deck, only to find several of the crew struggling in the water. Six other men followed him on deck, and, seeing the vessel going over, they dived overboard.

Mr. Tunbridge climbed the sloping dack, and, as the vessel went over one way, he clambered over her raised side until he sat astride the keel with not more than his boots wet. Six of his companions, seeing him safe, swam back and climbed up beside him, and all were safely taken off by a small boat from the Nautilus.

Five others, including Captain Rogers, were in the water when help came, but Chief Engineer Fullerton sacrificed his life to save one of the sailors. Both were supporting themselves on a fish box, but it was not buoyant enough for both, and, as Fullerton could swim and the seaman could not, the brave engineer left the flotsam intending to try and reach the boat. He was struck by some wreckage and stunned, and when taken from the water was dead.

One of the passengers was also picked up dead, an open wound showing where he had been struck behind the head. His companion and a fireman named Mitchell were never seen after the vessel capsized. Captain Rogers had a narrow escape, for he was so exhausted with swimming in his clothes that he had to give up. As he felt himself sinking a lifebuoy struck his face, and, grasping it, he kept himself afloat until the boats arrived.

PLOTTED TO KILL

Pupils Had Made Up Their Mind to Murder a Principal

Conditions for whic hit is hard to find any other adjective than "horrible," have come to light in a European school. These conditions cloak a conspiracy among certain school boys to murder the principal of their gymnasium. The ages of the conspirators ranged from thirteen to fifteen years. They had bound themselves in writing and lots were drawn as to who should have to do the shooting. The murder would surely have taken place had not a teacher come across a letter which put the authorities on guard.

35-YEAR-OLD LOAF.

A loaf of bread made thirty-six years ago was exhibited by Mr. William Revis, of Hammersmith, London, England. In 1875 a Mr. William Baker, of Shefford (Bedfordshire), made two small wheaten loaves and presented them to Mr. Revis's father on condition that they should be preserved and given to his twin sons William and Edgar on their fourteenth birthday. The loaves, however, were not presented to them until they attained their twenty-first birthday on May 31, 1897. The loaf belonging to Mr. William Revis is in an excellent state of preservation, but the companion loaf was accidently broken in half a few years ago.

EDITOR AT TWENTY-ONE

Meredith's Journalistic Influence Over the Affairs of India

One of the most famous journalists of his time, and one who exercised a powerful influence over the affairs of our Great Eastern Dependency, has just died. This was Mr. Meredith Townsend, formerly editor and proprietor of the "Friend of India," and from 1860 to 1898 proprietor and joint editor of the "Spectator."

Mr. Townsend, who was a native of Ipswich, went out to Calcutta when he was only seventeen to begin life as a journalist. Very soon his outstanding ability secured him a prominent position in the control of the "Friend of India," and he was only twenty-one when he became the responsible editor of the paper, in which position he was destined to exercise a very considerable influence over the affairs of the country during the critical years which were to follow.

In 1854, following the death of his first wife, he had a severe attack of cholera, which left him in a weakened state. He returned to this country to recuperate, and, while here, he married a second time. Not long afterwards came the news of the Mutiny, and he at once hastened back to India. In those dark days the influence of the "Friend of India" rapidly extended—a tribute to the powerful pen of its editor. The great crisis was hardly over when he suffered another personal loss in the death of his second wife.

His health broke down again in 1860, and, on medical advice, he decided to settle in England. Here he soon regained his strenght, and purchased the "Spectator," being joined in the editorship by Richard Holt Hutton.

The two editors wrote almost the whole of the paper, though they occasionally sought outside assistance. In 1898—a year after Hutton's death—Mr. Townsend sold the "Spectator" to Mr. St. Loe Strachey, and retired to Little Bookham. He leaves a wife and three children.

BRITISH POST OFFICE

Probably the Largest Undertaking in the World

The business of the London Post Office waxes greater and greater every year. It is probably the largest undertaking in the world.

In the course of the official year—a full report of which was recently issued—the revenue was nineteen millions sterling, and the expenditure fourteen millions, both figures being increases on previous years.

Between April, 1910, and March, 1911, about ninety millions of telegrams were despatched in the United Kingdom, and wireless telegrams show a very considerable increase.

As for old-age pensioners, there were nearly thirty millions of these aged men and women who received financial aid from the State during the year.

One extraordinary incident crops up in the Postmaster-General's report, referring to the adventures of a letter of credit for $5,000. This valuable paper was discovered lying loose in a pillar-box.

ROYAL WRITERS

The Most Widely Known of These Is "Carmen Sylva"

The number of royal writers on the Continent is by no means inconsiderable, nor are any of them really hidden by the pseudonyms they invariably assume. Of such wayfarers on the slopes of Parnassus the most widely known, no doubt, is "Carmen Sylva." In real life "Carmen Sylva" is Elisabeth, consort of King Karol of Roumania. Among others is Queen Marie of Naples, the "last of the Bourbons," as she is sometimes called, because she is the widow of the deceased King of Naples and the Sicilies. Her pen name is "Countess Isola," and under it she has published quite a series of religious works in prose and poetry. She has just celebrated her seventieth birthday.

The pseudonym "Th. von Bayer" hides from no German the personality of Princess Therese, daughter of the present nonagenarian Prince Regent Luitpold of Bavaria. The sister of the German Kaiserin, Princess Feodora of Schleswig-Holstein, who died some little time ago, wrote many poems under the pseudonym "F. Hagin," and Princess Amalie of Saxony, who belonged to a past generation, wrote several popular plays over the signature "Amalie Joy."

INVALUABLE TO EVERY FARMER

Its Wonderful Power in Curing Sick Cattle and Colicky Horses Makes "Nerviline" Worth Its Weight in Gold.

The stockman or farmer that doesn't know of the thousand and one uses of "Nerviline" around the stable has a great deal to learn. "Why, I wouldn't think of locking my stable door at night without knowing I had a supply of 'Nerviline' on hand. I always get a dozen bottles at a time from my druggist. To cure colic, indigestion, and bad stomach in a horse or cow there is no remedy on earth in the same class as 'Nerviline.' Last summer I had a $250 horse that got the scours, and I would have lost him if I hadn't been able to give him Nerviline. I poured a full bottle of Nerviline in a pint of water down his throat and saved his life. I know of neighbors who have saved many heads of valuable stock, stricken with colic, just by using Nerviline. It is equally good as a rub-on liniment, and I know from my experience that for man or beast, internally or externally, 'Nerviline' is worth a dollar a drop.—James E. McCullough, Stock Breeder, etc."

You will not regret using Nerviline—but see you get it and not something else. 25c per bottle, or five for $1.00, at all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

THE LAST PENNY

Judge Denounces the "Odious and Dreadful System."

The spectacle of a hundred and eighteen judgment summonses moved the county court judge at Kettering, England, to a tirade against the system. "There are four or five score of poor, wretched people, broken down—the bankrupts o fthe working class—who can hardly keep body and soul together, with too large families and too small wages, with the cost of living increasing and further taxes about to be put on them," said his Honor.

In face of that, he pursued, he had to make out orders to screw the last penny out of them or give the bread-winner three weeks in gaol. It was an odious and dreadful system, but fifty-four county court judges, with himself, were administering it all over the country. He did not think the public understood what went on in the county courts, and he was sure the Legislature did not. It would seem that the Legislature had no time to deal with such topics.

The 118 judgment summonses before the court were the greatest number he had ever had.

He was sorry to say, he added, that throughout the whole of his circuit judgment summonses were increasing by leaps and bounds. One reason was the Married Women's Property Act, and another the hire-purchase system. It was a monstrous system, but unfortunately it was the law. The Treasury were running county courts like a shop, and the more customers there were attracted to the shop the more fees went into the Treasury. It was oppressing and repulsive work for the county court judges.

DUE TO SELFISHNESS

The Bishop of London Denounces Childless Marriages

After a silence of some six years the Bishop of London has again come to the front with a vigorous attack upon race suicide. In a recent address he reviewed the steadily decreasing birth rate as given by the government statisticians, and made a strong appeal for the universal adoption of his principles. According to the Bishop, England is running France and the United States a close race in the matter of childless marriages. The Bishop's words are creating quite a stir among the many wealthy women's clubs that abound in London, and some prominent women have come to the front with views that conflict with the Bishop's. The publicity given his remarks and the widespread discussion they engendered have led him to again speak upon the subject. In this later talk the Bishop outlines his own opsition and the position of the Church upon this matter. In no uncertain terms he says that "it has been proved beyond a doubt that the decrease in the birth rate is due to the wilful limitations of families." In conclusion he says, "Let me sound a warning against the evil that is eating away the heart and draining away the blood of the country, and let me denounce the growing selfishness that thinks first of creature comforts, of social pleasures, and then of the primary duties of life."

IN A SPY'S HANDS

A sensation has been caused at Strasburg by the news that the new carbine, of which so much was expected, is in the hands of a spy. The military authorities of the Fifteenth Army Corps, are greatly concerned, and have placed the matter in the hands of secret agents.

TRIALS BY WATER

Throwing people into the water to let it determine their innocence or guilt was widely in use in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. A synod of West Prussia forbade its use in 1745. Sporadic cases have occurred during the whole of the nineteenth century.

Professor T. G. Evans wrote in 1895 of its use in Dalmatia, where in some districts it was still customary to throw all the women into the water on a specified day to see whether they would sink or swim.

A rope was attached to each, in order to have from drowning those who proved their innocence by sinking, while those believed to be guilty because they floated were rescued and made to promise to forsake their evil ways on pain of being toned.

A traveller has described a modern survival of the ordeal used in detecting thieves in Southern Russia. All the servants of the household where a robbery occurred were assembled and as many balls of bread were made as there were suspected persons.

A sorceress then adressed each one of the number, saying that the particular ball of bread which she held in her hand would sink or swim as the party addressed was guilty or innocent. She then flung it into the water.

Boiling water was used in ordeals by the Persians, and it is referred to in the Avesta. It contained both the sacred elements, water and fire, suggesting the deluge past and the fiery doom of the future. In the simplest form of the hot-water test the bare arm was plunged to the wrist in trivial cases, and to the elbow in more serious trials, usually to bring out rings or coins thrown therein.

In Thibet plaintiff and defendant settle their cases judicially by plunging their arms into boiling water containing a black and white stone, when he who brings up the white stone wins the verdict. A king of the Goths in the seventh century, with the sanction of the Council of Toledo, recommended the boiling-water ordeal for crime.

WATER POWERS ACQUIRED

In connection with the probable ultimate electrification of a portion of its line in the Rocky Mountains, the Canadian Pacific Railway acquired a water power on the Adams River, which flows out of Adams Lake, and experts have reported that it is capable of developing a hundred thousand horse-power at two different points between the lake and its confluence with the South Thompson. It is in a heavily timbered country where extensive lumbering operations are now being carried on.

ELEPHANT PULLS TOOTH

Unusual Operation Witnessed by Visitors to Riverdale Zoo

The elephant at the Riverdale Zoo, Toronto, acts as his own dentist. A few days ago it pulled a tooth which had been bothering it, the operation being witnessed by a number of persons who were watching the animal at the time. It appeared to be in pain, and worked it strunk around in its mouth as though to dislodge something unpleasant. At last, after moving its trunk frantically, the animal drew something from its mouth. It cast the tooth thus extracted out of the enclosure. The molar was large, and had evidently broken off in the gum, as all the root did not come out. The crown was in a good state of preservation, but there were signs of decay lower down.

Highest Building in the World.

Plans have been filed for the construction at Broadway and Park Place, New York City, of the highest building in the world. From the curb to the apex of the tower it will stand 750 feet and contain 55 stories. The Metropolitan tower is 700 feet 3 inches, and the Singer tower 612 feet.

New York's Big Hotel.

New York's proposed hotel, which is to be the biggest in the world, is designed to contain 1,600 rooms.

During the first six months of 1911 there were 650,690 deaths in India from plague.

In the last ten years tuberculosis has steadily decreased in England, Scotland, Ireland, and Germany.

SUCCESSFUL VIOLINISTS

Kubelik Advises Students on How to Master the Strings

In the opinion of Kubelik, the famous violinist, the standard of violin-playing has steadily risen of late years, which is not surprising when one considers the enormous increase in students from all nations, who for years steadily devote hours daily to mastering the intricacies of the instrument.

Kubelik, however, not only emphasises the need of earnest, steady work, under the direction of a good teacher, but that the student should procure as good a violin as possible, care being taken that the tone is pleasant to the ear.

"The tone of a violin greatly depends upon its strings," says Kubelik, "and the proper placing of the bridge and sound-post. The sound-post is the little wooden pillar inside the instrument, situated about a quarter of an inch behind the right foot of the bridge. Should the bridge or the sound-post be only slightly out of place, the finest 'Strad' will sound like a three-dollar fiddle.

Watch the Strings.

"I would recommend all possessors of violins to have them examined by an expert, in order that the best results may be obtained. My experience is that most violins can be improved by paying attention to these details.

"I have known students almost driven to despair and loss of weeks of work in the vain endeavor to produce certain notes with a pure tone, not knowing that the difficulty arose from defects of the instrument, probably the bridge or post, being slightly out of place, or the bad quality of strings.

"It is false economy to play too long without changing strings, as a string after being used for a certain time refuses to respond to the student's intention, and time is lost by unnecessarily repeating a phrase.

"Beginners should commence their studies with a competent teacher, as good progress can only be made on a proper foundation, and bad habits, once acquired, are difficult to eradicate. So commence properly.

Concentrate! Concentrate!

"When practising the mind must be entirely concentrated on the work in hand. If the thoughts are allowed to wander, no good result will follow, and consequently it is not advisable to play too long without a rest.

"When the student feels his brain refuse to grip he must stop at once. Each individual should arrange his studies to suit his physique, and on no account continue his exercises when his brain is tired. I do not expect the 'born-tireds' to take advantage of this rule; my advice is intended for diligent students only.

"I strongly advise all students to attend to physical culture, avoiding exercises which tend to stiffen the wrist and interfere with the flexibility of the fingers."

Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy

cured Mrs. C. C. Gokey, of a stubborn case of heart disease, such as thousands are now suffering with. Read what she says:

"Before I began taking Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy I had been suffering from heart trouble for over five years. I had grown so weak that it was impossible for me to do thirty minutes work in a whole day. I suffered intense pains in my left side and under the left shoulder blade, I could not sleep on the left side, and was so short of breath that I thought I should never be able to take a full breath again. The least excitement would bring on the most distressing palpitation. I had scarcely taken a half-bottle of the Heart Remedy before I could see a marked change in my condition. I began to sleep well, had a good appetite, and improved so rapidly that when I had taken six bottles I was completely cured.

FIRST RECEIPTS.

Small Beginnings and Great Endings of Celebrated Writers.

There are some curious and romantic stories connected with the first literary efforts and earnings of famous authors. Mr. Cutcliffe Hyne, for instance, recently confessed that "The first real literature I was ever paid for was written to decorate the wrapping paper of a tradesman who mended anything from a kettle to a diamond necklace. A brilliant idea had struck him that if his usefulness was displayed in type and color on the paper in which he wrapped his handiwork trade would subsequently increase. He felt he could not put sufficient literary finish on this personally, so I supplied designs for mottoes and for the wrapper to his esteemed order—price, one guinea."

Mr. Cutcliffe Hyne has also told how, after he left Cambridge, he "worked like a horse at writing for three years and did not earn a halfpenny," while the first venture of Mr. S. R. Crockett in the literary world was, for $200 a year, to edit a paper, most of which he wrote himself. From another paper he received $3 a column of 1,000 words for his famous "Stickit Minister" stories. This worked out at a guinea a story.

Mr. George R. Sims was earning a salary of $3,000 a year in the City when he gave up his post to embark on a literary career. He earned his first guinea by writing a column of gossip, called "Waifs and Strays," in The Weekly Dispatch, but, deciding that there was more money in the City, he went back again until his success as a playwright enabled him once more to devote himself entirely to literature.

An amusing confession is made by Mr. Morley Roberts, the popular writer of sea-stories. "I got my first guinea and six others besides by stealing a Texas newspaper article holus-bolus and adding a head and a tail to it." Mr. Edgar Jepson received only $10 for his first two books, while Mr. Silas Hocking's first story brought him in $75, "and I was thankful to get that," declares the popular novelist. Neither did Mr. John Oxenham make a very encouraging start, for his first year's efforts at writing brought him about $125. The second year he earned about $500.

As a matter of fact, there are many writers whose earnings to-day run well over four figures who could tell of the days when their yearly income from writing did not rise above $100. Sir Arthur Conan Doyle failed to reach this amount in his first year; yet for his novel, "Rodney Stone," he received $35,000 before it was written. Here are a few other big prices paid for books to authors after they had made their name. Daudet received $200,000 for a single novel. Lew Wallace got, in royalties on "Ben Hur" and "Prince of India," almost $400,000. "Les Miserables" brought Victor Hugo close on $80,000, while Kipling is reputed to charge 50 cents a word.

Turning to other literary work, one might mention that Commander Peary received $50,000 for the serial rights in the English language of his remarkable story of the discovery of the North Pole. Mr. Winston Churchill received $40,000 in cash and a substantial royalty for the Life of his father, Lord Randolph Churchill; $50,000 was paid to Lord Morley for his "Life of Gladstone," and a similar sum to Dr. Sven Hedin, the famous explorer, for his last book. Macaulay received $40,000 in a single check as part only of his profits from his "History of England," while Gen. Grant's widow is said to have received $500,000 from the memoirs of her distinguished husband.

Dust Laying Experiment.

The highways department of the city of Leeds, England, has recently treated portions of a macadam roadway with granular calcium chloride to combat the dust. Solutions of the same had previously been tried at greater cost and without such satisfactory results.

The road is first well swept and two applications of the chloride are made on succeeding evenings, of about one-half pound per yard, at a cost of $8 per square yard. From personal observation the American consul at Leeds notes the following: July 19, first application; July 20, rain; second application; July 21, dry, breezy day, no dust; July 24 no dust; July 25, heavy thunder showers; July 31, no dust, after a few days of very hot weather; Aug. 9, road in good condition, chloride seems to act as binding; Aug. 10, stiff breeze, but no dust; Aug. 14, road still in good order.

In the Lancers.

"In what branch of the service is that magnificent-looking man?" asked His Majesty.

The gentleman to whom the question was put was too polite to hint that the King was mistaken in supposing that the distinguished surgeon was a naval or military officer.

"Sire," he replied, "he is a general in the Lancers."

Three Evils.

Dr. Gore, the new Bishop of Oxford, is endowed with a keen sense of humor, and is rather fond of telling the story of how, at one diocesan examination, one of the questions ran thus: "Name the three evils mentioned in the Litany from which the church prays to—be delivered." Judge of the examiner's astonishment when, instead of the answer, 'False doctrine, heresy, and schism,' he read the words, "Bishops, priests, and deacons."

NEURALGIA CURED

This Painful Trouble is Due to Poverty of the Blood

Neuralgia is one of the most painful maladies that afflicts humanity. The trouble is usually seated in the face and head, following the course of some nerve, but it attacks other parts of the system as well. It is characterized by acute pains, sometimes steady, at others spasmodic and darting, headaches and a feeling as though the forehead was a band of iron. Medical authorities agree that neuralgia is a cry of the nerves for better food, and that if the blood is purified and enriched the trouble will disappear. This is the reason why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure even the most severe cases of neuralgia. They actually make new, rich blod which feeds the tired, starved nerves and thus cure the trouble, at the same time leaving the sufferer in better health in every way than was formerly enjoyed. In proof we give the case of Mr. G. Brooks of Aurora, Ont., who says: "About two years ago, while working in Collingwood, I was attacked with neuralgia, which became so bad that I was frequently unable to go to work. The pain would start over my right eye and would then spread to the whole face, and caused me the greatest agony. I was under the care of a good doctor, but his treatment did not do more than give me temporary relief, and I was therefore an almost constant sufferer. Acting on the advice of my wife I finally decided to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial, and I am profoundly thankful that I did so, as in the course of a few weks I began to improve, and after a further use of the Pills the trouble disappeared and I have not since had any trace of it. I may also add that while taking the Pills my weight increased by nine pounds, which shows that the Pills are a body builder as well as a nerve restorer."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A KINDLY JURIST.

The late Lord James of Hereford started in life as plain Henry James, the son of a Hereford surgeon, was educated at Cheltenham College, and become first boy on the roll. He was a prizeman of the Inner Temple, and was called to the Bar when 24, becoming a Q.C. in 1869, in which year he first entered Parliament as Liberal member for Taunton. He was noted for the volume and vigor of his speeches. Gladstone selected him for his Solicitor-General before Harcourt, who was contemporary with Henry James as barrister. From 1880 to 1885 Sir Henry James was Attorney-General, and then fell foul of his party over the Irish question. He was re-elected for Bury as Unionist, and joined Lord Hartington and Mr. Chamberlain in the political ranks. For several years from 1895 he was Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster.

Lord James, who has been Attorney-General to the Prince of Wales, and was leading counsel in the Parnell Commission, was well liked by his tenants in Wiltshire, who, in 1901, presented him with a farewell address upon his giving up the estate, in which they expressed gratitude for the "unfailing thoughtfulness and kindness for all of us." Lord James, in his reply, said that as a sporting tenant he had tried to do as he would be done by, and it was his view that if a man met with success in the occupations of his life it was his duty to let others share in the fruits of his success.

Lord James is one of the most philanthropic men of the day. Of special interest to him are those who try to help themselves, and those who have certain positions to sustain and are passing through trying times. The wives and children of clergymen with poor livings he will send along to some quiet seaside resort.

To old people he has always been exceptionally kind. One cold evening he met an elderly gentleman who had had a post in the courts, but had retired on a small pension. The man's coat was thin. Promptly the great lawyer turned into the first clothier's he passed and ordered a whole outfit for the former legal servant, with strict orders that it was to be despatched anonymously, without even the clothier's name, "lest the recipient might suspect."

Among the many incidents mentioned in the obituary notices of the late Lord James no reference was made to the fact that he really made Herbert Asquith, the present Prime Minister. In 1883, Herbert Asquith was "devilling" for Sir Henry James, then Attorney-General. Gladstone, who was Prime Minister at the time, was anxious to fulfil his promise of extending suffrage to the agricultural laborer. As a preliminary, it was necessary to draw up a conspectus of all existing franchises ,and tenures which confirmed the franchise. Sir Henry James delegated this work to Asquith, whose memoir on the subject was so good that Sir Henry submitted it to Gladstone. The latter thought very highly of it, and insisted on making the acquaintance of the young barrister who had written it, eventually bestowing upon him the Secretaryship of State for the Home Department, when he formed the administration in 1892.

Lord James, who, as everyone knows, declined the offer of the Lord High Chancellorship, with its salary of $50,000 a year and in subsequent pension of $25,000 a year for the balance of his life, rather than yield to Gladstone's persuasion about Irish Home Rule, owed his title of Lord James of Hereford to the fact that when at Cheltenham College he was always known as "Hereford James." There were several boys of the name of James in the school, but he was the only one who hailed from the county of Hereford, where his father was in practice as a physician. He always retained to the last a very warm affection for his alma mater, which he was the first to join on its opening, and when raised to the House of Lords, he determined to revive, in a way, in his title, the sobriquet by which he had been known at school.

DUST IN THE AIR.

It Has a Bearing on the Temperature of the Atmosphere.

When the air is very thick and hazy it may contain floating dust particles to the number of from 10,000 to 20,000 in every cubic centimeter, while a cubic centimeter of very clear air may contain only from a dozen to a few hundred particles.

An English observer's data indicate that there is a relation between the dust and the temperature of the air. A great amount of dust, it is thought, increases the temperature in the day time and checks the fall of temperature at night. The reason is that the presence of dust serves as an obstruction to the free radiation of heat through the air. The sunbeams pass through very pure, clear air without lending much heat to it, and at night the heat received by the ground during the day readily escapes through the same air, but if the atmosphere is heavily laden with dust the sun's rays are partially arrested by the particles which, becoming heated, in turn warm the air, and in like manner heat radiated from the earth at night is retained in the hazy layers of air in contact with its surface.

Without its atmosphere, which serves as a coverlet to protect it against the fearful cold of space, the surface of the earth would be frozen like that of the airless moon. But the data gathered by reliable observers show that the atmospheric blanket wrapped around our plane varies in its power to retain heat in proportion to the amount of dust particles that it contains.

Catarrhozone

Cures Permanently
BRONCHITIS, COUGHS, COLDS, ASTHMA, CATARRH

Throw medicine to the dogs. At best they are unpleasant, often useless. You are suffering from some disease of the throat, nose, or lungs. Doctors call it Bronchitis, Asthma, or Catarrh, or it is a slight or severe cold. Germs cause these diseases—they have a common root.

CATARRHOZONE is little drops of healing carried by air to the exact place where Catarrh exists. Observe, Catarrhozone not only destroys the cause, but immediately repairs the result of diseased condition.

Catarrhozone is endorsed by doctors, druggists, and by thousands of Canadian people who have used it.

Catarrhozone

Yes, Sir, it is taken in air. "Little drops of healing" carried by air to weak places in the lungs, throat, and nasal passages.

Three sizes: 25c, 50c, and $1.00, at druggists, or by mail, postpaid from The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Ont.

TAG DAY CAMPAIGN A GREAT SUCCESS

Beautiful Indian Summer Weather Assisted Greatly the Work of the Tag Girls and Thousands of the Pink-Coloured Cardboard Tags Were Disposed Of---Some Incidents of the Day.

Indian summer and Tag Day arrived simultaneously in Peterborough this morning and the coupling of the two should result in a substantial amount in the coffers of the Children's Aid Society when the crusade is at an end to-night. A beatuiful bright warm day, with a sun that rendered overcoats a burden and relegated furs for the time being to the limbo of the moth ball, the weather was of a nature to make a man feel like giving, and the result was that there was a brisk sale of tags all day.

The tag girls were at work early and the principal streets leading down to the business section were well patrolled. Every corner had its bevy of eager sales-ladies and there was little opportunity for the pedestrian to escape. To do justice to the generosity of the people of Peterborough, however, it may be said that few showed any disinclination to contribute, and yielded up their silver readily when approached by one of the tag girls.

Down town, of course, was where the acnvassers had their best opportunity and they made the most of it. Very few people were seen on George street to-day who had not the pink tag of the Children's Aid Society dangling somewhere from their person. People in vehicles did not escape either and conveyances were held on the corners until the occupants had purchased rosettes for their horses or for the adornement of their motorcars. The street cars, too, were invaded, and motormen and conductors as well as passengers had an opportunity of donating their share towards the funds of the society. There was an ample force of tag girls and they took advantage of every chance to dispose of the tags. Everywhere could be seen the girls with their cash boxes and the legend "C.A.S." on a badge on their arm. Down at the market was a favourite spot and hundreds of tags were disposed of here, principally among the townspeople, although the farmers are said to have donated more readily than last year.

An amusing incident occurred at the G.T.R. station this morning. On the arrival of the Belleville train, several girls button-holed the crew for the purpose of selling their tags. The Conductor, a jovial fellow, proceeded to lead them a merry dance round and about the station, and the girls, amid the cries of 'Lassoo him! Lassoo him! kept up the chase. At length, however, the Conductor yielded to his pursuers and was "tagged."

A well-known local lawyer was the victim of a boomerang joke, which he, himself, tried to spring this afternoon when he offered $5.00 to a number of tag girls, if they would pin a horse badge on the city's Fire Chief. They succeeded in doing this very easily nd the $5.00 was paid.

HALL'S STAND FOR BETTER TREATMENT OF WORKINGMEN

Better Laws Providing For Compensation of Injuries Received in Course of Employment.

Mr. J. T. Clark, one of the best-informed and most dispassionate editorial writers in Canada, draws particular attention to R. R. Hall's stand for better treatment for the workingman killed or maimed while at his work. Under the heading, The Injured Worker, the Toronto Star Weekly says:

"Mr. Hall, the Liberal candidate in Peterborough for a seat in the Legislature, is sharply criticized by the Review of that city for advocating a change in the Workmen's Compensation Act, to provide that the worker who is injured while at work shall be compensated in all cases, the compensation to go to himself if he survive, or to his family in case the injury prove fatal. The Review considers Mr. Hall's position an absurd one, in so far as it would exempt the worker for responsibility for his own injury. It speaks of the negligence of workmen as being sometimes rash and deliberate.

"It is right here that the case occurs between past and future legislation on this subject, and Mr. Hall, of Peterborough, is not alone on the stand he has taken. The new platform of Liberalism in Ontario, embodies Mr. Hall's view, and he may have had a hand in putting it there. It is the principle on which the English Act is based.

"In its argument with Mr. Hall, the Review says: 'If a man were desperately hard up he might consent to shove a finger under a buzz saw or hammer, knowing that, in any event, he would get full damages.' The new form that Compensation Acts are taking is based on the knowedge that men do not do such things. But there's many a man 'desperately hard up' to-day in Ontario, because he lost a hand, a foot, or an arm accidentally, got no compensation, and had to go into the world half a man, to try to earn a man's pay. The fact is, and every town in the Province contains evidence to prove it, that any compensation act containing a clause referring to contributory negligence, can be made use of to send maimed men away without compensation of any kind. The victim of accident is without funds to fight in a succession of courts a rich company and its staff of able lawyers retained by the year. There is no greater reproach to our civilization at this moment than the procession of legless and armless litigants leaving our courts without recompense for the tragic injuries they have suffered while bravely engaged in the ranks of the industrial army.

"If we are to have labour made as safe as labour can be made we must see to it that an arm or leg costs the railway or the factory more than would the safeguard which would prevent the sacrifice of a human limb. Men will run risks if they must to earn their bread, but if these risks are to be reduced and all needless ones done away with, those in need of bread must not endure unrelieved the whole burden of a calamity when it comes. In one way or another the using up and throwing aside of the damaged hulks of men must be discournged. The statistics for Canada and the United States are sorry reading."

A NOVELTY

Something new in the line of agricultural freaks was shown the Examiner this morning by Mr. John Newham of Lot 18 and 19, of the 11th Concession of Smith, who brought into the office a red clover root no less than twenty-three inches in length. He turned this up yesterday when ploughing on his farm, and was so impressed by the unusually great length of the root that he brought it with him to-day. Clover roots running that far in the ground, are decidedly a novelty.

THE FINES WERE BIG

Police Magistrate Dumble Handed Out Judgments to the Extent of $125 This Morning

A RECORD HARVEST

Drunk while on blacklist, $20 and costs	$ 22.60
Giving intoxicants to blacklister	27.60
Drunk and disorderly	5.75
Drunk and disorderly	5.75
Drunk and Drunk, under age 21	5.75
Drunk and disorderly	5.75
Drunk while on blacklist	20.00
Supplying liquor to blacklister	20.00
Total	$113.20

The above is a list of the cases in the Police Court this morning, showing this part of the city's financial resources to be very valuable. Chas. Clarke was discharged with being drunk while on the black list. He pleaded guilty, and a fine of $20 and costs was imposed, amounting in all to $22.60.

Albert Crouter was charged with supplying liquor to Chas. Clarke, knowing that he was on the blacklist. He pleaded guilty and was fined $25 and $2.60 costs.

Henry Campbell, a stranger in the city, who comes from parts unknown, was charged with being drunk and using bad language on the street. A fine of $5.75 was imposed.

Ben Douglas, drunk and disorderly in a public place, was fined $5.75.

Robt. Sculey was charged with being drunk and disorderly while still a minor. He pleaded not guilty, and P. C. Meharry was put in the box. He stated that he arrested him at the C.P.R. station while in company with the other young men of the city, who were drunk at the same time. The fine of $5.75 was then imposed.

Thos. O'Clair was fined $5.75 for being drunk and disorderly.

A local young man, who, by the way, is a familiar figure in the Police Court, was charged with supplying liquor to Robt. Souley, who is a minor. He pleaded not guilty, and evidence was taken. Sculey was first put in the box. He said he was 18, but denied being drunk yesterday. He admitted drinking some liquor, however. He denied telling Meharry that the young man charged with the offence had given him the liquor.

P. C. Meharry was put in the box and stated two local blacklisters and Souley were drunk on Aylmer street near the C.P.R. last evening, and he went down ad arrested the three of them. He stated that last ight Souley told him that he got the liquor from one of the men. P. C. Kidd was put in the box, and stated that he heard the witness tell Meharry that he got two drinks from one of the young men. The Magistrate concluded that he could not convict on the evidence to hand, as the witness was drunk when he made the statement. That charge was accordingly dismissed, and he was charged with being drunk while on the blacklist. He denied it, but P. C. Meharry's evidence convicted him, with the result that a fine of $20 with ten days to pay it was imposed. A brother of the accused was charged with being drunk while on the blacklist, and he was also convicted and fined $20, to be paid in ten days.

A PRESENTATION

A surprise party was held at the home of Mrs. C. S. McClelland, Boswell avenue, last evening, by the members of St. Andrew's choir. During the evening Mrs. McClelland was honoured by a presentation from the members of the choir, an appreciative address being read by Mrs. F. Dormer, while Mr. M. Miller presented Mrs. McClelland with a handsomely framed photograph of the choir. Mrs. McClelland made a suitable reply, thanking her friends for their kind words and gift. Games were played and a very pleasant time spent by those present.

BRIDGE COMPLETED

(Post)

Mr. Jos. Brisbin of Burnt River, who was overseer on the new bridge being built over the Emily Creek, states that the bridge was finished yesterday and all that remained was to complete approaches. The bridge is 249 feet long and is situated on the 14th concession of Emily. Its construction saves a drive of nine miles in reaching Dunsford, Lindsay and other western points.

There are about 262 rods of approaches with about $1,600 spent on the work. Mr. W. J. Patrick of Dunsford was time keeper on the job.

REV. MR. BURNS OF OMEMEE RECEIVES LETTER FROM CHINA

Missionaries Could Not Send Telegrams as Messengers Would Not Risk Carrying Them—Bands of Robbers and Bandits Running Wild.

The anxiety of friends of Canadian missionaries in West China may be allayed by the news received in a letter which had just come to Rev. R. Burns of Omemee from his daughter, one of the Methodist missionaries in Chengtu. The letter is dated September 21, and states that they could not get out telegrams from that city except by messengers to Chungking, and until recently it was impossible to get messengers who would risk the undertaking as they might be intercepted and robbed or killed.

The writer says that the missionaries were ordered down the river but could not get away before the gates were shut. They are all safe and well, living within the fine missionary compound, most of them in the new hospital building, a hundred and twenty-six of them in all.

With the Methodist missionaries there were in the compound the missionaries of the China Inland, both from inside and outside the city, the Methodist Episcopal and the Baptist missions, four men who sell tobacco in the city, and men teaching in the science and English departments of the Chinese University, all English-speaking foreigners.

The telegraph wires were cut, the writer said, 771 miles from the city Bands of robbers and bandits were running wild, but no foreigners had suffered, though Mr. Manley of the Methodist Episcopal Mission had been attacked by a mob in the chapel, but escaped by knocking out part of the wall.

A SPLENDID LECTURE AT THE NORMAL SCHOOL

The first of a series of lectures, which took place at the Normal school last evening, attracted a large attendance. The lecturer was Mr. Gordon Craig, of Toronto, who is not unknown in Peterborough, as he lectured at the school last season. He chose for his subject Shakespeare's "The Merchant of Venice," upon which he rendered a recital.

It is generally accepted that "The Merchant of Venice" is one of the most popular of comedies in the English language. It was written in or about the year 1589. There has been much controversy among Shakesperian students from time to time, that the character of Shylock is not what it is represented to be, but that it is calculated more to be deserving of our sympathy and admiration. However, there are others who differ from that view. Shakespeare, it may be noticed, does not vindicate Shylock's character in the least, while Jessica, the daughter of Shylock says, "Our house is a hell."

The various characters impersonated last evening by Mr. Craig were remarkably well portrayed and that of Shylock exceptionally so. The avaricious nature of the Jew, asserting itself principally in the manner in which he holds the merchant to the bond for a pound of his (the victim's) flesh was characterised to a nicety, while the bold and imposing demeanour of Antonio, the young merchant, was also handled in a masterly fashion. Mr. Craig must have studied Shakespeare thoroughly to portray two such entirely different characters in such a creditable manner.

The next lecture, which will be entitled, "The Poetry of Music," will take place on December 1st.

A Little Of What "One Who Knows" Knows About Partizan License Administration

Editor Examiner:—

Dear Sir,—When the Whitney government went into power they were going to improve the license law and elevate the standard of hotels. I will begin at home in Peterborough and see how they have done it. The first year of their reign, Mr. Geo. Cochrane was inspector and attended to his duty. At the same time the Hotelmen's Association called several meetings, and at one meeting decided to live up to the law, which a big majority of them did, and have done since. Then Mr. Cochrane was superseded by the important Mr. Jos. Stewart. His first charge was to make a visit to all the hotelmen and tell them that he was the inspector and he requested each one to keep the law; and if any one was fined, or complained of that, he would get no license the following year. That was kind of Mr. Stewart, but what followed? The law-breakers went on, the same, and some were fined, but he did not lay the informations; it was the police, and he abused them for doing their duty and they had a quarrel over the spoils. However, did the ones that were fined—some first and the second offence—did they lose their license? No; two hotels were cut off that there was never one complaint against. That was their premium for obeying the law, and Mr. Stewart's cheering advice.

Then the C.P.R. (Mr. Bradburn's hotel) was sold out to a party that ran a superior and well regulated hotel. He was told to sell out. So he did, to a boarder who had no collateral but a wife. The commissioners transferred the license to this boarder, but the old proprietor stayed on still, disobeying the law of Mr. Stewart and commissioner and of the land. Next, he wanted to sell, and to help the same law-abiding proprietor, the lemon was handed to Mrs. Bowman, a widow woman, whose license was cancelled for observing the Stewart law. She got nothing for her license, but had to pay the outrageous amount of about seven thousand dollars for some old furniture and stuff that was only fit for a bonfire, and had to clean up one of Mr. Bradburn's fine hotels, which at that time was the worst in town. Mrs. B. kept it in good order for probably one and a half years. She got three months to sell out at a loss of $4000. So they fixed the widow in good style.

With the Montreal House and five others, also the Crown Hotel, one of the best hotels in the city for its size—only it was on church property and had been for forty years, was the excuse—how good these government officials were! So here is where the graft comes in. The old stand, by the name Phalen house, was sold to Mr. Ted Cavanagh; he kept it for a year or so and because he could not buy the hotel property, as the proprietor of the building wanted to sell it, he was given three months to buy the property or sell out, and at the end of three months' time he could not raise the cash and he got a second extension. So finally the present proprietor bought it, but not before 'Ted's' license was taken away. Then it was a good excuse to fix it up a little, but Stewart declared that the party would get no license on account of several convictions under the License Act, but in defiance of that it was overhauled, and when it was all furnished by the proprietor buying the furnishing from certain parties and lending a certain sum of money to one in the ring, the bluff was put up to buy the Montreal house license for $50 and transfer it to the new named hotel. The proprietor could well afford to have bought Mrs. Bowman's license and Laroque transferred his license, but then the New Windsor would be out of commission, and that would not do; that belonged to the Bradburn estate. Mr. Laroque was to have a license, so he had to pay Mrs. B. about $4,000 to get in business again, so he got the worst of the deal, $3,950, when the stranger should have had to pay the extra if they were practically the men that lived up to the law. That is nice protection; not much reciprocity in that. Now, the Chamberlen estate had three hotels. Mr. Winch ran against Mr. J. B. Stratton once, so of course had the patronizing and he must be looked after. There is where the fine Italian hand comes in. The landlord of the National hotel was one of the men that was up on the carpet several times; he did not obey Mr. Stewart, but he was sure of a license, because Mr Winch had the pull, and the National was rented very cheap, also his other two; but by suspending the Palace license he could get more than double for the National and one-third more for the Grand, and grand it is. And did the proprietor of the Palace get a chance to get another license? Yes, sure, if he would pay a premium of ten times more than an inferior house was worth, but had to buy the property to get into business. After being done out of about $8,000 without a month's warning, to suit Mr.

RULER TO ABDICATE

Feeling is Very Strongly Against the Boy Emperor of China and He is Expected to Get Out To-day

BARBAROUS WARFARE

PEKIN, NOV. 11.— This city is dumbfounded at the stories of cruel and barberous warfare from outlying provinces and the child Emperor this morning issued an edict deploring conditions and pleading to have them stopped. One newspaper came out boldly this morning demanding the abdication of the Emperor and his house and the immediate pronouncement of Pen Wan as president, not prime minister. The publishers of the newspapers were arrested and will probably be summarily tried and beheaded, but the sentiment is very much their way. In foreign circles here to-day ,there is a feeling that the Emperor may abdicate to-day.

ANOTHER SPLENDID CURE BY DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

R. Moulaison, whom two doctors treated, finds relief and, permanent cure in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Surette Island, Yarmouth Co., N.S., Nov. 10—(Special.)—Mr. Renie Moulaison, a well known resident here, is telling his neighbours of his cure from a severe attack of Kidney Disease which kept him in a state of pain and suspense for two months and defied the efforts of two doctors who were treating him.

"My trouble started with a cold," Mr. Moulaison says. "My muscles would cramp and I had backache and dizzy spells. My head ached, and I had a tired, nervous feeling while specks of light flashed in front of my eyes.

"I suffered in this way for over two months and was treated by two doctors, but they didn't seem to be able to do much for me. Then I started to take Dodd's Kidney Pills and they helped me almost at once. Six boxes cured me."

SATURDAY, NOV. 11, 1911

TO-NIGHT'S RALLY.

Mr. Hall's supporters are reminded of the usual Saturday night rally at Mr. Hall's committee rooms, over the Toronto Loan and Savings Company. In addition to other matters, the manifesto, or address of Mr. Peck, the Conservative candidate, issued to-day, will be the subject of criticism.

It is to be hoped that there will be a large attendance, as new light will be let in upon a dark subject.

NO TIME TO LOSE.

The Toronto Telegram says that Hon. Frank Cochrane, Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines, slept six years, while New Ontario was left undeveloped; left to the wolves—mining company promoters and others. Mr. Cochrane shows the same masterly inactivity in his new billet, Minister of Railways and Canals. He says that the work of enlarging the Welland canal will be delayed till he has a chance to look matters over. Now impediment of traffic on the canal is bringing much loss to shipping, and crippling our transportation service. Vessel men are hoping that the government will soon get to work to deepen the canal, as many expensive delays have occurred.

REGISTRATION.

By bringing on the elections a year before they are due, Sir James Whitney has forced another registration of voters within about a month of the expensive registration of last September. However, it has to be done, and the supporters of Mr. Hall and all concerned should see that the registration is as complete and effective as possible. It must be borne in mind that though a citizen not otherwise entitled to vote, may have registered only a month ago, he must again register if he wishes to vote in the present election. Anybody who is a British subject, 21 years of age, has lived in the Province a year and three months, in Peterborough, or the riding, is eligible to register.

A BUSY MONTH AHEAD.

Here we are within a few weeks of the municipal elections, and we don't hear a whisper of the important matter of electing a Council to manage our business for the next year. This is more important to us, locally, than Dominion or Provincial politics, and it promises to be pretty well sidetracked this year. For we are busy with big things. We have Sir James Whitney bringing on the provincial elections a year before the time, and complicated with the worry of registration, we have, at the same time, the first session of a new Parliament, that is unique enough, in many respects, to demand undivided national attention. We have our Christmas and holiday trade cut into and hampered by the provincial elections, to engage our attention. With all these distractions we don't see much place to slip in the municipal elections in a way that will give the people a chance to consider properly the choice of mayor and aldermen. There is no chance given for the people to properly digest the great programme of progressive measures set on foot by our present City Council. We rejected reciprocity because it tends to assimilate Canadian, with United States conditions. But, thanks to Sir James Whitney, we have an overdose of elections as strong as they are blessed with in the United States. It is only a little over a month till Christmas, and we shall, indeed, have a busy month; but we should not lose sight of the question whether we are to give Sir James Whitney a Christmas present in the stocking, or "in the neck."

Ontario's Minister of Agriculture is true to name; only a syllable needs to be added to describe the character of his official efficiency.

BUILD OUR OWN SHIPS.

Another "Princess" for the C.P.R. fleet—the Pacific coast service—has been built and launched at Paisley, Scotland. With the establishment of ship yards to build the vessels for a Canadian steamer on Lake Superior, should soon be in a position to build the Canadian steamers that will be required in increased numbers as time develops greater traffic requirements. The Collingwood ship yard builds excellent steamers, staunch and swift. Recently the Hurronic, built in Collingwood, out-steamed a foreign built Canadian steamer in Lake Superior. Apart from other national reasons, a Canadian navy, built in Canada, would be an impulse to the creation of a Canadian ship-building industry that would help to make Canada increasingly prosperous and self-contained. From an industrial point of view, it is just as logical to have our ploughs and reapers and stoves made outside of Canada, as it is to go abroad for our ships. We can produce the one as well as the other. No better way has been suggested of inaugurating a great Canadian ship building industry then the compulsory start that would be imparted by the carrying out of the legislation of the Parliament of 1910 to have the ships of the Canadian navy then decided upon, built in Canada.

BEHIND AS USUAL.

We—some of us—can't say enough about Quebec's backwardness and lack of enterprise. But in one respect we, in one of the most important matters of human concern—health—are behind our sister province. Under the government of Sir James Whitney which, we are informed, is the perfect government, less progress has been made in dealing with tuberculosis than in Quebec. Sir Lomer Goiun, Premier of that province has promised a subsidy of $3500 for a tuberculosis hospital in the city of Quebec. If the Whitney government had measured up to the demands of progress and humanity, there would be now more ample provision for dealing with the needs of those afflicted with tuberculosis. The head of the government in these respects is behind the times. Mr. Rowell, the Liberal leader in this, as many other things, takes advanced ground. His policy is given thus:

"Special investigation and supervision by the province of matters affecting the health and well-being of industrial workers and communities; encouragement of town-planning and the prevention of the growth of congested areas the suppression of tuberculosis, and the avoidance of occupational diseases."

That means something more than a policy of drift.

MR. PECK'S MANIFESTO.

In this issue appears an address of Mr. E. A. Peck, Conservative candidate, to the electors. This much can be said for it, at least; it is perfectly colourless and harmless. He deals with the subject with carefully wadded gloves, and leaves the elector a wide play for his imagination.

He leaves it to the ordinary elector to find out the good points of the Whitney administration. If he leaves this to them they will find out without digging very deeply, no permanent improvement in the roads of the country; they will find the schools in the northern and eastern part of the country without properly qualified teachers; they will find no improvement in the regulations looking to prevention of waste in cutting timber, or in prevention of forest fires. They will find no legislation for the benefit of the working man, or mechanic. They will, in a word, find a staring blank, in multitudes of cases where they should find effective and practical legislation and business-like administration.

They will also find that, while ostensibly giving municipalities an additional advantage from the taxation of railways, they are neutralising this advantage by imposing upon municipalities the burden of maintenance of unfortunates sent from them to our asylums—giving with one hand and taking away with two. They will also find the reference in Mr. Peck's address, to bilingual schools, one thing, and his letter on the same subject, addressed to another quarter, quite another thing.

It will be hard for the people in this riding to find in Mr. Peck's statement of policy, any suggestion, or advocated improvement in legislation or administration that will fill the needs that have grown up under the dormant administration of the Whitney Government during the past seven years.

Mr. Peck, in glorifying the Hydro-Electric policy of the Whitney Government, ignores the fact that the hydro-electric scheme has operated to the disadvantage of Peterborough. He does not tell those whose votes he seeks that the Whitney Government has expended millions of the funds of the Province to assist in supplying power to cities and towns west of Toronto, helping the location of industries there, at the expense of Peterborough and Eastern Ontario. While every street in Toronto may be well lighted by Hydro-Electric "juice," the farm of every farmer in Peterborough, is practically mortgaged to give Toronto cheap electric light. Mr. Peck could, if he reflected, see that there is a large share of the money spent in the benefit of one part of the Province to the exclusion of the other, which could be better spent in improving the roads of the country, or promoting the interests of agriculture.

Mr. Peck shows a good deal of courage in referring to the finances of the Province. In the matter of expenditure the annual expenditure of the Province—merely the house-keeping expenses—has, in the short space of seven years, increased over three and a quarter millions, and the direct debt of the province, over eleven millions, and the indirect debt many millions more, not taking into consideration a deficit on current expenses of over half a million dollars last year.

The elector who looks for light and leading, and uplift to the manifesto of the candidate of the Whitney Government, will fail to find in it one suggestion of advanced and needed legislation, or administrative policy that in principle, or practice, promises beneficial results to the moral, social, or material advantage of the Province.

"There could be no better medicine than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. My children were all sick with whooping cough. One of them was in bed, had a high fever and was coughing up blood. Our doctor gave them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and the first dose eased them, and three bottles cured them," says Mrs. R. A. Donaldson, of Lexington, Miss. For sale by all dealers.

Whitney Government Has Trifled With Technical Education

The Toronto News, in a recent editorial, calls attention to the need of a system of technical education being established in Ontario. The News, however, carefully avoids any reference to provincial effort or the likelihood of provincial effort towards the establishment of such a system. The provincial government is charged with the duty of providing proper educational facilities for all within the confines of this province, and the fact that a commission has been appointed by the Dominion Government to enquire into technical education should not deter the provincial authorities from a progressive line of action in this direction. In this important matter again, the Whitney Government is endeavouring to shield its own inactivity behind the Ottawa authorities. Technical education on a Dominion scale may come, but it will probably be supplementary to provincial effort.

The Rip Van Winkles and the seven sleepers of the Ontario Government have already spent seven years in somnolence and technical education is one of the important subjects over which the government has slept. In no city or town of Ontario is the subject of more importance than in Brantford, a city of skilled artisans and mechanics, whose abilities and skill, however, might be immensely improved by proper technical education facilities placed at their door.

The need of technical education was emphasised only the other day by Dr. MacKay, principal of the Toronto Technical School, who said:

"When we sum up all the places of education that we have established, it is seen that we are leaving out about 90 per cent. of the men and very many callings in life. This is where we fall down in our educational system. Consequently, many of our young men cannot rise above the position of mere helpers and their incomes remain low. Statistics show that we spend for public school education $1.08 per student; for high schools, $4.50; for model schools, $112; and for university students, $126. Yet nothing is done for those who wish to become builders, decorators, and so forth. We are behind the times in this respect. In Germany and England industrial training is a large feature in the schools."

Nor will any quarrel with the following from the Toronto News:

The importance of practical instruction for skilled trades cannot be emphasised too clearly. As the apprenticeship system has been abandoned, technical schools are the only sources of supply for really skilled labour. Without these we shall be producing a generation of partly trained men. Modern conditions demand highly specialized training, and unless we can give this, the city will be hampered in its competition with other manufacturing centres.

Great importance attaches to the practical side of education for mechanics, plumbers, carpenters, house decorators, and other skilled workers. It is in this branch that the work of the technical school will supplant the old apprenticeship system. While theoretical instruction may be of great use to a limited number of students, practical training is an absolute necessity for thousands. A technical school should provide facilities for the ambitious to rise to the highest ranks of the industrial world. But it should also provide for the requirements of the majority, who only ask for training in practical work. The system adopted by the Agricultural College might be adopted by the technical school, instead of training a boy for some trade which he may ultimately abandon, let the school take boys who are already working and teach them the best methods of their trades.

The need of technical education, however, is by no means new, even to the Rip Van Winkles of the Whitney Government. A progressive representative of Brantford in the Ontario Legislature, knowing this city's needs, would, it might be supposed, have been alert enough to press this matter to the urgent attention of the government. Not so, however, with Mr. Brewster! The somnolent attitude of the Rip Van Winkle Government seems to have spread its influence over the Brantford representative, and he has been somnolent too.

It is high time Brantford's needs found some voice in the deliberation of the Ontario Legislative Assembly.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Sir James Whitney calls Mr. Rowell's platform a "skimpy chicken." It promises to be a cock that can do something besides crow.

There are twenty-one banks in Winnipeg, and the bank clearings for the first nine months of the year amounted to 752 millions of dollars.

Tag-day brings out the Pharisee in human nature. We wear our phylacteries—tags—on our arms; we are careful to do alms so that they will be seen of men—especially the tag girls.

The Maritime provinces keep up their reputation for brains. Bonar Law, a New Brunswicker by birth, has been appointed Conservative leader in Great Britain in place of Hon. A. J. Balfour. It is a credit to Canada that she can furnish a great political leader for the greatest country in the world.

The Whitney government is asleep all round. The last report of the Provincial Registrar comes only as far as 1909—two years behind time—a matter of mere tabulation that might be kept up to date. But what can be expected when a department is so much overmanned that officials are in each other's way—falling over each other to the extent that they are a mutual hindrance?

When the Whitney government took power it made a promise, that, like so many others, has been broken. It promised a lot of scandals, when it got access to the records of the departments. It has had a seven-year run of all the records, books, documents, etc., and we have had not one item of Ross government maladministration brought to light. We were also promised a progressive policy, and in many respects the government has been standing as still as a stagnant pool.

The Whitney ogvernment has, by its neglect of educational interests, created the demand of the labour interests for compulsory education. The truancy laws of the province are useless. The Whitney government made a half-hearted attempt to remedy matters. They provided for giving townships permission to appoint truant officers, and we know the result. Sir James is opposed to "chequer-board" municipal legislation, but he thinks the optional truant officer good enough in educational matters, but municipal option the wrong thing in regard to taxation methods.

PROVINCIAL ELECTIONS

Address of E. A. Peck, the Liberal Conservative Candidate

To the Electors of West Peterborough:

Having been nominated as a Candidate by Delegates of the Liberal Conservative Association of West Peterborough, in Convention, I address you requesting your support at the pending Election of a representative for this Riding in the Provincial Legislature.

The Whitney Administration

1. A partial statement of work accomplished by Sir J. P. Whitney and his colleagues since assuming office in 1905, and of their plans for the future is set forth in the Manifesto recently issued by the Premier, which was published in the local Newspapers, and which you have no doubt seen; and I refer to only a few matters of more or less special interest to you as Electors of the Riding.

Workmen's Compensation Act

2. The adoption of a new measure in this respect has been under the consideration of the present Government for some time. The Act now in force was passed in 1885, and has not been amended in any substantial way since that period. In my opinion it is defective in several respects. For instance: No relief is now ordinarily given when some degree of negligence on the part of the injured person is shown; no relief is now given where the injury arises from the act of a fellow servant (other than a Foreman or such like person), and there is no summary remedy for determining the rights of the claimant, the injured person having to resort to expensive and frequently protracted court proceedings to recover damages.

The Government has appointed an eminent Judge (Sir W. R. Meredith) to prepare a Bill dealing with this question. This Bill will be ready for presentation to the House at its next Session. I feel a deep interest in this matter, and if elected will confer with those concerned here on the subject, and will endeavour to obtain the passage of an Act, which will be practical, comprehensive and simple in operation.

Education

3. The Government is to be commended for its efforts in the cause of Education.

Marked improvement has been made in the professional training of teachers.

The cost of school books has been very substantially reduced.

Large increases have been made in the annual Grants to the schools, the total amount expended for Educational purposes during the past year exceeding $1,700,000.

4. There are no schools in the Riding which may be called "Bilingual", but as I have been frequently asked my views on this subject, and the matter is one which will no doubt be brought before the Legislature at an early date, I state here that I consider the children in the Province are entitled to receive such an education that they will think and speak in English, and have a thorough command of that language. Not merely is this the intention of the existing law, but in the interests of the children this must be insisted upon.

Highway Improvements

5. The Government has for many years made annual grants for the improvement of roads in the Northern part of the Riding. The sums expended in the Riding in this way last year was over $2,000. These grants will be continued, and I believe application might now be successfully made to the Government for further grants towards the improvement of the principal highways leading to centres of trade in the Riding. I shall be pleased to co-operate in pressing this matter upon the consideration of the Government.

Hydro Electric Commission

6. A large amount of power is now in process of development along the Trent System, and it is of deep importance to the City of Peterborough that a substantial portion of this should be made available to power users in the City at reasonable rates. The Hydro Electric Commission has rendered extremely valuable services in procuring cheap power for many Municipalities, and may be relied upon to assist in rendering similar services for the City. The position taken by the Government is that no undue monopoly of power developed upon Provincial streams shall be permitted.

Finances

7. The collection of all monies to which the Province is entitled has been carefully attended to, and the annual income has been increased to more than double the amount of that in the year prior to the taking office by the present Administration, and this income has been carefully and wisely expended in the maintenance of the public Institutions, the cause of Education and of Agriculture, in assistance of Hospitals and Charities, in improvement of Highways, and in other ways for the benefit of the community.

In this connection the substantial grants made to the various Municipalities from the proceeds of Railway taxation may be here referred to.

Assuring you that if elected I shall do all in my power to advance the interests of the citizens of the Riding,

I remain,

Yours sincerely,

E. A. PECK

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

"Cleon hath a million acres,
Ne'er one have I;
Cleon dwelleth in a palace,
In a cottage I;
Cleon hath a dozen fortunes,
Not a penny I;
Yet the poorer of the twain is
Cleon and not I.
Cleon, true, possesseth acres,
But the landscape I;
Half the charms to me it yieldeth Money cannot buy."
—Charles Mackay.

FOR some reason it has come over me very strongly to-day, how much discontent and unhappiness might be avoided, if we could only try to control and lessen the craze for possession, the mania for owning things, the beliefs that the greatest happiness in life is in having many and costly possessions to call our own.

In other and far finer words if we could only realise that "a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth."

How much sacrifice of everything that ought to make for real happiness we will undergo in order to have more and richer possessions.

A young couple about to be married think that if they only might have the guest's room furnished in Circassian walnut and the dining room in mahogany they would be perfectly happy. And to do this, perhaps they accept assistance from the old folks which will mean a year or two of scrimping and self-denial on their part.

Is it possible that the possession of a little nicer furniture than most of their compeers have, can offset their own hearts' accusation of selfishness?

An ambitious wife spurs her husband on to tremendous effort in order that they may buy a beautiful house. Is is possible that the possession of the beautiful home can give enough happiness to offset the nervous overwrought condition into which the overwork throws him, and its consequent ill effect on the home life?

A working girl puts all her earnings into handsome clothes and cannot afford to travel, see the world or to take advantage of the thousand and one opprtunities for culture and education that might otherwise have been within her reach. Is it possible that the possession of the handsome fabrics can offset the full, interesting life she might have?

We were discussing this subject the other day.

Someone said, "It isn't so much the desire for possession that makes people try to have mahogany instead of pine, and silk instead of cotton. It is the love for beautiful things and the desire to be surrounded with them."

Is it?

Are these people who sacrifice so much to possess beautiful and expensive things the people who enjoy sunsets and the wonders of nature to the full who haunt picture galleries and support fine music?

Indeed they are not.

It is not beauty they crave, but possession.

Says Robert Louis Stevenson, "If we were charged so much a head for sunsets, or if God sent round a drum before the hawthorn came in flower, what a work we should make about their beauty."

It is because we can't buy and possess things like these that we aren't so keen about them.

If sunsets, the hawthorn spring afternoons and autumn mornings could be bought, hoarded and possessed, then we'd battle and sacrifice for them.

And I believe that the man or woman who can control this passion and rise superior to it, is the man or woman who stands to get the fullest, finest happiness out of life.

MISS CHALMERS' RECITAL

It was with the greatest delight that a large audience last night in the Conservatory Music Hall, listened to a song recital by Miss Mary Chalmers of the Conservatory staff, assisted by Dr. Frederick Nicolai, the well-known Toronto cellist. It was the first opportunity many of those present had of hearing Miss Chalmers, and that they were favourably impressed with this young artist's ability is expressing it mildly. She was heard in a long and varied programme, admirably selected to show her capabilities to the best possible advantage. Miss Chalmers is the possessor of a pure soprano voice of great sweetness and power, in both her higher and lower registers, and she sings with a charm of expression and a feeling that makes her numbers irresistible in their appeal. Her programme was splendidly arranged and covered a wide range giving the artist an opportunity to demonstrate her versatility, of which she took full advantage. The pleasure of the audience was shown by the hearty applause which followed each number, and the unanimous verdict was that Miss Chalmers is a notable addition to the musical forces of the city. During the evening she was presented with a beautiful bouquet of flowers—a tribute that was heartily endorsed by the audience.

A group of three songs served to introduce the artist, Chaminade's "On the shore," Schindler's "The Dove," and "Proposal," by Bracket, three numbers widely different in style, but Miss Chalmers made them alike, inasmuch as charm of execution and vocal ability were concerned. Her second group contained some of the best numbers of the evening, including songs by Schubert and Debussy; Weil's "Spring Song." His Lullaby by Bond and Gounod's "Ave Maria." All of these numbers were sung with a sweetness and charm that were indeed refreshing. Especially effective was the rendition of the Lullaby, which Miss Chalmers sang with a tenderness of expression that was thoroughly appreciated. For the Guonod number a violin obligato was beautifully furnished by Miss Julia Choate. The song cycle "A Dream of Egypt" by Amy Woodforde-Finden was rendered by Miss Chalmers, in splendid voice, and with full appreciation of its dramatic possibilities. Especially charming was her singing of the first number in the cycle, "Beside the Lonely Nile." Her programme was brought to a fitting climax by a superb rendition of the beautiful aria "Tocca la Nottie Placida," from Il Trovatore, which Miss Chalmers sang confidently and effectively, the number concluding a most delightful treat, if one may be allowed to use that hackneyed, but forcible expression.

Dr. Nicolai, who shared the honours of the evening with Miss Chalmers, proved himself a cellist of consummate ability, as indeed his connection with the famous Toronto string quartette would necessarily force him to be. His numbers, which included "Andacht," and a gavotte by Popper, "Andante," by Hollman, "Serenade" by Tan Beockr, and Gabriel Marie's "Lamente" gave him a splendid opportunity to show his mastery of the cello, and he succeeded in arousing the audience to great enthusiasm, a number of encores having to be given. Perhaps his most effective number was the Serenade, but all were played with a purity of tone, and expression, and an accuracy of technique that made Dr. Nicolai's work a delight indeed.

The accompanists, Miss Dean and Miss McKee of the Conservatory staff, added greatly to the success of the occasion by the splendid work they did at the key-board.

The thanks of the music-lovers of Peterborough is due Miss Chalmers for the treat she afforded them last evening. The event was under the patronage of Mrs. R. F. Wood, Mrs. R. W. Travers, Mrs. L. M. Hayes, Mrs. R. S. Davidson, Mrs. W. H. Hill, Mrs. J. H. Eastwood, Mrs. Richard Hall, Mrs. J. R. Stratton and Mrs. Ryerson Ritchie.

THE NEED OF MANUFACTURING

As a contractor and builder, I realise, perhaps, more than the ordinary reader what manufactures mean to a city. The people of this city must begin to realise that the most important thing in building a sound, substantial city is its manufacturing industries, which will attract and keep people here. Another very important thing for the people of Peterborough to learn is the fact that there is more money to be made in manufacturing than in any other line of endeavour, not excepting even railroads and banking, statistics show that the average dividend on railroad stocks is 5.4 per cent., on banking 9.1 per cent, and on manufacturing, 15.1 per cent. But notwithstading, the people of this city refuse to invest in anything except real esate.

Let me suggest that the Mayor's Cabinet devise ways and means to interest our citizens in bringing in and building up new industries. Take a survey of the manufacturing interests now here, and show their rapid and substantial growth and instead of shipping in manufactured goods, let us ship them out and bring the cash in.

SICKLY BABIES CRY HEALTHY BABIES SMILE

Baby's cry indicates distress—his smile health and contentment. The mother may be sure there never was a baby who cried for the fun of it. Baby's disposition is naturally a happy one and it is only distress such as may be brought on by a disordered condition of the stomach or bowels that can change this. So, mothers, to keep your baby happy you must keep him well—Baby's Own Tablets will do this. Concerning them Mrs. Chas. Potvin, Causapscia, N.S., writes: "Baby's Own Tablets have proved an excellent remedy for my baby. I had been using syrups, but they failed to help him and he cried constantly. The Tablets cured him and now he is a fat, healthy child." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

POST CARD COLUMN

Editor of the Examiner:

Why does Mr. J. Carlyle keep firing his little pop gun at the intellectual giants called "Higher Critics?" Does he not know that they are wiser than what is written, and that they know more than the greatest ages of the past or of the present? Their intellectual attainments enable them to go back over the pathway of time for six thousand years, and to proclaim with a loud voice that God never appeared to Adam in the garden as recorded in the book of Genesis; that the eleven first chapters of the book of Genesis are not history but myth or a fable; that Abraham never offered up his son Isaac in the land of Moriah as recorded in the 22nd chapter of Genesis and referred to in Hebrews 11-17. Such a demand they say could never be made upon the man of God. This, according to their statement, is false, both in the Old and New Testament. The Pentateuch they say was not written by Moses. As to this we are not concerned. Is it the word of God? That is our concern. The gift of tongues the Higher Critics tell us was never bestowed upon the Apostles on the day of Pentecost, as revealed in Acts 2, 3, and 4. But the people came there and learned the Greek language. But the Scriptures say: "That they were all amased and marvelled, saying one to another, Behold are not all these which speak Galileans? and how hear we every man in our own tongue wherein we were born?" If they had heard the Gospel in the language they had learned since they came to the country, their statement was false, saying it was the language in which they were born. We need not to wonder at this, for the Higher Critics tell us that the Bible is full of errors and contradictions. They tell us that the original copy was lost, and that it is made up from scraps and memory, that it was written by men of no education, and we don't know where they came from or who they were. What an insult to Almighty God. See 2nd Peter 1 and 2: "For the prophecy came not in old time by the will of man but holy men of God spake as they were moved by the "Holy Ghost." They were holy. They were men whom God Himself had selected to make known His mind and will to the teeming millions of the earth. But is the statement true that they were all uneducated? I proclaim the statement to be false. Paul has his name connected with fourteen of the Epistles, and he was a man of learning. Luke was a physican. Matthew was a tax gatherer; and I think I have read that it required some education to fill that office in that day. I confess, Mr. Editor, that if I had any leaning towards infidelity that I should have been mightily helped in that direction by what I have heard from the pulpit respecting the Bible. I don't wonder that men absent themselves from the house of God and have no desire that their children should sit under such a ministry.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

MADE A SUICIDE PACT OVER THE TELEPHONE

Husband and Wife Die in Separate Hotels---Talked Together by Phone Until Death Came to End Their Conversation

CLEVELAND, OHIO, NOV. 9.—Apparently timing his suicide with that of his wife by use of the telephone, H. L. Westerman, of Marietta, ended his life at noon yesterday in a room at the Hawley House by swallowing cyanide of potassium. Mrs. Westerman died of the same poison several blocks away, at the Kennard House.

Westerman was a machinist employed by the International Harvester Company at Marietta, and was twenty-five years old. Mrs. Westerman was three years his junior. The couple have no friends here, so far as the police learned, and evidently came to Cleveland for the purpose of ending their lives.

Mrs. Westerman went to the Kennard House early in the day and after obtaining a room bade her husband good-bye and went upstairs. She had only light luggage, and was not seen again until her body was found, a few minutes after twelve o'clock. She had sat on the side of the bed and taken the poison, falling across the spread as death came almost immediately.

Her suicide was discovered through the repeated telephone messages sent by her husband, which are the basis of the police theory of a suicide agreement. Westerman had not been away from the Kennard House half an hour when he called over the telephone and asked for his wife. She responded to the ring in her room promptly, the telephone operator says, and the couple talked a moment.

Half an hour later came another call for the young woman, and again she responded. The conversation was much briefer than before, the operator declares. Then about an hour elapsed, and at twelve o'clock Westerman rang again. This time there was no response from the room of Mrs. Westerman, and Westerman, at the other end of the wire, urged the operator to make certain that there was no one within.

The clerk, overhearing the operator's assurance that Mrs. Westerman was not in her room, and being sure that the young woman had not gone out through the foyer, sent a bell boy upstairs to investigate. He heard groans, summoned aid and broke in the door. Mrs. Westerman died when the house physician came, and over the wire Westerman heard the news.

Without a word he hung up the receiver. Soon afterward the police were summoned to the Hawley House and found the man dead. Mrs. Westerman left a note saying her husband was in financial difficulties.

WOMEN OF PETERBOROUGH

HERE IS YOUR CHANCE TO VOTE

By Roy Gilray

You talk about woman suffrage, or the right of a woman to cast her ballot, but here is a chance to exercise that duty without the trouble of going to a polling booth.

The matter of Christmas shopping is in your hands to do with it what you will.

It is you, not the merchant, who must decide whether buying shall be done in a sensible manner during ordinary business hours, or be continued into the evening; whether the poor girls, who stand all day for nine weary hours, shall be compelled to come back and serve you long into the night, or be permitted to go home at a reasonable hour to enjoy a well earned rest.

Mothers, I appeal to you!

Suppose it were your daughter who is obliged to wear her life away behind the counter, trying to please the capricious fancies of some whimsical shoppers; do you not think nine hours enough?

I fancy I hear some one say: "Oh, but it is the custom." Pray, tell me, who made it the custom, if it were not the people?

Then it is the people's duty to unmake it.

We hear and read a great deal about the evils of sweatshops, and up go our hands in horror; but here in Peterborough, while our stores cannot be called sweatshops, we actually countenance by our actions the very evils we decry.

Is not the health of the young woman of more importance than the few toys that may be bought after hours?

Nine hours breathing the impure, foul odors of any busy, congested store sometimes reeking with onions and garlic), are disastrous enough in their poisoning effect on lungs and blood, without adding four more, which are equal to eight in their depressing effect on the system. Why deprive the girl of those four hours, which should be devoted to breathing in the pure, life-giving air, out in the open, so as to counteract the effect of the nine spent inside?

The merchants might take the initiative in this matter, and we are firmly convinced the majority would, but there is always some pin-headed variety of shopkeeper who would back out at the last minute, and, as a matter of protection, the majority would have to bow their heads to the will of the minority.

Not so in the case of the people; if the majority of the better class of buyers would refrain from shopping at night the merchants would not be long in taking the hint, for they realize that their employees must have ample opportunity to rest if they are to retain that alertness, that esprit de corps so necessary to the success of an up-to-date store.

Not only are the young women liable to lose ground physically and become nervous wrecks at Christmastide when everything should be gayety and happiness, but through the changeableness of the weather, they often contract colds which they are unable to "shake" then when spring comes we witness that oft repeated scene of anxious friends with careworn faces around the bedside listening with bated breath for the inevitable verdict of the doctor, who whispers to the heart-broken ones that they try and make the poor girl as comfortable as they can till the "Crossing of the Bar."

Women, what are you going to do about it?

WHAT A FACTORY MEANS

BY "BYSTANDER"

The best way to show what factories can do for Peterborough is to take one specific illustration.

Some years ago the then American Cereal Company bought its location here and started to erect its mill. The Realty Company which sold the site made a profit upon the land. The agent made a commission. The attorney who examined the title and incorporated the company, the engineer who surveyed the land, the building company, the cement dealer, the man who furnished the crushed rock, the broker who provided the concrete steel, the men who furnished the lumber for the interior of the building, the manufacturers who furnished the electric motors, the mill machinery, the grinding machines, the scales, the belting and the firm who wrote the insurance all made their profits.

When business began, telephones were installed, the electric light company began furnishing power and light, the grain men began making profits on the corn and oats furnished, the railroad companies upon the grain brought in and upon the manufactured product shipped out, the bag manufacturers upon the sacks used, the printing and stationery and advertising, the telegraph companies upon the telegrams and the banks upon the accounts.

Numerous homes were required to accommodate the employees. Upon these houses the regular order of profits mentioned upon the erection of the mill were gone through with again. Sickness came; doctors were employed and drugs purchased.

The hotels and street car companies began doing business the moment the organizer arrived in Peterborough, and the department, stores, grocers, meat markets, clothing stores, shoe stores and other retail lines will continue to do business with this mill's employees so long as the mill continues to run. The stock holders in the mill will have become familiar with the profits in manufacturing, and in that way it becomes an object lesson.

The mill will pay an endless chain of dividends to those with whom it trades, and it will continue to create wealth to be used in this and other lines. The city is a gainer by the amount of taxes it pays, the water, rent and by the advertising upon the sacks of the numerous products that are distributed throughout the world.

By the above it can be seen that nearly every line of business and every profession has been benefited greatly by the location of this plant in Peterborough, and what is true of this as an individual concern will be multiplied by the number of concerns located in Peterborough.

So we have now The Quaker Oats Company, as it stands to-day, a credit to its owners and Peterborough in general.

This is surely an incentive to all of us to help build up Peterborough, and make it the city we desire.

"By-Stander."

BRINGING PEOPLE HERE

BY "BYSTANDER"

From time to time groups of excellent and active citizens get excited with the idea of doing things that will "bring people here." Population! That's the measure of a city's greatness, say these worthy gentlemen.

But is it? Isn't the crowning merit of a community its ability to take good care of its people? Isn't that, after all and above all, the most powerful magnet for attracting new population?

What kind of new-comers does a city want to invite? Skilled mechanics, trustworthy workmen, substantial artisans and storekeepers, creditable members of the professions, men of enterprise and capacity, capitalists with open minds and wisdom, families seeking education and comfort and entertainment? Surely. These are city-builders, and the city that is building needs them. Far better as such as they should come singly and of their own wish than that temporary expedients should fetch carloads of the inefficient, the failures, the undesirables from elsewhere.

In nearly every city of any size there is an "under-world" wherein crime and misery have habitation in squalor and hatred—a region of peril and disturbance. Is that underworld an essential part of the equipment of a city? May not Peterborough—clean and vigorous with the sweet breath of its hills and vales in its lungs and the brawn of the fields on its big-muscled arms—dare to answer that question with a "No!"

We have a splendid beginning upon which to base the gallant ambition that prompts that rejoinder to an old, old question. Is there no connection between the fact that the measure of its commercial activity, are steadily larger, in proportion to its population than those of any other Canadian city, and the other significant fact that the proportion of helplessness and poverty and viciousness here is far below the average in cities?

We have here splendid workers for the greater city that is to be—the city that takes care of its folks. The handful of sturdy men of clear vision and long sight, who strove to hold the city's course true half a century ago, are succeeded by battalions of men newly awake to the responsibilities and opportunities that devolve upon those who are "citizens of no mean city." Men in the full strength of their year, and having a vigorous hand in the work, and the young fellows freshly endowed with the franchise, and eager to do their part, are getting into the game. We need park pleasure grounds and good highways for the people of Peterborough. A city that knows the wholesomeness of play grounds, the worth of definite and free justice for the poor, the good sense of paroling prisoners, the prudence that provides for the widowed mother, before her children go astray, the keen humanity that comprehends the purpose of hospitals and shelters.

There is another aspect, also to this wholesome spirit of civic honour. The same enlightment and idealism that prompts and furthers social reforms wherein the strong do their full duty by the weak, crowds the inmagination with other enterprises.

It is not the helpless alone that the splendid city will provide for. The self-supporters, the prosperous, are dependent in their several ways upon the vast powers of the united community, ample rational pleasure is their right—entertainment accessible and on easy terms. The public library has become an essential part of the city's equipment, and its future usefulness will constantly increase. The play houses are vigilant of their opportunities, and spurred on by profitable appreciation may be depended upon the progress with the city's growth; music is only at the threshold of its possibilities as a factor in the community's life.

Good government, clean streets, adequate stores and shops, ample street railways, educational facilities, churches that reach the congregations—all these will help mightily in the progress of bringing people here—bringing people who want to come and who are welcome.

All other forces will weaken if the force of attractiveness and community efficiency are neglected. Every other plan will be an uphill pull unless we make Peterborough a good place to live in.

BECOMES A VICTIM TO NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

The dandruff germ is a busy little microbic growth. One is to wait until ways doing the same thing. Apparently with fiendish intelligence it burrows down into the hair follicles, destroys the hair-life and finally crowds out the hair, causing baldness.

There are two sure ways of stopping the harmful career of this invisible microbe constantly at work and already the germ has induced incurable baldness, after which the atrophied hair follicle offers no sustenance to the germ; the other is to USE NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE.

The dandruff germ cannot exist where Newbro's Herpicide is used intelligently. By killing the dandruff germ, it thus checks further accumulations of scarf skin and prevents the hair from coming out.

PRESENTATION MADE TO RETIRING CHOIR LEADER

Mr. J. H. Callander is Made the Recipient of a Purse of Gold and an Appropriate Address

MARK ST. CHOIR

Mr. J. H. Callander, the retiring choirmaster of the Mark Street Methodist Church choir, was honoured at the last choir practice, by being presented with a handsome purse of gold and an appreciative address. Mr. Callander has been most popular with the musicians, who regret very much that he has had to resign. The presentation was made by Miss Addie Dickson, while the following address was read by Mrs. Matchett:

Dear Mr. Callander,—It was with deep regret that we learned of your decision of moving from this community, thus making it necessary for you to resign the leadership of the choir, and to sever your connection with the Mark Street church. All through the years you have, by your kindly disposition, your faithfulness to duty, and your constant desire to please, endeared yourself to every member of the choir. You were always present to practices and to the services, if your duties were at all permissible. Nor do we forget the interest you manifested in us by the many pleasant trips and outings you gave to the members, notably the excursion up the lakes in August last. Nor are we unmindful of the many changes you have introduced into the choir of late, bringing in helpers from all the other choirs, thereby adding spice and interest to all our services.

As a member of the Finance Committee, we have grown to prize your very valuable and practical suggestions, many of which are still in vogue, and will, we believe, prove of value to us in days to come. And now we desire to express to you in a somewhat tangible form, our appreciation for these services, and to ask you to accept this purse of gold, with the hope that with it you may secure something that will constantly remind you of the many happy times spent together in the service of the Kingdom in this church.

A very enjoyable evening was spent in music and singing, and the assembly dispersed after participating in a dainty supper.

The New Manager Of The Brinton Carpet Company

The first of this year the Brinton Carpet Co. was entirely reorganized with a Canadian Directorate. Since then they have been in search of a man thoroughly conversant with the carpet business, particularly that part relating to the aesthetic tastes of the purchasing public, for the responsible position as Manger of their manufacturing plant at Peterborough. The wisdom of their choice has been shown in the selection, a few weeks ago, of Mr. Ivor Brock of Toronto, who, for more than nine years, was Manager of the Carpet Department of the Robert Simpson Company.

In his capacity as buyer for this progressive firm, Mr. Brock was regularly brought into touch with the largest manufacturing plants of England and the Continent, going even to Asia, the home of the famous Persian rugs.

The unique position occupied by Simpson's Carpet and Drapery Department in the estimation of those discriminating buyers, who are ever on the look-out for exclusive and up-to-date designs, is largely due to the remarkable discrement and judgment of its capable and far-sighted Manager.

While Mr. Brock has made a success of his business activities he has not allowed himself to get into a rut, for, in Toronto, he is recognized as a leader in the social up-lift of young men.

His breadth of mind is evidenced, more clearly, perhaps, than in any other manner, by the demands that are made upon him to address large conventions or mass-meetings, particularly along the lines of Sunday School work and Young Men's clubs.

His public utterances and private life have alike been animated by the splendid desire to exert some tangible influence on the youth of the church, particularly the young men. He is gifted with a genius for friendship, a power to win the confidence of others. Part of this is due to his unaffected sincerity and directness.

The Dunn Avenue Methodist Church of Parkdale will miss him most. He has served these people unsparingly, having been Superintendent of its Sunday School, which, by the way, ranks as a model Sunday School of the Dominion; teacher of its largest young men's class; and the organizer of the famous Excelsior Club, which became the nucleus of the Methodist Young Men's Association, an affiliation of all similar clubs, which rapidly sprang up throughout the city.

The primary object which Mr. Brock had in mind when he launched the "Excelsior" was the betterment of the young men along the oratorical line, making it easier for them to express themselves in public. This, he claims, and very rightly so, develops them along other lines, as well. To speak with any degree of forcefulness one must make a thorough mastery of the subject, which, in turn compels copious reading, and careful observation. It likewise inspires confidence which is so necessary to the attainment of any measure of success.

Mr. Brock has donated a cup, known as the "Brock Cup," which is yearly competed for by the various clubs forming the M.Y.M.A., in oratorical contests; and it is no wonder he smiles with justifiable pride when he informs you that his own club, the "Excelsior," has won it four times in seven years.

However, what is Toronto's loss will prove to be Peterborough's gain.

Mr. and Mrs. Brock and daughter have taken up their residence at 756 George street.

—Roy Gilray.

Issuer of Marriage Licenses

A LITTLE OF WHAT

Winch in closing up the Palace, because he had promised to rent the place for a picture show for nearly double the rent ;and by closing the Palace hotel he would get more rent for the big National. Had they cut off some of the law breakers and transferred the Palace license to one of those they would have been doing right, but there would be no graft. Then another hotel man to stand in and say he is sure of his license was a partner with the commissioner's son in the show business. No graft.

Mr. Fraser bought out the Snowden house. He ran one of the best hotels in town, catering to the commercial trade and had his house full all the time. He was doing a fine business but he got three months to sell out—he bet on horse races, and that was contrary to Mr. Stewart's orders. It was a great moral sin for Mr. Fraser to bet his money on races, but other proprietors make no bones of gambling on races, elections or any way to get the coin. They are right as long as they bet on the Conservative member; or it is no harm to make a book on the races. If the party wins from him he compromises, but if the proprietor wins that is all right, he has the "dough".

Now, Mr. Editor, this is only a small part of the way that the inspector and the commissioners administer th license laws that Mr. Whitney promised the people to enforce apart from politics, and make people keep hotel. I have been told that Mr. Stewart does not know anything about what is going on in the hotels, whether they are right or not, but he will often get a puff in the paper about what a wonderful man he is, by asking some editor to write him up. So he is, on paper, and at election time. Where do the blacklisters get their booze? Does he try to find out? No; the police do the digging up, but he does not dig the man that sells it to the poor unfortunate; he puts up the papers and his work is finished. If he looked after the filling of bottles with stuff not fit to be sold and of which one or two drinks make a man stagger or want to climb a tree or kill some one, he would be doing part of his duty, but he might get a conviction—that would be awful, and persecuting the monopolist hotel keeper; for it is a monopoly in Peterborough as well as in other parts of Ontario.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for the space. This is only a small amount of what I could write.

Yours truly,
ONE WHO KNOWS.

BRIDGENORTH HUNTERS HAVE LITTLE LUCK

BRIDGENORTH, NOV. 10.—Four of the Bridgenorth hunting club returned on Wednesday night, and report only one deer, on account of the marsh being so full of water, the dogs losing the scent.

The George Bell hunting party have also returned and report no deer, but some partridge and a good time.

TAG NOTES

Chief Howard ventured up street today and his presence abroad caused a regular stampede among the tag girls. They surrounded him on all sides, and for a time his case seemed hopeless. Relief came, however, in the form of Mr. G. N. Gordon. "There's a man without a tag," cried the Chief, who already carried two. Mr. Gordon shook his hand, but to no avail. The girls tore across the road and it was sometime before the victim of their attack emerged with a tag.

The engineers and firemen on the trains at the local stations were not immune in their elevated positions. All incoming passenger trains were met by delegations of girls.

Denham Jones, a local youth, was caught endeavouring to sell a couple of tags by a couple of tag girls. He pleaded that he was trying to help in the good work, but to no avail. The tags were confiscated.

BROCK ST. RINK

Patrons of the Brock street rink will be glad to learn that Mr. Jack Thirnbeck has been engaged to look after the rink again this winter. This makes his tenth season as ice-maker at Brock street rink, and the hockeyites and skaters would not know the place if he wasn't somewhere in the vicinity. Mr. Thirnbeck has been foreman on sewer construction during the past season and completed his work on Wednesday.

NO DYSPEPSIA OR STOMACH DISARESS

Heartburn, Gas, Sourness and Stomach Misery Vanishes

There would not be a case of indigestion here if readers who are subject to Stomach trouble knew the tremendous anti-ferment and digestive virtue contained in Diapepsin. This harmless preparation will digest a heavy meal without the slightest fuss or discomfort, and relieve the sourest acid stomach in five minutes, besides overcoming all foul, nauseous odours from the breath.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula, plainly printed on each 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will readily understand why this promptly cures Indigestion and removes such symptoms as Heartburn, a felling like a lump of lead in the stomach, Belching of Gas and Eructations of undigested food, water brash, Nausea, Headache, Biliousness and many other bad symptoms; and, besides, you will not need laxatives to keep your stomach, liver and intestines clean and fresh.

If your Stomach is sour and full of gas, or your food doesn't digest and your meals don't seem to fit, why not get a 50-cent case from your druggist and make life worth living? Absolue relief from Stomach misery and perfect digestion of anything you eat is sure to follow five minutes after, and, besides, one 50-cent case is sufficient to cure a whole family of such trouble.

Surely a harmless, inexpensive preparation like Pape's Diapepsin which will always, either at daytime, or during night, relieve your stomach misery and digest your meals, is about as handy and valuable a thing as you could have in the house.

TO-DAY'S MARKET

There was a large attendance on the market this morning, and prices were about as usual. There was a noticeable scarcity of eggs, this product having entirely vanished from the tables at 11 o'clock. Potatoes took another advance of 5 cents, selling at $1.50 per bag, as against $1.45 last Saturday. There was a scarcity of fowl also, but the prices did not go up, as might have been expected. The following were the prices:

Butter, 30c.
Eggs, 30c.
Geese, $1.10 to $1.25.
Ducks, 60c to 75c each.
Turkeys, $1.30 up according to size.
Guinea fowl (per pr. live), 60c.
Potatoes, $1.50
Apples per bbl, $3.
Little pigs, $5 per pr.
Lamb, 11c and 13c.
Pork, 10c and 12c.
Loose hay, $14 and $15 per ton.
Baled hay, 85c per cwt.
Live hogs, $6.40.
Dressed hogs, $8.50.
Farmers' hides, 8c to 8 1-2c.
Butchers' hides, 9c.

A SMALL FIRE

A fire of an unique character gave the Fire Department a run last night. An awning situated over Moncur's drug store caught fire and was nearly consumed when the firemen arrived. It was easily extinguished. The fire was supposed to have originated from a lighted cigar stub, which had been thrown out of the window of the room above.

SHIPMENTS OF DEER

The "spoils of the chase" are still pouring into the city from the local huntsmen, whose luck seems still to increase.

Mr. Thos Brightman received a consignment of six deer this morning averaging about 120 lbs. each, and the Canadian Express Co. are also busy with the delivery of venison.

Any garment made by us is guaranteed to be made in the best possible manner, and the skins employed are the best of their kind.

THE RESOURCES OF NEW ONTARIO ARE REVEALED

Demonstration Car Showing the Richness of the Clay Belt From an Agricultural Standpoint is in Peterborough To-day----A Splendid Object Lesson as to the Fertility of the Soil.

The demonstration car, showing exhibits of grains and vegetables grown in New Ontario, has arrived in the city, and is the centre of attraction forfor hundreds of interested visitors. This car was fitted up by the Ontario Bureau of Colonization, and is in charge of Mr. R. A. Jones, of Toronto, as demonstrator, and Mr. George Palmer, of Englehart. The demonstration is of that portion of New Ontario known as the Temiskaming district, particularly along the line of the T. N. O. railway. All exhibits have been contributed by settlers in that territory.

As Mr. Palmer explained to the Examiner this morning, the object of the exhibit is to divest the tide of emigration from the West to New Ontario, the great clay belt. Here, some sixteen million acres of the finest land in Canada, is to be had at the low figure of fifty cents per acre and settlers' duties. The top soil of this land is a black muck, which is rich, and composed of vegetable matter. The sub-soil is also rich and free from grit and runs to a depth of thirty feet.

The car is fitted up with glass cases and racks beat designed to exhibit the products to advantage. Fruits and vegetables are ranged on one side and grains on the other. A small office is fitted up at one end of the car, where information and advertising literature are given out. The exhibits consisted of vegetables of every known variety. Here you can see winter radish with a growth of four months, weighing ten and a quarter pounds. Spanish onions weighing one pound. Second cut of clover four weeks old, over two feet in length; timothy hay, five feet, eight inches in length, producing over four tons to the acre. Grains show a correspondingly phenomenal growth. Spring wheat, running from thirty-five to fifty bushels to the acre, and testing sixty-one pounds to the bushel. White Banner oats yielding one hundred and thirty-five bushels to the acre, and weighing forty pounds to the bushel. All varieties of peas are shown. The pea weevel is unknown in New Ontario.

All the exhibits are the contributions of settlers, who are located between Haileybury and Cochrane, and they are certainly a credit to the district, and to the farmers, who grew them. Englehart is in the centre of his district, and is destined to become the country seat. It is four years old and is growing rapidly. Very few people from Eastern Ontario have ever taken a trip to the north, and they at once associate that word, north, whenever New Ontario is mentioned. To the average person here, in the east, the name suggests a cold bleak district. It is quite the reverse. In 1909, on the 4th of December, a game of baseball was played in an open field.

Yesterday, at Belleville, over twenty-five hundred people visited the car and indications point to a larger number to-day. The car will remain in the city until Monday night, after which it will proceed to Port Hope, and then to Cobourg. Information concerning this splendid country can be procured from the Director of Colonization, Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

XMAS GREETING CARDS

Brakeman Injured

Mr. Thomas Griffin, the brakeman of the G. T. R. "moonlight" freight train, met with a very painful accident this morning, in the vicinity of the round house.

He was engaged in coupling some cars, and as he put up his foot to prepare the draw barrel for coupling, the cars being very close, came together, with the result that his foot was jammed between the drawheads. He cwas taken immediately in a train to the Nicholls' Hospital, where his injury was attended to by Dr. McClelland. It was found that his foot was badly injured. On enquiry this afternoon it is ascertained that he is experiencing considerable pain.

Mr. Griffin's home is in Lindsay.

Y.M.C.A. NOTES

The following official announcement from the Y.M.C.A. will be of interest:

There will be something doing in Peterborough for the next couple of weeks. First, there is the membership compaign to be carried on by the Y.M.C.A.; and, secondly, there are the provincial elections. We put these two events in their proper order. At least, that is what the fellows at the Y say. Of course Mr. Hall and Mr. Peck will be here, there and everywhere looking for voters. But the boys—well, they intend to scare up every male over 12 years old in the city of Peterborough. Just think, over 100 boys! Surely they can make things move faster than two mere men.

The Y.M.C.A. must have 1,189 new members before Nov. 30th, 1911. And they intend to get them. And as many more as possible. Competition is the life of trade. It is the life of an election, we all know. It is also going to be the life of this membership campaign. The senior members, under that old and experienced leader, Dug Loomis, have sworn to do battle royal with the intermediate members, led by W. Has[illegible], for new members.

Of course the seniors don't want the "kids" to beat them. And the "kids" would like awfully well to get a fall on their elders, the seniors.

Anyway there is going to be something doing now. Just watch the Y.M.C.A. membership grow for the next couple of weeks.

CRYSTALATES

Mr. Louis Yeates has returned from Toronto, where he secured a set of the famous Crystalate billiard balls for use on his new English billiard table. These balls are well known to lovers of English billiards. During the present year, George Gray, the famous player, playing exclusively with Crystalates, has broken the record 21 times, scoring 20 breaks of between 1000 and 2,000 and one 2,196, which stands to-day as the world's record in English billiards. A peculiarity of the Crystalates is that they will have to be kept here two days before they will be ready for use, in order that they may be elmiatized. They will be available on Monday.

NIGHT SCHOOL

No person who is without a practical business education should hesitate to attend the night classes of the Peterborough Business College. These classes are for those who work during the day, and desire to learn while they earn. Students are instructed individually, and they may take the subjects they wish. A business education is at a premium in this practical age and ambitious young people may increase their earning ability by attending these evening classes.

LEADER HAS BEEN NAMED

Bonar Law, Canadian Lawyer, to be Head of Unionist Party

AN ARDENT PROTECTIONIST

London, Nov. 11.—At a meeting to be held at the Carlton Club Monday Walter Hume Long will propose and Austen Chamberlain will second the nomination of Andrew Bonar Law as the leader of the Unionist party in the House of Commons to succeed A. J. Balfour.

Mr. Law's election is assured, and the leadership of the party will be placed in the hands of a man with a brief Parliamentary experience and who has never held a seat in any Cabinet. In his short political career, however, Mr. Law has proved himself a brilliant speaker and a resourceful debater. The Liberals frankly acknowledge his fitness to be the party leader, and among all the names suggested for the position regard him the most dangerous from their party viewpoint.

Mr. Law, who now sits for the Bootle division of Lancashire, southwest, was born in New Brunswick, in 1858. His father was Rev. H. James Law. He was educated in Scotland. He

A strong protectionist, the Unionists consider Mr. Law their most persuasive speaker on tariff reform. Therefore, the party will more than ever be committed to tariff reform, and expect that his leadership will infuse a strong fighting spirit in their ranks. His selection, however, being a compromise one, due to the rival claims of more prominent leaders in the party, is certain to engender much dissatisfaction and it is impossible at the present moment to predict how events finally will shape themselves.

Although an official announcement is not expected before Monday, all the morning papers are agreed that Bonar Law will succeed Balfour. In his appointment they see the choice of an admirable leader who will attract the interest and sympathy of the Canadian people.

"It is not fanciful," says The Morning Post, "to imagine that he may be destined to win in the Mother Country a great victory for the cause of national and Imperial union corresponding to the triumph achieved by the Conservative party in Canada. Unionists may confidently look to him to display the same devotion to principles and the same resolution and spirit in placing the policy of his party before the electorate as marked the successful campaign conducted by Borden."

The Chronicle says: "The Canadian is by far the ablest [illegible] reform in either House. His succession to Mr. Balfour means the substitution of a wholehearted zealot for an ambitious convert, of boiling water for tepid. The new leader may be trusted on all matters to keep things at a high temperature."

"Bonar Law," The Express remarks, "is the first son of our great dominions to become the leader of one of our great political parties. When the direction of Imperial policy is of such critical importance as is now the case nothing could be better than the choice of a son of Canada as Unionist leader."

Manitoba Legislative Buildings.

Winnipeg, Nov. 11.—The Provincial Government will shortly advertise for competitive plans open to the world, for the new Parliament Buildings for the Province of Manitoba, to be erected here at an estimated cost of $2,000,000.

Preliminary sketches are required, and five prizes of $2,000 each are offered. Local architects are memorializing the Government to confine the competition to the British Empire, but that does not seem to be the intention.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 11.—Announcement was made yesterday by State Senator Robert H. He will introduce such legislation at the next session of the State Legislature.

Broke Game Laws.

Brantford, Nov. 11.—Heavy fines were inflicted in police court here yesterday when Chester Tapley and John Stewart were found guilty of a breach of the game laws. Tapley was fined $39 for having grey squirrel's skins in his possession and Stewart $33 for killing muskrats. Both pleaded ignorance of the law.

DON'T PULL OUT THE GREY HAIRS

"Pull out one gray hair and a dozen will take its place" is an old saying, which is, to a great extent, true, if no steps are taken to stop the cause. When gray hairs appear it is a sign that Nature needs assistance. It is Natures' call for help. Gray hair, dull, lifeless hair, or hair that is falling out, is not necessarily a sign of advancing age, for there are thousands of elderly people with perfect heads of hair without a single streak of gray.

When gray hairs come, or when the hair seems to be lifeless or dead, some good reliable hair-restoring treatment should be resorted to at once. Specialists say that one of the best preparations to use is the old-fashioned "sage tea" which our grandparents used. The best preparation of this kind is Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a preparation of domestic sage and sulphur, scientifically compounded with later discovered hair tonics and stimulants, the whole mixture being carefully balanced and tested by experts.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is clean and wholesome and perfectly harmless. It refreshes dry, parched hair, removes dandruff and gradually restores faded or gray hair to its natural colour.

Don't delay another minute. Start using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur at once and see what a difference a few days' treatment will make in your hair.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. Special agents, Warne Drug Co.

Held Up In Brockville.

Brockville, Nov. 11—The police have taken into custody Walter Darling, a local character, and Henry Hudson of Mallorytown, for complicity in a hold-up on Perth street, a leading thoroughfare. Kelsey was seen in company of the pair, also two others, Wilbert Blair and William Marks, who cannot be found. Kelsey says he was relieved of $97 by three of the quartette, two holding him by the arms while the other rifled his pockets.

ROSELLI IS FREED

PRISONER COOL

Toronto, Nov. 11.—"Not guilty," was the verdict returned last evening in the murder trial of Francesco Roselli, who was charged with killing Giacchini Ceci in a fracas on Agnes street on the night of Good Friday last. The jury retired at 3.35 and returned shortly after eight o'clock.

The counsel for the defence declared that there were no evidence to show that the accused had any vengeance in his heart, nor was there any motive which would prompt him to take the life of Ceci.

In reviewing the evidence, Judge Falconbridge reminded the jury that it was their place to give the prisoner the benefit of any doubt. He said that a verdict of manslaughter could be brought in should the jury so desire.

Donato Pansine, who was sentenced to one year for doing bodily injury to Andrae Mele, during the free fight at the Agnes street house, was brought from the prison farm at Guelph to give evidence and in so doing he flatly contradicted the story of Roselli. He declared that he went upstairs and procured a butcher knife for the express purpose of killing some one, and that after he had struck Mele in the backyard, threw the knife down and ran around the house.

This was entirely different from the story of the prisoner who claimed that he had fought with Panzine and taken the knife from him and in that way cut his thumb.

Crown Prosecutor Creswicke in addressing the jury, said that Panzine could not benefit in the least by telling such a story, and that the witness's testimony must therefore be true.

A minute or two after the jury returned, the prisoner was brought in. As he stood in the dock, his face was impressionless. He seemed to be in a stupor and come to a point where he cared little whether he would be set at liberty or sentenced.

When the foreman stated the conclusion at which the jury had arrived, Mr. Henderson rose and offered his hand to Roselli. The man at first just stared at his lawyer in an unconcerned manner and then shook hands in a very faint and meaningless way.

Even when the interpreter translated the verdict, Roselli appeared to be still in a stupor and during the judge's remarks he stood motionless as a statue.

In dismissing Roselli, Chief Justice Falconbridge said: "You have narrowly escaped the scaffold; you have stood as close to the gallows as any man I have ever tried and who has been dismissed. I do not find fault with the verdict. No one saw the fatal blow inflicted, unless it be that some of the witnesses have failed to tell us something they know.

"I trust that you and your compatriots will not take this verdict as a license for the using of knives on each other or on any of the King's subjects.

"You may not have understood all that I said to the jury; I did not join in the general belief. There are good Italians just as there are good Canadians and other nationalities.

"I trust that the experience you have gone through will be a warning to you and your countrymen. This practice of using and carrying weapons will not be tolerated in this country. It is to be said in your favor that you were not armed when you went to the Agnes street house."

The jury was then dismissed.

DR. WORKMAN WINS SUIT

He Gets Heavy Damages From the Wesleyan College

GOVERNORS SCORED

Montreal, Nov. 11.—In a judgment completely sustaining the suit of Dr. George C. Workman for wrongful dismissal from his position as a professor of the Wesleyan Theological College, and for aggravated libel, and pregnant with scathing condemnation of the board of governors of that institution, as well as the various committees before whom the case was originally argued, Mr. Justice Weir, yesterday morning, accorded to the plaintiff damages for wrongful dismissal and $1,200 for aggravated libel, making total damages of $3,700.

Judge Weir characterized the action of the board as "illogical, prejudiced, biased and unfair," and stated that "it was impossible to get any accurate statement of the questions asked or of the answers given before that body unless the version of Dr. Workman himself were accepted."

His Lordship declared that while the charges against Dr. Workman were based on his teachings in the college, no evidence as to such unorthodox teaching had been given. There had been merely a report of Dr. Workman's appreciation of Prof. McBride's lecture, which Dr. Workman had satisfactorily explained.

The judge characterized the fact as unfortunate that the first libel charge should have become legally proscribed through the length of time consumed in seeking redress before the Church courts.

He was also very severe upon the board for dismissing Dr. Workman, characterizing their action as "absolutely ultra vires and illegal." In fact his whole address was a sweeping denunciation of the action of the Board of Governors, the Committee of Trial, and the Church Court of Appeal. He defended Dr. Workman in every particular, and pointed out that "incalculable damage had been done to plaintiff. His life work as a professor had been stopped, and he had been occasioned anguish of mind greater than any money damages would compensate him for."

Giant Shark Captured.

Pensacola, Fla., Nov. 11.—After an hour's fight, in which the fish was perforated with rifle bullets, a dozen men caught and killed a giant shark, which on Thursday devoured Jules Antoine.

Members of the crews of several ships saw the shark grab the body of the old man when he fell overboard and crunch it between its great jaws. Since then there has been a general shark hunt in progress. The captured monster was over twelve feet in length.

When the fish was cut open, almost the entire body of Antoine was found inside, including the head trunk, parts of the legs and pieces of clothing. The boots were almost intact, but bore the imprint of the sextuple rows of teeth.

OTTAWA COLLEGE TEAM PASSED THROUGH YESTERDAY

There was a big deputation at the C.P.R. station yesterday afternoon, on the arrival of the C.P.R. express from the east, the drawing card being the fact that the Ottawa College team en route to Toronto, to play for the championship to-day, were on board the train. Three Peterborough boys were in the squad—Frank Heffernan, Vernie Hayes and Dick Sheehy, and their relatives were out in force to meet the boys. Many local Rugby enthusiasts were on hand to get a glimpse of the crack College team, and they were the centre of attraction when they piled out on the station platform. "What a light team" was the comment heard everywhere, as the red-sweatered youngsters climbed down from the cars. Everyone in the crowd wanted to see Cornelier, the sensational kicker, and the fans viewed him with respectful admiration, albiet wondering how such a small, slight youngster could perform the deeds of valour that have been ascribed to him. Rev. Father Stanton, the famous coach of the Ottawas, shared the honours of the occasion with Cornelier. The eastern College boys were confident of their ability to beat 'Varsity to-day, saying that they were in the pink of condition and depending upon their speed and trickiness to win for them. Before the train pulled out the squad got together and paid a compliment to the Peterborough boys by giving the Ottawa "yell" with a vengeance, coupling with it the names Heffernan, Sheehy and Hayes.

PREACHED A SERMON ON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The Rev. Willard F. Ittarson, pastor of the Bethany Congregational Church at Thirty-fifth Street and Tenth Avenue, preached a sermon on Christian Science healing Sunday morning.

Mr. Ottarson read as the lesson the story of the man sick of the palsy from second chapter of Mark, and the subject of his sermon was stated as "Disease and Its Cure." The text was Psalms ciii., 3: "Who forgiveth all thine iniquities; who healeth all thy diseases." He said in part:

Last Sunday the first half of this text was discussed; the second part is to be considered, "who healeth all thy diseases." The two parts of this text are necessary, the one to the other. Separated they are imperfect; together they make a whole or perfect sphere. Death and disease were never present in the world until sin came; sin could not enter the world without bringing in death and disease. The Apostle said, "Sin entered into the world, and death by sin; and so death passed upon all men, for that all have sinned." All evil in the world is directly or indirectly the result of sin; hence if we believe sin can be destroyed, then we must believe that we can rid the world of death and all evil.

The thought of God as a judge is slowly giving place to the thought of Him as a Father. He wants to heal the world of disease and death, and He will ultimately accomplish it. We believe that God can purge us of sin; we should also believe that He can cure disease. The Christian Apostles and the early church strongly believed it. Jesus commissioned the disciples to cast out demons and lay hands on the sick.

The earliest diseases were thought to be possession of demons and incantations were used as the remedy. Then human sacrifices were made, and later still drugs were extracted from plants and used as medicine. This method has grown in favour even down to the present time, but the better and wiser physicians of our day are raising their voices against the use of drugs, declaring it harmful to take much medicine.

Jesus easily healed the sick. He healed all manner of disease, both organic and functional. He looked upon sin and sickness as coming from the same source.

If sin is contrary to the will of God it follows that sickness and death are also contrary to His will. They are intruders in His world. They were never created for man's happiness, nor for his sorrow. They came in together; they will go out together. They are kindred.

We have been taught to believe that God sends evil as a punishment for sin; but we are coming into a better knowledge of God. Henry Ward Beecher came to believe and teach that God does not send evils. Since God did not make sin, he does not punish it. He never intended it to enter into the world. Sin is separation from God; the cure for sin and its attendant evils is a full return to God. When all greed, avarice, and self-seeking give place to the Christ-love, evil will cease.

Our knowledge is constantly undergoing a change. What we think is settled beyond controversy, our children will reject altogether.

One of the things the church must do, if it is going to do all Christ commanded, is to heal the sick. It would not do for the church to do only half its work. The function of the church is to heal sickness as much as to heal sin; by one and the same act Christ cast out both. The early disciples healed as well as preached. For 300 years healing went on in conjunction with the church. Later troubles arose in the church; it was beset by false teachings, and gradually lost the power to heal.

Mr. Ottarson cited a number of cases of healing through Christian Science, and closed as follows:

We ought to be careful in our judgment of people. We should not say a thing is wrong because it appear to be wrong. It is more Christly to feel love in our hearts for our brother man than to feel hate. We do not understand motives. Good fruits are growing in every life, and it becomes us to wait and see what God is doing. It may be that God is allowing Christian Science to come up and teach the churches spirituality.

One thing more to bring to the attention. A movement is apparently on foot by medical men to coerce the public and force them into the use of one system of medicine. There is a bill in Congress, furthered b ythe doctors' trust, which would compel the public to use one system of healing by drugs, which is entirely contrary to our ideas of liberty of speech and thought. There will be given out to the congregation next Sunday slips to be sent to Congress in protest.

WAS SHOT IN BED

A STRANGE CASE

CHICAGO, NOV. 9.—Discoveries made by detectives investigating the death of John M. Quinn, in his home at 1105 South Michigan avenue last Saturday morning, lead them to believe that they have encountered a murder mystery similar in its essential aspects to the Vermilya case, except that a pistol instead of poison is alleged to have been used in the taking of life.

When the police arrived Quian told them and Dr. Fred A. Bonfield, who also was summoned, that he had been shot as he lay asleep, but did not know by whom.

Mrs. Quian declared her husband had been shot by a burglar, according to the detectives. She was asked many questions, and it is said gave unsatisfactory answers to many of them. She was finally taken in custody and held as a suspect.

Examination of Mrs. Quinn the following day led to her being asked to reveal her past life. She did this, but according to the police, told of her first marriage to a man named McDonald, and neglected to tell them of her second marriage to Warren Thorpe, in Jackson, Mich. This fact led the detectives to Jackson, where they learned that Thorpe, too, had been shot and killed while asleep in bed. They learned also that his mother, who lived with him had died under circumstances that have never been explained.

In the Thorpe death the police declare they have learned that Mrs. Thorpe, now Mrs. Quinn, insisted her husband had been shot to death by burglars. As in the case of Quinn, she says she was awakened in the night by a pistol shot and that she found her husband mortally wounded at her side. Mrs. Thorpe was arrested at the time by the Jackson police on the charge, the detectives say, but they were never able to clear up the mystery, and she was finally set free.

A son of Thorpe was found in Jackson by the detectives, and he is said to have told them that he believed his mother knew more of the death of his father than she had ever told. He agreed to accompany the detectives to Chicago, and to-day, when the inquest is begun over Quinn's body he will confront the suspected woman.

A revolver of an old pattern was found in the Quinn house, according to the police, behind a bath tub. It was identified by W. J. Miller, a boarder in the Quinn house, as one he had owned for several years, and which disappeared from a drawer in his room the day before Quinn was shot. Miller, the police say, told them that he had told Mrs. Quinn of the disappearance of the revolver and that she had told him not to tell her husband.

When found there were three loaded cartridges in the revolver, and one empty one.

WHAT THE WHISTLES OF LOCOMOTIVES MEAN

People who are mystified by the apparently purposeless whistling of locomotives within the city limits, will perhaps find the following information interesting:

Five short blasts (train standing) convey an order to the brakeman to run back along the track and display a danger signal for the next train coming along.

Four short blasts are intended for flagmen, switch tenders and trainmen, and mean "What are you holding me for?" "Why don't you signal me to go ahead?" "What's the matter?"

Four long blasts recall a flagman who has been sent out.

Three short blasts, repeated until acknowledged by flag or lantern, mean, "I want to back my train as soon as you are ready."

Two short blasts mean "all right."

Two long and two short blasts are a warning signal before crossing a wagon road.

One short blast means "put on the brakes."

TEMISKAMING

We are in a position to state that the Temiskaming Company has acquired control of the North Dome mines on very advantageous terms. This was done only after a careful and exhaustive examination of the Porcupine property by the Temiskaming engineers. The transaction is a most important one, and promises to be almost sensational in its bearing on Temiskaming stock.

We are reliably informed that the first payment binding the deal was made Saturday, and we are assured that the transaction is an actual purchase and not an option. We also learn from the same source that the taking over of the North Dome will not interfere with the Temiskaming dividend, and that the next regular distribution has already been provided for.

The value of Temiskaming stock based upon its Cobalt estate alone is probably more than its selling price in the market at the present time, and with the great potential value of North Dome control added to its treasury assets Temiskaming presents a money-making opportunity which our local market has seldom witnessed.

We advise our clients and friends to buy Temiskaming immediately, and at the market while the stock is still low. We look for it to have a very material advance on the strength of its new speculative position alone, and should North Dome prove to be the valuable property that its present showings indicate, Temiskaming will sell at several times its present price. Act quickly if you wish to secure the full advantage Temiskaming stock now offers.

OTTAWA COLLEGE TEAM PASSED THROUGH YESTERDAY

There was a big deputation at the C.P.R. station yesterday afternoon, on the arrival of the C.P.R. express from the east, the drawing card being the fact that the Ottawa College team en route to Toronto, to play for the championship to-day, were on board the train. Three Peterborough boys were in the squad—Frank Hefferman, Vernie Hayes and Dick Sheehy, and their relatives were out in force to meet the boys. Many local Rugby enthusiasts were on hand to get a glimpse of the crack College team, and they were the centre of attraction when thep piled out on the station platform. "What a light team" was the comment heard everywhere, as the red-sweatered youngsters climbed down from the cars. Everyone in the crowd wanted to see Cornelier, the sensational kicker, and the fans viewed him with respectful admiration, albiet wondering how such a small, slight youngster could perform the deeds of valour that have been ascribed to him. Rev. Father Stanton, the famous coach of the Ottawas, shared the honours of the occasion with Cornelier. The eastern College boys were confident of their ability to beat 'Varsity to-day, saying that they were in the pink of condition and depending upon their speed and trickiness to win for them. Before the train pulled out the squad got together and paid a compliment to the Peterborough boys by giving the Ottawa "yell" with a vengeance, coupling with it the names Hefferman, Sheehy and Hayes.

PREACHED A SERMON ON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The Rev. Willard F. Ittarson, pastor of the Bethany Congregational Church at Thirty-fifth Street and Tenth Avenue, preached a sermon on Christian Science healing Sunday morning.

Mr. Ottarson read as the lesson the story of the man sick of the palsy from second chapter of Mark, and the subject of his sermon was stated as "Disease and Its Cure." The text was Psalms ciii., 3: "Who forgiveth all thine iniquities; who healeth all thy diseases." He said in part:

Last Sunday the first half of this text was discussed; the second part is to be considered, "who healeth all thy diseases." The two parts of this text are necessary, the one to the other. Separated they are imperfect; together they make a whole or perfect sphere. Death and disease were never present in the world until sin came; sin could not enter the world without bringing in death and disease. The Apostle said, "Sin entered into the world, and death by sin; and so death passed upon all men, for that all have sinned." All evil in the world is directly or indirectly the result of sin; hence if we believe sin can be destroyed, then we must believe that we can rid the world of death and all evil.

The thought of God as a judge is slowly giving place to the thought of Him as a Father. He wants to heal the world of disease and death, and He will ultimately accomplish it. We believe that God can purge us of sin; we should also believe that He can cure disease. The Christian Apostles and the early church strongly believed it. Jesus commissioned the disciples to cast out demons and lay hands on the sick.

The earliest diseases were thought to be possession of demons and incantations were used as the remedy. Then human sacrifices were made, and later still drugs were extracted from plants and used as medicine. This method has grown in favour even down to the present time, but the better and wiser physicians of our day are raising their voices against the use of drugs, declaring it harmful to take much medicine.

Jesus easily healed the sick. He healed all manner of disease, both organic and functional. He looked upon sin and sickness as coming from the same source.

If sin is contrary to the will of God it follows that sickness and death are also contrary to His will. They are intruders in His world. They were never created for man's happiness, nor for his sorrow. They came in together; they will go out together. They are kindred.

We have been taught to believe that God sends evil as a punishment for sin; but we are coming into a better knowledge of God. Henry Ward Beecher came to believe and teach that God does not send evils. Since God did not make sin, he does not punish it. He never intended it to enter into the world. Sin is separation from God; the cure for sin and its attendant evils is a full return to God. When all greed, avarice, and self-seeking give place to the Christ-love, evil will cease.

Our knowledge is constantly undergoing a change. What we think is settled beyond controversy, our children will reject altogether.

One of the things the church must do, if it is going to do all Christ commanded, is to heal the sick. It would not do for the church to do only half its work. The function of the church is to heal sickness as much as to heal sin; by one and the same act Christ cast out both. The early disciples healed as well as preached. For 300 years healing went on in conjunction with the church. Later troubles arose in the church; it was beset by false teachings, and gradually lost the power to heal.

Mr. Ottarson cited, a number of cases of healing through Christian Science, and closed as follows:

We ought to be careful in our judgment of people. We should not say a thing is wrong because it appear to be wrong. It is more Christly to feel love in our hearts for our brother man than to feel hate. We do not understand motives. Good fruits are growing in every life, and it becomes us to wait and see what God is doing. It may be that God is allowing Christian Science to come up and teach the churches spirituality.

One thing more to bring to the attention. A movement is apparently on foot by medical men to coerce the public and force them into the use of one system of medicine. There is a bill in Congress, furthered b ythe doctors' trust, which would compel the public to use one system of healing by drugs, which is entirely contrary to our ideas of liberty of speech and thought. There will be given out to the congregation next Sunday slips to be sent to Congress in protest.

WAS SHOT IN BED

A STRANGE CASE

CHICAGO, NOV. 9.—Discoveries made by detectives investigating the death of John M. Quinn, in his home at 1105 South Michigan avenue last Saturday morning, lead them to believe that they have encountered a murder mystery similar in its essential aspects to the Vermilya case, except that a pistol instead of poison is alleged to have been used in the taking of life.

When the police arrived Quinn told them and Dr. Fred A. Bonfield, who also was summoned, that he had been shot as he lay asleep, but did not know by whom.

Mrs. Quinn declared her husband had been shot by a burglar, according to the detectives. She was asked many questions, and it is said gave unsatisfactory answers to many of them. She was finally taken in custody and held as a suspect.

Examination of Mrs. Quinn the following day led to her being asked to reveal her past life. She did this, but according to the police, told of her first marriage to a man named McDonald, and neglected to tell them of her second marriage to Warren Thorpe, in Jackson, Mich. This fact led the detectives to Jackson, where they learned that Thorpe, too, had been shot and killed while asleep in bed. They learned also that his mother, who lived with him had died under circumstances that have never been explained.

In the Thorpe death the police declare they have learned that Mrs. Thorpe, now Mrs. Quinn, insisted her husband had been shot to death by burglars. As in the case of Quinn, she says she was awakened in the night by a pistol shot and that she found her husband mortally wounded at her side. Mrs. Thorpe was arrested at the time by the Jackson police on the charge, the detectives say, but they were never able to clear up the mystery, and she was finally set free.

A son of Thorpe was found in Jackson by the detectives, and he is said to have told them that he believed his mother knew more of the death of his father than she had ever told. He agreed to accompany the detectives to Chicago, and to-day, when the inquest is begun over Quinn's body he will confront the suspected woman.

A revolver of an old pattern was found in the Quinn house, according to the police, behind a bath tub. It was identified by W. J. Miller, a boarder in the Quinn house, as one he had owned for several years, and which disappeared from a drawer in his room the day before Quinn was shot. Miller, the police say, told them that he had told Mrs. Quinn of the disappearance of the revolver and that she had told him not to tell her husband.

When found there were three loaded cartridges in the revolver, and one empty one.

Quinn had been shot only once, just above the heart.

WHAT THE WHISTLES OF LOCOMOTIVES MEAN

People who are mystified by the apparently purposeless whistling of locomotives within the city limits, will perhaps find the following information interesting:

Five short blasts (train standing) convey an order to the brakeman to run back along the track and display a danger signal for the next train coming along.

Four short blasts are intended for flagmen, switch tenders and trainmen, and mean "What are you holding me for?" "Why don't you signal me to go ahead?" "What's the matter?"

Four long blasts recall a flagman who has been sent out.

Three short blasts, repeated until acknowledged by flag or lantern, mean, "I want to back my train as soon as you are ready."

Two short blasts mean "all right."

Two long and two short blasts are a warning signal before crossing a wagon road.

One short blast means "put on the brakes."

TEMISKAMING

We are in a position to state that the Temiskaming Company has acquired control of the North Dome mines on very advantageous terms. This was done only after a careful and exhaustive examination of the Porcupine property by the Temiskaming engineers. The transaction is a most important one, and promises to be almost sensational in its bearing on Temiskaming stock.

We are reliably informed that the first payment binding the deal was made Saturday, and we are assured that the transaction is an actual purchase and not an option. We also learn from the same source that the taking over of the North Dome will not interfere with the Temiskaming dividend, and that the next regular distribution has already been provided for.

The value of Temiskaming stock based upon its Cobalt estate alone is probably more than its selling price in the market at the present time, and with the great potential value of North Dome control added to its treasury assets Temiskaming presents a money-making opportunity which our local market has seldom witnessed.

We advise our clients and friends to buy Temiskaming immediately, and at the market while the stock is still low. We look for it to have a very material advance on the strength of its new speculative position alone, and should North Dome prove to be the valuable property that its present showings indicate, Temiskaming will sell at several times its present price. Act quickly if you wish to secure the full advantage Temiskaming stock now offers.

READY FOR THE OPENING

Dominion Capital is Preparing for a Gala Week

NEW SEATS ARE ASSIGNED

Ottawa, Nov. 13.—The seating plan for the House of Commons, which was finally arranged by the chief whips on Saturday, gives a clear idea of the transformation which will be noticed in the House of Commons when it meets on Wednesday.

Premier Borden and his followers will, of course, be to the right of the Speaker, at least all of them who do not occupy the overflow colony of Government supporters to the left of the presiding officer. The Premier will occupy the seat from which Sir Wilfrid Laurier has led the House for fifteen years, and his deskmate, as is Opposition, will be Hon. G. E. Foster, the oldest Parliamentarian in the Cabinet. To his right will be Hon. F. D. Monk, who is seated with Hon. W. T. White. To the left of Mr. Foster in the front row are Hon. Robert Rogers and Hon. Frank Cochrane. Hon. L. P. Pelletier is seated with P. Blondin, who is not a member of the Cabinet.

David Henderson and Hon. John Haggart have front seats, as also have Haughton Lennox and W. F. Maclean, F. Marshall and F. B. Lalor are desk mates in the front row.

In the second row of the Cabinet Ministers, Hon. J. D. Doherty is directly back of Mr. Borden, with Hon. J. D. Reid as his desk mate. Hon. Martin Burrell and Hon. T. W. Crothers are desk mates, while Hon. J. D. Hazen and Col. Sam Hughes are placed together. In the third row are Hon. A. E. Kemp and Hon. G. H. Perley, and Hon. Dr. Roche and Hon. B. Nantel.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, as was predicted, has no desk mate, evidently leaving room for either Hon. Geo. Graham or Hon. W. S. Fielding to enter later. On the ex-Premier's left is Hon. W. S. Pugsley, who has as his deskmate. Hon. R. Lemieux. Other front seat Liberals are Hon. Chas. Marcil, Hon. E. Emmerson, Hon. Chas. Murphy, who is paired with Hon. Frank Oliver, Hon. Dr. Beland, Jacques Bureau, F. B. MacDonald and W. A. Charlton. Back of Sir Wilfrid Laurier is his chief whip, F. F. Pardee, and Hugh Guthrie as his desk mate. F. B. Carvel and Hon. A. MacLean are given prominence, as are also W. F. German, who opposed reciprocity, and Clark of South Essex.

This week will be a gala one for Ottawa and is being looked forward to with more than ordinary interest by both politicians and the social world. Members are already arriving in the city, and to-night will see them pouring in on every train. The question of accommodation promises to be a serious one, as more than the usual number of members and Senators are bringing their families to the capital on account of the brilliant social season which is anticipated.

For the opening there will be notables and society folk here from Halifax to Vancouver. There are going to be many disappointments at the opening, for every available seat has already been assigned, and applications are still pouring in by the hundreds.

The drawing-room on Saturday night will be one of the most gorgeous functions ever seen in Ottawa. The duke and duchess are sparing no pains to look after the comfort of those attending, so that despite the crowd, it is not expected there will be much inconvenience

DARE NOT FLY NOW

UNREST IN HONAN GROWS

Pekin, Nov. 13.—Yuan Shi Kai and the Government exchanged telegrams yesterday morning. Yuan has agreed to come to Pekin to discuss the situation, but he adheres to his resolve not to accept the Premiership. It is expected that he will arrive here to-day and an audience with the Regent has been arranged.

It is not believed generally that Yuan Shi Kai has yet advised the throne to abdicate, as some reports stated, but he may do so later. Saturday Yuan sent a message to the Government from his home in Changtefo. He then proceeded to Chengchow, on the Penhan Railway, where he conferred with a deputation from the Honan assembly, endeavoring to dissuade the delegates frim the proposed declaration of the province's independence, which, he said, would damage the throne's position seriously.

The fact that the man on whom the Government depends more than anyone else is coming to Pekin has caused a general feeling of relief and of hope that he will evolve plans to end the present chaos. It is understood that the court will remain in the Forbidden City, realizing that their departure now would be fatal. It is also understood that the throne is willing to accept a pension and retire to Jehol if safety is assured.

Prince Ching, the acting Premier, does not desire to remain in office, but he continues to support the regent, who has no other trusted advisor.

Foreign refugees who have arrived here from Taiyuenfu, Shansi Province, report that no foreigners have been harmed. The governor and his wife and thirty Manchus, however, have been beheaded. The rebels are maintaining order, and the new arrivals say that their administration is excellent. The whole province of Shansi is supporting the movement.

Mukden and New Chwang are controlled by defence societies, consisting of troops and civilians. The conditions prevailing in these places practically amount to independence.

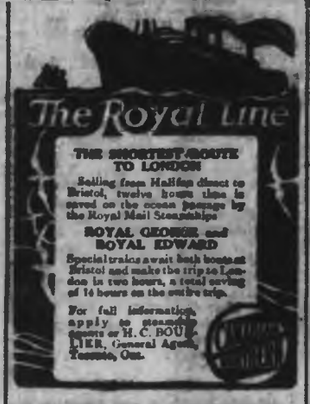
Wu Chang Bombarded.

Hankow, Nov. 13.—(Delayed in transmission.)—The Imperialists have bombarded Wu Chang without noticeable effect. They have practically abandoned Tenkilometer station, owing to the effective shooting of the revolutionaries. Otherwise conditions are pacific here, except for sniping.

Yuan Shi Kai, in writing to Gen. Li Yuen Heng, the rebel leader, setting forth terms for a settlement, has expressed dissatisfaction with the Government at Pekin. He urged acceptance of the constitution with a limited monarchy and asked that the Emperor be given an opportunity to prove the sincerity of his promises for reforms.

Executing All Suspects.

London, Nov. 13.—A despatch to a news agency from Nanking says that martial law has been proclaimed there. Gen. Chang Jen Chung, the viceroy, is executing all suspects, including some of his own men, and is enlisting numbers of roughs.



The rebels have retired to their nearest camp, fifteen miles distant. The Government troops are bringing up artillery to attack them, but are respecting the neutrality of the railroad. Food supplies in Nanking are becoming exhausted.

Foreigners Safe.

Shanghai, Nov. 13.—Reports from Nanking say that that city is now orderly and that all foreigners are safe. Chin Kiang, a short distance from Nanking, is awaiting the results at the latter place, but the rebel flag still flies on the forts. The revolutionaries have taken Chuchow on the Pukow railroad, thirty miles north of Pukow.

Horse Thieves Busy.

Toronto, Nov. 13.—Horse thieves are greatly in evidence. Two fine horses were stolen within thirty hours of each other, and neither has yet been recovered.

On Saturday evening Paul McKellar, 294 Huron street, left his horse standing outside Adam's furniture store on Queen street, while he transacted business, and when he returned his horse and trap were gone. On the previous afternoon a horse and carriage were stolen from the corner of Bay and Wellington street. Two boys were seen with this outfit a short time afterwards, but the police have nothing further to work on than their description.

Mr. McKellar describes his horse as standing 16 hands, dark sorel, dock tail, white spot on forehead, left hind leg white and swollen. The animal weighs about 1,200 pounds. The buggy had rubber tires, red gear and dark body. The harness was light and mounted with brass and rubber trimmings.

Colder Weather Coming.

Toronto, Nov. 13.—The cold wave of yesterday corresponds with weather conditions of a year ago, according to the meteorological office. The disturbance for the past few days over the lakes, were followed by a cold wave from the west, the thermometer indicating 28 degrees with still lower depression for two or three days. The wind velocity yesterday afternoon reached a maximum of 46 miles an hour.

Grain Dealers Gloomy.

Winnipeg, Nov. 13.—Further details of the Northwest Grain Dealers' Association report on the crop situation tend to make the outlook not only for this year, but also for next year, anything but bright. The report says that only 70 per cent. of the grain has yet been threshed, and about 50,000,000 bushels (estimated) remain in the stack with no immediate prospect of seeing a separator. The setting in of a thaw would almost ruin it, or at least reduce it several grades. The report is not hopeful of the grain threshed, saying that 60 per cent. of it is four or under. Of the 50,000,000 bushels remaining in the west, half will be needed for seed and feed.

The prospect is darkened by the announcement that very little fall plowing has been done, owing to the sudden setting in of winter and that means delay in the spring.

Further comment on the congestion of traffic at Fort William is made. It is attributed to the incoming coal for the West, due to the shortage caused by the western miners' strike.

C.N.R. Buys Land.

Ottawa, Nov. 13.—Deeds of several hundreds of acres of land transferred from farmers and property owners in Nepean Township, southwest of Ottawa to the Canadian Northern Railway, have been registered at the county registry office. This purchase lends color to the recent rumors that the company intends to build extensive workshops here at the junction point of the Ottawa-Toronto division with the main line to the west.

Cost of Living.

Kingston, Nov. 13.—James Watt, organiser of the Tailors' Union, of Toronto, is here making inquiries as to the cost of living in the interest of the Household Economic League and Toronto Trades and Labor Council.

Boy Drowned In Well.

St. Thomas, Ont., Nov. 13.—The little son of Mr. and Mrs. James Demick, farmers, of Alderborough Township, rolled a stone from the top of an old well Saturday, lifted the cover, fell in and was drowned.

Walked 12,000 Miles.

Boston, Nov. 13.—With his arrival in Boston, 20-year-old Frank Hines of Halifax, has completed 12,800 miles of a 15,000 mile walk that he is making for a purse offered by the Halifax Yacht Club. Hines started on his trip in 1909. He expects to finish on Oct. 7, 1912.

Death and Disaster in Path of Terrible Storm

VESSEL BLOWN FROM DOCK

Janesville, Wis., Nov. 13.—Ten known seven lives were lost and scores of person injured, some fatally, in a tornado which swept Rock County at dusk last night. Hundreds of thousands of dollars' damage was done.

Saturday night dozens of families sought shelter in small structures out of the path of the storm. Others found themselves without a roof and because the flooded roads made travel impossible, were forced to pass the night in the open fields.

Measures for the relief of Orfordville, Hanover, Milton Junction and Milton have been instituted by Janesville and Beloit, but much suffering necessarily must ensue.

A cold wave followed the storm, and sleet and snow added to the misery.

At Orfordville Mrs. John Clowder, 80 years old, was killed, as were also a father and two daughters of a family whose name is Smith, and a Mrs. Broede.

At Milton one person, as yet unidentified, is reported dead. Amy Korban, 8 years old, was killed when her home, just north of Janesville, was demolished.

Footville, Magnolia, Pewaukee and other villages also are reported to have suffered severely

Illinois Town Wrecked.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 13.—A tornado swooped down on Virginia, Ill., at 6.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, dealing destruction. A number of persons were seriously injured, while the town was wrecked.

Many had miraculous escapes, but none was killed. The most seriously injured were Early Whittaker, the little son of William Whittaker; Ed. French and Otis Middleton.

Not a building that lay in the storm's path escaped damage. A hundred dwellings were unroofed while the business section is a mass of wreckage. Saturday night the town was in total darkness and rescuing parties groped their way with lanterns throught the wreckage looking for the injured.

Many persons took refuge in the Methodist Church. The building was crushed and many in it were injured. The buildings reported demolished are: Opera house, city hall, City Hotel, Pollard building, Kramer building, Mann Hotel, Catholic Church and the Methodist Church.

Scores Injured.

Springfield, Mo., Nov. 13.—A tornado swept over Springfield late yesterday, wrecking a number of residences and injuring a score of persons. Earl Prescott was fatally hurt.

Gale at Buffalo.

Buffalo, Nov. 13.—The first blast of winter struck here yesterday, ushered in by a 68-mile an hour gale and a drop of 40 degrees in temperature. The storm's trail was marked by shattered plate glass windows, a stranded lake freighter and a demoralized street car service. No fatalities occurred in the city, but at Kennedy, Alonso Dewey and his wife, an old couple, blinded by the storm, drove in front of an Erie passenger train and were killed.

About 12 o'clock the wind tore down the transmission cables of the Niagara Falls Power Co. The lines on both sides of the river were prostrated, thus cutting off all source of power for street cars here, except emergency storage batteries, which were exhausted in twenty minutes. Between 12.30 and 3 o'clock traffic was at a standstill. The tie-up came when traveling was difficult, if not dangerous, and the majority of the passengers clung to the shelters of the cars until traffic was resumed.

The 550-foot freighter J. Q. Riddle of Cleveland was torn from her moorings back of the breakwater and swept toward the beach at the foot of Michigan street. When the lines parted a watchman on board opened her watergates and the boat settled on a sandy bottom 150 feet from the shore. She is broadside to the wind, but so low in the water that her position is not considered dangerous.

Falls In Winter Garb.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 13.—A severe gale blew here all day yesterday, accompanied by snow during the morning. The wind raged all last night, with the mercury many degrees below freezing. Where the spray from the falls fell, great icicles have been formed as in the depth of winter. An inch of snow fell during the morning's blizzard.

Voted to Strike.

Magog, Que., Nov. 13.—By a practically unanimous vote employes of the Magog mill of the Dominion Textile Co. Saturday night voted to strike unless a ten per cent. increase of wages was granted them. Yesterday at another meeting it was decided to send a committee at once to Montreal to confer with the heads of the company before taking action. If the increase is not granted the men threaten to strike next Monday.

Inland Revenue Increase.

Ottawa, Nov. 13.—The annual report of the weights and measures department of inland revenue, just issued, shows that the total revenue collected from the inspection of weights and measures for the last fiscal year was $99,051, as against $92,814.09 the previous year.

The total revenue collected for the inspection of gas and gas meters was $86,867.25, as compared with $84,281.20 the year before.

Archbishop Langevin on his arrival in St. Boniface gave out a contradiction to the despatch which stated that Mgr. Stagni had forbidden his grace to discuss the Manitoba school question in the Province of Quebec.

Hon. Frank Oliver issued a denial of the rumor to the effect that he was going to retire frim Parliament to join the Alberta Cabinet. He added that the reorganisation of the Alberta Cabinet hinted at was no more likely than his own retirement.

Gentlemen Farmers.

Toronto, Nov. 13.—Pickering is to become the postoffice address of quite a group of gentlemen farmers, according to the developments that have quietly taken place there in the last three months. The district around this town has been practically all taken up by wealthy people, who will establish large estates and make of them high-class farms.

Lord Somers, who has been in Toronto for about a month now, has purchased considerable acreage on the north side of the Kingston road, in Pickering Township, halfway between Pickering and Dunbarton. Associated with him is a relative, Mr. Somers Cocks, and these two gentlemen will build an imposing mansion on their property in the spring. They will be joined by their families, and will make Pickering, Canada, their permanent residence.

The extent to which Lord Somers, who is a wealthy landowner in England, has purchased property around Pickering is not known for certain, as the residents of the district are rather in the dark to what has and is transpiring around them, but his holdings already run into the hundreds of acres.

To Prepare Voters' List.

Montreal, Nov. 13.—Hon. Robert Rogers was in Montreal yesterday on his way home from New York. He announced that there were to be several changes and reforms in the Department of the Interior. Among them is the appointment of Arthur Hawkes of Toronto as special commissioner for the Department on immigration matters. Mr. Hawkes is to enter upon his new duties at once and will make a tour of inspection, first through the West and then through Great Britain.

In speaking of the Federal election in the West, the Minister declared that the vote as returned did not represent public opinion; that the Conservatives were unrepresented at many polling places; that the deputy returning officers, scrutineers and poll clerks were creatures of the late administration; that there were no proper voters' lists; and that the above-named officials voted sections as they saw fit, unchallenged.

He declared that proper lists would be prepared for the next election under Federal supervision, so that the next election would not be a screaming farce.

An International Dicker.

Brussels, Nov. 13.—Reports have been current for some time past that a grand repartition of Africa was under consideration by interested powers, to which some color has been lent by certain observations by the French Premier in the course of a recent speech. These have taken more definite form, and it is reported on good authority that the proposed scheme provides for the withdrawal of Belgium from the Congo; which will be divided between Great Britain, France and Germany.

In compensation, according to reports, Belgium is to receive the Grand Duchy of Luxemburg and territory along the left bank of the Scheldt, Holland to receive counterbalancing colonial concessions.

These reports will form the subject of an interpellation in Parliament, which will reassemble on Tuesday

Seventeen Horses Burned.

Halifax, Nov. 13.—Fire at an early hour Saturday morning burned the boarding stables owned by Festus Marriott on Hollis street, and destroyed seventeen horses, the property of physicians and others in Halifax. Four of the horses belong to the Eastern Stage Coach Co., that runs a line along the shore from Halifax. A large quantity of sleighs and wagons were burned and one motor car, the property of Dr. H. K. Macdonald. One of the horses destroyed was the property of the Canadian General Electric Co., for which they had refused $300 the day before.

The fire broke out with great suddenness and nothing could be done to save the animals, or indeed any of the property. Of the whole number of horses in the stables only one was rescued. This animal was got out by the heroic work of John Kennedy, a driver of the stage line.

Marriott had no insurance, his policy having run out a month before. The total loss will be under $10,000.

Arrested for Larceny.

Boston, Nov. 13.—Charged with the larceny of $10,100 from Mrs. Susan McDonnell of Amesbury, R. L. Freeman, formerly a Boston stockbroker, was held in $10,000 for trial when arraigned in the Superior Court in this city Saturday. Freeman left this city last spring. He was arrested in Toronto last week and brought back to this city Thursday night. Miss Alice Munroe, a Dorchester salesgirl, who disappeared at the time of Freeman's departure, returned from Toronto on Thursday night. There is no charge against her.

Seven Men Missing.

Chicago, Nov. 13.—Seven men are reported missing as a result of Saturday night's storm on Lake Michigan. They left Chicago Saturday morning for a fishing trip in a gasoline launch and are believed to have lost their lives. The launch was last reported passing the life-saving station at Evanston, Ill., at 10 a.m. Saturday.

Royal Canadian Navy.

Ottawa, Nov. 13.—Saturday's Canada Gazette contains the following: His Majesty the King has been graciously pleased to approve of the naval forces of Canada receiving the style of the "Royal Canadian Navy," and of the ships of that navy being designated as "His Majesty's Canadian Ships."

Not Our Hamilton.

Toronto, Nov. 13.—Some of the papers on Saturday fell into the error of saying that Bonar Law, the new leader of the Unionist party in Great Britain, attended school in Hamilton, Ontario.

As a matter of fact he attended the Gilbertfield School, near Hamilton, a town near Glasgow, Scotland.

Disabled Steamer Safe.

Shields, Eng., Nov. 13.—The British steamer Fairport, which it had been feared had foundered in a storm after leaving Hamburg on Nov. 1, was towed in here yesterday by three trawlers. She was picked up 200 miles off this port, without coal and drifting helplessly before a gale.

"THE AVENGER"

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

"Not necessarily!" Heneage answered. "He may be shielding some one.

"Very serious indeed," Heneage assented. "I believe that he is realizing it."

"Sorry, boys, but I must be off," he announced. "Wrayson has just telephoned to ask me to go down and see him. I'm afraid he's queer! I've sent for a hansom."

"Poor chap!" Mason murmured. "Let us know if any of us can do anything."

The Colonel nodded and took his departure. The others drifted up into the billiard room. Heneage alone remained seated at the end of the table. He was playing idly with his wineglass, but his eyes were fixed steadfastly, if a little absently, upon the Colonel's empty place.

CHAPTER V.

It was a little hard even for the Colonel to keep up his affectation of cheerfulness when he found himself alone with the man whom he had come to visit. His experience of life had been large and varied, but he had never yet seen so remarkable a change in any human being in twenty-four hours. There were deep black lines under his eyes, his cheeks were colourless, every now and then his features twitched nervously, as though he were suffering from an attack of St. Vitus' Dance. His hand, which had lain weakly in the Colonel's, was as cold as ice, although there was a roaring fire in the room. He had admitted the Colonel himself, and almost dragged him inside the door.

"Did you meet any one outside—upon the stairs?" he asked feverishly.

"No one upon the stairs," the Colonel answered. "There was a man lighting his pipe in the doorway."

Wrayson shivered as he turned away.

"Watching me!" he declared. "There are two of them! They are watching me all the time."

The Colonel took off his coat. The room seemed to him like a furnace. Then he stretched out his hands and laid them upon Wrayson's shoulders.

"What if they are?" he declared cheerfully. "They won't eat you. Besides, it is very likely the dead man's rooms they are watching."

"They followed me home from the inquest,' 'Wrayson muttered.

The Colonel laughed.

"And if I'd been living here," he remarked, "they'd have followed me home just the same. Now, Herbert, my young friend," he continued, "sit down and tell me all about it like a man. You're in a bit of trouble, of course, underneath all this. Let's hear it, and we'll find the best way out."

The Colonel's figure was dominant; his presence alone seemed to dispel that unreal army of ghosts and fancies which a few moments before had seemed to Wrayson to be making his room like the padded cell of a lunatic asylum. His tone, too, had just enough sympathy to make its cheerfulness reassuring. Wrayson began to feel glimmerings of commonsense.

"Yes!" he said, "I've something to tell you. That's why I telephoned."

"God bless my soul, I almost forgot!" he exclaimed, "and the fellows would make me bring it. We guessed how you were feeling—much better to have come up and dined with us. Here we are! Get some glasses, there's a good chap."

A gold-foiled bottle appeared, and a packet of hastily cut sandwiches. Wrayson found himself mechanically eating and drinking before he knew where he was. Then in an instant the sandwiches had become delicious, and the wine was rushing through his veins like a new elixir of life. He was himself again, the banging of anvils in his head had ceased; he was shaken perhaps, but a sane man. His eyes filled with tears, and he gripped the Colonel by the hand.

"Colonel, you're — you're — God knows what you are," he murmured. "All the ordinary things sound commonplace. I believe I was going mad."

The Colonel leaned back and laughed as though the idea tickled him.

"Not you!" he declared. "Bless you, I know what nerves are! Out in India, thirty-five years ago, I've had to relieve men on frontier posts who hadn't seen a soul to speak to for six months! Weird places some of them, too—gives me the creeps to think of them sometimes! Now light up that cigar," he added, throwing one across, "and let's hear the trouble."

Wrayson lit his cigar with fingers which scarcely shook. He threw the match away and smoked for a moment in silence.

"It's about this Morris Barnes affair," he said abruptly. "I've kept something back, and I'm a clumsy hand at telling a story that doesn't contain all the truth. The consequence is, of course, that I'm suspected of having had a hand in it myself."

The Colonel's manner had for a moment imperceptibly changed. Lines had come out in his face which were not usually visible, his upper lip had stiffened. One could fancy that he might have led his men into battle looking something like this.

"What is it that you know?" he asked.

"There was another person in the flats that night, who was interested in Morris Barnes, who visited his rooms, who was with me when I first saw him dead."

The Colonel shaded his face with his hand. The heat from the fire was intense.

"Why have you kept back this knowledge?" he asked.

"Because—it was a woman, and I am a fool!" Wrayson answered.

There was a silence. Then the Colonel pushed back his chair and dabbed his forehead with his handkerchief. The room was certainly hot, and the handkerchief was wet.

"Tell me about it," he said quietly. "I expected something of the sort!"

"On that morning," Wrayson began, "I returned home about twelve o'clock, let myself in with my own latch-key, and found a woman standing before my open desk going through my papers."

"A friend?" the Colonel asked.

"A complete stranger!" Wrayson answered. "Her surprise at seeing me was at least equal to my own. I gathered that she believed herself to be in the flat of Morris Barnes, which is the corresponding one above."

"What did you do?" the Colonel asked.

"What I should have done I am not sure," Wrayson answered, "but while I was talking to her the telephone bell rang, and I received that message which I spoke about at the inquest. It was a mysterious sort of business—I can hear that voice now. I was interested, and while I stood there, she slipped away."

"Is that all?" the Colonel asked.

"No!" Wrayson answered with a groan. "I wish to God it was!"

The Colonel moved his position a little. The cigar had burnt out between his fingers, but he made no effort to light it.

"Go on," he said. "Tell me the rest. Tell me what happened afterwards."

"I wrote down the message for Barnes and left it in his letter-box. There seemed then to be no light in his flat. Afterwards I lit a pipe, left my door open, and sat down, with the intention of waiting till Barnes came home and explaining what had happened. I fell asleep in my chair and woke with a start. It was nearly three o'clock. I was going to turn in when I heard the jingling of a hansom bell down below. I looked out of the windom and saw the cab standing in the street. Almost at the same time I heard footsteps outside. I went to the door of my flat and came face to face with the girl descending from the floor above."

"At three o'clock in the morning?" the Colonel interrupted.

Wrayson nodded.

"She was white and shaking all over," he continued rapidly. "She asked me for brandy and I gave it to her; she asked me to see her out of the place, and I did so. When I opened the door to let her out and we saw the man leaning back in the cab, she moaned softly to herself. I said something about his being asleep or drunk—'or dead!' she whispered in my ear, and then she rushed away from me. She turned into the Albert Road and disappeared almost at once. I could not have followed her if I would. I had just begun to realize that something was wrong with the man in the cab!"

"This is all?" the Colonel asked.

"It is all!" Wrayson answered.

"You do not know her name, or why she was here? You have not seen her since?"

Wrayson shook his head.

"I know absolutely nothing," he said, "beyond what I have told you."

The Colonel struck a match and relit his cigar.

"I should like to understand," he said quietly, "why you avoided all mention of her in your evidence."

Wrayson laughed oddly.

"I should like to understand that myself," he declared. "I can only repeat what I said before. She was a woman, and I was a fool."

"In plain English," the Colonel said, "you did it to shield her?"

"Yes!" Wrayson answered.

The Colonel nodded thoughtfully.

"Well," he said, "you were in a difficult position, and you made a deliberate choice. I tell you frankly that I expected to hear worse things. Do you believe that she committed the murder?"

"No!" Wrayson answered, "I do not!"

"You believe that she may be associated with—the person who did?"

"I cannot tell," Wrayson declared.

"In any case," the Colonel continued, "you seem to have been the only person who saw her. Whether you were wise or not to omit all mention of her in your evidence—well, we won't discuss that. The best of us have gone on the wrong side of the hedge for a woman before now—and damned glad to do it. What I can't quite understand, old chap, is why you have worked yourself up into such a shocking state. You don't stand any chance of being hanged, that I can see!"

"To tell you the truth," he said, "I am beginning to feel ashamed of myself. I think it was the sense of being spied upon, and being alone—in this room—which got a bit on my nerves. I feel a different man since you came down."

The Colonel nodded cheerfully.

The Colonel broke off in the midst of his sentence. A few feet away from him the telephone bell was ringing. Wrayson rose to his feet and took the receiver into his hand.

"Hullo!" he said.

The voice which answered him was faint but clear. Wrayson almost dropped the instrument. He recognized it at once.

"Is that Mr. Herbert Wrayson?" it asked.

"Yes!" Wrayson answered. "Who are you?"

"I am the person who spoke to you a few nights ago," was the answer. "Never mind my name for the present. I wish to arrange a meeting—for some time to-morrow. I have a matter—of business—to discuss with you."

"Anywhere—at any time," Wrayson answered, almost fiercely. "You cannot be as anxious to see me as I am to know who you are."

The voice changed a little in its intonation. A note of mockery had stolen into it.

"You flatter me," it said. "I trust that our meeting will be mutually agreeable. You must excuse my coming to Battersea, as I understand that your flat is subjected to a most inconvenient surveillance. May I call at the office of your paper, at say eleven o'clock to-morrow?"

"Yes!" Wrayson answered. "You know where it is?"

"Certainly! I shall be there. A Mr. Bentham will ask for you. Good-night!"

Wrayson's unknown friend had rung off. He replaced the receiver and turned to the Colonel.

"Do you know who that was?" he asked eagerly.

"I can guess," the Colonel answered.

CHAPTER VI.

But when the morrow came, and his visitor was shown into Wrayson's private office, he was not quite so sure about it. Mr. Bentham had not in the least the appearance of a murderer. Clean-shaven, a little slow in speech, quietly dressed, he resembled more than anything a country solicitor in moderate practice.

He bowed in correct professional manner, and laid a brown paper parcel upon the table.

"I believe," he said, "that I have the honour of addressing Mr. Wrayson?"

Wrayson nodded a little curtly.

"And you, I suppose," he remarked, "are the owner of the mysterious voice which summoned Morris Barnes to the Francis Hotel on the night of his murder?"

"It was I who spoke to you," Mr. Bentham admitted.

"Very well," Wrayson said, "I am glad to see you. It was obvious, from your message that you knew of some danger which was threatening Morris Barnes that night. It is therefore only fair to presume that you are also aware of its source."

"My presumption is a fair one," Wrayson declared. "You are perhaps aware of my unfortunate connection with this affair. If so, you will understand that I am particularly anxious to have it cleared up."

"It is not at all certain that I can help you," his visitor said precisely. "It depends entirely upon yourself. Will you permit me to put my case before you?"

"By all means," Wrayson answered. "Go ahead."

Mr. Bentham took the chair towards which Wrayson had somewhat impatiently pointed, and unbuttoned his coat. It was obvious that he was not a person to be hurried.

"In the first place, Mr. Wrayson," he said, "I must ask you distinctly to understand that I am not addressing you on my own account. I am a lawyer, and I am acting on behalf of a client."

"Who is he?" Wrayson asked. "What is his name?"

"I am not at liberty to divulge his identity," he answered. "I am, however, fully empowered to act for him."

Wrayson shrugged his shoulders.

"He may find it necessary to disclose it, and before very long," he remarked. "Well, go on."

Mr. Bentham discreetly ignored the covert threat in Wrayson's words.

"My mission to you, Mr. Wrayson," he declared, "is a somewhat delicate one. It is not, in fact, connected with the actual tragedy—to which you have alluded. My commission is to regain possession of a paper which was stolen either from the person of Morris Barnes, or from amongst his effects, on that night."

Wrayson looked up eagerly.

"The motive at last!" he exclaimed. "What was the nature of this paper, sir?"

"That," he said, "we need not enter into for the moment. The matter of business between you and myself, or rather my client, is this. I am authorized to offer a thousand pounds reward for its recovery."

Wrayson was impressed, although the other's manner left him a little puzzled.

"Why not offer the reward for the discovery of the murderer?" he asked. "It would come, I presume, to the same thing."

"By no means," the lawyer answered drily. "I am afraid that I have not expressed myself well. My client cares nothing for Morris Barnes, dead or alive. His interest begins and ends with the recovery of that paper."

"But isn't it almost certain," Wrayson persisted, "that the thief and the murderer are the same person? Your client ought to have come forward at the inquest. The thing which has chiefly troubled the police in dealing with this matter is the apparent lack of motive."

"My client is not actuated in any way by philanthropic motives," Mr. Benham said coldly. "To tell you the truth, he does not care whether the murderer of Morris Barnes is brought to justice or not. He is only anxious to recover possession of the document of which I have spoken."

"If he has a legal claim to it," Wrayson said, "he had better offer his reward openly. He would probably help himself then, and also those who are anxious to have this mystery solved."

"Are you amongst those, Mr. Wrayson?" his visitor asked quietly.

Wrayson started slightly, but he retained his self-composure.

Kidney Pains in the Back

Could Not Stand or Even Turn in Bed —Legs Greatly Swollen

All Doctor's Medicine Failed—Cure Effected by Use of

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

Again this great medicine has triumphed over kidney disease of a severe type. From a bed of suffering and helplessness Mrs. Walsh was restored to health and strength by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Kidney pains in the back tortured her. Dropsical swellings had set in and she had no reason to hope for cure since the doctor's medicine failed to even relieve her. Read what the husband says about this remarkable cure.

Mr. Thos. D. Walsh, Pictou, N.S., writes: "Two years ago my wife took to her bed after suffering for a long time from kidney pains in the back. She was not able to stand on her feet or even turn herself in bed. The doctor's medicine was no benefit whatever, that we could see. Sometimes her legs would swell considerably. Reading about a woman in similar condition being cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, we purchased two boxes, ad when these were used she was able to sit up. With three more boxes she was restored to health and doing her own housework.

"As for myself I also found these pills all that is claimed for them. I give this statement in order that others may obtain the same ease from suffering as that experienced by my wife and myself."

What is a perfect food?

IT'S the food that develops both tissue and energy in the right proportions. And science says the right proportions are 5½ to 1.

Why do babies thrive on milk?

Why do both youngsters and grown-ups thrive on porridge?

Because it also furnishes almost exactly 5½ parts energy to 1 part tissue. And it is about the only food besides milk that is practically perfect.

But use the right kind of Oats for your porridge.

Not a flake broken. That means porridge that is not a sticky, jellied mass, but inviting and delicious.

Deathly Cramps, Stomach was Bloated

A Bad Case That Proves Cramps and Stomach Disorders are Cured Fast by Nerviline.

"The distress I suffered from cramps last summer was so severe I thought it meant death," writes P. R. Emerson, of Guys Hill, P. O. "I was doubled up with pain and in such bad shape I couldn't walk a hundred feet. I remembered having Nerviline on hand and took half a teaspoonful in sweetened water. In five minutes I was well and my stomach derangements disappeared entirely."

THE CREATOR MISUNDERSTOOD

London Tabernacle, Nov. 12.—Pastor Russell, addressing large audiences to-day, declared, "Divine Love is the greatest thing in the Universe," and by the close of his discourse his large audience seemed fully in agreement with his presentation. His text was, "That in the Ages to come He might show the exceeding riches of His grace in His loving kindness toward us in Christ Jesus." (Ephesians ii, 7.) He said in part:

Following in the footsteps of our fathers, who handed down to us our present day creeds, we have misunderstood our gracious Creator. We studied astronomy and declared the Creator Almighty; we studied geology and confirmed the decision. We studied zoology and anthropology and declared that the Creator was All-Wise, as we came to appreciate Him. We noted the adaptation of our various organs to our use and comfort—the hand, the foot, the eye, the ear, the circulatory system, the nervous system, and the power of the will over these.

We said to ourselves, truly man is fearfully and wonderfully made, truly his Maker is a God infinite in wisdom and skill. We examined the subject of man's moral sense, and although we found it impaired we have been astonished to note how even the most selfish and depraved have an instinct of justice, a sense of right, whether they follow it or not.

Then we said, Whence came this noble principle of Justice as the backbone or moral quality in our race? The only reply was that in this particular God originally created man in His own moral likeness, and that a measure of this moral quality has persisted notwithstanding the fall through disobedience into death and its consequent demoralization through sin and weakness.

Looking further we perceived that the noblest specimens of our race possess still other qualities closely associated with Justice, but outranking it. The noble quality which overtops all the rest we term Love. It is Love which makes the heart tender, sympathetic, helpful and happy; it is Love that makes home, whether exercised in a palace or a hovel. It is Love which backs up Justice and insists that no ill shall be worked toward a neighbor. It is Love that is on the alert to assist by word or act all of those needing aid. It is Love that inspires us to the boldest acts of heroism. It is Love that prompts the giving of time and strength, of means and even life itself on behalf of its object.

All freely admit that Love is the greatest, the most blessed quality possessed by humanity, and that without it even paradise could not bring happiness. We ask, Whence came this quality of Love, and from what fountain can we receive the fresh supplies so much needed by so many of our race? The answer is that the great Creator Himself is the Fountain. "God is love." This All-Wise and All-Powerful and All-Just One is pre-eminently the "God of all grace," "The Father of mercies," "The Fountain of blessing."

"Love Divine, all love excelling,
Joy of heaven, to earth come down;
Fix in us Thy humble dwelling,

The ancients had the correct thought, that they had caught but a glimpse of the Divine character and its glory; hence their prayer: "Show me Thy glory." The same should be our sentiment. In the clear light now shining upon God's Word we perceive that it will require the entire outworking of the Divine Plan of the Ages to illustrate or make known to humanity the real character of the Heavenly Father. Only the very few can by faith accept the Divine promises and trust in their ultimate fulfilment and see far down into the future the full shining forth of God's character, perfect in its Wisdom, Justice, Power and Love.

We may not judge the infinite love in all respects by human comparison, but we may know that our difficulty in the matter is that the human comparisons can only imperfectly represent the Infinite. We see the excavation or perhaps the foundation walls, or perhaps the first story of a structure; but if we were to judge wholly by these imperfect parts it would be manifestly unfair and we should be deceiving ourselves. The only way to judge of the builder's capacity and intentions would be to see the architectural drawing and to study the details—and then we may but very imperfectly appreciate the whole. Is it not thus in respect to the great Maker's present work and ultimate designs? The poet has well said:—

"Judge not the Lord by feeble sense,
But trust Him for His grace,
Behind a frowning providence
He hides a smiling face.

"His purposes will ripen fast,
Unfolding every hour;
The bud may have a bitter taste,
But sweet will be the flower."

If we stand beside a great sculptor with his freshly chosen block of marble, we may at first feel shocked to note the apparent roughness and carelessness with which he smites off large pieces of the stone, as though bent on its destruction. But let patience have her perfect work, and gradually we will see that the sculptor has not been careless or indifferent in respect to a single blow.

All the while that he seemed so reckless he was working according to the ideal before his own mind. With his mind's eye he saw his ideal in the stone, and blow after blow, chip after chip merely revealed to our eyes what he had purposed in himself from the beginning of his work. Not until his work was finished could we comprehend fully the ideal. Is not this principle still more true of our Creator? He tells us that He is "working all things according to the counsel of His own will," which He purposed in Himself "before the world was." (Ephesians i, 11; iii, 10, 11.)

The great Master Workman of the Universe will eventually show both to angels and men all the various attributes of His perfection—His Wisdom, Justice, Power and Love. Meantime, "None of the wicked shall understand," but in the End of this Age the wise will increasingly understand His purposes, hidden from all except His saints, of whom it is written, "The secret of the Lord is with them that reverence Him"; "He will show you things to come."—Psalm xxv, 14; John xvi, 13.

Let us apply this principle to the work of our great Creator. Let us see how far it has already progressed. In what state of development is the Divine Plan to-day? What will be required to complete it and to manifest Divine Wisdom, Justice, Love and Power? Only by a careful examination of the degree to which His purposes have already attained perfection.

The wreck and blight of human interests resulting from Father Adam's disobedience progressed for twenty-five hundred years before the first step was taken in the Divine Program on man's behalf. That first step was merely the making of a rough outline drawing with various crude illustrations which merely hinted at one or another of the Creator's glorious purposes. This rough outlining was done during the sixteen hundred years we call the Jewish Age.

Israel as a nation pictured all the world of mankind who will ultimately come into fellowship with God. Their one tribe of Levi typified the Household of Faith, "the Church of the First-born" of this Gospel Age, through whom all blessings will come to the remainder. The select Levites, the priests, typified the Royal Priesthood of the better Mediator. The sacrifices by which that Covenant was established, and that people brought into harmony with God, typified the better sacrifices of Christ, which began with our Lord and have continued in His faithful followers who present their bodies living sacrifices, wholly and acceptable to God through Him. (Romans xii, 1.)

Israel's Jubilee year typified the great Times of Jubilation soon to come, "the blessing of all the families of the earth"—the "Times of Restitution of all things," to be inaugurated at the second coming of Christ and the establishment of His Kingdom. Manifestly only those who could understand these roughly sketched drawings could comprehend to any degree the great Divine Plan of the Ages.

With this Gospel Age God began a great work which is yet far from finished and which as yet does not show forth fully to mankind in general His Justice, Wisdom, Power and Love. The work of this Age, according to the Scriptures, is the selection of both the Church, which is "The Bride, the Lamb's Wife," and "the virgins, her companions, who follow her." (Psalm xlv, 8-15.)

The Bible declares that Jesus, the Redeemer, having finished His sacrifice, passed into glory—beyond the veil—to the right hand of Divine Majesty. It declares also that when this Age shall be completed all the faithful followers of Jesus will pass to Him beyond the veil and share His glory and His Kingdom and immortality on the heavenly plane. But how few there are who see this much of the Divine Plan; and if they cannot see this much how could they be expected to see still further into the future developments of the Divine Program?

As the sentence of death came as the result of one transgression, but involved the race, so one sacrifice for sin, by the "man Christ Jesus," was sufficient to be a Ransom-Price for the sins of the whole world—a man's life for a man's life. Thus as condemnation came through one man unto death, so justification is provided through this other man unto everlasting life.—Romans v, 16, 18.

But although so broad a foundation for human salvation was laid by the great Master Workman, the Message and the blessing therein have not been granted as yet to the majority, but to the few—"He that hath an ear to hear, let him hear"; "As many as the Lord your God shall call"; "No man can come unto Me, except the Father which sent Me draw him." And this calling and drawing, though in one sense free, is in another sense restricted to those who are in the heart condition of being drawn and of hearing the call. All others remain blinded to the Divine invitation by the god of this world. (II. Corinthians iv, 4.)

Evidently those now being drawn and "called" are not the whole world, but a select class. Those who prove themselves faithful to the end are styled "the very elect." These are the Royal Priesthood who, as priestly Kings, will be associated with Messiah in His glorious, world-wide Empire which "shall rule from sea to sea and from the river unto the ends of the earth," for the binding of Satan, the overthrow of sin, and the uplifting of sinners. But we are to clearly distinguish between the present work of selecting the Royal Priests, the Bride, the Lamb's Wife, and the work for the world, which these will accomplish after their glorification on the spirit plane.

We must thus distinguish, because looking upon the revealed plans of the great Architect of the Universe, we perceive that thus He has arranged—the Church, as the Bride of Christ, is to constitute "a New Creation," "partakers of the divine nature—like unto her Lord. These on the plane of glory will have a station "far above principalities and powers and every name that is named."—Ephesians i, 21; Rev. iii, 21.

Whoever can see this to be the Divine Plan must with the eye of faith look down to the future and behold the Church—"changed in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye," because "flesh and blood cannot inherit the Kingdom of God." Here is love, wondrous love, in lifting up members of the sinner race to glory, honor and immortality. Who can comprehend such love as this which the Father has bestowed upon Jesus and the "little flock" of His followers who walk in His steps?

The earthly sculptor seemed wasteful to prodigality when he broke off one portion of his stone and dealt merely with it, but when subsequently he explained that he intended to deal also with the large remainder of the stone, and to make thereof a wonderful group, we began to understand him better. So the Almighty is now showing to His people that the Church now being selected is merely "a first-fruits of His creatures" and that, after their perfection in glory, His great work for the masses of mankind will begin.

The fact that only a few of earth's families were recognized of God for the following sixteen hundred years, and that only a small proportion have had any recognition during this Gospel Age, seems strange to us until we learn that God has not intended to put the world on trial for life or death everlasting until first He shall have selected the "Church of the First-borns, whose names are written in heaven." These now are required to prove and perfect their loyalty by walking by faith and not by sight. Soon, we trust, the Church will be completed and the New Dispensation, already dawning, will be fully inaugurated. "He that shall come will come and will not tarry." Soon our prayer, "Thy Kingdom come," will be answered. Then for a thousand years the conquering of the world will progress until God's will shall be done as thoroughly on earth as now in heaven.

Well may the glorified saints sing "Who shall not come and worship before Thee, O Lord, when Thy righteous dealings are made manifest?" Then the clouds of ignorance, superstition, doctrines of devils, fire and torture, horrors which have beclouded the eyes of our understanding and driven so many of the best specimens of humanity away from God and from His Book, will flee away.

While now only those who have the hearing ear can hear, and these are few, the saintly, the Scriptures declare that the full knowledge of God shall fill the earth "in due time." We must have patience for God's time, as well as for God's blessing.

"Blind unbelief is sure to err
And scan His work in vain;
God is His own interpreter,
And He will make it plain."

Throughout the discourse we have been working our way toward the glorious fullness of God's love declared in our text. We have traced the Divine Program in full harmony with the Apostle's statement—into the "Ages to come." Not until these Ages shall have come will the Divine Plan have been fully shown forth nor the riches of Divine Love.

In the thousand years' reign of Messiah's glorious Empire, colaboring with Him in the overthrow of Sin and Death—in the release of humanity from these powers of evil, by restoring them to human perfection, the Bride of Jesus (the Church) will have a glorious share. Glory, honor and immortality will be her portion. The Great Architect has not further revealed His plans in respect to the work of Christ and His Bride during the eternity beyond His Messianic reign. We merely know that when He shall have finished that work He will deliver up the Kingdom to God, even the Father. (I. Cor. xv, 24.)

But then, in the "Ages to come," God will show forth the exceeding riches of His grace and His loving kindness toward us in Christ Jesus." Oh! how much is meant by those words, "exceeding riches of His grace!" Mind, heart nor tongue can measure the depths of those words, when we remember the infinite greatness of the Father's mercy which guarantees His promise. Can any one imagine anything more mighty, more influential in all the Universe than Love Divine?

NO PRINTERS IN THE GAOL

(From the Danville (Va.) Bee.)

The interesting statistical fact was recently developed that among the 1,200 or more convicts in the Virginia penitentiary there is not among them a printer. It seems that the editor of a weekly newspaper recently wrote to Governor Mann, making inquiry on the subject with a view to giving the man employment. The governor sought information at the penitentiary with the result that not a printer could be found among the felons in striped garb.

It might be asserted that this is a mere curious accident, inasmuch as there have recently been preachers, lawyers, physicians and men of every vocation among this large criminal class, and perhaps the condition is unique. There is a reason, however, why more printers are not criminals. In the first place, the trade or art is one in which a man need rarely remain long unemployed. The demands for printers is still great, even since the invention of several typesetting machines. The hand compositor can not be dispensed with yet and there is scope for much taste and judgment in the business of hand composition. In the first place, the printer is seldom a loafer. If he loafs or spree for a time, he goes back to work again. Another reason for this immunity from criminality is the fact that the printer who has been at the business for any length of time is usually intelligent and well informed. Not a few men have acquired practically all the education they have at the case. They think as they work and read. Indeed, no man will become a competent printer who does not soon begin to understand what he reads. Generally the ability to speak and write correctly and fluently comes to the man who stands all day picking up type and aligning them in a "stick." Life would be a dreary monotony to him if he did not comprehend what he is putting into type.

Intelligence, education and employment are antithetic to crime, just as ignorance and idleness are contributory to it. All honor to the calling whose thousands have no representative in the felon class. May the vocation maintain its present high standard and prove an example and an inspiration to future apprentices to maintain the ethics of the "art preservative of all the arts."

SAUCE FOR THE PUDDING

When you want a cheap pudding sauce, strain off a cup of the juice when you are stewing apples for sauce. There is usually some that can be spared if the apples are juicy. Add sugar and boil to a syrup. When ready to use, reheat it and beat into it the juice of a lemon.

CABBAGE A LA CREME

Drain a boiled cabbage, cut it up small, and put it into a pan with 1 oz. of butter, 1 gill of cream, salt and pepper. Stir over the fire until hot, and garnish with lightly fried croutons of bread.

SALT PORK WITH OLD FOWL

When roasting an old fowl, lay thin slices of fresh salt pork across the breast, and as the fowl cooks, pour the basting over the pork until it gets quite brown and done. When the dish is ready, the slices will have the taste of the chicken meat, and the chicken meat will be more tender and juicy.

POPCORN CRACKERJACK

Three tablespoonfuls of molasses (sorghum preferred), one tablespoonful of butter, half teacupful of sugar, one-third cup of water and one-fourth teaspoonful of salt. Boil all together until it spins, then pour over the popped corn; this is enough for one gallon of corn. Stir well as it is being poured over the corn, so as to have each grain coated with the syrup.

INTERESTING DESCRIPTION OF THE ICE CREAM PLANT OF PETERBORO' CREAMERY

A READABLE ARTICLE

Ice cream is one of the most nourishing and acceptable things one may partake of at all seasons. It is particularly good for children. Served with bread or other plain food, it forms a nourishing and satisfying meal, far better than many of the viands placed on our tables for the sake of variety. But ice cream costs five cents per dish, which is exactly the fee extracted for a five minute glance at the moving picture shows. When a child is the subject and there is five cents to spend, let the show slide and introduce the ice cream to the child. It is better practice and better for the youngster.

A year or two ago each confectioner made his own ice cream. That is, he worked at making it. On a hot day it was perspiring work, though it brought cool results which the public ate, and quaffed, and were glad. Making ice cream was a slavish job, and the clerks kicked. The proprietor being man-of-all-work, and having the responsibility of the shop, the public and that note in the bank on such a mind as he had, strove with the crusher and freezer. Earning his money and gaining confection literally by the sweat of his brow, explains why the purveyor of ice cream sold and dished it out with a solemn and serious air. He seldom smiled.

All this is changed. But how? No longer does the grinding of the mixer permeate Chambers street, for instance. Quiet is the big wheel that revolved beside the tank. Gone is the tow-headed boy, who hung on the handle and reluctantly drove it around while he dodged the debris pelted at him by newsboys, who scoffed at his arduous toil. He is a slave no longer. Modern progress and modern methods have made him free. Hence he rejoices.

Some time ago it struck some thoughtful man that if all the cheese and butter could be made in factories, if large quantities of milk could be served from a central station, if pop, soda water and ginger ale could be concocted in one place, why not ice cream? Good idea. Happy thought. Sure thing. It was adopted, put in practice and the thing spread. It was a conservation of ice cream making energy.

When ex-Ald. G. A. Gillespie took hold of the Peterborough creamery he carried out his idea that an ice cream emporium should arise on Aylmer street. Early in the spring people saw that strange looking structure arising amongst an extension of the factory. It looked, at one time, as an even thing whether he was building a grain elevator or a hose tower, with the odds in favour of the tower. Those who guessed, guessed wrong. It was the aerial working end of the ice cream plant, one end being in the building, the other up in the air. Despite the fact that days will come in which the native climate will have cold to spare, and very glad to spare it, most of the work and whole barrels of expense were incurred to provide cold. To make ice cream is one thing—to keep it made is the problem.

Ice Cream Room—Looking Toward Boiler Room.

A Corner of Ice Storage Room.

Ice and salt, when manipulated properly, and in proper proportions, produce cold. First there is a big storehouse for the ice. To make use of the ice it has to be crushed. There is the crusher, a sort of gigantic coffee mill that masticates a block as big as a piece of chalk. To distribute the ice there is the elevator. The plan is to hoist it up in the air and let 'er slide. Conveyors carry it to the freezing vats, to the storage refrigerators, maintaining the temperature away down below zero. All the butter made is packed in cold storage until shipped. So is the ice cream, in normal times, but during the hot summer it was snatched away as fast as it was made. The capacity of the factory was overtaxed.

The idea in the plant is to do the work automatically, making the machinery handle the successive operations. Not only does this save time, and labour, but it helps to cleanliness. It is not necessary to describe the whole process, but it is only fair to mention the results.

The caller at the factory is impressed with the absolute cleanliness of the method and practice of making ice cream. Mr. T. Hooper was in charge and Mr. Gillespie says that Mr. Hooper has a mania for cleanliness. The cream was fresh, rich and fragrant, brought in from the farm under cover early in the morning. The sugar is absolutely pure and especially prepared. The fiction that corn starch, plaster of paris or other thickening material is used is exploded so far as that Peterborough plant is concerned. So soon as a filling of the machine is made and worked it is poured into cans and placed in the cold storage to harden and granulate. Such as is served in the form of bricks is poured into moulds to harden. Such as come diversified with pink and canary layers are coloured with a minute portion of edible dye, to give the desired shade.

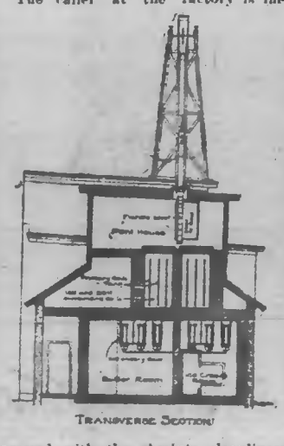
Longitudinal Section



Transverse Section

We have stepped over our general rule of printing original matter to copy the above from one of the Peterborough daily papers on account of its breezy and lucid style. We now add a description prepared by Mr Gillespie as follows:

The extension consists of a two-storey brick building in which is installed the boiler and ice cream machinery, including an Emery Thompson ice cream freezer, capable of making 10 gallons of ice cream in 10 minutes. An ice storage room 25x33x30 feet high in which is stored 500 tons of ice. This room is fitted up with insulated walls. This permits the ice to be left uncovered all the time.

An ice crusher is installed in the ice room. This is driven from the overhead shafting in the ice cream room. The ice when crushed is elevated and delivered to the storage tanks over the refrigerators. The Madison Cooper System is installed, known as the Cooper Brine System, all of which works automatically.

The tanks into which the ice is delivered are fitted with iron pipe coils which lead down to the ceiling of the refrigerators. These pipes are filled with brine, and when the tanks are filled with ice and salt the circulation commences and accordingly as the temperature rises in the refrigerator rooms, flows continuously into and through the pipes into the tanks filled with ice and salt, cooled and then flows again to the refrigerators. Two immense refrigerators have been installed, one for ice cream and the other for butter. The temperature in these can be held at 15 degrees above zero. The ice cream department is run under the name of the Peterboro Ice Cream Co."

These extensions and improvements as a whole are a great benefit to the Peterborough creamery, as the low temperature now possible for keeping the butter cool, places the creamery in a position to hold their butter when the market is low, until a higher market, which is always assured later in the season, when the early surplus butter is consumed.

The Peterborough creamery is now in a position to go into the manufacture of ice cream on a wholesale basis, having a plant capable of turning out the finished article in rapid fashion and having a constant supply of cream available at the lowest possible cost. It is presumed that most of the local confectioners will find it more convenient and economical to have their ice cream made for them at tht Peterborough creamery, rather than go to the expense and trouble of manufacturing it themselves under the old system.

Mr. Gillespie also adds in a letter to us that from their experience they are perfectly satisfied with the Cooper Systems and have found them very economical and with practically no labour.

Complete plans for the construction of the addition of the ice storage room; construction of cold storage rooms, etc., were prepared by Madison Cooper Company, Refrigerating Engineers and Architects, Calcium, N.Y. They also furnished the complete refrigerating equipment, including the ice crusher and ice elevator machinery. The entire job was set up under supervision of the owner, Mr. G. A. Gillespie.

ABOUT CREAM

From Farm and Dairy.

Are you paying for cream according to its quality? If not, don't you think that you stand a good chance to spoil your good patrons by treating them exactly as you do the patrons who do not care what kind of cream they send in? Don't you think that a cent or two per pound butter fat more for good cream would be a greater inducement to your patrons to send you good cream than all of the sermons on quality and cleanliness that you can preach? Money talks. These are questions that creamery men would do well to consider.

The creamery men of at least one province of Canada have come to the conclusion that while sermons are all right in their place, those patrons who are not affected by good advice should be treated as they deserve and their cream cut in price. Money talks! In Farm and Dairy last week Mr. A. A. Munro, an Alberta creamery man, tells how in just a few months their proportion of No. 2 butter was reduced from 47 per cent. to 16 per cent. Alberta creamery men are unanimous in acclaiming the success of the cream grading system in that province. Saskatchewan creamery men in all likelihood will adopt the same system in the near future.

Can we creamery men in Eastern Canada afford to be left behind by our brethren in the West? Can we afford to see our butter taking a second place because Eastern patrons refuse to send in a decent quality of cream? Will not the system that is working out so perfectly in the western provinces and also in the United States work out just as well in Eastern Canada?

Farm and Dairy invites an open discussion in these columns of the practicability of adopting some system of cream grading and payment by quality in our creameries. This is the livest question in the creamery world to-day. What do you think of it?

In spite of the various agencies at work in improving the quality of butter, as nearly as we can analyse the present situation, there is as much poor butter produced now as ever. The reason for this state of affairs is that the real source of all this trouble has scarcely been touched as yet. We refer to the age of the cream, which does more damage to the butter industry than all other agencies combined. We can improve the raw milk supply, better the factory conditions and increase the skill of the butter maker as much as we please, but as long as old cream will be accepted at creameries, just so long will the quality of butter be poor.

Cream is like an egg. Both are infected with putrefactive bacteria and both will begin putrefying from the moment they are produced when kept under the temperature conditions under which they are usually kept and handled. Now, the damage these bacteria do in cream held a day or two, amounts to more than the millions of dollars expended annually in reducing their number by improving sanitary conditions and by teaching butter makers the best methods of controlling them during manufacturing process.

Now, how does the age of cream more than offset the influences that have been at work for the betterment of the quality of the butter? Here is an illustration: Suppose that where formerly there were four bad bacteria in the cream, there are only two now, as a result of better sanitary conditions. By letting the cream stand at prevailing temperatures for an extra 24 hours the two bacteria will easily have developed into 200. Therefore, while sanitary conditions have caused a decrease of 50 per cent in the number of bad bacteria, the age of the cream has caused them to increase 10,000 per cent.—Butter, Cheese, and Egg Journal.

After I had used scales for a month I noticed decided differences in the testing of cream. Patrons who always had a high test were getting higher tests than ever and patrons with low tests lower than ever. This showed that if the scales is the just method of taking the sample, and I believe it is, patrons paid by pipette method are being treated unjustly.—J. Almonte, Lincoln Co., Ont.

SOMETHING ABOUT FOWL

From Farm and Dairy.

W. A. Wilson, Regina, Saskatchewan.

Birds of the utility breeds are easily fattened and are in demand by the general trade. They should weigh from 3 to 3 1-2 pounds when put into the feeding crate.

The egg laying strains are not suitable for fattening.

The most profitable period for fattening is for three to four weeks.

Be careful not to overfeed chickens the first week. Feed lightly and remove any feed left in the trough half an hour after feeding. Keep the troughs clean and sweet.

After the first week give chickens all they will eat, regularly twice a day.

The oats or mash must be ground very fine. Oats ground for horse feed are not suitable.

Feeding skimmilk or buttermilk whitens the flesh, which is desirable.

Give some form of grit twice a week. Sifted gravel will do.

Feed tallow during the last 10 days. Begin with one pound a day to 70 or 100 chickens and increase to one pound to 60 or 70 chickens.

To prepare tallow: Weigh quantity required for three days, melt it, and thicken, while hot, with ground oats. Mix one-sixth of this paste with the morning and one-sixth with the evening feed.

If a chicken gets off its feed, remove it from the fattening pen for a few days, allowing it to run free.

Do not allow birds any food for 36 hours before killing.

THE FAMILY HEARTH

BROWN HASHED POTATOES

Chop one heaping pint of raw potatoes with enough clear salt pork (raw) to make four tablespoonfuls. Put the pork in the frying pan, let it cook long enough to be a golden colour. Then add the potatoes and fry a light brown. Turn off all the surplus fat, spread the potato down flat, brown the other side, turn like an omelet. Serve hot.

PRUNE SLUMP

Pick over one pound of prunes, wash well in warm water, then drain, cover with cold water and let soak over night. Put in a double boiler and cook slowly until very soft. Add sugar to sweeten to taste, turn into a saucepan which is rather wide than deep and stand where the contents will just boil. Mix together one cupful and a half of flour, one teaspoonful and a half of flour, one teaspoonful and a half of baking powder and one-third of a teaspoonful of salt; add sweet milk to make a soft dough. Turn out on a floured board, roll out until just large enough to fit in the saucepan. Lay it carefully over the boiling prunes, cover closely and cook for 20 minutes without uncovering. Lift out on a platter, pour the prunes round it and serve with cream and sugar.

HOURS OF SHOP GIRLS

The hours of shop girls in England are limited to 60 a week, exclusive of meal times, with an afternoon holiday in one week every day. Girls over 18 and Boys over 16 may work overtime. The new shop bill requires that in every store where female assistants are employed seats behind the counter shall be provided in the proportion of one seat to every three assistants.

WRINKLE REMOVER
(From Modern Housekeeper)

A wrinkle removing preparation which acts powerfully and quickly may at the same time be entirely harmless, as has been amply demonstrated in the case of the famous saxolite solution. While acting so marvellously on wrinkles of every sort, the saxolio is really beneficial to the skin itself, giving the latter tone and improving its texure. In the case of baggy cheeks or chin, also, more than mere temporary results are obtained.

One ounce of pure powdered saxolite, procurable at any drug store, dissolved in a half pint witch-hazel, makes this most effectual wrinkle-remover. Use as a wash lotion. The effect is wonderful—and immediate.

BAKING APPLES

When baking apples, take out the core before putting them in the pan; fill the hole with brown sugar and butter, and pour water enough in the pan to keep the apples from scorching, leaving the pan in the oven as the fire dies down; the apples will be beautifully baked and the sauce ready when they are dished up. Few things are more healthful than good bakes apples.

To cook sweet apples, put them over the fire in a stew pan with a cupful of sugar to a pint of water. They must not be peeled, but should be cored. When boiled until tender, the water should be about absorbed or evaporated; put into a pan and set in the oven until they are slightly brown and shriveled.

TURN-OVERS

Roll out a rich biscuit dough about as thick as thick pie crust, cut into rounds by laying a large saucer or small plate on the dough; on each round lay to one side a spoonful or more of preserved, or stewed or canned fruit boiled down as thick as may be, and fold over the other half of the dough, pressing the edges tightly together; then fry in hot lard until slightly brown; take out and lay on paper to drain thoroughly.

AS YOU GO THROUGH LIFE

"Don't look for the flaws as you go thru life;
And even when you find time,
It is wise and kind to be somewhat blind
And look for the virtue behind them.
For the cloudiest night has a hint of light
Somewhere in its shadows hiding;
Than the spots on the sun abiding."

Do not keep your politeness to put on with your good clothes, because if you do you will surely forget it sometime when you most wish it, and even if you remember in which pocket you have it you will be stiff, and plainly show that it is not natural. Cultivate politeness, not only for what outsiders will say, but because it is the right thing to do, one of your many talents to make good use of, and anything that improves always increases

"The boy is father of the man" in more ways than one. The boy who is willing to do faithful labor either at or away from home, for little more than his board and clothes, is fitting himself for a position of usefulness and better pay in the future. It is the boy who attends strictly to business and makes his employer's interests his own, who will make his mark as a business man. An industrious, energetic, painstaking boy or young man never wants for a place, and these with stability of character, are all the recommendations needed. And these are so plain that every business man reads them and mentally concludes: "That boy will succeed because he deserves success."

starts, then thinks of something else to say; rises, and then thinks of another subject of conversation; nearly reaches the door, and then has another revelation; reaches the door, and, most probably holding it open, is aroused to a degree of mental brilliancy that threatens his health and that of his host or hostess by long detaining of both in a cold draft while he discourses? What a tax on the patience and politeness of the listener, who vainly strives, by asserting instantly to every proposition to end the interview and break the restraining bond of polite attention.

SHORT ROAD TO MISERY

Begin by fancying that no one cares for you; that you are not of any use to anybody—a sort of nonentity in the household, where your place would not be missed, but easily supplied. Reflect on your want of beauty, and lead yourself to believe that no one can love a plain face, or think you agreeable because there are others more charming. Fancy that every one who looks upon you makes a mental comparison which militates against you in jest is only meant to cover a deeper and more painful meaning—that every article of wearing apparel you don is criticised and ridiculed. Do all this and your tendency to morbidity of feeling will so increase that in a very short time you will become one of the most miserable of human beings.

ANSWERING CHILDREN'S QUESTIONS

Anyone who has the ability to ask a question that to him is worth asking, has the capacity to receive an answer that to him is worth receiving. A thoughtful child, on inquiring the location of Heaven, was told by his mother that he could not understand her, even if she explained it. She was probably right in so far as the child's ability to understand her was concerned; but she was wrong in not telling him that the fault was with herself and not with him. Had she known as much about answering him as he knew about questioning her, there need have been no trouble about his understanding her explanation. There is no question that a child can seriously and fairly ask that cannot be as seriously and fairly answered. To tell a child or to lead it to infer that it is "too little" to know anything more on any subject about which it already knows enough to frame a question, is to deny its capacity for further growth. It is to thrust the child's mind into a dungeon, instead of opening it to the light. It is to bind it in fetters, instead of giving it freedom of action. Ability to ask presupposes capacity to receive. And no questions are better worth answering or worth better answers than a child's.

THE ROAD TO SUCCESS

The world is wide. If you wish to be somebody, "pitch in." The brave always have friends. Where others have gone you can go. If the old track don't suit you, make a new one; somebody will walk in it. Don't hurry too fast, especially till you know the road or become acquainted with your team. Mind your own business and look after it yourself. Don't stop to club, whilits or to retail gossip. You may grow weary, but remember this is not a world of ease, and rest lies beyond. Success is never obtained in a country like this without effort. If you fail once, try again. If you fall down, get up. If it is dark, strike a light. If you are in the shade, move around; if there is shade on one side there is sure to be sunshine on the other. It takes longer to skin an elephant than a mouse, but then the skin is worth something. Never be content with doing what another has done—excel him. A trade is a good thing to have; it is better than gold—brings a larger premium. But to make a premium, the trade must be perfect — no silver-plated affair. Determine in your mind to be a good workman, or let the job out. Learning a trade is different from eating mush and milk—mechanical education does not slip down without chewing. Never slight your work, never. Every job you do is a sign. Poor signs are against success. People always speak well of a boy who minds his own business and who seems to be disposed to be somebody in time. This is a queer world; many people are watching us, and help often comes when and from whom we least expect. Confidence is the safe in which men often deposit rich treasures, and as you prove worthy so will your reward of success be. There is a reward in success, which none but those who strive can enjoy. Deserve success and it will come.

A crust of bread, a pitcher of water, a thatched roof and love; there is happiness for you, whether the day be rainy or sunny. It is the heart that makes the home, whether the eye rests on a potato patch or a flower garden. Heart makes home precious, and it is the only thing that can.

PULLING TURNIPS

From Farm and Dairy.

The laborious task of pulling turnips by hand and topping them with a knife, which was once the common practice, has been generally abandoned, and the custom of topping with a hoe and turning the roots out with a sharp-shared plow, with the mould-board removed, has been adopted. By striking the tops of two rows together, the roots can be plainly seen, and, if turned inward on the row of tops, are clearly visible for picking up to be thrown into a wagon.

With three men loading, the wagon straddling one row, one man on each side and one behind, loading is rapidly performed; but if only one or two hands are available, one row at a time may be as convenient. If the plow is well managed, most of the taproots will be cut off, but it is well where soil clings to the roots to rap two together to knock off the dirt before throwing them into the wagon.

KEEP EARTH OUT OF CELLAR

A slatted chute should be provided on which to shovel the turnips, to screen the dirt out from them as they roll into the cellar. It is well, also, when the cellar is full, to pick back the turnips from the place they fell into, and remove any earth which may have accumulated there, as otherwise they will almost certainly heat and rot for lack of ventilation. Doors and windows of the cellar or root house should be left open for ventilation whenever severe freezing is not to be feared.

ABOUT PITTING ROOTS

Where cellar room is insufficient for storing the crop, roots may be safely pitted. Mark out a pit five or six feet wide; plow and shovel out to sides the depth of the furrow; build roots up to a point four or five feet high. Cover with straw to the depth of eight or 10 inches, then with earth to about the same depth.

For ventilation, set three-inch drain tiles on top, with one end resting on the roots, 10 or 12 feet apart, or leave an opening to the straw along the ridge, to be covered with boards to carry off rain, and place two inch tiles near the bottom to cause a draft. Fill the tiles with straw before severe freezing.

WHAT FEEDS?

From Farm and Dairy.

What feeds should be purchased to feed with those grown on the farm? Speaking generally, only those feeds should be purchased which will supply the protein lacking in the feeds grown on the farm.

There is a long list of feeds on the market and it is quite a problem for the farmer to decide which he should select. There is nothing better than the straight grains when properly combined with home-grown roughage in the ration. So many of the new mixed feeds now on the market have not been tried out in feeding tests and it is so easy for the manufacturer or mixer to vary the contents that it is difficult to state their value in terms of digestible nutrients, which is the true measure of value. Given percentages of nutrients are guaranteed for these mixtures, but these are total and not digestible nutrients. Their digestibility and value depend much upon the materials from which they come. Many of these mixed feeds contain mill screenings with weed seed, oat hulls, chaff, etc., which are of little if any value.

They are usually claimed to be balanced rations in themselves. The dairyman who has his own farm should not purchase a balanced ration, but something which, when added to his home-grown feeds, will give a balanced ration, and this will almost invariably be a feed which contains a high percentage of protein.

MARKET REPORTS.

Liverpool and Chicag Wheat Futures Close Lower—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 11.—The late strength in America yesterday was reflected here at the opening, and values were unchanged to ¼d lower. Following the opening there was free realising, and values declined ¾d to ⅞d, with the undertone easy. This selling was profit-taking by yesterday's buyers, induced by the favorable weather in Argentina, lower Buenos Ayres close and free offerings of New Argentine wheat at 6d to 6d decline. It is expected that shipments to the United Kingdom this week will be heavy. Advices from Australia are more favorable, and Russia weather is mild, with part arrivals there large and offered at a decline. Just before the close there was some little show of strength, with shorts profit-taking on the unfavorable weather in Canada, and at this time prices were ¼d to ½d up from the low, and ¾d lower than yesterday.

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—Wheat snapped back more than 2c to-day after a sudden upturn of a cent. Shorts in a stampede over sensational damage said to have been caused by the blizzard in northwest, forced the bulge until a deluge of profit taking sales on spreads between Minneapolis and Chicago sent prices down with a crash. The close was comparatively steady, but at a loss of ⅝c to 1c net.

MIGHT HAVE BEENS.

Humble People Who Narrowly Missed Being Monarchs.

Whenever royal blood is recognised it is treated with universal respect. Nevertheless, it is an indisputable fact that there are in Great Britain to-day literally thousands of persons with royal blood in their veins who occupy humble and, in many cases, menial positions. And it is quite reasonable to assume that there are in the slums and workhouses many men and women who might be leading persons at Court.

It has actually been ascertained that there are no fewer than 11,723 persons living who can be proved to be direct descendants of Henry VII., our monarch in 1485.

Using these figures as the basis for a simple mathematical calculation, we arrive at the astounding conclusion that, from the death of Henry VII. to the present day, there must have been living at least 36,736 persons directly descended from the King.

It is quite easy to follow the means by which the "family" has become so numerous, and there is no need to wrestle with complex genealogical tables. Henry VII. had two daughters, the older of whom married James IV. of Scotland, becoming thereby the grandmother of Mary Queen of Scots. The younger daughter, Mary Tudor, married, in the first instance, Louis XII. of France.

The marriage had been entered upon against her will, and, immediately on regaining her freedom, she contracted a second marriage with Charles Brandon, Duke of Suffolk.

The descendants of Mary Tudor number, at the present day, some 10,000 persons in a direct line, and by an extraordinary string of circumstances have kept almost entirely distinct from those of her elder sister, Margaret.

From the latter sprang the Stuarts, who later occupied the throne, and to her all the crowned heads of Europe, except those of a few small semi-civilized states, can trace their descent. From this it will be seen that all European monarchs are related.

When Queen Elizabeth successfully revoked the will of Henry VIII. there were two daughters of Mary Tudor living, who each married a nobleman. Their children also married into other noble families, and that is how the wide diffusion of royal blood was started.

Although many of the descendants of Mary Tudor occupy, as has been stated, more or less fitting positions, there are a great number who are scattered amongst the very humblest positions in life. The record of how some of these have come down in the world remains.

A similar, though perhaps slightly more congenial fate, was that of Lord Kingsland, who earned his living as a waiter. On his death he left no heir, and his family then came to an end.

The claim of a certain small shopkeeper in Mile End to be regarded as a descendant of Mary Tudor is quite valid; and at different times it has been ascertained that a customs officer, a toll-gate keeper, and a butcher were indisputably direct descendants.

Who Owns Them?

It is not perhaps generally known that an opinion expressed, half humorously, by Lord Salvesen at the opening of the Norse Gallery in the Scottish exhibition in Glasgow with regard to the ownership of the Orkney and Shetland Islands is fortified by very high authority. His lordship, speaking as a lawyer, is not sure whether the islands do not belong to Norway, if prepared to pay the money for which they were pledged, with interest, for three hundred years, would be entitled to redeem them. As a matter of fact, plenipotentiaries assembled at Breda in 1668 (a couple of centuries after the islands had come into the possession of the Scottish crown) decided not only that the right of redemption had not then been barred by the lapse of time, but that it was irrescribable. The islands were pledged in 1468, so that interest is due for nearly four and a half centuries.

Queen's Students Parade.

Kingston, Nov. 13.—Queen's students held their annual parade Saturday night and made things lively on the city streets. The students decked out in various costumes for the occasion and made merry. Several fine floats were in line and the parade is characterized as the best ever held in the history of the college. Kingstonians turned out en masse to see the parade.

Another heavy gale set in on the lake during Saturday night and navigation was tied up for the second time in a week.

Trade With Newfoundland.

Montreal, Nov. 13.—Hon. M. P. Gibbs, a member of the Newfoundland Government, with a seat in the Legislative Council, who is here, announces that the trade between Newfoundland and Canada is now valued at four millions and is increasing so rapidly that the Reid Newfoundland Co. are now preparing to put a daily passenger service on their railway and that a new seventeen-knot boat for the Sydney service will be launched on the Clyde next month, to cost $500,000.

A DEAL IN STAMPS.

The man who keeps a watchful eye on the federal government bought five postage stamps. The drug store cashier laid them down, picture side up, whereupon the customer confounded her with his knowledge of the government. He unfolded a newspaper and pointed to a headline:

"Stamps must be delivered gummy side up."

"See that?" said he. "By laying down stamps the way you did you are loading me up with germs. This window sill may be alive with germs. They will stick to the gum on the stamps, and I shall carry them home and lick them off and maybe be laid up with a spell of sickness."

"What do you want me to do?" she asked.

"Take those stamps back," he said, "and lay out five more gummy side up as the government directs."

She obeyed. He folded the slip, still gum side up, and put it in his pocket. He went home and wrote letters till bedtime and prepared to stick on the stamps. Then he said, "Hang that girl.

A FASCINATING SPORT.

The Hold Aviation Takes on Those Who Have Ever Tried It.

Flying is a sport that truly exemplifies one of the greatest Darwinian theories. Only the fittest survive. It taxes one's physical resources. It makes tremendous demands upon one's nervous assets. It sharpens one's intellect. It develops one's faculty of judgment. It demands the very best a man of the best type can bring to it. The better the man, the better the aviation sportsman. For this very reason the sport has attracted men of the finest type that have ever indulged in sport. It is for this very reason that the world has been amazed at the high intellectual type of human that has embarked in this activity. For this reason I call it the kingliest of sports.

No one who has ever flown an aeroplane can be induced to abandon it utterly. The craving to fly will survive with the man who has thrilled in response to the sensation of driving his own craft. The strange, wild, almost uncanny, exhilaration of rushing through the air like a bird cannot be put into words by a clumsy architect of sentences like the present writer. It takes a poet like D'Annunzio to tell the story properly.—Clifford B. Harmon in Country Life in America.

Horses For Weddings.

An old fashioned man who wished to hire a team for the afternoon saw a nice pair of bays which he thought he would like to drive.

"Can't let you have them," said the liveryman. "They are wedding horses."

"What's that?" asked the innocent pleasure seeker.

"Horses that won't shy at old shoes and showers of rice. Some horses seem prejudiced against matrimony. Anyhow, they lose their temper if they happen to be hit by any of the good luck emblems that are fired after a bridal couple and run away if they get half a chance. Every livery stable, however, keeps two or more horses who take a more cheerful view of the wedded state. Those bays are that kind. They are slated to head a wedding procession for tonight and are resting up for the job."—New York Times.

Last Worse Befall.

Mrs. Jones came downstairs one evening after dinner and displayed herself to her husband, embellished with the result of her all day skirmishing in the milliners' shops.

"John," she asked, "how do you like this hat on me?"

"Oh, I don't know," he answered. "Have you bought it?"

"No, not exactly. I brought it home on approval. I intend to take either this or another one, which is $5 more than this, but I thought"—

"Say, Florence," he interrupted, "that's the most becoming hat I ever saw you have on. Telephone to them first thing in the morning that you'll take it, so as to make sure they'll not sell it to anybody else."—Youth's Companion.

Ring a Prebendary.

It may not be generally known that the King is a Welsh prebendary. He is a Prebendary of St. David's Cathedral, Pembrokeshire, and, as such, is entitled to an annual salary of $5.

SHE WAS SURPRISED

When Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills Cured her Chronic Liver Complaint

Mrs. R. Smith, of Winnipeg, Man., tells an interesting story of relief from almost intolerable sufferings:

"I can hardly tell you how great my sufferings have been. Chronic liver complaint accompanied by biliousness were a daily source of trial to me. Every day I experienced the sickening effects of these ailments. I longed for some medicine that should permanently drive them away.

Hearing of Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills, I thought they were worthy of a trial. My surprise was indeed great. From the very first I experienced relief. Continuing with them I found my troubles were slowly but surely leaving me, and before long I cared more knew what it was to be free from the harassing effects of the ailments that had long sickened and weakened me. So great is my faith in Dr. Morse's Indian Pills that I shall never on any account be without them."

STRONG CRITICISM FOR MR. PECK'S MANIFESTO BY LOCAL WORKINGMEN

Mr. Hall's Meeting on Saturday Night Was Featured by Large Attendance of Representative Workmen Who Expressed Dissatisfaction With Statement of Conservative Candidate---A Vigourous Speech From Mr. Hall Was Enthusiastically Received.

The Liberal platform and the progressive policy of Mr. R. R. Hall have won a firm hold on the electors of Peterborough of the large gathering of workingmen, which turned out to the splendid rally in the committee rooms Saturday night can be taken as a criterion. The rooms were crowded, and the clear and business-like utterances of the candidate were listened to with an attention and interest that revealed the power of the speaker, and the popularity of his advanced platform. It was truly a workingman's meeting, several of whom took the opportunity offered them by the Chairman, to express their views concerning the questions of the day.

Mr. J. J. Hartley, President of the Liberal Association for the Riding of West Peterborough, occupied the chair. In opening the meeting, Mr. Hartley said that Mr. Hall's platform was one that would appeal to all reasonable men, and he felt justified in saying that he would be elected by a large majority. Mr. Hall had shown himself in the past, to be a man of undoubted ability, and possessed of a fund of indomitable energy, and he had no hesitation in saying that he would carry out to a successful issue, anything that he undertook to do. The candidate had showed himself to be a good man when he was a member of the House of Commons, continued the speaker, he was active and alert, not afraid of hard work, and would be an excellent member, irrespective of party. The Whitney Government had too many supporters now. It was not a good thing for a Government to be too strong. A live Opposition was necessary, and essential, to watch and expose that which was not conducive to the best interests of the people. It is not a good thing for the people to have one party in power in both Houses. Mr. Hall had met with good success in his canvas. The mechanics and workingmen were alive to the fact tht their interests were being neglected, and he believed that they were going to give Mr. Hall, in this election, their support. (Applase) was the next speaker, and was heartily received when he rose to address the gathering. He voiced the sentiments of Mr. Hartley, when he said, that the Liberals of West Peterborough were to be congratulated upon the selection of Mr. Hall, as their leader. He was an aggressive campaigner, and a hard worker. During his term of office in the Federal House, Mr. Hall had been instrumental in bringing the Armouries to Peterborough, and numerous other advantages had accrued to Peterborough during that time.

Educational Policy.

Mr. Goodwill then touched on the educational policy—a phase of the Liberal platform which he expressed himself as being deeply interested in. The educational policy, declared the speaker, is the backbone of all good government. The people of this Province contribute large sums of money yearly, for the education of our boys and girls. A favoured few pass from the Public Schools through the different phases of school life, and finally emerge from the university into the learned professions; others branch out into the teaching profession; and others—it is a sad fact—are compelled, by circumstances, to leave school at an early age, and go into work shops and factories. The point is this: The Government has expended large sumus of money from time to time, for the upkeep of universities and colleges, where the rich man's son might be educated, but for the boys and girls, who are compelled to go into shops, and factories, between the ages of thirteen, and sixteen, they have done absolutely nothing. They are thrown on their own resources. "Now, what I submit," said Mr. Goodwill, "and the Liberal "party are advocating to-day, is that "something should be done to help "those who are unable to help themselves. Night schools should be established, and maintained by the "Government, where the boy or girl "could receive an education that "would materially assist them to advance in their chosen vocation."

Fifty per cent. of the Public School students leave school between the ages of fourteen and sixteen. The educational policy of the Whitney Government has been rendered obscure by a policy of effacement, and therefore has been wholly ineffective. You have only got to look to neighbouring constituencies, where you will see facts that will amply bear out my assertion. Here you will find that the conditions are deplorable. Mr. Goodwill here produced figures, showing that fully one-half of the teachers occupy positions in Public Schools, in places which he named, were unqualified. This dearth of qualified teachers he attributed to the abolition of model schools on the part of the Whitney Government. If for any one act, more than another, Sir James Whitney is deserving of censure, it is the one that calls for the abolition of model schools. You will find him admitting, himself, that he has made a mistake—a mistake which has worked a capital injury to the boys and girls of the Province. It is a shame to see rural schools in the country to-day filled with unqualified teachers. Why should the people of Ontario be compelled to submit to such a disastrous piece of legislation

Would Increase Age Limit.

Mr. Robert McGregor was next called upon to say a few words. He declared the present educational system to be an outstanding shame, and a blot on the Whitney record that will not easily be obliterated. He advocated the increasing of the age limit from fourteen to sixteen, so to when children should be permitted to leave school. "In looking over Mr. Peck's manifesto," continued the speaker, "I, as a workingman, find that he has left the interests of the workingman severely alone, although I heard Mr. Peck recently remark that he would rather favour a six-hour day than an eight-hour one. While I myself would like the six-hour day, I am quite satisfied to start off with an eight-hour day. If we want good government we must endeavour to send a man to parliament who will legislate for the best interests of the community, and not for the classes, I feel confident, and said, in saying that in Mr. Hall we have just such a man." (Cheers.)

Mr. McFarlane.

"I was interested in Mr. Goodwill's remarks concerning the School question," said Mr. McFarlane, who was given an enthusiastic reception. The wretched condition of the present school law has been pointed out to you. It is apparent, wherever you go, and you will even find that the attention to our agricultural college is getting beautifully less since the introduction of the Whitney regime.

Land of the Stunted Poplar.

When the Liberal Government attempted to put a railway line into the back country, Sir James Whitney strongly opposed it, saying that it was no use building a railway through that barren region — "the land of the stunted poplar." Sir James tried his level best to prevent the Ross Government from building the line. What's the result? That vast fertile region, known as the great clay belt to the north of us, which will produce as fine a crop of grain and vegetables asca n be produced anywhere in the Dominion, has been opened up. Untold mineral wealth has been discovered and developed, and in the face of this the Whitney Government sits tight and milks the cow put there by the Ross Government. They cannot put another one in the stable any better than those already put there by the Ross Government, so they milk those that are there, until they derive over a million dollars from it. If it were not for the mines in the back country I am afraid we would not be able to meet expenditures, which have increased over one hundred per cent. It is time that the West Riding of Peterborough sent a live man to Parliament, to wake up the present Government, if not the people.

The administration of justice came in for a scathing denunciation at the hands of Mr. McFarlane. "The present system is rotten," he declared; even the Conservative supporters, themselves, are denouncing the Government for its failures in this respect. The speaker also touched on the Workmen's Compensation Act. A few week before the election Sir William Meredith is told to get busy and foster up a bill to be presented at the next sitting of the House, to amend this Act, which has been given to the workmen, in the form of a lemon, and is a flagrant disregard of their rights. Any man who is in any way maimed or injured during the course of his labours, is a monetary loss to the State, and any act that would lessen the risk will be of great benefit to the community at

A VERY EARLY SNOW BLOCKADE

Examiner Special.

LINDSAY, ONT., NOV. 13.—Sunday morning the rain descended in torrents, but before night had settled a fierce wind storm, accompanied by snow flurries, swept across the country, and it was decidedly cold. At Haliburton snow fell to a depth of several inches, but at Kinmount, twenty miles away, snow fell to a depth of two feet, the result being that the Grand Trunk train to Lindsay was stalled this morning, and was one hour and a half late. It is one of the earliest snow blockades on record in this part of the country.

BOY IS MISSING

Eleven-Year-Old Lindsay Youth Left His Home Last Week and No Trace of Him is Found

FATHER ANXIOUS

Lindsay Warder.)

Mr. John Taylor, of number one hundred and five Lindsay street, has lost his little boy Alvin. The boy left home on Wednesday morning to attend school in the south ward and since that time has not been seen by his parents.

The little fellow is about eleven years of age and was of good habits, always at home at night, and attentive to study.

The boys' father can assign no reason for his absence, as the most amicable feeling existed between the parent and his only boy. Particularly good care was given the youth by his father owing to the sad fact that the lad's mother died some years ago and for that reason his wants have been catered to in all respects that would tend to grant him most comforts; pocket money, clothes, everything which boyhood years demand, is granted by his indulgent parent.

Why did little Alvin Taylor run away amidst all those cheerful and pleasant surroundings? This is the mysterious part of the story. The heart-broken father said, "My little boy and I were speaking to each other on the eve of his departure concerning the hypnotist McEwen, who was in town."

The boy had been to the show the previous night and was explaining to his father how the king of entertainers amused the audience. The boy believed in hypnotism, it was obvious, and said, "Father, the boys on the stage were trying to place the tips of the index finger together like this (showing the way), but through influence exerted by the hypnotist, were unable to do so."

The fond father remonstrated with his son for his credulity in what he considered a fake, and a slight difference of opinion arose which so aggravated the feelings of the boy that he left home and has not been seen by his parent since.

Should anyone see the little chap they can communicate with his father and confer a lasting favour upon him.

Tag Day Campaign of Children's Aid Society Resulted in Securing of Splendid Amount

The Tag Day campaign of the Children's Aid Society on Saturday, thanks to good weather, energetic and persevering tag-girls, capable supervisors and adequate preparations, and above all to the generosity of the people of Peterborough was a most gratifying success and resulted in a substantial amount to be devoted to the work of the society. From the sale of tags on Saturday, $1339.93 was raised, and with the addition of $119.70, collected in the schools on Friday and a donation of $8.75 from the Trades and Labour Council, which the Society gratefully acknowledges, the amount is $1,468.38. Last year the amount secured was $1,276.43, so that the 1911 campaign was considerably more successful. The seventy-five girls and the ladies who supervised the work, are to be congratulated upon the splendid success they attained Saturday. The money will be of great assistance to the society in carrying on their commendable work. Following is a list of the sums contained in the different boxes:

THE INTERNATIONAL HARVESTER CO'Y WILL EMPLOY 130 HANDS IN PETERBORO' FACTORY

Mr. C. J. Camfield, Superintendent, Makes Important Announcement to the Examiner To-day---Will Soon Be Opened.

Mr. C. J. Camfield and family, of Auburn, N.Y., are in the city, guests at the Oriental. Mr. Camfield is the Superintendent of the old Canadian Cordage Co's. establishment, recently taken over by the International Harvester Co. Mr. Camfield will be the official representative of the Company in this city. He was busily engaged this afternoon securing a residence, while, in the meantime, his family are remaining at the Oriental. Mr. Camfield has only been in Canada two days, and expressed himself, as being thoroughly delighted so far.

"When do you expect to have the local factory ready for business?" asked the reporter.

"Just as soon as we possibly can," he replied. "We are almost sure to have it going inside four weeks, and sooner, if possible, as we are desirous of getting things going."

"How many employees will be required?"

"About 130 people will be employed, and probably more. I am not in a position to give very definite information about the business yet, not having been here long."

Mr. Camfield further intimated that the machinery at present in the factory will be used, but renovation of the entire interior will be necessary. As before stated, binder twine will be exclusively manufactured.

The International Harvester Co. have large plants throughout Canada and the United States, and at present there are indications of a prosperous future for Peterborough's branch of the business.

ST. THOMAS, ONT., NOV. 13.—License Inspectors, hotel keepers, and police are up in arms this morning demanding an immediate investigation of the statements made in the sermon yesterday of Rev. In other places, he said, crap and gambling were carried on openly.

8 BOXES CURED PSORIASIS

Mrs. Nettie Massey, Concocon, Ont., writes: "Three doctors described my trouble as psoriasis, and one said I could never be cured. I can hardly praise this Ointment enough."

The Modern Pharaoh Hardens His Heart Against The Workingman

The other day Arthur Balfour resigned his high place as leader of the Unionist party in the British House of Commons because he was getting old, and he doubted whether he had the elasticity of mind to meet the new problems of the day.

Hardening of the brain is quite as dangerous in statesmen as softening of the brain is in other people.

Sir James Whitney is getting old. Mr. Whitney's Government is getting old. It shows all the symptoms. It is in the rut. It has the hardening of the brain that Arthur Balfour dreaded. Also it has hardening of the heart—toward the workingman.

In nothing does the Whitney Government show this hardening of the brain and the heart more than in The Workingman's Compensation Act. It hasn't done a thing to it in seven years.

The Whitney Government goes in for a flashy power scheme that builds up the Niagara Peninsula at the expense of Peterborough and other parts of the Province; it encourages Toronto departmental stores to advertise their mail order business on the school books, to the disadvantage of the local merchants; it cuts off the Model Schools, where the workingman's son or daughter could prepare to be a school teacher at small expense; it sets its face against any kind of tax reform that would permit the poor man to build a house without adding unduly to his burdens. Its best friend couldn't call it a workingman's government. It has no use for the workingman except on election day, and then carriages and automobiles are none too good to carry his vote.

But day in and day out the Whitney Government does mighty little for the workingman. Its traditions and leanings are all the other way.

The Ontario Workingman's Compensation Act is far behind the compensation acts of England, Germany, and other European countries. In this New World, where liberty is supposed to flourish, we should be far ahead of Old World attempts to give the workingman a square deal. But we are not. This banner Province of Ontario should be setting an example to all the other provinces in advanced labour legislation. But it isn't.

What Ontario wants is a Workingman's Compensation Act, 1911 model, easy running, no intricate parts to get out of order, and inexpensive to keep up.

A Workingman's Compensation Act that pays the money over without trouble or expense, pays it over to the last cent, without hold backs or deductions.

It is not a hard matter to frame a frictionless, inexpensive Workingman's Compensation Act like that, but the Whitney Government will never do it, because it favours the employing classes.

The only way to get an up-to-date, made-to-order Workingman's Compensation Act is to put a Liberal Government in power, or make Sir James Whitney's Opposition so strong that he will be forced to get busy, or lose his job.

Mr. Hall has the right idea. Make the Act "so that "full and ample damages may be given to the workman or "the family on account of any injury he may sustain in the "course of his employment, and without a law suit."

[illegible] HAD AN ADVENTURE WITH WOLVES

The Black Creek Hunting party had a very successful outing. The Club which consisted of L. D. Letellier, J. Loucks, and the well-known insurance agent, Jos. Rogers, were joined on their way out to the bush, by Ed. Nolan of Bridgewater, and two well-known hunters, the Le Tendres, father and son. The party secured their full legal complement of deer and had many exciting incidents. The event of the hunt, however, was an adventure that befel Mr. Rogers. The latter was waiting peacefully, on a runway for a deer to appear, when he was rudely shocked to find himself facing two savage-looking grey wolves. Of course he had an attack of buck fever, and made a rapid trip to camp, without even looking back to see where the wolves were going. Next day, however, when Mr. Rogers was again on the runway, one of the wolves put in a second appearance, and this time the huntsman placed a bullet where it would do the most good.

INVADING THE COUNTRY.

Mr. R. R. Hall, the Liberal candidate, and, so far as his advance platform is concerned, the candidate of the people's rights, will open his country campaign on Thursday evening, November 16th, the same date as the opening of Parliament. He will address the electors at May's school house on the 16th, and on the following night at the Town Hall, Monaghan. It is desirable that the electors should be out in force. They will learn something to their advantage. Those who have been labouring under the delusion that the Whitney Government had done something more than boast of its good administration, will be undeceived.

MUST BE REMEDIED.

According to the commissioner of the Toronto Star, as pointed out by the London Advertiser, the town of Rockland, Ont., has 50 children in its English school and 500 in its bilingual school. The English school furnishes more pupils to the high school of that own than the ten times that number of pupils in the bilingual school. This is an example of what Bishop Fallon protests against. We don't see how children speaking only French may be taught in any other tongue, but many thousands of them are leaving the bilingual schools of Ontario without a working knowledge of English, and evidently very few of them are able to pass the high school entrance examinations. These defects must be remedied in the interests of the French Canadians, themselves, who, under the present defective administration of the bilingual schools, are handicapped by being improperly and deficiently educated in English, though naturally they are as clever as their English-speaking neighbours.

TAG DAY SUCCESS.

It is a pleasure to note that public appreciation of the excellent work being done by the Children's Aid Society is growing. This year the tag-day enterprise has netted considerably more than last year, some $200. Last year the total collections amounted to $1,267, and this year the figures are $1,468. While tag-day permits everybody to contribute according to the measure of his, or her, means, and enlists general liberality and interest in a most commendable work, it appears that those who should most heartily respond, do not do so. It is stated that there was not any general anxiety of disposition on the part of the farmers, who visited the market, to contribute. This may have been due to an idea on their part, that, since the Children's Shelter and the administrative machinery of the Society are in Peterborough, it is a city enterprise. This is not the case. It is a well-known fact that the majority of the children rescued by the Society come from the country districts. At present there are nine inmates in the Shelter. Of these six are from the country and three from the city—an example of the general condition; and it is safe to say that of the children rescued and sheltered, between 70 and 75 per cent. are supplied by the country. This would indicate that the country districts should contribute the more largely. But this does not occur; therefore, in default of the people in the rural districts responding liberally, it might be suggested that it is the duty of the County Council to make a substantial grant in the interests of the funds of the Society.

But this would not be necessary if the Whitney Government did its duty, which it does not do in this regard. The present Dominion member for West Peterborough, and the Provincial member know, from humiliating experience, how a proposal to have the Government aid the Society, was received. They can tell how Sir James Whitney, in his usual brusque, repellant, and unsympathetic manner, figuratively smapped their heads off. The Whitney Government is unsympathetic and unprogressive in relation to any enterprise, or cause, that is the least shade out of routine, or red tape, and that savours in the slightest way of recognition of popular rights, or tends to deny the despotic prerogatives of the Autocrat of Queen's Park. A sensible reduction of Sir James Whitney's big majority that enables him to club the public into submission to his will, right or wrong, would bring him to his senses. A little parliamentary blood-letting would do him good.

AUTOCRATIC.

Sir James Whitney is responsible for the feeling that sometimes comes over Ontario people ,that they are living in Russia. He is a veritable autocrat, and will continue to play the petty tyrant if the people will let him do so. He is the whole government. If the people demand a reform it is "too absurd for comment," and he proceeds to smash it. It must be pretty evident that this is a correct estimate of his official character ,when his own friends, his own journals, who have supported him through thick and thin, are at last forced, by the attitude of Sir James, himself to call attention to it. Here is what the Ottawa Citizen, dyed-in-the-wool Conservative, says upon this point in relation to Sir James Whitney's relation to tax reform. The Citizen says:

> The premier also takes exception to the proposal made by the Ottawa Journal, the Hamilton Spectator, the Toronto Globe, Toronto Saturday Night, the Citizen, and other important provincial newspapers, that candidates for the approaching provincial elections should be pledged to support legislation giving municipalities local option in taxation. This opposition by Sir James is consistent with his previous stand on this question. As long as the premier believes that he alone shall be the judge of what is, or is not, in the best interests of the different municipalities of Ontario in the matter of taxation, he should oppose the proposition of any member pledging himself to the electors of his constituency to support legislation which the majority of that constituency seem to desire. Any member so doing, although bowing to the wishes of the electors of his constituency, would be interfering with the divine right of the prime minister of this province who seems to hold the opinion that members of the legislature should be elected to represent him and not their constituents! How dare any municipality, by pledging its members-elect to definite legislation, intimate its desire for its own good to the provincial premier! To the tower with them!

THE REAL OBJECT.

It is all very well for individual candidates ,supporting the Whitney government, proclaiming their hostility to bilingual schools. But their declarations are mere personal expressions of opinion and are bound to remain so, so long as the Whitney government, by their neglect and incompetence, make bilingual schools merely schools in which English is not taught, or properly and effectively taught. The object of bilingual schools is to promote the teaching of the English language, and if this is lost sight of, bilingual schools are a failure ,and have no proper place in our educational system in Ontario. It is evident that in communities where children know how to speak only the French or German or other foreign language, that a knowledge of such foreign language on the part of the teacher, added to his knowledge of English, is necessary to assist foreign speaking children to acquire a knowledge of English, the only knowledge recognized in schools supported by the state. This, it is shown, the bilingual schools as now constituted, and administered do not do.

Is it reasonable to demand the abolition of bilingual schools altogether? Is it not better to make them effective and thereby promote the acquirement of a knowledge of English by children speaking only a foreign tongue? To return to the promises made of hostility to bilingual schools. As remarked, candidates may glibly promise death to bilingual schools, but it is only a formality when the government of which they are candidates, have no policy except a policy of indifference or neglect in regard to these schools. The indifference of Premier Whitney is translated into favour to bilingual schools, especially in their most defective form—the inability or neglect to teach English. If these schools, under the Whitney government, did not discourage the teaching of English, and promoted the teaching of French, would the more extreme advocates of the predominance of the French language in Quebec pronounce so strongly in favour of Sir James Whitney and the attitude of his educational administration towards them. Mr. Armand Lavergne, the red Nationalist, lieutenant of Mr. Bourassa, "is confident that Sir James Whitney and Mr. Borden will stand the champions of our rights and privileges," which, he declares, gives the French "the right of bilingual schools in all the provinces of the Dominion" and he adds, "they never will be abolished." The Conservative journal, L'Evenement, Quebec, denounces the Ontario leader of the Liberal party, and opproves strongly of Sir James Whitney's attitude towards bilingualism, and predicts that he will overcome "the party of prejudice," and be returned "by as big a majority as Mr. Borden secured in Ontario on Sept. 21."

There is no objection to the British-hating Nationalists and extreme philo-French journals, if they choose to so amuse themselves, patting Mr. Whitney on the back on the head of his attitude towards bilingualism. But there is a significance in such approval, which some of Sir James Whitney' supporters cannot ignore. If, from their point of view, a bad man approves one one's course on any particular subject, the inference is that one measures up to the bad man's standard.

The point to be borne in mind is that the Liberal attitude towards the English language in the schools is the patriotic and the best in the interests of the children and the future men and women of our French fellow citizens. There is no hostility to bilingual schools except as they are neglected and kept short of their object. The object is to give in connection with our public schools the opportunity to every Ontario boy or girl, the best means of learning the English language, to make the bilingual schools effective so that the children of French parents, who speak no English, may be given the chance to learn the English language and so place them on a par, in regard to making his or her way in the world, with English speaking boys and girls. The bilingual schools, as well as the English-speaking schools, have gone to seed under the neglect and mal-administration of the Whitney government, and the object is to bring about a radical reform of methods in educational administration.

A COMMON MISUNDERSTANDING.

(Montreal Herald.)

In comment upon a recent marriage between a Protestant and a Catholic, performed in this city by a Protestant minister, a paragraph has been going the rounds of the Ontario and Maritime press declaring that "under the laws of Quebec, as interpreted by the judges of the courts of that province this marriage is invalid."

This is a common misunderstanding of the situation. There is no judicial decision on record in this province regarding the legal validity of a "mixed" marriage. The Hebert case, where the marriage was annulled, concerned two Catholics who were married by a Protestant minister and involved a different point of law. It is true that the Catholic church regards a marriage of any Catholic invalid unless performed by a Catholic clergyman, but the law of Quebec has not given this decree legal status. In fact a case of that kind has not yet come before the courts for decision.

IS THIS A FREE COUNTRY?

(Toronto Star)

Mr. R. R. Mowbray, who was nominated in May last, and took an active part in the recent Dominion general elections, in resigning, explained that in advocating reciprocity he had antagonized certain powerful interests in the riding, and that he believed it would be better to have as a candidate one who was free from that objection.

This is an extract from the report of the meeting for the nomination of a Liberal candidate in South Ontario. Mr. Mowbray acted fairly by his Liberal friends in retiring so as not to leave them under a possible handicap. But the state of affairs which he reveals is one that ought to be deeply pondered by every lover of free institutions. The powerful interests—the manufacturers and bankers whom Mr. Mowbray antagonized—are not satisfied with using their influence to defeat a measure of freer trade, but they mark every man who dared to speak and fight for freedom, and tell him that he must not aspire to enter political life in any capacity. No one who offended them can be a candidate for the Legislature. They are out for revenge. Those who dared to disagree with them must be not only defeated, but destroyed.

Apart altogether from the question of reciprocity, apart from the party question, this attitude ought to be condemned by every lover of freedom, and of Canadian manhood. A man ought not to be excluded from public life because he has antagonized powerful interests. The Oshawa incident brings out into strong relief Mr. Rowell's advocacy of measures, to regulate trusts and mergers, to compel the publication of campaign funds, and to punish corporations which interefere in elections.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The boast of the Conservative journals that Hon. Robert Roger had settled the Alberta coal strike by a wave of his magic wand, was premature. The strike is not settled and many a cold day is the prospect of the people of Alberta.

Users of cement will be pleased with the statement issued on behalf of the Canadian Cement Company, that there is to be a reduction in the price of cement. It will b admitted that a sensible reduction in price will not be to the prejudice of public interests.

STRONG CRITICISM

large, and not to the workingman alone. It is a safe guess that no matter which side of the House Mr. Hall sits on, he will be instrumental in waking up some of the dead bones in Quen's Park.

The Power Question.

Mr. Hall, on being called upon to speak, imparted some interesting information concerning that much-talked-of "Power Question."

In his remarks, he stated that when he and his colleagues organized the Otonabee Power Company, about ten years ago, there were only about 500 householders using electric light in the City of Peterborough. The price was so high that it was a luxury that only could be enjoyed by those of moderate wealth and extravagant tastes.

When the Company announced that they would cut the price in two and even lower, and when they announced that they would supply power to factories at from $10.00 to $15.00 per horse power, many people declared that the Company could not succeed. But Mr. Hall took the ground that it was better to have the power sold at some price and a revenue obtained therefrom, than that the water should flow unused over the dam and the electric power to be derived therefrom, allowed to run to waste.

The policy adopted by the Otonabee Company forced its competitors to adopt the same policy, and hence we find to-day that instead of there being only 500 householders using electric light in the city, there are about 4,000 householders lighting their houses with electric light. "The price was reduced," said Mr. Hall, "to such a low price, that it had ceased to be a luxury, and now we find that nearly every home in the City is lit with electric light."

Cost of Street Lighting.

It will further be found, continued the speaker, that on account of the Otonabee Company tendering for street lighting the city during this last ten years, has saved fully $20,000.00 in the cost of lighting our streets. "I challenge the Review," declared Mr. Hall, "to name any city or town in Ontario, in Canada, or in the United States, where such a large percentage of the householders use electric light, as they do right here in the City of Peterborough." It ill becomes the Review to sneer at private enterprise. Moreover, whenever the City Council requests the Government to permit the Otonabee Company to develop more power, it will be found that they are prepared to do so and place 500 horse power at the disposal of the city, at $15.00 per horse power, to attract new industries and, besides, the Company will use its best endeavours to do the same, and as an evidence of their good faith, will expend upwards of a quarter of a million dollars, without any assistance from the City, or the Government ,in future electrical development works.

Mr. Peck on Power.

Mr. Peck, in his address to the electors, says: "A large amount of power is now in process of development, along the Trent System, and "it is of deep importance to the City of Peterborough that a substantial "portion of this should be made available to power users in the city at "reasonable rates." That is precisely what has been done, and is being done without the aid of the Hydro-Electric Commission. But it will be seen that Mr. Peck makes no pledges that cheaper power will be obtained, nor does he indicate any scheme whereby it can be done.

Hon. Adam Beck and Lindsay.

About two months ago the town of Lindsay had a proposition of a definite character from the Hon. Adam Beck, if they would only pass a by-law to take power from the Hydro-Electric. His scheme was roundly denounced at a public meeting, by Mr. J. D. Flavelle, and other leading Conservatives of Lindsay. No doubt, they had in mind the treatement that fourteen municipalities in Western Ontario received, when they voted on by-laws to take power at a certain price, and an Act was passed in the Legislature, in the face of their protests, compelling them to take the same power at an increased price, and on more onerous terms. In the result the electors of Lindsay defeated the Beck power scheme by over 700 majority. Let Mr. Peck bring forward some feasible and practical scheme before he finds fault with what has been done, and what is being done by existing companies, which are under the control of the railway Commission with ample power to regulate their rates.

Workmen's Compensation Act.

Mr. Peck, in his address, says "a "new measure has been under consideration of the present Government for some time." He might have added that it has been under their consideration for seven years and that nothing has been done. Mr. Peck says "the Act, in my opinion, is defective in several respects," and yet the Whitney Government has permitted these defects to continue for seven long years to the detriment of every injured workman during that period. Then he refers to two or three legal quibbles that employers have used to beat the honest workman out of his compensation for the injury he has received. He might have referred to other legal quibbles that should be remedied in the interests of the workman. Why has the Whitney Government permitted this sate of affairs to continue for seven years? He says he Government has appointed an eminent judge "to prepare a Bill ,dealing with this question," but he does not indicate whether that Bill will be for the better, or for the worse, and neither does Sir James Whitney. So far as Mr. Peck is concerned, it is all fumes and vapour.

What Mr. Hall Proposes.

"This is in marked contrast," said Mr. Hall, "to the changes which I "propose to make. The Workman's "Compensation Act should be radically remodelled and extended, so "that full and ample damages may be "given to a workman, or his family, "on account of any injury he may "sustain in the course of his employment. Then the workman, or his "family would not be called upon to "fight an expensive law suit in the "courts with a wealthy corporation, "and be dragged from one Court of "Appeal to another, with evident advantage, in the long run, to the "longest purse, or else be compelled "to accept a mere pittance for the injury sustained."

Bilingual Schools.

Mr. Peck, in his address, further says: "I state here that I consider "the children in the Province are entitled to receive such an education "that they will think and speak in "English, and have a thorough command of that language. Not merely "is this the intention of the existing "law, but in the interests of the children, this must be insisted upon."

Why has not the Whitney Government, for the past seven long years carried out the intention of "existing law"? Why has the Whitney Government permitted, for this last seven years, 2,000 people a year to be added to our population who cannot speak a word of English? What guarantee have we got that in the future they will carry out "the existing law," or any other law relating to the teaching of the English language? What can one expect from a Government that does not even enforce the criminal law? Dr. Beatty Nesbitt was allowed to loot the Farmers' Bank and escape punishment. Mr. Sol. White, a Conservative M. P., declares that "in the Western portion of the Province, murders are committed, and no real attempt is made to catch the criminals." Even the Factories Act is not enforced. The fact is, the people have no confidence in the Whitney Government making any honest attempt to enforce the "existing law" and in seeing that every child in the Province has a thorough knowledge of the English language. Mr. Peck, in his address, suggests no remedy at all, but seems to be satisfied with giving a written pledge to one portion of the community, and a wholly different pledge to the general electorate. This makes one wonder how many pledges he has given, respecting bilingual schools.

True Remedy.

In proposing a true remedy, Mr. Hall said it was a disgrace to the Whitney Government that our French Canadian fellow citizens are being deprived of the advantage of learning the English language and afterwards handicapped in earning a livelihood in an English-speaking province. It is the duty of the Government to train up a special body of teachers, having the necessary knowledge and skill to teach children the English language along with their elementary education.

New Ontario.

The Whitney policy for the development of New Ontario, is condemned by friend and foe, alike. The speaker said he would not give this condemnation in his own words, but he would use the words of a well-known Conservative journal—the Toronto Telegram:

> The late Hon. Rip Van Winkle

VARSITY STADIUM, NOV. 11. — The final match of the Inter-collegiate Rugby Union was played here this afternoon between Varsity and Ottawa College under a leaden sky, which every minute threatened to turn into a rain storm. The cloudy sky had little or no effect on the crowd, which was of record size and by far the largest of the season.

After the kick-off, Cornellier kicked to Ramsay at his ten yards and on the first down, Varsity lost the ball for interference. Cornellier kicked over the Varsity goal line to Green, who was downed for a rouge. Ottawa 1, Varsity 0.

Varsity lost ball for offside interference on the first down and the College for the first time tried a run. They were thrown back for a loss, but got the ball directly in front of Varsity goal. Cornellier tried for a field goal and missed, but Green was downed for a rouge First quarter, Ottawa 2, Varsity 0.

Second Quarter.

Ottawa tried to buck without result and Cornellier booted to Ramsay at Varsity's 50 yard line. Varsity then pulled off one of their very spectacular runs. Campbell to Maynard to Ramsay to Greene, the ball being carried to Ottawa's 15 yard line. Varsity failed in an attempt to buck it over, but Cornellier was forced to rouge on Greene's kick over the line for Varsity's first point. Ottawa 2, Varsity 1.

Varsity made a second point when Ramsay ran the ball back to the Ottawa 25 yard line, where he was knocked out by a solid smash on the jaw. After he recovered he punted over the goal line to Heffernan who was rouged by Sinclair, tieing the score. Ottawa 2, Varsity 2.

Campbell made a ten yard gain on a criss cross and when Greene punted over to Sheehy he was downed for a rouge, putting Varsity in the lead for the first time. Ottawa 2, Varsity 3. Half time score.

Third Quarter.

Ottawa College had the kick-off, which went to Ramsay, who passed to Maynard on the run. Maynard then made a bad pass to Greene. The ball bounded on the ground and Gilligan picked it up and went over for an easy touchdown, which Sheehy failed to convert. Ottawa 7, Varsity 3.

Varsity continued to press and bucked to Ottawa's 25 yard line, where Greene punted to the Ottawa goal line. The ball bounded loose and Greene, following up his own kick, secured possession and went over for a touchdown, which Maynard converted, while the crowd cheered wildly. Ottawa 7, Varsity 9.

Varsity lost the ball for offside interference five yards out and held Ottawa for downs. Varsity getting the ball by a yard. Green kicked on the first down to Sheehy, who muffed and Varsity got the ball. It was officially ruled that Sinclair did not give Sheehy yards and Ottawa was given possession a yard out. Heffernan fell across the Varsity goal line for a touchdown on first down. Sheehy failed to convert. Ottawa 12, Varsity 9.

The next score came when, on Varsity's down, Ramsay bucked over for a touchdown, which Maynard failed to convert. Ottawa 12, Varsity 14.

Cornellier kicked on the first down to Maynard ,who was downed inside his 25-yard line just at three quarter time. Ottawa 13, Varsity 14. Three-quarter time

Fourth Quarter.

Greene kicked on the first down to Cornellier who was downed on his own 25 yard line. Ottawa tried an onside kick and Hassard got the ball. He passed to Taylor, who carried the ball 15 yards and Greene punted to the dead ball line for a point. Ottawa 13, Varsity 15.

An offside gave Varsity the ball 20 yards out. Heffernan and Maynard were hurt, but both continued. Maynard's ankle was turned in going after a ball. Greene tried an onside kick and a rouge resulted. Ottawa 13, Varsity 16.

Varsity secured ball 35 yards out, and after gaining their yards on bucks, Greene tried for drop goal, but missed. Sheehy was forced to rouge however. Ottawa 13, Varsity 17.

Varsity was pressing the play and Cornellier kicked to Ramsay at Varsity's forty yard line. Ramsay returned a punt to Cornellier, who fumbled and the ball rolled over the Ottawa goal line. Rusty Bell was on the top of the play and fell on the ball for a touchdown which Maynard converted. Ottawa 13, Varsity 23.

In an exchange of punts, Killian muffed twenty yards out and MacDonald secured the ball, and went over for another Varsity touch down which Maynard failed to convert.—Ottawa 13, Varsity 29, and the game ended.

The students carried Captain Maynard off the field on their shoulders and then went down town on a street parade, to celebrate the victory.

SURPRISE FOR THE TIGERS

Examiner Special:

MONTREAL, Q., NOV. 11.—The surprise of to-day's great rugby contest was the defeat of the Hamilton Tigers by Montreal. The Jungle Kings were defeated fourteen to seven. The biggest crowd of the season attended. The Tigers scored the first point when McKelvie booted over the line and Brophy rouged in the first five minutes of play. In the second quarter after spectacular playing by Savage and Brophy, a goal from field was dropped by Brophy, placing Montreal in the lead. From then on, Montreal completely outplayed the Tigers, pulling off long runs and amassing high scores. The scores by quarters:

Tigers	1	0	4	2	7
Montreal	0	3	6	5	14

ARGOS WON AT OTTAWA

Examiner Special:

OTTAWA FOOTBALL GROUNDS, OTTAWA, ONT., NOV. 11.—To-day ten thousand people turned out, confident that Ottawa could not lose, and that the Rough Riders would battle their way into a Big Four tie-up by beating the leaders to-day. The conditions were ideal for football.

Shortly after the kick-off, Argos recovered on an offside and punted to Ottawa's twenty yard line. From there Binkley punted over to McCann, who rouged. Argos 1, Ottawa 0. A long punt by Mallet put the play on the Ottawa line but they punted again. Binkley again missed a drop kick, but Johnson was forced to rouge. Argos 2, Ottawa 0.

Gerrard punted to Lawson, who took it on the fly and ran it to Ottawa's forty yard line. Binkley missed a drop over goal, but Gerrard was forced to rouge by O'Connor. Argos 3, Ottawa 1.

McLaughlin's failure to give Lawson yards on a punt, gives Argos the ball 40 yards from Ottawa's line. Binkley again failed on a field goal, but Robertson was forced to rouge by O'Connor.

Half-time score, Argos 4, Ottawa 1.

The game started as if it were going to be rough, but before they had been playing long both sides found out they had enough to do and cut out rough stuff. On an exchange of punts, Lawson was downed on his own goal line, just as the third quarter ended. Score, Argos 7; Ottawa 1.

Fourth Quarter.

Argos secured a loose ball and Wigle bucked for a nice gain. It was now too dark for fair football and Ottawas got busy delaying the game. Mallett followed up his own punt over the scrimmage line, and carried it to Ottawa's twenty-five yard line Gale and Wigle bucked it up 5 yards. Mallett punted to Gerard, who was downed by O'Connor for a rouge; Argos, 8; Ottawa, 1; which resulted in the final score of the game.

RUGBY

Campbell's passing and tackling attracted attention throughout the contest. Varsity has had many good quarters, but Campbell is as good as any of them. Ramsay was also prominent.—Toronto Globe.

Heffernan, the husky flying wing of the College team, was the most conspicuous ground-gainer on the losing side. He smashed through the Varsity line on a number of occasions, and was only brought down by hard tackles.—Toronto Globe.

For the Alerts, Becker and Fickley, on the back division, were conspicuous, but Ross Craig was the star of the field. His line plunging was responsible for many of Alerts' gains, and was the best of its kind of work that has been seen here this season. It was due to his efforts in the last few minutes of play that a try was scored and the game "cinched" for his team. It was then that Ross Craig showed his ability as a line-plunger. He was given the ball and all the support the team could muster, and seldom failed to make a gain. This transferred the play to T. A. A. C. territory and a single point was scored on a kick to the deadline. Again Craig battered the line and by dint of hard work managed to get the ball within striking distance. He was given the ball again about ten yards out and broke through the five points, making the final score 13 to 11.—Toronto Globe.

slept for twenty years amid the peaks of the Catskill mountains, and was offered nothing but a cold potato when he woke up.

The living Hon. Frank Cochrane slept for six and a half years amid the possibilities of the Temiskaming country, and was made first Minister from Ontario when he was translated without ever waking up.

Ontario is not entitled to indict the Cochrane administration on the complaint that the prospector or miner is not in the North. The prospector was sure to get there, the gold hunter could not be kept away. The deep damnation of Hon. Frank Cochrane's showing after six and a half years of supremacy is that the priceless man, the farmer, Mr. Cochrane has never put there on fertile acres that will be glorious with farms when gold is no more and silver is forgotten.

The Whitney Government reserves a half mile on both sides of the National Transcontinental Railway running through the rich clay belt in Northern Ontario, and the result is that the settler has to out and build a road a half mile into the woods and away from the railway, before he can reach the land upon which he is permitted ot locate. Who will get the half mile near the railway? Is it possible for a Government to adopt a policy more absurd? and which would open the door wider to political grafters to reap where the honest settler has sown?

Mr. Hall said it would be impossible for him ot see all the electors, personally, owing to the short time between now and the date of the election, and requested those present, and all his friends to leave no stone unturned in seeing that every voter is registered on the lists now being prepared. Those who registered last time will have to register this time.

In conclusion the speaker referred to the marked success which had attended the Tag Day campaign. "It reminded him," he said, of the occasion last year, when Mr. J. H. Burnham and Mr. T. E. Bradburn tagged the Whitney Government for $900 in aid of the C. A. S., and in reply received one of the well-known Whitney snubs. It was quite evident that Mr. Peck had no desire to try conclusions with Mr. Whitney this year, as regards a grant for the C. A. S., notwithstanding the fact that the movement was more popular, and had been strongly commended by the citizens of Peterborough.

The meeting then adjourned with cheers for the King, the candidate, and the Liberal party.

PETERBORO BOY SHAKES SHACK LIFE FOR WINTER

Mr. Percy Gilbert, worthily ambitious, as well as adventurous, is back from the west. He has been at Kindersley, Sask., this summer, doing settlement duties to make good a homestead claim; in other words, he has been holding down his job" to good advantage — he held it down 20 lbs. heavier at the end of the summer than at the beginning. This shows that bachelor life—living alone in a shack, baking ones own bread and cooking ones own food — justifies a claim to the healthful effects of the simple life. Mr. Gilbert is one of the hundreds who are leading a similar life—some in the winter; some in the summer, to make good their claim to a quarter section of the western garden of Eden. He has 50 acres of his homestead broken, and next summer will erect his residence—as prescribed by the homesteading regulation—to cost not less than $300. Mr. Gilbert, who arrived in the city on Saturday, will spend the winter in Peterborough or elsewhere, working at his other occupation, pattern-making. Next year he will be a full-fledged member of the class that "feeds us all."

RICHARD HALL & SON

KIT'S COLUMN

The women sat on the edge of a trunk in the attic surveying hats. Wrecked hats with the trimmings half torn off; small hats, good, but too low in the crown; wide hats—same as now, but not wide enough in the brim; hats bent at this angle and that, but never at the angle that was the mode of the moment. All these hats with the exception of one or two wrecks were good in material and make. They had cost money—lots of it—more than is healthy for the average purse. "There was that gray beaver, a sweet hat," said one, "trimmed with black velvet rosettes just touched with paddy green. Got it last season, but"—turning it about in her hand—"it's no good now. I took it to the milliner and she only laughed. 'We don't make over hats any more,' she said, just like that, as cool as you please, and turned to another customer. She hadn't paid eighteen dollars for it and worn it for just three months, had she?"

"You couldn't sell it, I suppose?"

"Sell it! The old clothes man might give me ten cents for it, and that would be such a help, wouldn't it? Besides, I never sell things." And she bundled them all, the gray beaver, the big blue velvet, the smart little toque, the broad-brimmed flowered hat of last summer, and three or four other shapes, back into the empty trunk again.

"That represents how much in real money?"

"Just $77.50 for seven hats," she replied, "and that's not much as hats go. One of these cost eight dollars, another nine, and that little knock-about five. The rest three dress hats and cost more."

"And you wore them how long?"

"Not a year," was the answer, "and every season it's getting worse. Only last week I got two hats, a small one for tailored wear which cost ten dollars, and a dress hat for fifteen. These will last till February or March, perhaps—perhaps not. It's just according to what change there is in the styles. You've got to be in fashion. A woman looks positively dowdy to-day in a hat that was the rage last spring, and no self-respecting woman wants to look that."

Not you, at any rate. I thought you are too young and pretty and hopeful for that.

"And Jim's salary never budges," she went on. "The cost of living may go up till it reaches the moon and styles may change every hour till we are all ready for the madhouse, but Jim's salary is a fixed star——"

"And that being so, don't you think you could do with——"

"Fewer clothes?" Not, and live," was the airy answer. "You know the old saying, 'As well be out of the world as out of fashion.' Oh, come on down to my room. I've got to get ready for the B.'s tea this afternoon, and I'm going to wear that darling old rose velvet and the big hat to match."

Poor Jim's salary! Poor Jim!

But what are you or the other women going to do about it? You can't or won't wear cheap hats. The table hat marked $1.98 doesn't appeal to the woman who cares to be a little exclusive and appreciates the value of individuality. No woman is quite at her ease who knows she is cheaply and commonly dressed. She is not happy, therefore she does not look her best. "How plain little Mrs. So and-so is growing!" you will hear someone say when the little woman is just as pretty as ever and is only suffering from the knowledge that she is ill-dressed and dowdy in last season's dyed-and-made-over street gown and one of Beeton's "your choice at $2.99" on her smart coiffure.

"My dear Jim, I simply must have a new gown and hat this season. I know you can't afford it, but there's simply no way out of it. Either that or sit all day in my kimono and sew on buttons. Don't blame me—Dame Fashion!"

And yet she is right. You cannot blame the individual woman. I see you rushing into print, my dear, assuring us you can dress altogether on that $77.50 a year, and offering to tell us how you do it. Very nice of you, am sure, but save yourself the trouble. I've tried it and I know. I have ripped a "last year's tailor-made" and had it dyed—a nice dark green it came out, too—and slipped and cut to the latest fashion and fresh lined and buttoned and the rest of it, but it had a dog-eared expression, an experienced air of having—like a landlady, "seen better days," that no cajoling with mere hands or buttons could induce it to drop. It looked like the splendid ruin that sometimes walks out of the dim beauty shop freshly painted and whitewashed. The sunlight found its cracks and seams and shabby places. The skirt used to flouncing about in pleats and ripples, had a shorn and hang-dog air as it clung round your boots for protection. The coat, roguishly shortened just above where the pockets were, looked like an old woman trying to be arch, while last year's hat, cozened into appearing a year younger than it ought to be, matched exactly the face under it. A sorry turn-out truly, and one in which you, my dear, young and pretty as you are, would not dream of exposing yourself to the ridicule of your dearest friend.

* * *

If, instead of rushing letters to the newspapers on how to live on twenty-five cents a day and dress on twenty-five dollars a year, women would band together to standardize clothes, after the fashion of men, it would help Jim's salary to better advantage. Why can we not have our garments cut to follow one style only? The fabric and decorations might be as expensive as the wishes plus the purse might dictate. A national or racial dress such as the Chinese and Japanese have might help a little. Suppose we kept the short, moderately narrow street dress which now prevails. It is light, easy, clean and pretty, and the coat that goes with it is all right too. Could not a sensible hat be evolved—one neither too wide or narrow, tall or flat—in fact, a standard hat after the fashion of men but not necessarily the same? Men wear their Christys and Panamas and toppers, as occasion calls for, irrespective of the effect upon their manly beauty. Is it possible for women to sink the question of becomingness into that of usefulness? If every woman wore the same shaped hat, the self-same style of clothes—in the way men do—there would be less time lost in adorning the person and some gained for the decoration of character. Moreover, larger freedom in dress would ittly meet the larger activities which nore and more are engaging women. The high heels would have to go The short narrow gown has been nade to serve the exploitation of anity in the matter of feet. Women otter about in high narrow heels unheeding the absurd note these add to heir appearance: unheeding, too—ir possibly ignorant of—the fact that valking on these shoe-stilts is most njurious to the eyesight as well as o the spine and nerves. But woman never did consider the necessities or preservation of her body when it ame to wearing modish clothes. Long ago girls slept in high, tight orsets and shoes two sizes too small or them. Woman squeezed her Venus de Milo twenty-five-inch-waist nto a nineteen-inch wasp-line. Today she releases her waist-line and eats the tattoo on the drum of her poor body. Naturally a wide-hipped being, she is so ashamed of these bodily accompaniments that she secrets them where nobody can find them. Her tender, womanly lines are covered with a stove-pipe which any day might increase in dimensions to the hoop.

Can't we stop? Can't we evolve one pretty, sane, neat style of dress and cling to it? Can't we standardize our clothes, wear boots that fit us, hats that are tame, not wild enough to strike the onlooker in the eye, and furs that are not all animal, claws and teeth and tail? In a word, can't we cease to be freakish and try to be sane, and can't we put our share of Jim's salary to better uses than whiffling it away in birds and beasts to wear upon our heads and hearts——"

Dear, dear! and all this time I've been gabbling with Madame le Diable waiting to try on that new gray velvet—such a darling gown, all silver and chinchilla! I wish you could see the hat I have to go with it—smoke velvet, grayish-white, not blue-smoke—with bands of the most exquisite guipure laid on flat, and a cluster of Duchess of Connaught carnations—those very deep, glowing blooms—in silk at one side. And such a hatpin, my dear—just a great beetle of jade touched with silver.

* * *

If people who are poked by umbrellas and pierced by hatpins were more outspoken in their expressions the evil might moderate. A lady walking up a crowded city street the other day was told in what Mr. Kipling calls "straight-flung words and few" that by her carelessness she had almost robbed a gentleman of his sight. She was walking with a friend under her umbrella when suddenly, without looking about her, she said, "The rain has stopped now," and swung the umbrella over her shoulder. The unfortunate pedestrian, who was just forging ahead of the strolling women, received the umbrella in his face, and but for a sudden jump to the right the point of the ribs would certainly have caught him in the eye. It was then he spoke words large and few, but of mighty import. Not only did he bid his tormentor "hence to Hades!" but after his first gorge had subsided he loitered on his way to read them a stiff lecture. There are hundreds of men and women who seem to lose all consciousness of city traffic as they pass along the streets swinging stick or umbrella about as though they were upon a country road. Nor is this the only danger. It is not uncommon to see people stepping on street cars with the point of an umbrella or hatpin threatening the eyes of all the other passengers. Such alarming weapons as sticks and umbrellas should be carried with the point downwards. As to hatpins! Their length should be limited by law.

A correspondent—evidently a bald-eyed person who appears to be excited over a par. in a beauty paper referring to a French method of attaching lashes to eyelids and hairs to eyebrows—writes to ask me if I think "the operation is feasible." Apparently it is, since it has been accomplished. The operator, it seems threads a needle with hair and sews on the decorations. It sounds a little painful, but probably it is no worse than a stitch in the side.

THE WEATHER

On Thursday and Friday the weather in the far Northwest and particularly at Medicine Hat, "where the weather for the continent is made," was very cold. As low as 20 degrees below zero was reached at some points. This cold wave began its travels eastward on Friday night and reached this vicinity yesterday afternoon, being preceded by rain and a high wind. Sunday morning the temperature went up to 60 degrees; at night it had fallen to below freezing point, and this (Monday) morning it stood at 18 degrees—the lowest point to date.—W. P.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

TO-DAY is the sixty-first anniversary of one of the most dearly loved men in the whole world of letters.

He left mankind at his death many beautiful stories and essays, but perhaps the best of all his legacies was the doctrine of the duty and beau tyof happiness, which he continually taught in his writings.

Mankind receives the doctrine at his hands the more willingly because he himself lived it. And lived it, moreover, despite tremendous obstacles of ill health and suffering. From the very date of his birth, Robert Louis Stevenson was shackled with ill-health. At the age of 23, just as he was about to take his examinations before the bar, he was peremptorily sent south for the winter, and from then until the day of his death at the age of forty-four, he was continually struggling to keep his health. The last six years of his life he was absolutely exiled from his native land, and suffered so from home-sickness that "there were times," says his biographer, "when he was even tempted to go back to the old life and the old friends were it only for a few weeks or even a few days. But he resisted temptation and fought manfully to the end."

The year before he died, he himself wrote, in a letter to a friend:

"For fourteen years I have not had a days' real health, I have awakened sick, gone to bed weary, and have done my work unflinchingly. I have written in bed and out of it, written in hemorrhages, written in sickness, written torn by coughing, written when my head swam from weakness; and for so long it seems to me I have won my wager and recovered my glove. I am better now—and still few are the days when I am not in some physical distress."

And this is the manner of life that this man endured who not only promulgated, but lived, the doctrine of the duty of happiness.

On this, the anniversary of his birth, I want to bring afresh to my reader a few of his expressions of that doctrine.

"There is no duty we so much underrate as the duty of being happy. By being happy, we sow anonymous benefits upon the world, which remain unknown even to ourselves. A happy man or woman is a better thing to find than a five-pound note."

"There is an idea abroad among moral people that they should make their neighbours good. One person I have to make good; myself. But my duty to my neighbour is much more nearly expressed by saying I have to make him happy if I may."

"To be honest, to be kind, to earn a little and to spend a little less; TO MAKE UPON THE WHOLE, A FAMILY HAPPIER BY HIS PRESENCE; to renounce when that shall be necessary and not to be embittered; to keep a few friends, but these without capitulation; above all, on the same grim condition to keep friends with himself — here is a task for all that a man has of fortitude and delicacy."

"The world is so full of a number of things
I'm sure we should all be as happy as kings."
"If I have faltered more or less
In my great TASK OF HAPPINESS,
If I have moved among my race
And shown no glorious morning face,
If beams from happy human eyes
Have moved me not, if morning skies,
Books and my food and summer rain
Knocked on my sullen heart in vain,
Lord, Thy most pointed pleasure take
And stab my spirit broad awake."

Winston Churchill's First Speech As First Lord Of The Admiralty

LONDON, Nov. 10.—At the Lord Mayor's banquet last night, Winston Spencer Churchill's first spech for the Navy as First Lord of the Admiralty stirred his audience. The Navy is strong, he declared, and ready instantly to put forth its strength. He paid a tribute to Admiral Lord Fisher of Kilverstone, who retired as Admiral of the Fleet this year, as the greatest naval lord of the century.

Mr. Churchill promised a reduction of the present abnormal expenditure without compromising national security It would be affectation, he said, to pretend that the sudden and rapid growth of the German Navy was not the main factor in Great Britain's vast expenditures.

Premier Asquith referred to the Moroccan settlement as a relief to Europe, for it removed perhaps the greatest obstacle to the msooth working of European diplomacy. Our own gratification at these happy results is none the less profound and sincere because we had been suspected in irresponsible quarters of looking coldly upon the negotiations, and even of a disposition to tamper with their success. The Premier declared, with great emphasis, that nothing could be further from the truth. There was no secret about the aims and methods of British policy. Where British interests were involved it was our business to safeguard them; where treaty obligations came in, it was our duty to fulfill them; where we established friendships and understandings, we sought to maintain them loyally and intact; but our friendships are neither exclusive nor jealous.

Broadens Peace Foundations

We have no cause to quarrel with any nation, nor, with such a history and Empire as our own, have we any disposition to curtail or fetter the natural and legitimate aspirations of others. We rejoiced sincerely in every settlement which removed upon honourable terms outstanding differences, which cleared the mists of misunderstanding from the international atmosphere, which broadened the foundations of peace and goodwill in Europe and the world at large. (Loud cheers.)

Confidence Given Colonies

By a happy coincidence, he said, the year of the coronation was marked by the first meeting of the Imperial Conference. For the first time representatives of the great dominions were admitted into full confidof our foreign policy, and surveyed together the strategic aspects of the Empire. We were able to come to a complete agreement concerning the reciprocal parts we were to take in the naval and military defence. The proceedings of the conference were marked by a significant advance in the policy of co-operation with centralization, which is growingly recognized to be the best safeguard of our Imperial unity and strength.

Strikes are Barbarous

At home during the year there had been a succession of troubles between labour and capital, which, in some cases, has led to a resort to the barbarous methods of industrial warfare. He said "barbarous" methods for war were a wasteful and cruel form of arbitrament in economics, none the less theirf in international spheres. He said nothing as to the rights and wrongs of these disputes, except that he believed none of them were incapable of reasonable agreement. The Government had not escaped criticism. He affirmed, however, that the attitude of the State should be an impartial attitude, but it could not, especially when the interests of others besides the combatants were involved, be an attitude of indifference. The Government had two clear duties to perform. It must exhaust all opportunities to provide machinery for conciliation, it must maintain order, prevent and punish violence, secure the public against stoppage of supplies and the suspension of indispensable services.

The Chinese Revolution

Looking abroad, he said, there was much to arouse anxiety. China was in the throes of revolution. It would be rash and improper to hazard an opinion on the outcome, but he was glad to say that so far as foreigners and British subjects were concerned, there seemed no reason to apprehend immediate danger. Ships had been sent to the principal scenes of disturbance merely for the protection of the British subjects and of other foreigners if they were unprotected. "We have no disposition to interfere in any way in the internal affairs of China," said Mr. Asquith, "we wish her a peaceful and progressive future."

The War in Europe.

"Nearer home, the peace of Europe is unhappily disturbed by the war between Italy and Turkey in regard to which we have declared and intend to pursue a policy of strict neutrality. Many have strongly desired that we should make an effort at mediation. None were more anxious than the Government, if fit opportunity arose. (Loud cheers.) Other powers share this desire. We are in constant communication with them in regard to this, and mediation is more likely to be fruitful coming jointly from the powers than would be the isolated action of one." (Cheers.)

Tribute to Balfour

Premier Asquith referred to Mr. Balfour as having "a personality so invaluable to his friends, so formidable to his foes, so interesting and attractive to friends and foes alike—such a unique combination of gifts and powers as made Mr. Balfour by universal consent the most distinguished member of the greatest deliberative assembly in the world." He believed many chapters in Mr. Balfour's life reamined to be written.

McDermid and Jury, local druggists, won the $10 prize offered by the D.D.D. Prescription Co., of Chicago. The winners had one chance in thousands, that is to say, there was only one prize offered in the Dominion. Y.M.C.A. NOTES

Two games of ball were played in the Junior class league on Saturday morning, when the Fairies were defeated by the Weary Willies. Score 5 to 4. The Stars also met defeat at the hands of the busy Beavers. Score 8 to 4.

The best game of the season on the local floor was the game in the Junior Collegiate Class League, between the Athletics and White Sox. The Athletics needed the game to make the league a three-cornered tie, and, after some real fast play on the part of both teams, the Athletics won. Score 23 to 12. The first game of the play-off will take place on Tuesday when the Athletics and Giants will meet, the winner will play the White Sox for the league championship.

The Intermediate Leaders Corps will meet to-night for floor work, at 6.45, and it is important that every man be in his place.

The second series of games in the Intermediate Basketball League will be played to-morrow night, when the Dimes and Shamrocks meet in the first game, and the Burglars will endeavour to steal the second game from the Hustlers.

SITUATION DESPERATE

CALGARY, ALTA., NOV. 13.—Despite the announcement some days ago that the striking miners of this province and of British Columbia had accepted the settlement effected by Hon. Robert Rogers, the men have not gone back to work and with the advent of early cold weather, the situation is getting desperate. There is little, or no coal on hand, and the mines have been idle for months. The proposals for settlement have to be submitted to referendum, which will take weeks, and then it is doubtful if settlement will be accepted. There is intense suffering in some parts.

SPLENDID MISSIONARY ADDRESSES AT GEORGE ST. METHODIST CHURCH

LARGE SUBSCRIPTIONS

The Missionary anniversary services in connection with the George street Methodist church were conducted yesterday by Rev. Dr. Armstrong, returned missionary from Japan, assisted by Rev. I. Couch, pastor of the church. Owing to the inclement weather, the morning service was only fairly well attended, but for the evening service there was a large congregation assembled. The message conveyed by the Rev. Dr. Armstrong proved most interesting, and the conditions of the far East, as outlined therein, greatly impressed the attentive audience. Special music of an appropriate character was rendered by the choir, and added much to the sacredness and impressiveness of the service.

Preliminary Remarks.

Rev. Dr. Armstrong chose his text from the latter part of the 4th verse of the 18th chapter of the 2nd Kings, "And He called it Nehushtan." "Prior to the main sermon, the rev. speaker gave some very interesting information regarding the missionary work he has been engaged in. "Less than forty years ago," he said, "if a man attempted to read or reach from the Bible in Japan or the eastern countries, he would be put in prison and in one generation, there are Japanese churches self propogated and self sustained, and in addition to this, the natives are doing missionary work in the heathen land of Corea. Last year there were 6,280 men and women added to the Christian church in Japan. In 1873, the missionary work was practically only begun, and in that short time we have the nucleus of a native church, which has made good, and promises to do so. From San Francisco, it is a comparatively short trip over to Japan, and I wish to take you on an imaginary trip there, and show you some of the customs of the natives, and what there is to look for in that far off country. But leave your prejudice behind. People seem to have a sort of hatred for the Oriental and its inhabitants." He then gave his text, and in the sermon which followed, endeavoured to show why the young people of the west should be more intersted and more willing to assist, in the evangilization of the East.

The Sermon.

"When you begin to teach your children to talk in the preliminaries of their education, do you give them Browning's works to study?" asked the Rev. Dr. Armstrong. "No. They begin with the A.B.C.'s. It is just the same with the heathen. Man learned in the great kindergarten of the world, and what applies to the knowledge of a race, applies to the religious nature of a race. Jews did not learn the truth in a day any more than the Japanese did. It is very difficult for the heathen Japanese to grasp the idea of a great God, being a spirit present everywhere at once in their primitive state, and if they are to be led, their leaders must have patience. In the ancient times, there was a Jewish people, who thought that God was at Jerusalem and no place else, and when they prayed, they always turned their faces toward the Holy City. Jesus had to teach them that there would be a day when God would be worshiped the world over. In Montreal last year, members of our sister church held out the cross and became enthusiastic over their religion and longed for the presence of the Lord to such an extent that they worshiped the cross as though it were the actual body of God. The children are often taught by showing them a picture of God, and no doubt they have the idea that God is exactly represented in the picture. In consideration of all this, we should not come down on the poor non-Christians too hard, if they worship images in the same manner as our people do the cross.

God has not been neglecting these people. Missionary work has been going on, and has been working out in the nations and in the fulness of time, God has opened up Japan, and the opportunity came to them to receive Christ.

In Japan.

"When you land in Japan," continued the speaker, "everything, of course, is strange, and when you hear the gabbling of the natives and the appearance of the surrounding, it is very discouraging, at least it was to me. As I walked up the street, the clatter of the wooden sandals of the natives rattling along over the stones, and the merchant going on with his curious song, seemed so awfully strange to me, when all at once a rooster crowed over the fence, and I was thankful that there was something familiar at any rate. The rooster inspired me, and after I got in touch with these men, and learned a smattering of the language, I was very much interested in them. We see the natives do things, that seem to us, very foolish, but knowing that Japanese are not a foolish race, we know that they must have some reason for their actions, so we must see things from their standpoint. The first thing that surprised me, was a native bowing over a mirror and washing out his mouth with some water from a little tray. I discovered, later, that in order to be in a condition to worship, they feel that they must be pure and wash as a result. In looking in the mirror they believe they are bowing before a diety. All that is dear to the nation, clings around that shrine. When a missionary tried to Christianize a woman, she said, 'They that know the ancient religion of Japan, know that there is no need of adopting any artificial religion.' We have some problems like that and we are forced to sympathise with them. The Japanese government has come to our aid, now, however, and it is a great assistance in every way. The question has been asked, "How can an intelligent Japanese worship idols?" There are very few to-day who worship wood and stone. They woship a fkure burning, with a rope in one hand and a sword in the other. We saw what a spirit of this sort was for, the time of the Russian war. The natives believed that, without this spirit, the young men could not succeed.

The speaker gave an illustration, where a merchant had an idol placed over the door of his establishment, and when asked as to the reason of its presence there, he stated that he felt an infinite power around him, and he hoped that when it saw the idol, it would understand the secret of his heart.

Continuing, he said: 'They are gradually rising out of the idolatory. "I wasin Japan the time of the Russian war, and from the outbreak of the war, they said they would win. They could not be persuaded otherwise. The man on the throne of Japan said: Strik the man who strikes your country, with all your might, but dont forget to love him"; and we saw this command carried out. Japanese soldiers in Japan the time of the Russian and after the war, prisoners who had been well treated, were sent home. All these years they have been searching after religion and they have you as the spiritual fulfilment of their wishes. But is Canada worthy to evangelize the land? In a patriotic way, we say yes, but let us consider it. A few years ago, the west accepted an army and a navy, but not Jesus Christ. We heard in Japan of the way their people were used in British Columbia. We heard of the way they were treated all over Canada, and I ask, 'Where is the Christian Canadian spirit, that will tolerate that?'

"The world's salvation rests upon you," concluded the speaker. "The responsibility weighs us down. You give your money, but you must give your lives. Money is all right in its place, and it plays a very important part in the evangelization of the east, because it is necessary, in order to carry on the work, but we must have men, young men, and we must have many. Young men, will you give your lives for the work? God help you to say you will."

Despite the inclemency of the weather, the subscriptions throughout the day were larger than ever before.

JUST READY TO DROP

When you are "just ready to drop" when you feel so weak that you can hardly drag yourself about—and because you have not slept well, you get up as tired-out next morning as when you went to bed, then you need help right away.

Miss Lea Dumas writes from Malone, N. Y., saying: "I was in a badly run-down condition for several weeks but two bottles of Vinol put me on my feet again and made me strong and well. Vinol has done me more good than all the othre medicine I ever took."

If the careworn, haggard men and women, the pale, sickly children and feeble old folks around here would follow Miss Dumas' example, they, too, would soon be able to say that Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron remedy, had built them up and made them strong.

It is a wonderfully strengthening and invigorating body-builder, and we sell it under an iron-clad guarantee of satisfaction. You get your money back if Vinol does not help you. McDermid and Jury, corner George and Charlotte streets; also Payne's drug store, corner George and Simcoe streets.

Game With Cigarette Cards

Games with the advertising cards from cigarette packages have been squelched in the city schools. The nurses informed the principals that boys were putting the cards in their mouths during the games, although the cards passed from mouth to mouth after having fallen on the ground repeatedly.

A game so unsanitary had to be forbidden in the school grounds, but the nurses report to the chief medical inspector that some of the school boys are yet playing the game on the streets after school hours.—Toronto Telegram.

Don't waste your money buying strengthening plasters. Chamberlain's Liniment is cheaper and better. Dampen a piece of flannel with it and bind it over the affected parts and it will relieve the pain and soreness. For sale by all druggists.

Sacred Heart Anniversary

The second anniversary of the opening of the church will be celebrated in the Sacred Heart church on Sunday next.

There will be three masses, at 7 o'clock, 8.30 and 10.30 respectively, and exposition of the Blessed Sacrament in the afternoon.

A special sermon on the Blessed Eucharist will be preached at 7 o'clock. Vespers, by Father O'Reilly, the eloquent Redemptorist, who created such an impression throughout the mission of the past week. Fr. O'Reilly will also preach at the 10.30 mass.

FIRE AT SUB STATION

A small fire occurred at the Canadian General Electric Company's sub-station on Saturday, at noon, when some insulation became ignited through a short circuit. Sand, which is always used in such cases, was applied, and the blaze was easily extinguished. The damage was slight.

WHOOPING COUGH

Mrs. Charles Lovell, Agassiz, B.C., writes: "Seven of our nine children had whooping cough the same winter and we attribute their cure to Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. We always have it in the house, and recommend it as the king of all medicines. I was formerly completely cured of protruding piles by using Dr. Chase's Ointment."

Gravel Cars Off Track On The C.P.R.

Lindsay Warder.)

Another wreck occurred on the C.P.R. between Bobcaygeon and Lindsay, last evening about four o'clock. The accident took place at a point about five miles from Lindsay, near the 8th con. line and one mile this side of Byrnell's station.

The facts as gleaned from an eye witness of the accident, who was a passenger on the evening train coming from the village of Bobcaygeon to Lindsay, are as folows:

The gravel train used by the construction company, backs its load from the gravel pit to Lindsay. This train is composed of an engine, about fourteen cars of gravel and a caboose. On reaching Agnew's swamp, where the road bed is built upon gravel placed upon several feet of muck, which through the agency of incessant rains, which of late have fallen, caused the road to sink. It is therefore probable that the roadbed is insufficient and the rails too light to bear the weight of heavy laden cars, which caused the rails to spread, upsetting four cars in the middle of the train from the track and bending rails into horse-shoe shape.

The passengers from Toronto were compelled to wait until about 8 p.m. when a train from Lindsay arrived and brought them to town.

Several Lindsay men, after waiting in the swamp till six o'clock, beat it to town, at every step pouring out little ejaculations concerning light rails, engines too large for road, gravel cars too heavily laden and other epithets which echoed through the swamps and pasture fields.

Mr. John Chambers, John Sherifi and two railroad conductors were among the many who whistled and walked.

The auxiliary from Toronto was called on, who cleaned up the wreck and business is humming once more.

OBITUARY

JOHN RICHARDS.

Word has been received in the city of the death at Vancouver, from pleurisy, of Mr. John Richards, formerly of Peterborough. The deceased had only been a resident of Vancouver for a short time, coming from Peterborough. His many friends in this city will be shocked to learn of his death. He was well known here, having been connected with the staff of the post office and also for his musical ability, which brought him before the public frequently. He is survived by his wife (nee Miss Dorothy Darke) of Peterborough, and by three children. Arrangements for the funeral will be announced later.

Ladies' Aid of Knox Church will hold a sale of useful and fancy homemade articles on Thursday afternoon, Nov. 16th, in the Lecture Room of the church. Admission free in the afternoon. A good programme has been provided for a concert at night. Refreshments will also be served. Admission 15c or two for 25c. 3d-112

A SMALL FIRE

The home of Mr. Martin, 701 Bethune street, was the scene of a bad blaze yesterday afternoon. The fire, which originated from a defective chimney, effected an entrance between the first floor and the rafters of the house, and was spreading rapidly when the firemen arrived. The prevailing high wind made the fire a very difficult one for the men to combat. But, after an hour's strenuous work, the fire was brought under control with the use of chemicals alone. The damage to the building will amount to about $25. The contents of the house were not injured.

The Rev. Irl R. Hicks' 1912 Almanac

Before the great Drouth of 1901, the Hicks Almanac gave timely warning. For over two years prior to 1911, the Hick's Almanac again sounded a warning of drouth danger. And so for forty years this same friend of all the people has steadfastly refused the offers of speculators and continued to warn the public of the coming dangers of storm and weather. As they should have done, the people have stood nobly by Professor Hicks, their faithful public servant, who has grown old in their service. Send only one dollar to Word and Works Publishing Company, 3401 Franklin Avenue, St. Louis, Missouri, and get his Magazine and Almanac both for one year. The Almanac alone, a fine book of 150 pages, is only 35c. by mail. Let everybody respond and receive the warnings of our National Seer for the coming year. 3d.

WILL LEAD TO DEMOCRACY

Special to The Examiner

LONDON, NOV. 13.—Speaking at Oldham, Hamar Greenwood, the Liberal M. P., a former Canadian, says the elevation of Bonar Law ot the leadership of the Opposition means a collapse of semi-medi Toryism and a tremendous step forward to a democratic movement by old England.

Assumes The Premiership

Examiner Special:

PEKIN, NOV. 13.— Yuan Shi Kai, the strong man of China, this morning made a triumphant entry into the capital, escorted by four thousand troops, to assume the premiership and perhaps dictatorship of China. Simultaneously with this advent news comes from the surrounding country of victories for the imperialist troops, and things look a little brighter for the Manchu dynasty to-day.

FIRST TO BE ERECTED

The Grand Trunk Pacific Station, formerly known as Fiddle Creek, mile 997.8 West of Winnipeg, has been changed to Mietto Hot Springs. It will be in this locality that the first of the Grand Trunk Pacific Mountain Hotels will be erected, and is within seven or eight miles of the Mietto Hot Springs that are situated just beyond the famous Roche Mietto Mountain which looms up to the West of this station.

The whole of the territory in the vicinity of the Mietto Hot Springs Station will, without doubt, become one of the greatest meccas in America for the ever increasing tourist traffic with the mountains as an objective point, as everything that goes to make up an attractive mountain resort is found in this locality.

The Mietto Hot Springs will become famous the world over, as the efficacy of the waters of these springs for medicinal purposes has been proved, and for bathing purposes are without comparison.

Keith of Knox church, who has just returned from attending the convention of the Students' Volunteer Movement in Belleville, informed the Examiner this afternoon, that there is a very bright chance of the convention coming to Peterborough next year, with a total attendance of some three hundred delegates from Ontario and Quebec. If the necessary arrangements can be made for the entertainment of the delegates, the convention will be held here next year early in November.

GAVE AN ADDRESS

Rev. H. J. Keith, B.D., M.A., of Peterborough, who was for some time engaged in missionary work, in India, gave an interesting address on Friday evenig, relative to what was beig done in that country, for the advancement of God's word, at the Inter-collegiate Missionary Convention, which is being held in Belleville.

THE Y.M.C.A. MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN BEGINS TO-DAY

Interest now centres in the Membership campaign, which starts to-day at the Y.M.C.A. One hundred and eighty-nine new members in two weeks. It means energetic canvassing, but it will be done. It should be easily possible. In Peterborough there are over 4,000 people who should belong to the Y.M.C.A. The membership now is only about 300.

The boys are going into this campaign with enthusiasm and confidence. They know that they have something worth while to offer. A two dollar membership that entitles the holder to access to magazines, periodicals and newspapers that, did he succeribe for them himself, would cost well on to $100, is surely good value. And then there is a warm, cheerful room in which to read them.

The best Christmas present a parent can give his boy is a membership ticket and the boy will appreciate it more thoroughly now than at Christmas.

Of course the boys will be telling the citizens of all this, with the enthusiasm born of experience. We know that in Peterborough there are thousands who would be benefitted by membership in the Y.M.C.A. Of these thousands, the aim is to get 189. But that is the irreducable minimums.

Photograph To Be Taken

There will be an interesting event at the Brock street rink to-morrow night when a large group flash-light photograph will be taken of the skaters. Every one on the floor will be included in this picture if they so desire. A week from to-morrow night copies of the photograph will be given away as souvenirs.

Three Cars Derailed At Hoard's

There was a stoppage of the line at Hoard's on Saturday evening last occasioned by the derailment of three G.T.R. cars.

It transpires that the cars in question were new ones, and as the turning table of the trucks of one of them had not yet loosened, when approaching the curve, this car jumped the rail, dragging with it two others. Two of the cars were rather badly damaged.

The Belleville train, due at Peterborough at 8.55, was unable to pass the spot until Sunday morning, when it reached the city about 9 o'clock. The Lakefield train was sent from Peterborough at 8.30 on Saturday evening to transfer the passengers of the Belleville train, reaching here at 12 o'clock and proceeding through to Lindsay.

CASCARETS CLEANSE LIVER AND BOWELS

No Biliousness, Headache, Sick, Sour Stomach, Indigestion, Coated Tongue or Constipation

Furred Tongue, Bad Taste, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret to-night will give you a thorough cleansing inside and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist will keep you feeling good for months. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then to keep their stomach, liver and bowels regulated, and never know a miserable moment. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good cleansing, too.

WILKIE IS GUILTY

Manslaughter is the Verdict in Wife Beating Case

PRISONER'S QUEER REMARK

Toronto, Nov. 14.—"Well, your honor, I am sorry to say that it was not my fault that she died."

This statement of Edward A. Wilkie, on trial for his life, charged with the murder of his wife, Ellen Wilkie, during a drunken quarrel at their home on Aug. 14 last, on hearing the foreman of the jury deliver a verdict of "guilty of manslaughter," caused quite a sensation in the court room.

"I am sorry to hear you say so," declared Justice Riddell, who was sitting in the case. "If you have not yet come to the sense of your tremendous crime, I must consider this statement in judging what is to be your punishment. It is well for you that you did not make those remarks before the jury brought in the verdict of manslaughter."

Many diverse opinions were expressed as to what the prisoner meant by this statement. Crown Prosecutor Creswicke declared that he thought Wilkie did not know what he was saying—that he meant to say that he was sorry he had caused his wife's death. Others, and Justice Riddell among them, took up the words as they are quoted.

W. A. Henderson, acting for Wilkie, entered a plea of not guilty.

Lily Reynolds, daughter of the dead woman by a previous marriage, told the story of the quarrel. Coming home from work, and not finding her mother in the house, she went out into the lane, back of the house. She declared that Wilkie had hold of her by the wrists, but she did not think that he was hurting her. She went back into the house, and shortly after her father and mother came in. Wilkie was ing because he wanted to take out his bicycle and Mrs. Wilkie did not want him to. He had been drinking.

Wilkie grabbed his wife by the hands and forced her back against the wall. Then he grabbed her by the throat, and threw her on the floor, and she fainted.

Mrs. Bryant, a woman who lived upstairs, threw water on her, and revived her.

Wilkie went out and came back later. Mrs. Wilkie, with her sister and the witness, was sitting on the doorstep. He caught her by the hair and dragged her into the hall. Then he hit her in the face, causing her nose to bleed, and kicked her four times in the side.

Mrs. Bertha Crawford, sister of the dead woman, declared that the fight resulted because Wilkie's supper was not ready, and the two women were sitting talking and drinking beer.

Coroners Singer and Graham, who performed the autopsy, declared, however, that the woman could not have been drinking, as there was no sign of liquor in the stomach.

Mrs. Bryant, Frank Perrigini, Walter McManus and five police constables also gave evidence.

"This is one more of that series of dreadful afflictions that may be laid to the charge of King Alcohol," declared Justice Riddell, summing up the evidence. "It is one more of those afflictions which from time to time shock our hearts and feelings. It is something which may perhaps induce some of those who indulge in moderate drinking, and who see no harm in it, to consider if they should not deny themselves, and do without liquor entirely. He spent almost an hour explaining the criminal side, as bearing on the case to the jury.

PURITY STRENGTH PERFECTION

Strike Practically Broken.

New York, Nov. 14.—The backbone of the street cleaners' strike appeared to be broken yesterday when 1,800 strikebreakers under heavy police guard made substantial progress in ridding the streets of a five days' accumulation of health endangering refuse.

There were more strikebreakers working than the normal number of drivers regularly employed by the street cleaning department, and these were only prevented from doing the normal amount of work by the necessity of "doubling up" on the wagons. As it was nearly 1,600 more loads were removed than the day before.

Waterways Commission.

Ottawa, Nov. 14.—It is stated that the Borden Government is arranging to replace the Canadian section of the International Waterways Commission, headed by Sir George Gibbons of London. They will recommend to the Imperial authorities the appointment of C. A. Magrath of Lethbridge, H. A. Powell of St. John, N.B., and T. Chase Casgrain of Montreal, all former Conservative members of Parliament.

Frozen to Death.

Green Bay, Wis., Nov. 14.—Eugene Dowarzegers, 71 years old, was frozen to death on a country road while returning to his home Sunday.

McAlester, Okla., Nov. 14.—Charles Philips of Hartshorne, Okla., was found frozen to death in the woods near this city yesterday.

An Old Church.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 14.—The one hundred and seventeenth anniversary of Lundy's Lane Methodist Church was celebrated last night by an old-fashioned tea meeting. The church was one of the first in the Niagara district.

Storm Damage at Falls.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 14.—The gale that has raged since Sunday did considerable damage on the river. Boathouses on the upper river were blown down, and crafts carried over the falls.

Bank Clerk's Suicide.

Halifax, Nov. 14.—With a bullet wound in his right temple from which blood flowed freely, G. W. Toombs, ledger-keeper in the branch of the Bank of Montreal at Lunenburg, was found dead at 6 o'clock last evening in the teller's box. A revolver lay just out of reach of his right hand. The dead body was discovered by H. W. Foban, accountant, who was upstairs when the shot was fired. Hearing the report he ran below and found Toombs dead. It seems certain that Toombs committed suicide. He left an unfinished note which said: "Farewell. I have tried to make good and failed. I do not lay the blame for my misdeed on so—"

It is said that the unfortunate boy, who was about 19 years of age, was not in good health, and had suffered lately from insomnia, and it is believed that he took his life in a fit of insanity.

Will Deal With Spain.

Paris, Nov. 14.—Mohammed Sidi-el-Mokhri, the Moroccan ambassador to France, was appointed Grand Vizier yesterday by Mulai Abd-el-Hafid, the Sultan of Morocco. This appointment is the first act in affirming the the French protectorate in Morocco, and it will signalize the active opening of negotiations between France and Spain to determine the status of Spain in Morocco.

Notwithstanding the existence of secret treaties, France will contend that Spain should compensate her by abandoning a part of her sphere of influence because of the concessions in French Congo which France made to Germany in return for the right to establish a protectorate in Morocco. In other words, France contends that she has paid part of Spain's bill to Germany.

Canada Not Unfriendly in Rejecting Pact, Says Foster

CANADIANS IN NEW YORK

New York, Nov. 14.—Three hundred Canadian men and women, residents of New York, with a number of guests, sat down to the annual banquet of the Canadian Club at the Hotel Astor last night.

Sharon Graham, president of the club, presided, having on his right Andrew Carnegie, Hon. George E. Foster, Minister of Trade and Commerce, was indisposed, but came to the guest table later in the evening.

Other distinguished guests were Principal Peterson of McGill University, President Falconer of Toronto University, Sir William F. Smith, governor of Cyprus; W. F. Cockshutt, M.P., of Brantford, Ont.; Arthur S. Goodeve, M.P., of British Columbia; Kenneth J. Dunstan, president of the Canadian Club, Toronto, and Dean John Galbraith, engineering department, University of Toronto.

Hon. R. L. Borden, in his letter of regret, gracefully invited himself to attend some future function of the club.

W. F. Cockshutt, M.P., in a short address, dwelt on the recent election in Canada. The country, he said, had for 30 years progressed under a moderate protective policy. Agriculture and industry had benefited immensely, and immense sums had been expended on the waterways and canals as well as on the railroads. There was also a feeling in the country that Canada should contribute directly to the defence of the Empire.

"It was a fear on the part of our people," he said, "that the acceptance of reciprocity as proposed would disturb, if not destroy, these great underlying principles of our national being what led to the emphatic verdict that our electors gave on Sept 21 when they turned down the proposed pact."

After assuring his hearers that no unfriendly spirit towards the United States had dictated the acts of the Canadian people, and assuring them that the Borden Government and their supporters wanted friendly trade relations with this country, Mr. Cockshutt said: "During the last few years, under Sir Wilfrid Laurier's regime, the word 'autonomy' has been worked to death. In season and out of season, in certain parts of Canada. Under new auspices, I trust that we shall hear more about the responsibilities of Empire and less regarding our own autonomy; considerably less about our rights and much more about our duty. A little thought with regard to this side of the question will be for the best interests of all our people.

"The feeling of security that has come over Canada since the election is most marked. An optimistic spirit pervades all material and national interests throughout our Dominion."

Andrew Carnegie dwelt on his favorite topic, "Peace." "People in the future would look back to navies as aberrations," he said, "just as people nowadays look back on ancient instruments of torture."

He recalled that Canada had sent 40,000 of her young men over to aid the American Union, and added that should Canada ever be invaded 400,000 fellow-English-speaking brothers would cross the border to repel the invaders from her shores.

"We, in the United States," he added, "could afford to follow Canada's example in regard to control and management of labor. We could well adopt her system of mounted police in the far west."

Hon. George E. Foster, who was suffering from a severe cold, spoke briefly.

"We did not reject reciprocity," he said, "because we did not want to trade with you. We have for the United States two distinct feelings, admiration for your great progress and anxiety to avoid your mistakes.

"We in Canada are British, and we intended to remain British to the last crack of doom, and we couldn't remain so under a reciprocity pact. We could not break down our barriers of protection. We want the United States to remain our friend, and some day we will reach a solution of all questions between us."

A FAMINE IN SIGHT

Chinese Peasants Face a Winter of Great Suffering

POWERS MAY INTERVENE

Pekin, Nov. 14.—Yuan Shi Kai, the last prop of the throne, has reached Pekin at last. He came yesterday accompanied by 2,000 troops, and was warmly greeted by the administration. In honor of his arrival an edict was issued appointing him commander of all the troops in the vicinity of the capital. Great efforts are being made to induce him to accept the Premiership, but he has given no definite answer as yet.

The opinion is held at the legations that there are serious complications in store for China, and greater sufferings than she has yet endured. The prospects of foreign intervention by other powers than Russia and Japan are beginning to be discussed. Winter is expected to terminate the massed movements of troops, but there will be greater death roll through famine. The people in the central section are already supplementing their food with the bark of trees.

The Government continues gathering Manchu recruits at Pekin, but soon will be unable to meet the payments. It is not believed here that the Chinese can mobilize a large enough army about Pekin to venture an attack, but the Government's inability to collect revenues from a single provincial capital is almost certain sooner or later to bring about capitulation.

A report reached here yesterday that 2,000 Imperialists at Hankow have joined the rebel ranks, and that the remaining Imperial gunboats at that port have gone over to the rebels. According to a consular report the Hankow consuls, with one exception, at a meeting recently held there, agreed that it is impossible for the Imperialists to capture Hanyang or Wu Chang. They therefore discussed the question of asking the Government to withdraw the Imperial troops to the north because when the commissariat is empty they are likely to commit depredations and endanger the foreign concessions.

Certain military attaches at Pekin consider that the Imperial troops at Hankow will be lost to the Government unless brought back immediately, but the Government may prefer to leave all but the Manchus there, not undertaking the cost of the risk of transporting them back to the capital.

The November Boxer indemnity has not been paid and the December indemnity will likewise be defaulted. Even should the Government be able to recover the five provinces immediately surrounding the capital, the financial administration cannot be reorganised before defaults of other debts besides the indemnities occur, and it is feared that intervention for the collection of pledged revenues cannot be averted.

Gen. Shao Erh Haun, the viceroy of Manchuria, who has been elected president of the province under the declaration of autonomy, has sent a message to the Government that he was unable to oppose the Mukden assembly's declarations, which are: 1. That the revenues shall be retained by the province, which will have no connection with the Pekin Government, old or new; 2, that the province will assist neither the Chinese nor the Manchu soldiers; 3 that the Government will afford the fullest protection to foreigners.

The rebels took over Che Foo quietly yesterday. Gen. Shang Shao Tsen, the commander of the Lanchau troops, has arrived at Tien Tsin with a body guard of thirty men. He is lodging in the foreign concessions.

Demands Regent's Abdication.

Shanghai, Nov. 14.—Wu Ting Fang, who recently received the appointment of secretary of foreign affairs, under the proposed reform administration, has telegraphed a long address to Pekin urging the regent, Prince Chun, to abdicate. He points out that since the Emperor's edict admitting responsibility for present conditions and promising reforms, there has been an atrocious massacre, and ten provinces have severed themselves from the throne without a struggle.

Wu Ting Fang adds that nothing but the adoption of Republicanism can secure peace and stop the shedding of blood.

Rumors are current that Admiral Sah's fleet at Hankow has either surrendered or been overcome by the revolutionaries.

Warships Desert.

Shanghai, Nov. 14.—(10 a.m.)—Thirteen vessels of the Imperial fleet went over to the revolutionists this morning, hoisting the white flag between 9 and 10 o'clock. One of the largest cruisers steamed up the river past the settlement and dipped the white ensign in salute to the foreign warships, to which none of them responded.

No Surrender, Says Gompers.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 14.—The most significant of the opening day's utterance, at the A. F. and L. convention, was that of Mr. Gompers in responding to the address of welcome of Governor Smith, Mayor Winn and others, when he declared that he, Secretary Morrison and Vice-President John Mitchell were ready to go to jail in defence of labor's rights in event the contempt sentence of Justice Wright of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia was sustained.

"Justice Wright either intended to crush the federation or break our spirit," said Mr. Gompers. "He has done neither. The federation will continue to grow and aid in the uplift of humanity."

Keep Off the Car Bumpers.

Toronto, Nov. 14.—As the death of Charles Williams, 45 Rowland avenue, last Wednesday night was due to having ridden on the bumper of a Parliament street car, Coroner George W. Graham's jury expressed the opinion that conductors should see that passengers are not allowed to ride there. The jury's verdict was accidental death. Joh. nN. Bongard, the conductor, admitted that he had the authority to keep passengers off after he considered his car crowded. The car on which Williams climbed was crowded.

U. S. Settlers Pour In.

DOCTOR ADVISED OPERATION

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Canifton, Ont.—"I had been a great sufferer for five years. One doctor told me it was ulcers of the uterus, and another told me it was a fibroid tumor. No one knows what I suffered. I would always be worse at certain periods, and never was regular, and the bearing-down pains were terrible. I was very ill in bed, and the doctor told me I would have to have an operation, and that I might die during the operation. I wrote to my sister about it and she advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Through personal experience I have found it the best medicine in the world for female troubles, for it has cured me, and I did not have to have the operation after all. The Compound also helped me while passing through Change of Life."—Mrs. LETITIA BLAIR, Canifton, Ontario.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has proved to be the most successful remedy for curing the worst forms of female ills, including displacements, inflammation, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result has been worth millions to suffering women.

"THE AVENGER"

BY E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

"I am very much amongst them," he answered. "My connection with the affair was an extremely unpleasant one, and it will remain so until the murderer of Morris Barnes is brought to book."

"Or murderess," Mr. Bentham murmured softly.

Wrayson reeled in his chair as though he had been struck a violent and unexpected blow. He understood now, the guarded menace of his visitor's manner. He felt the man's eyes taking merciless note of his whitening cheeks.

"My client," the lawyer continued, "desires to ask no questions. All that he wants is the document to which he is entitled, and which was stolen on the night when Mr. Barnes met with his unfortunate accident."

Wrayson had pulled himself together with an effort.

"I presume," he said, "from your frequent reiteration, that I may take this as being to some extent a personal offer. If so, let me assure you, sir, that so far as I am concerned I know nothing whatever of any papers or other belongings which were in the possession of my late neighbour. I have never seen or heard of any. I do not even know why you should have come to me at all."

"I came to you," Mr. Bentham said, "because I was very well aware that, for some reason or other, your evidence at the inquest was not quite as comprehensive as it might have been."

"Then, for Heaven's sake, tell me all that you know!" Wrayson exclaimed. "Take my word for it, I know nothing of this document or paper. I have neither seen it nor heard of it. I know nothing whatever of the man or his affairs. I can't help you. I would if I could. On the other hand, you can throw some light upon the motive for the crime. Who is your client? Let me go and see him for myself."

Mr. Bentham rose to his feet, and began slowly to dra won his gloves.

"Mr. Wrayson," he said quietly, "I am disappointed with the result of my visit to you. I admit it frankly. You are either an extremely ingenuous person or a good deal too clever for me. In either case, if you will not treat with me, I need not waste your time."

Wrayson moved to the door and stood with his back to it.

"I am not at all sure," he said, "that I am justified in letting you go like this. You are in possession of information which would be invaluable to the police in their search for the murderer of Morris Barnes."

Mr Bentham smiled coldly.

"And are not you," he remarked, "in the same fortunate position—with the unfortunate exception perhaps, of having already given your testimony? Of the two, if disclosures had to be made, I think that I should prefer my own position."

Wrayson remained where he was.

"I am inclined," he said, "to risk it. At least you would be compelled to disclose your client's name."

Mr. Bentham visibly flinched. He recovered himself almost immediately, but the shadow of fear had rested for a moment, at any rate, upon his impassive features.

"I am entirely at your service," he said coldly. "My client has at least not broken the laws of his country."

Wrayson stood away from the door.

"You can go," he said shortly, "if you will leave me your address."

Mr. Bentham bowed.

"I regret that I have no card with me," he said, "but I have an office, a single room only, in Number 8, Paper Buildings, Adelphi. If you should hapen to come across—that document——"

Wrayson held open the door.

"If I should come to see you," he said, "it will be on other business."

* * * * * * * *

Wrayson lunched at the club that morning, and received a warm greeting from his friends. The subject of the murder was, as though by common consent, avoided. Towards the end of the meal the Colonel received a telegram, which he read and laid down upon the table in front of him.

"By Jove!" he said softly, "I'd forgotten all about it. Boys, you've got to help me out."

"We're on," Mason declared. "What is it?—a fight?"

"It's a garden party my girls are giving to-morrow afternoon," the Colonel answered. "I promised to take some of you down. Come, who's going to help me out? Wrayson? Good! Heneage? Excellent! Mason? Good fellows, all of you! Two-twenty from Waterloo, flannels and straw hats."

The little grup broke up, and the Colonel was hurried off into the Committee Room. Wrayson and Heneage exchanged dubious glances.

"A garden party in May!" the latter remarked.

Wrayson sighed resignedly.

"It's the Colonel!" he declared. "We should have to go if it were December!"

CHAPTER VII.

After all, the garden party was not so bad. The weather was perfect, and the grounds of Shirley House were large enough to find amusement for all the guests. Wrayson, who had made great friends with the Colonel's younger daughter, enjoyed himself immensely. After a particularly strenuous set of tennis, she led him through the wide-open French windows into a small morning room.

"We can rest for a few minutes in here," she remarked. "You can consider it a special mark of favour, for this is my own den."

"You are spoiling me," Wrayson declared, laughing. "May I see those photographs?"

"If you like," she answered, "only you mustn't be too critical, for I'm only a beginner, you know. Here's a bookful of them you can look through while I go and start the next set."

She placed a volume in his hand and swung out of the room, tall, fresh, and graceful. Wrayson watched her admiringly. In her perfect naturalness and unaffected good-humour she reminded him a good deal of her father, but curiously enough there was some other likeness which appealed to him even more powerfully, and yet which he was unable to identify. It puzzled him so, that for a moment or two after her departure he sat watching the door through which she had disappeared with a slight frown upon his forehead. She was undoubtedly charming, and yet something in connection with her seemde to impress him with an impending sense of trouble. Everything about her person and manners was frank and girlish, and yet she was certainly recalling to his mind things that he had been struggling all the afternoon to forget. Already he began to feel the cloud of nervousness and depression stealing down upon him. He struck the table with his clenched fist. He would have none of it. Outside was the delicious sunshine, through the open window stole in the perfume of the roses which covered the wall, and mignonette from the trim borders, and stocks from the bed fringing the lawn. The murmur of pleasant conversation was incessant and musical. For a time Wrayson had escaped. He swore to himself that he would go back no more to bondage; that he would dwell no more upon the horrors through which he had lived. He would take hold of the pleasant things of life with both hands, and grip them tightly. A man should be master of his thoughts, not the slave of unwilling memories. He would choose for himself whither they should lead him; he would fight with all his nerve and will against the unholy fascination of those few thrilling hours. He looked impatiently towards the door, and longed for the return of his late companion that he might cntinue his half-laughing flirtatin. Then he remembered the album stil lupn his knee and opened it quickly. He had dabbled a little in photography; he would find something here to keep his thoughts from the forbidden place. And he did, indeed, find something — something which set his herat thumping, and drew all the colour which the sun and vigorous exercise had brought from his cheeks. Something at which he stared with wide open eyes, which he held before him with trembling, nerveless fingers. The picture of a woman! The picture of her!

It had lain loose in the book, with its back toward him. Only chance made him turn it ver. As he looked he understood. There was the likeness, such likeness as there may be between a beatuiful woman, a little sad, a little scornful, with the faint lines of mockery about her curving lips, he world-wdary light in her distant eyes, and the fresh, ingenuous girl with whom he had been handying pleasantries during the last few hours. He had felt it unknowingly. He realized it now, and the thought of what it might mean made him catch at his breath like a drowning man. Then she came in.

He heard her gay laughter outside, a backward word flung to one of the tennis players as she stepped in through he window, her cheeks still flushed, and her eyes aglow.

"We really ought to wach this set," she declared. "That is if you are not too much absorbed in my handiwork. What have you got there?"

"Do you mind telling me who this is?" he asked.

She glanced at it carelessly enough but at once her whole expression changed. The smile left her lips, her eyes filled mith trouble.

"Where did you find it?" 'she asked, in a low tone.

She took it gently from his fingers, and crossing the room locked it in her desk.

"I had no idea that it was there," she said. "It is a picture of my eldest sister, or rather my step-sister."

The change in her manner was so apparent that, under ordinary circumstances, Wrayson would not have dreamed of pursuing the subject. But the conventions of life seemed to him small things just then.

"Your step-sister!" he exclaimed. "I had no idea—shall I meet her this afternoon?"

"No!" she answered gravely. "What do you say—shall we go out now?"

She took up her racket, but he lingered.

Please don't think me hopelessly inquisitive, Miss Fitzmaurice," he said, "but I have really a reason for being very interested in the original of that picture. I should like to meet your step-sister."

"You will never do so here, I am afraid," she answered. "My father and she disagreed years ago. He does not allow us to see or hear from her. We may not even mention her name."

"Your father," Wrayson remarked thoughtfully, "is not a stern parent by any means."

"I should think not," she answered, smiling. "eDar old dad! I have never heard him say an unkind word to any one in my life."

"And yet—" Wrayson began, hesitatingly.

"Do you mind if we don't talk any more about it?" she interrupted simply. "I think you can understand it it not a very pleasant subject. Do you feel like another set, or would you rather do something else?"

"Tennis, by all means, if you are rested," he ansmered. "We will find our old opponents and challenge them again."

Wrayson made a supreme effort, and his spirits for the rest of the afternoon were almost boisterous. Yet all the time the nightmare was there behind. It crept out whenever he caught sight of his host moving about amongst his guests, beaming and kindly. His daughter! The Colonel's daughter! What was he to do? The problem haunted him continually. All the ime he had to be pushing it back.

The guests began to depart at last. By seven o'clock the last carriage was rolling down the avenue. The Colonel, with a huge smile of relief, and a large cigar, came and took Wrayson's arm.

"Good man!" he exclaimed. "You have worked like a Trojan. We'll have one whisky and soda, eh? and then I'll show you your room. Stay when!"

"I've enjoyed myself immensely," Wrayson declared. "Miss Edith has been very kind to me."

"I'm glad you've made friends with her," the Colonel said. "She's a harum-scarum lot, I'm afraid, and a sad chatter-box, but she's the right sort of a person for a man with nerves like you! You're looking a bit white still, I see!"

Wrayson would have spoken then, but his tongue seemed to cling to the roof of his mouth. He had been asked to bring his clothes and dine, and in the minutes' solitude while he changed, he made a resolute effort to face his new problem. There mas not the slightest doubt in his mind that the girl whom he surprised his rooms, ransacking his desk, and whom subsequently he had assisted to escape from the mansions, was identical with the original of this portrait. She was the Colonel's daughter. With a flash of horror, he remembered that it had been the Colonel himself who had pointed out the possibility of a woman's hands having drawn that silken cord together. Half dressed, he sat down in a chair and buried his face in his hands.

The dinner gong disturbed him. He sprang up, tied his tie with trembling fingers, and hastily completed his toilet. Once more, with a great effort, and an almost reckless resort to the host's champagne, he triumphed over the demons of memory which racked his brain. At dinner, his gaiety was almost feverish. Edith Fitzmaurice, who was his neighbor, found him a delightful companion. Only the Colonel glanced toward him now and then anxiously. He recognized the signs of high pressure, and the light in Wrayson's eyes puzzled him.

There were no other men dining, and in course of time the two were left alone. The Colonel passed the cigars and also touched the port wine decanter, which, however, he only offered in a half hearted way.

"If you don't care about any more wine," he said, "we might have a smoke in the garden."

Wrayson rose at once.

"I should like it," he said abruptly. "I don't know how it is, but I seem half-stifled to-day."

They passed out into the soft, cool night. A nightingale was singing somewhere in the elm trees which bordered the garden. The air was sweet with the perfume of early summer flowers. Wrayson drew a long, deep breath of content.

"Let us sit down, Colonel," he said. "I have something to tell you."

The Colonel led the way to a rustic seat. A few stars were out, but no moon. In the dusky twilight, the shrubs and trees beyond stood out with black and almost startling distinctness against the clear sky.

"You remember the girl—I told you about, whom I found in my flat, and afterwards?" Wrayson asked hoarsely.

"Certainly! What about her? To tell you the truth, I am afraid I—"

"Don't, Colonel!" he said. "Wait until you have heard what I have to say. I have seen her picture to-day."

The Colonel removed his cigar from his mouth.

"Her picture!" he exclaimed. "To-day! Where? My dear fellow, this is very interesting! You know my opinion as to that young——"

Again Wrayson stopped him, this time with an oath.

"In your house, Colonel," he said. "Your daughter showed it to me—in an album!"

The Colonel sat like a man turned to stone. The hand which held his cigar shook so that the ash fell upon his waistcoat.

"Go on!" he faltered.

"I asked who it was. I was told that it was your daughter! Miss Edith's step-sister! Forgive me, Colonel! I had to tell you!"

The Colonel seemed to have shrunk in his place. The cigar slipped from his fingers and fell unheeded on to the grass. His mouth trembled and twitched pitifully.

"My—my daughter Louise!" he faltered." Wrayson, you're not serious—"

"It is God's truth," Wrayson answered. "I would stake my soul upon it that the girl—I told you about—was the original of that picture! When I look at your daughter Edith I can see the likeness."

"My God!" he murmured.

Then there was silence. Only the nightingale went on with his song.

CHAPTER VIII.

The Baroness trifled with some grapes and looked langnidly round the room.

"My dear Louise," she declared, "it is the truth what every one tells me of your country. You are a dull people. I weary myself here."

The girl whom she had addressed as Louise shrugged her shoulders.

"So do I, so do all of us," she answered, a little wearily. "What would you have? One must live somewhere."

The Baroness sighed, and from a chatelaine hung with elegant trifles selected a gold cigarette case. An attentive waiter rushed for a match and presented it. The Baroness gave a little sigh of content as she leaned back in her chair. She smoked as one to the manner born.

"One must live somewhere, it is true," she agreed, "but why London? I think that of all great cities it is the most provincial. It lacks what you call the atmosphere. The people are all so polite, and so deadly, deadly dull. How different in Paris or Berlin, even Brussels."

"Circumstances are a little against us, aren't they?" Louise remarked. "Our opportunities for making acquaintances are limited."

The Baroness made a little grimace."

"You, my young friend," she said, "are of the English—very English. Quite Saxon, in fact. With you there would never be any making of acquaintances! I feel myself in the bonds of a cast-iron chaperonage whenever I move out with you. Why is it, little one? Have you never any desire to amuse yourself?"

"I don't quite understand you," her companion answered dryly. "If you mean that I have no desire to encourage promiscuous acquaintances, you are certainly right. I prefer to be dull."

Hands Cracked so Could Not Work —Cures Effected by

Dr. Chase's Ointment

It does not take long for Dr. Chase's Ointment to prove its magic healing power. A single night is often sufficient to produce the most startling results.

Internal treatment for skin diseases is nearly always disappointing. By applying Dr. Chase's Ointment to the diseased parts relief is obtained almost immediately, and gradually the sores heal up and disappear. Here are two letters which will interest you:—

Mrs. Chas. Gilbert, Haystack, Placentia Bay, Nfld., writes:—"I was a sufferer from Salt Rheum for ten years, and had about despaired of ever being cured, so many treatments had failed. Reading of the wonderful cures effected by Dr. Chase's Ointment, I commenced using it, and was entirely cured by eight boxes. I want to express my gratitude for Dr. Chase's Ointment, and to recommend it to all sufferers."

Mr. Stanley Merrill, Delaware, Ont., writes:—"For years I was troubled with my hands cracking, often becoming so sore that I could hardly do any work. I got some of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and happily find that one or two applications of same to the affected parts make them well. I have had no trouble since using the ointment for sore hands."

Not a Flake Broken

THAT'S one beauty of Tillson's Oats.

Every flake is whole.

That's why porridge made from Tillson's Oats doesn't come to the table a sticky, jellied mass; but instead, as inviting to the eye as it is tasty to the palate and nourishing to the body.

Every flake is as thin as it can be rolled without breaking it.

That's why Tillson's Oats are cooked thoroughly in 15 minutes—no more. No all-night cooking, as it used to be with the old-fashioned oatmeal. No half raw porridge due to imperfectly rolled oats.

If you ever found porridge hard to digest it was because you made it from rolled oats containing coarse and fine particles, some of which were not cooked through.

Compare Tillson's Oats with any others that you have been in the habit of using, and you will see and taste the difference.

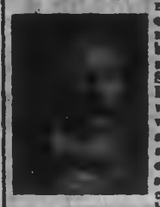
BREEDING HOLSTEINS

From Farm and Dairy.

A breeder who has accomplished wonders during the past four years in the breeding of Holsteins and who now is rated as one of the foremost Holstein breeders in Canada, is Mr. P. J. Salley, of Lachine Rapids, Que., whose farm was visited recently by an editor of Farm and Dairy. It is only four years since Mr. Salley commenced the breeding of Holsteins. He has gone about the work, however, in a systematic, far-sighted manner, which has enabled him in this short time to gather one of the foremost herds of Holsteins in Canada.



P. J. Salley

Mr. Salley has not always been a farmer, in fact he has farmed only during the past seven years. His father for many years managed as a market garden a portion of the farm now occupied by Mr. Salley. After Mr. Salley's father retired his brother continued in the market gardening business; thus Mr. Salley himself did not gain any farming experience as a boy. His father sent him to the St. Lawrence College, near Montreal, and later he visited various parts of the United States.

A BUSINESS TRAINING

He lived across the border for some seven years after leaving college, a considerable portion of which period was spent in one of the large packing houses of Chicago. The experience he thus gained has been of value to Mr. Salley since as it has developed confidence on his part in his own judgment and led him to proceed to do boldly what many other breeders would have hesitated to undertake.

About seven years ago Mr. Salley rented the farm from his father. Since then he has bought a large part of the farm, including 70 acres. In addition to this he has some 280 acres under lease, most of it being pasture land. The farm is located within seven miles from the centre of the city of Montreal, being only three miles from Verdeun.

LIKED FARMING

"I always liked cattle," said Mr. Salley to our editor, "and when I decided to start farming I made up my mind I would go in for the production of milk, as I believed I could make more money from the sale of milk than I could from a market garden. I started with nine of the best grade cows I could buy.

"I first followed the practice of many other farmers who sold milk in the city of buying cows when they were fresh, milking them for a few months and then selling them for beef. I soon found, however, that this did not pay. I had to pay fair prices for the stock I bought, and often the animals did not prove to be good producers, and thus I lost money on them when I came to sell them.

"Having read a good deal about Holsteins, I decided to start keeping pure-breds. About four years ago I purchased my first pure-bred stock.

A MILK TRADE ON MERIT

"In the interval, however, I had succeeded in working up a pretty good milk trade in Montreal. When I started I did not have a customer. I put a first class rig on the road, however, and made up my mind to furnish nothing but first class milk. I had to canvass for my first customers, but after I had obtained them I gave them such good milk that they soon obtained others for me, with the result that I am now selling some 55 gallons of milk a day in Montreal, and have been for some time.

This milk sells at an average of seven cents a quart in summer and nine cents a quart in winter. I have to keep a man who does nothing but look after the delivery of this milk. I have been fortunate, however, inasmuch as I have had a good man who has had charge of the milk delivery during the past four years.

"When I started to secure the foundation stock for my Holstein herd I made up my mind that I would not buy animals unless they had large frames, indicating an ability to produce large quantities of milk, and unless they were well bred as individuals. I decided also that I would see the stock from which they were bred, as I wanted them to have plenty of constitution and possess true dairy type.

Our editor had the privilege of looking over Mr. Salley's herd during the morning's milking, and found it to possess as fine a lot of females as he had seen in any one herd. The animals, without exception, showed strong dairy qualities, while most of them had exceptionally fine udders and a showing of milk veins that it was a pleasure to see. While Mr. Salley had paid long prices for his stock, it was evident he had succeeded in getting value for his money.

"When I had 32 grade cows," said Mr. Salley, "I did not get as much milk as I now obtain from 19 pure breds. During January, February, and March I obtained an average of 72 gallons of milk a day from 19 animals. When I have a surplus of milk it is separated and the cream sold, the skim milk being fed to the calves. I always feed my calves before the milk goes to the city, as I deem it of the first importance that they shall get their full supply of milk even though I have to obtain milk elsewhere for some of my customers."

HOLDS TO HIS FEMALES

In one respect Mr. Salley has shown greater strength of character than some breeders during the past few years, inasmuch as he has steadfastly refused to sell any of his females. Time and again he has been offered long prices, but all have been refused, as he has been determined to hold on to his females until he has his herd built up.

So far Mr. Salley has had no trouble disposing of all the male stock he has had to spare through his advertisement in Farm and Dairy, this paper being the only advertising medium he uses.

Like some of the Holstein breeders along Yonge St., Toronto, Mr. Salley is reaping the benefit of a rapid advance in land values as a consequence of the close proximity of his farm to the city of Montreal. His farm is located beside the famous Ogilvie farm, which sold recently for $1,00,000. Another farm of 220 acres somewhat nearer the city was sold for $320,000. North of Mr. Salley's farm, land has been sold for $1,000 to $1,300 an acre. Five years ago this land was worth $200 to $300 an acre. Forty acres of land some little distance north of his place that was bought seven or eight years ago for $12,000, sold recently for $55,000. All this means that while Mr. Salley is breeding and making money from good Holsteins, as well as from the sale of milk, he is acquiring wealth even more rapidly by the rapid increase in the value of his land.

A POWERFUL AND EFFECTIVE CURE

For Catarrh, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, Asthma.

Diseases of the breathing organs are, as you know, excited by germs so minute that only the microscope can reveal them; they are lodged in the tissues, develop there, and cause all the trouble. That is how consumption starts.

If the cause of the disease can be carried by air, why not the remedy? This conclusion lies at the root of the Catarrhozone treatment. The instrument through which you breathe fragrant, healing Catarrhozone splits up into minute particles this invaluable healing and curative agent, thereby enabling the air to carry it to the remotest ramifications of the breathing organs, and diffuses itself over their entire surfaces.

CATARRHOZONE ALWAYS CURES.

It would be absolutely impossible to breathe through a Catarrhozone inhaler without carrying this liquid to the remotest parts of the breathing apparatus. Upon healthy tissue it has no action, but upon diseased tissue and upon the micro-organisms which infect diseased tissues its action is so wonderfully curative that the disease is completely abolished. Then the tissue heals.

EARLY TREATMENT IS WISE.

Catarrhozone is an ideal remedy for diseases of the throat, lungs, and nasal passages. If you have catarrh, or bronchitis, or asthma, all are equally curable by Catarrhozone. These diseases are all modifications of an inflammatory condition of the lining membranes of the throat and nasal passages. Under these conditions we call it catarrh. When it extends to the bronchial tubes, we call it bronchitis. The condition is the same, the causes which produce the diseases are identical, and the remedy, Catarrhozone, acts equally promptly and efficiently upon the different forms of this disease. Your case is curable. Get Catarrhozone to-day: two months' treatment (guaranteed) price $1; small size 50c. Sold by all dealers, or the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

the method outlined should have a decided improvement in the quality of the milk delivered and also in the character of his cheese. Any competent maker following along these lines should have no concern as to his trade or position. It is not possible to manufacture a fine article from raw material of inferior quality.

TURN HIM DOWN

We cannot tolerate the careless patron and retain our reputation. Turn him down. The result will be a decided improvement in quality with increased prices. The farmer counts the dollars and cents and he will have no other alternative than to clean up.

As long as the maker gives a full guarantee he is encouraging the careless patron. The patron, having induced the maker to guarantee full market prices, is then absolutely indifferent as to the quality of his milk. This system of engaging makers is ruinous to the industry. We want makers to stand to their rights and not guarantee that which they have no direct control of, namely, flavor. The writer has had charge of a proprietary factory for the last three seasons, with a joint stock factory one mile distant. I claim to have the esteem and confidence of the patrons and their number is steadily increasing. I do not sign any agreement and refuse all milk of a questionable quality. We have yet to register a complaint from the buyers of our cheese.

LIVE STOCK EXPOSITION

From Farm and Dairy.

The International Live Stock Exposition will be held at the Union Stock Yards, Chicago, December 2 to 9.

The milk producers around Woodstock have decided that from November 1 they will charge $1.40 a cwt. for their milk instead of $1.20 as formerly. This action of the local milk men is due to the Toronto Dairy Company, which has been offering high prices to producers in that section.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Ontario Provincial Winter Fair, held in Guelph, November 1, it was decided not to open the fair until Tuesday morning, December 12. Changes were also made in the time for arrival of exhibits. Poultry exhibitors will now have until midnight on Monday to get their exhibits placed. Live stock exhibits, excepting dairy cattle, are to be in the building by 10 a.m. on Tuesday, December 12. Dairy exhibitors will follow the time given in the prize list and begin the test on Friday evening, December 8. Judging of poultry will begin on Tuesday at 8 a.m. Live stock judging, including horses, starts at 1.30 Tuesday afternoon.

ACT OF COWARDICE

James Whitney Condemned for Bringing Elections Prematurely

Valentine Stock, speaking at the South Perth Liberal nomination at Mitchell characterized the bringing on of the elections at the present time as an act of cowardice. The plea of economy because the ten bye-elections would cost $15,000, was misleading if the elections in the constituencies cost that amount the elections in the whole Province at the same rate would cost about $160,000. By cutting off one of the four years for which the Legislature was elected, one-fourth of this amount was lost and this was the reverse of economy.

The Government, Mr. Stock said had shown no desire for economy either with regard to their own salaries or in other ways. During the seven years of their administration the expenditure of the Province had increased twice as much as it did during the thirty years of Liberal rule. He criticised the action of the Government in their dealings with northern Ontario, and spoke of the cost of educating teachers under conditions which permitted so many of them to go west as soon as they received their certificates. Thus the Province received no return for the expenditure on their professional training. He condemned the inactivity of the Agricultural Committee of the Legislature, which was scarcely ever called together, and declared nothing of importance was submitted to it by the Minister of Agriculture.

AN IMPROVEMENT

From Farm and Dairy.

Arden E. Keays, Lanark Co., Ont.

Our dairy experts claim that there is an improvement in the quality and make of our cheese each year. But we are also told that the New Zealand cheese is being given the preference on the British market, and higher prices have actually been paid for their cheese.

What has been the means of lowering the reputation of our cheese? To my mind it is the careless patron and the accepting of milk unfit for the manufacture of fine cheese. This is particularly true where the competition for milk is keen. The problem to be solved is: Can the makers, by refusing to accept milk of an undesirable quality, control to a large extent the quality of the milk without injuring his trade or losing his position?

THE MAKER CAN DO IT

To my mind the maker can to a large extent control the quality of the milk delivered at his cheese factory. He should be a man of tact and good judgment, thereby insuring the cooperation of the patrons. He should be firm in his refusal to accept milk of an undesirable quality and at the same time suggest a possible remedy and pointing out the evil of accepting milk of such quality. If this information is given in a gentlemanly manner it generally insures the cooperation of the patron and induces him to produce a better article.

TORONTO, Nov. 13.—The receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards were 127 carloads, comprising 2139 cattle, 437 hogs, 1432 sheep and lambs, and 52 calves.

Stockers and Feeders.

Feeders, 850 to 1000 lbs., sold from $4 to $4.70, and one lot of 25 short-keeps, 1157 lbs., at $5.40; stockers, from $3.25 to $4.

Milkers and Springers.

There was a fair supply of milkers and springers that sold from $40 to $80 each, and one choice cow at $90. See sales quoted by the different commission men.

Veal Calves.

About 50 calves sold from $4 to $7.50 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Lambs sold at $5.25 to $5.50, and one lot of 98 select ewes and wethers weighing 95 lbs. each, sold by Dunn & Levack, at $5.65. Sheep sold at $3 to $4.75.

Hogs.

Selects fed and watered, of which there were 81 weighing 179 lbs., were bought by E. Puddy at $6.85.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Nov. 13.—At the Montreal Stock Yards, West End Market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending Nov. 11, were 2100 cattle, 1475 sheep and lambs, 4050 hogs and 650 calves. The supply on the market this morning consisted of 1200 cattle, 1000 sheep and lambs, 2000 hogs and 400 calves.

A feature of the trade was the stronger undertone to the market for cattle and prices since this day week ago show an advance of 25c per cwt., which is attributed to the higher prices ruling thruout the country, the somewhat scarcity of choice stock and the colder weather.

There was a good attendance of local buyers and as they all wanted some beef the demand was good and a more active trade was done, a large number being bought by packers and several carloads were also picked up for shipment to Quebec.

A few full loads of steers and heifers were sold at from $5.75 to $6 per cwt., and some small lots of picked steers brought as high as $6.40, but the bulk of the trading in choice stock was done at $5.35; good, at $5.90 to $6.10; fairly good, at $5.75 to $5.85; fair, at $5.25 to $5.50, and the common stock at $4.25 to $5 per cwt.

There was a good demand for canning stock, of which the supply was large and prices for such show no change as compared with a week ago, sales of bulls being made at $3 to $3.25, and cows, at $1.75 to $2.50 per cwt. Good bulls sold at $4.50 to $5.

There was a good supply of hogs on the market, but, notwithstanding this fact, the tone of the market was much stronger and prices since this day week show an advance of 25c to 35c per cwt., which was due to the higher prices being paid in the country and the keener demand from packers here, for supplies.

It is feared that the crew of 26 have perished.

AN ILL WIND

A Short Story

Freddie Van Gilden was bored—very much bored. Life on "the briny deep" after seven monotonous days of eat and sleep in endless rotation was nigh unbearable. Nevertheless, as he lay in a steamer chair on the shady after deck he chuckled in recollection of the events responsible for his present isolation.

However, Papa Van Gilden had not seen it in the same light and his usual indulgence reached a limit; result, Freddie aboard the Mermaid, his father's palatial yacht, and under the strict eyes of Captain James, for the time being, invested with all the powers of a master-at-arms. To be sure, Freddie could have some guests, but after his list of desirables had passed his father' censure it did not appeal to him. But after his first few hours of sulky rebellion Freddie's natural optimism came to the rescue and the hours not spent in sleeping and eating he sent and received messages on the wireless with which the yacht was installed.

Now, as he lay in the chair lazily watching the gulls in their graceful flight, floating with scarcely perceptible motion, swooping in great curves and rising with vigorously flapping wings, the gentle rocking of the boat, the twang of a banjo from below, where the coloured cook was entertaining the crew, and the lap-lap of little waves against the yacht's side, all combined in a charming slumber song and Freddie slept.

How long it was he did not know when he was wakened with a start, a scream ringing in his ears. Another; he jumped to his feet and gazed open-mouthed at the sky from whence the sounds came, then rubbed his eyes. Surely it was a very realistic dream. A great black cloud floated swiftly in the otherwise serene sky. Freddie awakened as by magic as the truth penetrated his half-sleeping senses, and bellowing through his megaphoned hands, "Jump! jump for your life!" he darted forward, shouting to the crew to man a boat. Hastily he detached a life preserver and threw it toward the spot. The great balloon, like a menacing storm cloud, was dropping rapidly and Freddie's warning to jump had been none too soon. The pink clad figure was struggling in the sea a short distance from the spot where the collapsed bag settled with a great gasp. None too soon the boat reached the exhausted figure.

Some hours later, after Freddie had carefully tucked the rug around the dainty girl in the steamer chair, he dropped with a sigh into another close by. His admiring gaze fastened on the pretty picture she made; the little golden curls, still damp from their wetting, clustered around the sweet face.

Suddenly Freddie chuckled. "The men haven't recovered from their shock yet. Even Chloe scarcely believes yo uare real," as he caught a glimpse of the old coloured nurse. "It's fortunate she was aboard; I don't know what we would have done, otherwise."

The girl smiled faintly. "I still feel rather dazed myself," she said, and after an instant's hesitation, added: "You must all be controlling a very natural curiosity about me and I owe some explanation. I am not an aeronaut by profession," blushingly; "it was somewhat in the nature of a dare that I went up, but I also needed the prize offered. I attend school in a small town in Massachusetts. My name is Elsie Arden. The circus was in the next town. Something must have gone wrong with the balloon or else I did not follow my instructions correctly." Her blue eyes filled with sudden tears. "I certainly was frightened when I found I was going out to sea."

Freddie's usual loquacity deserted him. Surely this was a girl of different mould from any he had ever met; dainty and refined, but certainly with unusual courage.

"You were mighty plucky," he murmured.

"When will the captain be back?" asked Elsie. "I should like to let my friends know I am safe as soon as possible."

"By Jove!" exclaimed Freddie, "never thought of it. Captain James may be back any minute, but I can send a wireless now," and excusing himself he went to despatch his good news.

Nobody had noticed the motor boat approaching, and not until a lusty shout, accompanied by shriller feminine voices reached her ears, was Elsie aware of their nearness.

She arose from her chair and stood hesitatingly as the elderly gentleman and two girls drew near, without noticing her. A gasp, a half laughing, half tearful exclamation, and she darted forward.

"Katrina! Rose!" and the three girls were in a triple embrace, laughing, crying, all talking at once. After repeated efforts Mr. Van Gilden was made known to Elsie. He had previously heard of her performance and disappearance from his daughters, and their still red eyes testified to their anxiety. They were all classmates, and Katrina and Rose were ringleaders in the coterie concerned in the dare.

Freddie, entirely forgotten, came upon the surprising scene, and more explanations followed.

Two figures sat on the after-deck, silhouetted darkly against the great red harvest moon rising from the sea. Permission had been obtained for Elsie to accompany her friends on a short cruise and to-morrow they would once again go back to the routine of everyday life.

"It has been glorious, hasn't it, Fred?" she said.

A sigh responded. "The best ever, Elsie." Silence ensued.

Katrina, from the companionway, saw the twain. A subdued giggle escaped. "My, but I bet I'll be a ravishing maid of honour in pink chiffon," she murmured, as, with another glance and irrepressible giggle she beat a retreat, boldly humming, "The Wedding March" from "Lohengrin." —Boston Post.

USUALLY ONE DOSE ENDS INDIGESTION

Dyspepsia, Heartburn, Gas and all Stomach Distress Vanishes

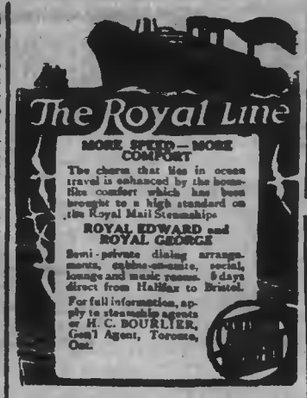
If your meals don't fit comfortably, or you feel bloated after eating, and you believe it is the food which fills you; if what little you eat lies like a lump of lead on your stomach; if there is difficulty in breathing after eating, eructations of sour, undigested food and acid, heartburn, brash or a belching of gas, you can make up your mind that you need something to stop food fermentation and cure Indigestion.

To make every bite of food you eat aid in the nourishment and strength of your body, you must rid your Stomach of poisons, excessive acid and stomach gas, which sours your entire meal—interferes with digestion and causes so many sufferers of Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Biliousness, Constipation, Griping, etc. Your case is no different—you are a stomach sufferer, though you may call it by some other name; your real and only trouble is that which you eat does not digest, but quickly ferments and sours, producing almost any unhealthy condition.

A case of Pape's Diapepsin will cost fifty cents at any Pharmacy here, and will convince any stomach sufferer five minutes after taking a single dose that Fermentation and Sour Stomach is causing the misery of Indigestion.

No matter if you call your trouble Catarrh of the Stomach, Nervousness or Gastritis, or by any other name—always remember that a certain cure is waiting at any drug store the moment you decide to begin its use.

Pape's Diapepsin will regulate any out-of-order Stomach within five minutes, and digest promptly, without any fuss or discomfort, all of any kind of food you eat.



MERCURY AT COBALT

Provincial Officials are Endeavoring to Discover Ore Combinations

The discovery of mercury in the ore at the Nipissing Mines has led to an investigation by experts of the Bureau of Mines to determine in what combinations of mineral bodies it is found, and as to whether it exists in large enough quantities to make the discovery of commercial importance.

Mercury or quicksilver was found in silver ore at the Silver Inlet Mine, famous many years ago. Some time ago Professor Miller, Provincial Geologist, examined ore at Cobalt to find mercury, but without success. Since the discovery at the Nipissing camp investigations have been resumed. In ordinary ore the mercury runs about four pounds to the ton and in purer ore that resists crushing from twenty to forty pounds to the ton.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Helping boys is at the very best a ticklish task, yet they must be trained. They must be taught the fundamental principles of earning their own livelihood and of growing up to assist others.

Boys must further be taught the art of helping others to help themselves. They must be kept from loitering about the streets, and from all unseemly behaviour. They must be assisted in finding fitting and pleasant employment. A boy will always work well at a thing which he likes, but how are you going to determine his taste without losing a lot of valuable time?

Encouraging a boy will do more good than open abuse and any reproof oft repeated will break a boy's heart. We have not grasped the key to his heart by breaking it; by forcing him to a task repulsive to him or by every day hounding him.

The necessary grip on a boy's nature can often be obtained by a kindly and genuine interest shown in whatever he does. If he thinks he is absolutely independent in carrying out some task, or if he thinks he is doing a job under his own management he will often yield to the feeling of importance thus given, and a start is made. Boys of another type, if allowed to help, will gradually yield: others under the guise of play may be persuaded to yield their natures to a better life, but sympathy warm and true will always win the worst.

Under the Boy Scout organization, and in the guise of play, a scout in trying for badges comes in contact with many difficult studies; in fact he is led into doing something more than he meant to do, and as these badges represent many varieties of study, he must be very much interested in the task or he would not master these studies. If he desires to try for the naturalist badge he is required in examination to know of and name sixty animals. He must describe the appearance, habits, etc., of at least six. He must be able to classify flowers and know the effect of rain and sun upon plant and animal life. He must be able to describe the means of telling the age of animals and the species to which they belong. Again as a gardener he must understand what grafting is. He must understand and cultivate a garden with six different vegetables and six different flowers.

As an electrician he must be able to resuscitate a patient suffering from an electric shock. He must know how to insulate himself in attempting to rescue anyone entangled in electric wires. He must instal and operate an electric bell circuit; make electric connections, etc. He may try for badges for fireman, cook, clerk, cyclist, ambulance assistant, master-at-arms, etc. His success as a scout depends upon himself, and certainly the scout organization will prove itself a big factor in helping the boys to a better and truer knowledge of what to do and how to do it.

NEW YORK, NOV. 10.—Showing that every state and territory in the United States is represented by the Boy Scouts, the national headquarters of the organization here is displaying a map which enables the visitor to see at a glance the tremendous spread of the Boy Scout movement throughout the country. The map is 12 feet long and 5 feet deep. On it green pins have been placed to mark every village, town and city that has a troop of boy scouts. On the same tag is marked the number of troops in that locality. There are 127 red pins scattered over the map showing the scout commissioners, and 228 blue pins showing what cities have local councils, supervising the activities of the boy scouts.

The map shows that there are over 5,000 scout masters in the United States. In addition there are 100 applications pending from men who wish to become scout masters. New York state is almost a solid green because there are 582 scout masters and 65 assistant scout masters. Of this number there are about 100 troops in Manhattan and about 50 in Brooklyn. In addition, New York state has about 20 local councils, and as many scout commissioners.

The map of Pennsylvania is thickly studded with green pins because there are 400 troops of boy scouts with 49 assistant scout masters scattered throughout the state, and it is reported that many other troops are in training, and some will apply for admission to the boy scouts.

Massachusetts is so thick with troops that the map is almost solid green. This state has 275 troops with 24 assistant scout masters and 20 local councils. Boston is especially strong. A close second to Massachusetts is New Jersey with 253 scout masters and 23 assistant scout masters. There are 12 local councils. Ohio has 226 scout masters and 14 assistant scout masters. Minnesota comes next with 192 troops and 6 assistant scout masters. Illinois has 188 scout masters and 17 assistants. Michigan has 161 scout masters and 8 assistant scout masters. Iowa has 144 scout masters and 6 assistants. Connecticut is next with 137 scout masters and 8 assistants. Missouri has 133 scout masters and 25 assistant scout masters. Wisconsin has 121 scout masters and 6 assistants. Indian has 96 scout masters and 7 assistants.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

ONE girl confided a secret to another. A third girl wished to know the secret and asked the second girl to tell her. The girl refused and the curious one teased. Finally, the confidante said in desperation, "Ask Gretchen yourself. I am sure she will tell you if she wants you to know."

At once the curious one went to Gretchen and said, "Nelly said that you would tell me yourself."

"Why, I never said any such thing," protested Gretchen. "How could she have told you so? I think it was abominable of her, when I trusted and confided in her."

Whereupon a fine three-sided quarrel was well under way. And the whole cause was simply an instance of that careless reporting, which I firmly believe causes half of the misunderstandings, disagreements and broken friendships in the world.

That was a case where a statement was actually beheaded, but we all know how much more intonation or infection can change the meaning of the simplest sentence.

Probably you remember the passage in Middlemarch, where Lydate appeals to his wife to help him get out of the debts, into which her extravagance has help to plunge him? Rosamond's reply is perfectly heartless, but the heartlessness is wholly in inflection.

"What can I do, Tertius?" said Rosamond, turning her eyes on his again. That little speech of four words, like so many others in all languages, is capable by varied vocal inflections, of expressing all states in mind, from helpless dimness to exhaustive argumentative perception, from the completest self-devoting fellowship to the most neutral aloofness. Rosamond's thin utterance threw into the words, "What can I do?" as much neutrality as they could hold.

Now, suppose some partisans of Rosamond were telling of Lydgate's unjustifiable wrath with his wife and were to repeat that passage. How easily in his report the "What can I do?" might become the most eager and loving offer of help from a devoted wife.

Haven't you often heard some one repeat a conversation, at which you yourself had been present and been amused and astonished at the wholesale inaccuracies, both of spirit and letter, in the report?

I do not think the repeated word is ever to be fully trusted, no matter how excellent the intentions of the reporter. Surely never to be trusted to the detriment or prejudice of the person who is the author of the speech.

Even the written word is an untrustworthy medium for conveying one's feelings. It needs the interpretation and supplement of accent, look and gesture.

Robert Louis Stevenson recounts, "Not long ago, I wrote a letter to a friend which came near involving us in a quarrel, but we met and in personal talk I repeated the worst of what I had written, added worse to that, and with the commentary of the body, it seemed not unfriendly either to say or to hear."

We all know that to communicate one thought correctly to another, is not the easiest thing in the world. Even speaking directly to our friend we may offend him when there is not the slightest intention of offense in the heart.

Considering this and how vastly more uncertain a medium are repeated or written words, it certainly seems to me that the fairest, safest thing to do is to make an invariable rule to disregard them as a matter for offense.

Don't you think so?

Ruth Cameron

FAREWELL TO KITCHENER

The farewell given to one of the patrons of the boy scouts was the greatest of its kind. Scouts of London were at the train to see him off and the scene, according to the British press, was very touching.

It was the arrival of the boy scouts which first drew the attention of the crowd to Lord Kitchener's presence. The scouts belonging to the 1st North London troop drew up before Lord Kitchener's carriage about twenty minutes before the train left, and the tall field marshal stepped out on the platform and, towering above the youth of Britain, reviewed them with the greatest seriousness and gravity. Then he made a brief speech which was quite suited to the occasion. "All of you work hard while I am away, and keep the scout law," he said. "When I come back I shall expect to see you down at Broome again, and I hope we shall have some more sport with the rabbits. I am very glad to see you, and wish you good-bye." Whereupon the scouts stuck their hats on their poles and gave three hearty cheers, which brought all the people on the platform crowding round.

THE RABBITS

The scouts had recently been in camp for a week in Broome park, near Canterbury, Lord Kitchener's residence. His lordship is president of this troop, and the boys had insisted on coming to see him off—the only concession to sentiment that Lord Kitchener had made on the occasion of his departure. His reference to rabbits recalled the exploits of the boys in Broome park, who, putting their knowledge of woodcraft to practical uses, had during the week caught and cooked some sixty or more. After re-entering his carriage Lord Kitchener called up Scoutmasters Lankester and McInnes and had a brief chat with them on the subject of scouting, and also congratulated one of the boys on having won a prize in a scouting competition which Lord Kitchener himself had promoted.

SCOUT FIREMEN

A fire broke out the other day in the grounds of Friar Park farm, Wednesday, Eng. The Wednesday scouts, who were encamped near at hand, soon arrived on the scene and after several hours' strenuous work they succeeded in putting out the flames. The work was made especially difficult as the boys had to carry buckets of water up an embankment before reaching the flames.

A SCOUT'S GALLANTRY

A man was drowned at Brightlingsea, Eng., the other week, but not before Alick Hlois, a Birmingham scout, had made a gallant attempt to save him. Seeing the man in difficulties, the scout jumped into a boat and got quite close to the unfortunate bather, when the latter sank. Boy dived twice in his attempts to recover the body. But he did his best, and no one can do more than that.

ON A LONG JOURNEY

Corporal Frank Merritt, a Romford (Eng.) boy scout, aged 17, has reached Berwick in a 400 miles' walk from Essex to Edinburgh, with a despatch for the Lord Provost of Edinburgh. His biggest day's tramp was from Darlington to Newcastle, 46 miles. He was out all night walking to Doncaster, as the scouts encamped there sought his capture. A map and the telegraph wires have been his chief guide.

THE CONQUEROR

A Short Story

"Yes," said one of the three wo-I've ever managed to remain away men who sat on the summer hotel porch, "I can hardly wait now to see Mr. Bascom. He's coming to-night to take me home. I hardly know how from James all this time. Really, James and I are a ridiculously devoted couple."

A little self-conscious laugh rippled over her full face and gently shook her plump shoulders. "I'm awfully dependent upon Mr. Bascom," she went on. "Indeed, he quite makes a baby of me. It's really beautiful, isn't it, how a great strong man loves to pet a little woman who belongs to him?"

She glanced at Miss Winters, the only unmarried woman in the group, who, being thus appealed to, said, "Yes, I suppose it is beautiful," but her tone was not one of conviction.

"Dear me," Mrs. Bascom, you shouldn't complain of your brief separation from Mr. Bascom," remarked the woman with a little girl in her lap. "You've been here only two weeks, and I've been away from home nearly all summer. I never would have done it if Mr. Collins hadn't just insisted that baby and I needed the country air. But, thank goodness, he's coming to-night too.

"Edward's the most unselfish man that ever lived, I do believe. I know he's been absolutely desolate this summer. I really think the loneliness of our apartment has affected his health. He expected to take a vacation and come up in August, but he simply couldn't get away. He's a remarkable business man. No one in the office can take his place."

She hugged her little girl and turned to Miss Winters with a smile "Isn't it wonderful how some men will work for their wives and children?"

"It certainly is," responded Miss Winters, mechanically.

"I often say to Edward that I can't understand why some rich girl didn't marry him for his good looks. He's the handsomest man, Miss Winters! Sometimes I wonder how he ever happened to pick out poor little me."

"My husband is extremely fine looking, too," said Mrs. Bascom, "and he has such a brilliant mind. Indeed, his intellect quite overshadows mine, and, to tell you the truth, he's a bit masterful in his way now and then. But we women need someone to lean on. We realise that our husbands know better than we do about many important matters, so we ought to defer to them. Don't you think so, Miss Winters?"

"I do," agreed Mrs. Collins, before Miss Winters had time to frame an answer. "I say to Edward that he must decide everything for baby and me. He's the captain of our little family craft. Dear me, Miss Winters, it must be hard for you sometimes not to have a man to assume responsibilities. But of course, girls—unmarried women—are quite independent nowadays," she added, with patronising kindness.

"Oh, I manage to rub along," returned Miss Winters, but she rose from her seat and strolled away. Although she knew herself to be a busy and happy woman, she could not help feeling solitary in the presence of such enthusiastic wives.

A brisk tramp around the lake brought back her usual good spirits and it was with only a mild envy that she saw, as she neared the hotel at dusk, one of her companions of an hour or two earlier hurrying down the driveway to meet the village bus. She paused in the shade of a tree in order not to intrude upon what she felt would be a tender reunion between husband and wife.

She was startled to see a fat, bald-headed man alight from the bus and give Mrs. Collins a most casual kiss.

"Well, I got here at last," he said, jovially. "I thought I'd run up and see if you'd like to stay here during the autumn. You can just as well as not. I'm getting along tip-top."

Was this the devoted husband who was pining away in the city for the wife of his bosom? Miss Winters asked herself this question with inward laughter.

Then she saw Mrs. Bascom striding down the path with a red-headed little man following her as meekly as a pet lamb. Could that be the intellectual giant on whose wisdom his wife depended for her guidance? Miss Winters sank upon the grass and rolled about in a paroxysm of mirth.

"And I was almost sorry for my state of single blessedness," she said to herself as she rose and went toward the hotel in joy and thankfulness.—Chicago News.

PILES

Nothing known to Science is better for this painful ailment than Zam-Buk. It reduces inflammation, stops bleeding, ends the agony. Easily applied and cleanly. Why go on suffering? Why not try it? Read the following cures.

Some Proofs of Zam-Buk's Power.

MR. THOMAS J. HOGAN, Champion Clog Dancer of Canada, 89 Chambord Street, Montreal, writes:—

"For some time past I have been troubled with Piles, but this year I suffered so much that I was obliged to cancel a number of engagements. I tried all the so-called remedies that were recommended, but they seemed to do me no good. Having been advised to try Zam-Buk, I purchased a fifty-cent box and after applying it a few times I felt marked relief. I continued with the Zam-Buk treatment and the relief was extended into a permanent cure.

MR. WILLIAM KENTY, of Upper Nine Mile River, Hants Co., N. S., says:—"I suffered terribly from Piles, the pain at times being almost unbearable. I tried various ointments but all failed to do me the slightest good. I was tired of trying remedies when I heard of Zam-Buk, and thought as a last resource I would give this balm a trial. I procured a supply, and after a very short time Zam-Buk effected what several other ointments and medicines had failed to effect—a complete cure."

Zam-Buk also cures ECZEMA, BLOOD POISON, ULCERS, COLD SORES, CHAPPED HANDS, SCALP SORES, CUTS, BURNS, BRUISES, SCALDS and all SKIN INJURIES and DISEASES. All druggists and stores, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, post free for price. Refuse harmful substitutes.

PERSIA INVADED.

British and Russian Troops Sent to Quell Troubles.

London, Nov. 14.—(via New York.)—Affairs in Persia have reached a stage which promises further encroachments upon that kingdom's independence by Russia and Great Britain. Since their agreement dividing the country into sphere of influence, these two nations appear to have worked in harmony in the direction of gradual absorption.

If Russia enforces her ultimatum by occupying a part of the north, Great Britain is likely to take a corresponding step in the south. Russia's ultimatum, which was presented to the Persian Government more than a week ago, declared that unless apologies were made for the alleged insult to M. Potroff, the Russian vice-consul, on the occasion of the seizure of the property of Shua-es-Sultaneh, and Persia made other reparation, Russia would occupy two of the provinces in the north.

Last week the Russian troops in the north, it is reported, were augmented by strong reinforcements. At the same time two regiments of Indian troops were landed at Bushire, a seaport city of Persia on the Persian Gulf, nominally for the purpose of guarding the British consulates in the south, although there is no apparent need for such forces.

The Times, replying to a long communication from W. Morgan Shuster, the American treasurer-general of Persia, complaining that Russia and Great Britain are endeavoring to destroy the independence of Persia, denies that Persia is independent. It says that Russia and Great Britain exercise control over Persia akin to that by guardians over minors.

Awaiting New Cabinet.

Teheran, Nov. 14.—The head of the Russian section of the Persian Foreign Office yesterday informed the Russian Minister that as the new Cabinet had not been formed, it was impossible for the Government to reply immediately to Russia's new demands for an apology in connection with the Petroff affair.

Not Sure It Was Whisky.

St. Catharines, Nov. 14.—Police Magistrate Campbell yesterday refused to convict Patrick Donnelly, proprietor of the Geneva House, of selling liquor without a license, because the evidence offered by the crown was that of Robert Brown, a colored man, who could not swear positively that he had been supplied with whisky, though he claimed it smelled and tasted like it. The case was not dismissed, as the magistrate wished to consider it.

In addition the crown offered the evidence of Chief Green and Sergt. McCarthy, who claimed to have searched Donnelly's house, finding a hiding place beneath the dining-room floor, containing six bottles of whisky, and supplying evidence of having contained a much larger quantity. John D. Neelon, a local wholesaler, was also forced to reveal that during the past month Donnelly had purchased three gallons of whisky, besides three dozen bottles in case.

It is possible that the crown will reduce the charge to that of keeping an unlawful quantity of whisky on the premises.

Two Feet of Snow.

Lindsay, Nov. 14.—Sunday morning the rain descended in torrents, but by night a fierce wind storm, accompanied by snow flurries, swept across the country.

At Haliburton snow fell to the depth of a few inches but at Kinmount, 20 miles away, snow fell to a depth of two feet, the result being that the Grand Trunk train to Lindsay was stalled yesterday morning, and was one hour and a half late.

Fell From Scaffold.

Toronto, Nov. 14.—William Presser, a laborer employed by A. Gardner Contracting Co., fell from a scaffold at the Reinhardt Brewery, on Mark street, at 3.35 p.m. Saturday, receiving serious injuries.

Presser was working on the construction of a new elevator shaft. He fell 36 feet, breaking two ribs, one of which pierced his lung. He was taken to the General Hospital in the police ambulance. He lives on Gowan avenue, and is married.

By Passive Resistance.

London, Nov. 14.—Ulster Unionists are forming a network of organizations for strenuous resistance to home rule. They have no idea of taking up arms, but are determined not to submit to a Dublin Parliament.

Thousands of them are already enrolled for the purpose of withholding taxes and defeating home rule by a campaign of passive resistance.

Record Heat In Chicago.

Chicago, Nov. 14.—Saturday was the hottest Nov. 11 in the history of the Weather Bureau in Chicago. The temperature was 74 at 4 p.m. John Mahoney, a freight handler, was overcome by the heat in the Illinois Central freight depot. A fall of fifty degrees is predicted.

Took Overdose.

Ottawa, Nov. 14.—As the direct result of taking an overdose of a sedative containing a mixture of chloral and potassium, Alex. Sinclair Craig, of Montreal, aged 17, who has been spending the past couple of months in the city, died here Sunday night.

Australia Wants Immigrants.

Sydney, Nov. 14.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Commonwealth Premier has promised an enquiry into the question of more shipping facilities for immigrants. He said it was agreeable to find the lack of such facilities the only difficulty.

Five Taxis Burned.

Winnipeg Nov. 14.—Fire yesterday did over $11,000 damage to George Snow's garage, where five taxicabs, valued at $10,000, were burned or damaged, and to the extent of probably $1,000 to the building.

Col MacNaghten Gets C.V.O.

DEPUTATION FOR OTTAWA

City Fathers Will Leave on Thursday Night to Take Up Power Matters at the Capital

WHOLE COUNCIL GOES

The Power Committee waited on the Board of Works last evening with regard to making arrangements for the trip to Ottawa. Ald. Bradburn thought that there would not be ample accommodation for the deputation in the hotels at Ottawa, now that the Parliament is in session. It was finally decided to leave the matter of making arrangements with the Power Committee with power to act.

At the last meeting of the Council it was decided to send a deputation to Ottawa to interview Hon. Frank Cochrane, on the subject of cheaper power for Peterborough, and it was decided last evening, that the deputation will go to Oshawa on Thursday evening, the Power Committee going down at noon, as an advance guard. Some of the Aldermen were in favour of going at noon on Thursday, but arrangements could not be made to suit. Ald. Edgar said that he would like to go at noon, as he had some private business to do, but Ald. Graham said that the object of the deputation was not to do private business and hat any man going on private business, would not have his way paid. Ald. Bradburn thought that it would be better to telephone to Ottawa to-morrow, and arrange for rooms at the hotels, and he was also in favour of making arrangements with Mr. Mellroy, of the C.P.R., to charter a car to take the deputation down. This matter was, however, left with the Power Committee.

Ald. Buller thought that some other officials should be taken along also, including the Chairman of the Water Commissioners. Chairman of the Trust Commissioners, President of the Board of Trade, and a few other such men.

"Don't you think we should take a reporter?" asked Ald. Graham.

Ald. Buller thought the newspapermen should get an invitation, too; but the Chairman thought that it was out of the question, as they were not city officials.

A number of city officials will likely accompany the Council's deputation, although nothing definite was arranged.

Who Are Going.

In conversation with Ald. Bradburn, this afternoon, the Examiner was informed that the members of the Council, only, will comprise the deputation, which will wait upon Hon. Frank Cochrane, on Friday, at Ottawa. Invitations were extended to the President of the Board of Trade, Mr. V. Eastwood, the Chairman of the Water Commissioners, Mr. T. F. Matthews, and the chairman of the City Trust Commissioners, Mr. W. H. Moore; but these men have informed the Council that they will be unable to go. The following will be the deputation: Aldermen Bradburn, Duncan, Edgar, Graham, Kernegan, Anderson, Morgan, Metheral, and Mayor Morrow. Reeve E. A. Tanner and other Lakefield citizens are also going down to Ottawa, and will accompany the deputation.

Quebec The Stronghold

Examiner Special:

MONTREAL, NOV. 14.— The province of Quebec should always remain the stronghold of the French race in America,' said Mgr. Pascal, Bishop of Prince Albert, who is here on a visit this morning. It would be a mistake for the French Canadian people to seek other fields in the Dominion while they have such fair patrimony.

WRITE FOR PICTURES

Local citizens, who have sent pictures to the Rayner Bros., Portarit and Picture Co., and have not received same, may find their name in a list, which the Dominion Portrait and Picture Company have sent to the police, having taken over the business from the Rayner Bros. A list of the unsalled for portraits and the addresses of their owners may be seen, and the pictures may be had for writing for them to the Company's establishment at Ottawa.

FOREIGNER IS CHARGED WITH ASSAULTING WIFE

Antonio Mascarrion Pleads Guilty and Told Magistrate Dumble That He was Going to be Boss in His Own House---"I Will Hit Her Again When She Needs It" --Case Was Remanded.

A rather unusual case was aired in the Police Court this morning when Antonio Mascarrion, an Italian residing on London street, was arraigned on a charge of assaulting his wife. After a slight resistance his arrest was effected last night, at his residence by P. C. Kidd, when he was brought to the Police Station. Through the medium of an interpreter, Mr. Thos. Minicolo, the prisoner pleaded guilty of assault. When asked why he did it, he said that she went out and was away about two hours, during which time she left their little child alone in the house. "Have you ever done this before" asked the Magistrate. "I did it about seven years ago," answered Antonio. It appears that the assault consisted of blows inflicted by the defendant's closed hand, and kicks. When found by the Police, Mrs. Mascarrion was in a bad condition. Her face was cut and bleeding, and terribly swollen. She was unable to attend the Police Court this morning, so the case was enlarged until Friday, when she will give evidence.

The Magistrate asked the witness why he had done such a terribly brutish act, and he answered that he was going to be boss in his own house.

"Will you do it again?" asked the Magistrate.

"I will hit her again, when she needs it," said the defendant.

The Magistrate thought it wise to change the prisoner's ideas on that subject, and concluded by advising him that he would not be let go until he furnished $500.00 bonds to keep the peace, and two sureties of $250.00 each. The case will be tried on Friday, and the prisoner will remain in the cells in the meantime.

GUY FAWKES CONCERT A SPLENDID SUCCESS

Programme Was Extensive and Varied---Rev. W. C. Riddiford of Park Street Baptist Church Occupied the Chair

A large number of people braved the wintry element last night to attend the Guy Fawkes concert, given under the auspices of Loyal Orange Lodge in the Foresters' Hall. This was the concert which was to be held on Monday, Nov. 6th, but owing to the unfavourable weather on that occasion, had to be postponed for a week. The programme, given in full below, was a varied and interesting one and every number was rendered with creditable ability on the part of the artists. On more than one occasion, the walls of the hall rang with the hearty applause following the rendition of the various numbers.

Rev. W. C. Riddiford favoured the event with his presence and filled the position of chairman very acceptably. He was not slow to grasp opportunity by the forelock and sandwich in a few jokes when occasion permitted and needless to say the crowd enjoyed them immensely.

Legal Machinery To Protect The Maimed Human "Machine"

It is a crying shame that the Whitney Government for seven long years have acted toward the Mechanic and Workman like a stony-hearted step-mother and have not remedied their long-standing grievance by placing a decent and honest Compensation Act upon our Statute books, the same as has been done in England, Germany and other civilized countries.

What is wrong with the Whitney Government any way that they would not do this?

Right in our midst we have every day the bleeding wounds of workmen crying out for compensation. These wounds have cried in the ears of the Whitney Government from every part of the Province for seven years, and yet nothing has been done.

Take the case of a local employee who in September last was working in a city establishment, and while he was in the act of taking up steel discs one of them flew up and totally destroyed the sight of his left eye. He is a man dependent on his work for a living, and he will be for months under the doctor's care and may lose the sight of the other eye. This is one of those common accidents for which the law provides no relief.

If a piece of machinery in the shop of a manufactory breaks or is injured the proprietors have to repair it at their own expense, but if a piece of their machinery in the form of a human being is injured then we find, in nine cases out of ten, under our law at the present time that piece of human machinery may be thrown out on the street without any relief, and allowed to eke out a miserable existence.

Any act that is now passed will not benefit the man who lost his sight; but the question for every workman to ask himself is: "May not such an accident that has happened "to him happen to me?"

Mr. R. R. Hall, the Liberal Candidate, has pledged himself to every elector that "the Workman's Compensation "Act should be radically remodelled and extended so that "full and ample damages may be given to a workman or his "family on account of any injury he may sustain in the "course of his employment."

HOTEL WAS BURNED

$10,000 Blaze at West Lorne This Morning—Close Call for Twenty Guests

MANAGED TO ESCAPE

Special to The Examiner.

ST. THOMAS, ONT., NOV. 14.—The Elgin hotel, a three-storey brick building at West Lorne, near here, was totally destroyed by fire this morning at two o'clock, the guests, to the number of twenty, getting out safely, though some of them with few clothes in a breezy atmosphere. The loss will be ten thousand dollars, partly insured.

The McNamara Trial Farce

Editor Examiner:

LOS ANGELES, CAL., NOV. 14.—They are proceeding with the farcical attempt to get a jury in the McNamara trial. To be accepted by both sides and to be sworn in to help try this case means that a man has practically no opinions on anything connected with social and moral reform. Three hundred and twenty-five have so far been called on, and asked to stand aside. Oscar Lawlor, formerly Assistant Attorney-General in the Federal Service to-day joined the staff of assistants to prosecuting Attorney Fredericks.

Wreck On The C.P.R.

Special to The Examiner.

FORT WILLIAM, ONT., NOV. 14.—There has been a wreck on the Canadian Pacific some miles west of here caused by a mistake, following confusion in telephoning train order. All traffic delayed seven hours. There are no details here.

Veteran Compositor

Special Wire to The Examiner.

GUELPH, ONT., NOV. 14—George Copp, compositor on the Mercury, holds the record for long service in the composing room of Canadian newspaper's office and he will be tendered a complimentary banquet shortly on the completion of his fiftieth year on the Mercury. It is proposed to invite men from the various cities of Ontario who have served under Copp, and they are many.

PARALYZED LIMBS

To-day it is sleeplessness, headaches, digestive trouble, and irritability. Next thing you know some form of paralysis has developed. Mr. Alex. Hossburger, 16 Moore Street, St. Catharines, Ont., writes: "Nervous trouble developed into paralysis of the limbs so that I became helpless. Doctors failed me, but after using ten boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I resumed work, and now feel better than I did for 20 years."

Rats In Morgue

Special to The Examiner:

MONTREAL, Q., NOV. 14.— On viewing the remains of their sixteen months old child in the morgue of the Isolation hospital where she died of diphtheria, Mr. and Mrs. Moran discovered that during the night a huge hole had been bitten in the child's face by rats. An immediate investigation of conditions at the hospital has been ordered.

O'Brien's tender is $25.00 higher than last year. Saxby's tender is $20 higher than last year, and Revoy's tender is $30.00 higher than last year.

Contracts.

The following got contracts:

Revoy got the contract for No. 8, on motion of Ald. Duncan, seconded by Ald. Anderson; Coombs got No. 5, on motion of Ald. Graham, seconded by Ald. Duncan; Saxby got No. 3, on motion of Ald. Duncan, seconded by Ald. Graham; O'Brien got No. 7, on motion of Ald. Anderson, seconded by Ald. Brown. John Doig got No. 2 on motion of Ald. Duncan, seconded by Ald. Brown. Ald. Graham moved that Mr. Flaherty be given the contract for No. 2, on the ground that John Doig, being a cripple, could not fill the position. Ald. Buller seconded the motion, but no person was in favour and the former motion carried.

Engineer for South End Pumping Station.

Engineer Jamieson of the Fire Station will be the South End pumping station engineer, at a salary of $100 per year, beginning November 1st, and will receive $25 for services already performed. A communication was received from Wm. Foster, applying for the position of an engineer for the pumping station, but the above conclusion was arrived at, after Ald. Metheral presented the report of his interview with Mr. Jamieson. At the last meeting, it was arranged that the Chairman of the Fire Water and Light Committee, and Chairman of the Board of Works interview Engineer Jamieson on the matter, and report back to the Board, which was accordingly done last evening, and with the stated result. Engineer Jamieson also asked, in addition to the salary, that a telephone be installed in his residence, but Ald. Duncan and Ald. Graham objected to this, on the ground that it was not likely to be needed, as the well would prevent any damage being done by water, even if anything did happen during his absence, and later, if it was found necessary to install a 'phone, it could be done, but for the present that part of the agreement was left out. The salary will be paid monthly.

Great Waste of Money.

"There is a matter I would like to draw the attention of the Board to," said Ald. Bradburn, "and that is the installing of these catch basins, when there is a couple of feet of frost in the ground. This is something that should have been done earlier in the season, and not when the ground is frosen up, when it will cost twice as much to do the job."

"We have been unable to get men to do it," replied the Engineer, "and more than that, the material, pipes, etc., just arrived, less than ten days ago."

Ald. Bradburn thought that there was mismanagement somewhere in the matter, or the basins would have been installed by this time.

Several minor matters, such as locating some of the basins was then dealt with. On motion of Ald. Duncan, the street railway will be asked to extend their line up to Langton street. Ald. Duncan also asked that lights be placed up to the Isolation Hospital, but no action was taken.

Dr. Pulkinghorn, of the Pulkinghorn livery, was present, requesting to be allowed to erect a shed to put his vehicles in for the winter. The request was granted.

There were present at the meeting, Ald. Metheral resented the report of Ald. Metehral, chairman; Ald. Granegan, Buller, Anderson, and City Engineer.

THE LIFE AND WORK OF GENERAL BOOTH, HEAD OF THE SALVATION ARMY

At a meeting of the Young Peoples' Association, held last evening in the schoolroom of Knox church, Ensign Merritt gave a very interesting and edifying lecture on the "Life and Work of General Booth."

The lecture was enlivened by the singing of some very fine solos and anthems by the songsters of the local branch of the Salvation Army, and the prayers were led by the Rev. H. J. Keith. The Salvation Army now exists in fifty-four countries, and its teachings are expounded in thirty-six languages. There are twenty thousand bandsmen, and upwards of three million of people attend the meetings.

In lecturing on the life of the chief and founder of this organization, Ensign Merritt said:

General Booth was born (of very poor parents) in Nottingham, on the 10th of April, 1829, and is therefore in his 83rd year. His father, who was engaged in a mercantile business, succeeded in amassing an amount of money, but owing to some misfortune became a bankrupt, and in consequence died prematurely. His mother, with a family of eight, was left in abject circumstances, as far as finances were concerned. Of the eight children, Wm. Booth is the only one living, and during his life he had intense love and admiration for his mother, who was a genuine Christian. Up to the age of 15 years, William had been brought up a Christian in the church of England. At the age of 15 he came in contact with some Wesleyan Methodists and attended their services. At this time he was brought to realize that he was lost and undone. He went to the altar of the church and prayed fervently, which action resulted in his becoming a true Christian. The young man resolved to do the work of God, and his mother relaxing this, consented to his going to the Wesleyan church. In this church he shortly became an active worker.

At the age of 17 years he became a local preacher and conducted open air meetings. In 1852, William Booth was expelled from the church owing to his supposed sympathy for the movement called the reform movement. Booth was wrongly interpreted when he was suspected to be in league with these dissenters. However, following his expulsion, he bound himself to the new church, and was accepted as a minister, spending seven years in that capacity. During the time of his ministry he was married to Katherine Mumford, who afterwards assisted him greatly in his work. In 1855 Booth was appointed by the church as an evangelist. Upon this there was some dissention and he was ordered back to a regular ministry. He refused to go and consequently left the church and commenced a mission on his own account. Finally he drifted into old London, where, in the multitudes living in the east end, he saw the field for his future efforts. His first meeting was held in an old Quaker burying ground; and his headquarters were an old woollen mill. In 1865 the east end mission was started and in 1870 the name was changed from "The East End Mission" to "The Christian Mission." The present name, namely "The Salvation Army," was applied in 1877, and it was in that year that the existing system of military organization was formed. The organization continued to grow until the present day and the results are well known.

READY AT OTTAWA

Conservative Members Are Acting Like Children With New Toys —In Their New Seats

OPENING TO-MORROW

Special to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, ONT., NOV. 14.—The precincts of Parliament are taking on their sessional aspect. Quite a few of the members have already arrived to locate their seats and find private rooms assigned to them. The Conservatives who sat in opposition last session, are acting like children with new toys. They took possession of their new seats bright and early and stayed there welcoming old pals with boyish enthusiasm and piloting new members through the buildings, introducing them around and generally giving them good advice. The Liberals are dropping in by degrees. Chief Whip Pardee came this morning and has been very busy looking after the transfer of various rooms and other changes which the turnover necessitated.

OLD-TIME REMEDY DARKENS THE HAIR

Gives Colour, Lustre, to Faded Gray Hair—Dandruff Quickly Removed

From time immemorial, sage and sulphur have been used for the hair and scalp. Almost everyone knows of the value of such a combination for darkening the hair, for curing dandruff and falling hair, and for making the hair grow.

In olden times the only way to get a hair tonic of this sort was to brew it in the home fireplace, a method which was troublesome and not always satisfactory. Nowadays almost every up-to-date druggist can supply his patrons with a ready-to-use product, skillfully compounded in perfectly equipped laboratories. The Wyeth Chemical Company of New York put up an ideal remedy of this sort, called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, and authorize druggists to sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

If you have dandruff, or if your hair is turning gray or coming out, don't delay, but get a bottle of this remedy to-day, and see what a few days' treatment will do for you.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

Child Dead Father In Gaol

A very pathetic incident occurred to-day, when the infant child of Antonio Mascarrion, passed away, while its father languished in the dark cells of the county gaol, with a charge of assault hovering over his head. Mascarrion was arraigned in the Police Court this morning, charged with assaulting his wife, and brutally abusing her. He pleaded guilty and was remanded until Friday, when she would be in a fit condition to give evidence against him. To-day, the child expired after a long illness. It had never been very strong and succumbed as a result of its weakness.

Proposes Test Case

Editor Examiner:

MONTREAL QUE., NOV. 14.—A test case before the privy council with the validity of Ne Temere as a point at issue, is the remedy proposed by Rev. W. Sanders, Rural Dean, for the present situation in Quebec, regarding the mixed marriage situation, which he terms monstrous. The Dean was speaking at a meeting in Unity Hall, Wellington street, last evening of Diamond L.O.L. This is probably the strongest Orange lodge in the province of Quebec.

CRIMINAL NEGLECT.

A letter in a morning contemporary from the Dominion member for West Peterborough, emphasizes the guilt — this is not too strong a term for the conditions—of Sir James Whitney and his government in respect of their criminal negligence and heartless indifference to the claims to government assistance of the thousands suffering from tuberculosis.

Sir James Whitney, has no sympathy with the movement for the relief of sufferers from tuberculosis. "Pooh! pooh!" he says, "the whole thing is exaggerated," and in this way he shakes off responsibility, and in his despotic way, ignores the plainly expressed desires of the people and neglects the plain duty of the government to assist in providing curative and palliative measures for the treatment of consumption. Thousands of Ontario people go to their graves every year, whose lives might be saved or prolonged for years, if the government did its duty in assisting to provide facilities of treatment, within the reach of those who cannot afford treatment at expensive institutions. The neglect of the Whitney government in this regard is nothing less than criminal.

JOHN V. BORNE REWARDED.

A despatch announces that the activity of John V. Borne in the recent Federal campaign has been rewarded. As John V. Borne he wrote numerous articles, which were published in country newspapers, appealing to the British-born to support the Conservative candidates, and as Mr. Arthur Hawkes of Toronto he made the same appeal on the platform. The despatch states in effect:

"Hon. Robert Rogers, who is in Montreal, announced the appointment of Mr. Hawkes as special Commissioner for the Department of Immigration, with a roving commission to investigate the whole Immigration Department both in Canada and abroad. He is to enter upon his new duties at once, and will make a tour of inspection, first through the west and then through Great Britain."

Mr. Hawkes, for his work in corralling and herding the British-born in the Conservative camp has got his rich reward — a "soft sit," at high pay and all the luxuries of the season. What is there for the real thing, the chaps that were carried away by a false appeal. A month or two ago, they were the "hope of the empire," championed by Mr. Hawke and coddled and courted by the party managers. While Mr. Hawke is drawing his big salary, who will look after many of the British-born, who are looking after a dinner to-morrow, or a place to lay their heads? Machine politics is a great game, when it is played by the experts, such as those who handled Mr. Hawke, who in turn handled the British-born.

NO TRUCE WITH THE TRAFFIC.

Christian Civilization" was the subject of the address given by the Hon. Oliver Stewart of Chicago at the second meeting of the Canadian Temperance League in Massey Hall. The audience of over 2000 was presided over by Hon. A. B. Morine, K.C.

The speaker said in effect:

"No one would question the fact that drunkenness was one of the greatest curses of the present day civilization, and yet men would argue that the business of making drunkards was in the interests of the country and should be protected and legalised by law.

Mr. Stewart declared there was fallacy in the argument put forward by the liquor men in the State of Maine that by opening up saloons drunkenness would decrease. He said that if men had already acquired the appetite for strong drink the opening of barrooms wouldn't take it away, nor would the difficulty to obtain liquor be increased. It was logical then, that the barrooms increased drunkenness.

Prohibition," he said. "even poorly enforced, is better than the liquor traffic, for the license system is fundamentally wrong, and is the meanest and most dangerous enemy of Christian civilization."

Of course, there will be differences of opinion upon this subject, but there are thousands that think the license system is an evil, especially as it is administered in Ontario under the Whitney government as a part of the political machine. The Whitney government is entitled to its opinion, in one sense, but in another sense its opinion is subject to that of those in whose interests they exist as a government. They are responsible to the people who give them power to protect the interests of the people—to carry out the wishes of the people.

Where Sir James Whitney and his government are chiefly at fault in regard to the Liquor License question, is that they not only administer the license law in their own political interests, but deny the people the chance of giving a fair expression of opinion on the subject, a despotic attitude to assume and one in which the Whitney government enjoys a bad eminence. The public are overwhelmingly in favour of the abolition of the bar; but through the legislation of the Whitney government, the majority is powerless; their expressed wishes do not count unless they reach an arbitrary standard. The three-fifths majority, which the Whitney law requires to bring the local option law into effect, destroys the liberties of the people, nullifies their majority and makes the vote of a man opposed to abolition of the bar three-fifths greater than that of the man in its favour. The result of this law is a wholesale defeat of the will of the people. In the past five years, this unfair system of voting was attended with the following results:

The people carried local option by a majority in 306 municipalities; the Whitney government permitted local option to pass, in spite of majorities, in only 186 municipalities.

The people voted for licenses in only 81 municipalities; the Whitney law forced the retention of licenses in 201 municipalities.

The people voted for the keeping open of 322 bars; the Whitney law compelled the keeping open of 743 bars.

The chief point at issue in regard to the un-British and unfair three-fifths majority is not so much the merits of local prohibition and the demerits of the liquor traffic, as it is a question of stifling the voice of the people, denying them the right to get what they vote for; a blow at the very root of free representative institutions. The three-fifths majority arrangement is a scheme to rob two-fifths of the people of a vote and destroy the British principle of majority rule. If the same law were applied to the election of Mr. Whitney's supporters; if they had to have a three-fifths majority to quality them to enter parliament he would be robbed of a large part of his big majority which helps him to play the autocrat and defy the will of the people.

The King of England cannot of himself deprive the poorest man in the kingdom of his vote; yet, in a British province, Premier Whitney by the help of his big majority, takes power to rob thousands of otherwise free British subjects in Ontario of their votes, or, which amounts to the same thing, the full effect of them.

ASQUITH'S PLAN OF CAMPAIGN.

(Montreal Herald)

The upset in the Conservative party in England quite naturally gives rise to renewed speculation as to what are the chances of a survival of Liberal rule. Granted that Mr. Balfour's health may be other than he could wish, it is still significant that his decision to retire came just after Mr. Asquith had served notice of his intention to press forward another radical measure.

The programme, as now outlined, groups Home Rule, Welsh Church disestablishment, and universal suffrage, with one man one vote, and, presumably, all voting one day. We may expect that before these measures have progressed very far there will be a return to the English and Scottish land acts, which rather suffered at the hands of the Lords before the change in the status of the body. The intention of Mr. Asquith very manifestly is to prevent Irish Home Rule being made the single issue between the parties. Those who want redress, wherever they are, must make common cause to get it, and then will all get it. If they do not hold together they all stand to lose. That is the moral of Mr. Asquith's move. It was by the use of just such tactics that he and his friends crowded the Lords to the wall, building up in three years a case for disciplining that body which found interested support in every corner of the nation.

In point of fact, if Mr. Asquith is able to carry through his programme, there is not going to be much joy about being Opposition leader, for some little time. The breaking of the Lords' power was a heavy blow. If the multiplied voting power of the rich is also to be abolished, and the voting power of the democracy to be increased by an extension of the franchise, there must be many counties where, over such domestic issues as are now being forced to the front, Toryism must stand to lose heavily. Radicalism to gain. To beat the Liberals under such a handicap was no task for a leader whose own party was divided, whose authority was undermined.

ALL A MISTAKE.

(Ottawa Free Press.)

In its zeal for the Tory party, the Ottawa Journal hastened to congratulate the Whitney Government on its decision, according to the announcement in Toronto Conservative newspapers, to take the liquor license system out of politics altogether and place it in the hands of a non-partisan commission. The Journal regarded it as further evidence of the ability of the Whitney Government to give a "square and efficient" administration to the province. It declared:

And if local commissioners are to continue, the only way to get the matter out of the party rut is to have the appointments of local commissioners made by a permanent central board not as amenable to party advice as any government of the day is sure to be.

And now it turns out that it was all a mistake. Sir James Whitney has no intention of taking the liquor license question out of politics, and he repudiates the Toronto Tory papers which announced his intention to apoint a commission on the day that the new Liberal platform appeared containing that as one of its planks.

In view of this plank in the Liberal platform, the Mail and Empire and the News hastened the other day to claim it as a Whitney plank. The license system was about to be placed under a non-partizan commission by Mr. Hanna, they said. "Is that so?" exclaimed the Premier next day. "We are not going to do anything of the kind." "Certainly not," said the News, as soothingly as it could, in the haste of the moment. And then it continued, not in these words, but in words to this effect: "Yesterday we endorsed the idea heartily in the belief that you were going to do it, but we didn't believe in it then, and do not now. Certainly not, Sir James. We are opposed to it, unless you are going to do it."

The license administration policy of the Whitney government is condemned even by its own political friends, and where the condemnation is not direct, as in the case of the Journal, quoted above, it is indirect in the form of the Mail and Empire and News, hailing with joy a commission to fairly administer the license law. When they change front on finding that Sir James Whitney has no intention of taking license administration out of politics, they are acting the party of dutiful party journals, but that does not weaken the force of their implied condemnation of the partizan administration of the license law.

CURED HIS WIFE SO WE TRIED THEM

Suffered with his Kidneys and was very feeble, but now he is feeling fine.

Saint Wallburg, Sask., Nov. 13.—(Special).—One healthy, happy family in this neighbourhood are always ready to speak a good word for Dodd's Kidney Pills. They are Mr. and Mrs. Leon Sergent, and here is the reason in Mr. Sergent's own words:

"I suffered with my Kidneys and I was very feeble. My urine was thick and had a brick-dust sediment. As Dodd's Kidney Pills had already cured my wife I bought three boxes. Now my urine is normal and I feel fine."

It is statements such as these that give Dodd's Kidney Pills their popularity. They are no cure-all. They simply cure diseased Kidneys and the ills that come from diseased Kidneys. But no matter what neighbourhood you visit you find some man or woman who has been sick and in pain and has been cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills. For a score of years this work has been going on and to-day in every part of Canada Dodd's Kidney Pills are known as the one sure cure for Kidney Disease, Urinary Troubles, Backache, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Diabetes and Bright's Disease.

GIVE THEM TRAINING

In spite of all the talk regarding domestic economy and all the training that is coming to the fore in preparation of woman for the home, when that is to be the place where her lifework is to centre, we still see girls growing to womanhood, trained for—nothing in particular.

And it seems eminently unfair to them, whatever happens, whether they finally are forced to step out in the big arena where victory goes to the strongest or whether they marry. In the latter event, it is distinctly unfair, too, to the men whose fortunes they share.

In homes of wealth it may matter much that woman is unprepared—but then, trained service is at her disposal wherever she goes, and she can buy what she lacks. Perhaps it will be a second best, but money is a wonderful lubricant, and if personal service is not rendered, the machinery of home goes merrily on, none the less.

It is the ordinary girl of whom we are thinking, the girl of whom we home, where things go fairly well, financially, so long as the father maintains his earning capacity, the girl who graduates from school, and stops right there.

And it is manifestly unjust to prepare her for nothing, because unless she is made of pretty good material, it means a hard way ahead.

Sooner or later the time will come when she must take some thought for the future, and it means either marriage or some new and untried way of earning money. The inference is that she will marry, but she was not made ready for it, and if she does become a wife there must be a long period of learning how to be a helpmate.

And there are two sides to the marriage question. We expect a man to assume the financial end of it, and if he is unable to support a wife we wonder at his temerity in undertaking the responsibility. But when he is prepared to do all he can he has a right to look to his wife for equal preparedness. It may be very considerate and manly to condone all the wretched failures of a young wife, but it scarcely seems fair that she should postpone her training until it comes through the school of experience. The first year of life together is quite a test, and some folk are woefully slow in learning how to cook and all the niceties of housekeeping.

But she may not marry. And though she has a pretty fair education and is reasonably bright she is not really ready for anything.

For when she left school she studied music, or art, just enough to bring a measure of entertainment, nothing more. No one told her it was important to learn to do something well, something that stood for dollars and cents in this practical world; and her own observation of life and her own judgment failed to whisper that important truth.

"How will it end?" I do not know; but I do not envy her.

There is the occasional girl who is never taught a thing about housekeeping, but when she becomes the presiding genius over a particular home, something dependable and resourceful comes to the rescue and she slips in her new place, gets down to her new work as to the manner born, and all goes well.

But there is the other kind, the girl who does not know how to spend or how to save, how to cook or how to serve, the girl who is not over-fond of housework anyway, and not much inclined to try to learn. And she is the girl who must try the soul of the man she marries, and test his patience to the breaking point.

And she is the girl who should be shown every inch of the way, for her own sake and because it is very unfair to the man who does his part.

And so with the woman who turns to self-support eventually. Some may be unprepared and unskilled, but when the pressure of necessity comes there is inherent strength and ability to take hold of untried work and to see possibilities to be had for the trying, and they manage to do something worth while, and to make good in spite of handicaps.

But it is pathetic to see the sorry little attempts that others make, to note their failures, and, worst of all, to know that they might have done well if they had been started aright.

Many, many women drudge out their lives to a weary finish at uncongenial work to which emergency drove them, fairly well educated in a general way, but untrained for anything in particular, and somehow lacking the ability to rise above the very commonplace unless specifically trained for something different.

I happen to have in mind a particular girl who has long since forgotten her graduation day and is picking up new threads for a new life, and I must wonder what will happen, for she hates housework and refuses to learn to elevate it from the level of drudgery.

Yet she has no funds of her own, her parents have no wealth to spare, and she is quite untrained for any kind of service in which money is involved.

Doubtless some man will rescue her—but who will rescue him?—Francesca, in Rochester Times.

Report On Horse Market

Toronto, Nov. 11, 1911.

Business was a little better this week and quite a few loads were taken away, although it can be said that the market is on the whole rather dull.

Prices are actually down a little from the quotations, and bidding at the auctions is not very brisk. Supplies are coming in well. Drivers and light horses are poor sellers, but the heavy ones and the cheap fat ones go readily.

Single roadsters, 15 to 16 hands, $100 to $225.

Single cobs and carriage horses, 15 to 16.1 hands, $80 to $300.

General purpose and express horses, 1200 to 1350 lbs. $140 to $200.

Draught horses, 1350 to 1750 lbs., $150 to $250.

Serviceable second hand workers, $50 to $150.

Serviceable second hand drivers, $30 to $75.

POST CARD COLUMN

Dear Examiner,—Give me a line to say something, to ask a little question. Does it not seem inconsistent, or at least queer, that our city fathers recently spent so much eloquence over the pinched-in pillars in front of the public library, while our streets were almost impassable, swimming in mud, the worst highways in the county of Peterborough? For weeks they have been a disgrace and a fraud, till the merciful frost solidified the mud. We dont' have to drive over the pillars of the Public Library. We shouldn't even see them or see anything wrong, if our eagle-eyed aldermen didn't point it out, while they can't see the ocean of mud that, till yesterday, flooded the streets of the city.

Yours truly,
TEAMSTER.

ROSS CRAIG'S SENSATIONAL WORK IN ALERT GAME

One man who deserves credit for the Alert victory is Ross Craig. The former Dundas boy played the best game of his career, and that is saying something. Ross was always rated as one of the best line-plungers playing the game in Canada, and his work on Saturday only added further to his reputation. The big fellow was always prominent, and try as they would the Crimson could not check his plunges. When the Toronto team had the wind, the Alerts were content to hold on to the ball, and in order to do so, Craig was given the brunt of the work. Only those who saw the struggle, know just how much he did, and it is no wonder that the crowd went wild when they saw him plough through the big T.A.A.C. line repeatedly for large gains. He never tired, and in the last quarter, when the visitors threatened to win out with the help of the wind, he went through their line without hardly any effort. There was but five minutes to go, and play was in midfield, with the Alerts in possession. If they kicked it meant that the Toronto backs would return and carry the play into Alert territory, so they decided that their only hope lay in giving the ball to Craig. Their confidence in him was not misplaced, for he succeeded in gaining twenty yards on the first down. Again and again he was sent against the line, and each time it crumpled before his rushes like so much paper, with the result that play was soon in the Crimson end of the lot. The crowd was so elated over his valiant efforts that it kept shouting to give Craig the ball, and the Torontos, thinking that he would again attempt to get through, were caught off their guard, for Norm Clark took up the work and succeeded in bucking through. The remaining distance was easy for Craig to negotiate, and the game was won. With this grand piece of work, the enthusiasm of the crowd knew no bounds, and it is no wonder that exclamations of "Isn't he a wonder?" were heard from every corner of the field. Without a doubt, the work of Craig was of a real sensational order, and ranked him as one of the best wing men of the present day. It is a safe bet that he will be guarded when the Alerts and Argos meet.—Hamilton Herald.

CANADIAN HOBBIES.

Many of Our Big Men Have a Predilection For Killing.

It is in the use of the spare moments that men have for themselves that they reveal the real spirit and quality of their living. The deadly tasks which crowd the days from morning until night sap the energies and stifle individuality; but when in the brief intervals of leisure one does the thing he wants to do in response to the desire that is within him, he shows what he really cares for and gives expression to his own personality.

The Canadian "Who's Who" is an interesting study in the careers of several thousand of Canadian men and women who have attained distinction in some line of activity; but the significant features of these brief histories are not so often in the records of success and accomplishment as in the list of recreations in which these men indulge in their moments of leisure. Recreation is play, whether for body or for mind, in the form of outdoor sport or athletics, intellectual study or in the expression of emotion or personality in the form of art. Even riding a hobby is play, and a hobby is often a test of character.

Of the 660 whose recreations are quoted, 225, or more than one-third, acknowledge shooting as a favorite form of play. Of these fourteen at least specify rifle target shooting, and six big game shooting. The rest it may be presumed are devoted to hunting in one form or another. "Let us go out and kill something," is the way a witty Frenchman once described the Englishman's idea of sport, and the Canadian seems in a fair way to follow his example. Fishing and shooting go together with a large number of people, and 168 mention fishing as a recreation.

Golf and bowling, however, are the recognized recreations of many successful men. Next to hunting and shooting, golf appeals to a larger number than any other individual form of sport. There are 199 golfers and fifty-five bowlers among the list, among whom are judges, lawyers, physicians, business and professional men in all walks of life.

There are also those whose chief pleasure in the margins of their days is in the company of Mother Nature, trying to understand something of her marvellous secrets. When the work of the day is over 38 turn to gardening as recreation, twelve to farming, ten to horticulture, three to fruit-growing, three to botany, two to poultry-raising, two—and all honor to them—to tree-planting, and one each to floriculture, orchard work, vine culture, bee-keeping and plant study.

The most extraordinary thing, however, about the entire list of recreations is the comparatively small number who find play in intellectual or artistic pursuits. Twenty-two claim to find relaxation in music, and twenty-one in reading. Of these one confesses that his attitude towards music is that of listener rather than performer, and Mr. J. Castell Hopkins gives the reading of novels as his only recreation. Six others give literature as their refuge in their hours of ease, three others mention books, and one poetry. Sir William Osler's recreation is bibliography, John Tolmie, M.P., is fond of Scotch poetry and music, T. B. Flint, clerk of the House of Commons, is given to travel and research, Sir James Grant is a collector of Siburian fossils, and W. L. Goodwin, of the Kingston School of Mines, is a student of birds and their songs.

Three men are philatelists, but only one, the Chinese Consul-General at Ottawa, is a numismatist as well. Mr. A. H. W. Cleave, superintendent of the Canadian Royal Mint, has a passion for microscopy and astronomy. Dr. Ami, formerly of the Geological Survey, has made geology his hobby as well as his life work, and Rev. C. J. S. Bethune, who for forty years was headmaster at Trinity College School, Port Hope, is one of the leading authorities in Canada on entomology.

Photography is a hobby with eleven; seven—of whom Sir William Van Horne is one—are artists, two are woodcarvers, and two are interested in art and one in pictures. Mr. Ernest Thompson Seton, the distinguished artist and writer of animal stories, hunts big game with a camera rather than with a rifle; R. K. Kernighan, who is widely known as the "Kahn," takes his recreation in the planting of trees; Dr. George Johnson, formerly Dominion Statistician, studies place names; W. E. Smallfield, of the Registry Office, devotes his leisure time to municipal and local activities and takes pleasure in it; and Dr. J. A. Macdonald, editor of The Toronto Globe, finds his chief delight in making speeches.—E. J. Hathaway in Canadian Century.

ONTARIO'S GOVERNORS.

Passing of Government House Recalls Some Of It Tenants.

The building of a new Government House in Chorley Park, Toronto, not only means the end of the old red brick structure that for forty-four years has been a landmark of that city, but it emphasizes anew the rapid growth of the city and the trend of population from south to north, says Frank Yeigh, in The Toronto Globe. The Toronto of 1911, when measured by that of 1867, affords a striking evidence of civic expansion.

When the Government House was built, at the corner of King and Simcoe streets, the settled part of the Toronto of that day was practically bounded on the north by Bloor street, and the official home of the Lieutenant-Governor was practically within the residential area of the city. Today, however, commerce and transportation are ruthlessly closing in on the old house, the spot it now occupies will in a short time be yielded up to their insatiable appetite, and prosaic freight sheds, with all their din and dust, will succeed the home centre of the King's Provincial representative.

Government House was erected during the Confederation year of 1867, when the troubled period of partnership between Upper and Lower Canada, under the union act, came to an unlamented end, and when Upper Canada became Ontario. It was constructed by the Sandfield Macdonald Government, at a cost of $100,000, the Hon. John Carling—now the veteran Sir John—being the responsible Cabinet Minister, as Commissioner of Public Works, and the late John Elliott of Brantford the contractor.

The building stands on the site of Elmsley House, an old-time and stately residence of the days of Little York, occupied by Chief Justice John Elmsley, which became Government House after the war of 1812. For many years, therefore, the original Vice-regal "mansion" was the home of Gore and Maitland, of Colborne, Head Head and Arthur, and later of Sir Edmund Head, as Governor-General of the two Canadas—all of whom figure prominently in Canadian and especially Upper Canadian, history.

When Confederation was accomplished, Elmsley House was demolished, and the new structure, imposing for its day, typified the new era of provincial development. Government House has had ten occupants since 1867, each appointment reflecting the complexion of the political party in power. It may be interesting to recall their names in sequence of appointment:

1867—Major-Gen. H. W. Stisted.
1868—Hon. William P. Howland, P.C., C.B.
1873—Hon. John W. Crawford.
1880—Hon. John Beverley Robinson.

The very names recall memories of the many interesting incidents that cluster around the old Vice-regal headquarters, especially in connection with the social and military life of those early days, when, as now, hospitality was unbounded, and many a scene of gaiety of the earlier years is still held in special remembrance by those who live to tell of them.

Men With Memorials.

Seneca the Wise could repeat 2,000 words in the uninterrupted succession in which they were read to him. The greatest Roman orator before Cicero, Hortensius, could recite all the prices given at a public auction. Themistocles, who considered it a greater art to forget than to remember, learned the Persian language inside of a year.

WEDDING BELLS

SCOLLARD—O'LEARY.

The Sacred Heart Church was the scene of a very pretty wedding at 7.30 this morning, when Miss Frances O'Leary, daugther of Mr. Patrick O'Leary of Peterborough, and Mr. Francis Joseph Scollard, son of Mr. Jas. Scollard, of Ennismore, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. The Rev. Fr. McCauley performed the ceremony.

The bride, who was charmingly attired in a steel coloured dress, trimmed with pearl, was given away by her brother, Mr. John O'Leary, and the bridesmaid was Miss Mary Farley, while Mr. J. P. Young acted as best man. Miss Agnes Scollard played the wedding march, and Santley's "Ave Maria" was very effectively sung by Mr. Albert New.

After the ceremony a dainty wedding breakfast was participated in by a large number of friends.

The bridal couple were the recipients of a large number of costly and beautiful presents.

Mr. and Mrs. Scollard are making a trip to Toronto, Buffalo, New York, and points west, and on their return will reside in Ennismore.

McAULIFFE—LEDGER.

The wedding was solemnized at St. Peter's Cathedral this morning, of Mr. Patrick McAuliffe of East Emily, to Helen Adelaide Ledger. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father McColl, in the presence of the immediate friends. The bride wore a navy blue suit, with a white hat, and was assisted by Miss Effie McAuliffe, sister of the groom, who also wore navy blue with a blue hat to match. Mr. Wilfrid Carroll of East Emily was best man. Mr. and Mrs. McAuliffe left on the 11.30 train for Oshawa, Toronto and points west. On their return they will take up residence in Emily. The wedding presents were both numerous and handsome.

Narrow Escape At Westwood

Special to The Examiner:

WESTWOOD, NOV. 14.—The terrific gale which raged on Sunday last, was the means of causing considerable excitement in the quiet little village of Westwood. While driving home from morning service, two gentlemen were suddenly startled by the crash of a huge elm tree directly in front of them. Its dimensions entirely blockaded the highway and the unfortunate wayfarers were of necessity obliged to run through the mud and rain to a neighbouring house and borrow an axe to cut their passage through. Some of the villagers rushed to the rescue, but arrived only in time to help clear away the debris. What might have proved a fatal catastrophe resulted only in a little hard labour for the two gentlemen.

Mr. Charles Warner, our esteemed Sunday school superintendent, is taking a course in the Peterborough Business College.

Miss Jean Harvey spent the week end at her home in Peterborough.

Mr. F. C. Warr and Mr. Sydney Warr were the guests of Mr. Thos. Cardwell for dinner on Sunday.

Mr. Chris Camusky of Fleetwood, is spending a few days at the home of Mr. Fred Wood.

St. James' Won The Debate

An interesting debate was held at George Street Church last night between St. James Church and George Street Epworth Leagues. The subject of debate was "Resolved that commerce had done more for civilization than Missions." The affirmative was taken by Mr. McLaren and Miss Drake, of St. James, and the negative by Miss Ada Payne and Mr. Fred Browne of George Street church. The contest was close, and the arguments advanced by both sides were logical and conclusive, and ended in a win for the affirmative. The judges were Mr. Goodwin, Mr. Hote, and Mr. Brock. Miss Gladys Pentland favoured the gathering with a recitation.

A BAD FALL

Pupil of the Sacred Heart School Was Injured This Morning

Considerable alarm prevailed for a few minutes in the Sacred Heart school this morning in consequence of an accident that befel one of the pupils, the little daughter of Mr. Albert Hubbard of 32 Ware street.

It transpires that the girl fell, and with a heavy thud, her head came in contact with the floor. She became hysterical and it was deemed necessary to send for a doctor. Dr. Gallivan arrived shortly and found the child suffering from slight concussion of the brain. He thought, however, that it would not prove serious.

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

Did Not Disappoint

Don't become discouraged simply because your hair falls and is thin, weak and wispy until you have tried Herpicide. "I first began to use Newbro's Herpicide three years ago, after a spell of fever, which caused me to become almost bald. Herpicide soon restored the quantity and natural colour of my hair. I feel lost without a bottle of Herpicide in the house." Thus Mrs. Anna C. Layn, 821 Second Ave., Lousville, Ky., tells in her own words how she lost her hair and how she got it back. Mrs. Layn's experience has been duplicated a thousand times and can be repeated thousands more.

Newbro's Herpicide keeps the hair and scalp in a perfectly healthy condition. When the hair papilla has not been destroyed by the ravages of the dandruff germ, the hair will resume its suspended growth.

Newbro's Herpicide kills the dandruff germ and checks falling hair. The itching of the scalp stops almost instantly. Others imitate and make similar claims, but the original dandruff germ destroyer is Herpicide.

Applications of this wonderful remedy may be obtained at any good barber shop.

Send 10c. in postage or silver for sample and booklet to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich.

Case Dismissed

An interesting case was tried before His Honour Judge Huyoke yesterday, at the Court House. The action was brought by David Darling of Douro, against the trustees of School Section No. 6, Douro; for taxes, he alleged, had been illegally and improperly levied upon him for school purposes. After the case had lasted all day, and a large number of witnesses had been examined, the Judge found that the assessment and levy had not been improperly made and dismissed the plaintiff's case. F. D. Kerr appeared for the plaintiff and D. O'Connell for the school trustees.

The question of how many teams the club will enter into the O.H.A. will be discussed, as will the proposed amendments to the O.H.A. constitution, in order that the delegate from the local club will be able to support or oppose them as shall be thought fit. It is desirable that there should be a large attendance of those interested in the great winter game.

ASLEEP IN WINDOW

There has been great excitement around the Turnbull store this afternoon as the result of the Great McEwen placing one of his subjects in a hypnotic sleep in one of the windows, where he will remain until this evening, when he will be awakened by Mr. McEwan at the Opera House. There was a crowd around the window all day and it was amusing to hear the comments: "Why he's no more asleep than I am," said one man and another thought it would be good fun to smash the window and wake him up. The latter was evidently not aware that a cannon could have been fired through the window without disturbing in the least the sleeping man. "Well, that is a nice, easy job, anyway," commended one philosophic spectator, and another added, "I wouldn't take it for a $100 a week." Some of the crowd were firmly convinced that the whole thing was a hoax, others that the boy had been drugged, while the more enlightened were kept busy explaining somewhat vaguely the principles of hypnotism. To-morrow the Great McEwen will place a lady in a hypnotic condition in a store window on George street.

A RUNAWAY

A horse belonging to a farmer residing near Springville, made a bold dash for freedom this morning, and threatened to demolish the buggy to which it was attached. The animal, which was tied to a telephone pole, on Dalhousie street, near the G. T. R. crossing, took fright at a passing engine, and before the driver could get to its head in an endeavour to pacify it, the strap with which it was fastened to the post, broke, allowing the animal its liberty. It covered the distance between Bethune and Park street in record time, but while turning the corner at Park St., the buggy was overturned. A passerby rushed out and grabbed the horse and succeeded in bringing it to a standstill; but not before the buggy had been badly damaged, especially the top, which was nearly torn off. A few minutes after the runaway was stopped, the driver appeared on the scene and claimed his property.

Made Fine Time

The resident engineer engaged in installing machinery in the South End pumping station, unexpectedly sent in an alarm to the Fire Station. One of the firemen hitched up the Chief's buggy and drove down. Engineer Jameson to the pumping station. The run was made in four minutes from the time the alarm was sent in. Two minutes later the engineer had all the machinery running with a pressure of about 30 pounds.

WONDERFUL ENTERTAINMENT BY THE GREAT McEWEN

Big Audience at Grand Opera House Last Night Convulsed With Merriment Over the Antics of the Hypnotic Subjects and Bewildered by the Clever Feats in Sleight-of-Hand.

A Peterborough audience has not laughed so unrestrainedly or so heartily in a long time as did those who saw the performance given by the great McEwen, the Scottish entertainer, at the Grand Opera House last night, opening a week's engagement They were first mystified by the feats of magic given by the entertainer; then delighted with the beautiful singing of Miss Florence Hartley and finally convulsed with laughter over the experiments in mesmerism and hypnotism, which ended the programme. Nothing funnier than this last portion of the entertainment has been seen in this city and the theatre fairly rocked with the waves of merriment which swept through the house. Peterborough has had visits from good hypnotists in the past, including the famous Pauline, but the great McEwen compares favourably with all the exponents of the art that have appeared here, and should be seen by everyone.

He opens his programme with what he terms "simple" feats of slight-of-hand. "Simple" they may have been to him, but his audience found them far from being so, the tricks thoroughly mystifying the onlookers who were loud in their applause at the conclusion of each experiment. The great McEwen does not claim that his feats are new; in fact he informs his audience that most of them are old, and have been performed by other magicians; but he applies new and original methods to their performance and succeeds in bewildering the spectators. He opens with some sleight-of-hand work with cards, giving an exposee of his methods, to conclude the demonstration. Then he follows with an array of amazing tricks, skillfully performed, to the accompaniment of an amusing and entertaining monologue. One of the best feats was to borrow a handkerchief from a lady in the audience and after placing it in an ink bottle, to discover it in the centre of an apple, which he was eating. Another masterpiece was the borrowing of a ring from a lady which was wrapped in a piece of cloth in a pistol. He aims the "pop-gun" at a box, held by a volunteer from the audience, and fires, and to the amazement of the audience, after unlocking the box and half a dozen interior compartments, the lady's ring is found attached to a bouquet of flowers. What bewildered the audience, was that the box had been in the possession of the man from the audience before the ring was borrowed.

The greatest amusement of the evening, however, came when the demonstration of hypnotism was commenced. The great McEwen has three subjects with him and from the audience he collected eight more, including some well-known people, and from then on to the end of the entertainment it was one continuous laugh from the audience. He quickly showed his ability to get his subjects under the influence and then followed a series of amusing experiments. One of the subjects was called upon to show his ability as a vocalist, and sang a bass solo with surprising success, and two others gave a buck and wing dance, one well-known subject embellishing his dancing with some acrobatic efforts that were appreciated. The whole squad were given the illusion of being in a strawberry patch, and their antics convulsed the audience. Later on they imagined they were present at an exciting ball game and the "rooting" was intense. In fact so exciting was the imaginary game that the subjects were inclined to be quarrelsome, and several hand-to-hand battles were inaugurated. The great McEwen added to the amusement by placing his subjects in a cataleptic state, they stopping like marble statues, at the word "stone," some with their mouths wide open, half-way through a word. More mystifying, perhaps, was the feat performed by Mr. McEwen, in causing all the blood to recede from a subject's hand and then bringing it back again. There is not space here to tell of the many amusing experiments that were carried on. The best advice that can be given is to go and see for yourself.

Variety is added to the programme by the splendid singing of Miss Florence Hartley, a prima donna with a powerful, sweet and well-controlled voice, whose three songs were heartily enjoyed.

The entertainment given by the great McEwen, is one that the Examiner has no hesitation at all in endorsing, and we would not be doing jubtice to the people of Peterborough if we did not tell them to go and see the performance as soon and as often as possible. It is a clean, refined and highly amusing programme that one cannot fail to enjoy.

The great McEwen will be here for the balance of the week with a change of programme each night.

HAD NO LUCK

Mr. Jas. Boyd has returned to the city from a hunting trip near Jack's Lake, where he was with a party consisting of Messrs Jas. Little and John and David Drain, of Dummer.

The party had absolutely no luck, failing to bring down a deer. Mr. Boyd states that the weather was the worst yet, while the party was handicapped through the small number of dogs they had. Other parties in the same vicinity had little better luck, although a few deer were killed.

THE BURDENS OF AGE

The kidneys seem to be about the first organs to wear out and fail to properly perform their work. The result is weak, lame, aching back, rheumatic pains and failing eyesight. Many people of advanced years have recovered health and comfort by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They ensure the healthful action of liver, kidneys and bowels.

A CENTURY AND A HALF CALENDAR

The Examiner has to thank Mr. Neil Tobin, local representative of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, for a handsome, ingenious and useful calendar issued by this great insurance corporation. The calendar is practically perpetual, good for 157 years—from 1800 to 1957 by a very simple process of adjustment it can be used to indicate the day of the week and month back to 1800 and forward to 1957. By means of this calendar, the day of the week upon which any particular numerical date falls can be correctly ascertained. All leap years for 157 years are also indicated.

A NEW MOUNTAIN WORLD

As further particulars are received form the exploration party under Mr. A O. Wheeler, Director of the Canadian Alpine Club, regarding their recent expedition over the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway through the Canadian Rocky Mountains, it is known that the new Transcontinental Railway will be able to offer to its patrons the finest scenery of any of the Transcontinental Railways in America.

In the last report received the territory in the vicinity of the head waters of the Athabasca and Whirlpool rivers is touched upon, and are, Mr. Wheeler states, opening up a field for exploration and research, mountaineering and camping that is absolutely new, and of which practically nothing is known. This group of mountains is magnificent. It rises approximately to 12,000 feet above sea level, and shows contours of the wildest and boldest possible forms. Immense snowfields and huge glaciers are everywhere. Boldest and most inaccessible rise the awful black precipices of Mount Geikie, the central point of the group. Again to the south are an endless array of peaks, towers, pyramids, domes, castles and ramparts in bewildering confusion.

An attempt was made to indentify the much talked of giants, Columbia, Bryce, Lyall, Forbes, etc., but in the chaotic whole it could not be done with any certainty.

OBITUARY

MISS MAY AGNES McMURTRY.

OTTAWA, NOV. 14.—There passed away at the family residence, 22 Driveway, Miss May Agnes (Daisy), second daughter of Dr. and Mrs. D. H. McMurtry, after a brief illness. Death was due to typhoid pneumonia. The sad news came as a dreadful shock to the family, and their many friends, as Miss McMurtry's illness was of such short duration.

Hundreds of sympathizing friends called to view the remains of their late friend and to extend sympathy to the bereaved family. Miss McMurtry was a particularly bright young girl, and through her frank and joyous nature, had won scores of friends, both young and old. She leaves to mourn her, her father and mother, Dr. and Mrs. McMurtry, one sister, Miss Gwendolyn, and one brother, Douglas. Mrs. William E. Lech and Miss Mae Barnett of Peterborough, are aunts of the deceased.

The funeral service was held at the family residence by Rev. W. M. Loucks of St. Matthew's church, of which the deceased was a faithful member. She was also a member of Miss Loucks' Bible Class. The remains were then conveyed to St. Matthew's church, where a memorial service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Loucks. The cortege then proceeded to the family plot in Beechwood cemetery, where the body was interred in its last resting place.

MRS. D. H. MANN.

Kendry, 675 Water St. The deceased had been around as usual, yesterday, but was stricken with heart failure, and death came this morning. She had been a resident of Peterborough for many years, and was well-known to the older residents of the city. Her husband predeceased her a number of years ago. She is survived by two sons, James of Raymondville, Texas, and Robert of this city, and two daughters, Mrs. Neil Maitland of Windsor, and Mrs. T. E. Kendry, city.

The funeral will be private.

Expect Light Winter

The sudden advent of cold weather has not resulted in any unusual demands on the charity department. City Relief Officer Miller, when seen by the Examiner this morning, stated that he believed the coming winter would be a comparatively light one on the department. Work was plentiful and wages good and there was no reason why any able bodied man should be out of employment. Difficulty was being experienced in securing efficient men to go into the woods. The work on the new dock would also furnish employment for a large number of men throughout the winter.

CAMPAIGN UNDER WAY

Mr. N. W. Rowell Addresses Enthusiastic Opening Meeting

DEFINES THE ISSUES

Toronto, Nov. 15.—Young Liberalism turned out last night in honor of the new leader, who has been so cordially hailed by the party in all quarters of Ontario. Old Liberalism sat on the Massey Hall platform, also, and Dr. Albert Carman and Senator Cox represented the progress of fifty years ago. The applause at the close of Mr. Rowell's speech indicated thorough satisfaction on the part of all classes of Liberals.

The best Liberalism of the city was in evidence, and there was a really large contingent from outside points, interested in the inauguration of the new leadership of N. W. Rowell, K.C.

W. L. M. King was suave in the chair and his speech pleased his auditors, but Mr. Rowell's address was the objective point as the thinning out of the house showed when he concluded.

As N. W. Rowell and Hon. Mackenzie King came on the platform the band played "The Maple Leaf," and the big audience rose en masse and cheered and cheered again. The crowds of students up in the top gallery gave the Varsity yell.

Among those on the platform, in addition to N. W. Rowell and Hon. Mackenzie King, were: Ex-Mayor Jos. Oliver, E. Fielding, Dr. A. Carman, J. E. Atkinson, Senator Jaffray, Senator Kerr, Dr. J. A. Macdonald, G. W. Verral, Wallace Cruickshank, A. E. Dyment, Gideon Grant, James Ryrie, J. W. Curry, R. J. McCormick and many others.

Hon. Mackenzie King introduced N. W. Rowell as the honored leader of the Ontario Liberal party and the future Premier of this province.

Mr. Rowell received an ovation.

"I have read with very great interest the comments of the Conservative press upon our platform," said Mr. Rowell, "Some have suggested it is a milk and water platform; others that it is unprogressive, but all join in a chorus that it is very like Sir James Whitney's. I am quite willing to admit that they are right when interestingly they state that the policy of Sir James is a milk and water one and that it is unprogressive, but I am not prepared to admit that our policy is the counterpart of that of Sir James.

"Under our system of party government, the best interests of the country require a strong and vigorous opposition, and so long as any Government has a sufficient working majority, the stronger the Opposition, the better in the interests of the country. I have never met on Conservative who has not frankly stated that it would be both in the interest of the Government and the country if the Liberal Opposition were very much stronger than it is to-day.

"I appeal to all electors, irrespective of party, to unite with us in securing the election to the Legislature of such a strong body of Liberals as will guarantee, if we do not control the Government, that the Opposition will be able to perform to the full the true functions of an Opposition and fully and fearlessly investigate and criticise all actions of the Government that appear to call for investigation, or criticism, and to force upon the consideration of the Government and the country progressive legislation in the public interests.

"It is not my intention this evening to attempt to discuss with you all the planks in our platform. I shall only attempt to touch briefly upon three or four. I shall have the opportunity of discussing the others at subsequent meetings.

"We propose that immigration agencies shall be established in co-operation with the Dominion Government, or independent of it if need be, which shall bring to the attention of intending immigrants the character and resources of this province. We propose, and it is indispensable to the settlement of that new country, that roads shall be built by the Government.

"We propose to secure loans to a limited extent, secured upon his clearing, repayable over a number of years, to enable him to get a start, a policy pursued by New Zealand with great success, and we will grant special assistance in the establishment and carrying on of public schools, believing these to be indispensable to secure the best developments of these new communities.

"The question of bilingual schools has aroused great public interest throughout this province. The problem in its working out is largely one of teachers and administration and it is in this view that we have adopted the following policy on which we stand.

"To provide through adequate training schools a sufficient supply of competent teachers and thus insure their proper regulations that the pupils in every school in the province shall receive a thorough English education.

"We submit for the judgment of the electors also very important specific proposals with regard to the liquor question. [illegible]rst is the abolition of the three-fifths vote in local option contests.

"This three-fifths requirement we propose to abolish at once with respect to all future contests, so that all municipalities hereafter adopting local option may carry it by a simple majority and repeal it by a like majority. Those which have passed local option by a three-fifths vote will still require a three-fifths vote to repeal it.

"Another plank in our platform is that during the continuance of the license system we will secure the removal of its administration from political influence.

"Let our ambition be to maintain Ontario's premier place among the provinces of our Dominion, and as an essential and integral part of our great confederation, let us seek to make Canada the most progressive, influential and loyal factor in the Empire, which Mr. Balfour has so aptly described as a coalition of free nations."

Due to the Middleman.

Washington, Nov. 15.—President Taft is planning to take up the high cost of living in a special message to Congress when he transmits the report of the Tariff Board's investigation of the wool and cotton schedules.

It is also said that the President will vigorously renew his recommendations for a parcel post.

The Tariff Board's findings will show, it is declared, that much of the high cost of living is due to the middleman rather than the tariff.

Killed by Train.

Guelph, Nov. 15.—Harry Leader, formerly an employe of the Guelph Axle Works, who was dismissed from that place Monday because it was feared he would throw himself into the furnace, committed suicide at 11.35 yesterday morning by throwing himself in front of a train.

His wife has been dead for three years, and he has been despondent ever since. He leaves three young children.

Railwayman Died Suddenly.

New York, Nov. 15.—George L. Thayer, 52 years old, eastern passenger agent of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railroad, died suddenly of heart failure early yesterday in front of his home on Morningside avenue. His body was found by a policeman.

Yuan Shi Kai Would be Popular With the Rebels

WANTS FIXED TERM

Pekin, Nov. 15.—While the Imperial Government is endeavoring to force the Premiership on Yuan Shi Kai, China's "strong man," in his various conferences yesterday with the Prince Regent, the acting Premier, Prince Ching, and other members of the nominal Cabinet, took occasion to point out the insecurity of that office, the retention of which depended upon the caprice of the National Assembly. Yuan Shi Kai, if he accepts the Premiership at all, desires a fixed term of office, and he so stated to the Regent. But he must obtain this through the National Assembly, as an edict would be likely to arouse suspicion.

It is not considered probable that Yuan Shi Kai will undertake the gigantic task set for him unless he considers the chances favorable to carrying it to a successful issue. There is still another possibility—he may be considering the alternative of a republic and may himself recommend the abdication of the Emperor.

He reports that the rebel leader, Gen. Li Yuen Heng, said he would obey his orders if Yuan would consent to become president, but would not recognize him as a Manchu Premier. In his opinion, it would not be difficult to reconcile the provinces, the most of which were giving the strongest evidences of a desire for peace. The complete constitution already pledged would satisfy the revolutionaries, except for the fear that Manchu intrigue would begin immediately arms were laid down.

One of the prominent members of the National Assembly yesterday informed a foreign legation attache that, although the Assembly had committed itself to a constitution under the Manchu dynasty, a majority of the Assembly would prefer to reorganize the Government on the lines of a republic.

The president of the Ta Ching Government Bank has deserted his post and fled from the city. The vice-president, Chang Chin Tao, who was recently in Europe in connection with a currency loan, is endeavoring to conduct the wrecked institution. As the provinces secede the various branches of this Government bank is confiscated. At only one or two treaty ports were the deposits saved by hasty transfer to foreign banks.

Financial stress is being felt by the administration. The board of finance has only about $300,000, the palace, it is said, having contributed largely to famine funds and other charities, as well as for the Hankow and other campaigns.

Another Republic.

Washington, Nov. 15.—Another independent republic was set up in China, according to Consul Fowler at Che Foo, who reported yesterday at the State Department that the former governor of Shan Tung Province, Sun Hao Chi, had been selected as head of the republic of Shan Tung, which yield to the revolutionists without a struggle.

Turned Ship to Aid Operation.

Montreal, Nov. 15.—The three latest arrivals in port, the Ausonia, the Corsican and the Lake Manitoba, all report unusually light passages, without a single day of moderate weather, which explains the fact that all were late in reaching Montreal.

On board the Ausonia a young Swede was taken suddenly ill and an operation for appendicitis was immediately necessary. The captain turned the ship to face the gale that was blowing and the operation was successfully performed by the ship's surgeon. The patient was doing well on arrival here and was taken to one of the hospitals.

Harvester Company Fined $50,000.

Jefferson City, Mo., Nov. 15.—The Supreme Court of the State of Missouri yesterday issued a writ of ouster against the International Harvester Co., and assessed a fine of $50,000 for violation of the anti-trust law.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

The Hamilton Chinese yesterday forwarded $5,000 to the committee in charge of the fund that is being raised to help the revolutionist party in China.

Vessels will be allowed to pass through the Panama before the official date of the opening of the canal, Jan. 1, 1915. The first trip is expected late in 1913.

Halifax papers publish a story of a deal by which the property of the Dartmouth Electric Light Co., will pass into the possession of the Nova Scotia Power Co.

Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Connaught, has consented to lay the corner-stone of the new W.C.T.U. headquarters at Toronto during her coming visit there.

The carriage shop of Reeve Cameron, Norwich, was entirely destroyed by fire on Monday night. The loss amounts to $1,500 and is partially covered by insurance.

A wreck on the C.P.R. west of Fort William, caused by confusion or a mistake in the telephone train orders occurred yesterday. East bound trains were seven hours late.

The consuls-general resident at Ottawa will attend the drawing-room this year, after several years of absence. This year the Duke of Connaught took pains to remove the long-standing difficulty.

Fearing that Steven Swanson, a prosperous mechanic, perished when his home in Braddock, Pa., was destroyed by fire yesterday, police and firemen are searching the ruins for his body.

The Chicago police are investigating the death of Stella Gera and Frank Myock, who were to have been married yesterday and who were found in a gas-filled room. A defective gas fixture is blamed.

T. W. McGarry, K.C., M.P.P., will be returned by acclamation at the coming provincial election, providing Hon. Mr. Graham is allowed to go to Parliament without opposition, say Brockville Liberals.

A new order of the religious is coming to Montreal, the Sisters of Marie—Reparatrice. At the Eucharistic Congress, Cardinal Vanutelli referred to the splendid work these sisters had done in Europe.

Guilty of Murder.

Toronto, Nov. 15.—Joseph R. Jessiman, charged with killing James Lougheed on Hayter street, on May 29 last, was found guilty of murder yesterday in the criminal assizes.

His counsel will appeal the decision on the plea of insanity. Justice Riddell intimated that he would defer punishment until further investigation.

The evidence brought out in the case pointed to insanity, caused by brooding over fancied wrongs.

"I made an examination of Jessiman under a standing order I have from the Government to enquire into the mental condition of every person committed to jail, who is charged with a capital offence, and whom the plea is insanity," said Dr. Bruce Smith, inspector of prisons and public charities. He declared that Jessiman is a paranoic. He is suffering from a progressive disease of the brain, and is curable. He had been in such a condition two or three years, and was undoubtedly insane on May 29, when he shot Lougheed.

Winnipeg, Nov. 15.—Yesterday's report to the Board of Trade on the condition of the 1911 crop of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba shows that 75 per cent. of the threshing has been completed in Manitoba and 50 per cent. in Saskatchewan.

There has already been inspected in Winnipeg to date 44,231,810 bushels of wheat, and there is now in store in interior elevators fully 18,000,000 bushels more, with 3,700,000 in transit not so inspected, so that 66,031,810 bushels of wheat are safe.

The snow fall has been about five inches on the level and in Alberta and Manitoba it is very dry and shakes out of the stocks quite readily.

POWERS OFFENDED

U. S. Ambassador to Persia Responsible For Trouble

UPRISING FEARED

Washington, Nov. 15.—The crisis in Persia involves the peace of all countries in which Mohammedans have found a footing, and not alone the future of W. Morgan Shuster or the American financial structure which he has endeavored to raise in the eastern country, according to information reaching official circles in Washington from various parts of the east.

The ultimatum from Russia to Persia, that apology must be made for the seizure of the property of the deposed Shah's brother, is the culmination, apparently, of developments that have been steady since American financial experts were selected by the new Nationalist Government to attempt the regeneration of the finances and commerce of the country.

It is claimed here that the grant to Mr. Shuster, as treasurer-general of complete executive power, did much to irritate Russia. The vigorous assertion by Mr. Shuster and the Persian Assembly of the complete independence of the country and its freedom from any obligation to Russia or Great Britain, has been a source of irritation to the former, and of criticism from leading sources in Great Britain.

There now is a disposition amongst leading figures in Mohammedanism to construe as a concerted assault on the Mohammedan people the continued attack upon Persia, and the situations in Tripoli, Morocco and in parts of India. How far this unrest of the Mohammedans will develop if Persia becomes, more seriously involved with Russia, officials here are not ready to say.

Persia is regarded as the brains of the Mohammedan faith. Although the country has only 15,000,000 inhabitants, its history and influence are regarded with veneration by the 300,000,000 Mohammedans of Europe, Asia and Africa. While a holy war is not considered imminent, the situation is complicated.

Grey Fears Complications.

London, Nov. 15.—In the House of Commons yesterday John Dillon called the attention of the Foreign Secretary, Sir Edward Grey, to published statements by W. Morgan Shuster, the American treasurer-general of Persia, charging that Great Britain and Russia were obstructing his work and interfering with the independence of Persia.

The Secretary promised that he would deal with the matter in a statement to the House as soon as opportunity offered. Meantime, he said, Shuster had been informed that his suggested employment of Britishers in North Persia was bound to antagonise Russia, because it would create the impression that Russian influence was being displaced by British; and it was to the interest of Persia that neither Britishers nor Russians be appointed to administrative posts on the Persian frontiers of India and Russia.

Aeronaut Mix a Suicide.

Paris, Nov. 15.—The U. S. consul here has been notified from Calais that it is believed that Edgar W. Mix, the well known sportsman, committed suicide by jumping from a channel steamer which left Dover for Calais Sunday night.

Mix, who was formerly of Columbus, Ohio, has been engaged in business in Paris for many years, and being a member of both the Aero Club of France and the Aero Club of America, has represented both countries in international contests. He was a noted aeronaut, and won the international balloon race at Zurich, Switzerland, on Oct. 5, 1909.

A Sham and Delusion.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 15.—The recent conviction for conspiracy of three officers of the Cigar Makers' Union at Tampa, Fla., because they advised their fellow-workmen not to return to work, was condemned by the executive council of the American Federation of Labor here yesterday.

"Outrages as they occurred in Tampa," declared the council, "tend to intensify the feeling among our people that equality before the law is a sham and delusion."

It was said that two of the indicted Tampa labor chiefs had been pardoned. The council demands immediate pardon of the third.

Re-instatement of the carpenters and joiners and the steam and hot water fitters and helpers suspended from the building trades department of the American Federation of Labor at the St. Louis convention last year, was recommended by the executive council.

Ottawa, Nov. 15.—The militia conference summoned by Col. Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia, will be convened to-morrow morning.

The agenda paper includes over twenty subjects, including recruiting, militia, bands, physical and military training in schools, training of boys in brigade or divisional camps, university corps, the extending of facilities for gaining certificates of qualification, the preparation and distribution of military books, the use of liquor in camps, messes, etc.; gun drill for all officers, co-operation of municipal and provincial organizations in establishing drill halls, ranges, etc.; system of military training, etc.

It is stated that a discussion on the Ross rifle is likely.

HASN'T SHE LOVELY HAIR!
How often have you heard this remark? Very often indeed: Everyone admires well kept, luxuriant hair because it is a real beauty in itself; and as Balzac says in his famous work on beautiful women:—"The soul of loveliness of a beautiful woman lies in the tresses of her hair."
Any woman can have beautiful hair if she will but give it proper care with a proper hair dressing. Sagcine is such a dressing. It will bring life and beauty into dull faded hair and make it clean, fluffy and attractive.
Since the introduction of Sagcine in America it has met with wonderful success and is the popular hair tonic with leading men and women everywhere.
SAGCINE is now obtainable in Peterborough at W. J. Kent's drug store. It is not sticky or greasy and is daintily perfumed. A large bottle costs only 50c. That Sagcine will please you is our liberal guarantee. W. J. Kent. Money back if it doesn't.

Mr. N. W. Rowell Addresses Enthusiastic Opening Meeting

DEFINES THE ISSUES

Toronto, Nov. 15.—Young Liberalism turned out last night in honor of the new leader, who has been so cordially hailed by the party in all quarters of Ontario. Old Liberalism sat on the Massey Hall platform, also, and Dr. Albert Carman and Senator Cox represented the progress of fifty years ago. The applause at the close of Mr. Rowell's speech indicated thorough satisfaction on the part of all classes of Liberals.

The best Liberalism of the city was in evidence, and there was a really large contingent from outside points, interested in the inauguration of the new leadership of N. W. Rowell, K.C. W. L. M. King was suave in the chair and his speech pleased his auditors, but Mr. Rowell's address was the objective point as the thinning out of the house showed when he concluded.

As N. W. Rowell and Hon. Mackenzie King came on the platform the band played "The Maple Leaf," and the big audience rose en masse and cheered and cheered again. The crowds of students up in the top gallery gave the Varsity yell.

Among those on the platform, in addition to N. W. Rowell and Hon. Mackenzie King, were Ex-Mayor Jos. Oliver, E. Fielding, Dr. A. Carman, J. E. Atkinson, Senator Jaffray, Senator Kerr, Dr. J. A. Macdonald, G. W. Verral, Wallace Cruickshank, A. E. Dyment, Gideon Grant, James Ryrie, J. W. Curry, R. J. McCormick and many others.

Hon. Mackenzie King introduced N. W. Rowell as the honored leader of the Ontario Liberal party and the future Premier of this province.

Mr. Rowell received on ovation.

"I have read with very great interest the comments of the Conservative press upon our platform," said Mr. Rowell, "Some have suggested it is a milk and water platform; others that it is unprogressive, but all join in a chorus that it is very like Sir James Whitney's. I am quite willing to admit that they are right when inferentially they state that the policy of Sir James is a milk and water one and that it is unprogressive, but I am not prepared to admit that our policy is the counterpart of that of Sir James.

"Under our system of party government, the best interests of the country require a strong and vigorous opposition, and so long as any Government has a sufficient working majority, the stronger the Opposition, the better in the interests of the country. I have never met on Conservative who has not frankly stated that it would be both in the interest of the Government and the country if the Liberal Opposition were very much stronger than it is to-day.

"I appeal to all electors, irrespective of party, to unite with us in securing the election to the Legislature of such a strong body of Liberals as will guarantee, if we do not control the Government, that the Opposition will be able to perform to the full the true functions of an Opposition and fully and fearlessly investigate and criticize all actions of the Government that appear to call for investigation, or criticism, and to force upon the consideration of the Government and the country progressive legislation in the public interests.

"It is not my intention this evening to attempt to discuss with you all the planks in our platform. I shall only attempt to touch briefly upon three or four. I shall have the opportunity of discussing the others at subsequent meetings.

"We propose that immigration agencies shall be established in co-operation with the Dominion Government, or independent of it if need be, which shall bring to the attention of intending immigrants the character and resources of this province. We propose, and it is indispensable to the settlement of that new country, that roads shall be built by the Government.

"We propose to secure loans to a limited extent, secured upon his clearing, repayable over a number of years, to enable him to get a start, a policy pursued by New Zealand with great success, and we will grant special assistance in the establishment and carrying on of public schools, believing these to be indispensable to secure the best developments of these new communities.

"The question of bilingual schools has aroused great public interest throughout this province. The problem in its working out is largely one of teachers and administration and it is in this view that we have adopted the following policy on which we stand.

"To provide through adequate training schools a sufficient supply of competent teachers and thus insure their proper regulations that the pupils in every school in the province shall receive a thorough English education.

"We submit for the judgment of the electors [illegible] very important specific proposal [illegible] regard to the liquor question, [illegible]rst is the abolition of the three-fifths vote in local option contests.

"This three-fifths requirement we propose to abolish at once with respect to all future contests, so that all municipalities hereafter adopting local option may carry it by a simple majority and repeal it by a like majority. Those which have passed local option by a three-fifths vote will still require a three-fifths vote to repeal it.

"Another plank in our platform is that during the continuance of the license system we will secure the removal of its administration from political influence.

"Let our ambition be to maintain Ontario's premier place among the provinces of our Dominion, and as an essential and integral part of our great confederation, let us seek to make Canada the most progressive, influential and loyal factor in the Empire, which Mr. Balfour has so aptly described as a coalition of free nations."

Due to the Middleman.

Washington, Nov. 15.—President Taft is planning to take up the high cost of living in a special message to Congress when he transmits the report of the Tariff Board's investigation of the wool and cotton schedules.

It is also said that the President will vigorously renew his recommendations for a parcel post.

The Tariff Board's findings will show, it is declared, that much of the high cost of living is due to the middleman rather than the tariff.

Killed by Train.

Guelph, Nov. 15.—Harry Leader, formerly an employe of the Guelph Axle Works, who was dismissed from that place Monday because it was feared he would throw himself into the furnace, committed suicide at 11.35 yesterday morning by throwing himself in front of a train.

His wife has been dead for three years, and he has been despondent ever since. He leaves three young children.

Yuan Shi Kai Would be Popular With the Rebels

WANTS FIXED TERM

Pekin, Nov. 15.—While the Imperial Government is endeavoring to force the Premiership on Yuan Shi Kai, China's "strong man," in his various conferences yesterday with the Prince Regent, the acting Premier, Prince Ching, and other members of the nominal Cabinet, took occasion to point out the insecurity of that office, the retention of which depended upon the caprice of the National Assembly. Yuan Shi Kai, if he accepts the Premiership at all, desires a fixed term of office, and he so stated to the Regent. But he must obtain this through the National Assembly, as an edict would be likely to arouse suspicion.

It is not considered probable that Yuan Shi Kai will undertake the gigantic task set for him unless he considers the chances favorable to carrying it to a successful issue. There is still another possibility—he may be considering the alternative of a republic and may himself recommend the abdication of the Emperor.

He reports that the rebel leader, Gen. Li Yuen Heng, said he would obey his orders if Yuan would consent to become president, but would not recognize him as a Manchu Premier. In his opinion, it would not be difficult to reconcile the provinces, the most of which were giving the strongest evidences of a desire for peace. The complete constitution already pledged would satisfy the revolutionaries, except for the fear that Manchu intrigue would begin immediately arms were laid down.

One of the prominent members of the National Assembly yesterday informed a foreign legation attache that, although the Assembly had committed itself to a constitution under the Manchu dynasty, a majority of the Assembly would prefer to reorganise the Government on the lines of a republic.

The president of the Ta Ching Government Bank has deserted his post and fled from the city. The vice-president, Chang Chin Tao, who was recently in Europe in connection with a currency loan, is endeavoring to conduct the wrecked institution. As the provinces secede the various branches of this Government bank is confiscated. At only one or two treaty ports were the deposits saved by hasty transfer to foreign banks.

Financial stress is being felt by the administration. The board of finance has only about $300,000, the palace, it is said, having contributed largely to famine funds and other charities, as well as for the Hankow and other campaigns.

Another Republic.

Washington, Nov. 15.—Another independent republic was set up in China, according to Consul Fowler at Che Foo, who reported yesterday at the State Department that the former governor of Shan Tung Province, Sun Hao Chi, had been selected as head of the republic of Shan Tung, which yield to the revolutionists without a struggle.

Turned Ship to Aid Operation.

Montreal, Nov. 15.—The three latest arrivals in port, the Ausonia, the Corsican and the Lake Manitoba, all report unusually light passages, without a single day of moderate weather, which explains the fact that all were late in reaching Montreal.

On board the Ausonia a young Swede was taken suddenly ill and an operation for appendicitis was immediately necessary. The captain turned the ship to face the gale that was blowing and the operation was successfully performed by the ship's surgeon. The patient was doing well on arrival here and was taken to one of the hospitals.

Harvester Company Fined $30,000.

Jefferson City, Mo., Nov. 15.—The Supreme Court of the State of Missouri yesterday issued a writ of ouster against the International Harvester Co., and assessed a fine of $50,000 for violation of the anti-trust law.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

The Hamilton Chinese yesterday forwarded $5,000 to the committee in charge of the fund that is being raised to help the revolutionist party in China.

Vessels will be allowed to pass through the Panama before the official date of the opening of the canal, Jan. 1, 1915. The first trip is expected late in 1913.

Halifax papers publish a story of a deal by which the property of the Dartmouth Electric Light Co., will pass into the possession of the Nova Scotia Power Co.

Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Connaught, has consented to lay the corner-stone of the new W.C.T.U. headquarters at Toronto during her coming visit there.

The carriage shop of Reeve Cameron, Norwich, was entirely destroyed by fire on Monday night. The loss amounts to $1,500 and is partially covered by insurance.

A wreck on the C.P.R. west of Fort William, caused by confusion or a mistake in the telephone train orders occurred yesterday. East bound trains were seven hours late.

The consuls-general resident at Ottawa will attend the drawing-room this year, after several years of absence. This year the Duke of Connaught took pains to remove the long-standing difficulty.

Fearing that Steven Swanson, a prosperous mechanic, perished when his home in Braddock, Pa., was destroyed by fire yesterday, police and firemen are searching the ruins for his body.

The Chicago police are investigating the death of Stella Gera and Frank Myock, who were to have been married yesterday and who were found in a gas-filled room. A defective gas fixture is blamed.

T. W. McGarry, K.C., M.P.P., will be returned by acclamation at the coming provincial election, providing Hon. Mr. Graham is allowed to go to Parliament without opposition, say Brockville Liberals.

A new order of the religious is coming to Montreal, the Sisters of Marie—Reparatrice. At the Eucharistic Congress, Cardinal Vanutelli referred to the splendid work these sisters had done in Europe.

Guilty of Murder.

Toronto, Nov. 15.—Joseph B. Jessiman, charged with killing James Lougheed on Hayter street, on May 29 last, was found guilty of murder yesterday in the criminal assizes.

His counsel will appeal the decision on the plea of insanity. Justice Riddell intimated that he would defer punishment until further investigation.

The evidence brought out in the case pointed to insanity, caused by brooding over fancied wrongs.

"I made an examination of Jessiman under a standing order I have from the Government to enquire into the mental condition of every person committed to jail, who is charged with a capital offence, and whom the plea is insanity," said Dr. Bruce Smith, inspector of prisons and public charities. He declared that Jessiman is a paranoic. He is suffering from a progressive disease of the brain, and is curable. He had been in such a condition two or three years, and was undoubtedly insane on May 29, when he shot Lougheed.

BY E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

The Baroness sighed gently.

"Some of my dearest friends," she murmured. "I have—but there, it is a subject upon which we disagree. We will talk of something else. Shall we go to the theatre to-night?"

"As you will," Louise answered indifferently. "There isn't much that we haven't seen, is there?"

"We will send for a paper and see," the Baroness said. "We cannot sit and look at one another all the evening. With music one can make dinner last out till nine or even half past—an idea, my Louise!" she exclaimed suddenly. "Cannot we go to a music hall, the Alhambra, for example? We could take a box and sit back."

"It is not customary," Louise declared coldly. "If you really wish it, though, I don't—I don't——"

Her speech was broken off in a somewhat extraordinary manner. She was leaning a little forward in her chair, all her listlessness and pallor seemed to have swept away by a sudden rush of emotion. The colour had flooded her cheeks, her tired eyes were suddenly bright, was it with fear or only surprise? The Baroness wasted no time in asking questions. She raised her lorgnettes and turned round, facing the direction in which Louise was looking. Coming directly towards them from the further end of the restaurant was a young man, whose eyes never swerved from their table. He was pale, somewhat slight, but the lines of his mouth were straight and firm, and there was not lacking in him that air of distinction which the Baroness never failed to recognise. She put down her glasses and looked across at Louise with a smile. She was quite prepared to approve.

The young man stopped at their table and addressed himself directly to Louise. The Baroness frowned as she saw how scanty were the signs of encouragement in her young companion's face. She leaned a little forward, ready at the first signs of an introduction to make every effort to atone for Louise's coldness by a most complete amiability. This young man should not be driven away if she could help it!

"I have been hoping, Miss Fitzmaurice," Wrayson said, calmly, "that I might meet you somewhere."

She shrank a little back for a moment. There flashed across her face a quiver, as though of pain.

"Why do you think," she asked, "that that is my name?"

"Your father, Colonel Fitzmaurice, is one of my best friends," he answered gravely. "I was at his house yesterday. I only came up this morning. I beg your pardon! You are not well!"

Every vestige of colour had left her cheeks. The Baroness touched her foot under the table, and Louise found her voice with an effort.

"How did you know that Colonel Fitzmaurice was my father?" she asked breathlessly.

The answer seemed somehow to reassure her. She leaned a little towards him. Under cover of the music her voice was inaudible to anyone else.

"Mr. Wrayson," she said, "please don't think me unkind. I know that I have a great deal to thank you for, and that there are certain explanations which you have almost a right to demand from me. And yet I ask you to go away, to ask me nothing at all, to believe me when I assure you that there is nothing in the world so undesirable as any acquaintance between you and me."

Wrayson was staggered, the words were so earnestly spoken, and the look which accompanied them so eloquent. He was never sure when he thought it over afterwards what manner of reply he might not have made to an appeal, the genuineness of which was absolutely convincing. But before he could frame an answer, the Baroness intervened.

"Louise," she said softly, "do you not think that this place is a little public for intimate conversation, and will you not introduce to me your friend?"

Wrayson, who had been afraid of dismissal, turned at once, almost eagerly, towards the Baroness. She smiled at him graciously. Louise hesitated for a moment. There was no smile upon her lips. She bowed, however, to the inevitable.

The Baroness raised her eyebrows, and she bestowed upon Wrayson a comprehending look. The graciousness of her manner, however, underwent no abatement.

"I fancy," she said, "that I have heard of you somewhere lately, or is it another of the same name? Will you not sit down and take your coffee with us—and a cigarette—yes?"

"We are keeping Mr. Wrayson from his friends, no doubt," Louise said coldly. "Besides—do you see the time, Amy?"

But Wrayson had already drawn up a chair to the table.

"I am quite alone," he said. "If I may stay, I shall be delighted."

"Why not?" the Baroness asked, passing her cigarette case. "You can solve for us the problem we were just then discussing. Is it comme-il-faut, Mr. Wrayson, for two ladies, one of whom is almost middle-aged, to visit a music hall here in London, unescorted.

Wrayson glanced from Louise to her friend.

"May I enquire," he asked blandly, "which is the lady who is posing as being almost middle-aged?"

"We are going to be friends, Mr. Wrayson," she declared. "You are sitting there in fear and trembling, and yet you have dared to pay a compliment, the first I have heard for, oh! so many months. Do not be afraid. Louise is not so terrible as she seems. I will not let her send you away. Now you must answer my question. May we do this terrible thing?"

"Assuredly not," he answered gravely, "when there is a man at hand who is so anxious to offer his escort, as I."

The Baroness clapped her hands.

"Do you hear, Louise?" she exclaimed.

"I hear," Louise answered drily.

The Baroness made a little grimace.

"You are in an impossible humour, my dear child," she declared. "Nevertheless, I declare for the music hall, and for the escort of your friend, Mr. Wrayson, if he really is in earnest."

"I can assure you," he said, "that you would be doing me a great kindness in allowing me to offer my services."

The Baroness beamed upon him amiably, and rose to her feet.

"You have come," she avowed, "in time to save me from despair. I am not used to going about so much unescorted, and I am not so independent as Louise. See," she added, pushing a gold purse towards him, "you shall pay our bill while we put on our cloaks. And will you ask afterwards for my carriage, and we will meet in the portico?"

"With pleasure!" Wrayson answered, rising to his feet as they left the table. "I will telephone for a box to the Alhambra. There is a wonderful new ballet which everyone is going to see."

He called the waiter and paid the bill from a remarkably well-filled purse. As he replaced the change, it was impossible for him to avoid seeing a letter addressed and stamped ready for posting, which occupied one side of the gold bag. The name upon the envelope struck him as being vaguely familiar, what had he heard lately of Madame de Melbain? It was associated somehow in his mind with a recent event. It lingered in his memory for days afterwards.

"So that is Mr. Wrayson," she remarked.

"Yes!" Louise answered deliberately. "I wish that you had let him go!"

The Baroness laughed softly.

"My dear child," she protested, "why? He seems to me quite a personable young man, and he may be useful! Who can tell?"

Louise shrugged her shoulders. She stood waiting while the Baroness made somewhat extensive use of her powder-puff.

"You forget," she said quietly, "that I am already in Mr. Wrayson's debt pretty heavily."

"I find you amusing, ma chere," she remarked. "Since when have you developed scruples?"

Louise turned towards the door.

"You do not understand," she said. "Come!"

CHAPTER IX.

"There is a man," she remarked, "in the stalls, who finds us apparently more interesting than the performance. I do not see very well, even with my glasses, but I fancy, no! I am quite sure that his face is familiar to me."

Wrayson leaned forward from his seat in the back of the box and looked downward. There was no mistaking the person indicated by the Baroness, nor was it possible to doubt his obvious interest in their little party. Wrayson frowned slightly as he returned his greeting.

"Ah! then, you know him," the Baroness declared. "It is a friend, without doubt."

"He belongs to my club," Wrayson answered. "His name is Heneage. I beg your pardon! I hope that wasn't my fault."

The Baroness had dropped her lorgnettes on the floor. She stooped instantly to discover them, rejecting almost peremptorily Wrayson's aid. When she sat up again, she pushed her chair a little further back.

"It was my clumsiness entirely," she declared. "Ah! it is more restful here. The lights are a little trying in front. You are wiser than I, my dear Louise, to have chosen a seat back there."

She turned towards the girl as she spoke, and Wrayson fancied that there was some subtle meaning in the glance which passed between the two. Almost involuntarily he leaned forward once more and looked downwards. Heneage's inscrutable face was still upturned in their direction. There was nothing to be read there, not even curiosity. As the eyes of the two men met, Heneage rose and left his seat.

The Baroness shrugged her shoulders.

"We are cosmopolitans, Louise and I," she remarked. "We wander about so much that we meet many people whose names even we do not remember. Is it not so, cherie?"

Louise assented carelessly. The incident appeared to have interested her but slightly. She alone seemed to be taking an interest in the performance, which from the first she had followed closely. More than once Wrayson fancied that her attention was only simulated, in order to avoid conversation.

"This ballet," she remarked, "is wonderful. I don't believe that you people have seen any of it—you especially, Amy."

The Baroness glanced towards the stage.

"My dear Louise," she said, "you share one great failing with the majority of your country-people. You cannot do more than one thing at a time. Now I can watch and talk. Truly, the dresses are ravishing. Doucet never conceived anything more delightful than that blend of greens! Tell me about your mysterious friend, Mr. Wrayson. Is he, too, an editor?"

Wrayson shook his head.

"To tell you the truth," he said, "I know very little about him. He is one of those men who seldom talk about themselves. He is a barrister, and has written a volume of travels. A clever fellow, I believe, but possibly without ambition. At any rate, one never hears of his doing anything now."

"Perhaps," the Baroness remarked, with her eyes upon the stage, "he is one of those who keep their own counsel, in more ways than one. He does not look like a man who has no object in life."

Wrayson glanced downwards at the empty stall.

"Very likely," he admitted carelessly, "and yet, nowadays, it is a little difficult, isn't it, to do anything really worth doing, and not be found out? They say that the press is lynx-eyed."

"And you," she remarked, "are an editor! Do you feel quite safe, Amy? Mr. Wrayson may rob us of our most cherished secrets."

Her eyes challenged his, her lips were parted in a slight smile. Underneath the levity of her remark, he was fully conscious of the undertone of serious meaning.

"I am not afraid of Mr. Wrayson," the Baroness answered, smiling. "My age and my dressmaker are the only two things I keep entirely to myself, and I don't think he is likely to guess either."

"And you?" he asked, looking into her companion's eyes.

"There are many things," she answered, in a low tone, "which one keeps to oneself, because confidences with regard to them are impossible. And yet——"

"Yet," she continued, glancing towards the Baroness, and lowering her voice as though anxious not to be overheard, "there is something poisonous, I think, about secrets. To have them known without disclosing them would be very often—a great relief."

He leaned a little towards her.

"Is that a challenge?" he asked, "if I can find out?"

The colour left her face with amazing suddenness. She drew away from him quickly. Her whisper was almost a moan.

"No! for God's sake, no!" she murmured. "I meant nothing. You must not think that I was speaking about myself."

"I hoped that you were," he answered simply.

The Baroness turned in her chair as though anxious to join in the conversation. At that moment came a knock at the door of the box. Wrayson rose and opened it. Heneage stood there and entered at once, as though his coming were the most natural thing in the world.

"Thought I recognized you," he remarked, shaking hands with Wrayson. "I believe, too, I may be mistaken, but I fancy that I have had the pleasure of meeting the Baroness de Sturm."

The Baroness turned towards him with a smile. Nevertheless, Wrayson noticed what seemed to him a strange thing. The slim-fingered, bejewelled hand which rested upon the ledge of the box was trembling. The Baroness was disturbed.

NARROWLY MISSED BEING MONARCHS

Royal Personages Who Came Nearly Having to Direct the Affairs of a Nation.

Whenever Royal blood is mentioned it is treated with universal respect. Nevertheless, it is an indisputable fact that there are in Great Britain to-day literally thousands of persons with Royal blood in their veins who occupy humble and, in many cases, menial positions. And it is quite reasonable to assume that there are in our slums and workhouses many men and women who might be leading personages at Court.

It has actually been ascertained that there are no fewer than 11,723 persons living who can be proved to be direct descendants of Henry VII., our monarch in 1485.

Using these figures as the basis for a simple mathematical calculation, we arrive at the astounding conclusion that, from the death of Henry VII. to the present day, there must have been living at least 16,725 persons directly descended from the King.

It is quite easy to follow the means by which the "family" has become so numerous, and there is no need to wrestle with complex genealogical tables. Henry VII. had two daughters, the elder of whom married James IV. of Scotland, becoming thereby the grandmother of Mary Queen of Scots. The younger daughter, Mary Tudor, married, in the first instance, Louis XII. of France.

The marriage had been entered upon against her will, and, immediately on regaining her freedom, she contracted a second marriage with Charles Brandon, Duke of Suffolk.

The descendents of Mary Tudor number, at the present day, some 10,000 persons in a direct line, and by an extraordinary string of circumstances have kept almost entirely distinct from those of her elder sister, Margaret.

From the latter sprang the Stuarts, who later occupied the throne, and to her all the crowned heads of Europe, except those of a few small semi-civilised states, can trace their descent. From this it will be seen that all European monarchs are related.

When Queen Elizabeth successfully revoked the will of Henry VIII. there two daughters of Mary Tudor living, who each married a nobleman. Their children also married into other noble families, and that is how the wide diffusion of Royal blood was started.

Although many of the descendants of Mary Tudor occupy, as has been stated, more or less fitting positions, there are a great number who are scattered amongst the very humblest positions in life. The record of how some of these have come down in the world remains.

A similar, though perhaps slightly more congenial fate, was that of Lord Kingsland, who earned his living as a waiter. On his death he left no heir, and his family then came to an end.

The claim of a certain small shopkeeper in Mile End to be regarded as a descendant of Mary Tudor is quite valid; and at different times it has been ascertained that a Customs officer, a toll-gate keeper, and a butcher were indisputably direct descendants.

CONSERVATIVES WORRIED

All is not Harmony Within the Party's Ranks.

All is not merry as the proverbial marriage bell in the Conservative ranks throughout Ontario. In fact worried organizers are hurrying hither and thither in ineffectual effort to patch up trouble almost everywhere.

The trouble is from within, more than without. Conservative members going back confidently to their constituencies for renomination have had rude awakening. Many of them find themselves in grave danger of losing their conventions, and anxious hasty up calls have been dispatched for assistance.

Outside of the city there is much Conservative complaint regarding the Legislative representation of the party. In many cases this is said to be due to patronage troubles, but there are larger causes of discontent. There is marked hostility to the Ontario Railway Board, and particularly its Chairman, while the administration of the Education Department is a very sore spot, particularly in relation to the model schools and the bilingual situation. There is also a feeling of dissatisfaction among many Conservatives over the lack of cordiality of their members toward the development of the Hydro-electric power policy.

TAX REFORM MOVEMENT

Sir James Whitney Apparently Does Not See It Coming.

The Citizen and the Hamilton Spectator and The Ottawa Journal and all the other Conservative papers that have been taking part in the tax reform propaganda stick to it with most commendable pertinacity. The task requires much patience and even more of the spirit of hope. The constant dropping of water will wear away a stone. Sir James seems to be granite, however, and the people of Ontario may have to use a little blasting powder to supplement the methods of his political friends. In five years more this Province will have a thoroughly antiquated system of taxation if Sir James persists in his present autocratic attitude.

FIGHT OF PROGRESSIVE FORCES

Each Liberal Must Find His Place And do His Duty.

"The fight upon which we are entering is not my fight—in one sense it is not your fight," says Mr. N. W. Rowell, Liberal leader. "It is the fight of the progressive forces of this Province with which we are associated. And in entering upon it I feel in accepting the call you have made that you are going into it just as heartily and as enthusiastically as you expect me to do; that you will not accept any sacrifice from me you are not prepared to make yourselves. And I am sure if the Liberal party of this province enters on the contest in that spirit, each man in his place doing his duty, that the party will not only give a good account of itself, but that the Province will have cause for satisfaction in the good fight which the Liberal party will put up.

"I could not undertake this responsibility if I did not feel that I have your confidence and your most enthusiastic support. We will go into this fight together, each doing his best. We will all work for the principles which we hold in common, and I am sure we will maintain the very best traditions of the Liberal party in the fight."

AN EPISODE OF VINELAND

A Short Story.

It was Vineland week, and the sleepy little town was for the nonce as the hub of the universe. The roads were crowded with yachts, while the white winged racing flotilla seemed more numerous than ever. On board Mr. Meecham's big steam yacht Pandora an almost somnolent silence reigned as she lay at anchor in the roads, all her shining brasswork winking in the brilliant afternoon sunshine.

Her snowy decks seemed deserted, the only sentient sound that broke the silence being the ripple of the blue waters of the Solent past her bows. But beneath the shade of a gay awning reposed the very reposeful figure of a girl buried in the depths of a luxuriously cushioned deck chair, clothed in a white linen gown of severely nautical simplicity. An open book lay neglected on her lap—she had not turned a leaf since skimming the first page—while her large, lovely blue eyes gazed away across the Solent as if perchance anxious to catch the first glimpse of the racers on their homing journey.

But Sybil Bishop was not even thinking of them as it happened. She had the yacht practically to herself this afternoon, for her host, Mr. Meecham, was racing, and her aunt and chaperon was enjoying a well merited siesta in the seclusion of her cabin. Presently the light splash of oars broke the heavy stillness, cleaving the water just alongside the Pandora. Then a pair of strong brown hands gripped the rail close to Sybil, and they were swiftly followed by the apparition of a tall, almost unusually handsome young man who swung himself on board with the ease of a practised athlete.

"Pray pardon my unceremonious method of coming aboard," he said, lifting his hat in answer to the gently inquiring gaze of Miss Bishop's eyes.

"Well, there is no hall door, so I suppose it does not really matter how you board the yacht," she responded lasily. But the stern, almost melancholy lines of his mouth under the small dark moustache did not relax in answer to the little flashing, fleeting smile that parted the perfect curves of her lovely lips. Then he seated himself on a chair close to hers.

"And where have you come from? I thought you intended to taboo Vineland this year?" she queried, with a carelessness that made Captain Humphrey wince and his face whiten under all its sunburn.

"I only turned up an hour ago," he replied curtly. "And as I got a couple of days leave as well as an invitation from the Washingtons, I'm staying on their yacht. And——"

"As you were, doubtless, anxious to see something of the racing, you changed your mind and came to Vineland," she interrupted lightly.

"I did not come to see the racing," he responded quietly. "I came to see you."

"Really! How very nice of you. May I ask why?" with a faint uplifting of her delicately pencilled brows.

"Partly to say good-bye, partly because I thought—oh, I don't know what I thought"—with sudden passionate bitterness. "But I am a fool anyway."

"Oh, I hope not," with languid politeness. "But why to wish me good-bye? I am not going away anywhere as far as I know."

"But I am," he answered coldly. "I am sailing for India in two weeks."

"India! Why so far away?" she demanded airily.

"I applied for an Indian staff appointment some time ago, and as my uncle is a power at the war office, I was lucky enough to obtain it. I wanted to get away," he continued desperately. "The farther the better," with a somewhat dreary laugh.

A little pause ensued. Miss Bishop altered the poise of her red sunshade a fraction, thereby interposing it nearly altogether between her lovely face and his haggard, miserable brown eyes—such nice eyes too. "And does Miss Washington like the idea of going to India—I suppose you will be married before you sail?" Sybil inquired pettishly.

"Married," he repeated. "What on earth do you mean? I am not going to be married, and what on earth has Louise Washington got to do with me?" Sybil laughed, then stifled a tiny yawn.

"Well, I was told you were engaged to each other."

"Who on earth told you that?" he demanded quickly. "It was a lie, whoever invented it."

"Was it?" carelessly. "Aunt Clarice was my authority. She assured me it was quite a settled thing."

"It was a lie," he persisted stormily. "You ought not to have believed it. You, who must know, that I never loved, never wanted to marry, never had a thought of anyone but you. However they tell me this——" he broke off brusquely. "You never cared for me, only used me for a cat's paw, a bait to lure on bigger game."

"Meaning who, may I ask?" she queried lightly.

"Meecham. I wasn't quite blind, though you did your best to throw dust in my eyes. Well, I am going away, and I pray I may never see your face again."

"You are not very complimentary; but I will forgive you," she replied, graciously. "Besides, I was not aware that there was any necessity to use a bait, as you call it, as far as he was concerned. I am vain enough to believe such a procedure quite unnecessary."

"I apologize, and retract the words," he answered bitterly. "I was only good enough to dance with, amuse yourself with, flirt with——"

"Did I ever flirt with you?" innocent interrogation.

"I think so," quietly. "Without meaning to, possibly. But that night at the ball, when you gave me that rose, were you in earnest in all your eyes, your voice, your whole manner implied? That rose——"

"Yes," sweetly, as he stopped.

"I've still got it. It is my most cherished possession in spite of everything. Of course, you will only laugh at me for telling you this."

"Oh, no. I think it really charming of you, and you are to be congratulated on possessing so much sentiment in this terribly prosaic age"—with a lovely smile, her adorable eyes meeting and holding his in a glance half mocking and wholly maddening. Humphrey grew very white.

"Sybil," he said, hoarsely. "I believe you are utterly heartless." But just then the portly figure of the chaperon sailed along the deck towards the pair, and she did not look too well pleased when she perceived who was sitting so close to her niece. Her advent was followed by tea, and several visitors from some of the racing yachts, and the appearance after awhile of the racing yachts as they came flocking in like great, beautiful birds, created a lively diversion. Presently Mr. Meecham came aboard, a fair haired, immaculately groomed, somewhat colourless young man. He seated himself beside Sybil, who was dispensing tea, with a quiet determination that left little doubt in the eyes of the beholders what his ultimate intentions were.

Sybil herself appeared to be in the gayest spirits, and, with her blue eyes sparkling, her exquisite face delicately flushed, she made such a picture of perfect loveliness that Meecham could not keep his eyes from her, and Captain Humphrey looked as he felt utterly and supremely wretched.

The squadron ball was in full swing, but several couples seemed to prefer the dusky coolness of the outer air beneath the star spangled heavens. Amongst these latter were Sybil and Captain Humphrey. They had been dancing, but after a couple of turns he had swung her out of the crowd, and on to the terrace. They had paused in a sequestered corner where the glittering lights from the many yachts, and their myriad reflections in the dark water, made a scene of almost fairy like enchantment.

"I have a confession to make to you," Humphrey said. "Will you forgive me when you hear what it is?"

"I cannot make rash promises, you know," she answered, lifting her eyes. There was an indefinable suggestion of allurement about her beauty to-night that made his pulses quiver, his brain giddy. He felt almost reckless in the longing that obsessed him, ached through him, to take her in his arms, and kiss those lovely lips again and again. But, somehow, he managed to preserve an outer semblance of decorum.

"I was an involuntary and absolutely accidental listener when Meecham proposed to you this evening," he went on, in a low, somewhat husky tone. "I did not mean to overhear what was not intended for my ears, but it was, in the circumstances, impossible to do otherwise. Sybil, why did you refuse him?" his voice sinking still lower.

"Because I am going to India, if you will take me with you, Charlie," she said, laughing a little tremulously. His heart gave one great throb, then went on beating madly. "Sybil," he said, hoarsely, gripping her hands, "do you mean that you—you——"

"Of course I do," she murmured shyly.

THE MISTAKE

A Short Story

Two weeks since the memorable afternoon—two long weeks; Daisy knew that if she lived a thousand years she never would forget it. She had gone to visit a friend that balmy spring day, and was on her homeward way when suddenly the cloudless sky was overcast and the rain came down in torrents. A passing street car offered a temporary refuge. The seat in front of her was occupied by a woman with two children, poorly but neatly dressed. She could hear what they were saying. The woman watched the rain in despair, and the children cried as she told them that their pretty dresses would be ruined. When they rose to leave the rain was at its height. They looked so forlorn that Daisy leaned over and said impulsively:

"You may take my umbrella, if you like."

"Oh, thank you, miss," she said gratefully, as if an angel had come from heaven to help her unawares. "And where shall I bring it to?"

The car was starting. Daisy hastily took a card from her case and handed it to the woman. It was not until she had gone a few blocks farther that she had a prescience of something wrong. She opened her card case. She counted the cards carefully. There were six of them, engraved in old English—"Miss Daisy Merrill, 1462 Fulton Street." But the seventh was gone—gone beyond recall. She had given it to the woman. She shivered as she thought of he card. It was her own, but a line had been drawn through her name and address, and above it was written "Mrs. Robert Dale, Manhattan Building." One of her girl friends had done it to tease her, truly divining Daisy's preference for the wealthy and invulnerable Mr. Dale. Daisy had put it in her card case saying laughingly, "I'll keep it for luck."

She had met Mr. Dale less than a dozen times. He had never called on her, never noticed her more than the requirements of society demanded, but she shared the general admiration bestowed upon him. She even cherished the hope that some day she might know him better, but now, now—— What could she do?

Robert Dale looked up from his work at the poorly clad woman who had just been ushered into his office.

"Good morning, sir. I brought the umbrella back as soon as I could."

"But it isn't my umbrella. You have made a mistake."

She drew the card from her shabby bag and handed it to him. He gazed at it in amazement.

"Who gave you this?"

She told him how it happened. "I asked where I should take the umbrella and she gave me this card."

"All right. I'll see that she gets it."

"And please tell your wife that I'm so thankful to her."

"Yes, yes. Good morning."

The door closed upon his strange visitor. He looked at the card again. What the deuce! He remembered Miss Merrill vaguely as a pleasant, dignified young woman. Was it a joke? A strange one surely. He would send the umbrella immediately. No, he would take it. The words, "Please tel lyour wife," recurred to him. He smiled, and then turned to take up his work again.

Daisy felt reasonably safe. If the woman had kept the umbrella for so long she would probably keep it altogether. After two weeks of incessant worry and mad desire for self-annihilation it was a joy to breathe freely again. How lucky she was to have escaped the consequences of her carelessness. She leaned back comfortably in the wicker chair on the verandah. Life was very sweet. And but a few days before she had felt as though she could never be happy again. It was like a mellow sunset after a storm. But suddenly her pleasant self-communings were interrupted.

"May I come up, Miss Merrill?"

At the foot of the stairs stood Mr. Dale. Something clutched at her heart. She sat bolt upright. She crimsoned, then managed to say, "Certainly."

The worst had happened. He came up the steps and took the chair beside hers.

"Is this your property?" he said, quizzically, holding out her umbrella. For a moment she thought to deny it, but with those keen gray eyes bent upon her it was impossible to utter a falsehood.

"Yes," she murmured.

He was enjoying her very evident embarrassment. "Then this must be your card, too!" he said. His eyes twinkled, but she had averted her face from him until only the profile showed. "And the woman said to tell my wife she was very thankful to her," he continued wickedly.

Her face was buried in the cushions now. He heard a stifled sob and then a tearful voice say: "One of the girls did it, just to be funny."

"Well, I think it was, don't you?"

"No."

"Oh, I didn't know you meant it seriously!" The grave lawyer was enjoying himself like a schoolboy. All he could see was her golden hair encircled by a snowy arm and her lithe body shaken with emotion. Was this the same young woman who had argued so ably for woman suffrage? She looked like a wilful child who had been scolded and punished for disobedience. He felt a strange desire to comfort her, to caress her, but before he could find a word to say she had mastered herself. She threw the cushions on the verandah, sat up and said stiffly: "I beg your pardon. I had a headache. It is better now."

Mr. Dale rose to the occasion with a conventional remark about the weather. And then to put her at ease and to atone for his teasing, he talked of his work, of his clients, of his pleasure, until by degrees her embarrassment vanished.

As he rose to go he easked: "Have you seen 'The Temptation?'"

"No, not yet."

"Will you go Saturday night?"

"No, thank you, Mr. Dale."

"You have a previous engagement?"

"No."

It was a novel incident to him to have one of his rare invitations refused. She read his chagrin in his face. "Please don't think I'm rude," she said. "I don't mean to be. Years and years ago, when I broke my doll or got into trouble, mother used to give me a big cookie, and then, presto, everything was all right. And now you are trying to do the same thing." She laughed reminiscently and he laughed, too. They felt like old friends.

"And now cookies will no longer serve to mitigate your troubles?"

"I fear I have outgrown them."

"May I come to see you Saturday night instead?"

"I shall be glad to see you."

"And I won't bring a single cookie," he added, smiling. She held out her hand. He kept it a moment longer than necessary. "Good-bye, Miss Merrill."

"Good-bye."

At the corner he turned and saw her looking after him. He saw, too, her heightened colour at being caught in the act. He raised his hat mischievously. Altogether it had been a pleasant afternoon. Though begun under such unfavourable auspices, the friendship grew. Neither referred again to the umbrella or to the circumstances connected with it.

It was perhaps a year later that they were again sitting on the verandah. Mr. Dale was unusually silent.

"A penny for your thoughts."

"You can have them for nothing."

"Thank you."

"I was thinking of a morning long since when a woman said to me, 'Please tell your wife.'"

"Robert!" the name slipped out unconsciously.

"No, don't interrupt me please. I have kept the card since. Whenever I was lonely or out of sorts it helped me just to look at it. At nights I have dreamed that some day I would ask you to make it come true—some day when I should be really worthy—but I can't wait that long, Daisy, dear!"

CANADIAN SHOE MANUFACTURING

Wonderful Growth of the Industry in the Past Ten Years ---Remarkable System of Machines Now Used and the Concern That Supplies Them.

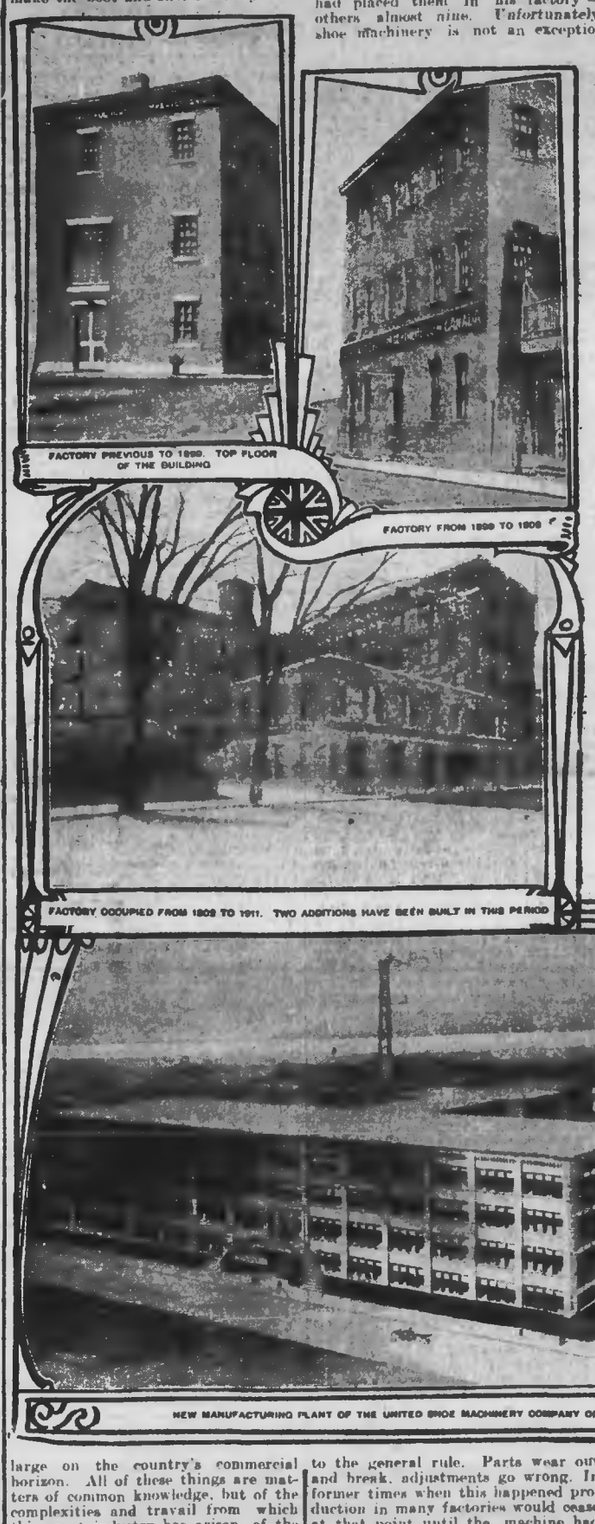
Have you ever watched a shoe in the making? Have you travelled from one intricate mass of cams and levers to another and so on down the long line of machines, performing seemingly impossible operations, with an accuracy and dispatch that almost passes understanding? If you have never done so, take firm hold on the first opportunity, for every operation performed by these machines has something to do with your comfort, your pocketbook, or your vanity.

The Canadian boot, like good wine, "needs no bush." Its reputation is firmly established. Upon any equitable basis, it will at the present time bear favourable comparison with the best produced in any other country. The enterprise of Canadian manufacturers and the constantly increasing skill and efficiency of Canadian labor make the boot and shoe industry loom large on the country's commercial horizon. All of these things are matters of common knowledge, but of the complexities and travail from which this great industry has arisen, of the unique and particularly advantageous conditions which have favored its marvellous growth during the past ten years, as well as the remarkable and efficient machines which form the equipment of factories making high-grade boots, little or nothing has been written.



FACTORY PREVIOUS TO 1899. TOP FLOOR OF THE BUILDING

FACTORY FROM 1899 TO 1903

FACTORY OCCUPIED FROM 1903 TO 1911. TWO ADDITIONS HAVE BEEN BUILT IN THIS PERIOD

NEW MANUFACTURING PLANT OF THE UNITED SHOE MACHINERY COMPANY OF CANADA, MONTREAL

Other industries have their marvellous machines, the modern loom, the Linotype, the Monotype, and various automatic machines now in use excite your wonder and admiration, but here you have a whole system of machines, many of th m as intricate and as finely adjusted as a watch, performing with marvellous accuracy, operations which, but a short time ago, were thought to be impossible through any other medium than the human hand. Each fills exactly its place in the general scheme, constantly preparing for operations that are to follow, for in the making of a high-grade shoe there are no really minor operations. Some of the operations may seem to be less important than others, but if you watch carefully the work of succeeding machines in their sequence, you will find the inaccurate work of a single machine, like the iniquities of a sinful generation, if not discovered is visited upon each of the machines which follow until the completed product emerges a pariah among its fellows and scornfully known among shoemakers as a "bat," a "crab," or a "cripple."

Fortunately, this now seldom occurs for there is no system of machines in the world so finely adjusted to each other's requirements and which receive such constant and expert attention. No other aggregation of machines meets and successfully copes with so many and such variable conditions; different sizes, shapes, qualities, and a never-ending procession of styles, are made on one set of machines. It is here that we touch the very foundation upon which the shoe industry has been built up and advanced as in no other period in its history, for it is but a comparatively short time since conditions were decidedly different, when there was no system of machines, as the term is now understood among manufacturers. Each manufacturer's equipment was obtained from a wide variety of sources, some he bought and others he hired. Some received a certain amount of attention from those who had placed them in his factory—others almost nine. Unfortunately, shoe machinery is not an exception to the general rule. Parts wear out and break, adjustments go wrong. In former times when this happened production in many factories would cease at that point until the machine had been placed in proper running order. Delays were often long and vexatious, for prior to 1899 Canadian shoe manufacturers obtained the greater portion of the machinery they used from different makers, most of them located in or near Boston. Sometimes the maker supplied but a single machine, in other instances several; but in any case the shoe manufacturer was not only obliged to meet the terms upon which the machine was ordinarily placed in Boston, but to pay such customs charges as were levied against it, and all the expenses of the expert usually sent from Boston to set up the machine and teach its operation from the time he left Boston until he returned. Under these conditions, it is not surprising that the boot and shoe manufacturing industry of Canada advanced but slowly. Many manufacturers preferred to cling to such primitive means as the awl, waxed ends and hammer—shoemaking implements as old as the Egyptian temples—operating only such machines as seldom required adjustment or attention, rather than submit to the vexations and losses which attended the use of improved machinery and methods even then available, but only on the conditions as set forth.

It was a crucial period in the history of the industry. Foreign manufacturers operating under more favorable circumstances found in Canada a ready and even eager market for their surplus productions. The industry was anxiously awaiting the advent of a Moses to lead it safely from the sea of trouble in which it found itself. Such was the state of affairs when, in 1899, the United Shoe Machinery Co of Canada was formed, an event which undoubtedly transcends all others in the history of an industry which, in its evolution from the purely hand processes and implements of only half a century ago, has passed through many revolutions, many of them almost spectacular in character.

The United Shoe Machinery Co. of Canada established its factory and offices in Montreal. It secured some of the best machines then in use for fastening the soles and heels to boots and finishing them. It improved them, it invented or purchased others to fill in the gaps for which there was no machine. It harmonized their action, adjusting them to each other's requirements, until it had a system of machinery for attaching the soles to shoes, as shown in making the very high-grade type of boot known as the "Goodyear Welt," which is truly marvellous. All of this was accomplished only at the expenditure of much money and untold effort. But it did more than supply machines. It kept them in working condition. It established such offices in Quebec and Toronto. It maintained in each office a supply of machine parts in order that any mishap to a machine might be readily repaired. When it is stated that this company in the regular routine of its business makes over 83,000 different kinds of machine parts varying from a machine base weighing over a ton to the most minute machine screw, the magnitude of this undertaking can be really comprehended.

More than this, the company maintains in each of its branch offices a corps of men who are not only expert machinists, but expert shoemakers as well—men competent not only to repair machines, but to teach their operation and to give expert advice. This corps of men is placed at the disposal of its patrons by the company. If any office of the company is notified of a mishap, a man is immediately sent to take care of it. The vexatious delays and the losses which beset the trade so short a time ago have disappeared. Each one of the company's patrons, be he large or small, knows that he is entitled to the same service that his competitor receives. It seems to have been a cardinal principle in the building of the company's business to play no favorites, and the sincerity of the company's efforts is apparently never questioned by its customers.

While the quality of the company's service and the efficiency of its machines, through improvements and new inventions, have constantly increased in value to the industry, it has aimed constantly to reduce the cost to its patrons and with results that have earned their cordial approval.

The United Shoe Machinery Company of Canada has apparently been successful in performing the things it set out to do, for the boot and shoe industry has prospered as at no other time in its history. The company has been constant and diligent in anticipating the requirements of the industry it has served so well. From the small factory occupied the first year of its existence, it soon moved to one of large capacity, and in 1903 built the fine plant it has since occupied on Lagauchetiere street, Montreal. It is now completing a new manufacturing plant in one of the suburbs of Montreal, which it is said will be a model in economical production and convenience. The illustrations of the different buildings occupied by the company afford a most striking index to the prosperity which has attended the boot and shoe industry, for the business of the company has increased in exact ratio to the advance of the industry itself.

Success, however, has its penalties, and the United Shoe Machinery Company of Canada has not escaped. It has been charged that it in a monopoly, and, paradoxical as it may seem, after the description of the wonderfully increased prosperity of the shoe industry—that it is acting in restraint of trade. Fortunately, these accusations do not come from the company's patrons, who apparently are well satisfied with present conditions, but from competitors of the company, some supplying but single machines, none with more than a small number of machines for performing operations widely divorced and therefore lacking every essential advantage which comes from the work of machines in a closely adjusted system. Promoters of these machines have naturally found but little demand for what they had to offer.

The charges are, however, based upon the peculiar conditions under which shoe manufacturers obtain their equipment of machinery—conditions which are probably without a parallel in any other branch of industry, for the boot manufacturer is not obliged to purchase his equipment of machinery—he can lease it. Many of the machines he can purchase outright if he so desires, some of them are only placed in factories on lease, in which case the owner of the machines participates in some small degree in the saving which the machine makes in the shoemaking process. This is the so-called Royalty System, a method of placing machinery as old as shoe machinery itself and a condition originally imposed by the manufacturers of shoes and closely adhered to in most instances ever since.

This royalty plan has been a factor of the most supreme importance in building up the industry. It is related that Gordon McKay, one of the earliest builders of shoe machinery, tried in vain to sell his earliest machines. Shoe manufacturers, while acknowledging the efficiency of the machines and the undoubted saving their adoption would make in their business, did not have the money to pay the moderate prices for which he offered them, or, in some instances, lacked faith in the future of making shoes by machinery. In his desperation, McKay made several unavailing efforts to sell his business, including all rights in the machinery, and finally evolved the scheme of placing them on a royalty, when they were eagerly accepted by manufacturers of shoes, many of whom became wealthy through their use.

McKay formulated a lease which manufacturers using his machines were required to sign. The provisions of this lease were no more onerous than those which the average householder is required to sign. The shoe industry is familiar with them, for practically every successful maker of shoe machinery has been obliged to follow the custom established by McKay about fifty years ago.

In some instances the manufacturer pays a small sum for each shoe on which the machine performs its part of the work, in others, the shoe machinery company places the machine in the factory of the manufacturers without charge, and gets its return from the material used in connection with it, such as wire, nails, tacks, etc.; it being agreed that only material supplied by the company shall be used and that a slight increase over the market price shall be charged. Even in the periods when the price of metals was greatly enhanced, this company has found a way to maintain a very nearly even price for such materials, and has never increased the price charged to manufacturers.

The average rate of royalty, direct and indirect, which this company now receives on all classes of shoes is less than two and one-fifth cents per pair. On some grades of hose it is but three-quarters of a cent per pair, and the highest paid on the highest grade of Goodyear Welt shoes, the best which can be bought is only six cents. Very few shoes pay a royalty as high as this, and the majority of shoes made in Canada pay a royalty of only a cent and a half a pair. In any case the return paid for the use of machinery cuts no figure in the retail price. Out of this small sum the company pays the whole cost of manufacturing machines—of developing and purchasing new ones—of administration—in short, the entire expense of conducting its business.

Under this, the royalty system, a shoe manufacturer can start in business with a modest capital, and, although shoes are made on a close margin of profit, the capital being in liquid form can be turned several times a year, thus giving the manufacturer a substantial profit on the total volume of business, while giving the consumer the benefit of the narrow margin of profit on each pair of shoes. There is no other industry of any consequence of which this is true. The manufacturer of textiles, before beginning business, has to install a complete equipment of machinery at a cost which is prohibitive, except to concerns of very large capitalization. The industry is thus concentrated in very few hands, while the industry of making shoes is divided among different concerns of varying size, and competition is made almost inevitable by the system under which any manufacturer, no matter what his relative importance may be, can get his machinery on terms as advantageous as those obtainable by his most prosperous competitor. Instead of worrying about the depreciation of his machinery, he knows that he is on equal terms with every other manufacturer and that he can confine his attention to the manufacture and sale of shoes, keeping practically all his capital in quick assets.

It is under these conditions that the shoe industry has advanced most rapidly. The small amount of capital required to obtain such a remarkable equipment of machines has made it possible for many shoe manufacturers, who are now numbered among the most prosperous, to enter business on their own account, who, under different conditions, would have been debarred from doing so. It is for this reason that many young men now growing up in the industry regard with slight favor any suggestion that will tend to change these conditions, believing that if the manufacturer is compelled to purchase this machinery outright, it will tend to build up a monopoly in the manufacture of shoes among those who can control the immense capital which would be required.

The United Shoe Machinery Company of Canada has never attempted to monopolize the production of shoe machinery. In the factories of many of its customers the machines of its competitors are running with those of its own production; in fact, there are whole departments in which there are few, and in many cases no machines supplied by it. There is nothing in the agreement between the manufacturers and the company to prevent such a condition.

It is thus that the boot and shoe industry of Canada has advanced through discouragements and difficulties to the proud distinction of being the sixth in importance in the Dominion, at the last census. What the figures of the census now in progress will disclose is a matter of much interest to those actively engaged in the making of shoes. That the industry has continued its remarkable progress is best shown in the ever-improving quality of the goods produced and the attention which the product of Canadian factories is attracting in the markets of the world.

Of the future—who shall say? It is difficult, particularly for those engaged in the industry, to believe that the trend of public affairs and policy should point to a return of the troublesome conditions from which the industry has so recently emerged; but only the destiny which shapes the ends of industries can answer.

WHAT PAPERS SAY OF N. W. ROWELL

Many Words of Appreciation for the New Leader—A Capable Man

The press of Ontario irrespective of politics have expressed their appreciation of the many excellent qualities of Mr. N. W. Rowell, K. C., the new Liberal leader. Here are passages from a few of the complimentary references:

Young, Clean, Brave.

Toronto World:—"He (Mr. Rowell) is young, and clean, and brave, and able, and eloquent. He has a reputation for keenness and shrewdness which he will have full scope in the political field to justify."

A Magnetic Personality.

Brantford Expositor:—A brilliant platform orator, a man of high ideals with the courage to espouse them, a man of magnetic personality, no better choice for the leadership could have been made. Mr. Rowell will have the united endorsation of the Liberal party all over the Province.

In Sympathy With Reform.

St. Thomas Journal:—"There is every assurance that Mr. Rowell is in sympathy with a program of progressive reform, and that he will be able to rally to his support a large element from the Conservative ranks, who do not see in the Whitney Administration the spirit of progress needed at this stage of Ontario's development if this Province is to keep pace with the advancement of the Canadian West."

An Ideal Progressive.

Chatham News:—"The choice of N. W. Rowell is an assurance—if any assurance were needed—that progressive policies will supply the dominant note of Ontario Liberalism. Mr. Rowell is an ideal progressive. He is a man who believes in doing things for the advancement of Canada and the betterment of all classes of her people. Progressive movements have always found him a stalwart and loyal friend; public rights have always found in him a firm champion.

Of Splendid Character.

The Lindsay Post:—The Liberal party in the Province of Ontario has been singularly fortunate in securing Mr. N. W. Rowell, K.C., as a leader to succeed Hon Mr. MacKay. He is a gentlemen of splendid character, a comparatively young man, and a convincing platform speaker. He is a man of high ideals and has at all times manifested the deepest interest in all questions of moral and social reform."

Can be Safely Trusted.

The Ingersoll Chronicle (Liberal):—'Mr. Rowell is a man who can safely be entrusted to guide the destinies of the Liberal party in the Province. In fact, it would seem that the Liberal party has been peculiarly fortunate in having such a strong man as leader when he was most needed. The career of Mr. Rowell from his early years has been one of rapid advancement."

Arouses Enthusiasm.

Young, progressive, and eloquent, Mr. Rowell possesses every qualification for arousing the enthusiasm not only of Liberals, but of a very large body of citizens who are not hide-bound in their political associations, and are concerned only for the maintenance of a high standing of citizenship.

At Monetary Sacrifice

London Advertiser:—"Mr. Rowell has been from his earliest manhood active in humanitarian and religious movements. He has freely and unselfishly given his time to innumerable good causes, especially the cause of missions. His entrance into the political field will be a great monetary sacrifice, but it is well for public life that such men are to be found and the Liberal party has always had its share."

A Hopeful Choice.

The Kingston Standard:—Mr. Rowell is a splendid platform speaker, an enthusiastic worker, a loyal Liberal, and a clean gentleman, against whose character and person not a word can be said. Public life will be the better for the presence of such a man."

Liberalism Will Gain.

St. Catharines ournal:—"Mr. Rowell is a young, clean, shrewd and constructive publicist. He also represents the most progressive Liberalism, that type which bases its principles on the sterling characteristics of Brown and Mowat, Mackenzie and Howe. He should inpire his followers with new hopes and with firmer resolve."

Can't Get It From Whitney.

St. Thomas Journal:—Provincial control and operation of the trunk telephone lines—that's what we need in Ontario.

RHEUMATISM IN THE SYSTEM

SIX YEARS CURED IN SIX DAYS

TO MFRS. "NERVILINE."

"The suffering I endured for six years with Rheumatism is beyond description. Every time I was exposed to cold or dampness meant that I had to go to bed. My muscles stiffened, my joints swelled, and any attempt at exertion brought on excruciating twinges. The pain shifted from one part to another and I was scarcely ever free from misery and sleeplessness. I took all kinds of liquid medicines, but they nearly all depressed my heart and I had to stop them. Then I was told of the wonderful power of Nerviline.

Nerviline

"If Nerviline had been made specially for my case it couldn't have been more successful. It sank right into the core of the painful part, gave me ease, allowed me to sleep, gave me the use of my arms and limbs—in fact, made a new man of me. I urge all Rheumatics to use 'Nerviline.'

A. E. TRAYONER.
"Justice of the Peace, Lancaster."

The most wonderful pain-subduing substances in the world are in Nerviline—that's why it penetrates so quickly, why it instantly cures pain that other remedies can't even relieve. You'll be surprised how quickly sciatica, lumbago, or rheumatism are cured by Nerviline—seems almost magical the way it will cure a cold or sore throat. When the chest is sore and it hurts to draw a long breath, one rubbing with Nerviline is sufficient. So highly valued is Nerviline by those who use it, that many families consider it quite as good as a doctor for aches, pains, and minor ailments of every kind. Large 25c bottles are sold by all dealers.

Itching and Burning on Face and Throat

Sores Disfigured So He Dreaded to Appear in Public. No Rest Night or Day. Cuticura Ointment Cured.

"Six months ago my face and throat all broke out and turned into a running sore. I did not bother about it at first, but in one week's time the disease had spread so rapidly over my face and throat and the burning itching sores became so painful that I began to seek relief in different medicines, but none seemed to give me any relief. The sores disfigured my face to such an extent that I dreaded to appear in public.

"I suffered terribly and could get no rest night or day. At last a friend advised me to try the Cuticura Remedies. I had about given up hope, but thought I would have one more try, and so I used a little Cuticura Ointment, and it helped me from the start. I continued using it and in six weeks' time was completely cured, and can say I would advise anyone suffering from skin disease to use Cuticura Ointment, as it is the best healing balm in the world." (Signed) Roscoe Good, Seven Persons, Alta., Feb. 18, 1911.

FOUND RELIEF ONLY FROM CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"My little girl when only a few weeks old broke out on the top of her head and it became a solid scab. Then her cheeks became raw and sore and after trying different remedies found relief only from using Cuticura Soap and Ointment. It lasted six months or more, but after a thorough treatment with the Cuticura Soap and Ointment never had any return." (Signed) Mrs. W. S. Owen, Yadkin College, N. C., May 30, 1911.

For more than a generation Cuticura Soap and Ointment have afforded the most successful treatment for skin and scalp troubles of infants, children and adults. A single cake of Cuticura Soap and box of Cuticura Ointment are often sufficient. Although sold by druggists and dealers throughout the world, a liberal sample of each, with 32-p. book of the skin, will be sent free, on application to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., 54 Columbus Ave., Boston, U. S. A.

WIRELESS WAVES

A Series of Successful Experiments in Controlling Submarines

Great success has attended a series of experiments made by the staff of the Vernon Torpedo School at Portsmouth in controlling submarines solely by Hertzian or wireless waves.

The Vernon torpedo experts have discovered a device which makes it possible to navigate a submarine from the deck of a warship though the little vessel have no one aboard. The experiments have shown that so complete is the influence exercised over the craft by means of the wireless waves that it can be driven either submerged or on the surface.

The experiments are a development of the operations on which the Admiralty have been for some time engaged in perfecting the wireless torpedo. This is now in an advance stage though much has still to be achieved before it is brought to a state of perfection.

The experiments with the submarine were conducted with one of the Holland boats off Selsey. The controlling apparatus was aboard the cruiser Fulrious, tender to the Vernon and now used largely as an experimental wireless ship.

As a precautionary measure no one was allowed on board the submarine during the trials, though it is said that the step was quite unnecessary and volunteers were ready to undertake the duty if required.

It is considered more than possible that in the very near future it will be possible for a torpedo to be directed by means of wireless to the hull of an enemy's vessel from a position in which its assailant can come to no harm.

The Admiralty authorities are naturally closely guarding the secret of the invention, which is destined to have a far-reaching effect in the event of war.

An Active Old Lady.

On her eighty-first birthday an inmate of the Old Ladies' Home, New York, recently skipped twenty-one times with a rope to celebrate the occasion.

NOT OF SAME STRIPE

Better Have a Different Party in Power in Toronto.

Morgan H. Harris in accepting the Liberal nomination for Bank declared that the Liberals should take Sir James Whitney at his word: that the Governments of Ottawa and Toronto should not be of the same political stripe. The Whitney Government was an absolutely colorless one, and it was hard to lift anything one could not distinguish well. The sins of omission of the Whitney Government such as failure to settle New Ontario, to effect the nationalization of trunk telephone lines, law reform or technical education, were even greater than its sins of commission. Liberals certainly had something to fight for in the approaching contest.

COL. T. R. MAYBERRY
Liberal Candidate, South Oxford.

BUCKLE DOWN TO WORK

Hugh Guthrie's Advice to South Wellington Liberals.

Mr. Hugh Guthrie, M.P., after urging South Wellington Liberals to buckle down to work, declared that the election was most unfairly brought on, for the Administration had still had over a year's term in power. They should first pass the redistribution bill, now that the census has been made public. The only reason they had for bringing on an election was that they had a few vacant seats to fill, and they believed that the Liberals are in an unorganized condition, thus giving the Conservatives an opportunity to snatch a verdict from the voters.

DARING ANIMAL OPERATIONS

Remarkable Dentrl and Surgical Operations in Zoo.

The great feat performed by Professor Woolridge at the London Zoo setting the fractured jaws of the famous nine-yard-long python is a reminder of the remarkable progress made in operating upon animals.

There are now quite a number of pet dogs and cats with artificial eyes and legs; and a short time ago a cat, having swallowed a small hatpin, was placed under the X-rays, and, the pin having been located, was soon skilfully drawn. Professor Garre a few years ago removed the kidney of a dog and sewed it in the same animal's neck; and later he sewed the kidney of a dog in the body of another canine. The experiament was quite successful.

Perhaps the greatest dental operation on record was performed upon an elephant in the city of Mexco. The aching tooth was 12 in. long and 14 in. in diameter at the root. After the animal had been securely fastened with chains, his mouth was prised open, and a quantity of cocaine applied to deaden the pain. When this was done, a hole was bored through the tooth, and an iron bar inserted. Then a rope was twisted around the bar, and four horses were attached thereto to drag the offending molar out.

PHOTOS BY "INVISIBLE" LIGHT

Professor R. W. Wood, of the Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, recently delivered an address on "Recent Experiments with Invisible Light," in which he described some of his researches with spectrum rays that are incapable of exciting the human retina, the experiments dealing with the appearance which various objects would present if they could be viewed by these radiations.

Rabbi's Wit.

Dr. Adler, the late Chief Rabbi, was gifted with a ready wit. He was once seated next to a cardinal, with whom he was on friendly terms.

"When shall I have the pleasure of seeing you eat ham?" asked the cardinal.

"At your eminence's wedding," was the prompt reply.

"You are the prince of beggars," one of the Rothschilds said to him on one occasion. "I am a beggar of princes," was the neat reply.

Appeals to the Best.

Mr. Rowell will appeal to the very best in the Liberal party. He is a man of the highest ideals, and of very marked ability and of absolutely unquestioned character. He is yet a young man and should rally around him all that is best in young Canadians."

Champion Fly Catchers.

At a fly-catching competition in Massachusetts, the winner's "bag" equalled twenty quarts, comprising a total of 1,219,000 flies captured in traps of his own invention.

To Keep Away Flies.

By coating the woodwork round windows with a solution of half an ounce of walnut juice, one ounce of quassia bark, and one pint of hot water, allowed to cool, flies can effectively be kept from the windowpanes.

LION AND BULL FIGHT

Thrilling Encounter in an Arena at Lima, South America

Not many people, outside Spain or Spanish American countries, have witnessed a bull-fight—a matter which they need not deplore—and perhaps still fewer have seen the rather unusual spectacle of a lion and bull fight. Two magnificent lions, male and female, finer than any I ever saw in any menagerie or zoo (says one who was present) had been purchased by the Peruvian Government for the Botanical Gardens at Lima, and by order of the authorities the male lion was pitted against a bull on a fixed day in the building.

A large iron structure was erected in the centre of the bull-ring, and into this the male lion had been introduced. As he lay crouched on the ground at full length, looking up with half-shut eye at the sea of faces, and, no doubt, wondering what all the fuss was about, one could not help admiring his noble proportions. From the door of this iron structure a long boarded alleyway led to the pen where the bull was housed.

A great hush falls on the multitude as the doors of the pen are rolled back and out rushes a bull of large proportions, heading down the alley-way (there was no other road for him), straight into the lion's den. With a sharp roar the lion sprang to his feet, and, nimbly as a cat, vaulted in his first spring right over the back of the bull, missing him. The latter, instantly taking in the situation, backed and lowered his head to charge, but ere he could move the lion was upon him, seized his muzzle between his own enormous jaws, and encircled the bull's neck with his fore paws.

Thus locked in mortal embrace did the bull make frantic efforts to free himself, and at times almost lifted the lion bodily off the ground, such was his strength; but it was all in vain, for the lion held him as in a vice. The struggle lasted about three minutes, and so great was the tension among the spectators that one could have heard the proverbial pin drop. Then there was a perceptible tottering of the bull's hind legs, a swaying of both bodies from side to side that nearly overturned the structure, and finally a great lurch, in which both rolled over together. The bull lay stone dead.

Slowly relaxing his death grip, the lion rose, sniffed all around his prey, and, placing one of his fore paws on the bull's haunch, glared proudly round on the crowd, as if demanding approval.

SENSE IN BRIEF.

There are times when it is better to be imposed upon than to fight.

When a kind and gentle man does deliver a jolt it counts.

A self-made man nearly always looks like the kind of a job he might be expected to turn out.

No matter how little we love our neighbors, we can see no good reason why they shouldn't have a kindly feeling for us.

Free advice is the kind people give away, because they have no use for it.

The man who hasn't enough property to interest the tax-assessor is always talking about the good he would do if he were a millionaire.

You can tell when a man has made a little money by how patronizing he is to everybody who hasn't.

FRENCH AND ENGLISH MEALS

The Hours for Dining Nearly the Same in London and Paris

It is noticeable that the hours of French and English meals have become nearly the same. In the former days the French dejeuner was at 11.30 or at 12 at the latest, the dinner at 6.30 or 7. The English luncheon was at 2 o'clock and the dinner at 8. English society now affects a very light early breakfast and the luncheon hour has been put forward to 1.30, 1.15 and often 1 o'clock. The French breakfast has, on the other hand, been postponed to 12.30, and more often 1 o'clock. The dinners, both in Paris and London, are at 8.15 or 8.30, the only difference being that in Paris the hour named is the precise time at which the guests arrive, while in London a full quarter hour grace is expected. The Court still observes the rather late luncheon hour, the late Queen Victoria's 2 o'clock meal having been put back only as far as 1.45. The time of the 9 o'clock dinner which she observed was altered by King Edward to 8.45 and by King George to 8.30.

Peerless Peninsular

A DURABLE CAST-IRON RANGE WITH MODERN CONVENIENCES

You don't want to use a range as a step-ladder—not as the ordinary thing—but you do want a strong, well-built range. This picture is given here to show that the oven door—a weak spot in most ranges—is a firm, strong piece of construction in The Peninsular and it is typical of the whole make-up of this durable range.

Some people prefer a cast-iron range but want one or two features usually found only in steel ranges.

The Peerless

is designed for just such people.

It has the perfectly-fitting doors and parts, the firm, substantial body and the cosey, homelike appearance peculiar to cast-iron ranges.

At the same time it has an oven made partly of iron and partly of steel — an oven that will heat quickly and evenly all over.

It has a large oven, two inches deeper than any other range of the same size—just large enough to cook four pies at once.

It has a drop oven door, which is not usual on a cast-iron range.

It may be had with a hot water reservoir and a steel warming closet with drop door.

Grates Easy to Remove.

The Part You Cannot See

These are all things that you can see—very important things, but not more so than the things you cannot see—the interior construction, which decides whether or not your pies will burn, whether your oven will be perfectly tight so as to keep out dust and smoke, whether it will wear.

Fifty years of building stoves—honest stoves — are behind every range that bears the name "Peninsular." That name says the materials are good — the fine arrangement is good—the oven is built to heat evenly—the range will wear.

There is a Peninsular range to suit every purse and to please every taste in range architecture.

"The Cost"

illustrates some of the more popular lines and explains why Peninsular ranges cost less in the long run than others. Don't buy a range before reading this book. It's free.

HER SKIN SEEMED ON FIRE

Every Other Treatment Failed But "Fruit-a-tives" Cures

GRANDE LIGNE, QUE., Jan. 2nd, 1910.

"My wife was greatly distressed for three years with chronic Eczema on the hands, and the disease was so severe that it almost prevented her from using her hands. The doctor gave her several ointments to use, but none of them did any good. He also advised her to wear rubber gloves and she wore out three pairs without getting any benefit. As a last resort, I persuaded her to try "Fruit-a-tives", and the effect was marvellous. Not only did "Fruit-a-tives" entirely cure the Eczema, but the Asthma, which she suffered from, was also completely cured.

We both attribute our present good health to "Fruit-a-tives". N. JOUBERT.

"Fruit-a-tives" will always cure Eczema or Salt Rheum because "Fruit-a-tives" purifies the blood, corrects the Indigestion and Constipation, and tones up the Nervous System.

"Fruit-a-tives" is the only medicine in the world made of fruit juices and valuable tonics, and is the greatest of all blood-purifying remedies.

Sinister Letter Friend.

Montreal, Nov. 15.—"Dear Friend,—We inform you we have done what you wanted; we have looked for him and succeeded in catching him. He will live no longer to lick you or anybody else. Only bones and dirt will remain of him. We have done it so no one will know about it. We wanted to come to your house, but we have decided not to go as it would perhaps look bad for us to be seen together. I write you this note, and soon as you receive it you will come to us, and you shall not boast of it, so that it shall come out something bad for us three. Now that you know that which you have wished has been done, hide this note and come to us and we will tell you what became of him."

The above unsigned letter, received by the young Pole, John Senuck, charged with instigating the attempted murder of Michael Schulin, 28 Manufacturers street, was the principal part of the evidence heard in the enquete court yesterday in this attempted murder case, where four unknown men bound Schulin to the axle of a freight car a few weeks ago. Senuck was arrested as being back of this plot on account of the above letter, which he admits receiving, but says he knows nothing about.

Hebert Case Again.

Montreal, Nov. 15.—A new incident to the Hebert marriage case sprang up in the Superior Court yesterday when Mr L. J. Lefebvre, attorney for plaintiff, presented a petition for invalidation of decision of the family council which had appointed Mrs. Hebert (Emma Cloustre) tutrix to the child born from the contested marriage.

It was alleged that the child had been declared illegitimate by the court on petition of the defendant, and that the present petition had been made to procure possession of the baby.

Mr. G. V. Cousins, attorney for Mrs. Hebert, and who was appointed subrogate tutor to the child, appeared on behalf of the mother, and opposed the petition. Mr. Justice Charbonneau ruled that the case would be argued on its merits and the enquete was postponed until next week.

Kaiser's Power Threatened.

Berlin, Nov. 15.—The general criticism in connection with the Moroccan agreement with France that the Reichstag should have a voice in the conclusion of such momentous treaties has made a breach in the constitutional position of the Emperor as a treaty-making power.

Vice-Chancellor Delbrucke yesterday announced to the committee of the Reichstag to whom the Franco-German treaty had been referred, that the Government had concluded that Parliament should be consulted in any treaty involving the acquisition or cession of colonial territory. Therefore, they accepted the proposed statute requiring the assent of the Reichstag and the Bundesrath to any change in the boundary of a colony, but the Moroccan-Congo treaty was excluded under the existing law.

On Charge of Blackmail.

London, Nov. 15.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Sensational disclosures were made yesterday when two private detectives were charged with robbing and blackmailing Elijah Fader, financier, of Acton, who is said to be a Canadian. Fader stayed at the First Avenue Hotel, and the allegation is that the prisoners tried to extort money by threatening him with the accusation that he had caused an illegal operation to be performed on a young woman whom the prosecutor had innocently befriended. When the alleged blackmail was attempted Fader promptly denied the allegations and communicated with the police.

Confesses Triple Murder.

New York, Nov. 15.—Matteo Delloma, a shoemaker, yesterday confessed to the police that he had shot and killed his sister, Mrs. Adolph Lofaro, her five-year-old daughter, Rosie, and his mother, Mrs. Ontonio Delloma, at their home in Brooklyn Tuesday.

Delloma said that he killed his sister when she refused him money, and then slew his mother when she attacked him. Fearing that the cries of the little girl would bring help the shoemaker blew the child's brains out.

Killed In Planing Mill.

Berlin, Ont., Nov. 15.—Charles Gehl, an employe of Weys' planing mill, met with a fatal accident shortly before six o'clock last night. He was in the act of adjusting a belt on a pulley when his arm was caught and wrenched from his shoulder, causing almost instant death.

MARKET REPORTS.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—The boost for raising estimates on the Argentine wheat output to-day was a belief that the acreage had been calculated too low, altho figured at an increase of nearly one-sixth over 1907. News of this sort from South America seemed to act as a wet blanket on prospects for a material advance in quotations. Besides, the world's available supply of wheat was shown to have climbed to the colossal total of a year ago.

Nevertheless, scattered commission orders absorbed all pit offerings, resisted every raid and brought the market back from each decline. The reason was that winter wheat receipts southwest were sensationally small, presumably owing to recent rough weather and low prices contributed. Moreover, the leading cash interests here reported sales large, the running to specific quantity. In the end the opposing influences appeared to be evenly balanced, and the closing tone was steady. During the session December fluctuated between $1 1-4c and $1 1-8c and $1 3-4c, with the last sales at 1-2c and $1 3-8c, a net gain of a shade.

The Liverpool market closed to-day ¼d to ½d lower than yesterday on wheat, and ½d higher on corn. Berlin closed ¼c lower, Buda Pest ¼c lower.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Nov. 14.—There was considerable enquiry from foreign buyers for No. 1 and No. 2 northern Manitoba spring wheat; but as the prices bid for such were to 1/6 1½c per bushel out of line with prices here, no business could be done. The demand for low grades and sample wheat was much quieter, and sales of only a few loads were made.

Business in oats on spot was quiet, as buyers are now fairly well supplied for the present. Demand for car lots of American corn is fair. The trade in flour continues fair, and some business was done for export. Mill feed is fairly active with a good enquiry from foreign buyers for supplies. Demand for cheese is fair. Butter is active and eggs are moving freely.

Frank Grire on Trial.

Toronto, Nov. 15.—Frank Grire was yesterday afternoon placed on trial in the Criminal Assize Court at the City Hall, charged with murdering Frank Torro at the corner of Church and Front streets. The prisoner is defended by T. C. Robinette, K.C., and Mr. Creswick, K.C., is acting as crown prosecutor. The case is proceeding.

Chicago Packers Released.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—On application of counsel for the defendants indicted in the Beef Trust cases, Judge Kohlsaat, in the U. S. Circuit Court late yesterday issued a writ of habeas corpus for the release of the ten packers. The writ is returnable next Thursday. The action of the packers came as a surprise to the Government.

Attorney J. S. Miller, who appeared for the packers, attacked the validity of the Sherman anti-trust law in his petition for the writ of habeas corpus.

Ocean Liners Days Late.

Montreal, Nov. 15.—Of the five liners on the way to Montreal, one is as much as five days over due, but all are reported in the gulf, except the Pomeranian, which is two days late in reaching the gulf. No anxiety is felt however, as it is usual at this time of the year.

The vessels behind hand are: Corinthian three days late; Manchester Importer, three days; Cassandra, two days; Pomeranian, not reported; Montreal, five days late.

Cholera In Italy.

Chasso, Switzerland, Nov. 15.—The report of the Italian Government shows that there were 153 cases of cholera and 81 deaths in Italy from Oct. 29 to Nov. 11 inclusive. The towns of Naples, Genoa and Rome were immune. The Province of Naples reported one case and the Province of Genoa two cases and one death. There were three cases but no deaths in the town of Palermo and one case in the province.

No Feudalism Intended.

London, Nov. 15.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Duke of Sutherland emphasizes the fact that he has bought land in Canada not for forming a large estate, but he is anxious to have settlers, not tenants. His insistance on this point is perhaps forthcoming, because a prominent Liberal paper expressed fears that the duke's action if copied by others might lead to the establishment of a Canadian feudal system.

Furs Double In Value.

Among the many articles the prices of which are advancing, may now be added that of furs. Dealers say that the coming winter will see a rise of from 10 to 100 per cent. in almost all lines of these comfortable garments.

The reason given is that the demand for fur during the last four years has increased a hundredfold, and owing to the districts where fur was formerly very plentiful being rapidly becoming thickly settled, it is becoming difficult to get.

This is particularly true of Canada, where the tide of immigration has lately been very great in the parts of the country where the most valuable fur animals were plentiful.

The Health of Montreal.

The Montreal Star has been taking a fling at the health situation in the metropolis. The terrible infant mortality in Montreal during the heat wave is fresh in the minds of the public.

The Montreal death rate is very high. In the last six years the average is 23.64 per thousand of the population.

Improvements in the water supply are under way for the relief of typhoid. But typhoid is only one ailment of the suffering Montreal public. The white plague is eating its dirty way into the homes of the people. Tuberculosis deaths have increased from 919 to 1,338 in the past four years.

An Ancient Typewriter.

Though it is only within comparatively recent years that the typewriter has come to play its all important part in business life, it is quite an ancient instrument, having been first produced in England nearly 200 years ago. On Jan. 17, 1714, there was granted to a Mr. Mills, an engineer in the employ of the New River Company, a patent for an invention described by him as "an artificial machine for the impressing or transcribing of letters, singly or progressively, one after another as in writing, whereby all words may be engraved on paper or parchment so neat and exact as not to be distinguished from print."

An Elephant Story.

An elephant train was on its way from Lucknow to Secunpore, and one elephant, becoming lame, knelt down and refused to go on. The elephant next in the column stopped of its own accord and when driven on turned back and began without instructions to remove some part of the load from the back of its crippled companion. Instances of aid rendered by birds to others in distress may also be found, showing that the instinct of sympathy exists and takes form in action when the causes of the sufferings are such that the fellow bird can understand and see its way to remedy.—London Spectator.

Origin of the Census.

The census probably had its origin in Rome. The term comes from the high officer called censor, whose duty it was, among other things, to enumerate the people. The Roman census must have been minute and full, since it indicated not only the number of the people, but their respective classes, domestic positions, wealth, etc. It seems that the Roman census was taken about every fifth year. The first effort to take a census in Great Britain was made in 1801, but it did not extend to Ireland.

DR. HAMILTON'S PILLS CURE QUICKLY

Thus writes Mrs. D. P. Fowler, from Yarmouth: "I used to feel drowsy and heavy, my color was shallow, and there was usually a bad taste in my mouth. I had vague pains all through my limbs, and an annoying headache as well.

"After one dose of Dr. Hamilton's Pills there was a sudden change. I felt better, my appetite increased, and that exhaustion and depression gradually left me. Life seemed brighter and happier after I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills, so I strongly recommend such a good medicine."

PETERBORO' LADY IN THE HEART OF WAR-DIVIDED CHINA GIVES GRAPHIC DESCRIPTION

Vividly Interesting Letter From Mrs. Robertson, Who is Located in Chentu, China.

TELLS OF THE TROUBLE

The Examiner has much pleasure in presenting below, a letter received by Mrs. Hunter from her daughter, Mrs. H. D. Robertson (Miss Vieva Hunter) now, with her husband and others, practical prisoners in the missionary compound at Chengtu, China. The letter has two special points of interest that will make it welcomed by our readers. It gives intimation at the time it was written—Sept. 21—that the lives and property of the missionaries were safe, and it is of intrinsic interest for the simply direct and graphic description of conditions obtaining in the mysteriously restless Celestial Kingdom:

Chengtu, Sept. 21st, 1911.

It is a long time since I have written you, but there was no use, as we haven't been able to either send, or receive mail for over a month. I do hope that you have not been overanxious about us, because we have been, so far, quite safe, and I assure you we are having some rather exciting and novel experiences. For over two weeks we have been in the city, packed like sardines, over a hundred and twenty other foreigners, and although we are fortunately blessed with fairly steady nerves, it has been exceedingly trying, as others have been exceedingly frightened, and to say the least, have made rather geese of themselves. When the first scare came some wanted to flee home to Canada, without even inquiring whether the trouble would really affect us, or not. Harold was up in arms at once, and fought like everything to stay, or at least delay until our Consul-General ordered us to go. The delay meant that by the next day the city gates were closed, and the Viceroy forbade anybody from leaving. Some foreigners attempted to go, but were surrounded by soldiers, and politely told to listen to orders. Of course we are packed up, ready to leave any moment, if necessary, and it is no exception lying in boxes. I had packed up, ready for home, anyway, as we had decided it the best thing for Beverley. Then some of the sensible ones decided that all the women and children should go. Well, I put my back up at that, and simply wouldn't go, nor would Harold let me go. Some of the people were simply making this an excuse to go home, which is most unfair to everybody. If they have written home, all that they said they have, they have given the home people a very wrong impression of the state of affairs. We are not suffering in any way; have all the room we need, and lots of fun. The men play baseball and tennis, and study.

September 23rd.

Well, another day has gone by, and as far as we can see, the situation has not changed much. There is constant firing going on, but we cannot tell how serious it is. The Viceroy takes good care to keep us in ignorance. We got word this morning that all foreigners, besides those in Cheng Tu, have gone down the river, and the British gunboat is trying to get to Kiating, but I doubt if she will make it, the river is so low. Kiating is just two days' journey by boat from here. The messages came in in rather a unique way, bottled up and sealed inside a jar of dried fruits from Tsi Cheo, three days' journey from here. All the telegraph wires around here are down, so we cannot get communication with any place except by carrier, and then we don't know whether they get through or not. We have tried to send cables home, but have no idea whether they will ever get there or not. Of course, the rumours that are circulating around the streets are wild. There are supposed to be 20,000 revolutionists ready to pounce on us, but they are poorly armed, with all kinds of ancient weapons, and have no discipline. They are also having great difficulty in getting food for so many and, oh dear, it makes us just heart sick when we think how the poor, innocent country folk are suffering for all this. These bands are simply pillaging the whole countryside, and the stories of their cruelties would make your hair turn gray. Some of the leaders are nothing but desperadoes, who are simply causing all this trouble for the gain they can get. Village after village has been completely destroyed, and when the Government troops go out they show no more mercy, as all they want is revenge for the numbers of their's that have been killed. You cannot picture how disgusting it is to have no idea whether the Viceroy is really trying to settle the country, or merely try-

WHITNEY GOVERNMENT'S NEGLECT OF PETERBOROUGH IN MATTER OF POWER

The citizens of Peterborough and those living in the Trent and Midland districts have every reason to condemn the power policy of the Whitney Government, which has advertised and exploited Western Ontario at the expense of Eastern Ontario. It has supplied power to Western towns out of the money belonging to those living in Eastern Ontario. As far back as 1906 the Whitney Government had an exhaustive report upon the undeveloped water powers lying in the Trent Canal basin. They ascertained, according to the report of Cecil B. Smith, Chief Engineer of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, that no less than 43,510 horse power could be developed between Hastings and Trenton, and that of this total quantity only 4025 horse power had been actually developed. Here was a splendid opportunity for the Whitney Government to have taken hold of this water power, developed it, built transmission lines, and supplied electric power to every city and town in the whole Midland District lying between Kingston and Orillia.

As far back as 1906 their Chief Engineer expressly drew their attention to the fact in his report "that this District "would appear to be one in which united management with "one set of transmission lines to the various towns would "be far more economical than would be the cost if several "companies were to take up the various water powers and "develop and transmit the power independently."

But the Whitney Government during the last five and a half years went on developing power in the Niagara District at the expense of the Province and entirely neglected the development of water powers on the Trent River. The Whitney Government stood by and permitted a large private Corporation to get control of these water powers and develop them as private enterprises. This private corporation has had the courage and enterprise to invest their own private moneys in the development of these powers, notwithstanding the fact that the Whitney Government had not the courage and enterprise to do it themselves.

The fact of the matter is that the citizens of Peterborough have every reason to condemn the Whitney Government for their culpable neglect of this district.

Mr. Peck in his address says: "The Hydro-Electric "Commission has rendered extremely valuable services in "procuring cheap power for many municipalities." That is true so far as the Niagara District is concerned, but they have not done anything in Peterborough, and have let slip the chance to do anything in Peterborough.

Then Mr. Peck proceeds: "The Hydro-Electric Power "Commission may be relied upon to assist in rendering "similar services for the City of Peterborough."

That might have been effectually done five years ago before a private corporation had expended upwards of four million dollars in the development of Water Powers and in the building of transmission lines and transforming stations.

Let Sir James Whitney do something definite to bring cheaper power to Peterborough and the electors will be prepared to believe him, otherwise they will treat his promises and the promises made in his name as an election dodge.

Special Wire to The Examiner.

LONDON, NOV. 15. —All Britain was somewhat startled by the publication of the statement of Arthur Ponsonby, M.P., once principal private secretary to Sir Henry Campbell Bannerman, formerly Prime Minister, in which he said that last September England was on the verge of war with Germany and the British North Sea fleet had their decks cleared for action and torpedo nets out expecting an attack by German torpedo boats.

A tour of inspection was made over the new grain route on the C. P. R., between Bethany and Victoria Harbour this morning. Among the officials present were Mr. David McNichol, Vice President; Mr. J. Mr. W. J. Magrath, Candidate for the Edmonton Mayoralty Enthusiastic Over Prospects of City

MR. KENNEDY'S PROPERTY

Mr. W. J. Magrath, candidate for the mayoralty of Greater Edmonton, at the coming municipal elections was in the city to-day, and the Examiner had the pleasure of a very interesting chat with him. Mr. McGrath formerly resided in Belleville, but for the past six years has lived in Edmonton. His mission in the East, on the present occasion, is the very laudable one of securing industries and wholesale warehouse concerns for Edmonton, and he is negotiating with a number of Eastern Canada and American firms with a view of having them locate branches in Edmonton.

Mr. Magrath, needless to say, is a firm believer in a glorious future for Edmonton. The city is growing very rapidly," he said, but there is no boom growth; it is steady and continuous. Edmonton generates its electrical power by steam and is offering electrical energy at the same price per horse power as is Peterborough. There is an abundance of coal for use in developing electrical power."

Mr. Magrath was asked concerning the large block of real estate at Edmonton, purchased by Mr. H. P. Kennedy of Peterborough, and remarked that it was a good proposition. One industry had already been located on Mr. Kennedy's property, which was in a good location.

Peterborough people in Edmonton were doing extremely well. Fred Whitcroft, his friends will be glad to hear, is flourishing. He is in the employ o fMr. Magrath, who is a real estate dealer, and insurance agent, and the prospective mayor of Greater Edmonton, speaks in terms of the highest praise of the former Peterborough hockey player.

We are so positive that our remedy will permanently relieve constipation, no matter how chronic it may be, that we offer to furnish the medicine at our expense should it fail to produce satisfactory results.

It is worse than useless to attempt to cure constipation with cathartic drugs. Laxatives or cathartics do much harm. They cause a reaction, irritate and weaken the bowels and tend to make constipation more chronic. Besides, their use becomes a habit that is dangerous.

Constipation is caused by a weakness of the nerves and muscles of the large intestine or descending colon. To expect permanent relief you must therefore tone up and strengthen these organs and restore them to healthier activity.

We want you to try Rexall Orderlies on our recommendation. NO HOPE IN SIR JAMES WHITNEY OF IMPROVED COMPENSATION LAW

This is the Workingman's Election, if ever there was one.

The brusque old autocrat up in Queen's Park, Toronto, Sir James Whitney, to wit, has done nothing for the Workingman that he could get out of doing.

He is content to leave the good work exactly where the Liberals left it when they went out of office seven years ago.

He hasn't turned a hand. He hasn't stirred a finger. His idea is to keep the workingman in his place. Sir James' antiquated conception of things is that there are labouring masses and governing classes, and that you shouldn't get the two mixed.

Germany goes ahead and insures the workingman; so does England; so do other countries of aristocratic Europe. But here in North America, the land of the free, the supposed home of equal rights and human brotherhood, the Ontario workingman is no better of under the law to-day than he was in 1904.

The Workingman's Compensation Act has not been altered or amended. Legislation along this line seems to be at a standstill. It looks as if the Whitney Government said to the workingman, "So far, no further."

The Workingman's Compensation Act, as framed and improved from time to time by the Liberal Government, is a good Act, and has remedied a lot of injustice, but it is not perfect. No law ever is. It needs changing every once in a while to bring it abreast of new conditions.

The Act must be amended so as to make it automatic. The law must work without law suits and lawyers' fees. The injured workingman must get all the compensation—not the compensation minus the lion's share for court costs and attorneys' fees.

Sir James Whitney's Government has not seen fit to attend to this. They believe that the workingman is entitled only to what is left after the lawyer gets his.

Mr. Hall is pledged to remodel and extend the Workman's Compensation Act. He says: "The money spent in "law suits by Employers and Employees, and the premiums "paid to Employers' Liability Insurance Companies would "provide a fund large enough, if added to by a reasonable "grant from the Government to provide for a Provincial "Accident Insurance system that would put an end to all "law suits and every injured workingman or his family "could be compensated for the loss he or they might sus-"tain on account of any accident."

The Workman's Compensation Act will not be a real Compensation Act until this or something like it it done.

At present it is a Compensation Act with a discount of 50 per cent.

NEW MEMBERS OF THE HOUSE WERE SWORN IN TO-DAY

OTTAWA ,ONT., NOV. 15. — Sharp on the stroke of noon the swearing in of the new members of parliament began in the Commerce Chamber. David Hyndersan, of Halton, the oldest member present, had the honour of first signing the beautifully illuminied roll. There was no ceremony about it. The chamber was well filled all morning and political friends and enemies gripped hands warmly and forgot ancient feuds in the pleasure of meeting again on the green carpet beside the long table. At three o'clock the ceremony of selecting a speaker was gone through. The commons made their customary trip to the senate and on coming back, chose Dr. Sproule as per arrangement. There was much more ceremony to this of course.

SOUND ASLEEP

INTERESTING EXPERIMENT

The great McEwen carried out another interesting experiment for the benefit of Peterborough people to-day when he placed a lady in a state of hypnotic sleep in the window of the Bee-Hive" store, where she will remain until brought to the Opera House and awakened during this evening's performance, at the Grand. The exhibition attracted a big crowd of interested spectators, the pavement being blocked while the subject was being put to sleep and all afternoon the window was surrounded by a group of curious people, whose comments were very entertaining, to say the least.

There was a big audience at the Grand last night, and the performance was heartily enjoyed, if the storm of laughter that accompanied the programme can be taken as a criterion.

Prof. McEwen's feats of magic and sleight-of-hand mystified the audience, while the experiments in mesmerism and hypnotism were hilariously funny. The spectacle of a dozen men rambling through the audience in an effort to dispose of "red-headed monkeys, two for a quarter" would make a stone image laugh, and it was no wonder that last night's audience could not control its merriment. McEwen's hypnotic experiments are the most amusing and clever of their kind ever seen here, and no one should miss the opportunity of seeing the performance which, by the way, is changed every night. This evening, the Great McEwen will give a demonstration of hand-cuff work, releasing himself from a cabinet, and other mysterious "stunts," similar in nature. The hypnotic class will be put through another series of amusing experiments.

PETERBORO' LADY IN THE HEART OF WAR-DIVIDED CHINA GIVES GRAPHIC DESCRIPTION

Vividly Interesting Letter From Mrs. Robertson, Who is Located in Chentu, China.

TELLS OF THE TROUBLE

The Examiner has much pleasure in presenting below, a letter received by Mrs. Hunter from her daughter, Mrs. H. D. Robertson (Miss Vieva Hunter) now, with her husband and others, practical prisoners in the missionary compound at Chengtu, China. The letter has two special points of interest that will make it welcomed by our readers. It gives intimation at the time it was written—Sept. 21—that the lives and property of the missionaries were safe, and it is of intrinsic interest for the simply direct and graphic description of conditions obtaining in the mysteriously restless Celestial Kingdom:

Chengtu, Sept. 21st, 1911.

It is a long time since I have written you, but there was no use, as we haven't been able to either send, or receive mail for over a month. I do hope that you have not been overanxious about us, because we have been, so far, quite safe, and I assure you we are having some rather exciting and novel experiences. For over two weeks we have been in the city, packed like sardines, over a hundred and twenty other foreigners, and although we are fortunately blessed with fairly steady nerves, it has been exceedingly trying, as others have been exceedingly frightened, and to say the least, have made rather geese of themselves. When the first scare came some wanted to flee home to Canada, without even inquiring whether the trouble would really affect us, or not. Harold was up in arms at once, and fought like everything to stay, or at least delay until our Consul-General ordered us to go. The delay meant that by the next day the city gates were closed, and the Viceroy forbade anybody from leaving. Some foreigners attempted to go, but were surrounded by soldiers, and politely told to listen to orders. Of course we are packed up, ready to leave any moment, if necessary, and it is no pleasure living in boxes. I had packed up, ready for home, anyway, as we had decided it the best thing for Beverley. Then some of the sensible ones decided that all the women and children should go. Well, I put my back up at that, and simply wouldn't go, nor would Harold let me go. Some of the people were simply making this an excuse to go home, which is most unfair to everybody. If they have written home, all that they said they have, they have given the home people a very wrong impression of the state of affairs. We are not suffering in any way; have all the room we need, and lots of fun. The men play baseball and tennis, and study.

September 23nd.

Well, another day has gone by, and as far as we can see, the situation has not changed much. There is constant firing going on, but we cannot tell how serious it is. The Viceroy takes good care to keep us in ignorance. We got word this morning that all foreigners, besides those in Cheng Tu, have gone down the river, and the British gunboat is trying to get to Kiating, but I doubt if she will make it, the river is so low. Kiating is just two days' journey by boat from here. The messages came in in rather a unique way, bottled up and sealed inside a jar of dried fruits from Tai Cheo, three days' journey from here. All the telegraph wires around here are down, so we cannot get communication with any place except by carrier, and then we don't know whether they get through or not. We have tried to send cables home, but have no idea whether they will ever get there or not. Of course, the rumours that are circulating around the streets are wild. There are supposed to be 20,000 revolutionists ready to pounce on us, but they are poorly armed, with all kinds of ancient weapons, and have no discipline. They are also having great difficulty in getting food for so many and, oh dear, it makes us just heart sick when we think how the poor, innocent country folk are suffering for all this. These bands are simply pillaging the whole countryside, and the stories of their cruelties would make your hair turn gray. Some of the leaders are nothing but desperadoes, who are simply causing all this trouble for the gain they can get. Village after village has been completely destroyed, and when the Government troops go out they show no more mercy, as all they want is revenge for the numbers of their's that have been killed. You cannot picture how disgusting it is to have no idea whether the Viceroy is really trying to settle the country, or merely try-

WHITNEY GOVERNMENT'S NEGLECT OF PETERBOROUGH IN MATTER OF POWER

The citizens of Peterborough and those living in the Trent and Midland districts have every reason to condemn the power policy of the Whitney Government, which has advertised and exploited Western Ontario at the expense of Eastern Ontario. The Workingman's Compensation Act, as framed and improved from time to time by the Liberal Government, is a good Act, and has remedied a lot of injustice, but it is not perfect. No law ever is. It needs changing every once in a while to bring it abreast of new conditions.

The Act must be amended so as to make it automatic. The law must work without law suits and lawyers' fees. The injured workingman must get all the compensation—not the compensation minus the lion's share for court costs and attorneys' fees.

Sir James Whitney's Government has not seen fit to attend to this. They believe that the workingman is entitled only to what is left after the lawyer gets his.

Mr. Hall is pledged to remodel and extend the Workman's Compensation Act. He says: "The money spent in "law suits by Employers and Employees, and the premiums "paid to Employers' Liability Insurance Companies would "provide a fund large enough, if added to by a reasonable "grant from the Government to provide for a Provincial "Accident Insurance system that would put an end to all "law suits and every injured workingman or his family "could be compensated for the loss he or they might sus-"tain on account of any accident."

The Workman's Compensation Act will not be a real Compensation Act until this or something like it it done.

At present it is a Compensation Act with a discount of 50 per cent.

NEW MEMBERS OF THE HOUSE WERE SWORN IN TO-DAY

OTTAWA ,ONT., NOV. 15. — Sharp on the stroke of noon the swearing in of the new members of parliament began in the Commerce Chamber. David Hynderson, of Halton, the oldest member present, had the honour of first signing the beautifully illuminated roll. There was no ceremony about it. The chamber was well filled all morning and political friends and enemies gripped hands warmly and forgot ancient feuds in the pleasure of meeting again on the green carpet beside the long table. At three o'clock the ceremony of selecting a speaker was gone through. The commons made their customary trip to the senate and on coming back, chose Dr. Sproule as per arrangement. There was much more ceremony to this of course.

SOUND ASLEEP

INTERESTING EXPERIMENT

The great McEwen carried out another interesting experiment for the benefit of Peterborough people to-day when he placed a lady in a state of hypnotic sleep in the window of the "Bee-Hive" store, where she will remain until brought to the Opera House and awakened during this evening's performance, at the Grand. The exhibition attracted a big crowd of interested spectators, the pavement being blocked while the subject was being put to sleep and all afternoon the window was surrounded by a group of curious people, whose comments were very entertaining, to say the least.

There was a big audience at the Grand last night, and the performance was heartily enjoyed, if the storm of laughter that accompanied the programme can be taken as a criterion.

Prof. McEwen's feats of magic and sleight-of-hand mystified the audience, while the experiments in mesmerism and hypnotism were hilariously funny. The spectacle of a dozen men rambling through the audience in an effort to dispose of "red-headed monkeys, two for a quarter" would make a stone image laugh, and it was no wonder that last night's audience could not control its merriment. McEwen's hypnotic experiments are the most amusing and clevereat of their kind ever seen here, and no one should miss the opportunity of seeing the performance which, by the way, is changed every night. This evening, the Great McEwen will give a demonstration of hand-cuff work, releasing himself from a cabinet, and other mysterious "stunts," similar in nature. The hypnotic class will be put through another series of amusing experiments.

TO CURE A COLD

It is easy to check a cold if you begin in time. Prompt doses of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine break the cough loose, allay the irritation, and so prevent it settling on the bronchial tubes and lungs. Mrs. T. H. Moore, Sherwood, Ont., writes: "I wish to state my gratitude for Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, for it cured a cold which a friend said would soon put me in the grave."

SIX YEARS' WORK.

The Toronto Telegram has the following:

"Anglo-Saxon ideals demand a policy that will succeed where the Cochrane policy failed, a policy that will do more in twelve months to open up and develop Northern Ontario than the Cochrane policy did in six and a half years."

And the Telegram's somnolent Mr. Cochrane is the same gentleman — who "slept on his job" for six years —to whom the Peterborough aldermen are applying to-morrow to wake up the Hydro-Electric Commission and secure power for Peterborough. It is to be hoped that Mr. Cochrane will be galvanised into waking existence.

NOTHING FOR THE MERE FARMER.

The Ontario Agricultural College cannot accommodate the farmers' sons who want to make themselves better farmers. Instead of enlarging the accommodation to meet the demand, our brilliant Minister of Agriculture, Hon. James Duff, has conceived the brilliant idea of raising the fees, so as to discourage attendance. Great statesmanship that! If the printing press of a newspaper office will not print its papers fast enough to meet the demand, "whoop up" the subscription price, to cut down the circulation, and the old press will do. "Whoop up the fees" at the Agricultural College, and there will be no need for increased accommodation. The economical Whitney Government cannot find money to enlarge the great farmers' college, though they can spend hundreds of thousands dollars to build a big residence for the Lieutenant-Governor and spend hundreds of thousands dollars of the people's money to turn out lawyers and doctors through the Provincial University, but not a cent to enlarge the buildings of the Agricultural College, so that every farmer's son who wants to do so, can get a farm education—just "whoop up" the fees and bar students, and there is no need of wasting money in extending buildings in the interests of the mere farmer.

MR. HAWTHORNE.

Mr. E. Hawthorne, the candidate unanimously nominated at the Liberal convention of East Peterborough last June, is pushing his canvass vigorously, and possesses qualifications that should commend him strongly to the electors of East Peterborough. He is a farmer from choice, having in early life followed mercantile pursuits ,and is well fitted to be the representative of a farming constituency. He has, all his adult life, been associated with the promotion of farming interests, and still maintains that interest in active operation. He fills many positions in the interests of farming. He is president of the Warsaw Cheese and Butter Factory, the first of its kind formed in East Peterborough, and was instrumental in its organisation. He is secretary-treasurer of the Peterborough Cheese Board, vice-president of the East Peterborough Agricultural Society and vice-president of the Farmers Institute, and president of the Farmers Club of Warsaw. It is therefore seen that Mr. Hawthorne, as a practical and interested farmer, would make an excellent representative of a farmers riding. His efficiency in this regard will be much increased by his large municipal experience. He was deputy-reeve of Dummer for two years, reeve for four or five years. He was warden of the county in 1899 and for some time occupied the position of county valuator in connection with the Equalisation of the Assessment. On general provincial politics, Mr. Hawthorne's position is sound and in aline with the progressive policy of the Liberal party, and if elected he will bring to his parliamentary duties, benefits of a large municipal experience, a sound judgment and real interest in the promotion of the welfare of an agricultural riding like East Peterborough. Mr. Hawthorne will soon hold a series of meetings, and place his platform and claims before the electors. He is warmly commended to the support of the electors.

SOMETHING MORE THAN PROMISES WANTED.

The City Council goes to Ottawa tomorrow at midnight. What for? The answer is, to complicate the power situation in Peterborough, by mixing up the Hon. Frank Cochrane, Minister of Railways and Canals, the Tory Toronto Telegram's "six-year sleeper," with the Hydro-Electric Commission of Ontario. Why is this? Has the Hydro-Electric, that has spread power over a part of Western Ontario, lost its power to give power to Eastern Ontario, and especially the Midland district? We had the Hydro-Electric Commission held up by the Review a few days ago as all powerful. It was to electrify Peterborough, by expropriation, confiscation or otherwise. Now it has to have the help of the Dominion Department of Railways and Canals. This may be all right; but it is a distinct vote of want of confidence in the Hydro-Electric Commission. From this we may conclude that if there had not been a change of government at Ottawa, the Hydro-Electric Commission would not be able to do the justice to Central Ontario it now promises to be anxious to do. This is to argue that the power of the Hydro-Electric Commission is limited in the matter of supplying power to, say, Peterborough, and that, after compelling Eastern Ontario to contribute its share to the over four millions of the money of the whole province, spent to furnish Western Ontario power, and facilities for industrial competition, to the prejudice of Peterborough and Eastern Ontario, it is unable to extend the same to Peterborough without Dominion help. Not long since, when the water powers on the Trent Waterway were open to lease from the Dominion government, and were undeveloped and had not spent on them by private enterprise, millions of dollars, was the time for the Whitney government to have applied its Hydro-Electric policy. But it waited till just before an election ,and "got busy," with promises. Five years ago, when the Whitney government engineer reported favourably upon the power possibilities of the Trent district, there were water powers galore, to be had at a merely nominal figure. Now they are under lease, and made of immense value by development and can only be acquired by expropriation or confiscation at great cost.

All this spells more delay. For five years the Hydro-Electric Power Commission has had the chance to get power for Peterborough and it has done nothing. As far as Peterborough, and the interests of Peterborough are concerned it has been asleep; and now it is proposed to call in the assistance of a Dominion Minister, Mr. Cochrane, who the Tory Toronto Telegram says slept through six years of his official life as a member of the Whitney government. Now, on the eve of an election when the Whitney government wants the votes of Peterborough and Eastern Ontario electors, it makes a show of waking up and performing an act of death-bed repentance; but why should our City Council go to Ottawa, if we are under the wing of the Hydro-Electric Commission, which has been sowing power broadcast in Western Ontario, without any help but the money of Eastern Ontario, which has paid without any delivery of "the goods." It is to be hoped that the mission of the city fathers may be successful. Of course, they will come back with a bagful of promises, but promises will not fill the bill. We want power, not promises, made in the heat of a general election. Sir James Whitney appointed Dr. Merchant to investigatae the conditions in connection with the so-called bilingual schools, and with what result? No report has been issued, and matters stand just where they were, in this regard, a year ago. We can't discount promises at the bank.

EVADING THE QUESTION.

Sir James Whitney is not slow to throw dust into the eyes of the friends of education in Ontario in order to blind them to his own neglect of duty in regard, especially to bilingual schools, which it is evident are not fulfilling the aim of their existence and are failing to give effect to the true educational policy—to give every child in the province the rudiments of an English education.

In a letter to Mr. McNaught, Conservative candidate in North Toronto, Sir James writes as follows:

Dear. Mr. McNaught,—There is a great deal of misunderstanding about what are called bilingual schools. As I said in my speech to the House last March there is no such thing in the Province as a bilingual school. Here is the resolution passed by the House unanimously last session:

"Resolved that the English language shall be the language of instruction and of communication with the pupils in the Public and Separate schools in the Province, except where, in the opinion of the Department of Education, it is impracticable by reason of the pupils not understanding English."

Dr. Merchant was instructed to make a careful and exhaustive examination of the conditions in the schools.

When his report is received, if it shows that any schools are not conducted in accordance with the terms of the resolution, the department will at once take steps to compel compliance with such terms.

Yours faithfully,
J. P. Whitney.

Sir James in this letter is not quite ingenuous. There is very little "misunderstanding" about what is called bilingual schools. If there is any "misunderstanding" it is wilful misunderstanding on the part of Sir James and his Department of Education. They have been seven years in supposed official touch with the schools of the province, and if they had done their duty should have known what was right and what was wrong in regard to bilingual, as well as other schools. When the matter of bilingual schools was brought up by resolution, as above, in the Legislature, Sir James adroitly enough side-stepped the question by referring it to Dr. Merchant to investigate. Dr. Merchant has had months to do his work, and is no doubt ready to present his report when he knows that it will be received. Sir James has brought on the election with the idea, as it appears, of again shelving the question till after the election, and to avoid making a declaration of policy on the subject. There should have been no need on the part of Sir James Whitney to appoint Dr. Merchant to make a special investigation. He has inspectors of schools who could, with their special knowledge of the conditions, have told him whether or not the schools are "conducted in accordance with the terms of the resolution." It has only taken an enterprising newspaper a few weeks to find out what Sir James Whitney should have known long ago if there had been maintained the remotest contact between the Education Department and the schools. The special correspondence of the Toronto Star, reports, as shown in another column ,that in the eastern counties of Ontario, not only the inefficiency of the teachers, and consequently, of the teaching, in not only the so-called bilingual schools but in the public schools generally. If the Education Department had kept in proper touch, as it is organized to do, with the schools of the country it would have known the conditions, and there would be no need for Sir James Whitney taking the pitiful subterfuge of waiting for the report of Dr. Merchant to evade the duty of pronouncing his policy upon the subject. He may be "bold enough to be honest" but not quite honest enough to be frank.

HOW THE ONTARIO GOVERNMENT HELPS PROMOTE AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

"Whoop up the fees."

On the first glance this may appear to the casual reader like a new-fangled college yell. It is not. It is the reply of Hon. James Duff to a complaint that the accommodation at the Ontario Agricultural College was not being increased sufficiently to care for the students who desired to attend. Hon. James Duff is Minister of Agriculture for the Province of Ontario. The Mercury makes this announcement so as to leave no room for doubt in the minds of the electors as to who is head of one of the most important departments of the province. Owing to the inertia and general incompetence of the incumbent of this most important position, under the Whitney Administration, there is good reason for the average person thinking that there has been no Minister of Agriculture since Hon. James Duff assumed office. The students of the Agricultural College could scarcely be blamed if they did not know that such a man as the Hon. James Duff, of Cookstown, existed. His visits to the Ontario Agricultural were so infrequent as to leave doubt as to whether he knew of its existence. But the utterance at the head of this article sets all doubts at rest. There is now no quesion that Hon. James Duff has heard of the O. A. C. He is on record. His reply to those who endeavoured to press the claims of the Ontario Agricultural College upon him will go down in history side by side with the classic reply of the Toronto mayor, who was visiting Engand, when the intake pipe floated up to the top of the Bay. He was advised of the fact by cable and at a dollar per word rushed the reply: "Act Promptly." There was something so satisfying and complete in the reply of Hon. James Duff that it filled the bill in every particular. It was a simple and economical solution of the most difficult and perplexing problem. It showed a grasp of the subject that even the most intimate friend of the Minister of Agriculture would scarcely give him credit for. It told in four brief words that the Minister of Agriculture placed little value on the chief educational institution of his department and that he thought that there was no need of more scientific farmers in the province than the institution, as at present equipped, is capable of turning out. It showed that he did no care a hang how difficult he might make it for some poor farmer who desired to give his son the advantages of special training in his chosen profession. What more could one ask? "Whoop up the fees."—Guelph Mercury.

A correspondent of The Guelph Mercury tells of Hon. Mr. Duff's simple method of meeting the excessive crowding o fstudents in the Agricultural College. His plan was simply to "whoop up the fees." It is but fair to the Minister of Agriculture to explain that his purpose was not to improve or extend the usefulness of the institution, but to avert the crowding. The conclusion shows that in a limited way Hon. Mr. Duff possesses a quality which Sir James Whitney conspicuously lacks—namely, a capacity for economic reasoning. The Minister of Agriculture reasons with precision when he concludes that the attendance at the college can be reduced by increasing he fees. His economic reasoning is sound, whatever may be said of his policy. If Sir James had equally clear economic understanding he could see that taxing buildings discourages building. He could also, if endowed as Hon. Mr. Duff is, see that taxing land discourages idle holding and promotes building. Hon. Mr. Duff could see these things if he turned his attention toward them, but Sir James cannot. The Minister of Agriculture can see that to "whoop up the fees" lessens college attendance. Sir James cannot see that to "whoop up he taxes" lessens building. That is why he thinks it would be foolish and cruel not to force every municipality to raise the taxes on everyone who builds.

If Sir James had the discernment of Hon. Mr. Duff he would be able to think more clearly. He would see that every shifting of taxation from the products of industry to land promotes industry and lessens the profits that are possible through the holding of vacant areas. He would see also that the man who puts up a ten-thousand-dollar house is not a public enemy to be punished by a heavy fine, but a public benefactor to be encouraged. He would see also that the man who could put up a ten-thousand-dollar house without conferring substantial benefits on many and furthering the good of the community. If endowed as Hon. Mr. Duff is, Sir James would also perceive that if any man injures the public and becomes a debtor to the public it is he who holds land idle or only partly used, waiting till the industry and necessities of others enable him to levy a high price on them. Of course he cannot see these things, and that is why he flatly refuses to allow any municipality under his jurisdiction to attempt the Vancouver experiment. We must be fair to Sir James. It is not that he wants to discourage building or to favour the stunting of municipalities by the idle or partly idle holding of land. He is unable to see that his policy tends in that direction or that he policy which he refuses to allow the municipalities to adopt would avert a danger that hangs over every centre of population in Ontario.—The Globe.

A QUESTION OF EFFICIENCY.

(Toronto Star.)

Mr. Armand Lavergne, M.P.P., firmly believes that the French-Canadians are entitled by the treaties and by the British North America Act to bilingual schools and even to purely French schools in all parts of the Dominion. Mr. Lavergne makes a large claim, and it is just as well that we should know what he and his Nationalist friends intend. He intimates that if bilingual schools are abolished in Ontario Mr. Borden will come to their aid, in other words, that the Dominion Government will force them upon Ontario. But there is more than that. It is clear that the Nationalist programme as announced by them is not only to maintain, but to extend the system. He regards it as a desirable thing, as an ideal for Canada. Here those who value our system of free education must take issue with him.

Upon practical grounds, upon educational grounds, the extension of the bilingual system is in the highest degree undesirable. We in Ontario find that it is difficult enough to get our children a sound education, and to provide suitable teachers, without introducing needless complications into the schools. It is hard enough to get teachers to give elementary instruction in one language, and it is simply an outrage upon common sense to encourage the spread of a system under which the teacher must be an expert in two languages.

The bilingual system as it was introduced in Ontario was not intended to have any such result. It was tolerated merely as a means of removing a difficulty from the path of French-Canadian children entering the lowest classes of the elementary schools. It was not intended to encourage and extend the use of two languages throughout this Province. It is not narrowness or bigotry that resists that extension. It is the instinct of self-preservation. The extension of bilingualism means the weakening if not the destruction of our school system. It means an enormous increase in expense and a disastrous lessening of efficiency. It means that the children of Ontario are to be sent into the world with a poorer equipment for life, having learned neither French nor English nor anything else thoroughly. Such a system may for special reasons be permitted within certain limits. But no practical educationist would dream of extending it. Mr. Lavergnes' citation of the names of Laurier, Monk, and Bourassa counts for nothing. We are not attempting to conduct bilingual schools of oratory in Ontario, but to give half a million children a practical training for the duties of life.

HALF THE SCHOOLS OF ONE COUNTY INEFFICIENT

From special correspondence, Toronto Star:

Vankleek Hill, Nov. 14.—One of the few places in the far Eastern counties of Ontario where English-speaking people are still in the majority is Vankleek Hill.

There are in the town three schools, one attended by the English, one attended by the French, and the High school. In the English school English is, of course, the sole language of instruction, and the same is true of the High school. The other is attended almost wholly by the children of French parents, and is bilingual.

A unique condition of affairs exist in the English primary school. In the fourth class, the preparatory Entrance class, there are forty-two names on the roll. Of these the exceedingly high number of ten, a quarter of the class, do not come from the town itself. During the school year these ten live in the town, but their homes are in the surrounding country.

The reason for this is that the parents of these children realize that their own schools are inadequate, and so the children are sent to board in Vankleek Hill, where they can secure a proper education and have a fighting chance to pass the Entrance examinations.

Half Teachers Inefficient.

These pupils are the product of bilingual schools. They are as clever as any others, but in these schools they have little chance of preparing themselves for the Entrance.

One reason for this is that the teachers in these schools are not properly qualified. How many are like that, one may ask?

"In the County of Prescott fifty per cent., one-half of the teachers, in the primary schools are not qualified to teach. One may with reason wonder if such is really the case. It is, and not for this year only, but for years past," said one who knows.

This is a sweeping indictment of the educational system of Ontario. Here is a populous thriving country, one of the oldest in the Province, and yet in the year of grace, 1911, the parents have to be satisfied to send their children to schools, half of which are in the control of inefficient teachers. One reason given for this present state of affairs is the abolition of the Model schools by the Whitney Government shortly after it came into power some six years ago.

In such a state of affairs it is little wonder that parents take advantage of the opportunity of sending their children to a school where proper teachers are in control. Not being taxpayers to these schools they are not really entitled to send their children there, but this is overcome by their paying a dollar a month per pupil. There are some schools, like the one in Caledonia village, where there is no Entrance class, and those who reach that stage are forced to send their pupils elsewhere.

"BRITISH BORN" SAYS THE BRITISH BORN WERE "HAWKED"

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—As one of the above, I am feeling not a little sore, but very sorrowful. The cause of this feeling comes from a statement which I have read in this week's Globe .We British-born, think that we are as sharp and quick-witted as the next.

But, after what I have read in the Globe, we, the British born, have been outwitted, and have been bought and sold for less than the proverbial sparrows, which were sold for two farthings.

A little while ago we were entranced by a patriotic speech, which was served out to the British born from the stage of the opera house, telling us the awful consequences which would occur if we voted for reciprocity. We were all such natural traitors that by making it possible for our wives and little ones to obtain cheaper food, we were betraying the British Flag. As any of the British born read Monday's Globe, did they see anything there to attract their attention? I did. I see that Arthur Hawkes who it is now proved without doubt, was in pay of the party now in power, and that the articles which he was engaged to write throughout the Dominion, the speeches which were made to the British born, were not the outcome of patriotic fervour, but the mean and sordid vapourings of a comomn grafter. He knew the reward for which he was working, and has proven himself an experienced grafter; in fact, "graft" was his pass port to the position which we now see him placed by Mr. Borden. How little we, British born, thought that the snare, so cunningly placed by the Hawk, was going to trap us poor sparrows. Little did we, the British born, think that our inexperience of Canadian politics was going to be the means of depriving our wives and children of cheaper food and placing Arthur Hawkes in the position which we now find him. We sparrows have been Hawked, but it makes one sore.

By the by, lest we forget, if we remember, the Chairman told us at the meeting of the British born, that the Hawke was a cunning bird, and so he has proved to be. That same chairman has vanished to the shores of Uncle Sam, and he now spreads his wings under the Stars and Stripes.

Now, that we are upon the eve of another election, which is of vastly more importance to the working men of this Province, and especially for Peterborough, than a Dominion election, let us see that we are not again deluded by any false promises by those engaged in party politics. We have the promise of one who has stepped out on behalf of the working man, one who has himself offered to be their champion, and who has given his word that the Workmen's Compensation Act shall receive much attention that the wives and children shall feel secure, should accident or death deprive them of their breadwinner. What has been done in other countries, can be done in this Province of Ontario, and when we, of West Peterborough, have a man who will, like R. R. Hall, come forward and promise us a measure which is for our benefit, and not all all interfering with the employer's success in his business, it is to our interest to support such a man. He does not say that what the Premier of the present Government arranges to do, he will support, as Mr. Peck promises, but he tells us that the measure which we have placed before us is what he intends to bring before the House, should he be returned. We were caught by cunning last election. The Whitney Government has not done anything for the working men, in seven years, and it is not likely that it will do anything more than promise now. Let us no more be sparrow-Hawked, but vote for our own interests, in having some one to see that our method of educating our young men, by giving them the privilege of night schools, as a reward for the sacrifices they are compelled to make by having to turn out to work, when, by right, they ought to be at school.

I hope, dear Editor, this letter will find a space in your valuable paper.

I am, Sir,
British Born.

No Man is Stronger Than His Stomach

A strong man is strong all over. No man can be strong who is suffering from weak stomach with its consequent indigestion, or from some other disease of the stomach and its associated organs, which impairs digestion and nutrition. For when the stomach is weak or diseased there is a loss of the nutrition contained in food, which is the source of all physical strength. When a man "doesn't feel just right," when he doesn't sleep well, has a uncomfortable feeling in the stomach after eating, is languid, nervous, irritable and despondent, he is losing the nutrition needed to make strength.

Such a man should use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures disorders of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enriches the blood, invigorates the liver, stir nythens the kidneys, nourishes the nerves, and so GIVES HEALTH AND STRENGTH TO THE WHOLE BODY.

You can't afford to accept a substitute as a substitute for this non-alcoholic medicine OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit. Ingredients printed on wrapper.

Wolgast vs. McFarland

CHICAGO, NOV. 10.—When Emil Thiery, manager of Packey McFarland, arrived home to-day from New York, a conference was held between him and Tom Jones, manager of Ad Wolgast, relative to a match between the champion and the Chicago boy, to be held at San Francisco Jan. 1.

James Coffroth, the Pacific Coast promoter, has again offered a substantial purse for the lightweight battle, and principals and managers have declared many times their willingness for such a battle.

Wolgast arrived in Chicago yesterday and remained here until last night, when he left with Jones for Los Angeles, where he is billed to take on Freddie Welsh on Thanksgiving Day at Tom McCarey's Vernon arena. Wolgast said he wanted to meet McFarland and that he would not block any scheme brought forward that would bring the two together.

McFarland arrived home yesterday from his tour of the east. He would not say whether or not he was to meet Wolgast, but declared his willingness, and said Emil Thiery was his manager, and that any articles signed by Thiery would be agreeable to him. He declares he can make 133 pounds at ringside with ease. It seems to be a certainty that McFarland and Wolgast will stage their postponed argument and that nothing is left but the signing of the articles.

Coffroth has offered McFarland a match with Harlem Tommy Murphy, to be staged on the coast about Dec. 1, and it is possible that Packey will accept. This bout will be held in San Francisco about the same time Wolgast is battling in Los Angeles with Welsh, and the promoter in 'Frisco wisely figured that interest in a mill between the champion and Packey will be increased tenfold by wins by Wolgast and Packey in their respective bouts in the two principal cities of California.

By using soap water when making starch the clothes will have a glossy appearance, and the irons will be less likely to stick.

A Mile in 4.10

New York, Nov. 11.—"There are four men in this country who are capable of running a mile in 4.10. These men are John Paul Jones, Wilton Paul, Melvin Sheppard and Abel Kivlat."

This is the opinion of such great trainers as Mike Murphy and Lawson Robertson, yet George McDonald, manager of Matt Wells, the English pugilist, says that no man will ever run a mile in that time.

"I was a trainer of professional foot runners for a number of years in England," says McDonald, "and I was rather amused when I read an article in which Melvin Sheppard, your great middle distance runner, declared the time would come when the mile would be run in four minutes ten seconds Really, I very much doubt that a mile will ever be run in so fast a time.

"W. G. George, the countryman of mine who made a world-wide reputation as an amateur distance runner, and later on, running as a professional, established the world's mile record by travelling the distance in 4 minutes 12 1-4 seconds, was probably the greatest runner that ever lived, and I am quite positive that 4.10 would have been an impossible feat even for him when at his very best. At least George's record of twenty years ago will stand for another twenty years, or I'm greatly mistaken."

RUGBY

But it is in their offensive work where the team really scintillates. Pete Campbell is probably the finest quarter-back that ever donned moleskins in Canada; Green is a magnificent punter and speedy runner; Al. Ramsay is as hard to stop as a freight car running down grade; and Jack Maynard is the greatest dodger and side-stepper, and as fleet a man as ever Varsity had on a team. Fleet of foot every one of them; each with a sure pair of hands, and good punters all—this is a quartette that has gained more yards by combination than any other in history. It is Campbell to Maynard to Ramsay to Greene and another touchdown for Varsity."—The Varsity.

In front of these three, between the wings and the backs, is the great little 140-pound, 19-year, 5 feet 7 inches Peter Campbell, the best quarter-back of them all. Pete will be back for two years more at S. P. S. He learned his Rugby at T.S.C., Port Hope, with Jack Maynard, and claims Peterborough as his home.—Toronto Star

(Toronto Star)

Now that decks have been cleared for final action the great question is, can Argos trim Alerts of Hamilton, and Varsity, and wear the triple crown?

The first concern is Alerts. Up in Hamilton a big section of the populace would bank on Alerts to trim Tigers. That Alerts are a formidable aggregation is shown by their O. R. F. U. record. The only real line on Alerts' strength is through the T. A. A. C. team.

Argos beat the crimson team in the city championship game Thanksgiving Day, 12 to 8, and Alerts won from T. A. A. C. at Hamilton Saturday, 18 to 11.

That dope makes Alerts formidable because everybody who saw the Argo-Crimson game, says that if T.A.A.C. backs had not been disabled it is hard to tell what the final outcome would have been.

However, it must be remembered that Argos had a hard game on Saturday and were using several substitutes.

Argos should beat Alerts. They have admittedly the strongest wing line in Canada, and that their backs are good, sterling performers is something not to be denied.

They are, however, a slow scoring team. They play an even, close game all the time, holding the ball and seldom taking any chances either on the line or behind it.

They do a lot of heavy line plunging, and if Alerts can do anything with the Oarsmen's sturdy line Saturday it will be a big surprise to everybody around here. Ross Craig is a rattling good line plunger, and so is Rockmaker, but no one will say they are better than Rajah Wigle and Beecher Gale, while in addition Argos have Arnoldi, Bancroft, and Muphy, on the line, to say nothing of Smirlie Lawson on the half-back line.

FACTS FOR THE CURIOUS

Snails the only genuine part of which are the shells are now being sold in Paris, and it is said that the imitation of the real article is so close that many epicures have a high opinion of the sham product. But it is to be presumed that they do not know that the snails are artificial, and they are certainly ignorant of the method by which the snails are manufactured.

It is said that there are whole people who cannot laugh, or do not. The North American Indians, for example, are usually devoid of humourous perception, and when some of the Veddahs of Ceylon were asked why none of their people ever laughed they solemnly replied that they never saw anything to laugh at. On the other hand, some savages appear to have a more robust sense of humour than their civilised brethren. Dr. Livingston tells of an African tribe who, when dressed in clothes for the first time, "rolled about on the ground in uncontrollable fits of laughter."

ing to keep these bands out of the city. If we are to be shut in, indefinitely, it will not be long before we will all sincerely wish we had gone on home.

One thing sure and certain is that there will be very little school this fall. I am sorry for the boys, as it puts them back a whole term and breaks up the work entirely.

September 23rd.

Telegrams and letters have just come in from Chung King. They have heard nothing from us, so our letters didn't get through. I am sorry they are so anxious, as we really are better off than they are, as so many foreigners have swarmed in, there will not be room for anything. Our position is the same as ever. Robbers broke into the school last night, but not the house. We have most of our valuables in here, so they cannot do much harm, unless they smash up the piano. I wish we had it here, too, as it would help pass the time more quickly. A new Viceroy has been appointed, and is on his way here, also the president of the railway, with several thousands of soldiers. The city, itself, is most quiet, but the gates are still closed, so as to keep out the bands of robbers. I am afraid it will be a long-drawn-out affair. Some of the ladies are getting up an evening. Last week we had a concert, which wasn't too bad. Harold and the Professor of Science in the University, won the men's doubles at tennis. My humble self and Mrs. Abrey won the ladies' doubles. The mixed doubles are to be played out yet. Harold and his partner will likely win that. I am playing with Mr. Service, the Y. M. C. A. Secretary, but we will make them work for it. On Monday there is to be a baseball match between the married and single men, or as we put it, the married men and those that wish they were. You see we really are not having a too bad time of it. The people away from Cheng tu are worrying much more than we, who are shut in, as they only hear the wildest rumours and do not know what to believe.

Well, no matter what way you look at it, the whole affair is a bad business, and the province will take a long time to recover. The people are most unjustly taxed to the last extreme by the officials, and money has to come from somewhere to replace all this damage done.

Well, I must close, as Dr. Kilborn says he is going to try and get some letters through to Chung King, to be posted from there. I will enclose a picture of the children to cheer you up, and hope it will reach you safely. Do not worry about us, because no matter what happens, we can get out. We have boats hired, and can leave in half an hour's notice, or less, if necessary, and the Viceroy knows that he and all his officials lose their heads if anything happens to us. How glad I will be to get a home letter. It is two months, or over, since we have seen a home letter, or paper.

Genevieve.

THE BOARD OF TRADE DISCUSSES PLANS OF EXTENDING ITS WORK

Meeting Held in Council Chamber Last Night---Vice-President O'Connell Says Board Has Been "Dying of Dry Rot"---Personal Canvass of the Members Will be Made

An enthusiastic meeting of the Board of Trade was held last night in the Council chamber. Considerable discussion was indulged in as regards ways and means of extending the work already accomplished by this body.

Mr. D. O'Connell, Vice-President of the Board, declared that the Board of Trade was dying from dry rot. He did not know whether the trouble rested with the citizens or the Board, but he was inclined to blame the latter.

"I don't like the idea of identifying myself as Vice-President of a dying body," went on Mr. O'Connell. "It's about time both the citizens and Board of Trade woke up from their lethargy; every progressive town in the province, owes its progress to an energetic Board of Trade. Peterborough is better situated than 90 p.c. of the towns in Ontario, but what has been done here to advance the interests of the city?" The speaker advanced several suggestions to augment his views on the matter, such as a personal interview or a personal canvass, or even a personal letter might work to advantage.

Mr. V. Eastwood expressed himself as being thoroughly in accordance with Mr. O'Connell's expression of opinion.

Mr. Wm. Langford here objected to Mr. O'Connell's remarks concerning the indifference of the Board of Trade and refuted them by saying that the City Council had been so energetic during the past year as regards the industrial welfare of the city, that there remained scarcely anything for the Board of Trade to do.

"That's a revelation to me," said Mr. O'Connell. "When I refer to the city not progressing, I refer to progression along industrial lines. It's a lamentable fact, that so few industries have located in Peterborough during the past two years. The fact remains that the Board of Trade has been negligent in its duty towards the industrial advancement of Peterborough."

Mr. W. A. Austin objected to the low membership fee of two dollars. A five dollar membership fee would have a tendency to raise the standard of the Board and give it greater impetus. He cited the town of Brockville as an instance, where there were 180 energetic members on the Board of Trade, each paying a yearly membership fee of five dollars. This, in a town with a population of nine thousand.

Mr. C. H. Pennyfather, manager of the new branch of the Union Bank, and a new member of the Board, cited Hamilton as an instance where the Board of Trade of that city had become impregnated with stagnation, with the result that a campaign was started, and a personal letter addressed to the business men of Hamilton. At the top of the letter were the words, "Boost Hamilton." The campaign was productive of considerable success, and in addition, the salary of the Industrial Commissioner, whose services had been of considerable benefit to the town, was raised $500 during the year.

Mr. W. H. Denham, when asked for his opinion, stated that he thought the idea of giving bonuses to prospective industries was a wrong system. "The people of Peterborough," he continued; "have got the idea that unless you can produce electric power at from $13 to $15 per horse power, it's not much use trying to induce industries to come to Peterborough." He considered that, with the splendid railway and other facilities, that $3 or $4 per h.p. more on a couple of hundred horse power, would have very little influence in directing industries to other towns, if they thought that Peterborough was an all-round, desirable place otherwise. Mr. Denham also advocated the purchasing of stock from good, legitimate companies to the extent of 100 cents on the dollar. He related an instance of where one Toronto stock broker had taken $7,000 cash for stock in a silver mine, out of Peterborough in one week, yet it was almost impossible to sell $5,000 worth of stock where a getting after the extensive land owners of Peterborough and endeavouring to persuade them to subscribe substantially to the stock offered by incoming industries. The owners of vacant land were a detriment to the growth of the city.

Ald. Buller advocated the plan of manufacturing industry was concerned.

At this stage of the meeting, Ald. Bradburn ventured some information concerning the coming power deputation to Ottawa on Friday, Nov. 17th.

Ald. Buller here suggested that a member of the Board of Trade be included with the deputation.

Ald. Bradburn replied that such action had already been taken. Mr. V. Eastwood, president of the Board having been appointed to go.

Mr. Denham gave some figures relative to the price of powers in towns like Brantford, Galt, Berlin, etc. The prices in those places ranged from $25 to $28 per horse power, and yet the citizens of Peterborough expected to induce manufacturers to locate here on the strength of getting power for $15 per h.p. alone. That would never induce any manufacturer to come here, if he thought the town was not the proper location for his concern. Other inducements figured more largely than the price of horse power.

Ald. Bradburn advanced the theory that it was no use trying to boost the membership of the Board unless you had something to offer them.

"Give them a supper," suggested Mr. Langford.

"There are heaps of members, but we can't get them out to the meetings," replied the president.

Mr. T. F. Matthews approved of Mr. Denham's idea, that the city abstain from offering bonuses to incoming industries, and buy their stock for 100 cents on the dollar instead. That is for every dollar's work of stock (not watered stock) that the manufacturer laid down, the citizens buy a dollar's worth.

Mr. W. H. Moore made reference to the increase of Peterborough's population during the past year. Striking the happy medium between the assessor's figures and the government returns, he said he would put the increase approximately at one thousand. He estimated three-fourths of this number to be mechanics. It was quite evident, he said, from these figures, that these 750 mechanics had been absorbed into the already established factories, thereby, as a direct result, increasing the output to a large extent. He asserted that this was equal to having half a dozen small factories locate here during the year.

"It would be nice to have both," observed Mr. D. O'Connell. "Small factories are not liable to spells of depression."

This ended the controversy, as far as the ups and downs of the Board were concerned.

Mr. D. O'Connell presented a verbal report concerning some monetary matters, for which the late Industrial Commissioner was indirectly responsible for. He explained that the first year they started out to secure funds for the upkeep of the Industrial Commissioner's office, they were successful in securing the sum of $4,600.91, two thousand of this being in the form of a grant from the City Council and the rest subscriptions from the merchants. They had not realized the benefits from this office as was anticipated, and therefore, this year it was abolished. The abolition of the office of Industrial Commissioner followed a few months after the Council had made a grant of $3,000 to carry it for another year; therefore this money was still available, if the Board decided to appoint another Industrial Commissioner, which some of the members were in favour of doing. Mr. Duggan had incurred a debt to the amount of $182.52.

Upon investigation, Mr. O'Connell discovered that there was a standing sum of $189.75 in the Bank of Commerce. This sum had been granted to the Board 20 years ago for the purpose of investigating the mineral wealth of the county, but it had never been used. On condition that the Council would grant the Board of Trade permission to use this money in paying the debt contracted by Mr. Duggan, the Board would hand over to the Council the office furniture, fixtures, typewriter, etc., amounting to $200 worth.

He further inferred that something should be done in regard to the continuation of the office. The Council seemed to consider that the appointment of an Industrial Commissioner was essential to the propagation and advancement of the good work instituted by the Board of Trade.

Mr. O'Connell moved a resolution to the effect that the Board work hand in hand with the Council as regards this matter.

On motion of Mr. O'Connell, the following committee of three, was appointed, Mr. Denham, Mr. Eastwood and Mr. O'Connell, the committee to act in conjunction with the Manufacturers committee and the City Council as regards the matter of appointing an Industrial Commissioner.

Moved by Mr. O'Connell, seconded by Ald. Bradburn, that Mr. Quartermaine, secretary of the Board, be allowed to get an assistant for the purpose of collecting sums of money owing to the Board. A personal canvass will be necessary for this work. The mover of the resolution also added that the Board pay the cost of engaging an assistant, but Mr. Quartermaine refused to accept any remuneration.

During the course of the meeting, Mr. George Hatton, on behalf of the Guy Motor Co., an industry which will locate here, if given satisfactory inducements, addressed the Board as regards this matter, but owing to certain specific reasons, it was deemed advisable to withhold from publication for the present, the nature of the proposition.

Among those present were President V. Eastwood, Vice-President D. O'Connell, Messrs. Ald. Bradburn, William Langford, W. R. Morris, William Might, G. C. Wainwright, W. A. Austin, J. Picard, George Hatton, W. H. Denham, T. F. Matthews and Mr. Pennyfather. The last named was introduced as a new member.

IF drinking tea and coffee results in a feeling of nervousness and irritability, you may depend upon it that caffeine—the drug in tea and coffee—is getting in its "back licks"—the reaction from the drugs.

Common sense would suggest stopping the cause—tea and coffee—short off.

The change is easy if you have well-made

QUIT TEA AND COFFEE

What the Great German Specialist Says.

It disappoints some people to be told that tea and coffee cause disease. But it is best to look squarely at facts and set the face towards health for that's more fun than anything else anyhow. A Cincinnati man consulted a Berlin physician on nervous diseases and says:

"Four years ago I was an habitual coffee drinker, having used it for 25 years, and being naturally of a nervous temperament, I became almost a nervous wreck, greatly suffering from insomnia, almost constantly constipated and weighing only 128 pounds.

"I consulted physicians and took medicine all the time but had no relief. About three years and a half ago I went abroad and while in Berlin heard frequently of a great physician, Prof. Mendel, an authority on nervous trouble, so I resolved to consult him.

"Prof. Mendel surprised me very much by asking at once if I was a coffee drinker and on my telling him I used it two or three times a day he said, 'It is poison.' After carefully examining me he told me there was nothing the matter with me whatever but what could be entirely cured in 30 days by letting coffee and other stimulants alone and dieting.

"I had a hard time following his advice. I did not know what to do until I came home and told my wife, who got some Postum. We tried it, but at first did not like it; then we went over the directions on the package together and found we had not boiled it long enough.

"That was the beginning of the end of my trouble, for the Postum was delicious after that, and I drank it regularly and it helped from the start.

"In a very short time I began to feel much better and in the last three years I haven't been absent from business one hour on account of ill health, for my health is fine now. I have a good appetite, sleep well and weigh 175 pounds."

Any nervous person who drinks tea or coffee will feel better from a 10 days' change to Postum. Trial easily proves this.

Ridpath Recovering

TORONTO, NOV. 14.—It is twelve days since Bruce Ridpath was run down and rendered unconscious by C. A. Campbell's automobile, on Yonge street, and his mind is not yet clear enough to tell how the accident happened. His condition has remained unchanged for the past week, until to-day, when he suffered a slight relapse. His condition, however, is not considered serious.

"I have had patients remain unconscious for theree weeks, and feel that Ridpath has every chance of recovery," said Dr. Walter McKeown today. "We cannot perform an operation in his present condition, but likely when he is strong enough. The skull is not fractured, but there is a laceration, and the injury to his lemen is not as serious as we thought at first."

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

The Athletics and Giants of the Junior Collegiate Class put up a fine game of basketball in the semi-final for the class championship yesterday afternoon, and, after some fast work on the part of the Athletics, they defeated the Giants, score 26 to 5.

The Athletics and White Sox play off for the championship next Saturday morning.

In the Intermediate Class League the Hustlers were true to their name and hustled around the Burglars and succeeded in tying them up with a score of 22 to 2. The Shamrocks and Dimes agreed to postpone their game and a picked team gave the Dimes a good game and a beating. Score 16 to 12.

The Senior Leaders Corps meet to-night for floor work at 6.15, after which supper will be served.

The First Aid to the Injured will meet at 9.00 p.m., to-night with Dr. Spicer in charge.

MONTREAL, NOV. 14.—The Canadian Pacific Railway's new steamship the "Princess Alice," which is on its way from England to Vancouver, has reached Coronel, off the South American coast, according to word received at the local Canadian Pacific Railway's headquarters, yesterday. The new steamship has evidently weathered the trip round Cape Horn safely, and will be soon moored against the docks at Vancouver.

The "Princess Alice" will be a fine addition to the Canadian Pacific Railway's Pacific Coast service fleet of steamships. It has been especially built for the service in which it will be entered, and it is beautifully fitted up and furnished.

LUCKY OLD PEOPLE

Have Seen Wonderful Progress From Ox-Carts to Aeroplanes

What wonderful progress the old people of to-day have lived to see. In their young days the railroad was as much of a novelty as the aeroplane is now, and nearly everything else has progressed as much.

Another modern idea is that people may be active and vigorous at 75 or 80 years if they will be careful to keep up their strength.

Mr. Jno. N. Kelly, aged 75, who lives at Lake Charlee, La., says he was badly run down from overwork, and took two or three bottles of Vinol be advice of his druggist. He is now better than for the past ten years and actually feels fifteen years younger.

There is certainly nothing like Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron preparation, to build up and keep up all weakened, run down persons. It is especially good for old people too, because it is very pleasant to take and agrees with the stomach. There is no cod liver oil in Vinol. We guarantee it to give you perfect satisfaction. A CALL FOR THE BOYS IN RED

At a recent smoker of No. 7 Co., held by Capt. Higgins, it was decided to hold a social evening once a week during the winter, until the drill season opens. The matter of arranging the night for this event, and other little business arrangements was left in the hands of the Sergeants of the Regiment, and they held a meeting at the Armoury last night, when they decided to hold a social evening and entertainment at the Armoury next Tuesday night, at the same time cancelling the former arrangements to hold one on Thursday night, Nov. 16th, this being the night suggested at the smoker, held by No. 7 Co.

At the entertainment next Tuesday, the officers will form some plans, as to the future, including the weekly night, which will be either Tuesday or Thursday.

These weekly entertainments will be for the members of the Regiment, only, and the officers at present contemplate holdig a monthly social and entertainment. No definite arrangements have been made as to the extent of the officers' plans, but if the social evenings prove a success, it is understood that a play will be organized to be put on for the public before the season for drill opens.

The officers are getting enthusiastic over the advancement of the Regiment's interests, and a cordial invitation is extended to the young men of the city to fall in line, and enlist—an act they would not likely regret. In the past year the Regiment has made rapid strides, and it is the ambition of the officers and men to make the coming year as successful as the last. If the boys will answer the call to arms, there is no reason why the "Boys in Red" should not maintain their reputation the coming season.

What Does Your Mirror Tell You?

Of all the skin beautifiers we have had in our store there is none that we can recommend more highly than the D.D.D. Prescription.

D.D.D. is such a logical remedy for all kinds of skin trouble and so scientifically compounded that it clears up the complexion over night.

D.D.D. is most widely known as the most reliable treatment for Eczema, but it has also been found invaluable for all kinds of minor troubles. We do not hesitate to give D.D.D. our special recommendation. In fact, we are convinced that D.D.D. will give relief that no other remedy can.

Surely if you have any skin trouble you should give D.D.D. Prescription a trial.

Don't delay, for if not promptly checked, minor skin troubles often develop into serious disease, difficult even for D.D.D. to cure.

Better drop into our store anyway and get posted on this wonderful remedy. Ask also about D. D. D. Soap, which is so invaluable in keeping the skin in healthy condition.

Or write the D.D.D. Laboratories, Dept. P.E., 49 Colborne street, Toronto, for a free trial bottle. In either case, don't put it off, but act at once.

Hunting Party Had A Successful Trip

Mr. Robert Nurse, of Fowlers Corners, and party, consisting of Messrs. William Hunter, Harry Fowler, Norman Young ,Harry Arnott and Richard Davis, have returned from the hunt, which they report was a successful one. When seen by an Examiner reporter, Mr. Nurse was on his way to a taxidermist with the head of a deer under his arm. It was a well developed specimen, with a beautiful display of twelve-pointed antlers. The party selected Parry Sound as the scene of their operations, each member of the party being successful in securing deer. Mr. Nurse reports that the deer were plentiful, therefore the hunting was good. There was no snow in the Parry Sound district when the party left for home.

THE KLONDYKE

Splendid Lecture Given by Rev. R. M. Dickey Last Night

Rev. R. M. Dickey, of Toronto, lectured to a large audience in the Presbyterian Church, Springville, last evening, on pioneer work in the Klondyke, his remarks being followed with evident interest and appreciation. Rev. Mr. Dickey was one of the pioneer ministers of the gold land, and spent some years in that country. He knows all about the hardships of packing the trail in the frozen north, and his lecture is vividly interesting from start to finish. It is made more graphic by being illustrated by some seventy-five magnificent stereopticon slides from photographs taken in the Klondyke. His lecture was an intellectual treat, and was thoroughly appreciated. Peterborough people will have the opportunity to-night of hearing Rev. Mr. Dickey, as he will lecture in St. Paul's church this evening.

For eczema, salt rheum, barbers' itch, skin irritations or eruptions, it is a most satisfactory treatment. Being antiseptic, it prevents blood poisoning.

Smithsonian Institution Gets Canada Specimens

Four Naturalists Explored Wild Country Surrounding Mount Robson For Months

WASHINGTON, D.C., NOVEMBER 1.—The Smithsonian Institution gets nine hundred specimens from the Canadian wilds. The Smithsonian party which, accompanied Dr. A. O. Wheeler, president of the Alpine Club of Canada, on his topographic survey of the British Columbia-Alberta boundary line and the Mount Robson region, has just returned to Washington after a successful tour.

The new collection is quite complete, and covers practically all the birds and animals inhabiting this previously unworked territory.

The party, consisting of four members, included the assistant curator of Mammals and Mr. J. H. Riley, of the division of birds of the National Museum.

Assembling at Edmonton, Alberta, early in July, the party proceeded on the Grand Trunk Pacific railroad to the end of the line, where they found it necessary to take pack horses to penetrate the Mount Robson region. The land to be surveyed included the territory lying about this mountain, in the heart of the Canadian Rockies, comprising the most rugged and broken country imaginable.

Amid this wonderful scenery Mount Robson rises in titanic outline the highest peak in the Rockies, probably between 14,500 and 15,000 feet, and surrounding it for a distance of fifty miles in all directions lies the field of survey. In this wild and unclaimed country the party of naturalists remained nearly four months, protected by special permits from the Canadian Government. The natural history work was divided up, Mr. Bowman and Mr. Riley collecting the birds and small animals, while the other two collectors hunted big game.

The collection includes some 900 specimens of birds and mammals, the latter ranging in size from mole-like creatures called "H. H. Rews," to full grown caribous and bears. One enormous grizzly bear was obtained by a fortunate shot. Much fine material for exhibition groups was secured, including a series of caribous, mountain goats, mountain sheep, beavers and many varieties of small animals.

Besides birds and mammals, a large number of plants and insects were collected. All the specimens have been turned over to the National Museum, where they will be put on exhibition.—Montreal Star, Nov. 1, 1911

Mr. David Cooper Tells Of Hypnotism

In conversation with an Examiner reporter this morning, Mr. David Cooper, the young man who was hypnotised by the Great McEwen, appearing at the Opera House this week, and who lay asleep in the window of Turnbull's establishment yesterday, told of the experience of hypnotism. He said:

The first sensation of yielding up the mind to the hypnotist is that of numbness ,and a heaviness falls on the eyes. For the space of about 15 minutes there is a certain knowledge of what is going on around, but afterwards all is oblivion and no sound would affect the sleep.

"Do any ill effects result from such an experience?" asked the interviewer.

"No," was the answer. "In fact, upon waking there is a feeling of freshness a sis generally felt on emerging from the morning bath."

"Hypnotism is not compulsory," said the informant, and it is only when the mind is submitted willingly to the hypnotist that the hypnotic power asserts itself."

LIEUTENANT RESPONSIBLE

Lieut. Lord Alliston Graham will Receive Reprimand

BLACK MARK FOR HIM

Halifax, N.S., Nov. 16.—Lieut. Lord Alliston Graham was yesterday found guilty by court-martial of causing, or suffering to be caused, the stranding of H.M.C.S. Niobe on July 30 last on the dangerous ledges of Cape Sable. He was sentenced to be reprimanded. Lord Alliston Graham was officer of the watch up to fifteen or twenty minutes of the time the cruiser went ashore.

The proceedings began at 9.30 yesterday morning and lasted until 6.30 last evening. The witnesses included Commander W. B. McDonald of the Niobe and Navigating Lieut. James White, both of whom are charged with the same offence as Lieut. Graham.

While the evidence seemed to show an absence of any deliberate negligence on the part of the accused, it developed the fact that he had not been as attentive to duty as he should have been. He was well aware of the existence of the Cape Sable lights and the time they should be discernible from the ship; but when this time passed and the lights were not seen he did not immediately report the fact to Commander McDonald or the navigating officer.

Lieut. Lord Alliston Graham, in presenting his defence, maintained that it was unfair to hold him responsible for the stranding of the ship when he have been relieved of the watch about twenty minutes before the accident occurred. Lieut. Graham's reprimand means nothing more than a black mark for him. Nevertheless, he feels keenly his position in the matter, for up to the present time he has held an enviable record as an officer.

Immediately upon the conclusion of the first case, that against Lt. White, navigating officer, was called, but was adjourned till this morning. The case will likely occupy a whole day also, as will the case of Commander McDonald, which follows. The court-martial was conducted with all the old-time ceremony of naval affairs of its kind. The members of the court, as well as all the witnesses were attired in full dress uniform.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 16.—Charles Lahey was yesterday arraigned before the magistrate on a charge of theft preferred by William Germain, Buffalo. He was remanded until next Wednesday.

Washington, D.C., Nov. 16.—The State Department has practically decided to send a regiment of troops from Manila to Chin Wing Tao, a seaport in China about 250 miles from Pekin in the Gulf of Pechili. OPENS THE CAMPAIGN

Whitney Deals Chiefly With History at Cobourg

ATTACK ON HIS GOVERNMENT

Cobourg, Nov. 16.—Sir James Whitney fired his opening broadside last night. Compounded of ten parts history to one part of new policy—and, in the Prime Minister's own words, a "skimpy" part at that—the pronouncement the people of Ontario have been waiting for was not an impressive deliverance. In his manifesto, issued two weeks ago, Sir James rested upon his oars. He is still resting. For a full hour he enlarged upon the achievments of his Government in the past seven years, and then devoted the next twenty minutes to broad ridicule of the new Liberal policy. He occupied it with an attack upon Mr. N. W. Rowell that was not the generous tribute of a doughty fighter to a worthy opponent.

Victoria Opera House, where the big meeting was held, was crowded to the doors. The townspeople, whatever their party affiliations were, put them aside for the time being and vigorously applauded the Premier as he recounted the different measures of progressive legislation that are now being enforced by the Government of the Premier province of the Dominion.

"I speak under somewhat of a disadvantage after the flattering words said about me by the previous speakers," said Sir James Whitney, "If I continue to receive the approbation such as I have received here to-night, I will continue to go direct my public life that you will not regret it as the days go by. Conscience and intelligence are the two main things required in the Legislature by those representatives who are elected."

Sir James, therefore, complimented Capt. McCullough on his intention to preserve his individuality if elected, but assured the captain that he would nothing objectionable done by the Government.

Sir James said that the new leader of the Opposition had issued a remarkable manifesto, endorsing practially three-fourths of the Government's program, while on the questions of temperance and bilingualism, he hedged and shuffled and utterly failed to adopt any definite policy.

After referring to Mr. Rowell's statement that the Liberal platform aimed among other things to establish experimental farms, Sir James remarked that the Government already had established experimental farms all over the province.

"That is a sample," said Sir James, "of the twaddle that the Liberal leader wants the intelligent voter to swallow.

"To conduct the Government of the country in a business way," said Sir James, "that's the plain and simple way of describing what the Government of Ontario has tried to do, and will continue to do. Before we came to power our opponents stigmatized us as incapable of conducting the Government of the country, but what has been our record since?

"We created the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board, which is meeting with some criticism at the present time in Toronto, but that does not matter. The people are only beginning to see the value this board is doing.

"We reduced the price of school books. We have honestly enforced the liquor license law. It is not perfect, but I defy anybody to show that we have anything of its kind in North America to compare with the honest way in which this law has been enforced.

"Public school teachers will now be required to teach one year in Ontario after granting of their certificates, and the salaries of the teachers have been increased during the past year.

"The needs of the provincial university have also been attended to, $465,000 having been granted to that institution. The sum of $668,000 has been spent during the year on colonization roads, and since the present Government came into power the finances of the province have been put on a sane and stable footing.

"In spite of all of the obstacles, and they were many, that have been thrown in our way by the late Dominion Government, we have carried on and extended our Hydro-electric system in eastern Ontario and brought cheap power to the very doors of the people.

"Mr. Rowell stands to-day before his party, that in many ways has worked for the good of the country, the bond slave of its interests, and I say before you here, that Mr. Rowell dare not formulate a policy on the temperance question, and he dare not form a policy on the bilingual question."

With regard to Mr. Rowell's attitude on the temperance question and bilingual schools, Sir James said that no individual ever picked his footsteps over a hot gridiron with more precision than Mr. Rowell did over these two questions.

Moreover, it is hard to understand what the promptings are that make Mr. Rowell propose to give over the control of the Ontario Government Railway to the Dominion Government—this railway, that is bringing such a revenue to the province.

May Be New Portfolio.

Ottawa, Nov. 16.—The re-arrangement of some of the Government Departments is expected to be forecasted in to-day's speech from the throne.

It is understood the Interior Department may be divided and the divisions of public health, copyright and archives lopped off the agricultural Department. A new portfolio may be created and given to one of the Ministers without portfolio.

Yukon People Selfish?

Ottawa, Nov. 16.—"People in the Yukon don't seem to cafe a continental hang about anybody but themselves," said Chairman Mabee yesterday morning, when an application for the postponement of the Dawson Board of Trade's complaint that the White Pass and Yukon Railway was charging excessive rates, was made. On account of the sudden death of Mr. Samuel H. Graves, president of the railroad, the case was adjourned till Dec. 6.

Turks Violating War Rules.

Tripoli, Nov. 16.—A report from an Italian source says that Derna was attacked by the Turks Tuesday night, but the enemy was repulsed. The Italian outposts at Tobruk were attacked with the same result.

A large number of Italians are in a critical state as a consequence of wounds made by bullets and heavier projectiles, which had been purposely mis-shaped in violation of the rules of war.

C.N.R. Express Wrecked.

Winnipeg, Nov. 16.—The Canadian Northern express, running from Regina, Sask., to Winnipeg, was wrecked at Ladysmith yesterday.

All the cars left the track, the sleeper being turned over on its side.

Several passengers were injured, but none fatally.

Turn Over In P. E. I.

Charlottetown, P. E. I., Nov. 16.—The result of the provincial bye-elections in the third and fourth districts of Queen's yesterday was a big landslide for the Opposition. The Liberal Government, in power since 1891, has been defeated. The new House will consist of fourteen Liberals, fifteen straight Conservatives, and one Independent Conservative. Yesterday Dr. Dewar, a straight Conservative defeated Premier Palmer (Liberal) in the third district by a majority of 354, with one place to hear from, which will increase his majority. Mr. Palmer's majority in the same district at the general election of 1908 was 108.

YUAN TAKES JOB.

He Will Endeavor to Restore Order Again in China.

Pekin, Nov. 16.—(1.35 a.m.)—Yuan Shi Kai has accepted the Premiership and will assume office probably to-day (Thursday). Yesterday's Official Gazette contained an expression of thanks from Yuan Shi Kai to the throne for his appointment, but the truth is that he did not undertake the task before him without receiving guarantees that he would have practically a free hand in conducting affairs while he retained his official position.

The new Premier yesterday received several foreign ministers. In conversation with a foreigner, Yuan Shi Kai said that he intended to form a Cabinet immediately and endeavor to carry on the government by securing the support of as many provinces as possible, allowing the remainder to retain their independence for the time being. It would be his endeavor also gradually to win back their allegiance to the throne.

Another important development in the capital was the issuance of an edict yesterday ordering Hsi Liang, formerly viceroy of Manchuria, to assume command at Jehol, where the summer residence of the Emperor is situated, in place of Puting, the Tartar general. This appointment has led to the belief in certain quarters that the court may retire to Jehol, leaving Yuan Shi Kai as chief executive until the opportunity arrives for the court to resume a measure of authority.

Sun Pao Chi, the viceroy of Shantung has been elected president of the republic, which has been proclaimed in that province. His acceptance of this office is in accordance with the Government's advice, and several viceroys have gone with the people in the hope later of influencing the provinces to renew their allegiance. The provincial assembly of Chili adopted a memorial to the throne in favor of the establishment of a republic with Yuan Shi Kai, as president.

Wu Ting Fang, Secretary of Foreign Affairs in the provincial government of Shanghai, and other noted reformers have sent a telegram to the American Charge d'Affaires here, asking the good offices of the United States in connection with the delivery of a demand for abdication. The telegram is dated Nov. 11, and reads: "Kindly deliver personally the following to His Highness the Regent, informing him that further conflicts between the Imperials and the people will cause needless bloodshed. If His Majesty abdicates we shall endeavor to afford safety to the court, and protection to their property."

The address is a last appeal to the throne to awaken to the seriousness of the situation, check the bloodshed and reform the Government.

Coal Strike Averted.

London, Nov. 16.—A national strike in the coal trade was temporarily averted yesterday when the delegates of the miners, who have been in session here for three days voted against a ballot of the men as to whether a strike should be called.

Such a ballot undoubtedly would have resulted in favor of the cessation of work at the mines throughout the country.

Negotiations with the mine owners will be re-opened with a prospect of a compromise being reached.

Manitoba Boundaries.

Ottawa, Nov. 16.—Word has been received by the Government that Premier Roblin of Manitoba will be here to-day to reopen negotiations for the arrangement of the boundaries of Manitoba. The negotiations were carried on for years with the old Government without conclusion, an agreement on the financial terms of the proposal being found impossible. It is doubtful if the conference will result in an immediate settlement of the question.

Engineer Caused Fatal Wreck.

Medicine Hat, Alta., Nov. 16.—A coroner's jury has rendered a verdict in respect to the Redcliffe wreck, in which Fireman Bishop and Brakeman Begin were killed last week. The finding places the blame of the accident on Engineer Carr, for running into the yards at high speed. Carr has jumped the country.

SCRAP AT THE OPENING

Sir Wilfrid Twits Conservatives on Their Loyalty

ELECTION OF SPEAKER

Quite an unexpected and almost unprecedented air of belligerency marked the usually tame and peaceful ceremony of electing a Speaker of the House of Commons at the opening session of the 12th Parliament yesterday.

Hon. R. L. Borden who, on rising for the first time in his place as Premier, was greeted with prolonged and tumultuous cheers and applause, after a short historical review of the functions of the Speakership, an office which, he declared, demanded a man of intellect and experience in the rules and procedure of the House, one who should be in a sense the representative on both sides of the House, a man impartial, courteous, had nominated, seconded by Hon. George E. Foster, Thomas Simpson Sproule (East Grey), as one in whom these very qualities would be found to reside.

Then came the surprise.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who was heartily cheered by his followers, rose to remark that while he could take no exception to the appreciation of the merits of Dr. Sproule uttered by Mr. Borden, he was surprised at the selection, not on the qualifications of the hon. member for East Grey, but his surprise arose out of the very set of circumstances under which the present administration had come into power.

The British system, he said, had been to continue the Speaker of the previous House in the chair, and if the Government were as devoted to British institutions as they had professed to be, they ought to have elected Mr. Marcil as their candidate. (Laughter.) But British institutions had been relegated to the backyard, to the dust heap of oblivion.

"Dr. Sproule," continued Sir Wilfrid, "is able, painstaking and conscientious, according to his lights, although his lights are not my lights. The only fault I have to find with him is that he is a Tory, a Tory of the Tories, the very quintessence of Toryism.

"But if I was surprised at the selection," the ex-Premier went on, "I was still more surprised that the selection received the endorsation of my friend, the hon. the Minister of Public Works (F. D. Monk).

"In 1905, these gentlemen (the Nationalists)," Sir Wilfrid continued, "alleged a conspiracy between him and me in connection with the Provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan to deprive the Catholics of their schools and the French settlers of their language."

The Premier was visibly annoyed and spoke with considerable warmth of the "display of ill temper" by which the House had been treated by the leader of the Opposition. Sir Wilfrid had already, he said, begun to give evidence of the line he intended to take, to preach in opposition what he did not practice in power. If he desired to test the House on the selection of the Speaker, the opportunity was open to him then and there.

Sir Wilfrid sat back in his seat and smiled.

After the tumult and shouting died and Dr. Sproule had been duly elected Speaker, he was escorted to the chair by the Premier and Mr. Foster.

When the Commons assembled at 5 o'clock, almost every seat was filled, and there was a fair attendance of spectators in the galleries. In the absence, through illness, of the Usher of the Black Rod, Sergeant-at-Arms Lemoine of the Senate attended to the opening ceremony.

Smallpox Closes Theatres.

Warwick, R.I., Nov. 16.—Because of continued spread of smallpox in the Pawtucket Valley, the Board of Health of this town yesterday requested the theatres and moving picture show houses to close until further orders.

Bowling alleys, pool rooms and all other places of amusement will also be closed and all meetings will be prohibited.

The number of cases was swelled yesterday to 22, and nearly fifty buildings are under quarantine.

Bravado Gives Way.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 16.—Young Beattie's father yesterday afternoon told the prisoner in the death chamber of the penitentiary that the governor had refused all aid to the wife-murderer. Beattie was visibly affected.

ANSWERS
By J. W. BROWETT, Optometrist
Q. Why do school children with good sight require glasses?
A. Mainly to rest the eyes. The eye does not obtain its growth until the child is about the age of twelve. The growing eye is taxed beyond its strength; the proper glasses rest and preserve the eyes.
Q. Why do children squint?
A. By squinting or frowning the muscle in the eye is relieved of strain; this is Nature's way. Study-glasses relieve this strain, and thus prevent squint.
Q. Why do children have eye headaches?
A. An eye headache is a reflex pain caused by straining the eyes; the pain may be over the eyes or through the temples. The remedy for eye headaches is relief glasses, to be worn while studying.

Urge That Canal Be Rushed.

Montreal, Nov. 16.—The Georgian Bay Canal, the necessity of having a branch of the Grand Trunk Pacific to Montreal, and the delay in the delivery of goods by the railway companies were questions which occupied the attention of the Chambre de Commerce yesterday afternoon.

The Chambre adopted a report to the effect that the body should at once urge the Government to take all possible steps for the construction of the Georgian Bay Canal and another to the same effect in connection with the desired branch of the Grand Trunk Pacific, adding a proviso that it be under the control of the Railway Commission.

The question of delay in the matter of delivering goods was brought up by a letter from the Calgary Grain Exchange, suggesting that freight trains be required to travel at a given rate under penalty. The Chambre de Commerce, however, adopted a report to the effect that railway companies should be required to deliver merchandise 48 hours after the receipt of the cars at their destination and to pay $2 per day demurrage.

Tried to Commit Murder.

Montreal, Nov. 16.—At yesterday afternoon's session of the Court of King's Bench, Nicholas Hayes was found guilty of attempted murder. He was charged with entering the room of Juliette Lagneau, at the corner of St. Elizabeth and Vitre streets on the afternoon of Sept. 8, and of firing three shots into her side. Hayes, who said he was a cigarmarker by trade, had been drinking heavily before the crime, and stated he did not remember the affair.

Will Not Consult Parliament.

Berlin, Nov. 16.—The indications are that the committee of the Reichstag, which is discussing the Franco-German agreement regarding Morocco and French Congo, will not demand that the treaty be submitted for ratification by Parliament.

Representatives of the Conservative and Clerical parties, who constitute a majority of the committee, yesterday announced their opposition to such a move.

"THE AVENGER"

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

"At Brussels, I believe," she remarked, inclining her head graciously.

"At Brussels,—certainly," he answered, bowing low.

She turned to Louise.

"Louise," she said, "you must let me present Mr. Heneage—Miss eDveney. Mr. Heneage has a cousin, I believe, of the same name, in the Belgian Legation. I remember seeing you dance with him at the Palace."

The two exchanged greetings, Heneage accepted a chair and spoke of the performance. The conversation became general and of stereotyped form. Yet Wrayson was uneasily conscious of something underneath it all which he could not fathom. The atmosphere of the box was charged with some electrical disturbance. Heneage alone seemed thoroughly at his ease. He kept his seat until the close of the performance, and even then seemed in no hurry to depart. Wrayson, nowever, took his cue from the Baroness, who was obviously anxious for him to go.

"Good-night, Heneage!" he said. "I may see you at the club later."

Heneage smiled a little oddly as he turned away.

"Perhaps," he said.

It was not until they were on their way out that Wrayson realized that she was slipping away from him once more. Then he took his courage into his hands, and spoke boldly.

"I wonder," he said, "if I might be allowed to see you ladies home. I have something to say to Miss Fitzmaurice," he added simply, turning to the Baroness.

"By all means," she answered graciously, "if you don't mind rather an uncomfortable seat. We are staying in Battersea. It seems a long way out, but it is quiet, and Louise and I like it."

"In Battersea?" Wrayson repeated vaguely.

The Baroness looked over her shoulder. They were standing on the pavement waiting for their electric brougham.

"Yes!" she answered, dropping her voice a little, "in Frederic Mansions. By-the-bye, we are neighbours, I believe, are we not?"

"Quite close ones," Wrayson answered. "I live in the next block of flats."

The Baroness looked again over her shoulder.

"Your friend, Mr. Heneage, is close behind," she whispered, "and we are living so quietly, Louise and I, that we do not care for callers. Tell the man 'home' simply."

Wrayson obeyed, and the carriage glided off. Heneage had been within a few feet of them when they started, and although his attention appeared o be elsewhere, the Baroness' caution was obviously justified. She leaned back amongst the cushions with a little sigh of relief.

"Mr. Wrayson," she inquired, "may I ask if Mr. Heneage is a particular friend of yours?"

Wrayson shook his head.

"I do not think that any man could call himself Heneage's particular friend," he answered. "He is exceedingly reticent about himself and his doings. He is a man whom none of us know much of."

The Baroness leaned a little forward.

"Mr. Heneage," she said slowly, "is associated in my mind with days and events which, just at present, both Louise and I are only anxious to forget. He may be everything that he should be. Perhaps I am prejudiced. But if I were you, I would have as little to do as possible with that man."

"We do not often meet," Wrayson answered, "and ours is only a club acquaintanceship. It is never likely to be more."

"So much the better," the Baroness declared. "Don't you agree with me, Louise?"

"I do no like Mr. Heneage," the girl answered. "But then, I have never spokne a dozen words to him in my life."

"You have known him intimately?" Wrayson asked th eBaroness.

She shrugged her shoulders and looked out of the window.

"Never that, quite," she answered. "I know enough of him, however, to be quite sure that the advice which I have given you is good."

Th ecarriage drew up in the Albert Road, within a hundred yards or so of Wrayson's own block of flats. The Baroness alighted first.

"You must come in and have a whisky and soda," she said to Wrayson.

"If I may," he answred, looking at Louise.

The Baroness passed on. Louise, with a slight shrug of the shoulders, followde her.

CHAPTER X.

The room into which a waiting manservant showed them was large and handsomely furnished. Whisky and soda, wine and sandwiches were upon the sideboard. The Baroness, stopping only to light a cigarette, moved owards he door.

"I shall return," she said, "in a quarter of an hour."

She looked for a moment steadily at hre friend, and then turned away. Louise strolled to the sideboard and helped herself o a sandwich.

"Come and forage, won't you?" sh aesked carelessly. "There are some pate sandwiches here, and you want whisky and soda, of course—or do you prfer brandy?"

"Neither, thanks!" Wrayson answered firmly. "I want what I came for. Please sit down here and answer my questions."

She laughed a little mockingly, and turning round, faced him, her head thrown back, her eyse meeting his unflinchingly. The light from a rose-shaded electric lamp glittered upon her hair. She was wearing black again, and something in her appearance and attitude almost took his breath away. It reminded him of th emoment when he had seen her first.

"First," she said, "I am going to ask you a question. Why did you do it?"

"Do what?" he asked.

She gave vent to a little gesture of impaience. He must know quite well what she meant.

"Why did you give evidence at the inquest and omit all mention of me?"

"I don't know," he answered bluntly.

"You have committed yourself to a story," she reminded him, "which is certainly not altogeher a truthful one. You have run a great risk, apparently to shield me. Why?"

"I suppose because I am a fool," he answered.
he answered bitterly.

She shook her head.

"No!" she declared, "that is not the reason."

He moved a step nearer to her.

"If I were to admit my folly," he said, "what difference would it make—if I were to tel lyou that did it to save you—the inconvenience of an examination into the motive for your presence in Morris Barnes' rooms that night—what then?"

"It was generous of you," she declared softly. "I ought to thank you."

"I want no thanks," he answered, almost roughly. "I want to know that I was justified in what I did. I want you to tell me what you were doing there alone in the rooms of such a man, with a stolen key. And I want you to tell me what you know about his death."

"Is that all?" she asked.

"Isn't it enough?" he declared savagely. "It is enough to be making an old man of me, anyhow."

"You have a right to ask these questions," she admitted slowly, "and I have no right to refuse to answer them."

"None at all," he declared. "You shall answer them."

There was a moment's silence. She leaned a little further back against the sideboard. Her eyes were fixed upon his, but her face was incrutable.

"I cannot," she said slowly. "I can tell you nothing."

Wrayson was speechless for a moment. It was not only the words themselves, but the note of absolute finality with which they were uttered, which staggered him. Then he found himself laughing, a sound so unnatural and ominous that, for the first time, fear shone in the girl's eyes.

"Don't," she cried, and her hands flashed toward him for a moment as though the sight of him hurt her. "Don't be angry! Have pity on me instead!"

His nerves, already overwrought, gave way.

"Pity on a murderess, a thief!" he cried. "Not I! I have suffered enough for my folly. I will go and tell the truth to-morrow. It was you who killed him. You did it in the cab and stole back to his rooms to rob—afterwards. Horrible! Horrible!"

Her face hardened. His lack of self-control seemed to stimulate her.

"Have it so," she declared. "I never asked you for your silence. If you repent it, go and make the best bargain you can with the law. They will let you off cheaply in exchange for your information!"

He walked the length of the room and back. Anything to escape from her eyes. Already he hated the words which he had spoken. When he faced her again he was master of himself.

"Listen," he said; "I was a little overwrought. I spoke wildly. I have no right to make such an accusation. But——"

Sheh eld out her hand as though to stop him, but he went steadily on.

"But I have a right to demeand that you ell me he ruh as to what you were doing in Barnes' rooms that night, and what you know of his death. Remember that but for me you would have had to tell your story to a less sympathetic audience."

"I never forget it," she answered, and for th efirst time her change to a more natural tone helped him to believe in himself and his own judgment. "If you want me to tell you how grateful I am, I might try, but it would be a very hard task."

"All hat ask of you," he pleaded, "is that you tell me enough to convince me that my silence was justified. Tell me at least that you had no knowledge of or share in that man's death!"

"I cannot do that," she answered.

He took a quick step backwards. The horror once more was chilling his blood, floating before his eyes.

"You cannot!" he repeated hoarsely.

"No! I knew that the man was in danger of his life," she went on, calmly. "On the whole, I think that he deserved to die. I do not mind telling you this, though. I would have saved him if I colud."

He drew a great breath of relief.

"You had nothing to do with his actual death, then?"

"Nothing whatever," 'she declared.

"t was all I asked you, this," he cried reproachfully. "Why could you not hav etold me before?"

She shook her head.

"You asked me other things," she answred calmly. "So much of the truth you shall know, at any rate. I have pleaded not guilty to the material action of drawing that cord terial action of drawing that cord around the worthless neck of the man whom you knew as Morris Barnes. I plead guilty to knowing why he was murdered, even if I do not know the actual person who committed he deed, and I admit that I was in his rooms for the purpose of robbery. This is all that I can tell you."

He drw ea little naerer to her.

"Enough! Do you know what it is that you have said? What are you? Who ar eyou?"

She shrugged her shoulders. Somehow, from her side at least, the tragical note which had trembled throughout their interview had passed away. She helped herself to soda water from a syphon on the sideboard.

"You appear—somewhat to my surprise—" she remarked, "to know that. I wonder at poor little Edith giving me away."

"All that I know is that you are living here under a false name," he declared.

She shook her head.

"My mother's," she told him. "The discarded daughter always has a right to that, you know."

Her eyes mocked him. He felt himself helpless. This was the opportunity for which he had longed, and it had come to him in vain. He recognized the fact that his defeat was imminent. He was too strong for him.

"I am disappointed," he said, a little wearily. "You will not let me believe in you."

"Why should you wish to?" she asked quickly.

Almost immediately sh ebit hre lip as though she regretted the words, which had escaped her almost involuntarily. But he was ready enough with his answer.

"I cannot tell you that," he said gravely. "I never thought of myself as a particularly emotional person. In fact, I have always rather prided myself on my commonsense. That night I think that I went a little mad. Your appearance, you see, was so unusual."

She nodded.

"I must have been rather a shock to you," she admitted.

She watched him closely. The fire in his eyes was not yet quenched.

"Yes!" he said, "you wre a shock. And the worst of it is—that you remain one!"

"Ah!"

"You mane to keep me at arm's length," he said slowly, "to tell me as little as possible, and get rid of me. I am not sure that I am willing."

She only raised her eyebrows. She said nothing.

"You have told me nothing of the things I want to know," he cried passionately. "Who and what are you? What place do you hold in the world?"

Distress From Indigestion

Tried in Vain to Get a Cure—All Medicines Failed

Old Trouble Disappeared When the Liver and Bowels Were Set Right by

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

You cannot make a greater mistake than to think that indigestion is confined to the stomach. It is a disease of the liver and bowels, and it is only by getting these organs healthy and active that you can ever hope to cure chronic indigestion.

Here are two cases reported by Mr. Skinner, which tell of continued failure to cure indigestion by dosing the stomach. Both were cured thoroughly by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Mr. A. C. Skinner, Atlantic St., Hardwoodhill, Sydney, B.C., writes: "My wife was troubled with indigestion and tried all sorts of medicines in vain. Hearing about Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, I got her to try them, and to our great delight she was cured. We would not think of being without them in the house for use when the liver and bowels became sluggish.

I told a friend about them and gave him a box. He had suffered from indigestion for yeres and tried most everything he could get. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills were also successful in his case, and he says they beat any medicine he ever came across."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25c a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

MAKING OVER

A Short Story

"It isn't only art," said Miss Finch, with a touch of impatience. "It's—everything. There isn't a trace of the unordinary or unconventional about you!"

Then it was that Mr. Stubbins rose to his feet. We all know what he should have done—how he should have boldly thanked heaven that he was a steadily respectable young commission agent, and nothing worse, and have left the hussy to her devices. Only, in spite of her cruelty, he loved her. Like the aspidistra of the London window-garden, his affection flourished under the most unpromising conditions. So that he merely buttoned up his coat (it was a grimly afternoon in late September) with fingers which shook a good deal, and announced his intention of departing from the daily round and common task, until Miss Finch should deem him worthy of her affections again or have altered her opinions.

"It won't be the least use," she said obstinately, her head bent so that he had no more than a glimpse of a maddeningly-perfect profile. "You don't know how sorry I am that all this should have been necessary. If one could only control one's feeling——"

Mr. Stubbins smiled bitterly. It occurred to him that if his own feelings had not been fairly under control Miss Finch might have learned one or two disconcerting truths within the last half hour. But he merely observed: "I shall see you as often as I can," and, lifting his hat, moved slowly away across the grass.

Millicent sat for some time staring down at the ruined path at her feet. Then she rose, admired the sunset for a space, and made her way to the gates.

But perhaps the most surprising thing of that most surprising afternoon occurred in her own room, when, pausing in the act of removing her hat, Miss Finch snatched the photograph of a most ordinary and commonplace young man from the mantel shelf, kissed it passionately twice, and then sat down on her bed to cry comfortably and steadily until it was time to dress for dinner.

By the hour of 4 on the following afternoon Mrs. Tate's at home was in full swing. A genteel, uppes-middle-class atmosphere of crumbly cakes, hot tea and scandal pervaded the drawing room and verands—for the French windows had been opsed.

In upon the gentle twitter of conversation there broke suddenly the sounds of a droning masculine voice. The plate of cracknel biscuits which Miss Finch had been holding dropped to the floor with a clatter.

"I' faith, 't is a view unequalled from the Indies to Peru! Fair, sir, avert thy hurly form somewhat to the left. Nay, nay, such crowding is unseemly! Prythee, stalwart constable, repeat that incantation of thine, 'Passalong there!' These knaves do press upon me right scurvily!"

With an incoherent sound, Miss Finch abandoned her scattered biscuits and fled. She found most of the population assembled by the fence of the front garden. Just within the gate a camp stool had been planted an dupon it sat George. He had a drawing-block on his knee, and was wrestling with the outline of the parish church. As Miss Finch approached he rose to make a profound bow.

"Craving your pardon, fair mistress, I did but linger a space for to——"

"Do you mind going away?" said Miss Finch in a low tone. She looked and was—exceedingly angry.

"An' thou wert to ask me to lay down my life——"

"Friend o' yours?" hazarded the policeman.

Miss Finch murmured a reluctant assent.

"Furriner, then, I s'pose?"

George turned upon him with dignity."

"Peradventure the speech is unfamiliar to thine ear. Yet 't is but thy mother-tongue——"

"Speak your grandmother's tongue if you like," said the policeman brusquely, "so long as the neighbours dont make no complaints, and the traffic ain't blocked."

Mr. Stubbins gathered his sketching materials together.

"Farewell. I have studied to meet thy taste in dress, in deportment, in speech——"

"Pagealong, there!" said the policeman.

Mr. Stubbins passed.

Miss Finch returned to the house in a state of feverish exasperation. She waited until the last of the "at home" people had gone and then fled to her room, and began a collection of all that he—the humiliator, the exasperator—had give her. There were a good many of them—small things, which had a trick of slipping in the corners of drawers and boxes, and between the pages of letters which one had to open to examine * * * Anyone who had spent an hour or so turning over old letters knows how trying the work is for the eyes, and how abominably blurred and smarting they become before the last sheets have been refolded and tied up again.

She wrote a note—wrote it very badly, and tore it up before it was finished. Then she wrote another, and tore up that, and another, over which she upset half the ink. She was still writing when the gong boomed for dinner.

Just before 9.30, when the pillar-box at the corner of the road was cleared, Miss Finch wrote her final note. It was quite different from the earlier ones.

"If you should be thinking of cycling over the hill to-morrow, at about 10.30," it ran, "your conduct must be strictly conventional."—William Freeman, in M. A. P.

HUGE INTERESTS INVOLVED

LONDON, NOV. 15.—While the directors of the great British railway companies are looking forward with anxiety to the prospect of another great railway strike before Christmas it may be interesting to give some idea of the huge interests which will be involved in the next industrial struggle.

If another strike does come, the union leaders declare, it will not be the two days' affair of August last, which in itself was sufficient to paralyze the whole commerce and industry of the country, a recovery from which was not actually effected until some weeks later.

This time the struggle will evolve around the old and burning question of recognition of the men's unions by the companies. The strike in August was terminated only by the Government placating the labor leaders by the offer to appoint a royal commission to inquire into their grievances.

THE BASIS OF THE TROUBLE

Both the companies and the men at the time offered loyally to abide by the findings of the commission, although the men now allege they gave this promise only on the understanding, arrived at privately, that such findings should be in their favor and should include full recognition as defined by themselves.

It is over this point that there is bound to be trouble. When the commission was appointed, the Board of Trade announced that both sides had agreed to abide by the commission's decision, a statement that had never been modified or qualified by the men. Before the commissioners the men's leaders specifically stated that it was part of the settlement that both sides should accept the decisions of the commission, but now that the commission's report has failed to give recognition, the railway unions have repudiated it on the ground that they were not bound to accept it if it was not wholly satisfactory.

COMMISSION TO BE "LOADED"

There seems little doubt the men, when they agreed to the appointment of a Royal Commission—an agreement which mean the termination of the last strike—were told, according to Keir Hardie, the commission would be so "loaded" as to make sure its findings would be in favor of the men, and Lloyd-George, in the House of Commons, when the men had in the first instance declined the offer of the appointment of a commission, explained that the men, if not satisfied by the recommendations, were not bound by them, and could still fall back upon the powerful strike weapon in their hands.

The whole thing from the men's point of view has been a sham and a swindle, but the men's leaders have themselves to thank.

MINERS THREATEN UPRISING

Coincident with this latest unrest in the railway world, the miners in Wales and in the north of England are threatening a national strike before Christmas for a minimum wage. If both sides join forces, England this winter will be in the throes of an industrial revolution which will make the strikes of the summer pale into insignificance.

Railway shareholders dread the outlook. Already this year they have lost millions of dollars in dividends in commercial warfare between labor and capital.

A strike will hit almost every section of the community, as the railways number their shareholders by millions. The total amount of authorized capital invested in British railways at the end of last year was $6,995,000,000. The average rate of dividend on the ordinary capital in 1910 was 3.48 per cent, as compared with 3.15 in 1909.

A MYSTERY

WASHINGTON, PA., NOV. 14.—Whether Chief of Police William J. Dulaney, hero of the Tenth fighting regiment in the Philippine service, killed himself in the apartments of Miss Ada Lennox, at 2 o'clock on Friday morning, or was shot down by an admirer of the young woman is a mystery that may forever remain unsolved.

Miss Lennox, one of the prettiest and best known young women in Washington, and her mother, Mrs. Rose Lenox, are under arrest, and the police are working along the theory that it would have been impossible for Chief Dulaney to have killed himself. Circumstances point to his murder at the hands of a third person.

Chief Dulaney was captain of Company H of the Tenth Pennsylvania Regiment and was one of the best known guardsmen and young war veterans in western Pennsylvania. He won recognition for gallantry in the Filipino campaign with the late Col. Hawkins, and was one of the most active men in the famous command that barely escaped annihilation in the terrible guerilla warfare on the Island of Luzon.

Chief Dulaney was killed with a 44-calibre Colt revolver. Friends of the dead soldier say that this weapon "spit flame" two feet when discharged. There is not a powder burn or singe on Dulaney's head and it is almost certain that the shot was not fired from close range.

Screams of Miss Lennox were followed by a loud report, and when the young woman's mother and others reached the rooms Chief Dulaney lay dead, with a wound above his left ear, and the weapon from which the shot is thought to have been fired lay some distance away.

Thursday Chief Dulaney made all arrangements to go to Greensburg to attend the meeting of the officers of the Tenth Infantry which was held there. He had been in the best of spirits and had every preparation made to spend a day or two with his old comrades of the Philippine campaign. His popularity and the suspicions of murder have aroused the community, and another twenty-four hours may bring sensational developments regarding the manner in which he met death.

A searching investigation is demanded. As a preliminary to this the hair from the left side of Dulaney's head was shaved, and will be microscopically examined to see if any traces of powder can be found.

THREATENED SUICIDE

Miss Lennox says that Dulaney had called on her about 11 o'clock. She said that she had been sitting with the Police Chief for several hours, when suddenly he pulled a heavy revolver from his pocket and announced his intention of shooting himself, telling the girl that he would go to his own home to do so. The young woman declared that she took the weapon from Dulaney and placed it on the table.

He later laughed at the idea of shooting himself and, believing that he had been joking, she handed the weapon back to him. A moment later, she alleged, he threatened to kill both her and himself.

Miss Lennox screamed and started to run from the room. As she did so, she said, the man placed the muzzle of the gun against his temple and fired.

Thursday Dulaney seemed in unusually good spirits. He left word at the police station that he wanted to be wakened early as he wanted to get an early start for Greensburg. He spent most of the evening with Corporal Charles W. Boyer, a bugler in Company H, Tenth Regiment. They were together until 11 o'clock, much of the time being spent in the armory, where he was cleaning up and burnishing his uniform and side-arms.

WIDOW AND FIVE CHILDREN

He talked baseball and discussed Tuesday's election results, according to Boyer. During the evening he had a telephone conversation with Burgess W. W. Hoyt, of Washington. The latter proposed starting on a hunting trip and had called up Dulaney to borrow a knapsack. The last thing Dulaney said to the burgess was:

"Mind, now, don't shoot yourself."

The weapon with which Dulaney was killed was a pearl handled affair won by him about a year ago in a raffle conducted by John Green, who was a policeman and also a member of Company A, Tenth Regiment.

During the recent trouble in Mexico Captain Dulaney was one of the officers from Pennsylvania sent to Texas, to take part in the regular manoeuvres. He is survived by a widow and five children, who were asleep in their home, a short distance away from the house where the tragedy occurred.

NASAL CATARRH

Responsible for Much Deafness, Hoarseness, Bronchitis and Stomach Trouble.

Medicated Air Will Cure.

These are common diseases, but not less dangerous and difficult to cure on that account. In our climate the weather changes quickly. We are careless. Disease attacks us before we know it. A large majority of our people have nose, lung, or throat troubles, and find it hard to get cured.

It's remarkable with what tenacity both the medical profession and the laity adhere to the old theory that these diseases can be reached and combated by dosing. And this despite the fact that failure to cure in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred attends this mode of treatment.

STOMACH MEDICINE CAN'T CURE.

At best it is a roundabout way of trying to reach the disease which is in the air passages of the throat, nose, bronchial tubes and lungs. Leave the stomach alone—use a remedy that air will carry into the minutest air cells into the tiniest cavities of the affected organs.

LIQUID REMEDIES DANGEROUS.

Doctors say only "Catarrhozone" can cure—you inhale it along with the air you breath—it goes where the living disease germs are gnawing into your system—it kills these germs—it heals, soothes, it CURES.

CATARRHOZONE GUARANTEED.

Wouldn't it be wise to use Catarrhozone now—to-day—and be cured permanently?

You can send the soothing vapor of the pine woods, the richest balsams and healing essences, right to the cause of your trouble by inhaling Catarrhozone.

Little drops of wonderful curative power are distributed through the whole breathing apparatus in two seconds.

Like a miracle, that's how Catarrhozone works in bronchitis, catarrh, colds, and irritable throat. You simply breath its oily, fragrant vapor and every trace of congestion and disease flees as before fire.

So safe, infants can use it; so sure to cure, doctors prescribe it, so beneficial in preventing winter ills, no person can afford to do without Catarrhozone. Used in thousands of cases without failure. Try it yourself! 25c, 50c, $1.00 sizes. Sold by all dealers, or by mail from the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

All work guaranteed and wiring subject to Fire Underwriter's Inspection.

SAYS THERE IS NO DOUBT OF GUILT

CHICAGO, NOV. 14.—According to Coroner Hoffman, there is no doubt of the guilt of Mrs. Louise Vermilya, accused of killing nine persons by poison within a few years.

Poison in the form of arsenic was found in quantities sufficient to kill in the bodies of Richard T. Smith, the conductor, who died mysteriously while a boarder in her house, and also in the body of her son by her first husband, Frank Brinkamp.

These two evidences of foul play, added to the finding of poison enough to kill in the body of Arthur Bissonnette only a few days ago, make the case against the accused woman much blacker and more circumstantial than it was at first.

However, there is some doubt as to whether she can live to face a trial for the murders she is accused of committing. Jail Physician Montgomery declares that she is in a very precarious condition — is suffering from valvular heart trouble, aggravated by the arsenic she took when she was arrested last Saturday. A nurse has been stationed by her bed and constant watch is kept over her.

Meanwhile the police assert with confidence that she cannot escape the amazing net that science is weaving about her.

Captain Harding declares she loved to experiment with poisons and often gave arsenic to guests to see how it would affect them.

With the exception of Smith and Bissonnette, they declare that she poisoned for insurance money. From her son, Dr. Frank Brinkamp, she collected $1,200 insurance. Smith died on March 11, 1911, at the home of Mrs. Vermilya, and the son at the home of her sister October 30, 1910.

Toxicologists are now examining the viscera of Fred Brinkamp, first husband of Mrs. Vermilya, who died on a farm at Barrington, Ill., after a short illness. From his death she gained about $1,700 in personal property and $1,000 in insurance.

ARSENIC IN PEPPER BOX

It is probable, since the finding of poison in the bodies of Smith and Frank Brinkamp, that the other five bodies will be exhumed and examined at once.

Knowing that the handling of dead bodies had a peculiar fascination for her, it is believed that Mrs. Vermilya made many unknown attempts to poison and failed.

In this connection the pepper box containing arsenic and white pepper with which Mrs. Vermilya attempted to end her life a week ago under the eyes of the nurses and police guarding her in the Twenty-ninth street home will be shown for identification.

Peter Bissonnette, a brother of Arthur Bissonnette, has made affidavit that the box was on the Vermilya table at a dinner he ate in the house two weeks before his brother died.

"I remember the pepper box was on the table and I know that after I got home I was seized with severe pains in the stomach," he recites in his affidavit. "The pains continued for several days. Finally they left me."

Arthur Bissonnette, the aged father of the dead policeman, is another who complained of pains in the stomach after eating at the Vermilya home. He could not recall the pepper box. Visitors to her home in the last five years are to be rounded up and questioned in this connection.

TO WED UNDERTAKER

Through the mention of insurance policies issued to Mrs. Vermilya it has been learned by the police that she was the affianced wife of Charles C. Boysen, the undertaker whom she employed to bury her dead.

Boysen has repeatedly denied any connection with the case, and following the death of Bissonnette, Mrs. Vermilya stated to Captain Harding, in charge of the investigation, that she and Bissonnette were engaged to be married.

Contradicting her statement to the police are two insurance policies in the Home Guards of America.

One, a certificate of life insurance for $1,000, names as beneficiary Chas. C. Boysen, her affianced husband. The other, a sick and accident policy for $250, is payable to the same beneficiary. Boysen holds a sick and accident policy for $500 in the same organization. This names his sister, Mary E. Anderson, as beneficiary.

Undertaker Boysen, when confronted with the policies, denied that he knew of their existence.

"There must be some mistake," he declared. "I never knew that Mrs. Vermilya named me as beneficiary in an insurance policy. I did not promise to marry her."

CAPTURED BY BABOONS

New York, Nov. 9.—Held in captivity by an army of giant baboons for two days, until he had given up all hopes of ever seeing his home or ship again, was the amazing experience of George W. Griggs, the youngest middy aboard the Bucknell liner Kasenga, in port from Calcutta and Mombasa.

Griggs owes his escape to Chief Officer Wallace Wooster, who at the head of a picket of native police and 20 Malay sailors attacked the baboons in the Mombasa jungle and drove them away from their young prisoner, who was lying exhausted and almost dead from fright at the foot of a giant cactus.

"I shudder at the thought of it," said the middy. "Midshipman Horne and I thought we would take a walk through the jungle by moonlight, so we left the ship at 9 o'clock. We sang and raised a rare din, when suddenly we heard the combined chattering of a million monkeys and then some beast put its arms around my neck. I shrieked and Horne ran away.

DRAGGED TO BANANA GROVE

"Then a dozen or more baboons pressed about me and dragged me away through the jungle. They did not hurt me, except when they scratched me in tearing my uniform. After about a five-mile march they halted in a banana grove, and held a council of war.

"I fell down cold with terror. To see those fearful faces in the moonlight and to listen to their infernal chattering almost drove me mad. I must have fainted, for it was daylight when I saw them again. They squatted about me and offered me bananas and pineapples to eat. They seemed to have a kind of camping ground and had posted sentries some yards away from where I was lying.

"They did not leave me all day. Perhaps they thought I was a relation of theirs, for one big fellow treated me as though I was his child. I found a can of pressed meat which they hadn't been able to open, but I wasn't hungry or thirsty; I was scared stiff. How the day and the following night passed I don't know. It seemed a year to me before the chief and the native police found me."

VERIFIED BY CHIEF OFFICER

Chief Officer Wooster took up the story at this point and explained:

"I thought Horne was romancing when he came back to the ship and said that Griggs had been kidnapped by baboons, but finally he convinced me," he said. "All hands were called on deck, a posse of natives impressed and off we started to trail the monkeys.

"It was the third night since Griggs left the ship when our guides brought us to the monkey camp. At their suggestion we had brought a pile of ship's rockets with us, and after lighting a fire to windward of the camp we threw the rockets into the blaze, piled on a heap of red pepper and started to yell.

"As the rockets shot up one by one the baboons shrieked in chorus, sighted the fire, sneezed at the pepper and tore away through the jungles like so many mad men. Then we advanced and found poor Griggs almost naked and shivering with fear. A dose of Scotch put him on his pins and away we started for the old Kasenga, and I'll bet the lad never loved the old ship as much before, did you Griggs?"

"No, I didn't," answered the middy.

HALL'S BRIDGE, NOV. 15.—Winter is again making her appearance.

Navigation has closed for the season. Mr. Hill, the lockmaster, reports a very busy season.

Mr. G. Karnoff of Belleville, was in the village this week.

The cheese factory season has came to a close and a big turnout of cheese has been the result.

Things are busy in the village at present, as the hunters are passing through en route home. They all report fair luck except the Bridgenorth Hunting Club, eleven in number and only two deer being captured. Mr. U. Grant, their captain, states that the deer were too wild to capture easily. They also tell of an exciting experience with a moose, but later, local explanation makes it clear that one of the farmers cows near Beaver lake had a narrow escape and 'tis feared yet she may die.

There has been a great deal of sickness in the village of late and it is hoped that the cold weather that is setting in will better the health conditions.

DEER SCARCE

Clydesdale Correspondent Reports Poor Luck

Special to The Examiner:

CLYDESDALE, NOV. 15.—Now that the hunting season has arrived, several of the boys each morning at dawn are seen wending their way towards the bush. Evidently the deer do not seem to be plentiful, although the fact that some of the boys capture them in the barnyard would lead us to believe they were roaming about in abundance.

DOMESTIC TIT-BITS

Horseradish applied to the temple is said to be an excellent remedy for neuralgia.

Do not soak fresh fish in water before cooking. This treatment only ruins the flavour and makes the flesh soft.

Silk handkerchiefs should be washed with borax in tepid water, with little or no soap. Iron them before dry.

If you wish to keep books in good condition, have open shelves. Glass doors certainly exclude dust, but they are apt to keep it damp and harbour moths.

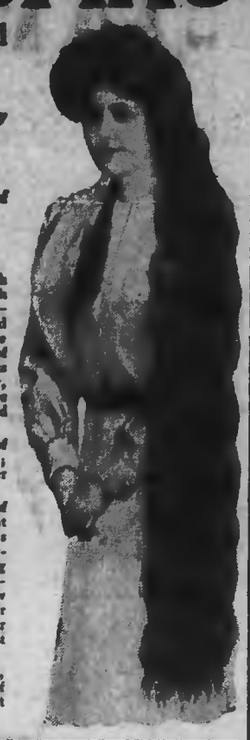
If You Wish to Double the Beauty of Your Hair at Once, Just Get a 25 Cent Bottle and Try This



Surely try a Danderine Hair Cleanse if you wish to immediately double the beauty of your hair with little trouble and at a cost not worth mentioning—just moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one small strand at a time, this will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or any excessive oil—In a few moments you will be amazed. Your hair will be wavy, fluffy and abundant and possess an incomparable softness, lustre and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Besides beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of Dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. It's exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow abundantly long, strong and beautiful. It at once imparts a sparkling brilliancy and velvety softness to the hair, and a few weeks' use will cause new hair to sprout all over the scalp. Use it every day for a short time, after which two or three times a week will be sufficient to complete whatever growth you desire.

You can surely have pretty, soft, lustrous hair, and lots of it, if you will just get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it as directed.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Nov. 15.—At the Canadian Pacific Live Stock Market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending Nov. 11 were 1300 cattle, 3370 sheep and lambs, 2750 hogs and 800 calves. The offerings on the market this morning amounted to 1530 cattle, 1400 sheep and lambs, 1900 hogs and 400 calves.

A feature of the trade continues to be the strong undertone to the market for top quality and prices since Monday have scored a further advance of 25c per cwt., which is due to the limited supply of such coming forward and the fact that buyers are having some difficulty in filling their wants, even at the higher range of prices.

There was no change in the condition of the market for common and inferior stock on account of supplies being more than ample to fill all requirements, and if it were not for the active buying on the part of packers for canning purposes, a number would have been left unsold. The demand for milch cows is good, of which the offerings are not large.

The market for hogs was weak on account of the more liberal supply offered and prices as compared with Monday show a decline of 25c to 50c per cwt., with sales of selected lots at $6.75 to $6.90. The demand for calves was good.

Butchers' cattle, choice, $6.50 per cwt.; medium, $5.75 to $6; common, $4 to $5; canners, $1.75 to $3.50; choice cows, $5.25 to $5.75; medium, $3 to $3.60; bulls, $4 to $4.25; milkers, choice, each $55; common and medium, each, $30 to $50; springers, $30 to $60. Sheep, ewes, $3.50; bucks and culls, $2 to $3.25; lambs, $5.25. Hogs, f.o.b., $6 to $6.90. Calves, $3 to $10.

General Strike at Torreon.

Torreon, Mexico, Nov. 16.—A general strike has been declared here. The bakers have joined in and a bread famine is threatened. Five thousand workmen are idle, including a thousand smelter employes.

Except for the arc lamps the city was in darkness last night, striking linemen interfering with the operation of the electric system.

The Enterprise has been compelled to close its offices because of threats that the employes would be dragged from their posts. Even the servant girls are quitting their places. The market place has been closed and the street cars are not operated.

Gotham's Ashpan Loses.

New York, Nov. 15.—The city has won its fight with the municipal ash and garbage men. Night work, to avoid which the 2,500 regular drivers struck, will be resumed as soon as the department can get its force of green men going smoothly.

The strikers are all liable for trial before the civil service commission for breach of the rules, and have been called to appear on Monday.

One said they expected to engage in the war with Turkey. Their cabins presented a very warlike aspect, with guns and rifles of every description.

Thief Lost $1,000 Bill.

Buffalo, N.Y., Nov. 16.—The display of a plump roll of money, the outside bill of which was of $1,000 denomination, led to the arrest here yesterday of Laura Rettinger, 17, of Brooklyn. The $1,000 the police found on him is part of $2,500 he secured from a forged check a chum gave him to get cashed. He lost a $1,000 bill in Albany last Saturday.

To Announce Streets.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—Chicago street cars are being equipped with a device intended to do away with the needless opening of its car doors in the winter, thus contributing much to the comfort of the passengers. The device consists of four enunciator horns, like graphophones set in the ceiling at the four corners of the car. The conductor will have a small telephone through which he will announce street names, his voice coming through the horns. It will be necessary to open the doors only when passengers are leaving the cars.

Welcomes Inquiry.

Montreal, Nov. 16.—At the opening of the Court of Appeals, T. Chase Casgrain, K.C., on behalf of the United Shoe Machinery Co., made the following statement:

"After consultation with my clients, I have come to the conclusion to withdraw the present petition for leave to stay proceedings until the final judgment.

"The company welcomes the fullest inquiry, and as soon as it is convenient to the parties concerned we wish the proceedings to begin."

John Bull—Shopkeeper.

The taunt once levied at Britain of being a nation of shopkeepers is more true to-day than ever it was. Business, according to the latest reports, is still booming.

In Europe, her three largest customers are Germany, France, and Russia. Last year the Fatherland spent nearly 55 millions sterling with us, France about 33 1-2 millions, while the people of the Tsar expended over 21 millions on British goods.

Among the little things in which Britain does a big trade are candles. Each year we send abroad over 31 million pounds, of which last year Morocco bought five million pounds, and China nearly four million.

As a hatter, too, John Bull seems to be appreciated for nearly two million pounds' worth of hats went abroad.

In return, however, Britain is a good customer, and among other items our fruit bill last year amounted to £9,722,078.

Didn't Know.

One day Lord Goschen, who is suffering from the effects of a motor-car accident, walked into a country branch of which he is a director and handed in a check drawn by a friend, which he asked the clerk in charge to cash. This was promptly done, and Mr Goschen (he was not then a peer) thereupon gave the clerk a lecture on cashing checks for strangers. "How did you know I came by the check honestly?" he asked. "I did not know, Mr. Goschen," coolly replied the clerk, "but, of course, we must oblige a director."

Bees as Allies.

There is at least one instance of swarms of bees being employed to rout the enemy. This happened when the Danes and Norwegians were attacking Chester, held by the Saxons and some Gallic auxiliaries. After using stones and boiling water in vain against the besiegers, the Saxons threw down all the bee-hives in the town upon the attackers, who were soon stung out of the place.

ITALIAN-TURKO FORCES ARE RESTING UP

Italians Have Withdrawn Many of Their Outposts From the Interior —Turks Improving Position

CASUALTIES WERE HEAVY

LONDON, ENG., NOV. 16.—Censorship over information from Tripoli has tightened considerably, and very little news is filtering from that country. It is known, however, that the Italians have withdrawn many of their outposts from the interior and are concentrating all efforts at present in maintaining and strengthening the defences of the towns on the coasts. The Turks and their Arab allies are daily improving their mettle as courageous fight-to-death soldiers, and many Italian casualities have resulted from their fierce onslaughts. It is estimated that the Italians lost one thousand killed and wounded in the guerilla fighting last week.

Tied Up At King St.

An incident of unusual interest took place the other day, when a scow loaded with wood, was towed up to the end of King street, to the Peterborough Canoe Co's. establishment. It was brought up the channel under the C. P. R., Quaker Oats Co. spur line bridges, and tied up at the end of the street. This is the first scow or large boat of any kind to reach this position for a number of years. Before the C. P. R. bridge was built, the steamers tied up, as far up as the end of Charlotte street.

CANADIAN MISSIONARIES WERE IN GRAVE DANGER

Letter From F. E. Plewman, of Canadian Methodist Printing House, Gives Some Surprising Information—Grave Fears Entertained for the Safety of Some of the Canadians in Chentu.

Special Wire to The Examiner.

TORONTO, NOV. 16.—From a letter received and published to-day, from T. E. Plewman of the Canadian Methodist Printing House, Chentu Sze Chwan province, China, it is indicated that the Canadian missionaries in that province had much more dangerous experience during the recent fighting than is dreamed of here. Countless cartoons were displayed, villifying the foreigner and the missionaries. Ninety-nine per cent. of the population of the province was rebellious and in victorious fights with Imperialists, frequently looked for more blood in the foreign quarters. At one time the situation seemed so desperate that the missionaries prepared for fight and had everything ready when they closed the gates on them and kept them prisoners. At the date of writing some Canadians in the outskirts of the Province were still unheard of and grave fears were entertained for their safety.

WONDERFUL HAND-CUFF WORK BY GREAT McEWEN

The Great McEwen introduced some sensational hand-cuff feats as a novelty in his programme last night at the Grand Opera House and the biggest audience of the week applauded him enthusiastically at the conclusion of this feature of the performance. Hand-cuff acts have been seen in Peterborough before, but no operator has done as clean-cutor as meritorious work as the Great McEwen, who slipped out and unlocked one two and three pairs of intricate hand-cuffs with an amazing facility. Detective Newhall and P. C. Kidd of the local police department assisted in the performance by bringing a number of hand-cuffs such as used here and locking them on McEwen, who had no trouble in making his escape with in a few seconds.

An amusing experiment was the placing of a pair of hand-cuffs on the wrists of one of the volunteer committee, after which the information was forthcoming that the key was strangely missing. Mr. Committeeman looked worried, but the great McEwen solved the problem by borrowing a hat-pin from a lady in the audience, with which he easily succeeded in unlocking the "bracelets." He wound up his hand-cuff act by allowing the officers to fasten him in a net work of hand-cuffs and leg-shackles from which he escaped within the full view of the audience.

The programme last evening was opened by the awakening of the young lady who was put to sleep in the window of the Bee-Hive at noon yesterday. She had been carried to the Opera House last evening and lay on a couch in view of the audience until awakened. She had been placed by the hynotist in a cataleptic state with the muscles perfectly stiff and rigid, and the audience evinced great interest in the process of returning to consciousness.

A number of new subjects were added to the hypnotic class last night and all of the old members were back again so that the Great McEwen was able to give some of the funniest and most interesting experiments of the week. Perhaps the most amusing was the fishing scene in which the subjects were given the suggestion that they were along the bank of a ricer with plenty of grasshoppers in sight as bait. The audience went nearly hysterical over this scene. The subjects placed themselves along the edge of the stage and commenced fishing with apparently no mean success. Great excitement was caused among the anglers and correspondingly great merriment among the audience, when one of the subjects slid off the stage, or rather off the bank and a thrilling rescue was achieved by the squad, after which first aid methods were called into commission. This was only one of a series of decidedly amusing experiments, and the result was the best exhibition yet given.

To-night Prof. McEwen will allow himself to be nailed up in a box made by local carpenters and will then make his escape.

THE CHEMICAL WORKS DESTROYED BY FIRE

FENELON FALLS, NOV. 14.—The Standard Chemical Company's mill on Cameron Lake Shore, at the foot of Frankling street, was destroyed by fire Tuesday night. The fire started about 5.30 p.m., and is supposed to have its origin in the still room. There was no wind blowing, otherwise there would have been danger to the dwellings nearby. About twenty hands will be thrown out of employment. The loss is believed to be covered by insurance.

PUMPS MADE BY HAMILTON COMPANY WERE SATISFACTORY

The following from an Ottawa paper, though not stated in the article itself, refers to a set of six-million gallon pumps for the Hull Water Works, manufactured and installed by the William Hamilton Company, of this city. It constitutes a very important tribute to the excellent character of the work turned out by this old, reliable company. The following is the article:

The board of directors of the Banque Provinciale of Montreal were in the city this morning as the guests of Mr. H. A. Champagne, the manager, to witness a test conducted as to the efficiency of the waterworks system and fire fighting apparatus. The Banque Provinciale recently purchased debentures of the city amounting to $225,000, and on expressing a desire to investigate conditions in the city, an invitation was extended to them by Mayor Archambault. The test, which was conducted under ordinary conditions, was successful in every way, a pressure of 110 lbs. being registered at the pumphouse. The visitors expressed themselves as entirely satisfied and $225,000 has been deposited in the coffers of the Banque Provinciale to the credit of the city.

The following directors were present: President N. Laporte, Gen. Manager T. Blenvenue, and A. Racine, and L. G. Beauchere, directors.

"At Home" Held

In the K. of C. Hall last evening a very enjoyable "At Home" was held by the Knights of Columbus.

There was a large gathering of the members and their lady friends, numbering upwards of 250. Progressive euchre was engaged in from nine o'clock until twelve and the prize winners were: Gentleman's prize, Mr. John Corkery. Ladies prize, Miss Ethel Ray. Following the interval, during which refreshments were served, dancing was indulged in. The music was furnished with a very high standard of efficiency by Miss McGill of Toronto. Those who did not join in the dancing engaged in a conversazione and a very pleasant evening was spent.

LOCOMOTOR ATAXIA

"My nerves were very bad, and I could not sleep at night, nor could I control my arms or legs," writes Mrs. Robert Bastard, Maxwell, N.B. "Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cured me of what I believe was the early stage of locomotor ataxia or paralysis. I cannot describe what I suffered, but now I am entirely cured."

ROBBED PRINCESS THEATRE

Two Youngsters Pleaded Guilty to Taking $49 From Box Office of Motion Picture Theatorium

THEY LIVED HIGH

Two little fourteen-year-old Scotch laddies were arraigned in the police court this morning, having been arrested last night at their homes in the south end, by P. C. Kidd and Det. Newhall, charged with stealing $49.00 from the Princess Theatre. There was $54 in the little wicket in a box and $5 had just been paid to one of the employees, when one of the boys, it is said, put his hand in through the little pigeon hole in the front and made away with the cash. The two officers found $10 hidden in the attic of a house, formerly occupied by the family and the rest of the money was spent in candies and other luxuries in the form of pastries, etc. The boys pleaded guilty of the theft and were later discharged after receiving good advice from the Magistrate. He decided to let them go on suspended sentence, but reminded them of the fact that in future if they ever appeared before him on any charge, he would punish them for both this charge and the other. Mr. E. N. Goodwill appeared on behalf of the Children's Aid Society and asked that the younger of the children be sent to school. The father, who was present, promised to see that the boy was sent to school and the other put to work. They both had been working in a factory, but when the money was stolen they quit work and were living high. The family has only been out from Scotland since July and are struggling to get along. A form was drawn up ,whereby the father will pay $1.00 per week to Mr. Pappas, until the stolen money is returned. The theft took place on Saturday night, Oct. 28.

Mr. H. P. Kennedy Is Back From Edmonton

Mr. H. P. Kennedy has just returned from Edmonton, where he has been looking over the block of property recently acquired by him. Mr. Kennedy has located a large box factory in the centre of the property and the values are enhancing rapidly. A few of the lots are left for sale, and Mr. Kennedy will give information to anyone desirous of making what he deems to be a most excellent investment.

WORK WELL UNDER WAY

The work on the new dam and power house, at Auburn, is rapidly nearing completion. The work on the raceway was finished several days ago, and the water turned into it. It is intended that some of the machines will be in operation by the 1st of December. The working force has been reduced somewhat, and their present labours are principally confined to putting the finishing touches on the Power House.

PROSPECTS GOOD

Mr. Henderson Black of St. John's, N.B., is a guest at the Oriental. Mr. Black has been in the city for the last few days, removing his stock of merchandise from the old Cordage Works He was one of the bidders on the factory, and undoubtedly would have been the owner now, had it not been for the Industrial Harvester Co. overbidding him by a small margin. He had a large stock of manufactured merchandise, which had been sold, in the building, and his business here now is in connection with its removal, etc.

When seen by an Examiner reporter this afternoon, Mr. Black said he had no statement to make, his business here being of a personal and private nature. When asked as to the prospects of a concern here he stated that there was no reason why it should not prosper, if conducted on well-managed business principles. He intimated that had the local factory come into his hands, he had not the slightest doubt of making it a successful enterprise.

OFFICIAL OPENING OF PARLIAMENT HELD TO-DAY

Scene Was a Brilliant One—Speech From the Throne Given by His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught—Many Ladies Were Present at the Function.

Special Wire to The Examiner.

OTTAWA, NOV. 16.—The official opening of the twelfth parliament of Canada to-day was, without doubt, the most splendid in the history of the Dominion, as befitted the first parliament appearance of their Royal Highnesses, the Duke and Duchess of Connaught. The weather was typical of the Canadian autumn. The ceremonies in the Parliament Buildings, in Senate Chambers and Commons, were graced with many ladies in most beautiful gowns, and colour was given to the affair by the attendance of nearly 200 military officers of high rank, including those in attendance from all over Canada at the Minister of Militia's conference. The speech from the throne was pretty much as forecasted in the morning papers. H. R. Highness expressed the satisfaction it had given him to fulfil the important charge entrusted to him by the King in the administration of the affairs of the prosperous and growing dominion. He congratulated the country on the abundant harvest and growing trade with British and foreign countries. He referred to the legislation looking to the extending of trade within the empire, the provision of better and greater highways, through the country, greater and more encouragement to agriculture, the basic industry of Canada, the inspection of grain and the movement for the control of elevators, the establishment of a permanent tariff commission, the progression of the Hudson Bay railroad and so on.

The Military Conference.

The military conference summoned by Hon. Sam. Hughes, Minister of Militia, opened early this morning before the parliamentary opening festivities and was a success. The chief proposal submitted by the commanding officers was that more pay was urgently needed for the militia, better armoury accommodation, better clothing and the exemption of militia men from sundry arms of taxation. Al Ponton of Belleville lamented the existing spirit of anti-militarism and urged that the privileges of ballot should be made conditional upon military service. Other officers proposed conscription as the only solution of the lack of militia men.

Sharp at three o'clock their Royal Highnesses arrived at the Senate Chambers under the escort of military. The duke took his seat on the throne and her Royal Highness the Duchess sat to the left of the duke and was the cynosure of all eyes. Various cabinet ministers were present in their official uniforms, the premier standing to the right of the throne in the place occupied so many years by Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The church was represented by the prelates of Roman and Anglican churches and by representatives of other denominations, whilst the supreme court Judges were there, garbed in robes of scarlet and ermine.

The Commons was summoned in the usual way. Mr. Speaker Sproule wearing his robes and his three-cornered hat, and standing in the centre of the bar, made the usual demand of access to the person of the representative of the throne. Permission being granted the Commons members thronged to the place reserved for them.

His Royal Highness read his speech in French and English.

Opposition Ready.

Ottawa, Nov. 16.—Plenty of evidence that the Opposition is on the qui vive, is furnished this morning by a series of questions on the order paper, and which will be asked of the Government as soon as regular order of sessional business is begun. Some of the questions will bristle with intended embarrassments for the Government.

BANQUET IN HONOUR OF POPULAR YOUNG MAN

An enjoyable event took place in the Oriental Hotel last evening, when some thirty-five of the employees of the C.G.E. gathered around the festive board to say farewell to Mr. J. H. Caster of the production department who has severed his connection with the Canadian General and who leaves to-night to accept a position in Toronto. Mr. Caster has been most popular with the employees of the Canadian General since coming to Peterborough and will be greatly missed. Last evening's function was arranged to indicate in some measure the esteem in which he is regarded. Mr. George Wilson of the Test Department presided and among those present was Mr. John Young of Toronto, who graduated from Toronto University with Mr. Caster. During the impromptu toast list which was run off, Mr. Caster was presented with a gold-mounted pipe from those present, the presentation being made by Mr. Stanley Canniff. The Grand Opera House orchestra was present and rendered a splendid programme for the occasion.

Hunting Party Has Returned

The Shewagana Hunt Club have returned, all having their allowance of deer. Mr. J. Metheral remained in Toronto, visiting friends, but the following returned ot the city: Messrs. C. Gladman, Dixon Best, V. O'Dette, M. McFadden, Larry Steele, Dr. Pentland, Wm. Bothwell, John Bennet, Sam. Ray, Geo. Metcalfe, John Bradley, Bert Lilly, Peter Kerr, Norman Bradley, Chas. Curtis, Albert Curtis, Wm. Sharpe, Judge Roger, of Cobourg, and A. Morrow of Parry Sound were also with the club. They succeeded in bagging about 150 partridges in addition to the deer.

Mr. Ray stated to the Examiner this afternoon that there was another hunting party succeeded in getting a bear, members of their own club being present. The party followed the bear for some distance when it was rounded up in a hole, and a lady who was accompanying the party, shot the animal, which weighed 250 lbs. Lynx were not very plentiful, but several wolves were heard howling around the camps. The deer and partridge were among the more plentiful objects of prey. Bear tracks were seen, but the animals themselves kept out of sight pretty well.

THE ADVANCE GUARD

Mayor Morrow and City Clerk Armstrong left on the noon train to-day for Ottawa. They form the advance guard of the power depatation which leaves for Ottawa to-night.

DEATH'S CALL WAS SUDDEN

Mr. Michael Calnan, Well Known Resident of Peterborough, Passed Away at St. Joseph's Hospital

WELL KNOWN IN CITY

Death's call came with startling suddenness this morning to Mr. Michael Calnan, of 498 Sherbrooke street, an old and highly esteemed resident of Peterborough. The deceased complaind of a pain in the region of the heart last evening, but this morning felt well enough to go to work. He was employed by the Gas Company, in the laying of mains in East City, and on his way to work this morning, was again stricken with pain, and fell while crossing the Market Square. He was taken to the police station and then removed to St. Joseph's Hospital, where he passed away shortly after 9 o'clock, about half an hour after his arrival in the institution.

The deceased was born in County Cork, Ireland, and had been a resident of Peterborough for twenty-six years. He was a member of St. Peter's Parish, and had a large circle of friends and acquaintances, who will be shocked to learn of his sudden death. He is survived by two daughters, Miss Mary and Miss Katie, and one brother, John.

Will Address Peterboro Canadian Club To-morrow Night

The first meeting of the season of the Canadian Club of Peterborough will be held to-morrow evening, Nov. 17, in the Oriental Hotel, when Hon. Mr. Justice Riddell will deliver an address to the members. Mr. Justice Riddell is one of the best known judges in Canada, and has a reputation as a forcible, interesting and eloquent speaker. His address to the Canadian Club should be a treat to the fullest extent of the much-used word. At to-morrow night's meeting the report of the nominating committee will be presented and officers for the season elected. Membership tickets may be secured from Mr. W. R. Morris, the secretary, or from Mr. G. C. Wainwright, treasurer, at the Bank of Ottawa. In order to avoid confusion to-morrow night, the members are urged to secure their annual tickets in advance.

PONIES FOR SALE

Mr. R. H. Leary Has a Splendid Consignment Brought From West

Mr. R. H. Leary has for sale a number of Western ponies, which he brought East with him recently, and which may be seen in Noble's Temperance House yards at the rear of the corner of George and Brock Sts. These are magnificent animals, well broken and quiet, and serviceable either for riding or driving purposes. Ther is no doubt that these ponies will be much in demand and the public is advised ot look after the matter at once, if they desire to purchase. There could be nothing that would be more appreciated as a Christmas gift than one of these beautiful ponies which are the finest lot ever brought to this city.

MR. HALL'S MEETINGS.

Mr. Hall will continue his series of successful meetings in the township, by holding meetings in Middleton's school house, Smith, on Thursday, Nov. 23rd, and in the Fourth Line Temperance hall, on Friday, Nov. 24th.

UNREASONABLE DEMAND.

Apropos of the proposal to refer the matter of the Canadian navy to a vote of the people, the Tory Toronto Telegram is moved to this declaration:

The sort of referendum that Canadians expect at the hands of Hon. R. L. Borden is a chance to vote for the abolition of Bourassa, Monk & Co.

This is unreasonable. We can't expect Mr. Borden to abolish the master of his administration.

BACK IN THE HOUSE.

Hon. G. P. Graham, late Minister of Railways and Canals, will re-enter the House of Commons. A seat will be provided by the resignation of Mr. Thomas Law, M. P., of South Renfrew, in favour of Mr. Graham who will no doubt be elected by acclamation. Hon. W. S. Fielding, who was also defeated in the late general election, will spend, on the advice of his physician, a year in resting, before he re-enters active politics.

HOW LONDON FARES.

There is meat for mental eating in the following exchange of journalistic opinion.

Sir James Whitney belongs to the last century, and to the first part of it.—London Advertiser.

A senseless untruth. For instance, The London Advertiser can buy power for its presses at a fraction of the cost that prevailed in the last half of the last century, thanks to the Whitney Administration.—London Free Press.

As it happens, The Advertiser declares by way of rejoinder, that it has for years been buying power from an adjacent plant, which supplies it at a price lower than Niagara power rates.

NOT RECOGNIZED BY LAW.

There is hope for the home and the integrity of marriage relations in Canada yet. A Toronto man went to the United States to get a divorce from his wife and got it according to the free-and-easy, unlinking laws of that country. He was convicted in Toronto for non-support of his wife and the Court of Appeal has decided that the conviction stands. The exotic divorce is not recognized by Canadian law. If a divorced person wants to enjoy the benefits of the United States divorce law he must stay—and welcome, so far as Canada is concerned—in the land where the marriage tie is apparently made to be broken on the most frivolous grounds.

A GENEROUS FOE.

Speaking of the effort some are making to arouse feeling against Mr. Rowell's candidature in North Oxford, the Brockville Times (Conservative) says:

"Any riding should be glad to get Mr. Rowell as a candidate. The best should be none too good. Drop the parochial idea and welcome a superior man no matter where he comes from."

These are generous words and reflect a spirit that is too much lacking in the field of political activity. If a generous foe recognized thus frankly, the merits of Mr. Rowell, the Liberal leader, there can be no doubt that he will command loyal support of those naturally sympathetic with his political principles.

CLUB LAW.

Sir James Whitney trims his sails slightly to the tempest, driving aghast his educational administration. He proposes to increase the supply of school teachers by preventing the drift of teachers to the West. He will withhold certificates till a teacher has taught one year in the province. This is in line with Sir James bulldozing and force methods. But his remedy does not reach the root. We have enough unqualified teachers now, and the chief complaint is the lack of qualified teachers. By destroying the Model Schools, he has made it difficult or impossible, in very many cases, for teacher-students to acquire professional qualifications. As a result we have hundreds of unqualified teachers in the schools of the province. Sir James should increase the number of teachers by giving proper facilities for qualification, instead of putting a ball and chain to the leg of the teachers to keep them in the province, and prevent their right to move throughout the Dominion, as free men and women. Club law, the law of force and despotic dictation is a law unto Sir James Whitney.

THE NEW LIBERAL LEADER.

The Liberal party of Ontario need have no misgivings as to their choice of a leader. Mr. Rowell's first set public deliverance shows him to be a man that is able to maintain the best traditions of Liberal leadership in this province. As shown at Massey Hall on Tuesday night he deals with the political situation in Ontario the needs of the province, and the way to promote its interests as a statesman. He is broad, and at the same time practical. He is a fluent, eloquent and clear speaker, who does not leave his points submerged under a stream of verbal platitude, but brings them out clearly and drives them home effectively. He is a man to command respect and inspire confidence. The promise of his career as Liberal leader, is big, but what is more important at the present time, he constitutes a splendid rallying point for militant Liberalism in Ontario. A man that can draw the magnificent gathering that crowded to the doors the largest auditorium in Tory Toronto with a splendid audience, and can rouse their enthusiasm as well as effectively appeal to their reason, will show himself to be a power in outside Ontario where there is a quarter of a million Liberals to be led to the victory which the policy of the Liberal leader, will help to achieve, not only in the interests of the Liberal party, but in the interests of the province at large. Liberals all over Ontario, with such a leader and the cause he espouses and promotes, will take on new spirit and courage. Well-led means the first step to well-organized and well organized is a step to the victory of the progressive Liberal principles that in the past have been the means of placing this province in the van of the provinces of the Dominion, in the matter of progressive administration, as it is in material, natural and provided resources. Ontario needs progressive administration in order to realize upon its possibilities, such as it has not received for the past seven years under the despotic rule of an unprogressive government.

DENIAL OF LIBERTY.

There is difference of opinion as to the policy of assessment reform in the direction of levying a higher assessment value on land than on improvements. Sir James Whitney denounces the idea with his usual self-sufficient dogmatism; but that is not the point. Sir James has a right to his opinion on the subject, but those who are directly affected—have to levy the taxes and raise money for municipal purposes, have also a right to be considered. Where Sir James Whitney is out of joint with popular demands, is not that he has strong views on the undesirability of tax reform in the direction intimated, but his fault is that he will not allow the municipalities themselves to say what they want. There is no demand for a provincial law to impose a differential rate on improvements and lands, but there is a distinct demand for a law that will permit municipalities to decide for themselves what they want. Sir James is opposed to giving municipalities larger power of self government—he is opposed to "checker-board legislation." Naturally; he wants to make every "move" himself and to deny municipalities their "move." The "checker board" system is a feature of our municipal privileges. Municipalities have now, and have had, privileges of local action peculiar to some, and not common to all. If a municipality has power to decide how it will elect its aldermen or councillors, why should it not have the power to decide how it will levy its taxes. The head and front of Sir James Whitney's opposition to assessment reform is not his out-of-date, obsolete, unsympathetic ideas, out of line with the ideas of modern progress, but his despotic denial of the rights of the people to a voice in the determination of the way in which they shall manage their local affairs. If a municipality does not want tax reform, it need not have it; but if it wants it; if the people want it; if the people want it to remedy the patent injustice of present assessment methods, give them the power to say so—let them have a voice in their local self-government and not centre it in the autocrat of Queen's park. The day of one-man, and bureaucratic government is past. The only way to restore free institutions and the right of having an opinion in Ontario, is to wipe out, or greatly reduce, Sir James Whitney's majority of seventy, that permits him to play the bully with the people. He may be a man of great decision of character. He may be firm when he takes a stand; but unfortunately, experience has proven that when he takes a stand it is a stand-still. He is more obstructive than progressive, more obstinate than onward. He needs a jolt, in the form of either a removed or a greatly reduced legislative majority.

Liberal Leader's Eloquent Plea For Development Of New Ontario

At the great Liberal mass meeting on Tuesday night, Mr. N. W. Rowell, the newly-appointed Liberal leader, delivered his first formal declaration of policy. In dealing with the question of the development of immense New Ontario he said.

It is difficult for those of us who live in old Ontario to realize the heritage we have in that great hinterland which lies to the north and west, which we call New Ontario. It comprises about four-fifths of the entire Province. Do we realize that its unsettled agricultural areas exceed by some millions of acres the total cultivated area of old Ontario? We are just commencing to realize its timber and mineral wealth. Of the 140,000,000 acres of land in this Province, over 115,000,000 acres are still in the Crown, and this great area is to be utilized for the good of the people. Ontario, while one of the oldest, is one of the newest Provinces of Canada. A large part of this territory was won for Ontario by the splendid fight of Sir Oliver Mowat in the boundary award. Something of the richness of our heritage was disclosed to us by explorations carried on by the Liberal Government of Sir George Ross, which sent out parties to explore the country up to Hudson's Bay. The settlement and development of this great area is of vital concern to every citizen of this Province. To people its agricultural lands with thrifty settlers, to secure the development of its inestimable mineral wealth, means a greatly enlarged home market for all the manufacturing industries of Ontario, means increased employment for working men and an enlarged market for the farmers of old Ontario right at their own doors. To the City of Toronto, especially it means ever increasing progress and prosperity. It presents to the Government responsible for its administration one of its greatest obligations and largest opportunities.

Rip Van Winkle Policy.

What is the situation to-day? Notwithstanding the immense and ever-increasing immigration to Canada, very few of these settlers are going into New Ontario. The Dominion Government owns the land in the west. It is interested in settling these lands, it advertises these lands for settlement, and immigration naturally goes west. The railways of Canada are interested in the West, in the long freight haul which it gives them, and many of them in extensive blocks of land in the west, and their interest is to send the settlers west. The western lands are prairie; ours are timbered. The Ontario Government owns the land in New Ontario. If it would settle them and develop the country it must apply modern business methods and attack the problem of settlement on a thoroughly comprehensive and adequate scale. Instead of doing so, the present Government, as the Telegram describes it, has pursued the Rip Van Winkle policy, and to-day there is dissatisfaction and unrest throughout the whole north country. While the Government in Queen's Park has been contemplating its own greatness and rejoicing in the size of its majority, the Toronto Board of Trade and the Associated Boards of Trade of this Province, the business men of Ontario, impatient at the apathy and indifference of the Government and realising the importance and urgency of the opportunity, have been making known the resources and needs of this north country to the people of Ontario. We are greatly indebted to the Toronto Board of Trade and the Associated Boards of Trade of Ontario for the splendid work they have done in bringing to the attention of the whole people of the Province and the Dominion the importance and resources of the north country. The country is so extensive, its problems so numerous and the whole situation so urgent, we propose the creation of a Department of Immigration and Colonization, presided over by a Minister of the Crown, who shall give his whole time and attention to the problems of immigration and the settlement and the development of New Ontario.

A Wide Outlook.

We propose that under the direction of this Minister a publicity campaign shall be carried on and the resources of New Ontario shall be advertised and made known to the world. We propose that immigration agencies shall be established in co-operation with the Dominion Government, or independent of it, if need be, which shall bring to the attention of intending immigrants the character and resources of this Province. We propose, and it is indispensable to the settlement of that new country that roads shall be built by the Government which shall promote settlement, which shall encourage the settler to go in, and provide him the facilities for getting in and out. We propose to assist him in securing adequate drainage for his lands where the lands need draining, to secure loans to a limited extent secured upon his clearing, repayable over a number of years, to enable him to get a start, a policy pursued by New Zealand with great success, and we will grant special assistance in the establishment and carrying on of public schools, believing these to be indispensable to secure the best development of these new communities. In short, we propose to do for New Ontario what the Liberal Government in the year 1896 and succeeding years did for western Canada: make its resources known, encourage immigration into it, facilitate the settlement of settlers, open it by adequate transportation facilities, and will thereby contribute to the progress and prosperity of old Ontario more directly and immediately than has the settlement of western Canada. New Ontario contributes very largely to the revenues of the Province. It is in the interests of the whole of Ontario that larger portions of these revenues should be expended in the development of New Ontario.

THE SPOILS SYSTEM AGAIN.

(London Advertiser)

Conservative newspapers print a despatch asserting that the Borden Government intends to replace the Canadian members of the International Waterways Association by three former Conservative members of parliament.

The appointment of Sir George Gibbons and his colleagues was made by the Laurier Government long before the Federal elections. There is no valid reason for replacing these gentlemen, not even a pretext. In view of Mr. Borden's emphatic declaration against the spoils system, it may very well be doubted whether he will consent to so flagrant an application of it, even though he is hard pressed by men whose cabinet expectations he has disappointed.

These posts carry no financial considerations that weigh with Sir George Gibbons and Messrs. Geoffrion and Barnhill, but the experience of the chiarman is invaluable, and it would be difficult for new men to pick up the thread of the negotiations, involving very delicate questions bearing on the mutual interests and relations of Canada and the United States. More important still would be the principle of degrading such positions to the lowest level of patronage. With all its faults the United States civil service system is on a higher plane than Canada's with respect to all but the lowest offices. The Washington Government would disdain to change the personnel of an important commission for partisan reasons, and if Canada stoops to it, an unflattering impression will be created.

A stream cannot rise above its source. The source of Mr. Borden's possession of power was the spoils—the grip and grasp of the privileged interests and, logically, the spoils principle should be applied. Both Mr. Borden and Sir James Whitney claim to have been helped to office by Liberal votes, and their expressions of gratitude and appreciation of this broad liberality of opinion looks considerably hypocritical in the glare of the broad-axe that descends with a dull thud on the heads of men whose only fault is that they stand in the place the spoilsman claims. Sir James Whitney shows his gratitude for Liberal support by keeping Liberals in their place by the peaceful paradox of putting them out of place.

There is no hope in Sir James Whitney of giving us a civil service reform measure. He is too busy, using the axe, to hatchet.

Will Have To Wear Spectacles

LONDON, NOV. 11.—"The people of two hundred years hence, unless drastic changes are made in our educational system, will all have to wear spectacles," declared Dr. G. Lindsay-Johnson, in a lecture before the Institute of Opthalmic Opticians. He added that out of the forty-three million persons in Great Britain and Ireland, at least twenty-two million require spectacles now, or will require them, or have required them at some period of their lives.

Dr. Lindsay-Johnson declared that this unfortunate state of affairs existed chiefly owing to the advance of modern education, and that it was started by William Caxton and his printing press.

"The more cultured a nation becomes," he said, "the more defects occur in the eyesight of that nation. Take, for instance, Germany, whose education is far in advance of our own.

"Germany is far worse off than we are so far as eyesight is concerned—a fact that gave rise to the regulation that in future German army officers would be allowed to wear spectacles.

"If this step had not been taken Germany would not have had sufficient officers for her army.

"The theory which I myself favor is that the constant peering at print held close to the eyes put a strain on them which terminates in shortsightedness.

"The obvious remedy is oral instruction in the earlier years of one's education. Children should be taught from a blackboard placed at a good distance from them, and the teacher should write in large, bold letters or figures.

"After the age of forty-five nearly every one suffers either from long or short sightedness and should use glasses when reading."

Worry Habit

Concentrate the Mind on Something Beyond Your Own Petty, Selfish Purposes.

Samuel McComb, LL.D., in Everybody's.

Worry, excitement, overstrained grief, emotional shock, remorse, fixed ideas of one kind or another, morbid fears—these are a few of the demons that murder sleep. Perhaps the most frequent is worry. The reason why worry has this disastrous power is that it is a disagreeable emotion, which keeps the brain cells in a state of unrest. Unfortunately, worry tends to become a habit, a pernicious tendency of the mental mechaniam, in which the sufferer ceases to be master of his thought and becomes its victim. To take one's worries to bed with one is, of course, to render sleep impossible. More than once a victim of the worry habit has said to me:

"I know right well that worry is slowly killing me; that it is all a miserable habit; but try as I may, I cannot conquer it. If only I could stop worrying, I would sleep. But how to stop! That is beyond me."

My answer is: "The forces that sustain the worrying habit are unhealthy self-analysis and breeding introspection. The mind is like a machine turned inward upon itself and tearing itself to pieces. If a nervous downfall is to be averted, the mind must be concentrated on some object or purpose that goes beyond the petty, self-centered ends of the sufferer. Nothing so dissipates the phantoms of an undisciplined imagination which cast their gigantic shadows upon life as a touch of reality, as contact with the world of fact and truth."

Moreover, it is to be noted that the worry habit is the sign, not only of the selfish, but also of the untrustful, temper. It springs out of a skeptical, unbelieving, pessimistic attitude toward things in general. The apprehensive, worried soul has no real faith in the good will of the universe. It matters not how orthodox may be the creed which he professes—one's real creeds are those which govern life. Hence the sovereign remedy for worry, and therefore for the insomnia which worry creates, is a faith grounded upon the conviction that the universe is on the side of order, peace, self-control, and is as much opposed to irritable weakness and morbid fancy as it is to vice and crime.

To the man, then, whose sleep is banished by worry, I would say, at all costs get some kind of a faith. Then enter upon a course of self-education by which gradually you compel yourself to act upon what you believe.

The G.T.R. Belleville train, due at Peterborough at 8.10 this morning, on leaving Belleville, broke its equalizer and was forced to return. Another engine was brought into service and the local arrived about 10.20.

The regular C.P.R. Toronto train was run in two sections to-day, one section at 11.35 a.m. and the other thirty-five minutes later. This was done to accommodate the large crowd going to Ottawa to attend the opening of parliament and the attendant festivities.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE HOCKEY CLUB TO-NIGHT

Hockey enthusiasts of Peterborough are reminded of to-night's annual meeting of the Peterborough Hockey Club, which will be held in the National Hotel at 8 o'clock sharp. A large attendance of all those interested is hoped for as there will be some important business taken up in addition to the election of officers for the coming season. Everyone, whether player or fan, is cordially invited to be present.

CHIEF BENDER WAS THE BEST FIELDING PITCHER

Chicago, Nov. 15.—Fielding honours among pitchers of the American League went to Chief Bender of the Philadelphia Club, according to the official averages of the 1911 season, announced by President Johnson.

The Philadelphia pitcher played in 31 games without an error, finishing with a percentage of 1,000. He accepted sixty-nine chances, while Walsh, of Chicago, accepted 186 chances, having 159 assists and 27 put-outs, the largest number of any American League pitcher. Walsh finished twelfth in the list with a percentage of .969.

Reuben Oldring of Philadelphia, is leader among the outfielders, with a percentage of .979. He played 119 games, had 225 put-outs, 13 assists and only five errors.

Tannehill, of Chicago, led the shortstops with a percentage of .951. He made only 29 errors in accepting 642 chances.

Stoval Best First Baseman.

Stoval, of Cleveland, is the real leader among first basemen, although Zeider, of Chicago, tops the list. Stoval's percentage is .986. In 118 games he made 1,072 put-outs, 87 assists and 17 errors. McConnell, of Chicago heads the list of second basemen, but Collins, of Philadelphia, probably is the real leader, as he handled 697 chances, and made only 24 errors.

Sullivan, of Chicago, tops the list of catchers, with a percentage of .986. The veteran catcher played in 80 games, made 447 put-outs and 114 assists, having only eight errors. Thomas, of Philadelphia, although sixth in the list, probably is sullivan's nearest rival. He played 103 games, had 490 put-outs, 150 assists and 17 errors.

Although Turner of Cleveland, leads the third basemen, Baker of Philadelphia, finished with a better record. Baker took part in 148 games, whereas Turner only played 92.

The world champion Philadelphia club led in team fielding with a percentage of .964, and Chicago was second with .960.

PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO O. H. A. CONSTITUTION

Following is a copy of amendments to the Constitution, etc., of the O. H. A., which have been received and which will be considered at the annual meeting of the Association at 9 a.m. on Saturday, November 18th, at the Temple Building, Toronto.

TO THE REGULATIONS
Present Clause

3. No player shall compete in an Association match who has not been a bona fide and continuous resident of the town, city or village to which his club belongs since the first of August next preceding the date of said match. A bona fide and continuous resident shall include a student who may be absent from home attending a school of learning, but such student shall elect before the date of the first Association match and shall notify he secretary of the Association whether he will play with a club where his home is situated, or with a club where the said school of learning is located.

Amendment

By J. Ross Robertson, Toronto—
After the word "match," in 5th line, insert the words, "In case of a player residing in a rural district he must play with the O. H. A. club in the nearest town to his residence."
After he word "attending," in 7th line, strike out, "a school of learning," and insert the following: "A preparatory school, a high school, a university, or an affiliated college."
Add to last line, "in case of a sailor, who has not been a continuous resident under this rule, he must play with the club of the town, city or village of which he has been a resident from the 1st of January preceding the 1st of August mentioned in this clause."

TO THE RULES OF COMPETITION
Present Clause

6. The Executive shall appoint a referee who shall act where the competing teams fail to agree, each club to pay half the expenses. The referee's fee shall be $5, and in addition an allowance at the rate of 10 cents a mile one way, for all distances. The minimum of fee and allowance is not to be less than $8, except in cases of local referees. In the final and semi-final ties the Executive reserves the right to appoint the referee.

Amendment

By I. A. Bernhardt, Preston, Ont.—
Substitute after the words "semi-final ties" "The whole Executive shall meet and appoint the referee, who must officiate at both games."

TO RULES OF GAME
Present Clause

3. The goal posts shall be firmly fixed. In the event of a goal post or net being displaced or broken, the referee shall blow his whistle and the game shall not proceed until the post or net is repaired. It shall be the duty of the referee before each match to measure the goals. A dark distinguishing line shall be drawn on the ice between he centre of each goal post.

Amendment

By W. A. Hewitt, Toronto—
Add to last line: "The home team shall be held responsible for the strict observance of this rule, and the referee shall not permit any game to be started until this rule is strictly complied with."

Present Clause

6. Two timekeepers shall be appointed, one by each captain, before the commencement of the match, whose duty it shall be to keep an accurate account of the time of each game, deducting time for stoppages in the actual play. They shall immediately report to the referee any variance in their time, and the matter shall be at once decided by him. The referee also shall appoint a timekeeper, who shall keep the time of penalized players, and shall direct them to enter the game. The timekeepers shall be under the control of the referee. A gong shall be kept for their use. A penalty imposed on any player shall not commence until said player has reported to the penalty timekeeper.

Amendment

By J. Ross Robertson, Toronto—
Add: "The duration of the penalty shall be measured in actual playing time, exclusive of stoppages."

Present Clause

8. A goal shall be scored when the puck shall have passed between the goal posts from in front and below the tops of the posts.

Amendment

By J. T. Sutherland, Kingston, Ont.—
Change "posts" in last line to "net" and add: "If the puck strikes the iron crossbar at the top of the net and bounds over the bar the referee shall not allow a goal to be counted, but if the puck, under such circumstances, bounds back in front of the net, a goal shall be allowed."

Present Clause

16. No change of players shall be made after a match has commenced. Should any player be injured during the match, break a skate, or from any accident be compelled to leave the ice, the opposite side shall immediately drop a man to equalize the teams and the match proceed without such players until such time as the player so compelled to leave the ice is ready to return. Neither player shall resume play until he has received permission from the penalty timekeeper to go on. In event of any dispute, the matter shall at once be decided by the referee.

Amendment

By I. A. Bernhardt, Preston, Ont.—
The rule to read as follows: "Should any player be injured during the first half of the match, break a skate, or from any accident be compelled to leave the ice, if the referee finds that he will not be able to resume play the team shall use a substitute. In case of such accident happening in the second half the opposing team shall drop a man to equalize. Neither player shall resume play until he has received permission from the penalty timekeeper to go on. In event of any dispute, the matter shall at once be decided by the referee."

ARE YOUR HANDS CHAPPED?
Zam-Buk Will Cure Them

The particular danger of chapped hands and cold cracks (apart altogether from the pain) is that the cold is likely to penetrate and set up inflammation, festering or blood-poison. Directly the skin is broken by a cut, grade, or scratch, or chafed and cracked by the action of the cold winds and water, the one necessary precaution is to apply Zam-Buk freely.

The pure herbal juices from which Zam-Buk is prepared are so perfectly combined and refined that the immediate effect of these Zam-Buk dressings is soothing, antiseptic and healing. Pain and inflammation are allayed, disease germs expelled from the wound or sore, and the latter is quickly healed.

Zam-Buk is not only a powerful healer and skin purifier; it is strongly antiseptic and germicidal, and so forms the ideal protection for the skin against disease germs.

It quickly heals cold cracks, chaps, chilblains, cold sores, etc.

Mrs. O. M. Phoen, Neuchatel, Alta, writes: "I must tell you how pleased I am with Zam-Buk. My husband had an old frostbite on his foot for many years, and had tried almost every known remedy without any effect, but the first application of Zam-Buk seemed to help him so much that he persevered and the sore is now cured. We would not be without Zam-Buk in the house."

Zam-Buk is also a sure cure for piles, eczema, ulcers, abscesses, scalp sores, blood-poison, bad leg, eruptions, etc. Its purely herbal composition makes it the ideal balm for babies and young children. All druggists and stores sell Zam-Buk 50c box or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Try also Zam-Buk Soap, 25c tablet.

Chateau Laurier

Work on the Chateau Laurier, Ottawa, the new $2,000,000 hotel, constructed by the Grand Trunk system is progressing very favourably.

Nearly all of the plastering of the hotel is now completed and there remains to be done only the lobby, bar and grill room ceiling. Most of the marble floors for the dining room corridor are laid, and after the plaster work of the lobby is completed, work will be started on the marble work of the floor. Heat and light have been in the building for the last two months, and when the plaster is sufficiently dried in the various public rooms, the decorators will be able to commence the interior decorations. Some of the wood work for the big rooms is in the hotel, and the erection of this is going on. The general appearance of the various rooms, is beyond expectation, and when completed will be of the richest effect, artistic in design, and wonderfully beautiful.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

HOW long, I wonder, will we go on preparing our daughters, whom we devoutly hope will be happy wives, for everything else but wifehood?

Here is a genuine human document on that branch of folly which has just come to me. Please read, all you mothers who are doing likewise. Read and reflect:

"My Dear Miss Cameron:

"I believe at one time you said you wished suggestions. May I offer one? My suggestion is to urge mothers to prepare their daughters for wifehood, by teaching them carefully the details of housework and of managing a home. Many and many a young wife knows from bitter experience what the lack of this knowledge means.

"I speak from experience myself. My mother said (as doubtless many mothers say), 'You will have a maid, even as I. Why should you bother? But, alas! my husband can not afford a maid, and it is absolutely necessary that I know how to manage a home and care for my two little children—one a baby of seven weeks. I wonder how many daughters would be willing to fill that position with their present knowledge?

"My lessons in music and painting as well as my learning gained from being sent away to school, does not materially aid me now. I have been married nearly five years. I am trying so hard to be a capable wife and mother, but the way has been, oh, so difficult, and many bitter tears have been shed.

"The first washings I did made my soft, tender hands — unused to hard work—bleed. To-day I have washed and hung out clothes, cooked meals, cared for the children and made grape jelly, as in winter one appreciates those things. I speak of what I have done merely to show that my former training does not stand me in good stead."

The girl that wrote that letter is a type. Thousands like her are marrying every year, and, as in her case, many bitter tears are shed before they have mastered the duties of their positions.

To be sure, they do master them in the long run, but as another girl, who had never been taught housework, because her mother had a maid and thought there was no need of it, expressed the situation, "Housework doesn't come natural as it would, if I had done it as a child. I do everything the longest, hardest way."

Now, of course, you realize I am not speaking against a college education, a training in music and the arts for girls. I am the last one in the world to do that. I think it is all nonsense to say that a college education unfits a girl to be a good wife and mother. I think any education makes a woman a better mother and wife, in that it makes her a happier, broader woman.

But I think the broad, cultural education for her life as a woman should go hand in hand with the specific industrial training for her life as a wife.

If you want your son to be a civil engineer you give him all the general culture you can afford, and in addition to that, a specific industrial training for civil engineering.

Now, you want—and hence expect—your daughter to be a wife, don't you? You would be disappointed if you could look into the future and see that she would never find her mate. Why, then, shouldn't you give her all the general culture you can afford, and at the same time a specific industrial training for her probable vocation?

The man who thinks has two daughters. One went to a musical school and another to college. After she had finished her outside education, each girl spent one year in running the house and learning every branch of housekeeping and homemaking. Think what splendid wives they will make.

Of course, it isn't always possible to carry out a daughter's education on such an ideal scale. But there is no doubt but that in every household each daughter could be taught the simpler things about the science as she grows up, and I fancy there are few homes where it is not financially possible for the daughter to have a year to devote to this kind of learning, after she finished whatever schooling her father can afford her — be it grammar, high school or college.

Wouldn't it be interesting if a law could be passed requiring a year of such service—just as the German lad has his term of miltary service—before a girl was allowed to marry?

I rather fancy it would affect the divorce rate somewhat.

Ruth Cameron

THE ANSWER

"A man died," says the teacher, "leaving to his eldest son one-fourth of his property, plus one-tenth that of the share received by the next son, who was to receive one-fourth of the property, plus one-twentieth of the share received by the third son, who was to receive as much as the other two received, less one-fifth of their combined inheritances. How much did each get?"

"Nothing," promptly answers the thoughtful boy in the second row. "The lawyers got it for breaking the will."

Plan For A Compensation Act That Will Actually Compensate

It seems a great pity that the Whitney Government should be allowed to hold up the Workingman's Compensaion Act.

Compensation for the workingman killed or injured at his work is a matter that has been marching ever since 1846.

Not a year has passed, the civilized world over, that some progress has not been made toward giving the workingman better insurance against the risks and perils he undertakes in the ordinary performance of his duty.

In this onward movement to the square deal the Whitney Government has established the unique record of standing still for seven years.

It has moved even more slowly than things did before 1846, up to which time the common law of England and her colonies gave the workingman no chance at all.

In 1846 Lord Campbell's Act was passed, which was the model for all subsequent legislation. Before that time the workingman's right to sue ceased with his death, but Lord Campbell's Act passed that right on to his parent, wife, child or executor.

That was the first step toward the square deal. Since that time there have been many steps, but perfection has not been reached yet.

Of course, there are obstacles. The greed of employers and the inertia of the old common law judges, unversed in the new order of things and consequently uncaring, tried to obstruct all along the line.

The question of the responsibility of superintendents, foremen and other persons to whom authority might be delegated, had to be settled and settled right. The question of contributory negligence—the negligence of the employer, the negligence of the workingman, the negligence of a fellow workingman which may have brought on the accident.

And when all these matters were on a fairly satisfactory basis the tendency had to be fought to take away cases from the jury who might be expected to favour the workingman and hand them over to judges who might not be expected to favour them or even give them the square deal.

The Ontario Workingman's Compensation Act is the cream of compensation acts as compensation acts were when the Liberals went out of power in 1904. It fixes the compensation for death at $1500, or three years' average wages, and for injuries whatever the jury may determine.

The compensation for injuries might be a little more generous. The average compensation for an eye, a hand, an arm or a leg, maimed or lost, works out at about $500 in Canada. In the United States the price runs much higher, and is more reasonably scaled.

But, where the Ontario Act really falls down is in the expense of operating it. The jury may give a workingman or his heirs an equitable sum, but by the time the lawyer's bill is paid and the case fought through one, two or three appeal courts, there remains little to the suitor except an empty victory, and an empty pocket.

To compensate fully and unreservedly, a Workingman's Compensation Act should involve no lawyer's bills, no court costs, no appeals, no pitting the poor man's cause against the rich man's purse. The common sense and kind heart of the jury gives the workingman's widow $1500, but by the time she gets through defending it against the quibbles and technicalities of the higher courts, she hasn't enough to pay her car fare home.

What the Liberal party stands for is a Compensation Act that will compensate the workingman, not the lawyers and the court officials.

A compensation act that will compensate the person injured.

A compensation act that doesn't sweat every dollar.

A compensation act that will pay on the nail.

A compensation act that means cash, and no discount.

If you want that kind of compensation act, vote for

GRAPHIC LECTURE ON CONDITIONS IN YUKON

Rev. R. M. Dickey Delighted an Audience in St. Paul's With Interesting Narrative.

SPLENDID ILLUSTRATIONS

An interesting and highly edifying lecture, entitled, "Pioneer Days in the Klondyke," was given in the St. Paul's schoolroom last evening by the Rev. R. M. Dickey.

Mr. Dickey has done yeoman service for the Presbyterian church in the Klondyke district and his message last evening was listened to attentively by a very large assembly. He is at present engaged in mission work in Toronto.

The lecture was enlivened by vocal selections by Miss Chalmers, who sung with her usual tastefulness and charm. A large number of lantern pictures were exhibited during the course of the lecture, showing the hardships experienced during the rush of 1897. While some were very pathetic, others were very humorous, but the general tone of the pictures suggested that those who ventured into such a land must have been possessed of indomitable courage and inflexibility of purpose. During the course of the lecture, the speaker said:

In 1897, when the word gold reverberated through the whole of the Yukon, Dr. Robertson, the Secretary of Home Missions, sent me to that district from Vancouver. The Yukon is not, as it was in those days when the country was wild and uninhabited; it has now every modern convenience. It chanced that at the same time a first judge was appointed to that district and the judge and I made the journey together. When we landed on the coast of that country the first thing to do was to build a church, and simultaneous with that a fearful epidemic of spinal meningitis broke out and a hospital had to be speedily erected. In 1898 this epidemic was followed by one of typhoid. We had only two doctors, and it may therefore be readily seen what strenuous work was entailed through the prevailing sickness. The work of teaching the Indians was accomplished by the aid of interpreters.

Here the lecturer told a lamentable story as to the failure and ultimate fate of a certain young prospector, as follows:

This young man left his home in Vancouver and wended his way to the Klondyke. He built a boat and proceeded down the fast flowing river in order to reach the interior. On his way down the rapids his boat struck a small but formidable rock and everything was lost. Being a courageous fellow he struggled back over the mountains and reaching his home, prevailed upon his father to mortgage the farm. His father acquiesced and the youth set off once more for the land of gold. He repeated his former procedure, but the rock was again fatal to his enterprise and the young man was found dead in the morning with a bullet wound in his head.

The lecturer then dwelt upon the process of gold sifting and explained its workings fully and ended his lecture by saying: You often read in books that the Yukon is an undesirable country, but I will say that nowhere in Canada have I met men and women more devoted to Jesus Christ than those in the Yukon.

May Robson Coming

Peterborough playgoers will be interested in learning that the celebrated comedienne, Miss May Robson, will be seen in Peterborough on Wednesday next in "The Rejuevenation of Aunt Mary."

The delightful comedy in which Miss Robson has achieved such a distinguished success in the past two years—not alone in America, but in Europe. Her engagement at Terry's Theatre, in London, for three weeks, was extended to three months, and the press are unanimous in praise of Miss Robson's acting. One of the most critical of the London Journals gives a long review of the play.

"The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary" is in three acts. The first is located in hte village home of the Aunt, the second in New York City. The theme of the play—narratively—concerns a nephew and his escapades in New York, while attending college. During his spell of repentence he appeals to his aunt to assist him out of his troubles, making plausible excuses for his back-sliding. The ultimate consequence of his strenuous endeavours ot be a hale-fellow well met, his thrashing of a cab driver for a direct or fancied, insult, and a breacit of promise suit for $25,000, by a young lady from one of the provincial cities. This caps the climax and Aunt Mary sends for her lawyer to make a new will, disowning her nephew.

Jack, her nephew, goes to New York to live with a college chum, where he meets Betty, the sister of his chum, and falls in love with her. As it is near the anniversary of her birth, the boys decide to give her a grand dinner, when a telegram is received, appraising Jack that his aunt is on her way to the city. This is a genuine surprise until someone appraises him that his aunt was told that he had the measels in order to keep her away. Aunt Mary arrives, the young men are away and she is welcomed by Betty. Presently the boys return and Jack, profuse in his welcome, states that the preparations she observes for a grand dinner, was arranged to welcome her to the city; that he has recovered from the measels and was quite well. After the dinner the boys, guided by the advice of Jack, takes Aunt Mary for an automobile ride around the city and the parks, until she is so impressed that she concludes to remain in New York anyway for two or three weeks. Aunt Mary has the time of her life, and when she returns to her Village home she finds Betty, and when that up-to-date young lady arrives she takes Aunt Mary under her wing. They try to smoke cigarettes, play poker, and be sports. Jack comes to visit his aunt and finds a remarkable change in her. No longer the country dame of no importance, but an up-to-date old girl, who is beginning to feel the call of New York. She forgives Jack for his many deceptions, consents to his marriage, and returns to New York to live. The lights of the great White Way calls and she responds. The Company under Mr. Sire's management is an exceptional one and must have taken time and observation to secure. Miss Robson will remain at the Terry Theatre for two weeks longer.—London Telegraph

On Thursday Miss Robson will appear in her new vehicle, the comedy "A Night Out."

Girls Know Your Type

If we judge from the questions in the columns of the woman's page it would seem that the life of the average girl is spent in the quest for beauty. Complexion problems, hair problems and clothes problems seem to occupy the minds of all femininity.

"Well, why not?" asks Penelope. "It is our looks which carry us through the world. Beautiful women are the only ones who count."

I wanted to tell her that there are so many other women which count, but I knew she wouldn't believe it, for Penelope is one of the girls who believes that a man values curly hair in a woman more than he values a conscience. She believes that he will adore her for her style rather than her high standards, and, of course, she is not absolutely mistaken in her point of view.

Yet I believe that women over-estimate the drawing power of looks, that is, of simply picturesque good looks. Few men care for a slovenly woman. Neatness is essential to a man's romance. Only an ardent boy will worship a goddess whose hair is untidy and whose shoes are run down at the heel.

The trouble with most of us is that we place too much emphasis on contour and complexion, and pay too little attention to personality. To be really popular one must represent a type. The all around girl rarely has ardent admirers. She is neither fish, flesh, fowl or good red herring. The aesthetic man likes her in one mood, but is repelled by another, while the athletic youngster who rows with her and skates with her is driven away and nonplussed when she talks of art and mysticism.

As I have said before, there is a beauty of personality which exceeds that of face or figure. Actresses know the value of the right surroundings. The fresh faced, plump, pretty girl should be a sunlight girl. She should cultivate out-of-door friends, knowing that she looks well on the tennis court or on the links.

The slender girl without much endurance, who grows tired and irritable when she over exercises, would better make her environment restful and poetic. The wide fireplace in winter, the porch-end in summer, books and music. These attract certain men and contribute to her particular style.

I remember that once, when a very young girl, I came in blown and blowsy from the tennis courts. It had been a hot afternoon and I felt dissatisfied with myself. I knew that I presented a moist, limp appearance, while the other girls, in white linens, had seemed as cool and serene as icicles. I had on a pink dimity, and when I arrived at home I threw myself in a big green chair beside a table on which there was a lamp with a pink shade. I looped up my unruly locks with a big pin and read in peace and quiet until a caller came. I had cooled off by that time and I talked to him contentedly. I was a little uneasy, however, as I thought of my rumpled appearance. What was my surprise, therefore, three months later, to get a letter from him in which he referred feelingly to the last talk we had had together. "I shall never forget you," he said, "as you sat under the rosy lampshade in your pink gown. There was a little curl which fell over your forehead, and now and then you pushed it back, and the wide sleeve of your gown showed your pretty arm. It was a picture that will always remain in my memory."

He gave me a hint which it would be well for all girls to take. I was a picture under the pink lampshade, and a sight on the tennis court!

In the quest for beauty it is fatal to believe that mere outline or coloring will win lasting admiration. A woman's mind, and heart, and intellect have a great deal to do with her charm of personality. The beauty seeker should cultivate sympathy, tact and the art of selecting appropriate environment.

TIT-BITS

JAPANESE DENTISTS

Japanese native dentists conduct their business in a manner which would undoubtedly cause any European practitioner to open his eyes in amazement. The victim is seated on the ground. The dentist bends over him and forces his left hand between the patient's jaws in such a manner that the mouth cannot possibly be closed. Then he grasps the doomed tooth between the thumb and forefinger of the right hand and with one deft wrench removes it and throws it upon the ground.

So great is the skill of these native dentists that many of them are able to remove six or seven teeth per minute. Indeed, their skill is hardly to be wondered at when one considers the course of preparatory training they are obliged to undergo.

A number of holes are bored in a stout plank, and this is fixed firmly to the ground. In the holes are driven wooden pegs and the would-be dentist has to extract them with his fingers without dislodging the board. This process is repeated with a board of pine wood and finally with one of oak, and it is only when he has succeeded in extracting the pegs from the oak plank that the Japanese considers himself qualified to practice upon his fellow men.—Pearson's Weekly.

PRETTY WEDDING CELEBRATED

A house weddingof unusual prettiness, and of much local interest, was celebrated yesterday afternoon at 2.30 at "River View," the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Latimer, near Fraserville. The occasion was the marriage of Miss Clarissa Mabel, youngest daughter of Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Robeson, of Inniskillen, to Mr. Harry C. McIlmoyle, of Toronto, son of Mr. Wm. McIlmoyle of Selwyn. Rev. Mr. Robeson, the bride's father, assisted by Rev. Mr. White, pastor of the Fraserville Methodist church, performed the ceremony in the presence of about thirty guests, immediate friends of the contracting parties.

The bridesmaid was Miss Florence Orchard, of Oshawa, Ont., while Mr. Ernest Porter of this city, assisted the groom. The bridal party entered the drawing room, the bride leaning on the arm of her father, who gave her away and stood under a beautiful arch of evergreen, from which a white bell was suspended.

The bride was beautifully and becomingly attired in an embroidered white Brussels net over silk gown with satin trimming, empire fashion and with hat to match. She also carried a very pretty bouquet of white chrysanthemums. The bridesmaid looked charming in a neat and pretty attire of pin ksilk, carrying a bouquet of chrysanthemums of the same hue.

The drawing room was magnificently decorated in yellow, while white and pink decorations were arranged to good effect in the dining room.

After the ceremony Miss Keitha Kidd sang an appropriate solo, after which the bridal party and guests retired to the dining room, where a sumptuous wedding repast was served.

The happy young couple were made the recipients of numerous and costly presents, among which were a handsome cheque from the groom's father and also one from his mother. The groom's gift to the bride was a magnificent set of blue fox furs, and to the bridesmaid a beautiful pearl crescent, while he presented the best man with a very pretty pearl tie pin.

Mr. and Mrs. McIlmoyle left for Peterborough in the evening, the bride attired in a beautiful travelling suit of gray tweed. They will visit friends in this city, prior to visiting the groom's parents at Selwyn. They will later visit the bride's parents, after which they will reside in Toronto.

Among the guests from outside points were the following: Mr. and Mrs. Albert McIlmoyle, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McIlmoyle and Mr. W. B. and Ella Stabler and Miss Clare Dean, all of Selwyn; Mr. Roland Stabler, Bridgenorth; Mrs. Joseph McIlmoyle, Buckhorn; Mr. Percy McIlmoyle, Selwyn; Miss Alice Orchard, Oshawa; Mrs. Wasson, Warsaw; Miss Ethel Waterman, Toronto; Miss Hattie Kidd, Peterborough; Mr. Walter Robeson, Toronto; Mr. Edgar R. Dela Haye and Mr. Ernest Porter of Peterborough, and Miss Florence Orchard, bridesmaid, of Oshawa.

Mrs. McIlmoyle, when a resident of Fraserville, was very popular, and won numerous friends, who join in wishing her and her husband the heartiest congratulations and best wishes for a happy and prosperous wedded life.

The Size Of Black Bass

(Toronto Star)

Next year, in addition to the prize rod which the Star awards for the best small-mouthed black bass caught in Ontario waters, there is promised by Mr. George H. Bird a cash prize of $10 to any person who will catch one weighing seven pounds.

It is Mr. Bird's opinion that the small-mouthed black bass does not grow to the weight of seven pounds. When the prize rod competition was started by us eleven years ago the object was to learn to how large a size this fine game fish grew. At that time our fishing editor was of the opinion that five pounds was about the extreme limit. Nearly every season the rod has been won by a fish exceeding six pounds in weight. In one case the winner weighed seven pounds. As, in a competition covering seven years but one fish was found which would have won Mr. Bird's money, he may not have to pay it out next season, yet we do not doubt that there is many a genuine small-mouthed black bass in the waters of Ontario weighing over seven pounds. But it is no easy trick to catch one of these ironclads. These, no doubt, are the fish which got away, being wise old fellows and powerful. There is no reason to doubt that the mounted bass which Capt. Bird of Port Carling exhibits, and which is reputed to have weighed 7 lbs. 2 ozs., may have weighed that much, but we are curious about its measurements. A couple of bass have been reported from the Province of Quebec within a year or two, said to have weighed seven pounds or more, while the measurements showed convincingly that it would be impossible to compress any such weight of fish within the bulk mentioned.

The trouble is that a great many bass are weighed in out-of-the-way places on scales that dare not face inspection. But we do not know what limit to put as the greatest weight that a small-mouthed black bass can reach. It is somewhere above seven pounds.

TO BE EXAMINED

An East City lady complained in the police court this morning that her brother, a man of about 45 years of age, was dangerous to be at large, being mentally deficient. She gave evidence to the effect that he had spent some time in the Mimico Asylum seven years ago, and for some time after that was much improved, but now he has gone back to his old ways again and takes epileptic fits. The Magistrate remanded him for medical examination, after which he will likely be sent back to the asylum.

A COMFORTABLE ROAD

Traveller in West Gives Unsolicited Praise to New Railway

A world-wide traveller, having just returned from a visit to Western Canada, has written to one of the chief officials of the Grand Trunk System his unsolicited opinion of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway and how it serves the travelling public. He says:

"I had the pleasure of travelling from Edmonton to Winnipeg on the new line of the Grand Trunk Pacific, and I would like to say that of the 7000 miles travelled on railways during my last journey the time I spent on the Grand Trunk Pacific was the most comfortable of my entire trip.

"The road-bed is evidently a fine piece of work, the cars clean and comfortable, the men in charge were most polite and obliging, and any question asked of them was answered in a most gentlemanly manner.

"I would like to refer specially to the dining car service and its equipment, which is the best I have seen. It was in fact a revelation to me after having travelled so far on other roads—the meals being specially good, combined with pleasant surroundings and beautifully served.

"I beg to say that if it gives you as much pleasure to read this letter as it gives me to write you, you will perhaps pardon liberty I have taken in addressing you."

This is but a specimen of the many letters that are being received by the Grand Trunk Pacific officials, praising the exceptionally fine road and service that is now being operated in Western Canada.

Trains Collide At Lindsay

(Lindsay Post)

Another railway accident occurred yesterday about 11.45 o'clock, at the King street crossing, when a construction train on the C. P. R. and a G. T. R. freight train collided with disastrous results.

It appears that a G. T. R. engine was engaged in shunting some cars of produce from the cold storage of Flavelles Limited, and which was for immediate shipment to the old country. The semaphore board at the diamond, it is claimed, was up against the C. P. R., but along came a long ballast train from Bobcaygeon with the car containing the ballast plow in the rear. It rounded the curve at the station, and crashed into the G. T. R. train at the diamond, the crew of the ballast train not noticing the danger until too late to avert the collision. One car of eggs completely turned turtle, one end of it crashing into the warehouse between Flavelle's elevator and the semaphores. The car is badly wrecked and it is believed that the produce has fared badly.

Another car of eggs, as a result of the collision, landed square across the two tracks, a little east of the semaphore, completely blocking the lines. The construction car containing the ballast plow also fared badly as the result of the accident.

OBITUARY

MRS. DE CORDIN SMITH.

After a long illness Mrs. De Cordin Smith, one of the oldest, best known and most highly esteemed residents of Peterborough passed away in Nicholls Hospital last night. The deceased was the wife of the late James Smith and daughter of the late Frederic and Mary Elizabeth Hazel Ferguson. She was born in Kingston, Ont., but came to Peterborough to reside when out a child. On her marriage she removed to Hamilton, where she resided during her married life, coming back to Peterborough on the death of her husband.

Her many estimable qualities had earned her the esteem and respect of all with whom she came in contact.

The funeral, which will be private, will take place at 10 a.m. on Friday morning to Little Lake cemetery.

MRS .JAMES DALTON.

It is with a feeling of deep regret that the Examiner is called upon to record the death of one of Galway's most respected pioneers, in the person of Mrs. James Dalton, who, until about three years ago, was a resident of Galway when, with her husband and family, she moved out to Orbindale, Alberta.

Mrs. Dalton enjoyed good health until a year ago, when she was taken ill and since then gradually became weaker, until on October the 23rd she closed her eyes to this world. Her remains were brought to her brother's, Mr. Michael Collins, of Galway, and on Tuesday, the 31st of October, were taken to the Roman Catholic church in Galway, where Rev. Father P. J. Galvin celebrated high mass.

She leaves to mourn her loss, a devoted husband and eight children. They are: Mrs. John O'Brien, of North Dakota, Mrs. B. Craig of Grand Rapids, Minnesota, William of Sault Ste. Marie and John, Robert, Bernard, Joseph and Albert, all of Alberta. She also leaves two brothers, Patrick and Michael Collins of Galway, and two sisters, Mrs. James Hamilton of Bobcaygeon and Mrs. Patrick Doherty of Saginaw, Mich. The members of the family have the sympathy of the entire community in the hour of their sad trial.

WEDDING BELLS

LASENBY—MASON.

On Wednesday evening, November 15th, by Rev. J. R. Webb, Mr. Chas. R. Lasenby and Miss Annie Florence Mason, both of Peterborough.

PLUMPTON—HOBBINS.

A quiet but pretty wedding was celebrated Wednesday morning, at 8 o'clock, at St. Peter's Cathedral, by the Rev. Father McColl, when Miss Minnie Hobbins, daughter of Mr. Denis Hobbins, became the wife of Mr. George Plumpton. The bride wore a tailored suit of navy blue ladies' cloth, and black beaver hat, with white willow plume. The bridesmaid, Miss Lottie Hobbins, sister of the bride, also wore navy blue suit and hat to match. The groom was ably supported by Mr. T. Hanrahan of Lakefield. After the ceremony was performed the party drove to the residence of the bride's father, Sherbrooke street, where a dainty wedding repast was served. The happy couple left amid showers of rice and confetti, on the 4.28 C.P.R. train for Toronto, where they will reside.

$17 Per Ton For Hay

The price of hay has taken another advance. This morning, $16 was the price asked. There were fourteen loads lined up this morning and by eleven o'clock there were only nine, the others having been disposed of at $16. Although there is, at present, little evidence of scarcity in this line of product, yet the tillers of the soil propehsy a soaring price before the winter is over, and present conditions bear testimony. In the first part of this week, several loads of hay were sold at $17 per ton. The hay was of No. 1 quality, however, but this is considered a very high price for this season of the year. This afternoon, the remaining loads of hay were sold at $15 per ton, but were somewhat of an inferior quality to that sold this morning.

The first wood of the season was brought in yesterday. Another load of tamarack was sold on the market to-day for $4.50

One Cottage Was Entered

(Lindsay Post)

Yesterday afternoon Mr. John McCrae took a party of nine to Sturgeon Point in his steam launch, the "Flo Mac." They left Lindsay about 2.30 ,returning about six o'clock in the evening.

The purpose of the trip was to ascertain if there was any truth in the report which was circulated on Saturday last to the effect that a number of the cottages at the Point had been broken into. The party tried every house and found everything was apparently as it had been left in the fall when the owners of the cottages left for the season. One of the cottages, Mr. B. J. Gough's, had been entered. A paddle was missing and a can of tomatoes had been opened. The person or persons who entered the cottage were apparently after something to appease the inner man.

Mr. McCrae stated to a Post man this morning that where the water had washed up on the shore at the Point everything was covered with ice. The long cut and the bay were covered with a thin sheet of ice. Two planks were fastened on the bow of the boat to protect it from being damaged.

Killed By A Fall

(Lindsay Warder)

Robert Wright, a highly esteemed citizen of Bobcaygeon, was instantly killed yesterday morning while putting up the storm windows at Mr. Mossom Boyd's house.

Details are few, but it appears that Mr. Wright, who was a man about 60 years of age, was up the ladder, while Mr. Geo. McGregor was on the ground. The ladder slipped on the snow, and the deceased gentleman fell about twelve feet to the hard ground, striking his back on the cement walk. Death resulted instantly.

The deceased leaves a wife, four sons and four daughters to mourn his loss. He was a carpenter by trade, and had resided in the village all his life.

BAILEYISMS

"J. P." (Hamstead seems to have been very confiding. During the last few months he has paid fees to six money-lenders and three employment agencies without obtaining anything in return. What a very unsatisfactory way of spending his money! He might think of a children's hospital.

Peterborough, Nov. 15, 1911.

Sir—The above, from "The Watch Dog" by the last mail, makes one question Saturday's display. It seemed vulgar and altogether wrong on the streets. W. A. BAILEY.

P.S.—It is undoubtedly humbug for surely children are an asset in this community. Perhaps 'Saturday Night' could give them a job. They are indeed to be pitied if dependent on any society. Put a stop to the life insurance of young children and keep them off the railway tracks and take care of them a little when grow up.

MADE STATEMENT

CHICAGO, NOV. 16.—Mrs. Louise Vermilye, who is accused of poisoning ten people because she loved to look upon dead bodies, has made her first public statement in jail here, since she tried to end her own life, by the same means. She says she is the victim of ghastly circumstances, and never tried to injure anybody.

Home Run Did The Mischief

CLEVELAND, NOV. 15.—A home run drive at League Park, May 9, may end the career of Art Griggs, former Nap utility player, who finished last season with Toledo. The force of the drive put something out of place in Griggs's spinal column. A growth at the base of the spine followed and Art will soon undergo an operation for its removal.

Griggs's general health was impaired by his mighty wallop. He was out of the game two weeks and when he returned was far below his old form, which resulted in his release to Toledo. Art starred with the Muddens several weeks, then had to quit.

Griggs's back has hurt him every minute since he made the homer, which was off Eddie Karger, the former Red Sox southpaw. He felt a stitch as he took the first step of his trip around the bases and he could hardly keep going. He hit the ball over Tris Speaker's head to the flag pole in centre field, yet a relay, Speaker to Lewis to Nunnamaker, almost headed Griggs off.

Griggs was a physical marvel and one of the most powerful men in baseball.

BONAR LAW AT LEEDS

New Unionists See Big Things in Canadian Election

KILL FREE TRADE

London, Nov. 17.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Bonar Law appeared for the first time as leader of the Opposition last night, when he addressed a tremendous audience in Leeds' Coliseum. After an expression of his views on the question of home rule, disestablishment, and reform, he made the following references to Canada and the recent election:

"That election is, as Mr. Balfour truly said, not only the most remarkable event of the year in the political history of the British Empire, but it may turn out, as I believe, it will turn out, to be a landmark in the history of the world. If we are to understand the full significance of those elections, let us consider, not what the Radical speakers and the Radical press now say, but what they said when they thought the result would be different.

"We were told that the treaty marked a great step towards free trade. If that were true, then the rejection of the treaty was not a step but a leap backward from what they call free trade. We were told the treaty was a deathblow to the cause of preference. If that were true, then the rejection of that treaty gives new life to the cause—the controlling cause of these.

"The elections were that Canadians believed, and I agree that Taft was right when he said that it was a case of now or never, that their decision then would settle finally whether Canada was to continue as an autonomous nation becoming more closely united to the Empire or whether she should gradually come under the influence of a great friendly nation lying to the south.

"It is now claimed that the election has no bearing on the cause of preference. A more ignorant or more impudent claim was never made for many years. At every Imperial Conference the Prime Ministers of every self-governing colony have urged upon us a policy of reciprocal preference in trade as in everything else of each party of the Empire, treating every other part on better terms than those which were given to the rest of the world. The Canadian elections are simply an emphatic reminder that this is still the aim of our self-governing dominions."

Will Force Public Operation.

Philadelphia, Nov. 17.—In a remarkable address, that has caused a profound impression among railroad men, Martin A. Knapp, presiding judge of the U. S. Court of Commerce, told a large audience in the Houston Club of the University of Pennsylvania that a crisis is coming which will test the policy of the Government's rate regulation system, and that if it fails, Government ownership will be the only alternative. This crisis will come within a generation, he said. He asserted also that there must be a general wage increase for all railroad men and for other workers, that the present system of railroad competition is ill-advised and that the railroads should be permitted to make uniformly profitable rates and destroy competition.

"I hear your husband took you to the baseball game yesterday. Did you enjoy it?"

POMP AT OTTAWA

Duke of Connaught Reads the Speech From the Throne

NOT A HEAVY PROGRAMME

Ottawa, Nov. 17.—With all the eclat and distinction which the presence of royalty and the inauguration of a new Government, enhanced by the brilliant sunshine of a clear winter's day could lend to the occasion, His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught yesterday afternoon met the assembled Senators and members of the House of Commons and opened his first Canadian Parliament. In the opinion of all who witnessed it, it was the most brilliant function of the kind that has ever graced the halls of the grey gothic pile on Parliament Hill.

As the carriages of the royal party drew up under the great archway, the guard of honor, consisting of 38 men of the Governor-General's Foot Guards, under command of Major G. T. B. Gilmore, came smartly to the salute, and, as the band struck up the National Anthem, every head in the great crowd was reverently bared. At the same time was heard the booming of the royal salute of 21 guns from Nepean Point, for the first time replacing the accustomed vice-regal salute of 19 guns. The 23rd Field Battery furnished the firing party.

Meanwhile the Commons had met in their own chamber and awaited the summons to proceed to the Senate, which soon came, with the three taps on the door by the Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod. Headed by the Speaker and preceded by the mace, they trooped across to the Bar of the Upper House.

His Royal Highness wore the uniform of a field marshal, and beside him on the dias sat the duchess, attired in an exquisite gown of gold tissue, with a long court train of gold and white brocade, which was borne by two little pages in costumes of white cloth breeches and red satin coats.

The duke read the speech from the throne in a strong, clear voice, easily heard in any part of the chamber, first in English, then in French, and it should be noted that he spoke the language of Gaul with all the fluency and purity of accent of the born Parisian. The speech follows:

"Honorable gentlemen of the Senate, gentlemen of the House of Commons:

"It is with much satisfaction that I meet for the first time the Parliament of Canada, and avail myself of your advice and assistance in the fulfilment of the important charge which has been entrusted to me by His Majesty the King. I can assure you that I esteem it a privilege to be called upon to administer the affairs of this prosperous and growing Dominion, and to associate myself with you in the important duties which you are about to approach.

"It affords me great pleasure to congratulate you upon the continued and increasing prosperity of the country. Our trade, both with British and with foreign countries, is rapidly expanding, and there is every prospect that its volume in the present year will be largely in excess of that attained at any time in the past.

"Although there has been some damage to the crops in certain districts, the harvest has, on the whole, been abundant, and it is believed that the returns to the husbandmen, will exceed those secured to any previous year.

"The results of the census taken during the present year will be laid before you, so far as they have been tabulated. While the increase in population has not fulfilled all the sanguine expectations that had been formed, yet it has been substantial and encouraging.

"You will be pleased to learn that the revenues for the current fiscal year have, up to the present, largely exceeded those during any similar period in the past, with every prospect that this increase will be maintained.

"The advantages that would result from a wider exchange of products between the various countries of the Empire are undoubted, in view of the wonderful variety and extent of those productions, and negotiations have been opened for improved trade arrangement with the British West Indies and British Guiana, which should prove advantageous to these colonies as well as to this Dominion.

"The importance of providing our country with better highways is manifest. A bill will be introduced for the purpose of enabling the Dominion to co-operate with the provinces in the accomplishment of this desirable object.

"It is essential to recognise that, in a country possessing so great an area of fertile land as that with which this Dominion is happily endowed, the great basic industry is agriculture. My advisers are convinced that the time has come when greater aid and encouragement should be given to those who are engaged in the cultivation of the land. To this end a measure will be introduced under which it is hoped that there may be co-operation between this Dominion and the various provinces, for the purpose of assisting and encouraging our farmers to secure the best results in production, and at the same time preserve the fertility of the soil.

"A measure will be introduced revising and consolidating the acts relating to the inspection of grain, and providing the means by which the Government can secure, through a commission, the control and operation of the terminal elevators upon the great lakes.

"A bill will be introduced to establish a permanent tariff commission, whose duties it shall be to ascertain, by investigation and enquiry, such information as will furnish a more stable and satisfactory basis for tariff legislation than has hitherto been available.

"Bills will also be laid before you with respect to the department of external affairs, the archives, and other subjects.

"The selection of the best route for the Hudson Bay Railway is engaging the attention of my advisers, and an announcement will be made to you of the result of their enquiry.

"Gentlemen of the House:

"The accounts of the last year will be laid before you. The balance of the estimates for the current fiscal year, as well as the estimates for the coming year, will be submitted for your approval at an early date.

"Hon. gentlemen of the Senate:

"Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

"I commend these subjects, which I have mentioned, to your best consideration, and I trust that your deliberations, under the blessing of Divine Providence, may tend to the welfare and good government of this Dominion."

Some interesting bits of by-play were noticed by those standing below the Bar of the House.

Hon. Adam Beck was intently following the words as they fell from the lips of His Royal Highness. As the duke announced that a bill would be introduced to enable the Dominion to co-operate with the provinces in the improvement of public highways, a some voice exclamation of "Good, good," broke from the lips of Ontario's pioneer Minister.

When the Commons had returned from the Upper Chamber, after the independence of Parliament had been vindicated by the introduction of the perennially abortive bill to amend the act respecting the administration of oaths of office, Dr. Aiguire, the member for Stormont, was introduced by Hon. George E. Foster and Hon. Dr. Reid, and took his seat.

The Premier announced that it had been decided to adjourn till Monday to meet the convenience of members. The debate on the address will usher in the week.

Lieut. White on Trial.

Halifax, N.S., Nov. 17.—Evidence in the trial by court-martial of Lieut. Charles White, navigating officer on H.M.C.S. Niobe, charged with negligently or by default stranding, or suffering to be stranded, the Niobe on the ledges off Cape Sable on July 30 last, was much the same as that given on Wednesday at the trial of Lord Alliston Graham.

About a dozen witnesses in all were examined, but little that was new was elicited. The entire day was taken up by the prosecution, but at the opening this morning the case for the defence will be presented and immediately afterwards judgment will be rendered.

Lieut. Lord Alliston Graham, with sword dangling at his side, it having been restored to him yesterday, took the witness stand at the afternoon session, and stated that the ship was steady on her course when he left the bridge. Asked if he inferred from the fact that the Cape Sable light had not been seen by 11.30 that the ship was out of her course or that fog intervened, witness replied that he inferred nothing.

He considered that the officer on watch was responsible for the navigation of the ship when the navigating officer was not on the bridge. It developed in the course of cross-examination of Lord Graham that he had gone only once to the accused and that was when the captain sent him about three minutes after twelve.

Labor Dearth on U. S. Farms.

Washington, Nov. 17.—There is a crying need for labor on the farms of the United States, offering opportunity to the immigrant and the native unemployed. This condition was emphasized by state immigration officials here yesterday at a joint conference with the federal immigration authorities, called for the purpose of finding a means for co-operation between the Government forces for the distribution of immigrants, settlers, and the unemployed to the localities where they are needed. Practically every state in the union was represented.

Russian Troops For Persia.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 17.—As no reply has been received from the Persian Government to the Russian ultimatum of Nov. 11, it is officially announced that the Government has ordered the immediate despatch of troops to Persia. They will be concentrated for the present at Kasbin, called also Kazvin, which is ninety miles northwest of Teheran.

U. S. Export Trade Booms.

Washington, Nov. 17.—There was a balance of $708,000,000 on the right side of the ledger in the Government's account during the past fiscal year of its imports and exports of farm and forest products. While it imported $608,000,000 worth of these products it exported $891,000,000 worth.

CHOOSES A CABINET

Officials Amazed at Yuan Shi Kai's Selection

BIG BATTLE COMING

Nanking, Nov. 17.—Throughout the day Gen. Chang, commander of the Imperialists, was preparing to receive the reformers' army, which he confidently asserts will meet its Waterloo before Nanking. Imperialist troops moved out of the city and were distributed to strategic points to check the advance of the revolutionaries from Chin Kiang. The defences at Pukow are formidable.

Gen. Chang sent 36 mountain guns and 2,000 men across the river and a large body moved down the main road in the direction of Chin Kiang.

Rebels Are Mobilizing.

Chin Kiang, Nov. 17.—Revolutionaries continue to come into the city in thousands. The scene is marvelous in its confusion. The troops are disorganized, but not disorderly. The forward movement of the revolutionaries has not yet begun, but large numbers have been taken aboard the gunboats and transports, which are proceeding up the river in the direction of Nanking. It is presumed that a flank movement is planned to hold Gen. Chang's troops in Nanking or to cut them off if an attempt is made to advance.

There are some evidences of discontent among the reformers, but the pervading spirit seems to be "do or die." A big battle is not expected to take place for several days, but there may be some preliminary engagements.

A Hybrid Cabinet.

Pekin, Nov. 17.—Premier Yuan Shi Kai's new Cabinet was named in an Imperial edict yesterday, but it is questionable whether it will stand. One of the members expressed amazement at his appointment. It is believed that few of the new Ministers have been consulted, and it is expected that a number of them will decline to serve.

The Cabinet comprises curious appointments. Liang Chi Chiao, appointed vice-president of the board of justice, is the great Chinese reformer who was exiled by the late Empress Dowager at Yuan Shi Kai's suggestion. Chiang Kiang, appointed president of the board of agriculture and commerce, is a member of the new Government of Kiang Su. He signed with Wu Ting Fang, the demand for the throne's abdication, which the reformers sought to have delivered to the Prince Regent through the American legation. The organization of the Cabinet, as it now stands, was evidently an attempt to include in its personnel representatives of all parties.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

Charles K. Buchanan, a well-known resident of Brantford, dropped dead on King street here yesterday while walking home.

Edward Wallis, a prosperous farmer, living about three miles west of Millbrook village, was killed yesterday by a kick from a horse.

Arthur Hawke, newly-appointed superintendent of immigration, left last night on a visit to the west. He will go through to British Columbia.

Estranged from her husband, Mrs. Mary Young, wife of Samuel Young, formerly U. S. Consul to Russia, died alone in her apartment at Niagara Falls, N.Y., Wednesday night.

Charles Melville was possibly fatally and three others slightly injured in an explosion yesterday afternoon of the melting tank of the Trinidadite Paving Co.'s plant at St. Boniface, Man.

Frank M. Gear, 56, head of the F. M. Gear Jewelry Co., Colonial Arcade, Cleveland, was shot and killed in his store last night by John Phillips, who then shot himself through the head.

Rear Admiral Taylor, U.S.N., retired, shot himself in his residence in Washington yesterday, dying within half an hour. He was 58 years old. Despondency over failing health is the cause.

Both Vienna and Constantinople report Italy has consented to postpone her naval operations in Turkish waters. This is the result, according to the despatches, of protests made by the Powers.

A Canadian-British syndicate is reported to have purchased Fanning and Washington Islands in the mid-Pacific, for the purpose of a coaling depot, in view of the opening of the Panama Canal.

Battleships Too Large.

New York, Nov. 17.—Smaller battleships and cruisers were advocated by Sir William H. White, former chief constructor of the British navy, in an address yesterday before the annual meeting of the Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers. Sir William is acknowledged to be one of the world's foremost naval architects.

"My personal conviction, based upon long continued study of the problem," he said, was that the wisest course in warship building would be found in a return to more moderate dimensions and a reduced unit cost for capital ships."

Russia Fears Famine.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 17.—Eight million persons are in need of immediate relief, owing to the failure of the crops in twenty Russian provinces. This startling announcement was made in the Douma Wednesday evening by Premier Kokovieff, in reply to interpellations concerning reports that famine threatened a wide area.

The Premier explained that the crops had failed completely in twelve provinces and partially in eight others. Of the 12,400,000 inhabitants of the affected territory 8,000,000 were in need of immediate relief.

Royal Steamer Safe.

London, Nov. 17.—The Admiralty received a wireless message yesterday morning from the steamer Medina, upon which King George and Queen Mary, with their party, are on their way to India, for the Indian Durbar. In reply to inquiries concerning a report that the steamer had stranded somewhere in the Mediterranean, officials of the Admiralty said that if any such rumor was really current it certainly was untrue.

Trio Set Two.

Atlantic City, N.J., Nov. 17.—J. C. Henderson, commissioner of industries of Hamilton, Ont., yesterday declared "annexation sentiment in Canada is absolutely nil," while addressing the American Hardware Manufacturers' Association.

"As a budding nation our loyalty is intense and our position as one of the leaders of the Empire compels us to maintain our tariff wall," he said.

"THE AVENGER"

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

"None," she answered quietly. "I am an outcast."

He glanced around him.

"You are rich!"

"On the contrary," she assured him, "I am nearly a pauper."

"How do you live, then?" he asked breathlessly.

She shrugged hr schoulders.

"Why do you ask m these questions," she said. "I cannot answer them. Whatever my life may be, I liv eit to myself."

He leaned a little towards her. His breath was coming quickly, and she, too, caught something of the srevous excitement of his manner.

"There are better things," he began.

"Not for me," she interrupted quickly. "I tlle you that I am an outcast. If you, I ask only that you go away—now—before the Baroness returns, and do your best to blot out the memory of that one visit from your life. Remember only that you did a generous action. Remember that, and no more."

"Too late," he answered, "I cannot do it."

"You are a man," she answered, "and you say that?"

"It is because I a ma man, and you are what you are, that I cannot," he answered slowly.

There was a moment's breathless silence. Inly he fancied that her face had somehow grown softer.

"You must not tal klike that," she said. "You do not know what you are saying—who or what I am. Listen! I think I hear the Baroness."

She leaned a little forward, and the madness fired his blood. Half stupefied, she yielded to his embrace, her lips rested upon his, her frightened eyes were half closed. His arms held her like a vice, he could feel her heart throbbing madly against his. How long they remained like it he never knew—who can measure the hours spent in Paradise? She flung him from her at last, taking him by surprise with a sudden burst of energy, and before he could stop her she had left the room. In her place, the Baroness was standing upon the threshold, dressed in a wonderful blue wrapper, and with a cigarette between her teeth. She burst into a little peal of laughter as she looked into his distraught face.

"For an Englishman," she remarked, "you are a little rapid in your love affairs, my dear Mr. Wrayson, is it not so? So she has left you plante la!"

"I—was mad," Wrayson muttered.

The Baroness helped herself to whisky and soda.

"Come again and make your peace, my friend," she said. "You will see no more of her to-night."

Wrayson accepted the hint and went.

CHAPTER XI.

With his nerves stung to their utmost point of tension Wrayson walked homeward with the unseeing eyes and mechanical footsteps of a man unable as yet fully to collect his scattered senses. But for him, the events of the evening were not yet over. He had no sooner turned the key in the latch of his door, and entered his sitting-room, than he became aware of the fact that he had a visitor. The air was fragrant with tobacco smoke; a man rose deliberately from the easy chair, and, throwing his cigarette into the fire, turned to greet him. Wrayson was so astonished that he could only gasp out his name.

"Heneage!" he exclaimed.

Heneage nodded—of the two, he was by far the more at ease.

"I wanted to see you, Wrayson," he said, "and I persuaded your housekeeper—with some difficuly—to let me wait for your arrival. Can you spare me a few minutes?"

"If course," Wrayson answered. "Sit down. Will you have anything?"

Heneage shook his head.

"Not just now, thanks!"

Wrayson took off his hat and coat, threw them upon the table, and lit a cigarette.

"Well," he said, "what is it?"

"I have come," Heneage said quietly, "to offer you some vrey good advice. You are run down, and you look it. You need a change. I should recommend a sea voyage, the longer the better. They say that your paper is making a lot of money. Why not a voyage round the world?"

"What the devil do you mean?" Wrayson asked.

Heneage flicked off the ash from his cigarette, and looked for a moment thoughtfully into the fire.

"Three weeks ago last Thursday, I think it was," he began reflectively, "I had supper with Austin at the Green Room Club, after the theatre. He persuaded me, rather against my will, I remember, for I was tired that night, to go home with him and make a fourth at bridge. Austin's flat, as you know, is just below here, on the Albert Road."

Wrayson stopped smoking. The cigarette burned unheeded between his fingers. His eyes were fixed upon his visitor.

"Go on," he said.

"We played five rubbers," Heneage continued, still looking into the fire—"it may have ben esix. I left somewhere in the small hours of the morning, and walked along the Albert Road on the unlit side of the street. As I passed the corner here, I saw a hansom waiting before your door, and you—with somebody else, standing on the pavement."

"Anything else?" Wrayson demanded.

"No!" Heneage answered. "I saw you, I saw the lady, and I saw the cab. It was a cold morning, and I am not naturally a curious person. I hurried on."

Wrayson picked up the cigarette, which had fallen from his fingres, and sat down. He could scarcely believe that this was not a dream—that it was indede Stephen Heneage who sat opposite to him, Heneage the impenetrable, whose calm, measured words left no indication whatever as to his motive in making this amazing revelation.

"You are naturally wondering," Heneage continued, "why, having seen what I did see, I kept silence. I followed your lead, because I fancied, in the first place, that the presence of that young lady was a personal affair of your own, and that she could have no possible connection with the tragedy itself. You were evidently disposed to shield her and yourself at the same time. I considered your attitude reasonable, if a little dangerous. No man is obliged to give himself away in matters of this sort, and I am no scandalmonger. The situation, however, has undergone a change."

Wrayson looked up quickly.

"What do you mean?" he asked.

"To-night," Heneage said calmly, "I recognized your nocturnal visitor with the Baroness de Sturm."

"And what of that?" Wrayson demanded.

Heneage, who was leaning back in his chair, looking into the fire with half-closed eyes, straightened himself and turned directly towards his companion.

"How much do you know about the Baroness de Sturm?" he asked.

"Nothing at all," Wrayson answered. "I met her for the first time to-night."

Heneage looked back into the fire.

"Ah!" he murmured. "I thought that it might be so. The young lady is perhaps an old friend?"

"I cannot discuss her," Wrayson answered. "I can only say that I will answer for her innocence as regards any complicity in the murder of Morris Barnes."

"Still," he remarked, "the man was murdered."

"I suppose so," Wrayson admitted.

"And in a most remarkable manner," Heneage continued. "You have gathered, I daresay, from your knowledge of me, that these affairs always interest me immensely. I am almost as great a crank as the Colonel. I have been thinking over the case a great deal, but I must confess that up to to-night I have not been able to see a gleam of daylight. I had dismissed the young lady from my mind. Now, however, I cannot do so."

"Simply because you saw her with the Baroness de Sturm?" Wrayson asked.

"They are living together," Heneage reminded him, "a condition which naturally makes for a certain amount of intimacy."

"Do you know anything against the Baroness?" Wrayson demanded.

"Against her?" Heneage repeated thoughtfully. "Well, that depends."

"Do you mean to insinuate that she is an adventuress?" Wrayson asked bluntly.

"Certainly not," Heneage replied. "She is a representative of one of the oldest families in Europe, a persona grata at the Court of her country, and an intimate friend of Queen Helena's. She is by no means an adventuress."

"Then why," Wrayson asked, "should you attach such significance to the fact of her friendship with Miss Deveney?"

"Because," Heneage remarked, lighting another cigarette, "I happen to know that the Baroness is at present under the strictest police surveillance!"

Wrayson started. Heneage's first statement had reassured him; his latter one was simply terrifying. He stared at his visitor in dumb alarm.

"I came to know of this in rather a curious way," Heneage continued. "My information, in fact, came direct from her own country. She is being watched with extraordinary care, in connection wih some affair of which I must confess that I know nothing. She is staying in London, a city which I happen to know she detests, without any ostensible reason. Of all parts, she has chosen Battersea as a place of residence. It is her companion whom I see leaving your flat at three o'clock on the morning of Barnes' murder. I am bound to say, Wrayson, that I find these facts interesting."

"Why have you come to me?" Wrayson asked. "What are you going to do about them?"

"I am going to set myself the task of solving the mystery of Morris Barnes' death," Heneage answered calmly. "If I succeed, I am very much afraid that, directly or indirectly, the presence of Miss Deveney in the flats that night will become known."

"And you advise me, therefore," Wrayson remarked, "to take a voyage—in plain words, to clear out?"

"Exactly," Heneage agreed.

Wrayson threw his cigarette angrily into the fire.

"What the devil business is it of yours" he demanded.

Heneage looked at him steadily.

"Wrayson," he said, "I am sorry that you should use that tone with me. I am no moralist. I admit frankly that I take this matter up because my personal tastes prompt me to. But murder, however great the provocation, is an indefensible thing."

"I am not seeking to justify it," Wrayson declared.

"I am glad to hear that," Heneage answered. "I cannot believe, either, that you would shield any one directly connected with such a crime. I am going to ask you, therefore, to tell me what Miss Deveney was doing in these flats on that particular evening."

Wrayson was silent. In the light of what he had just been told about the Baroness, he knew very well how Heneage would regard the truth. Of cousse, she was innocent, innocent of the deed itself and of all knowledge of it. But Heneage did not know her; he would be hard to convince. So Wrayson shook his head.

"I can tell you nothing," he said. "I admit frankly my sympathies are not with you. I should not say a word likely to bring even inconvenience upon Miss Deveney."

"Dare you tell me," Heneage asked calmly, "that her visit was to you? No! I thought not," he added, as Wrayson remained silent. "I believe that that young lady could solve the mystery of Morris Barnes' death, if she chose."

Then Wrayson had an idea. At any rate, the disclosure would do no harm.

"Do you know who Miss Deveney is?" he asked.

Heneage looked across at him quickly.

"Do you?"

"Yes! She is the eldest daughter of the Colonel!"

"Our Colonel?" Heneage exclaimed.

Wrayson nodded.

"Her real name is Miss Fitzmaurice," he said. "Her mother's name was Deveney."

Heneage looked incredulous.

"Are you sure about this?" he asked.

"Absolutely," Wrayson answered. "I saw her picture the day of the garden party, and I recognized her at once. There is no doubt about it whatever. She and the Baroness were schoolfellows in Brussels. There is no mystery about their friendship at all."

Heneage was thoughtful for several moments.

"This is interesting," he said at last, "but it does not, of course, affect the situation."

"You mean that you will go on just the same?" Wrayson demanded.

"Certainly! And it rests with you to say whether you will be on my side or theirs," Heneage declared. "If you are on mine, you will tell me what Miss Deveney was doing in these flats on that night of all others. If you are on theirs, you will go and warn them that I am determined to solve the mystery of Morris Barnes' death—at all costs."

"I had no idea," Wrayson remarked quietly, "that you were ambitious to shine as an amateur policeman."

"We all have our hobbies," Heneage answered. "Take the Colonel, for instance, the most harmless, the most good-natured man who ever lived. Nothing in the world fascinated him so much as th details of a tragedy like this, however gruesome they may be. I have seen him handle a murderer's knife as though he loved it. His favourite museum is the professional Chamber of Horrors in Scotland Yard. My own interests run in a slightly different direction. I like to look at an affair of this sort as a chses problem, and to set myself to solve it. I like to make a silent study of all the characters around, to search for motives, and very wonderful secrets, too."

"I saw," Wrayson said thoughtfully, "saw a man tracked down by bloodhounds. My sympathies were with the man."

Heneage nodded.

"Your view of life," he remarked, "was always a sentimental one."

"No correct view," Wrayson declared, "can ignore sentiment."

"Granted—but it must be true sentiment, not false," Heneage said. "This sentiment which interferes with justice is false sentiment."

"Justice is altogether an arbitrary, a relative phrase," Wrayson declared. "I know no more about the case of Morris Barnes than you do. I knew the man by sight and repute, and I knew the manner of his life, and it seems to me a likely thing that there is more human justice about his death than in the punishing the person who compassed it."

Obliged to Quit Business

So Dreadful Was the Suffering From Itching Piles

After Twenty Years of Pile Torture Relief and Cure Came with

Dr. Chase's Ointment

You take no risk and you make no experiment when you use Dr. Chase's Ointment for piles. Many doctors still cling to the idea that nothing but an operation will effect a cure. But operations are expensive and dangerous and often fail in their results. Some have been cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment after operations had failed.

Dr. Chase's Ointment truly has a wonderful record as a cure. Here is a case which was reported recently:

Mr. John P. Marshall, 14 Barnes road, St. John's, Nfld., writes: "For upwards of twenty years I was troubled terribly with itching piles; at times so bad that I was obliged to lay up unable to attend to business. I tried many treatments without benefit, until I accidentally read of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and found at last a cure by using this ointment. I only used one box and part of a second one when I was completely cured, and have had no return of the piles. That was eighteen months ago, and, needless to say, I attribute this cure to Dr. Chase's Invaluable Ointment."

Many sufferers from piles have tried so many scores of treatments that they cannot believe that cure is possible. In order to convince the skeptical we are always willing to send a sample box free to anyone who encloses a two cent stamp to pay postage.

Dr. Chase's Ointment, 60c. a box at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

A small number of men sympathizers took part in the suffragist parade in New York city, among them several members of the faculty of Teachers' College. One of these professors had the honour of leading the male contingent and of carrying a banner.

"Did you notice," he asked a friend afterward, "what the inscription was on that banner they gave me to carry?"

"No," replied his friend, "but you carried it as if you were afraid someone would decipher it."

"It read," chuckled the professor, "The men vote—why not we?"—Success Magazine.

"Mamma," said Johnny, "if you will let me go just this one time I won't ask for anything to eat."

"All right,' said his mother. "Get your hat.'

Johnny, perched on the edge of a big chair, became restless as savory odours came from the region of the kitchen. At last he blurted out:

"Theres lots of pie and cake in this house."

The admonishing face of his mother recalled his promise and he added:

"But what's that to me?"—Success Magazine.

A medico tells of two physicians in a certain town, the one elderly with a long record of cures, the other young with his record still to make. The older doctor, it appears, was inclined to surrendor some of his night work to the younger man.

One bitter night in winter the veteran was aroused by two farmers from a hamlet eight miles away, the wife of one of whom was seriously ill. The doctor at once referred them to his young colleague; but they refused the latter's services.

"Very well," replied the doctor, thinking to put a convincing argument before them. "In that case my fee is two guineas, payable now."

Whereupon there ensued a remonstrance on the part of the farmers; but the doctor was obdurate. Finally one of the men asked the other:

"Well, what do you think I ought to do?"

"I think you'd better pay him the two guineas," said the other. "The funeral would cost you more."—Tit-Bits.

At the end of the first six months of his pastorate Rev. Amos Johnson had learned the ways of his flock so thoroughly that he knew exactly how to deal with them. One Sunday the collection was deplorably slender. The next week Mr. Johnson made a short and telling speech at the close of his sermon.

"I don't want any man to gib more dan his share, bredren," he said, gently bending toward the congregation; "but we must all gib according as the Lawd has blessed an' favoured us and according to what we rightly hab.

"I say rightly hab, bredren," he went on, after a short pause, "because we don' want any tainted money in de box. Squire Janes told me dat he'd missed some chicken dis week. Now, if any one oh my pore benighted bredren has fallen by de way in connections wid dose chickens, let him stay his hand from de box whenit comes to him.

"Brudder Leroy, will you pass de box while I watch de signs an' see if dere's any one in de congregation dat needs me to wrastle in prayer for him?"—Youth's Companion.

A young lady of Oak Park has been spending the summer in Petoskey, Mich. Before she went there she had a most devoted admirer. Now he has transferred his affections and refuses to speak to her any more.

The trouble is that she was lonesome at Petoskey, and one day she brought a post card showing one of the public buildings up there and sent it to her beau, writing on it: "I wish you were here."

But she did not notice that it was the picture of the Emmett County Gaol.—Chicago Post.

The Transcontinental Limited was speeding through the wilds of Utah. Two scholarly looking gents near the front door of the chair car were engaged in a discussion on the subject of psychology, philosophy and kindred vices. The conversation grew so animated that the attention of other passengers was attracted. And suddenly one of the quarrelsome scientists arose and said:

"Fellow passengers, I must appeal to you to settle a dispute. My friend insists that not more than three persons out of five believe in a life after death. I claim that a much larger percentage of humanity believes in personal immortality. Will all those who believe that they have immortal souls please raise both hands?"

Every hand in the car went up.

"It is unanimous!" cried the speaker in a voice of triumph. "Now, please, keep your hands right where they are while my friend goes down the aisle and collects watches and purses. I have you covered."

And it was even so.—Boston Traveller.

FOLKS PAST FIFTY MUST USE CASCARETS

What glasses are to weak eyes, Cascarets are to weak bowels—a 10 cent box will truly amaze you.

Most old people must give to the bowels some regular help, else they suffer from constipation. The condition is perfectly natural. It is just as natural as it is for old people to walk slowly. For age is never so active as youth. The muscles are less elastic. And the bowels are muscles.

So all old people need Cascarets. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect this gentle aid to weak bowels. The bowels must be kept active. This is important at all ages, but never so much as at fifty.

Age is not a time for harsh physics. Youth may occasionally whip the bowels into activity. But a lash can't be used every day. What the bowels of the old need is a gentle and natural tonic. One that can be constantly used without harm. The only such tonic is Cascarets and they cost only 10 cents per box at any drug store. They work while you sleep.

WHY NOT A MATCHMAKER?

Much that is unpleasant is attached to the name, "Matchmaker." The woman who is on the alert for a husband for her daughter, is a subject for stale jokes and ill-considered laughter.

But why should not the mother who loves her child and wishes the best for her future, be, in a sense, a matchmaker?

If the American mother makes any mistake, it is that she exerts herself too little, rather than too much, in regard to the matrimonial affairs of her daughter.

For example, I know a sweet, retiring, clever girl, who, with the right husband, would make a perfect wife. Yet how is she to find that right husband? In her high school days she met many boys, later she was sent to a finishing school where there were practically no opportunities to make men acquaintances. She came home to find that her mother had drifted somewhat out of active social life. The result was that the girl found a convent-like atmosphere. The mother's belief that a Prince Charming would inevitably come, made her refrain from any effort which would bring about the happy consummation. If she had been pinned down to it, she would probably have admitted that she expected her daughter to marry. If she had been further questioned as to how her daughter was to meet the right man, she doubtless would have answered that Fate would attend to it. Yet Fate does not always attend to these things. Moreover the girl who meets many men has an opportunity for choice which is denied the girl who is limited to a narrow circle. My sweet and retiring little friend may, on account of her mother's lack of initiative, drift into oldmaidism. Or she may marry a man who falls far short of her ideal, who is not her equal socially and mentally, because her parents have neglected to provide her with an opportunity of meeting other men.

I believe that the mother was right who said to me, "From the time my daughter was in short clothes I began to plan for her future, and that future included her school life, her social good times and her ultimate marriage. I did not want her to be single and I did not want her to be left, as most Canadian girls are left, to pick up with any man who happened to drift her way, to depend on summer resorts for the friendships which might ripen into love. I made my friends among people whose sons I would be glad to have my daughter meet, and possibly marry. She was taught to skate and to dance, to play tennis and to ride, and these things took her into the society of healthy, happy, normal boys. When the time came for her to marry I knew the life histories of the men who surrounded her. There was no danger of some unsavory story coming unexpectedly to my ears. None of these boys could deceive me, for their lives were open books. I cannot understand the mother who is indifferent on this subject. I would rather be called a matchmaker than sacrifice my daughter's happiness."

It is strange to me that the mother who spends hours on the problems of childhood and little girlhood, who agonizes over the questions of later companionship, should fail to prepare for the time when the decision, which will affect her daughter's whole future, must be made. It is in her hands, in many cases, to offset the shyness and social timidity of her child. Her worldly knowledge, her intuition with regard to men, can be of great service to inexperienced girlhood. Then, too, she can make her home a place where young people will delight to come and, by an observant chaperonage, can avoid dangers which might otherwise wreck her daughter's happiness.

DOINGS IN THE WORLD OF FASHION

The vogue of blue this year is more pronounced than usual. The color is not only practical but extremely chic, and all the great French dressmakers have done much with it in their autumn models. As a result there is a great demand for dark blue blouses and one finds them in all degrees of dressiness and at a wide range of prices.

Veiled effects are still much to the fore, chiffon cloth and marquisette not having lost their vogue, though among the French models there are more blouses of crepe, satin, etc., than one saw last year. It would be hard to conceive of any other blouse materials giving as becoming and festive an effect while still echoing the color of a dark costume as do the sheer silken stuffs such as chiffon and marquisette, when made over white or color, and the designers are wise in harping upon the old themes, though introducing many variations. Very simple effects, whose simplicity is of a subtle deceptiveness, are seen in many of the smartest of these veiled blouses. The hemstitched hems which were a spring fad figure prominently again and are frequently the only trimming on the outer chiffon, although the foundation may be beautiful lace or of white chiffon or satin inset with handsome lace or hand embroidered. Black chiffon over cream net and Venetian lace, the chiffon trimmed in deep hems, collar, etc., of white chiffon, is an arrangement often repeated, and dark blue and white are often handled in the same way.

Big collars of exquisite lace adorn some of the models, but in selecting a blouse of this type it is well to remember that it will have to be worn under a coat and not choose anything that will be crumpled or lose its daintiness by being crowded into a coat. The kimono sleeves or elbow or three-quarter length is used as much as ever throughout the province of the blouse, but some of the most exclusive French models show long sleeves, often with frills falling over the hands, and because of this there is already a demand in the shops for long sleeved blouse models. Manufacturers are quick to note such demands and a little later the supply will doubtless appear, but just now it is hard to find good looking costume blouses with long sleeves unless one goes to exclusive houses and pays high prices.

Exquisitely dainty lingerie models now shown in the exclusive shops are of finest linen or batiste, tucked and embroidered by hand, made with long close sleeves, tucked and finished by lace bordered frills falling almost to the knuckles. There is a high close collar and some sort of jabot or frill in the front. These are French versions of the tailored lingerie blouse and at their best are indescribably chic and dainty. The side frill which is epidemic just now has run its course in Paris and already the truly chic Parisian has discarded it and taken up once more smaller rebates.

Narrow fringes appear upon some of the most attractive silk and chiffon models and dyed laces are asserting themselves once more, while whole blouses of laces in white, cream or ochre are handsomer and more expensive than ever before. Several laces are usually combined in one blouse, and in many cases all are real laces, so that the prices mount to giddy heights. Embroidered net and lace are effectively combined too in blouses of this type.

There are dressier models with guimpes and collars of white net, chiffon or lace, and there are delectable blouses with paplums or basques which are distinctly smart if cleverly designed. One of these is in King's blue crepe charmeuse trimmed in stitched bands of black broadcloth and buttons of dull gold net over black, and with a high collar of fine creamy lace over the top of which falls a narrow turndown collar of black hemstitched chiffon.

SUNKEN SHIPS MARK HIS GRAVE

There are many monuments to the "father of the British navy," Sir Francis Drake, throughout the world, but his "tomb" is in the great deep upon which he made his everlasting fame. He died January 28, 1595, in his ship, the Defiance, near the town of Nombru de Dios, West Indies, and in a leaden coffin his body was lowered into the waves some six miles from shore. As a last honor to him two of 's ships, with all the prizes that were in the fleet at the time, were sunk beside his casket. At the time of his death the great admiral was in his fiftieth year and in the prime of his physical and intellectual powers. Since his death the British navy has never been without a ship bearing his name.—Exchange

The Famous Rayo Lamp

The best part of the day is the evening, when the whole family is gathered together around the lamp.

The old days of the smoky fireplace and flickering candle are gone forever. In their place have come the convenient oil stove and the indispensable Rayo Lamp.

There are to-day, in the United States alone, more than 3,000,000 of these Rayo lamps, giving their clear, white light to more than 3,000,000 homes.

Other lamps cost more, but you cannot get a better light than the low-priced Rayo gives. It has become so popular we may almost call it "the official lamp of the American family."

GOOD RECIPES

CREAMED CODFISH

Soak over night some good salt codfish. In the morning drain and cut into small pieces. To one cup of fish add two cups cold boiled potatoes cut into cubes. Season with salt and pepper, and add cream enough to cover. Cook slowly one half hour. The cream thickens by evaporation, and the potatoes and fish are very delicate prepared this way. Serve with fresh tomatoes, dressed with oil and vinegar, in the season of tomatoes.

MOCK DUCK

Buy a flank steak. Fry two tablespoons chopped onion in one-fourth cup butter or drippings. Add one-half cup soft, stale bread crumbs, one-fourth teaspoon mixed seasonings, salt and pepper to taste. Spread over the steak, roll and tie. Brown the roll in three tablespoons of fat, and remove to a casserole or covered dish. To the fat in the pan add an equal quantity of flour, and brown, then add one cup stock or boiling water, and one cup strained tomato, season with salt and pepper, pour over the roll, cover dish and cook slowly until the meat is tender. If cooked in a casserole it may be served in the same dish. It might also be cooked in a fireless cooker.

LOBSTER COCKTAILS

One pint fresh lobster meat cut into cubes, two tablespoonfuls lemon juice, six tablespoonfuls oil, one-half teaspoonful salt, one-quarter tablespoonful paprika, and a cup of cocktail dressing. Mix the oil, lemon juice, salt, and pepper. Pour over the prepared lobster and let stand on ice for three hours. When ready to serve add the cocktail sauce and fill the glasses. Sprinkle with very finely chopped celery.

POLLY'S DELIGHT

One pint of milk, one cup of brown sugar, three tablespoonfuls of cornstarch, one teaspoonful of cinnamon. Heat sugar and milk in a double boiler, add corn-starch, and stir in the cinnamon. Pour into glass cups. When cool pour over them a syrup made of two cups of brown sugar, one cup of milk, and a piece of butter boiled four minutes. Then add a layer of whipped cream. The pudding can be served with either the syrup or the cream alone.

OLIVE AND CHEESE SANDWICHES

Mix finely chopped olives with an equal quantity of cream cheese mashed fine with a silver fork. Moisten with mayonnaise dressing and spread between thin slices of buttered entire wheat bread. Remove the crusts and cut into small sandwiches.

PICCALILLI

Chop very fine one peck green tomatoes, six green peppers, and four onions; stir all together with one cup of salt and let the mixture stand over night. In the morning, pour off what water may have accumulated and cover with vinegar, adding one cup of horseradish, one cup sugar, one teaspoon cloves, one teaspoon cinnamon and one teaspoon allspice. Cook slowly until tender, adding more salt if needed.

SCOTCH SHORTBREAD

Into one-half pound of butter rub one pound of flour; add half a cup of sugar and quarter of a teaspoonful of salt; moisten with cold water to a stiff paste. Turn on a floured board, roll out one-half inch in thickness, cut into square pieces and finish the edges with the fingers. Wet the top of each with water and dust with sugar; sprinkle over each a few caraway seeds and bake on ungreased tins in a slow oven, dredging them a second time with sugar, just before taking them from the oven.

Prizes—A silver challenge cup, value £10 10s., presented by the Right Hon. the Earl of Meath, K.P., to be held by the school, and a prize of £5 5s., given by the League of the Empire, is offered for competition to pupils attending all secondary schools throughout the Empire. The essay must not exceed 2,000 words. Age limit, over 14 or under 20 on Jan. 1st, 1912.

B. PRIMARY SCHOOLS

Subject—"Describe the objects you would see in a town or country walk in your own neighbourhood."

The essay must not exceed 1,000 words. Age limit, under 14 years of age on Jan. 1st, 1912.

"I certify that this essay is the unaided composition of the boy or girl in whose name it is sent in."

Signed.....

Teacher, parent or guardian.

Note.—This declaration is not intended to preclude a teacher from answering any reasonable requests for information, or from indicating books where such information may be found; but an essay must not be a mere reproduction of a lesson given in class.

It is not expected that the essay will be written without reference to the ordinary and authoritative sources of information on the subject; but it is expected that the information will be thoroughly assimilated and rendered in the writer's own language in the essay offered or competition.

2. All essays must first be judged in the schools, only the best one from each school being sent in for consideration. In cases where the education authorities are kindly co-operating with the League the essays should be forwarded through that department. As the usual sources of information in regard to the subject are best known in the competitor's own country, it is hoped that the authorities transmitting the essays will examine them and refrain from sending on essays which do not satisfy the condition explained under condition 1.

3. All essays must reach the central offices of the League of the Empire, Caxton Hall, Westminster, London, England, by the 1st of March, 1912.

4. Any essay exceeding the word limit or written by a child over the specified age will be disqualified.

5. Essays should be written on one side of the paper only, and the competitor's full name and address, date of birth and school should be clearly given.

6. Essays must be submitted in the candidate's own handwriting (not typewritten). Illustrations are not allowed.

The names of the winning schools will each year be engraved upon the cups, which are replicas of the Warwick vase.

AUNT SERENA'S SUPPER PARTY

A Short Story.

"What in the world are you doing?" I asked.

Aunt Serena laughed. She was standing by her mahogany dresser, putting into a shabby bag a well-filled purse, her diamond earrings, a coral pin, and two rings.

"My dear," she said solemnly, "I have always been afraid of burglars. It always seemed to me that if I should wake up some night and find a man in my room I should die. So in order to avoid it, I always put my valuables in this old black bag and set them on the hall rack with a note addressed to any chance burglar, telling him that there is nothing worth stealing in the house, and asking him to take these and go away as quickly as possible.

I stared at her in amazement. "Why, Aunt Serena," I cried, "you are practically giving your things away; you might be able to hide them so they couldn't be found."

"I have never lost anything," she said lightly, "and I have lived here alone for twenty years."

It gave me a creepy feeling to go to bed after that talk about burglars. I was a city dweller, and the still country night, the dense darkness, got on my nerves. At last I slipped into Aunt Serena's room. She was propped up among the pillows, reading; a candle stood on a little table beside her bed and cast a faint flame into the surrounding darkness. I sat on the foot of the bed and talked to her. It had been ten years since my last visit, and I wanted to hear the news.

"Are all the neighbors just the same?" I asked. "And where is the little boy who used to wade with me in the stream and play Indian in the woods?"

Aunt Serena smiled. "He came home from college yesterday," she said, "and he asked about you."

"He was a nice little boy," I remarked, reflectively.

"He is a nice young man," Aunt Serena replied. "He comes over very often and cheers me up when I am lonely."

I went to bed presently; but not to sleep. Old memories crowded upon me. I could hear the frog croaking in the pond where years ago Bruce Burns and I had floated paper boats and built our windmills. He was a nice boy, I thought, as I drifted away in dreams, and his smile was—! I sat up suddenly. I had heard the crack of a twig; it seemed to me that there was a stealthy step on the walk!

I crept out of bed and went to the window. I could see no one, but there was a click of a latch, and in another moment there came a sound from below which indicated that the intruder had entered the kitchen.

There are times when I am brave. I thought of poor Aunt Serena's black bag on the hall rack. It contained her most precious belongings, and I was not inclined to let some tramp carry off the treasures.

I slipped on my kimono and went to the head of the stairs; the burglar was in the kitchen. If I made a rush for it I could undoubtedly get the bag and gain the safety of my own room before he discovered me. With my heart beating furiously, I made the descent, grasped the bag and stood still, as a light flared up from the dining room and I caught sight of the burglar.

This was no ordinary thief, but a tall, well set up young man in a blue serge suit. His hat was off, and his hair was rumpled up in a college pompadour. He was searching in a drawer where I knew Aunt Serena kept her cherished teaspoons. Well, I had her jewels; he could take the rest. I took one stealthy step as he turned and saw me.

"Hello," he said, easily, and came toward me.

For a moment I felt as if I should die of fright, but a look of his face reassured me. This was no hardened criminal. The smile and unembarrassed manner spoke rather of one who, having been caught in an unusual act, was prepared to defend it.

I came forward into the light. I must have made rather a fantastic figure in my flowing gown, my hair tumbling about my shoulders. But I did not think of my appearance. "Aren't you ashamed of yourself?" I demanded sharply, "to enter a house where there are only two defenceless women? If you must steal teaspoons, why don't you go to some place where you won't frighten a dear old lady to death?"

He stood perfectly still looking down at me. There was something in his expression that I could not fathom. "So you thought I came to steal the teaspoons?"

I nodded. "What else could I think?" I asked, and pointed to the drawer. It stood wide open, and the spoons lay revealed in a shining row.

"It seems dreadful," I said, "that a young man of your appearance should be brought to this."

"It is," he agreed, "but I am going to ask a favor of you. I am very hungry. I will leave teaspoons and everything else if you will find something for me to eat."

His impertinence took my breath away, but a second thought told me that it would not be well to make him angry. "There is chocolate cake in the pantry," I said, "and bread in the bread box. You will find cold ham and butter in the refrigerator."

I helped him get the things and set them on the table. He ate with the manners of a gentleman, glancing at me now and then with an expression I could not understand. When he had sliced the ham he passed the dish to me.

I refused haughtily, but weakened at his offer of chocolate cake. I have always loved sweets.

As I took it, however, I felt that the time had come to tell him what I thought of him, and I did it in plain terms.

"My dear lady," he said, when I had finished, and it seemed to me that his eyes twinkled, "shall I tell you who brought me to this sad end?"

"When I was a small boy," he continued, "I was contented to play with innocent things, to dig in my garden, to fly my kite, to whittle boats out of bits of wood and to sail them on the pond. But one day there came from the city a little girl with dark eyes and hair. She was not a pretty little girl, but there was promise in her of beautiful womanhood." He glanced at me and went on. "A promise which has been I think fulfilled. After she came I found that I had known nothing of the romance of life. She spurned my simple plays and taught me new ones. The game she liked more than any other was what we called the 'Pirate game.' The little ships we sailed on the pond were pursued by a sinister craft with a flag made from black paper, and which sported a skull and crossbones. How we scuttled those ships and made the dolls which formed the small crew walk the plank! Then we grabbed the booty and sailed away with our gains to shore."

I sat up suddenly and looked at him. "Why, I used to play those games. Are you—are you Bruce Burns?"

He nodded, but before he could say another word we heard a voice from above. "Bruce, dear," it murmured, "can you find anything to eat?"

I flitted to the foot of the stairway. "Aunt Serena," I asked severely, "did you know he was coming over?"

"My dear," she asked, in astonishment, "are you down there?"

"Yes, I thought it was a burglar."

"I should have explained," she said, "that Bruce keeps up his little boy habit of coming over here to eat. I always put something where he can find it, for his mother does not believe in midnight suppers. He does so much around the place that this is the only way in which I can repay him."

"I help keep away the burglars," Bruce said, "but there was a wicked smile in his eye. "And now and then I am taken for one."

"Naturally," my voice was icy, "and now that I have discovered the name of the intruder, I will say good night."

I made my retreat in a dignified fashion, but when I was once more in bed, I thought of the charm of his smile.

It was a year later that I married Bruce Burns. For a wedding present he gave me a chest of silver. On the chest was carved a skull and crossbones. Beneath the lock was a silver plate and on it was engraved, "To a Dear Pirate and Her Burglar."

Aunt Serena gave me her diamond pin. "It will make one thing less to worry about," she protested.

But she is no longer afraid of burglars, for Bruce and I live with her, or rather she lives with us, in a house protected by electric alarms and safety devices from all intruders.

MUTATION THEORY

A full, non-technical exposition of the mutation theory was given by Professor de Vries at the University of California in the summer of 1904, and to the writer fell the pleasure of putting these lectures into book form under the title of "Species and Varieties: Their Origin by Mutation." This book came to its second edition within a few months, being styled the "most notable scientific book of the year" by a competent reviewer, a statement apparently justified by the fact that it has since been translated into Dutch, French and German.

A large number of the investigations which were begun as a result of his first visit to America, profited by his second visit in 1905, and he has had the exceptional opportunity of seeing his observations repeated under the widest variety of climatic and other environmental conditions. These confirm the significance of the facts upon which the mutation theory was founded. In addition to the sports or mutants of the evening primroses which formed such an important part of the original evidence upon the subject, similar phenomena have been observed in many other seed-plants and among the lower forms including the bacteria. The orgination of the new races or species in animals is not so easily observed, but still authenticated instances are accumulating. That new qualities suddenly appear in lines of descent is no longer a question, but it is still to be determined how large a part such action plays in the general scheme of evolutionary development.

Any discussion of Professor de Vries' work raises the question at once as to the relation of the new ideas he has formulated to the older conceptions of Darwin. One theological author has gone so far wrong as to write "The death-bed of Darwinism" by a misapprehension of the meaning of mutation. Darwin would have evolutionary progress by the selection and survival of infinitely minute divergencies through thousands or hundreds of thousands of generations, arriving finally at types widely different from the original. De Vries holds that the organism fluctuates steadily about its average or norm, from which it does not depart beyond a certain limit, but the line of descent may, at any time, include individuals possessing new qualities not shown in any degree by the parental strain. Selection decides between these forms and those previously existing, the fittest of the types surviving. Instead of supplanting the theory of natural selection, the mutation conception has the actual force of coming to its support at a time when many of its generalizations were being recognized as notably inadequate to the full interpretation of known facts. The mutation theory defines more accurately the manner in which selection may act, in addition to offering an explanation of the manner in which new capacities of the qualities may arise.—Dr. MacDougal in the Scientific American.

Jewish Colonies In Palestine

When the Holy Land was visited by the late Sir Moses Montifiore, in 1827, the Jewish population of Palestine numbered about 500—a figure then considered to be an enormous one, says the War Cry. Some eighty years later we find Palestine boasting of a Jewish population of over 50,000. Settlements have been founded wherever suitable land could be obtained, and, as a result, there are today over thirty of these settlements west of the Jordan alone. The most important and largest of these settlements or colonies is that of Zichron, which alone comprises over 2,400 acres and boasts of a population of some 1,100 souls. Zichron is a sort of miniature Palestinian Paris, for the people live somewhat luxuriously. Among the innumerable other superb plantations may be mentioned the Rischonle-Zion colony (near the port of Jaffa), the Ekron, Rehoboth, Schweish and Emel-Dachmal colonies. Although not quite so large as the Zichron colony, and unable to boast of so large a population, Rischron is nevertheless considered to be the "parent" settlement. Founded in 1882, with the assistance of a loan granted by Baron Edmond de Rothschild (which has already been paid off), there are now already planted there as many as 200,000 mulberry trees and over 500,000 vines. The colony also boasts of a hospital, library, institute and many other educational establishments.—Springfield Republican.

HOW A NURSE USED OXO IN CUBES

"OXO certainly saved the life of a little girl whom I nursed through TYPHOID. She was very self-willed, and detested milk and milk-foods. Consequently, we were greatly perplexed about proper feeding. How could we get the proper quantity of nourishment into that small child's body? The child solved the problem by demanding Oxo. "Made nice and strong, please." So Oxo it was. First in small quantities, gradually increasing with most satisfactory results, then later on I tried making it with milk, and, strange to say, the patient did not object. That was all the feeding she had, except for a little barley-water, through four weeks of a most trying and anxious illness. But at last Oxo triumphed—our "back bone," the Doctor called it.

Our little patient has returned to school now, very fat and bonny, still fond of Oxo "Made nice and strong."

OXO Cubes may be used in a dozen different ways to tempt the invalid's appetite.

For a hot, invigorating broth or a cold consomme, just drop an OXO Cube into a cup of water.

OXO Invalid's Jelly—easily made in a few minutes—has wonderful strength-building properties, besides being a delicacy of rare flavor.

Many sick people cannot take raw milk, and boiled milk is insipid. An OXO Cube, dissolved in a glass of hot milk, makes the milk readily digested and tempting to the appetite. For the sickroom, OXO Cubes are invaluable. Their convenience, great handiness and adaptibility make them indispensable.

TAXATION

The primary functions of city, provincial and federal governments are to keep the peace (which properly is to defend each person from trespass), and to make just possession of property secure (which properly is to protect each person in what he earns). Execution of these functions involves expense, for which reason public revenue is necessary. Public revenue is secured by some method of taxation. Taxes pay for government or public service.

When a warrant for arrest or a policeman's club, interferes with the free action of a neighbour, we are interested; for if the interference is unjust, we may soon be involved in a like predicament. But if the goods of a neighbour are taxed, we usually pay little heed; for most of us possess little, if any goods. As a matter of fact, however, there is more reason for interest in the tax than in the arrest, for we are much more likely to have occasion to buy these goods than we are to endure arrest. If we do buy the goods the tax is added to the price, and so, although the tax was paid by our neighbour, its burden really falls on the consumer; and that consumer is you and me and the rest of us. The tax is not so crude as the club, but it is vastly more effective; because instead of falling on a few, as do warrants for arrest, it reaches every individual. History tells us that Oromwell, holding possession of Irish ports, taxed the goods imported, and by that means made the Irish pay the cost of the army with which he invaded their country. It's a simple scheme, and unthinking people are deceived by it.

• • •

Taxation tends to diminish, in quantity and quality, the supply of the things on which it falls. For this reason the primary rule in taxation is, "Don't tax any good thing that could move away from your community, or that could come to you, or that could be made." The rule may be loosely stated as—tax bad things, don't tax good things.

If Ottawa, for instance, had power to exempt from taxation all buildings, both manufacturing and residential, and would do so, it follows that more industrial buildings and homes would be built in this city. The city would find itself quite largely excelling all other cities in the province in percentage of increase in population. To this extent Ottawa would be obeying the primary rule in taxation, and would find itself in possession of the legitimate rewards for that obedience.

Increase in population brings more buildings, more customers for merchants, more jobs for workmen, more prosperity, fewer vacant lots. Idle lands are useless, except to the land speculator. Vacant land employs no one. Vacant lots not only employ no one, but they prevent employment. They are tramp factories.

• • •

The effect of taxation has been hastily recognized in nearly all localities in Canada. So, we find that most municipalities have taxed dogs. As a consequence (under a primary rule of taxation) increase in their number is checked, and the community is saved from the nuisance of being overrun with dogs.

If, however, a tax on dogs prevents an increase in their number, will not a tax on buildings, on machinery, on furniture, on clothing, on food, have a like effect on these? A tax on dogs checks their increase by making them more costly to possess. In the same way a tax on the good things of this world checks their increase, and make the limited portion of them that must be secured, more expensive. Some cities levy a tax of two dollars on dogs and the same tax on marriage; so that a man is put to the same expense whether he takes unto himself a wife or buys a dog. Our tax laws are both nonsensical and burdensome.

When the greater part of the revenue for public administration is raised by taxes on good things, life will be hard, because such things are artificially made expensive by such taxation. As articles of ordinary consumption become thus expensive, business declines, for the simple reason that the masses of the people have not the power to buy in quantities sufficiently large to make business good.

• • •

The income of the masses of the people, received as wages, salaries, commissions, fees, etc., is their purchasing power. The total of these amounts constitutes the cost of production. If the masses were left in possession of their income, unimpaired, they would be able to buy back what they have produced, and production and consumption would go smoothly forward, uninterrupted by stagnation, depression, collapse and panic. If, however, the normal price of articles produced is increased by adding the burden of taxation, the income of the masses will be insufficient to buy back what they have produced, and goods will be unsuccessfully seeking purchasers. The misuse of the taxing power, which is presumed to be exercised that property may be secure and the peace kept, is the cause of disturbed business. Business depends on the people buying and consuming. They will buy if they can.

For instance, taxes on building material and on buildings make them cost more to erect and to hold. As a necessary consequence a higher charge must be made for their occupancy. Therefore tenants crowd, with the result that fewer buildings are erected, and fewer artisans in building trades find employment. Their purchasing power is artificially reduced. The primary rule of taxation has been violated.

The total burden, thus needlessly placed on productive processes, is more than sufficient to account for our industrial ills, and every wise community will recognise that as a change must perforce begin somewhere, it would best begin on its own affairs. This notion is emphasized by the fact, plainly evident upon slight consideration, that the town or city that first moves in the matter will profit most by the change. It is a fact that in Vancouver land increased in value when all taxes were removed from industry. Although a greater tax was laid on the value of land, that burden was more than offset by the higher value following the increased demand arising from an increase in population. Men are still seeking that location because there their efforts are not burdened by the artificial weight of taxation.

• • •

People go where industry is not taxed. There they can most easily earn a living. The value of land does not decline under an increasing population. The value of land falls at the points from which the people go—not at the points to which they go. Therefore the phrase that is not apply land value taxation, as the only way of avoiding taxes on industry, will invite population, and by so doing will profit most by the change.

This is the rational, business-like proceeding which Ottawa should strive through the Ontario legislature to bring into operation, unless this city is fearful, through her own ensconcement, of injuring her neighbouring cities, Toronto, London or Hamilton!

Is there any reason to believe that retail houses, freed from all taxation on improvements in Ottawa, could not successfully compete with taxed retail houses located in Toronto or Montreal? Could not untaxed manufacturing plants in Ottawa hold their own against taxed plants in Hamilton? And would not these untaxed concerns need the aid of thousands of new workers? This increased population would cause increased demand for land and so raise its value; and thus in the city. To provide houses, stores and furnished the revenue needed by a growfactories for this larger number of workers, building operations must be extended.

That this is no idle dream is shown by the building record of Vancouver. In 1902 that city taxed improvements equally with land. During the year building permits numbered 417, the buildings being valued at $953,667. In 1903 taxes on buildings were reduced to 60 per cent. of value, and building operations advanced, the number of permits being 589, and the value $1,456,162. During 1904 and 1905 this rate of taxation was maintained and the city grew, the number of permits in 1905 being 949, and the value $2,651,699. In 1906 one-half of the remaining tax was abolished, leaving only one-quarter of the original tax, and building operations again advanced, 1906 showing 1,605 permits, with value at $4,320,410. This rate was held during 1907, 1908 and 1909, when permits had become 2,054 in number, and $7,230,655 in value. In 1910 all taxes were removed, from buildings, and again operations responded. The first seven months shows a greater value in new buildings than the whole year of 1909. The monthly value of 1909 was $604,830.41, for 1910 it was $1,075,953.57. Every time taxes were reduced building operations showed the effect; and not in a spasmodic burst of speed, but in steady growth.

Ottawa is surrounded by a large industrial population, both employers and employees trained to take advantage of every opportunity in production or economy. Vancouver's offer was made to people living far away. If Ottawa shall say to all manufacturers: "Locate here and you will not be taxed,' her future growth will be more certain than is now her future existence. Meanwhile, do not overlook the fact that without any growth, the majority of the voting taxpayers of Ottawa will save money by reducing and ultimately abolishing taxes on improvements. In "improvements" are included the income and business tax which is levied under the existing assessment law.

Theprecent system is not only unfair, but it checks the growth of the city as a whole. No one is so well conditioned as he would be if tax burdens were removed. If the present system were good for the whole, even though unfair to individuals, it might be patiently borne—but, instead, under it, society is becoming degenerate.

All towns and cities are continually advertising the advantages of their particular municipalities, in hopes of attracting industries, which, of course, means the coming of more capital and the employment of more labour. Much effort and money is expended in this way, but in recent years, what city has secured the amount of advertising that has been donated to Vancouver? To secure this widespread attention that city spent no money. It merely used a bit of plain common sense, by obeying the primary rule in taxation. Obedience to that rule, however, is so unusual and so unexpected that it gave Vancouver an advertisement not to be had by any other course. She stopped taking good things, and as a result, although not favoured with the climate of Southern California, bids fair to outstrip all of her Pacific Coast rivals.

What is the sense of taxing one man ten dollars because he is intoxicated, and taxing another man ten dollars—not once, but every year—because he builds a barn? It looks like the Irishman's rule in the free fight—"Whenever you see a head, hit it."

In Ontario public revenue for municipal purposes is raised under the provisions of the Ontario Assessment act. By this act municipalities must tax land values, improvements, incomes and businesses at the same rate. The former of these sources of revenue, land values, is created by the community, while the other three are the result of individual industry. This is a fundamental difference and should be, but is not recognized in raising civic revenue under the present assessment act. At the last two sessions of the legislature Mr. A. E. Fripp introduced a bill to revise the act in order to enable municipalities to levy a lower rate of taxation on individual values (improvements, incomes and businesses), than on community values (land values). Although this bill was editorially endorsed by every important daily paper in the province (excepting the Toronto News, which is controlled by members of the Whitney cabinet) and was petitioned for by over three hundred municipalities, Sir James Whitney would have none of it. Because it was unjust or unwise? No. Because it was supposed to be the "thin edge of the wedge of Henry Georgism!" Henry George's sane theory of taxation, as a growing number of thinking people know, shows that land values are created by the community; that these values properly belong to the community, and that their annual rental value should be taken by the community for federal, provincial and municipal expenditures. In view of the fact, therefore, that the Ontario Assessment act recognizes the principle of taxing land values, "the thin edge of the wedge of Henry Georgism" has already appeared. As the justice of this theory of taxation whereby an increasing proportion of the tax burden is shifted on to land values becomes more widely revealed, the opposition to the Fripp bill will be overcome, and Ottawa will be permitted to tax land values at a higher rate than improvement, business and income values.

A summer house of concrete has been built in a garden in one of the suburbs of Havana in imitation of a log and straw hut, and it is said that the illusion remains even after a close examination. To make the illusion more complete, in parts of the fictitious timber trunks the artist has imitated the work of the teredo worms, and some of the pillars appear to be bored by them.

RECORDS OF LOCAL COW TESTING ASSOCIATION

The records for September show that while a large number of herds have fallen off in production, owing to the shortness of the pasture and the lack of supplementary foods, that a few herds have done remarkably well, and doubtless have been fed extra, their owners realizing, from past experience that it is easier and more profitable to keep a cow milking good than it is to raise the quantity after the cow has been allowed to fall below what she should be giving. The highest herd average for the month was 1,179 lbs. of milk, and 46.7 lbs. of fat, which was produced by the herd of Mr. F. J. Greenbank of Norwood.

The lowest herd average was 480 lbs. milk and 16 lbs. of fat.

Valuing the fat at 28 cents per lb., the 10 cows in this herd brought in for their owner, $69.16 less than the 10 cows in Mr. Greenbank's herd, or looking at it in another way, it would be necessary to keep and feed 25 cows similar to those in the poor herd as well as hire additional help to milk in order to secure as much money as brought in by the best herd of 10 cows. At the present price of labour can the farmers of Peterborough afford to keep up buildings, machinery and support a herd of 25 cows of the class found in this Peterborough County herd?

The best cow produced 1,480 lbs. of milk and 51.8 lbs. of fat. The poorest cow produced 360 lbs. of milk, and 10 lbs. fat. Valuing the fat at 28 cts. per lb., the best cow brought in for her owner, $11.70 more than the poorest cow, or it would take 5 cows of the latter class to produce as much fat as the best cow.

The Norwood Association, which includes among its members, F. J. Greenbank, Louis Brown, H. A. Thistlewaite and Andrew Marks, has not only the highest average yield in the Peterborough Dairy Record Centre, but is also one of the highest in the Province.

Leaving Norwood out of consideration we find some excellent herd averages around Peterborough. The herd of Mr. J. O. Ball of the Peterborough Association, averaged 29.8 lbs. of fat. The herd of Mr. Andrew Evans of Shearer, 28.2 lbs. The herd of Mr. W. J. Telford, of Ennismore, 29 lbs., which was equalled by the herd of Mr. J. R. Mann of Trewern.

The herd of J. K. Moore & Son, of Central Smith, consisting of 24 cows, is doubtless the best herd of its size in the district, a herd which its owners have good reason to feel proud of.

The herd of Mr. T. T. Milburn, of Trewern, contains the largest number of high-testing cows, 9 out of the 11 testing 4 per cent., or over.

Local Milkmen Testing Their Cows.

The improvement of the dairy herd is a problem which is receiving a great deal of attention at the present time, and there is probably more room for improvement in this line of farming than in most of the branches. When proceeded with in a systematic manner, the increase of milk and fat from year to year is very encouraging to say nothing of the extra returns.

In connection with the cowtesting movement it is interesting to note that two of the local milkmen, Mr. E. Butler and Mr. Wm. Dummitt, are testing their cows, and these men are to be congratulated on their efforts to improve their herds, and place before their customers a still better quality of milk.

AUTO EXPERT IN PERIL

The great automobile industry which is the marvel of the twentieth century has been developed at a terrific cost of human energy.

The well-known automobile engineer of New York City, C. M. Archer, had a very trying experience which he relates in a letter as follows: "As a result of overwork in my profession my health became broken down a year ago. This grew worse and I became very weak and nervous. Then I began to take Vinol and now I am strong and well again.

"Vinol has certainly worked a miracle in my case. It is the greatest body builder I have ever seen and nothing equals it. You may publish this for the benefit of every man and woman who wants to know the way back to health and strength."

There are many overworked men and women in this town who ought to take Vinol right now and recover their health and strength while they can. Do not delay another day. We guarantee Vinol to do you good and give back your money if it does not. SEEN AND HEARD

SELF-DIAGNOSIS

Howard Reuben Henderson, the quinine grower of South America, said in a recent visit to Boston: "Animal research, or vivisection, is gradually doing away with the quinine trade. Animal research has demonstrated that malaria is due to mosquito bites. People in malarial districts are draining their swamps and exterminating their mosquitoes. Thus malaria is diminishing, and by the same token the consumption of quinine the great malaria remedy, is diminishing likewise. This is bad for my quinine groves, but it is good, very good for humanity. Quinine, you know, is so bitter.

"Did you ever hear the story of Calhoun Clay?" he said. "Well, Calhoun Clay, a young coloured man, was asleep in a train one hot June afternoon, when a neighbour leaned over and dropped on his tongue some few grains of powdered quinine. Calhoun gulped. He sat erect and looked about him with solemn, frightened eyes.

"'Send fo' a doctoh,' he said.

"'What do you want a doctor for?' the man beside him asked.

"'Send fo' a doctoh,' Calhoun repeated. 'Dis am serious.'

"Calhoun's neighbours smiled and winked at one another, and a man said, 'Do you kow just what's the matter with you, young fellow, that you so insist on having a doctor?'

"'Co'se Ah know what's de mattah wif me,' said Calhoun. 'Mah Gall's busted.'"—New York Press.

HARD ON HUSBANDS

"I for one am in favour of the bill to abolish the use of aigrettes and paradise plumes is a dreadful thing your this bill not only for moral reasons but for financial ones as well."

The speaker was Colonel Lionel C. Harris, ornithologist of Memphis. He resumed:

"The cost of these aigrettes and paradist plumes in ladies hats. I fafor any husband to contemplate. I saw yesterday a Virot hat covered with aigrettes that was ticketed $200. And that reminds me——

"A lady novelist wrote to a publisher last month:

"'Please send a check in advance of royalties. I want to buy a new hat for a wedding.'

"The accommodating publisher sent ady a check for $50. She acedged it indignantly.

"'I said,' she wrote, 'that I wanted a hat, not a veil.'"—Washington Star.

THE PROPHET

Dr. Harvey Wileey, head of the Bureau of Chemistry at Washington, who has won much militant fame in the pure food embroglios, is an ardent and old-school Republican. Also he is a bosom friend of Willis Moore, Chief of Weather Bureau. Last November they sat side by side in the Cosmos Club listening to the election returns that told of a Democratic landslide. The news at first ran bad for the doctor, then it changed and ran worse. But through it all he sat perfectly impassive and imperturbable.

At length there came in with the midnight a peculiarly disheartening despatch from a one-time powerful Republican stronghold.

As the worthy doctor arose in disgust he turned to his companion and witheringly said, "Willis, I wish you had predicted this!"—New York Times.

WELL APPLIED

William Dean Howells, the novelist, was talking at the Authors' Club in New York about a charge of plagiarism that had been brought against Mark Twain.

"A big man like Twain stealing from a little man like Blank!" said Mr. Howells. "This surely is a case for applying the old Hindoo proverb: "'The ass heard the lion roar, and cried, "The plagiarist!"'"—Washington Star.

ONLY SYMPATHY

This is a story of the Harvard "Gold Coast." Some students who had either a real or imaginary grievance against a taxicab chauffeur boarded his cab and rode all evening and part of the morning, winding up in front of the halls. They excused themselves to raise money enough to pay the bill and never came back. The next day the taxicab company was called up and the manager asked: "Did you have some Harvard students use a cab all night?"

"Yes."

"Did they evade the bill?"

"Yes."

"Did the chauffeur wait for four hours for them to come out and pay him?"

"Yes."

"And you were never paid?"

"No."

"Well," concluded the voice, "isn't that too —— bad?" and the receiver was hung up.—Boston Record.

TOM'S REFORM

Upton Sinclair, at a vegetarian banquet at Battle Creek, said of a social reform he disliked:

"That social reform is as foolish and ridiculous as the reform attempted by Tom Haines.

"Tom Haines was playing checkers in the general store with a man who kept looking at the clock.

"What do you keep looking at the clock for?' said Tom.

"'Because,' said the man, 'I see by the Sunday paper that every time that clock ticks old John D. is $10 richer.'

"Tom Haines rose hastily.

"'What are you going to do?' said the man.

"'Stop the clock,' said Tom.—New York World.

WOMAN'S VIEW

Colonel Falsom was reading the afternoon paper, when he exclaimed:

"What a terrible misfortune!"

"What is it—somebody got married?" his wife asked.

"No, but a married woman in a fit of rage threw a cup at her husband. The cup was shivered into fragments, and, one of them cutting his jugular vein, he died on the spot. The reporter says the grief of the unfortunate woman was dreadful to witness. She was frantic with remorse and made several attempts to end her life."

"Poor creature!" said Mrs. Falsom, with a sigh. "The broken cup must have belonged to her new china set."—Tit-Bits.

A HARD WORLD

Colonel Edward H. R. Green, being commiserated with by a New York reporter on the 200 offers of marriage that had been poured in on him, said:

"My boy, it is awful. It is as bad as being poor—and poverty's disadvantages were brought home to me only this morning by a conversation I overheard in the subway.

"'This is a hard world,' said a shabby chap. 'A man can't get a job unless he's got a new suit.'

"'No,' said his companion, 'and he can't get a new suit unless he's got a job.'"—New York Tribune.

Among the most remarkable trees of the world is the argan, which abounds in southern Morocco, but is seldom seen elsewhere. A "forest" of argans has a curious scattered appearance, because the trees grow singly and far apart. They are very leafy, but seldom exceed 25 feet in height. The branches put out horizontally and begin a yard above the ground. Sheep, cattle and camels feed on the leaves, and goats will stand on their hind legs to reach them, but horses and mules refuse to touch them.—Indianapolis News.

CARE OF THE HANDS

Beautiful hands are almost as important to the beauty seeker as is a good complexion. To be beautiful the hands must be smooth and white and plump.

Massage is as good for the hands as it is for the face. Use a good skin food for this purpose, rubbing it into the hands as if you were washing them with water. Then stroke the hands with the same motion you use in putting on a new pair of kid gloves.

Here is an excellent lotion for daily use in whitening the hands:

Four ounces of rose water, one-half ounce of pulverized borax, one-half ounce of glycerine and one-half dram of tincture of benzoin.

The hands should be washed and carefully dried, and a few drops of the lotion rubbed in.

With the coming of cold weather, chapped hands are likely to be a source of misery. The best remedy is prevention. Don't wash the hands immediately before going out of doors. Don't put the hands in cool water afterwards. Always dry the hands thoroughly. Don't wear woolen gloves if you can help it.

Well-kept nails are absolutely essential for a beautiful hand. Home manicuring is simple and easy. The necessary utensils are a nail brush, a pair of small, curved scissors, a flexible nail file, an orange wood stick and a nail buffer.

First wash the hands in warm water and soap, using the nail brush freely. Then with the orange wood stick press back the cuticle around the base of the nail.

Clip the nails to the length desired, and file them until they are the same shape as the ends of the fingers. Long, pointed nails are not desirable. Rub into the nail a little ruby coloured nail paste, and then polish with white nail enamel, rubbing the nails of one hand in the palm of the other.

Now wash the hands again, and put on a final polish with the clean buffer. This will make the nails just "shiny" enough without giving them the high polish which is now considered bad taste.—Woman's World for November.

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills

Sedentary Habits Develop Constipation

Man was intended to live an active, outdoor life, and his digestive system was modelled accordingly. Indoor work with hands or head, long hours sitting or standing still, especially in air that's none too good, slow down the healthy activities of stomach, liver, kidneys and the millions of tiny skin glands.

Constipation, headaches, indigestion, biliousness, rheumatism and similar troubles follow.

Then the worth of that good old reliable family medicine, Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills, is appreciated. Though it has been in use for over half a century, modern science has not been able to devise a safer or better cleanser for the whole system.

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills are largely vegetable in composition, free from any harmful drug, and mild yet most effective in their action. They are "Mother's standby" in hundreds of homes because they nip in the bud so many of the common ailments.

WAS A SUCCESS

A successful sale of work and enjoyable concert was held under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of Knox church yesterday afternoon and evening. The sale of work was carried on during the afternoon and a considerable amount of material was disposed of. In the evening the following programme was greatly enjoyed by those present, if the heartiness of the applause can be accepted as a criterion.

Selection—Sunday school orchestra.
Solo—Mr. Robert Dickson.
Piano Duet—Misses Childs.

Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the programme and a pleasant social hour spent.

It is likely that the Ladies' Aid will hold another sale of work to dispose of the material left over from yesterday.

Didn't Want to Impose.

An Irishman was walking along a dusty road with a bag on his back when he was overtaken by a cart the driver of which offered him a lift. "Thanks," said the Irishman. He got in, but did not take the bag off his back. "Won't you put down your bag, sir?" asked the driver. "Well," said the Irishman, "I don't like to impose on your good nature. You are giving me a ride, but I will carry the bag."

Controversy Over Bryce.

London, Nov. 17.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Correspondence is appearing in The Times between Prof. Dicey and F. E. Smith, the former rebuking the latter for what is described as a personal attack on Ambassador Bryce. Smith yesterday reiterated that Mr. Bryce is wholly unsuited, owing to his economic prejudices, to represent Britain in the fiscal negotiations. It is evident, he says, that Mr. Bryce, as a free trade welcomed reciprocity as the gentle rain from heaven.

Sir James Whitney Repeats Himself In Hagersville.

Hagersville, Ont., Nov. 17.—Sir James Whitney was given a cordial welcome here last night. His address was largely a repetition of the Cobourg speech.

Headed by the Caledonia Band and a torch light procession, Sir James Whitney was driven in a motor car from the station to the rink. The crowds that clamored inside to see and hear the Premier, taxed the capacity of the structure.

Sir James Whitney, after expressing appreciation of the warmth of his greeting by the people of Haldimand, and the townspeople of Hagersville, complimented the people of this section of the province in having such worthy candidates in the field for the Legislature.

The reason the people of Ontario elected 86 out of 106 candidates in the last election, said Sir James, was because the Government had been doing things.

"When the present Government came into power; none of us had any experience as Cabinet Ministers, although I had twice been offered a Cabinet position by my opponents."

The manner in which the liquor license was enforced by the old Government was a burning shame, he said, and a disgrace. It was never enforced until the present Government came into power. If we have never done anything else in the world, we deserve a renewal of your confidence, he said.

"It's a pretty good record we have had. Any one of the recent progressive policies that the present Government has brought into force is worth the entire manifesto of the gentleman who made his debut as Liberal leader a few days ago."

"There is no such thing as bilingual schools in the Province of Ontario," declared Sir James. "The English language must be the language of instruction.

"The only instance where a deviation of this occurred is in some of the country schools north of Sudbury, when the little French-Canadian children don't understand English. For a few months the teachers are allowed to convey the teaching in the French language until the children are old enough to understand English. That's all there is to it, and it's all there will be to it."

"There is no doubt whatever of the propriety of creating a new department in the Government, in charge of the Hydro-electric system, with a Cabinet Minister at its head. However, we are submitting this question to the people just to see what opinion the people have of it.

"Mr. Rowell deals with New Ontario just as if it was a 'terra incognita,' and totally regardless of the fact that the Government has been spending hundreds of thousands of dollars on colonization roads."

GRIRO NOT GUILTY.

Justice Riddell Delivers Lecture to Tarro's Slayer.

Toronto, Nov. 17.—When the jury in the case of Frank Griro, charged with the murder of Frank Tarro, brought in a verdict of not guilty, approval of their action was visible in the faces of most of those present. Many of his compatriots have been in constant attendance at the trial, and after leaving the court room, Griro was surrounded by a number of friends who congratulated him.

Justice Riddle, in discharging the prisoner, said:

"The jury have found you 'not guilty' and I do not quarrel with their verdict. If they believed your story they could have come to no other conclusion.

"There is one thing I want to say to you, however. If you intend to remain a citizen of Canada, you must learn not to carry dangerous weapons. That practice has caused more fatalities among your countrymen than any other thing.

"I charge you, if ever again anyone demands money from you by threats you should go direct to the police. If your life is in real danger they will not give your name away—they are not so foolish. Tell all your people this also.

"There are only two people who know whether your story is true or not—yours If and that God to whom you must some day give an account.

"Go now, and behave yourself in future like a good Canadian."

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

"WE are going to have a whist party at our house to-night," announced the bright little girl.

"Isn't that nice," said I. "And I suppose you'll sit up to see the company?"

"Oh, my yes," said the bright little girl. "And I'm going to play, too. That is if someone doesn't come and there is an extra place. You know," with an elaborately confidential air, "I really play better than mother does, but some people are queer about not liking to play whist with children, no matter how smart they are, father says, so I'm only going to fill in."

The bright little girl is going on twelve.

She is a remarkably bright little girl if it were not that she so frequently mirrors the fulsome flattery of her adoring parents in ways like the above.

Of course my first feeling was one of dislike and antagonism towards this priggish little peacock.

But my sober second thought was pity for her.

Poor little girl. She was only mirroring the bombastic opinion of herself which her parents continually held before her. It is the most natural thing in the world that she should. She can hardly help it any more than a mirror can help giving back the image of what is held before it.

But just think of all the dislike and ridicule and antagonism she is going to bring down on herself.

Truly, I think such parents are almost as guilty of cruelty to children and as fit subjects for the society with the long name as the parents who beat their little ones.

For I don't think that actual beating could cause much more suffering than the attitude into which her parents have gotten her is going to cause this bright little girl.

It is so easy to let a bright child see that you consider it a very marvelous creature with whom the rest of the world is scarcely fit to associate.

It is so hard to keep your pride in its wonderful wit and precocity and beauty to yourself.

But if whenever parents are tempted to be careless in this regard they would stop and think of the inevitable unhappiness they are preparing for their children it doesn't seem to me they would take "the easiest way."

Wit and precocity and beauty are all nothing unless they bring what most of us want more than anything else on earth—love and popularity.

And if you neutralize them with a bombastic self conceit they will not bring those precious boons.

Just think of that the next time you want to tell your bright little girl that she plays whist better than her mother and that grownup folks are queer not to want to play with her or whatever the particular dose of flattery you are inclined to administer happens to be.

Don't Fail to Hear Mr. Justice Riddell at the Canadian Club Banquet To-night

THREE YEARS AND FIVE LAW COURTS POOR SUBSTITUTE FOR READY CASH

Mr. R. R. Hall's Meeting at May's School House Decides That It Has No Use For a Torpid Compensation Act---The Candidate's Good Record Gratefully Reviewed

Chairman Stevens gave the keynote of the meeting in May's school house last night, when he drew a circular of the Independent Labour Party of Hamilton from his pocket, which said, "Premier Whitney says Allan Studholme must be defeated; we say, in the interests of the wage earners of Ontario Allan Studholme must be elected."

"Which remins me," said Chairman Stevens, after reading the document, "that Mr. R. R. Hall is another man that must be elected, for he, too, is on the workingmen's side. We want somebody tolook after our rights up there in Queen's Park. You can see how much Sir James Whitney thinks of our rights when he says to the Conservatives of Hamilton, Allan Studholme must be defeated at all costs. Allan Studholme has been a thorn in Sir James' autocratic side. He has done much, and has tried to do more, for the labouring man. Therefore, Sir James Whitney says he must go. Well, we'll have to see about that. Meanwhile ,we can do our part right here in West Peterborough by electing Mr. Hall, who has our interests at heart, and has made them the chief plank in his platform."

What Mr. Hall's Reasons Are.

After Chairman Stevens' remarks, the drift of the meeting set unmistakably toward Workingman's Compensation Act, the Factory Inspection Act and the correlated topics. Other subjects were discussed but the talk always came back to the raw deal the workingman is getting from the Whitney government.

"The Review has asked me," said Candidate Hall, "why I bother to go into provincial elections after having had four years in the big show at Ottawa. The answer is simple enough. I go into provincial politics because it is in provincial politics that the workingman has the most wrongs to be redressed. I go into provincial politics to stir up a dead-and-alive government that will not do justice by the common people and does not play fair with the workingman. For the last seven years unfortunate men have been coming to my office who have met with accidents in factories. They have lost fingers, eyes, limbs, through no fault or carelessness of their own. Many of them had no proper legal recourse and had to be advised that they had no legal claim for compensation for their tragic injuries.

"If their plight was sad," continued Mr. Hall, "what was that of the widows and orphaned children of the men who had lost their lives and who found themselves, their bread winner gone, up against a cold world and the delays and obstacles an antiquated law put between them and their rights. It was enough to make any heart bleed. I needed no stronger reason to go into provincial politics than that. I hope I am public-spirited enough, I hope I am man enough, to sacrifice time and money in a cause like that."

Sir James' Thick Silence.

"What does Mr. Peck, my opponent, say about the Workingman's Compensation Act? Oh, he says, it is under consideration—a regular procrastinating, platitudinous Sir James Whitney phrase. Yes, it's under consideration all right. It's been under consideration over seven years, to my knowledge, and nothing doing, and nothing intended to be done. Mr. Peck admitted that the law is defective. He refers to legal quibbles. He has no monopoly in that. I can show him forty quibbles in the Act by which the workingman can be beaten out of his just dues. But what is Mr. Peck going to do about it. He suggests no remedies. He makes no promises. Is the Whitney Act going to be better or worse than the present? How are they going to amend it? No answer. They won't say.

"What kind of maddening silence is that?" exclaimed Mr. Hall with heat. "I make this one of the chief planks of my platform. I stand or fall by it. I say in my address to the electors, 'The Workman's Compensation Act should be radically remodelled, embodying the best features of the English and German acts and extended so that full and ample damages may be given to a workman or his family on account of any injury he may sustain in the course of his employment and without a law suit.' What words can be plainer? What declaration of principle can be more explicit?

Where the Factory Act Falls Down.

Mr. Hall next took up the Factories Act which, as he explained, dovetailed into the Workman's Compensation Act and had to be of a piece with it in order to make a complete and efficient system of workingman's rights.

"The Factories Act is a good act as it stands," said Mr. Hall, "but the evil is in its non-enforcement. What's the use of having good law and not putting it into effect? It's as foolish as if a man should get a set of false teeth for a mantel ornament."

"It is good business as well as good law that our factories should be properly ventilated, sanitated, heated, because a healthy man does better work than a sick one. It's surprising what a $10 electric fan to carry off foul gases, say in a moulding room, will do for the vigour and morale of the workers."

"I only wish," said Mr. Hall, "that employers were as careful about guarding dangerous machinery and saving human limbs, as they are about guarding their factories from fire. In the Peterborough factories you will see automatic sprinklers that get busy at 136 degrees of heat, storage tanks, 60 pound of steam kept up chemical fire extinguishers, fireproof walls, automatic doors, slow burning floors—a costly and elaborate equipment. Why? Because these things reduce the factory owners' insurance from $2.50 per thousand to 15 and 12 cents a thousand."

"What I want," said Mr. Hall, "is to get the employer thinking as much about the lives and limbs of his employees as he does of his buildings and plant. I want to make it to his own interest to sit up late nights and wake up mornings early to think of ways and means of saving money by being thrifty and careful of the human life in his employ. He ought to be saying, as he goes through his factory. "There's a shaft that might catch something. I'll have that fixed. That belt looks dangerous. We'll have to see to that. Who left that trap door unguarded?" and so on.

"And the only way," said Mr. Hall, "that we'll ever get the employer in that frame of mind is by having a Workman's Compensation Act that means business and a factory inspection that really inspects.

"And when we get him that far," continued Mr. Hall, "it will be borne in on him that it doesn't pay to work people too long hours and give them brain fag and tire their bodies and invite accidents that way. And they won't employ green hands on trained hand jobs and there won't be accidents such as I ran across only the other day when a green hand took chances and lost three fingers of a fellow workman under a steam hammer.

"What I want," concluded Mr. Hall, "is that the workingman's life shall be as safe-guarded, humanly speaking,as his employer's. What man, for millions of money, for untold wealth, is willing to part with an eye or limb? He would rather go through the world a whole man."

Turning the Deaf Ear.

"What is the attitude of this Whitney government to union labour?" asked Mr. Gordon. "I observe that the Ontario government goes on employing non-union labour on its government buildings in Queen's Park, in spite of the protest of the Toronto Trades and Labour Council. I also observe that the charges against J. P. Murray of bringing alien labour to work in his carpet factory at Toronto have been ordered withdrawn by the government. Mr. Murray is a good Conservative, and what's more to a government tender to corporations, a manufacturer. I could say more, but I think these two instances are enough to show where the Whitney government stands with regard to the Canadian workingmen."

"It all goes to prove," continued Mr. Gordon, "that you need a friend like Mr. R. R. Hall, who has made the workingman's rights the king beam, as you might say, in his platform. He was in advance of his own party in this matter. It was his noticeable stand on the subject that put it out in front and got it into the party platform in Toronto. It also woke that old autocrat, Sir James Whitney, up, to the extent of causing him to start a commission of one judge to inquire into the Workman's Compensation Act Chief Justice, Sir William Meredith is now inquiring. While is another way of saying that the former leader of the Conservative party in Ontario is playing a little politics for the present one. No doubt Sir William can still play the game. Being a judge doesn't make a man forget all his old tricks. If Sir William couldn't do a little stalling for

OLD COUNTRY CLERGY IN CANADIAN WEST

Rev. Mr. Edmison Criticises Policy of Bringing Them Out

MONTREAL, NOV. 16.—Criticism of Rev. J. H. Edmison, formerly of Peterborough, and now secretary of the Presbyterian Home Mission Board, of the the bringing out of young clergymen from Great Britain into the mission fields of western Canada, was the feature of this morning's session of the Men's Missionary Congress. This, he told the members of the Presbyterian section, was little more than a "stop-gap," as these men, coming as they did into a strange field where they were out of touch with conditions, could do little really effective missionary work.

The Congress this morning split up into five sections, the Anglicans, Presbyterians, Congregationalists and Baptists holding separate sessions to consider the best means of advancing the work.

WIFE TELLS COURT OF ABUSE FROM HUSBAND

Italian Woman Says She Was Afraid That Mascarrion Would Kill Her—Had Tried to Hit Her With Chair.

CASE REMANDED

Antonio Mascarrion, the Italian, who was arraigned in the police court on Tuesday morning, was remanded until the 23rd. His wife to-day gave evidence. She walked intothe box, with one eye partially closed and with one side of her face black and bruised, where she claimed the prisoner, her husband, had struck her, last Sunday night. "He always whipped me," informed the witness, through the medium of Mr. Thos. Minnicolo, interpreter. "He went to hit me a couple of weeks ago, with a chair, but two boarders stopped him. We have had seven children, but six are dead. I wish to be separated from him, for I am afraid he will kill me. He has often threatened to kill me, and said that he wished he was separated from me. I am 29 years of age, and was married when I was 18. I furnished half the furniture and other goods, and I owned the house, but my husband sold it for $50 and kept the money."

"Do you want to be separated from your wife?" asked Magistrate Dumble of the prisoner. "Me no want her t' go. No more de' kick, or abuse. Me want her to stay," said the mournful-looking prisoner as he hung over the edge of the prisoners box, with tears running down his cheeks.

"Are you willing to support her, if you are separated?" asked Mr. Dumble.

"No, no, if she go 'way, she can go, me no give a cent."

The Magistrate then asked him, if he would whip her any more if she remained, and he promised that he would not. He said that he did not want her to leave him.

"I will remand you for another week," said his Worship. "He can't have the luxury of beating her when he wishes, anyhow," he concluded.

THINKS HE CAN HOLD HIM

Detective Newhall made a boast this afte noon that he had in his possession a pair of handcuffs that will handicap the Great McEwen. Mr. McEwen will endeavour to get out of these handcuffs to-night on the stage. Det. Newhall tried the handcuffs on several at the city building and all agreed that there was a very slim chance of escape.

There is a gang of men here now starting to build the new C.P.R. station. It will be 80x26 ft. wide.

REGISTER, MR. HALL'S FRIENDS

All supporters of Mr. Hall are urged to see that they are registered. It has been stated many times before, but another repetition can do no harm, that registration for the last Dominion election does not give a person a vote at the Provincial elections. In order to support Mr. Hall on December 11, the manhood suffrage voters will have to register again and the yare asked to look after this important matter as soon as registration begins. The qualifications are that you must be a British subject, have lived one years in the province and three months in Peterborough and be twenty-one years of age. As announced yesterday, the dates for registration are Nov. 24th, 25th, 27th and 28th.

FINE WAS 50 DOLLARS

Prominent Local Man Assessed for Allowing His Youthful Son to Drive His Motor Car

MINIMUM PENALTY

Mr. T. F. Matthews was fined $50 in the police court this morning for allowing his seventeen year old son to run his motor car on the city streets. This was the lowest fine the Magistrate could impose. The first offence means a fine or $50 or one week in gaol, or both, and the second means $100 or one month in gaol or both. The fine was paid. The Magistrate called attention to the fact that notices had appeared in the newspapers at different times, drawing the attention of auto owners to the fact that boys of this age were not allowed to run cars, and in view of this said there wa sno excuse for the offence.

TRAVERS TAKES FULL RESPONSIBILITY FOR THE FARMERS' BANK CHARTER

In His Evidence Before Judge Winchester, Former General Manager of Bank Says That Mr. Stratton and Mr. Warren Had No Knowledge of Any Wrong-doing in Connection With Obtaining Charter.

Toronto, Nov. 17.—The Farmers' Bank case against Hon. J. R. Stratton and J. J. Warren of Trusts & Guarantee Company, concluded today before Judge Winchester. Judgment was reserved.

Toronto, Nov. 17. —When adjournment in the Farmers Bank case,which is being heard before Judge Winchester without a jury, was taken late yesterday afternoon, it was announced that there was a little more evidence to be heard at the resumption of the enquiry this morning. It had been supposed that Messrs. J. R. Stratton and J. J. Warren would go to the Assizes and stand trial before a judge and jury, but, as at no previous time had they elected they were allowed to ask for trial before the County Judge Both Mr. Stratton and Mr. Warren gave themselves up to the Sheriff in the forenoon, and in a short while the charge was on trial.

The charge against them was of conspiring, confederating and agreeing with W .R. Travers, to secure by false pretences the certificate for the Farmers' Bank. The case arose out of the loan of $100,000 made by Travers and the Farmers Bank from the Trusts and Guarantee Company.

Travers on Stand

A number of witnesses were called yesterday, the principal one being W. R. Travers, formerly general-manager of the defunct bank. He was examined at length by Mr. Du Vernet for the Crown, and by Mr. Watson and Mr. Rowell, acting respectively for Messrs. Stratton and Warren.

Travers told his oft-repeated story of the time, and the circumstances connected with his first appearance in the Farmers' Bank circle. He said that the men who had organized the bank had approached him and asked him to assist them in the promotion of the institution. There had been a sufficient number of subscribers to stock, but there was not enough money for the required deposit with the Government. There had been about $150,000 paid in, and he then set out to secure the other $80,000 Two banks and a large brokerage office were approached, but he could not arrive at terms with them and he went to the Trusts and Guarantee Co.

He had a number of interviews with Mr. Warren and only on one occasion did he see Mr. Stratton. This time it was only for a minute, and Mr. Stratton said that the manager of the company, Mr. Warren, had the handling of the whole thing. He and Mr. Warren came to an agreement by which Travers was to get $80,000, as a loan, giving as security $105,000 worth of different farmers' notes, paying a bonus of $1,000 and ten per cent. interest. Travers said that he had made the loan for 30 days as he thought that he would be able to pay it back, when the money, less the 5 p.c. always retained by the Finance Department, was returned by the Government. The other loan of $20,000, which he made, was because of a broken promise from another party, and for this loan he gave the same kind of security. This made $160,000 in all.

Had Full Authority

Travers said that he had full authority from the provisional board of directors to make the loans and endorse the notes given by subscribers. Before he approached Mr. Warren he had received advice from his counsel as to the legality of a company accepting as security for a loan, the kind of notes he gave Mr. Warren. He then thought he was acting absolutely legally.

In his examination Travers was asked about the way the certificate was obtained. He admitted irregularities and deceit on his part, but emphatically stated that neither Mr. Stratton nor Mr .Warren, had as far as he was concerned, any idea that there was anything wrong going on. He said that there were names on the subscription list that should not have bene there when it was sent to the Government, but stated that none of the officers of the Trusts and Guarantee Co. knew anything about it. Mr. Watson asked the witness if he could see any reason why either Mr. Stratton or Mr. Warren should be charged with conspiracy with him in obtaining he Farmers' Bank certificate, and the witness again stated that they had nothing to do with it.

A number of other witnesses were called but their evidence threw little light on the matter. Among them were Mr. Knight, of the Canadian Bankers' Association, and Mr. Thos. Lawson, of the Department of Finance at Ottawa, who produced records.

The case will be concluded to-day, while that of the provisional directors will be started on Saturday in the Assize Court. All were charged with the same offense.

TERRIBLE TALES FROM SCENE OF REVOLUTION

Special Wire to The Examiner.

Victoria, B.C., Nov. 17.—A large number of refugees from China, including some United States missionaries, arrived here yesterday on the steamer Canada Maru and tell startling stories of bloody scenes at Shanghai and other places where rebels secured the upper hand. At Wu Chang a smaller city, representatives of foreign powers went to the missionaries and others, and the rebels opened the gates to them, bringing out Manchuas who had been captured, beheading them in front of the rescuers and telling the latter to report to the world as evidence of what would happen to all Manchus in Chinese Empire. One wealthy Manchu paid $18,000 for his liberty, but was captured again and beheaded. Policemen who failed to protect foreigners' goods, and stores were executed and their heads mounted on posts, and looters who attacked these stores were crucified to the doors as a warning to others. The opinion of passengers generally is that the rebels will be put down with nothing less than making the empire an out and out republic.

MAMMOTH ADVERTISEMENT RECORD FOR PETERBORO'

No doubt before your eyes have reached this article you will have seen the mammoth advertisement of Messrs. Richard Hall and Son, elsewhere in this issue, and while you have marvelled over the size of the display, been interested in the sensational bargains, and admired the neatness and typographical beauty, you have perhaps failed to realize that this advertisement marks a step in advance in the advertising history of Peterborough. Taking two full pages, this is the largest order for space for three issues ever given a Peterborough newspaper. The advertisement runs in two issues of the Daily Examiner and one issue of the Weekly Examiner, calling attention to the mammoth mid-season sale to be conducted by Messrs. Richard Hall and Sons. In addition to its size, the Examiner believes that its attractiveness and neatness, from a typographical viewpoint, makes it remarkable.

SINISTER SILENCE.

For the first time in our history, the Parliament of Canada was opened, and the speech from the throne delivered, by a member of the Royal Family. The opening was orthodox enough, but the speech was not "up to much." That was not the fault of the royal orator. The speech was put into his mouth by his advisers, and is to be taken to represent their opinions and policy on the issues that affect the country, for whose good and effective government His Majesty's ministers are responsible.

Our new Governor-General is naturally new to Canada, and his advisers are in duty bound to inform him, and keep him informed. They have neglected their duty upon one important point. His Royal Highness evidently doesn't know that we have a Canadian navy in the embryonic stages, that needs coddling or crushing as may suit the policy of our new rulers. There is not a single reference, by even a hint that there is a Canadian naval question.

Yet that is a most important point, especially to the present government. The naval question was the one on which Mr. Borden was permitted by the Nationalists to form a government. Some sort of bargain was evidently made, by which Mr. Borden admitted these anti-naval Nationalists to the seats of the mighty in his cabinet—to the best portfolios. The naval question was the hinging point of Mr. Borden's cabinet construction, and yet we have no reference to it in the speech from the throne, put by Mr. Borden into the mouth of His Majesty's representative.

We could have no better evidence of the reality of the anti-naval and anti-British Nationalist dominance of the Borden government, and, necessarily, through his government, anti-naval and anti-British Nationalist dominance of Canada.

Is it not remarkable that a subject involving a far-reaching national and imperial question of policy, and involving, no matter what policy is adopted, the expenditure of millions of dollars or nothing, should not be even referred to in the first deliverance of a policy and programme of a government, buttressed in power by an overwhelming majority—but swayed by the flutter of a litle disloyal wing of a great super-loyal and hyper-imperial political party. The silence of Mr. Borden and his government on the naval question is sinister.

LIBERALS OWE WHITNEY NOTHING.

Many Liberals, at the last two general elections, were led, by some vague influence, or reasoning, to support the Whitney Government. It would be more to the point to say that they were misled; for the result has not justified their misplaced confidence in the rather braggart claims of the Whitney Government. Sir James, last election, pretended to be grateful for Liberal votes, and he showed this by applying the axe and lopping off Liberal heads wherever they showed. He trained his spoils system guns even on the Justices of the Peace, and hardly left on the Commission a baker's dozen of the Liberals, for whose support he gave hypocritical thanks. This is a small matter; he has done worse than applying the axe to Liberal officials: he has showed stagnant disregard for progressive Liberal principles.

The lack of claim of Sir James Whitney on Liberals is further shown by the Tornto Star, which remarks that the official Conservative view is that the Liberals are decent and humble fellows, whose function is to obey and support two Conservative governments.

As a matter of fact, Liberals owe not a little of support to the present Whitney Government, nor is that government likely to get any such support.

Liberalism is not prone to support the autocracy of a Sir James Whitney, because Liberalism, when not representative of the people's rights and wishes, is not Liberalism at all.

The Premier of Ontario for the first time in the history of the province officially launched a provincial government into the arena of Dominion politics, and it was not patriotism, nor broad-mindedness which brought the Ontario government forces into that fight, but pure partizanship.

Liberalism when not progressive is not Liberalism at al, and the Liberals of Ontario can find very little if any, of the truly progressive element in the present Whitney government which they can conscientiously support.

Liberalism is not Liberalism at all which condones a neglect of almost every department of provincial importance, such as agriculture, colonization, public school, technical education, and labour legislation. Liberals who have witnessed wonderful strides of expansion in the broad Dominion during the last fifteen years of Liberal rule, brought about by legislation which was truly Liberal and truly progressive, cannot, and will not, support a provincial government the one object of which is to entrench itself in power and continue its autocracy.

LIVELY SESSION PROMISED.

The coming session of the Canadian Parliament promises to be lively, as well as brief. The Opposition seems determined to bring the Government to book, in respect to many questions that it would prefer to keep down. Hon. Mr. Borden, who had to submit to so many contradictory cries to gain power, who had to make large compromises with principle on gaining power, cannot expect to be held immune from question on a great many delicate points. He evidently feels his vulnerability in this regard, by the irritation he showed in dealing with Sir Wilfrid Laurier's good-humoured raillery upon the election of a Speaker.

But Hon. Mr. Borden must learn to keep his temper, for he will have many critical curves to make.

The "order paper" is full of questions that will cause embarrassment and call for a deal of explanation. As a sample, a few may be submitted:

Hon. Chas. Murphy will ask: "Is the Government aware that at the nomination meeting at Lachine on Oct. 27, last, Hon. F. D. Monk stated that the Prime Minister had allowed him to select his Cabinet colleagues from the Province of Quebec. Was any Ontario Minister accorded a similar privilege by the Prime Minister? If not, why was an exception made in the case of Hon. F. D. Monk?

"Did the Prime Minister promise a referendum on the navy question, as alleged by the Postmaster-General and Mr. Armand Lavergne, M.P.P., at the nomination meeting in Quebec county on the 27th of October last? If not, what promise or understanding with regard to the navy was given by the Prime Minister to the Postmaster-General or to Mr. Lavergne, prior to the date of the said meeting?

Has the Government accepted any tenders for the construction of his Majesty's Canadian ships? If not, does the Government intend to accept any of said tenders?

"To what position in the Immigration branch has Mr. Arthur Hawkes, alias 'John V. Borne,' been appointed?"

Several other questions are asked about Mr. Hawkes' appointment, and his qualifications, his work at the time of his appointment, the amount of his salary at that time, whether he was the author of the pamphlets to the British-born, distributed by the Government, and how long he has been a resident of Canada. Does the Government intend to implement its promise that it would, if returned to power, reinsure all those who lost money through the failure of the Farmers Bank?

Clarke, of Essex, will ask whether the Government, or any of its members, has received any petition of request asking that an act be passed by the Parliament of Canada prescribing a uniform marriage law for the Dominion, and what action the Government intends to take in the matter.

McCraney, of Saskatoon, will ask an explanation of an article in L'Evenement, the Quebec Conservative paper, describing a visit said to have been paid by Mr. Borden to Bishop Begin of Quebec, to "present his hommage."

Nesbitt of Oxford, wants to know whether the Prime Minister, or any member of the Government has discussed with Archbishop Langevin of Winnipeg, the Manitoba School question in the extension of the boundaries of Manitoba. Did any such discussion take place during the Archbishop's recent visit to Ottawa? Will the Government announce its policy with regard to the Manitoba school question and the extension of the Manitoba boundaries?

Hon. Mr. Borden may find these questions embarassing, and show unstatesmanlike irritation. But he should not do so. These questions arise naturally from the many-toned cries that incited his supporters to the achievement of his victory; or they arise naturally from the complicated compromises with principle in the formation of his cabinet that have given his own supporters cause to feel pain over the destruction of the ideals which, with reasonable exultation, they felt his victory represented. He must blame himself, not the Opposition, if the latter do their duty by instituting inquiries in the name of the public, that should, and possibly, may, yield some light that will be welcome, or unwelcome, perhaps, to thousands, especially in Ontario, including hosts of Hon. Mr. Borden's political friends.

Politics In Whitney Government In The Administration Of License Law

Another instance of Sir James Whitney refusing to be led by even the progressives in his own party is supplied by the Premier's recent attitude towards removing the license system out of politics. It will be remembered that prior to the defeat of the Ross government a non-partisan license administration was one of the strongest planks on which Sir James Whitney stood, and was really the gist of the opposition leader's reply to the temperance party in Ontario, which advocated legislation much more radical. "We will remove politics from the license administration and enforce the law," replied Mr. Whitney.

Has the license system been removed from politics? Not a bit of it. In fact, it is now regarded as an integral part of the political machinery of the Conservative party in this province. Not only has the license system not been removed from the political atmosphere, but according to the Premier's recent denial to Toronto press reports it is not going to be. Hon. Mr. Hanna was not quite so emphatic. Legislation to appoint a provincial non-partizan commission will not be passed next year, said Mr. Hanna.

In the above, Mr. Rowell, the Liberal leader, takes a directly opposite stand. Absolute removal of the liquor business from politics is a plank of the Liberal leader. Of course, the present government might be satisfied to keep things as they are. The Whitney government is a direct partner in the liquor business, sharing in the certain percentage of barroom receipts. But this is not the essential reason. The three-fifths clause in local option contests enacted by the Whitney government has had the effect of defeating local option in hundreds of cases, even in the face of substantial majorities, as can be seen by a study of the returns and it can readily be seen from these figures that the Whitney government and liquor interests by this time are pretty closely allied and have much mutual sympathy one for the other.

Nor can it be said that the license law is better enforced than it ever was by the government. Convictions are recorded in the province daily. Brantford, of course, is an exception to this. Public opinion, expressed so strongly for local option here two years ago, put a damper on illegal selling, which had its effect to this day. The license commissioners, it is true, followed this up with a warning that one conviction of illegal sale would mean the cancellation of the license. The action of the commissioners followed an expression of public indignation against the bars in Brantford, which assumed a majority of several hundred favourable to the closing of all bars.

As a matter of fact, it requires very little effort to show that any reform in the present liquor license system of Ontario cannot be expected from a government which counts not only in Brantford but in all other places on a solid liquor vote, and a government which has really become a partner in the business. The Liberal policy is to handle this question in a manner that will eradicate complaints of partisanship arising in the administration of one of the most important departments in the provincial government.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Better to fall as a statesman than to flourish for a season as an opportunist.

The silence of the Borden government speech from the Throne is more sinister than its speech.

Sir Wilfrid, remarks the Globe, is not leading a sham fight. A man who has been slandered out of office has a right to say so occasionally.

Kingston City has a well-developed thirst. It has passed, by a vote of 1,450 to 297, a by-law to authorize a city loan of $100,000 to promote the erection of a new hotel.

Horrors! Hon. Dr. Sproule, Speaker of the House, and erstwhile Grand Master of the Orange Order, is taking French lessons. He has to say his prayers twice a week in French.

If Hon. Mr. Borden dislikes Sir Wilfrid's reference to the Bourassa-Borden-Nationalists alliance, he should repudiate, or deny, its existence, or publicly repent of having been a party to it.

The gentleman, Mr. Albert Sevigny, who is to second the address, in reply to the speech from the Throne, a year ago said the sight of the British cruiser "Cornwall," in Quebec harbour, "made his blood boil."

Sir James Whitney thinks it should be spelled Tell-tie-gram. He says that Hon. Frank Cochrane, whom the Telegram dubs the champion sleeper, "is the strongest man in the life of the Dominion to-day." Now, let the Telegram describe the character of his snore.

"The name of Sir Wilfrid Laurier has largely disappeared from the newspapers." — London Free Press (Conservative). Whereupon the editor of the Ottawa Journal, as good a Tory as the Free Press man, but with the instincts of a gentleman, comments as follows: "A good many of us could bear with equanimity a somewhat lesser mention by the newspapers if our name were writ as large in the honourable history of our country as that of Sir Wilfrid Laurier."

ANOTHER MIXED MARRIAGE CASE.

(Montreal Herald.)

Sir Wilfrid seems to regard the Borden-Monk alliance as very much of the nature of a mixed marriage, and he is curious to know whether the offspring are to be Orange-Imperialist or Castor-Nationalist. He will be told, of course, to wait and see, but it has been known to happen in these cases that an agreement has been reached in advance. In fact it is when there is no such agreement, and when the parties depend upon circumstances to give each the advantage over the other, that the mischief begins. In the present case it is broadly believed that Mr. Monk has obtained from Mr. Borden pledges in respect of the navy policy which are satisfactory to the Nationalists, and pledges concerning the Manitoba boundary extension, in so far as it concerns schools, which are satisfactory to the Castors. That is what makes Sir Wilfrid find something odd about Dr. Sproule, Sovereign Grand Master of the Orange Order, being chosen to bless the banns.

It is not, strictly speaking, Sir Wilfrid's affair. Indeed it is proverbially dangerous to put your finger between the bark and the tree. But there is no manner of doubt that a great deal of curiosity does exist about the terms of the marriage contract in respect to the status of the offspring, and the leader of the Opposition must be pardoned for making himself the spokesman of that curiosity.

Three Years And Five Law Courts

Auld Lang Syne and Sir James Whitney, what kind of a friend would he be?

"What's the use of having a judge, even a Chief Justice, draft a Workman's Compensation Bill. What the workman wants to avoid is the wiles and technicalities in drafting a bill that no man, who has been a lawyer, can ever get away from. The proper commission to draft a Workman's Compensation Bill would consist of two representative workingmen, named by the Trades and Labour Council. They might call a lawyer in to give them the legal patter, but that's about as far as they ought to go with him."

Five and Three Against One.

Mr. Gordon quoted a mass of figures to show how the Workman's Compensation for injuries gets sweated in the law courts. In 1909, in the United States $99,000,000 was paid out for injuries to the workingmen. By the time it got through the lawyers and other courts, only 25 p.c. reached the workingman or his family.

In 1909 there were in Ontario 665 accidents, 43 of which were fatal. Peterborough contributed her share. Of the sums disbursed by employers for injuries, about the same percentage as in the United States reached the Canadian workingman.

"The Workman's Compensation Act," said Mr. Gordon, "is 26 years old today. It has slept for 7 1-2 years. The Whitney government promised to do something to it, but what did it do it was a shame. Any amendments made helped the corporations; they did not assist the workingmen at all."

"So far as giving the injured workingman his money," said Mr. Gordon, "the Act is a great bluff. The workingman may almost see the money, he can almost smell it, but when he reaches for it, it isn't there. It's like the money a man gets in a dream. When he wakes up there's nothing doing. A workingman or his family can chase the blood money for three years, through five courts and then be no better off. The lawyers and the courts swallow it all. You put $1500 in the slot and get nothing out. The wise workingman will vote for R. R. Hall, whose idea of a Compensation Act is one that compensates, that hands over every dollar without deductions, rebates or law suits."

Kind Words For Mr. Hall.

Mr. George Gillespie's speech was a tribute to Mr. Hall's activity, enterprise and perseverance in the cause of the people he was elected to serve. Mr. Gillespie expressed an unqualified desire to see Mr. Hall's keen intellect and forceful personality in the Ontario Legislature. His own experience in that House had shown him that there was plenty for a man of fighting mettle like Mr. Hall to do. Now that the conduct and guidance of the party had fallen into the hands of the younger Liberals he thought that Mr. Hall would be in his element.

"He will be a powerful recruit," said Mr. Gillespie, "and his vigour will tell for West Peterborough just as much as it did during the four years he represented this riding at Ottawa."

"I want to recall some of the benefits he then obtained for West Peterborough," said Mr. Gillespie. He obtained a grant from the Dominion government which enabled Peterborough to acquire the site for the armouries and the Collegiate. The armouries are an ornament to Central Park and a positive boon to the dragoons, the battery and the Peterborough Rangers, and the Collegiate is a credit to the city. He induced the government to buy the water front between the C.P.R railway and the Hunter street bridge. He iniated the building of many wharves along the line of the Trent canal and its river and lake system. He caused the county to be released of the maintenance of the swing bridges on the canal, an annual saving of $2500 a year, a capitalised saving of $500,000."

Conservation of Waters.

"Perhaps one of the most important works that Mr. Hall accomplished, during the time that he was the representative of this Riding, was the initiation by him of the policy of the conservation of waters in the Midland District. It took him two years negotiating with the Provincial Government, and the Dominion Government, to accomplish the transfer of the dams in the Upper Lakes from the Provincial to the Dominion Government, so that they would be all under the control of the Dominion Government. He persistently impressed upon the Government the importance of repairing the old dams, and building new concrete dams of a permanent nature, so that the water would be effectively conserved in the upper stretches. The success of the Conservation scheme, that he inaugurated in the Midland District and the general advantages derived there from, have been so apparent that the Dominion Government adopted a similar conservation policy in the Ottawa Valley.

"Mr. Hall implemented his promises that he would deal with the drowned land claims. Mr. Hall took the ground that a higher level had to be maintained in the reaches of the Trent Canal System and that any injury done to the land owners on the banks of the system, should receive compensation. Mr. Hall made good his representations. He showed to the Department of Railways and Canals and the Justice Department at Ottawa that the Government had no legal right to flood these lands without compensation. He persuaded the Government that he was in the right and the Government, accordingly, during the last session of his term, placed in the estimates $100,000.00 to assist in settling these claims."

Postal Services in Peterborough.

"When Mr. Hall was elected our Member, the postal service in Peterborough was in a most unsatisfactory state. The Post Office was congested and it will be well remembered how disagreeable and unsatisfactory it was to our citizens to receive their mail at the City Post Office. He, accordingly, had the box accomodation in the post office remodeled and enlarged, and secured city mail delivery, and he also had more letter boxes distributed throughout the city, and a more frequent and better system of collecting them."

"Before Mr. Hall was the representative for West Peterborough, the mail upon the C. P. R. was carried as baggage, greatly to the inconvenience of our citizens and delay in despatching and receiving letters. He made representations to the Government, which should have been made long before, and had a special mail car placed upon that line."

The Buckhorn Dam.

"Mr. Hall did a great service to the County of Peterborough in inducing the Government to build a new dam at Buckhorn. He persuaded the Government that if the old dam were washed away, as it might be, by a strong West wind, when the ice was breaking up in the Spring, it would have the effect of wiping out every dam upon the River, and, by reason of the enormous flow of water that would come down, inestimable damages might be inflicted upon life and property in the Otonabee and Trent River basins. He also secured a great incidental advantage to the County of Peterborough in inducing the Government to replace the old wooden bridge that was heretofore maintained by the County, and in substituting in its place a new concrete and steel bridge that will save to the County of Peterborough any expense for all time to come."

New Trent Canal.

"Mr. Hall took a most active and aggressive part in impressing upon the Government the importance of completing the Trent Canal, and he awakened a widespread interest throughout Canada, in this important work. He took occasion on the opening of the Lift Lock, to see that representatives of all the leading Daily newspapers in Canada were invited to attend the opening. Newspaper representatives from all parts of Canada and the London dailies were present at that great function. At the very first session after the opening of this Lift Lock, Mr. Hall was successful in having a million dollars placed in the estimates to continue the work, and ever since that time increasing annual amounts have been voted. He also impressed upon the Government the importance of building all new locks, longer and wider, and deeper, so as to improve the utility of the Canal."

The meeting closed with cheers for the party and the candidate.

BOX WAS NOT STRONG ENOUGH TO HOLD McEWEN

Following a series of clever feats, performed during this week at the Opera House, the great McEwen made a splendid demonstration last night when he proved that a securely bound and nailed packing case could not hold him for more than a few moments.

The box, which was made in sight of the audience, was composed of very thick wood securely nailed together. In addition to this strong ropes were bounded round the box, and fastenede with long nails, which were clenched inside. The Professor then placed himself inside and the lid was securely nailed and tied down. The case was placed in a cabinet, and in the space of a few moments the Professor was free.

There was again a deal of humorous element, the subjects placed under the hypnotic influence making all kinds of weird and wild antics.

A large audience witnessed the performance.

Kicked To Death By A Horse

MILLBROOK, NOV. 16—The whole community was shocked this morning to hear of the sad and unexpected death of Mr. Ed. Fallis, west of Millbrook. He delivered a horse to Mr. Wm. Leith yesterday and was leading it behind the cart. A slight mix-up took place, in which Mr. Fallis was thrown out and received a kick. He thought little of it and was around town for an hour or so and went home. He ate part of his supper and took to vomiting and soon became unconscious.

Dr. Turner was at once sent for and at once saw that the skull was drove in and he returned to town for instruments for an operation, but got word of his death before he got back.

Mrs. Fallis died only a couple of years ago, and five small children are now left fatherless and motherless.

MAKE THIS TAFFY WITH COCOA.

If you have never tried making "chocolate" taffy with cocoa you have a new treat to discover."

To three pounds of sugar add one cupful of water, one-half cupful of vinegar, one teaspoonful butter, four heaping tablespoons Fry's Cocoa. Boil all together till it hardens when dropped in cold water. Put into buttered tins and pull when cool.

Many who do not care for ordinary "chocolate" candy are delighted with the delicious flavour the cocoa gives it.

CREDITORS' MEETING

A largely attended meeting of the creditors of the Peterborough and Lake Simcoe Navigation Company was held yesterday afternoon in the Bank of Montreal chambers. The assignee, Mr. W. Buller, read a statement of the assets and liabilities of the company, showing the assets to be $1500 less than the liabilities.

Messrs. G. C. Wainwright of the Bank of Ottawa, Robt. Hicks, and F. D. Kerr were appointed inspectors and the appointment of Mr. Buller as assignee was confirmed. The disposing of the assets in order to get the best results will be taken in hand by the assignee, with the assistance of the inspectors and of any suggestions from the creditors.

Has Returned

Dr. E. V. Frederick, who has attended a ten-day congress of the Clinical Surgeons of North America in Philadelphia, returned yesterday.

The principal object of the convention was to watch different operations and discuss various methods of operating and compare results. Several new experiments were tried. One of the main subjects was the reintroduction of spinal anesthesia. An operation of transferring a complete blood vessel from one person to another, and a similar operation in which a healthy kidney was transferred, were both found to be successful. It is said that the congress greatly benefitted the 1,200 surgeons who attended.

Next year's meeting will be held in New York.

PETERBOROUGH'S DEPUTATION WAS HEARD TO-DAY

Special to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, ONT., Nov. 17. — An important development of the work of the Hydro-Electric Commission of Ontario took place this morning when Hon. Adam Beck and Mr. eGorge Lynch Staunton, K.C., headed a big deputation from the City of Peterborough which waied upon Hon. Frank Cochrane and Hon. C. J. Doughierty to ask that the Dominion lease the Hydro-Electric Commission the power rights of dam four on the Peterborough and Lakefield division and dan eight on the Rice Lake Division of the rent Valley Canal. Stachan Johnson, K.C., opposed he application on behalf of the existing owners of power rights.

Mr. Beck said that this was a public stream and that according to the decision of the Privy Council the bed in river and water in river belong to the province. "You own dams," he said to the Ministers, "but you have no right to take the water from the river which is not needed for cana purposes. Therefore you have no right to sell or dispose of surplus water. I am aware that the Dominion Government has been in the habi of selling the surplus water from canals but that was before it was decided that they did not own the water. want you to give us right to use the provincial water through your dams It is a question of principle which affects the whole Trent Valley.

Mr. Johnston contended that the Dominion should safeguard the rights of existing companies and that the companies should be compensated if deprived of rights given them by previous governments.

Mayor Morrow of Peterborough, declared that the city wanted to enter into an agreement with the Commission and asked for the oc-operation of the government.

Thereupon Mr. Johnston said, "You can not unscramble eggs," to which the Mayor retorted, "No, but we can prevent you scrambling any more."

Mr. Cochrane promised to hand out a written decision at an early date.

Hunt Club Arrives Home

The Ketchecum Lake Hunt Club returned to the city to-day. They report a very successful trip. Those who composed the party were Messrs A. Comstock, R. Gibbs, Wm. Ackerman, H. Winch, E. F. Mason, Dr MacPherson, J. D. Colins, Fred Roy and Mr. R. J. Munro. The last named gentleman returned two days ago.

In conversation with the Examiner Mr. R. Gibbs said that the party secured nine deer, and they were as fine a bunch of animals as he had ever seen. They were all bucks but two. One of them tipped the scales at 225 pounds, and the nine totalled 1,600 pounds. The snow was about two feet deep around the Ketchecum Lake district, making it exceedingly hard travelling for the deer stalkers.

The party were loud in their praises of the cook who accompanied them, and whose name unfortunately is not to hand. Under his tender mercies their aggregate avoierdupois soared skyward. Some of the members claimed to have gained as much as ten pounds during their stay in camp. The party left for home on Thursday morning with their game, camp utensils, etc., mounted on the storm deck of a bob sleigh. Stopping in Bobcaygeon last night, where they abondoned their sleigh, they proceeded on to Peterborough this morning, arriving here about noon.

THE FIRST SNOWFALL

But yesterday I looked with pain
Upon the world through windswept rain,
That sobbed about the leafless tree
And rolled along the silent lea;
And as I looked I thought of days
When summer wooed the banks and braes.
"Ah, this in truth is lye," I said;
"Behind it stalks the spectre dread."

I saw to-day a winter sight;
The earth was garbed in robe of white,
And forest glade and hill and lea
Had donned a matchless drapery;
No grinning death-in-life was there,
But all the world looked wondrous fair.
"Ah, this in truth is life," I said;
"Thus sweetly sleeps the holy dead."

WHAT FRISBEE LOST AND FOUND

A Short Story

Frisbee came into the room with his usual, quick, confident step. The half-dosen men the room contained, coatless and collarless, pushing their pencils with the desperate haste that only a newspaperman can quite understand, looked up for an instant, nodded or grunted, then fell to work again with renewed energy.

Every man of them knew, as well as did Frisbee, that he had "landed the beat!" he had gone after the day before. It was written on every feature of his tired but satisfied face. He had tramped innumerable miles, had not slept a wink the preceding night, but he had done what his chief had sent him to do, and the work that had made it ppsible was one of the pleasures of his life.

An inner door opened, and the city editor's boy jerked his thumb over his shoulder. "He wants you in there."

An understanding look passed over the faces of the men at the desks. One of them took time to say:

"You're up against it again, Frisbee. He's going to send you for something no one else can get!"

An approving grin touched each face. This tall, heady young Westerner, with his dark, thin, clean-cut face, and hustling energy, had so charged them all with his own personal magnetism that there was never an envious thought toward him, even when he pulled success out of their defeat, as he very frequently did.

When Frisbee entered the city editor's sanctum that worthy gentleman turned to him with a quizzical smile.

"Got it?"

The answer was quite as laconic as the question.

"Of course." And Frisbee laid his copy down on the desk. The city editor's hand closed over it eagerly, but he must not even examine it till he put this man to work again.

"Frisbee, there is a very devil to pay—in the shape of a woman at the Scrantons on Fifth Avenue who will not be interviewed. You know the magazines have had a lot to say lately about Kate Bristow, the author of the most popular novel of the season? She came to visit the Scrantons last week and although they tried to keep it quiet, it got out yesterday, and part of the staff of every paper in the city have laid siege to the Scranton place ever since. I have sent three men there to-day, but to no purpose. She will not even see a reporter."

"I don't know how you are going to manage it, Frisbee, but you are certainly going to bring me an interview from Miss Bristow—also her picture." He glanced at the clock over his desk. "It is only 9 o'clock. I'll give you an hour."

As Brisbee again passed through the room where the busy men still sweated, Hawley, one of his own especial chums, called out:

"Bet you a tenner you don't get a word. I've been there twice to-day, and I might as well have been trying to make peace between Russia and Japan for all the attention I got. No," as Frisbee's hand went down into his pocket, "we'll each keep our own stake, and when you come back you can just hand me a ten-spot."

"Sure? Maybe not." And with the smile that was never chased from his face for very long, Frisbee swung out of the room.

When he rang the bell at the Scrantons about 25 minutes later, the gas light glinted down upon a very different looking Frisbee, refreshed with a bath and dress suit.

"Take my card to Miss Bristow," he said authoritatively, when a girl answered his ring. "I am an old friend. I know she will see me." He told his lie with an air that compelled belief, and the girl obeyed him.

He went into the parlor to wait. It was familiar ground to him, for he knew the Scrantons well. The night was sultry and the doors and windows were open.

Suddenly one of the doors framed something so exquisite for him he went forward with outstretched hands.

Just a woman, but the one woman, and he had not seen her for five years—a tall, slender woman, gowned in white, with bronze hair and dark-brown eyes—very luminous just now—and the color of the wild Western roses they both used to love so well, glowing in her face.

"Is it really and truly you, Walter?" she asked, as he took both her hands in a glad clasp. "I was afraid to let myself believe it when your card was brought to me."

Every feature of her lovely face was radiating pure joy.

"When my card was brought to you?" Frisbee repeated, his eyes never leaving her face for an instant. "Yes, I have it here. I was in such a hurry to see you I just tucked it in my dress and came on down."

She drew his card from the folds of her bodice. Beneath his name was written a line: "Please let me see you, if only for five minutes."

"But I sent that to Miss Bristow."

Considering he was star reporter for one of the largest papers in the city, Mr. Frisbee's mind was working very slowly.

Edna Winter laughed, and it seemed to the hungry-hearted man that he had not really lived since he last heard that laugh.

"How silly I am, Walter, not to explain. Of course, you do not know that Kate Bristow is only a name I have borrowed because it sounds more forceful than my own."

Frisbee was wide enough awake now.

"And I came here to-night to make you talk to me whether you wanted to or not." His gray eyes looked dwn into hers a little sternly. "Edna, the last time I saw you I tried that same thing and failed. I never had the remotest idea why you broke with me. Will you tell me now?"

"Because I wanted to develop the talent I knew I possessed, and Walter," her voice faltering for the first time, "I loved you so entirely I knew if we married I would be so completely happy I would not heed the small voice that said 'work,' and I also knew if I gave you my reason for breaking our engagement you would make it too hard for me to resist you. I have often wanted to ask you to forgive me, but I did not know where you were. I came East to see my publishers, and will start back to California to-morrow. I am so glad you came to-night, Walter. I will go back much happier if you can find it in your heart to say you forgive me."

"Forgive you? Edna, do you know what is going to happen to-morrow? We are going to get married. Yes, we are," as Miss Winter made a faint protest. "We love each other, and what else matters?"

When Frisbee went back to report to his chief, he would have seen at a glance, had his mind been in a normal condition, that the men he had left at work were waiting for him. They had handed in their copy, and were lounging about the room in luxurious idleness. Hawley came forward to meet him.

"What luck, Fris? Tell us all about it."

"I—I didn't get her picture, Hawley," Frisbee answered, as he put a $10 bill in Hawley's hands. Then without another work he opened the door and went into the city editor's presence.

"I wish I could look like that when I'm losing," exclaimed Hawley. "This is the first time he has ever come back defeated, and he looks as if he had come straight from heaven."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

THE CHINESE REVOLT

The revolt in China has one reassuring feature, as we remarked at the beginning. It is not directed against foreigners. Its leaders have not merely refrained from manifesting hostility to foreigners, but have also taken pains to give orders that, under heavy penalties, they are not to be molested. This may be due to a more enlightened view of affairs than that which formerly prevailed, taken by young China leaders who have travelled abroad and have been freed from superstition concerning "foreign devils," or it may be due to nothing but discretion and fear, gathered from former disastrous experiences which have taught the Chinese that the killing of foreigners must be paid for heavily in treasure or blood, or both. Whatever the explanation, however, the fact is to be regarded with satisfaction, and it is earnestly to be hoped that it will remain the fact throughout the conflict. Then we shall be harrowed by no tales of outrage and there will be no demand nor pretext for foreign intervention.

The revolt began as a protest against the policy of the government in giving railroad and other concessions to foreigners. It has now developed into an extensive and formidable uprising against the Manchu dynasty and even against the monarchial form of government. The leaders are raising the old cry of Taiping days, "China for the Chinese!" meaning the true Chinese of the middle kingdom as distinguished from the Manchu and Tartars, and are adding to it the ideal of a republican form of government. Dr Sun Yat-sen, who is supposed to be at the head of the movement, has lived much in England and America, has become imbued with the republicanism of these country men that the most effective way of getting rid of Manchu dominance is through getting rid of the whole monarchial system. Of course, under popular suffrage the empire would be controlled by the real Chinese, who enormously outnumber the Manchus —New York Tribune.

FUR IN WINTER MILLINERY

Ermine is the fur which milliners are doing the most with for the present. Besides being used to trim white and black it is particularly fancied with seal, sable, browns and drab. Also some new method of wiring it has been devised. Sometimes the fur is cut up into strips which are laid in narrow folds around the edge and base of a large, flat-topped crown covered with fluted velvet. Or it is made up into a wide fold, either mounted on a narrow brim or belted round the crown of a broad-brimmed hat; the extremities of the band being in either case finished with a naturalized head placed on a fan arrangement of tails.

It is also sometimes put to the purpose of facing the paletttes and wing-shaped pieces cut out of felt or stiffened velvet, the fur brought over their edges so as to form a white border. These paletttes and wings are mostly used to trim toques and small hats arranged symmetrically on each side, rather forward.

For obvious reasons, milliners do not use real ermine; it would be quite an unnecessary expense, properly prepared rabbit skin fulfilling this purpose equally well.

The other furs most favored as trimming are different varieties of martin and skunk; chinchilla, also, meet with approval with the leading firms. These pelts are mostly used in the form of bands in one-inch measurements, which, when the hair is long, provide a decidedly handsome garter for a hat crown or lordering for a drapery.—The Millinery Trade Review.

ENTHUSIASTIC ANNUAL MEETING OF THE PETERBOROUGH HOCKEY CLUB WAS HELD

This City Will be Represented by Junior and Intermediate O.H.A. Teams This Winter—Prospects Are Bright.

OFFICERS ELECTED

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Hockey Club was held last evening in the parlours of the National Hotel, when an enthusiastic coterie of fans and players gathered to make arrangements for the coming season. Prospects for the winter are regarded as exceptionally bright. Two teams will be entered in the O.H.A. and it is felt that there is an abundance of material for junior and intermediate sevens. The old board of officers for the most part, were re-elected by acclamation, and a more enthusiastic official board could hardly have been selected. With both players and officers imbued with a spirit of confidence and enthusiasm, there is every reason to hope for a most successful winter. President Sam Ray, just back from his two-weeks' hunting trip in the Parry Sound district, occupied the chair, and the first business taken up was the reading of the report of the Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. R. M. Glover. In presenting his statement, he expressed the regret of the Club at the loss of two valued members of the Executive, in the death of Mr. W. J. Metheral, and in the absence from the city of Captain Charlie Ray, of last year's Intermediates. Mr. Glover's report was as follows:

The election of officers was then proceeded with, the following being elected:

Patrons and Patronesses—Hon. J. R. and Mrs. Stratton, Mr. W. H. Denham and Mrs. Denham, Mr. R. R. Hall and Mrs. Hall, Mr. C. G. Graham and Mrs. Graham, Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, B. A.

Hon. President — Dr. Wightman.

President—Mr. Sam. Ray.

First Vice-President—Jos. Picard.

Second Vice-President—H. P. Morgan.

Secretary-Treasurer—R. M. Glover.

Executive Committee—Thos. McGeachie, C. J. Curtis, E. N. McWilliams, F. D. Craig.

A ballot had to be taken for the election of the executive, there being six nominations and four to be elected. The other nominations were Messrs. Art Johnson and J. M. Oldham.

The appointment of an assistant-secretary-treasurer was left in the hands of the Executive Committee.

On motion Thos. McGeachie of the Executive Committee, was appointed as representative of the local club at the annual convention of the O. H. A., to be held in Toronto to-morrow. Secretary-Treasurer R. M. Glover is a member of the O. H. A. Executive, and will also be present at the big annual gathering.

The meeting discussed the different proposed amendments to the O. H. A. constitution, in order to get the opinion of local authorities on the proposed changes. Little fault was found in the amendments, with the exception of those fathered by Jas. T. Sutherland of Kingston, and Bernhardt of Preston. The Kingston magnate proposes a change in the definition of what shall constitute a goal, to the effect that if the puck strikes the iron cross bar at the top of the nets and rebounds out in front, it shall be counted a score, while on the other hand, if the puck hits the cross-bar and bounds over the net, it shall not be declared a goal. It was felt that such a rule would lead to confusion and probably some unsatisfactory arguments. Mr. Bernhardt's amendment is the radical one of allowing clubs to substitute players in the first half of a match in the event of players being unable to continue. Under the present rule, if a player is injured, or has to retire for any reason whatsoever, the opposing side must drop a man. Objection was taken by the meeting to this amendment on the ground that it would be injurious to teams from the s...aller towns where players are at a premium. However, the Peterborough delegate was not given any special instructions in regard to the amendments.

The executive will meet early next week to hear the reports from the representative at the O.H.A. meeting, to elect an assistant secretary-treasurer, to make arrangements for the use of the rink and to transact important business, preparatory to the actual opening of the season.

Varsity's opinion of Saturday's game. It is pretty hard to figure out what team will be Varsity's opponent in the final game. Argonauts have a stone wall wing line, composed of several good tacklers and magnificent buckers. The half-backs are all capable of playing a good game, but are not very dependable. The Alerts also have a strong, experienced wing line. Their backers are all sure catches, but only fair at running, kicking, and combination play. If the Alerts can hold Smirlie Lawson, they ought to win against the slow-scoring Argonauts.

There is but little difference in weights between Argos and Alerts. On the wing line there is only 34 pounds. In the scrimmage Argos are heavier, but Alerts are heavier at outside wing. Argos have a big advantage in weights. On the back division it is about an even break.

Ralph Ripley is coaching the Alerts for Saturday's game. "Rip" has the necessary ginger and he certainly can instill "git" into any crowd.

HILLIARD LANG'S GOOD SHOWING

(Toronto Star.)

Manager Tommy Ryan of the Olympic A.C. is forcing New York to take notice of the claims of Hilliard Lang of Toronto to the true welterweight boxing title.

Here is what "Bat" Masterson, the New York Journal fight expert, has to say in answer to an enquiry by Ryan as to the true welterweight champion.

"You can search me, Mr. Ryan. I've no more idea who is the welterweight champion of the country than you have." Mr. Ryan is the manager of the Olympic Athletic Club of Toronto, Canada. He is anxious to find out who holds the welterweight championship in this country, and has requested me to supply him with the information.

"Honey Mellody claims he was never beaten for the title at 142 pounds and therefore is champion of that class,' writes the Toronto promoter. He also writes to know if the American people recognize Mellody's claim. So far as I personally know, I can't say whether they do or whether they don't; nor am I able to state with any degree of certainty whether 142 to 145 pounds is the recognized weight in this country for the welterweight class.

"Some years ago a fighter contending for the welterweight championship was required to weigh 142 pounds ringside. In late years, however, the weight has ranged anywhere from 145 to 150 pounds. Not long ago Willie Lewis and Jeff Smith boxed a ten-round draw at catchweights. Both claimed to be welterweights, and although neither man weighed for the contest, it is safe to assume that neither was below 147 pounds when he entered the ring.

Badly Mixed.

"In my opinion, Harry Lewis has a better claim to the title than any fighter we have, but its doubtful if he would agree to weigh under 147 pounds at 3 o'clock. The welterweight class, so far as weight is concerned is as badly mixed as the bantams and feathers. The bantamweight limit which should be 115 pounds, is held at 115 by Johnny Couton, but the feathers fightall the way from 118 to 122 pounds, so one one knows who is the real welterweight champion.

"Mr. Ryan offers to match Lang against any man in the world at 142 pounds ringside and will bet $1,000 on the side that this man wins. If, therefore, there be any 142-pound men in the country who think they can fight well enough to beat Lang, all they have to do is to notify Mr. Thomas F. Ryan, manager of the Olympic Athletic Club, Toronto, Ont., Canada, in order to be accommodated.

Lang, together with Frank Carroll the lightweight, and Charlie Conkle their manager, returned home yesterday from a hunting trip near Selwood, Ont., and now both are busy getting off weight to meet their next engagements at the Olympic A.C. double-star bill here November 23. Lang will likely meet Charlie Lawrence of New York and Carroll take on "Fighting Joe" Hyland of the same village at 145 and 133 pounds 3 o'clock respectively.

Carroll is a little peeved because Tom Flanagan did not hand him the lightweight championship belt and let him defend it. He certainly had a strong claim. Anyway he will challenge Allen for the jewelry.

HOCKEY

There will be an important meeting of the executive of the Church Hockey League on Saturday night in the Y. M. C. A., at 7.30 o'clock, to make arrangements in regard to the rink, and to attend to other business of an imperative nature. It is hoped that every member of the executive will attend this meeting.

A meeting of All Saints' Hockey Club will be held in the Parish Hall to-night, Friday. All those interested are asked to be present, as there is some important business to discuss.

The Presbyterians will hold an organization meeting in Knox Church at 7.30 o'clock on Monday evening next. Hockey players and fans from St. Paul's, St. Andrew's and Knox are requested to attend, as a Presbyterian team is to be entered in the Church Hockey League.

In connection with the financial statement presented at the annual meeting of the Peterborough Hockey Club last night, it might be stated that the local club goes on the principle that nothing is too good for its players. They are provided with the best of equipment and training facilities, and the operations of the season are carried on with the object of giving the members of the Club the most enjoyment possible out of the game. As one of those present last night remarked: "Fun is all the players can get out of the game," and therefore the Club wisely declines to adopt a parsimonious attitude in the management of the teams. The esprit de corps between officers and players, that has resulted, has been of great benefit to the game, and has made the winter season one full of enjoyment and interest to executive and playing members alike.

With the thermometer getting down to the zero mark and the annual meeting of the Peterborough Hockey Club now a matter of history, the question that naturally arises in the mind of the average fan is: "What are the chances this winter?" As far as can be told from an ante-season view of the situation, the outlook for two strong teams is very bright. The intermediate team will have a host of good material. During the past year a couple of players who may be found sources of strength, have become residents of Peterborough, and will likely turn out with the blue and white. One of these is Bearss, who formerly played with Ingersoll. He is a defence man, a strapping six-footer, who looks as if he could stop a runaway freight train. Another is Anderson, who hails from Tilsonburg, and who is said to be a capable forward. Although goal-keeper Leo Derocher is attending St. Michael's College, he is, of course, eligible to play with Peterborough, if he elects to do so. Jack Patterson, goal keeper for the Grillers last year, is also available, so that the Intermediates will not be found wanting, as far as custodians of the nets are concerned. For the defence positions there are, in addition to Bearss, Percy Bond, of last year's team, and Fred Denison. It is a matter of congratulation that the latter is residing at home now, as he should be a star of the first magnitude this winter. Captain Charlie Ray will be an absentee from the forward line, but Bud Kelly, Maurice Park and Cyril Giroux, of last year's team, are still here and with Anderson, of Tilsonburg, and some of the juniors, who are ripe to step into faster company, no difficulty should be experienced in rounding up an advance guard that will take some some beating.

While last year's junior team has been badly riddled by the removal from the city of some players, and the fact that others are now too old there is an enthusiastic coterie of skilful youngsters to select a seven from, and the Grillers should have another successful season. They will have to dig up a brand new defence as Goal Keeper Patterson, Point Reynolds and Cover Point Heffernan will not be available.

The amendment which the Executive of the Peterborough Hockey Club has considered sending to the O. H. A., that the team be reduced from seven men to six, has been dropped for the time being. The announcement of the amendment was made some time ago, in order to draw the opinion of the players and fans, generally, on the proposal, and the general feeling seems to be against the amendment, so that no further action will be taken by the Executive this year.

BEWARE OF BLOOD-POISON

Zam-Buk is A Sure Cure

Mr. James Davey, of 786 Ellice Avenue, Winnipeg, says: "A few months since I was cured of a poisoned finger through the timely use of Zam-Buk.

"I cut a deep gash across the knuckle on the first finger of my right hand in opening a lobster can. I suffered at the time with the soreness and pain, but had no idea it would become a serious wound. However, in about two days I was greatly alarmed; as my whole hand and arm to the elbow became suddenly inflamed, and the finger was much discoloured, showing signs of blood-poisoning. The pain was dreadful and I was forced to leave off my work and go home.

"The wound on the knuckle had been poisoned by dust and dirt getting into it. I then decided to start the Zam-Buk treatment, and having first bathed the cut, I applied the healing balm. It soothed the pain almost instantly, and by next day there was a great improvement.

"In a week's time, through perseverance with this wonderful preparation, a complete cure was brought about."

Zam-Buk is just as good for eczema, ulcers, scalp sores, abscesses, piles, ringworm, boils, varicose ulcers, running sores, cold sores, chapped hands, etc. It draws all poisonous foulness from a wound or sore and then heals. Use it, too, for cuts, burns, bruises and all skin injuries. Zam-Buk Soap should be used in conjunction to the balm for washing wounds and sore places. Excellent too for baby's bath.

All druggists and stores sell Zam-Buk at 50c. box and Zam-Buk Soap at 25c. tablet. Post free upon receipt of price from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

The programme for the entertainment that is to be given by the members of the Physical Department will include parallel bar work, pyramid building, with and without apparatus, marching and calisthenic instrumen- [illegible] and mat work.

The matriculation class held a most successful banquet last evening, when Mr. Lee, Immigration Secretary, gave a most interesting address.

The reception tendered the employees of the Brinton Carpet Co. was a great success. There were some sixty men who came up to the building and all had a good time. A class of intermediates in the gymnasium entertained the men to some very classy work on the floor and a good game of basketball. Then the men chose teams for a game of bowling. Mr. I. Brock captained the winning team. Two of the men from the Brinton Company gave an exhibition of wrestling which was very much enjoyed by their fellow employees. Then a number of the men donned running gahoes and had a good time on the gymnasium floor for a half an hour after which all hands had a swim in the plunge bath. Refreshments were served in the reception hall and a few minutes after ten the men left for their homes after having a very enjoyable evening.

BROCKVILLE SUCCESS OF MR. IRVING BEERS

Mr. Irving Beers, who will be well remembered for his association with amateur theatricals in Peterborough, last season, is meeting with great success in the same line in Brockville. Wednesday night, under the auspices of the Daughters of the Empire, he put on "All the Comforts of Home" to a crowded house. The cast includes representatives of the foremost families in Brockville. The officers of the 41st Regiment were present in uniform.

MAY ROBSON

"The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary"

This is Miss Robson's third season as "Aunt Mary," under the direct management of Mr. L. S. Sire, who has given the play a most elaborate production, and made "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary" one of the most famous plays of the present day. This was possible with the extraordinary genius of May Robson, for developing eccentric old women and making the character distinct, impressive, and very funny, yet human, and not a stage character, and one is apt to forget May Robson, and see only the eccentric old maid, with her smiles and tears, her odd expressions and big-heartedness.

The play is divided into three acts, the first and last of which takes place in the old colonial home of Aunt Mary, while the second act is laid at the home of a wealthy young New Yorker, Jack Watkins, is a young college man, who, while something over six feet in height, never grew up mentally until he met the girl.

Aunt Mary has the ready money, and has not only brought him up, but has furnished the amounts necessary at different times to get him out of trouble. At the opening of the play Jack has shot somebody's cook in the arm, for which $500 is asked; pounded a cabman soundly, for which a demand of $5,000 is made, and got himself tangled up in some way with a girl from Kalamazoo, who thinks $15,000 about right for her lacerated feelings. Jack is a strapping fellow and looks better qualified to saw wood than to beat up a cabman and live on the bounty of Aunt Mary. Aunt Mary may stand for everything with a ready pocketbook until the girl from Kalamazoo comes on the scene. She believes that Jack has gone a little too far this time and tearfully destroys her will. Three weeks later she is lured to the home of Jack's friend, Burnett, in New York, where, at the hands of her nephew and his friends, the rejuvenation begins.

Miss Robson, who is starring in this play, appears at The Grand on Wednesday next, and on Thursday evening, in "A Night Out."

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

"SOMEONE has said 'thinking' is just what nobody wishes to do. These words hold the explanation of the insufficiency and mediocrity of human existence, for truly no one wishes to reflect. How many even intelligent men and women live without ever performing this function."
—Dora Melegari.

How often do you think?

"What a ridiculous question," you say. "Why, all the time, of course."

But do you?

I know I don't.

And before you are so cocksure that you do, please let me define what I mean by thinking.

Or better still, I'll let someone else define it for me. "I am entirely convinced," says Arnold Bennett, "that what is more than anything else lacking in the life of the average, well intentioned man of to-day is the reflective mood. We do not reflect. I mean, we do not reflect upon genuinely important things; upon the direction in which we are going; upon what life is giving to us; upon the share which reason has in determining our actions; and upon the relation between our principle and our conduct."

Now, that's the kind of thinking I mean.

And how much of it do you do?

You sit in a trolley car—by "you" I mean you and your next door neighbour—and I, all rolled into one, in a word, "the average person"—and you look out the window and dream. You see a white gown getting spattered with mud and you think you must have your white nainsook washed next week. From that your mind roves idly to a new frock you are going to have made and a letter you must write to your dressmaker, and then you think how warm it is for his time of year, and wonder if it's that which makes you so sleepy, or because you sat up rather later than usual to play cards, or you wonder what time so-and-so got home.

So your mind drifts.

But that isn't thinking any more than idly paddling your hands in the water is rowing, or will propel your boat to any definite destination.

Of course, one must rest on one's oars some of the time, but on the other hand one must row occasionally if one wants to get anywhere.

And the men and women who do get somewhere in this world are the men and women who do set to, and row some of the time instead of perpetually drifting, the men and women who do think occasionally instead of dreaming all the time.

Suppose the next time you are sitting in a trolley car with half an hour in which to dream you try thinking instead.

Concentrate on some important letter you have to write and think out just what you are going to say.

Try to recall some of the poetry you once learned.

Think over some big public question, such as woman's suffrage or prohibition, or the need of more stringent divorce laws, or the recall, and marshal all the arguments for and against.

Study the advertisements in the car. Decide which are good and which are poor and why.

Or, best of all, reflect upon some genuinely important things—upon the direction in which you are going—upon what life is giving you.

Of course, as Mr. Bennet warns us, "you will not have gon ten yards before your mind has skipped away under your very eye and is larking round the corner with another subject."

But if it does, to quote once more, "bring it back by the scruff of the neck. Bring it back forty times if necessary."

If you do perhaps by and by you may get the habit of really thinking.

Don't you want to try it?

"I will if you will."

The Great McEwen Won The Handcuffs From Det. Newhall

The Great McEwen climaxed the series of amazing feats with which he has been astounding the people of Peterborough at the Grand last evening, when he made his escape from a pair of handcuffs brought by Detective Newhall of the Police Deparment, which the local officer was confident would safely hold Prof. McEwen.

When McEwen commenced his hand-cuff work last evening he invited the officers to come upon the stage and Detective Newhall and P. C. Kidd accepted the invitation. They had several pair of handcuffs in addition to the set secured by the detective, but these were easy for McEwen, who asked Detecive Newhall to take out his watch and time him, but who had the manacles off before the officer could produce his time-piece. The other set were a different proposition, however, and there was a roar of laughter when the detective produced them. The outfit consisted of a pair of cuffs joined together by a long iron bar which is locked in the centre, with the result that the hands were kept a foot apart.

McEwen looked first at the cuffs, then at the officers and then at the audience. Then he scratched his head.

"Are these official hand-cuffs?" he asked.

Detective Newhall replied in the affirmative.

"In what country, Iceland?" remarked McEwen. "I have been in every country in the world, even in Greenland and Iceland, but I never saw a pair of hand-cuffs like those before. However, I'll try hem."

The cuffs were fastened behind the Professor's back and he retired to the cabinet. After working for a few minutes he made his appearance and asked to be given a look at the key which opened the cuffs. Detective Newhall held the key up in front of him and he studied it a few seconds after which he re-entered the cabinet. It was not long before he reappeared with the cumbersome cuffs off and was greeted with enthusiastic cheering and applause by the big audience. "The understanding was, I was to get these cuffs if I took them off," inquired McEwen, and Detective Newhall nodded assent. The officers were the first to applaud the wonderful performance given by the hand-cuff expert. "He's a wonder," remarked P. C. Kidd to the Examiner afterwards.

The mesmeric and hypnotic experiments last night were decidedly amusing. Probably the funniest was the boat race scene in which two of the subjects were placed in tubs armed with sticks and given the suggestion that they were John Gander, former champion of the world and Johnston the Pacific coast champion and they were have a championship race. The other members of the class imagined they were on the deck of a steamer watching the race and there was great excitement, especially when one of the contestants upset his "shell" and had to swim to shore. "Bubbles" in which the subjects were told that they were school boys trying to see which could blow the biggest soap bubble was another scream.

To-night will be the last opportunity Peterborough people will have of seeing the Great McEwen, as he completes his engagement this evening. He has given a week of solid fun and mystery and will be a welcome visitor whenever he chooses to come back. There will be a complete change of programme for the final appearance to-night.

R. R. HALL'S ADDRESS

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST PETERBOROUGH

In Which He Sets Forth His Platform as Justification of the Support of the Electors—To Safeguard Popular Rights and Promote Progressive Measures

GENTLEMEN:

As the unanimously nominated candidate of the Liberals of this Riding, it is incumbent upon me to suggest some of the considerations and features of policy I favour in order to justify me in soliciting your support. I therefore submit to you some of the main planks of the Liberal platform and my own on which I stand and if, as a result of your support, I am elected, I shall use my best endeavours to have them given effect.

WORKMAN'S COMPENSATION ACT

The Workman's Compensation Act should be radically remodelled, embodying the best features of the English and German Acts and extended so that full and ample damages may be given to a workman or his family on account of any injury he may sustain in the course of his employment and that without a law suit.

Moreover, the workman or his family under such a law should not be called upon to fight an expensive law suit in the courts with a wealthy corporation and be dragged from one Court of Appeal to another with the evident advantage in the long run to the longest purse, or else be compelled to accept a mere pittance for the injury he has sustained.

THE FACTORIES ACT

In order to prevent accidents to workmen, provision should be made for a more frequent inspection by competent inspectors, whose duty should be to see that dangerous machinery and places are properly guarded, fire escapes furnished, sanitary and ventilation facilities improved, and every step taken to protect and preserve the life, limb and health of employees.

Many accidents happen to employees due to working them too long hours. The employer should be made liable for this increased risk. He should either be compelled to give shorter hours to his employees or else be compelled to assume increased risk which follows in consequence of an employee being over-tired and over-worked.

EDUCATION

A more progressive and adequate educational policy is urgently needed. More liberal grants should be given in aid of primary education, in the promotion of industrial training and technical schools in urban and rural communities; and in the establishment of night schools for the benefit of those who have been forced to leave school at an early age to earn their own living. Model schools should be restored with a view of increasing the supply of efficient and qualified teachers.

Two great general principles should underlie our educational system in this English-speaking province which forms such an important part of this English-speaking continent, namely:

(a) Every child in the Province should have a thorough elementary education.

(b) Every child should have a thorough knowledge of the English language.

To attain this end, necessary laws and regulations should be passed and enforced and liberal aid should be given to provide further adequate training schools and a sufficient supply of competent and qualified teachers for every School Section in every part of the Province.

Were this done, tens of thousands of our fellow citizens would not be as they are now deprived of the opportunity of acquiring any knowledge of the English language.

AGRICULTURE

The rural population of Ontario is declining in this Province, which contains the richest and best farm lands on this continent. This state of affairs can be reversed by bringing about the active immigration into this Province of suitable people for settlement and employment upon our farm lands; by the building of good roads throughout Ontario, and thereby facilitating traffic and insuring quick delivery of farm and garden produce; by increasing the rural telephone service; by the location of a demonstrator in every rural riding, and by the establishment of suitable demonstration farms in each riding, and by showing to the farmers through such demonstration farms the resulfts of successful experiments in every branch of agriculture.

NEW ONTARIO

New Ontario should be developed and settled and its railway facilities utilized and the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway should be made to do service as a colonization road, and should be extended to the Hudson Bay, and branches should be built as the development of the country demands.

A speedy end should be put to the neglect to settle, and develop, the agricultural possibilities of New Ontario, such as has marked the past seven years. A government with an earnest desire to do something to develop the agricultural possibilities of this splendid farming region, would do something to facilitate its settlement which is now handicapped from lack of roads to give new settlers access to or egress from their premises. Without roads or the sympathic attitude of a government the settler in New Ontario is greatly handicapped and the settlement of the country is correspondingly retarded.

TAXATION

The Assessment Act should be so amended so as to permit a municipality, if it so desires, to exempt improvements from taxation, either in whole or in part, and to provide for the removal of the existing inequalities of taxation.

AID TO CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS

The alarming prevalence of tuberculosis calls for the aid of the Provincial Government, which it is not now receiving, (and is rudely denied) to assist in the provision of facilities for curative or pallative treatment for those whose means prevent this. To this end I would favor amendment of the Succession Duties Act so as to impose an additional percentage of taxation on the estates of very wealthy men, say $250,000.00 and over, to provide a fund to be devoted to the maintenance of tuberculosis sanitaria and the aid of the work of the Children's Aid Society.

PROVINCIAL AID TO RADIAL RAILWAYS

Peterborough is particularly well located for the establishment of a system of radial railways in this district owing to the large number of water powers that would furnish cheap operation. These railways would provide the city with more of the necessaries of life at a cheaper rate; would furnish cheaper and better accommodation to farmers in bringing their produce to market; and attract tourists to our summer resorts. Aid should be given to attain this end, with a percentage of profits to be returned to the Province, after roads are in operation and earning reasonable dividends.

In addition to what I have above recited I shall feel it my duty to support any measure to meet the legitimate demands of a progressive people. If you think that I shall be able to give you valuable and effective, as it shall be my aim to give you, faithful service, I respectfully ask your vote and support.

As it will be impossible for me to personally call upon all the Electors, I trust that this means of communicating my position will meet with your approval and secure me the favour of your vote and support.

Yours respectfully,

R. R. HALL.

ANSWERS
By J. W. BROWETT, Optometrist
Q. Why do school children with good sight require glasses?
A. Mainly to rest the eyes. The eye does not obtain its growth until the child is about the age of twelve. The growing eye is taxed beyond its strength; the proper glasses rest and preserve the eyes.
Q. Why do children squint?
A. By squinting or frowning the muscle in the eye is relieved of strain; this is Nature's way. Study-glasses relieve this strain, and thus prevent squint.
Q. Why do children have eye headaches?
A. An eye headache is a reflex pain caused by straining the eyes; the pain may be over the eyes or through the temples. The remedy for eye headaches is relief glasses, to be worn while studying.

GAS, DYSPEPSIA AND INDIGESTION GOES
Makes Your Disordered Stomach Feel Fine in Five Minutes
You can eat anything your stomach craves without fear of Indigestion or Dyspepsia, or that your food will ferment or sour on your stomach, if you will take a little Diapepsin occasionally.
Your meals will taste good, and any thing you eat will be digested; nothing can ferment or turn into acid or poison or stomach gas, which causes Belching, Dizziness, a feeling of fullness after eating, Nausea, Indigestion (like a lump of lead in stomach), Biliousness, Heartburn, Water Brash, pain in stomach and intestines or other symptoms.
Headaches from the stomach are absolutely unknown where this effective remedy is used. Diapepsin really does all the work of a healthy stomach. It digests your meals when your stomach cannot. A single dose will digest all the food you eat and leave nothing to ferment or sour and upset the stomach.
Get a large 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from your druggist, and start taking now, and in a little while you will actually brag about your healthy, strong Stomach, for you then can eat anything and everything you want without the slightest discomfort or misery, and every particle of impurity and Gas that is in your stomach and intestines is going to be carried away without the use of laxatives or any other assistance.
Should you at this moment be suffering from Indigestion or any stomach disorder, you can surely get relief within five minutes.

Peach stones, it has been discovered in California, burn as well as the best coal, and give out more heat in proportion to weight. The stones taken out of the fruit that is canned or dried are collected and sold for this purpose.

When ordering meat always bear in mind that beef when boiled loses nearly one pound in every four, and when roasted quite eighteen ounces. Mutton will lose even more than this. For this reason pies, puddings, etc., are far more economical than joints, and in many cases more nourishing.

"THE AVENGER"

"There are cases of that sort," Heneage admitted. "That is the advantage of being an amateur like myself. My discoveries, if I make any, are my own. I am not bound to publish them."

Wrayson smiled a little bitterly.

"You would be less than human if you didn't," he said.

Heneage rose to his feet and began putting on his coat. Wrayson remained in his seat, without offering to help him.

"So I may take it, I suppose," he said, as he moved towards the door, "that my visit to you is a failure?"

"I have not the slightest idea of running away, if that is what you mean," Wrayson answered. "I am obliged to you for your warning, but what I did I am prepared to stand by."

"I am sorry," Heneage answered. "Good-night!"

CHAPTER XII.

Wrayson paused for a moment in his work to answer the telephone which stood upon his table.

"What is it?" he asked sharply.

His manager spoke to him from the office below.

"Sorry to disturb you, sir, but there is a young man here who won't go away without seeing you. His name is Barnes, and he says that he has just arrived from South Africa."

It was a busy morning for Wrayson, for in an hour or so the paper went to press, but he did not hesitate for a moment.

"I will see him," he declared. "Bring him up yourself."

Wrayson laid down the telephone. Morris Barnes had come from South Africa. It was a common name enough, and yet, from the first, he was sure that this was some relative. What was the object of his visit? The ideas chased one another through his brain. Was he, too, an avenger?

There was a knock at the door, and the clerk from downstairs ushered in his visitor. Wrayson could scarcely repress a start. It was a younger edition of Morris Barnes who stood there, with an irritating smile upon his pale face, a trifle more Semitic in appearance, perhaps, but in other respects the likeness was almost startling. It extended even to the clothes, for Wrayson recognized with a start a purple and white tie of particularly loud pattern. The coat of the coat, the glossiness of his hat and boots, too, were all strikingly reminiscent of the dead man.

His visitor was becoming nervous under Wrayson's close scrutiny. His manner betrayed a curious mixture of diffidence and assurance. He seemed over-anxious to create a favourable impression.

"I took the liberty of coming to see you, Mr. Wrayson," he said, twisting his ha around in his hand. "My name is Barnes, Sydney Barnes. Morris Barnes was my brother."

Wrayson pointed to a chair, into which his visitor subsided with exaggerated expressions of gratitude.

He had very small black eyes, set very close together, and he blinked continually. The more Wrayson studied him, the less prepossessing he found him.

"What can I do for you, Mr. Barnes?" he asked quietly.

"I have just come from Cape Town," the young man said. "Such a shock it was to me—about my poor brother! Oh! such a shock!"

"How did you hear about it?" Wrayson asked.

"Just a newspaper—I read an account of it all. It did give me a turn, week, but I felt I must come home at and no mistake. Directly I finished I went and booked my passage on the "Dunottar Castle." I had a very fair berth over there—two quid a week, but I felt I must come home at once. Fact is," he continued, looking down at his trousers, "I had no time to get my own togs together. I was so anxious, you see. That's why I'm wearing some of poor Morris's."

"'Pon my sam, I am," the other answered with emphasis. "We hadn't a relation in the world. Father and mother died ten years ago, and Morris and I were the only two. Anything that poor Morris possessed belongs to me, sure! There's no one else to claim a farthing's worth. You must know that yourself, Mr. Wrayson, eh?"

"If, as you say, you are the only relative, your brother's effects, of course belong to you," Wrayson answered.

"It's a sure thing," the young man declared. "I've been to the landlord of the flat, and he gave me up the keys at once. There's only a quarter's rent owing. Pretty stiff, though—isn't it? Fifty pounds!"

"Your brother's was a furnished flat, I believe," Wrayson answered. "That makes a difference, of course."

The young man's face fell.

"Then the furniture wasn't his?" he remarked.

Wrayson shook his head.

"No! the furniture belongs to the landlord. There will be an inventory of course, and you will be able to find out if anything was your brother's."

It was obvious that Mr. Sydney Barnes had not as yet entered upon the purpose of his visit. He fidgetted for a moment or two with his hat, and looked up at Wrayson, only to look nervously away again. To set him more at his ease, Wrayson lit a cigarette and passed the box over.

"Thank you, Mr. Wrayson! Thank you, sir!" his visitor exclaimed. "You see I am a smoker," he added, holding up a yellow stained forefinger; "that is I smoke when I can afford to. Things have been pretty dicky out in South Africa lately, you know. Terrible hard it has been to make a living."

"Your brother was supposed to have done pretty well out there," Wrayson remarked more for the sake of keeping the conversation alive than anything. The effect of his words, however, was electrical. Mr. Sydney Barnes leaned over from his chair, and his little black eyes twinkled like polished beads.

"Mr. Wrayson," he declared, "a week before he sailed for England, Morris was on his uppers! He was caught in Johannesburg when the war broke out, an dhe had to stay there. When he turend up in Cape Town again, his own mother wouldn't have known him. He was in rags—he'd come down on a freight—he hadn't a scrap of luggage or a copper to his name. That was Morris when he came to me at Cape Town!"

Wrayson was listening attentively—he almost feared to let his visitor see how interested he was.

"He was fair done in!" the young man continued. "He never had the pluck of a chicken, and the night he found me in Cape Town he cried like a baby. He had lost everything, he said. It was no use staying in the country any longer. He was wild to get back to England. And yet, do you know sir, I had the idea that he was keeping something back from me. And he was! He was, too! The——!"

He stopped short. The vindictiveness of his countenance supplied the epithet.

"You'll excuse me if I am a bit excited, Mr. Wrayson," he continued. "I'll leave you to judge how I've been served when you hear all. He got over me, and I lent him nearly half of my savings, and he started back to England. He took this flat at two hundred pounds a year the very week he got back, and he's lived, from what I can hear, like a lord ever since. Will you believe me, sir! He sent back the money he borrowed from me a quid at a time, and wrote me to say that he was saving it with great difficulty—out of his salary of three pounds a week. When he'd paid back the lot, I never heard another line from him. I was doing rotten myself, and he knew very well that I should have been over first steamer if I'd known about his two hundred a year flat, an dall he rest of it. What do you think of my brother, sir, eh? What do you think of him? Treated me nicely, didn't he? Nine pounds ten it was I lent him, and nine pounds ten was all I had back, and here he was living like a duke, and lying to me about his three pounds a week; and there was I hawkering groceries on a barrow, selling sham diamonds, any blooming thing to get a mouthful to eat. Nice sort of a brother that, eh? What?"

Wrayson repressed an inclination to smile. There was something grimly humorous about his visitor's indignation.

"You must remember," he said, "your broher is dead, and hat his death in itself was a terrible one. Besides, even if you have had to wait for a long time you are his heir now."

The young man was breathing hard. The perspiration stood out in little beads upon his forehead. He showed his teeth a little. He was becoming more and more unpleasant to look upon as his excitement increased.

"Look here, Mr .Wrayson!" he exclaimed. "I'm coming to that. I've been through his things. Clothes! I never saw such a collection. All from a west-end tailor, too! And boots! Patent, with white tops; pumps, and everything slap up! Heaven knows what he must have spent upon his clothes. Bills from restaurants, too—why, he seems to have thought nothing of spending a quid or two on a dinner or a supper. Photographs of ladies, little notes asking him to tea—why, between you and me, Mr. Wrayson, sir, he was living like a prince! And look here!"

He rose to his feet and planked down a bank book on his desk in front of Wrayson.

"Look here, sir," he declared. "Every three months, within a day or two, cash—five hundred pounds. Here you are. Here's the last: Mar. 27—cash 500 pounds! Look back! Jan 1—By cash 500 pounds! October 2—cash, 500 pounds! There you are, right back to the very day he arrived in England. And he left South Africa with ten bob of mine in his pocket, after he'd paid his passage! and from what I can hear, he never did a day's work after he landed. And me over there working thirteen and fourteen hours a day, and half the time stony-broke! There's a brother for you! Cain was a fool to him!"

"But you must remember that after all you are going to reap the benefit of it now," Wrayson remarked.

"Ah! but am I?" the young man exclaimed fiercely. "That's what I want to know. Look here! I've been through every letter and every scrap of paper that I can find, I've been to the banks and to his few pals, and strike me dead if I can find where that five hundred pounds came from every three months! It was in gold always; he must have gone and had it changed somewhere—five hundred golden sovereigns every three months—and I can't find where they came from!"

"Have you been to a solicitor?" Wrayson asked.

"Not yet," he young man answered. "I don't see what good he'll be when I do. Morris was always one of the close sort, and I can't fancy him spending much over lawyers."

"What made you come to me?" Wrayson inquired

"Well, the caretaker at the flat told me that you and Morris used to speak now and then, and I am trying every one. I'm afraid he wasn't quite classy enough for you to have palled up with, but I thought he might have let something slip, perhaps."

Wrayson shook his head.

"He never spoke to me of his affairs. "He always seemed to have plenty of money though."

"Doesn't the bank book prove it?" the young man exclaimed excitedly. "Everyone who knew anything about him says the same. There was I half starved in Cape Town, and here was he spending two thousand a year. Beast he was! I'll find out where it came from if it takes a lifetime."

Wrayson leaned back in his chair. Nothing since the events of that night itself had appealed to him more than the coming of that young man and his strange story.

"I a msorry that I have no information to give you," he said. "On the other hand, if I can help you in any other way I shall be very glad."

"What should you advise me to do?" the young man asked.

"I should like to think the matter over carefully," Wrayson answered. "What are your engagements for today? Can you lunch with me?"

"I have no engagemens," his visitor answered eagerly. "When and what time?"

Wrayson repressed a smile.

"I shall be ready in twenty minutes," he answered. "We'll go out together if you don't mind waiting."

"I'm on," Mr. Sydney Barnes declared, crossing his legs. "Don't you hurry on my account. I'll wait as long as you like."

CHAPTER XIII.

Wrayson took his guest to a popular restaurant, where there was music and a five course dinner for three and six. Their conversation during the earlier part of the meal was limited, for Mr. Sydney Barnes showed himself possessed of an appetite which his host contemplated with respectful admiration. His shallow cheeks became flushed and his nervousness had subsided, long before the arrival of the coffee.

"I say this is all right, this place is," he said, leaning back in his chair with a large cigar between his teeth. "Jolly expensive, I suppose, I suppose, isn't it?"

Wrayson smiled.

Many Years an Invalid—Untold Agony From Headaches

Dizziness, Sinking Spells and Excessive Weakness Disappear With Use of

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

Nearly every woman will read with interest the letter of Mrs. Geo. Bradshaw, quoted below. It tells of years of great suffering from nervous Headache and other symptoms arising from weak, watery blood and a starved and exhausted condition of the nervous system.

Mrs. George Bradshaw, Cosy Nook, Harlowe, Ont., writes: "I am glad to state that I received benefits from Dr. Chase's Nerve Food which I failed to get any place else. I was troubled for many years, in fact from my early womanhood, with weak, watery blood, and given to dropsy. I suffered untold agonies from nervous sick headaches, dizziness, and sinking spells, in fact was a semi-invalid for many years. I tried many kinds of patent medicines and got no help, and tried every new doctor that came along ,but all failed to help me. Doctors told me I had no blood, and that my heart and kidneys were diseased, and that I had so many complaints there was not much use in doctoring up one or two. Four years ago I took six boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and was glad to see I felt better, and then got six more, and they have cured me of many of my complaints. When I began taking Nerve Food I weighed 110 pounds and to-day I weigh 139, and am 45 years old.

The Peerless Peninsular

a cast-iron range with modern oven and equipment

A wealthy mustard manufacturer once said that he made his profit not out of what people ate, but what they left on their plates.

The coal dealer might say about the same thing.

It's not the coal you use that buys his six-cylinder car, but the coal that goes up the chimney.

You might as well save some of that coal.

Building ranges to do good cooking and at the same time to save coal has kept us thinking and working over in Preston for upwards of 50 years. Every year improvements in range construction have been made. The flues have been widened here; a wall made thicker there; weight reduced in one spot and added to another. But every change has made the oven heat with less fuel and the construction of the range strong and durable. The perfect range which these years of study have produced is called "Peninsular."

Nickel ornaments, the number of lids, the special features or the size do not affect the internal construction or honest materials and workmanship that go into the "Peninsular." So that when buying one, a housewife may feel free to consult her own tastes as regards finish and appearance. If the range is "Peninsular" she will know that it will give her good bakings for the least amount of coal.

The Peerless

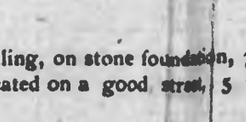
The PEERLESS Peninsular is a modern cast-iron range. Modern, because it has all the advantages of cast-iron and none of its disadvantages. In fact, it should be called a combination range—a combination of cast-iron steel. It has the firm close-fitting parts, the durable everlasting frame and the cosy home-like appearance, dear to all women; but—and here it differs from other cast-iron ranges—it also has a quick oven—an oven that heats evenly on every side, top and bottom—a square oven big enough to cook four pies at once; and it has a drop-oven door, which is not usual on a cast-iron range.

The PEERLESS Peninsular may be had with a steel warming closet and hot water reservoir and with a low shelf under the oven for pots, pans and irons.

The PEERLESS is a perfect beauty and has many a convenience not found on other ranges.

Take the top of the Peerless Peninsular.

It is made in three separate sections which are interchangeable and which slide along or lift out whenever you want to clean the flues.



In most ranges the oven is either "on" or "off." That is, it is getting full heat or none at all. The Peerless Peninsular oven is regulated by means of a slide damper so as to get just as much heat as you need. This is a other way you save fuel.

Get "The Cost"

"THE COST of a Range" tells more about these Peninsular Ranges—not a list of pictures and prices, but a book showing that the after-cost is the big cost and how the "Peninsular" cuts it down. Yours, for the asking.

WHY DON'T YOU DO IT NOW?

Something you mean to mend your ways—
Why don't you do it now?
You hope to win the whole world's praise—
Why don't you do it now?
You've always read in prose and rhyme—
"The present is the golden time,"
If you are ever going to climb,
Why don't you do it now?
In short, no matter what you've planned,
Why don't you do it now?
If you have work right at your hand,
Why don't you do it now?
Successful men are never late;
Don't fail if you procrastinate.
If you have vowed to conquer fate,
Why don't you do it now?

WHAT BOYS THINK THEY SHOULD LEARN

According to the idea of many of the rising generation a young man should learn to lie, to flirt, to cheat, to swear, to drink, to play billiards, to swagger in the streets, to live without work, to ogle every pretty girl he sees, to treat his elders with disrespect, to talk loud in the presence of others, to put on style whether he can afford it or not, to boast of the feminine conquests he has made, to have every slang term on his tongue's end, to gossip with his chums about his lady acquaintances, to attract all the attention to himself that he possibly can, to talk like a loafer and a fop instead of a quiet, sensible man, to call his father "the old man" and his mother "the old woman," to think ill of every woman he sees, and to speak ill of her every chance he gets, to turn up his nose at those quiet, sober, industrious young men who do not train in his crowd, to treat his sister without any sort of regard, to treat her like an ill-bred loafer instead of like a gentleman.

Here is your picture, fast young man true to life! Look at it! How do you like it? What have these characteristics made of you? What will they do for you? What has the future in store for you? Unless you change your course most radically—Ruin.

There is many a young man proud of his mother, who would strike into the dust any man who would insult her, yet who, by his own evil doings and bad habits, is sharpening a dagger to plunge through that mother's heart.

THE TEACHING OF CHILDREN

What should children be taught to believe in order that, when they grow up they may find that later experience does not alter what they learnt when younger? We must teach them that, beyond what they feel and see and touch, there is something better and greater which they can neither feel nor see nor touch, unselfishness, giving up their inclinations—these are the best things in the world. It is true that goodness and kindness have no faces that we can kiss; no hands that we can clasp; but these are certainly there, in the midst of our work and our play. And this goodness and kindness which, except in outward acts, we cannot see, is something which existed before we were born. It is from this that we have all the pleasant things of this world: the flowers, the sunshine, the moonlight—all these were given us by some great kindness and goodness which we have never seen at all. And this goodness and love are that great Power from which all things come.

Well assorted marriages are essential to good homes. This is nature's law in the case. To violate it is to bring swift punishment on the heads of the violaters, as well as to bring a curse upon posterity. The husband and wife who are not suited to each other lead cat and dog lives. Their children are unwelcome and grow up without care. The home atmosphere is not suited to the healthy growth of virtue and refinement. What is the result? A family of ill-natured, quarrelsome, unrefined children. They marry and carry to their homes the same atmosphere and rear other families like unto the ones in which they were raised. The wonder is that there are as many agreeable and cultured people in the world as there are.

The well informed woman may generally be known, not so much by what she tells you, as by what she does not tell you; for she is the last to take pleasure in mere gossip, or make vulgar allusion to the appearance, dress or personal habits of her friends and neighbors.

LET THE BOYS MAKE THEMSELVES

There are just as many future millionaires blacking boots and selling papers to-day as there ever were. Every generation of successful men is possessed with the idea that either it had exceptional abilities or exceptional chances, the like of which the world will never know again. But the world goes on, wealthy men die and more men of equal or greater wealth succeed them.

There never yet was a period in the world's history when pluck, energy and industry, coupled with shrewd business sense, could not climb the rugged steep which leads to fortune. Boys and men must work always and wait often if they would win "in the fierce race for wealth." But working or waiting they will win if they seize their opportunities when these offer and ability to profit by them when they are seized. What we insist on in this question of "What shall we do with our boys" is that they shall be given a simple English education and then let them do for themselves. Give them the oyster-knife and let them seek the oyster of fortune and open it. If they can't do this the chances are ten to one that they would not have sufficient "git up and git" to take advantage of fortune even if brought to them on a half-shell.

Just now there is altogether too much solicitude on the part of parents as to what they will do with their boys, which leaves the impression on the minds of the young gentlemen of the period that something has got to be done for them, instead of encouraging the more manly thought that they must do for themselves. There is no reason to suppose that the channels to competence and wealth are fewer and more difficult than they were years ago.

A single bitter word may disquiet an entire family for a whole day: one surly glance cast a gloom over the household; while a smile, like a gleam of sunshine, may light up the darkest and weariest hours. Like unexpected flowers which spring up along our pathway full of freshness, fragrance and beauty, so kind words and gentle acts and sweet dispositions, make glad the sacred spot called home. No matter how humble the abode, if it be sweetened with kindness and smiles, the heart will turn lovingly toward it from all the tumults of the world, and home, if it be ever so homely, will be the dearest spot beneath the circuit of the sun.

OUT OF A BABE'S MOUTH

Dr. Kenyon L. Butterfield, president of the Massachusetts Agricultural College, said at a Republican banquet at White River Junction:

"In politics we must be straightforward. On the tariff question, the labor question, the trust question, we must be open and aboveboard. Any inconsistency or crawfishing will be visited on our heads a thousandfold. Yea, even out of the mouths of babes shall we be condemned."

Dr. Butterfield smiled.

"Like the rich uncle," he resumed. "A rich uncle of the rosy gilded type was riding his little niece on his knee, when the child lisped:

"'Uncle, how long does a person live?'

"'Three score years and ten, my dear, is our Scriptural allotment,' he replied, piously.

"'Then you,' said the pretty little girl, 'will have to be a hundred and forty, won't you?'

"'Ha, ha!' he laughed. 'Why should you think that, pet?'

"'Because,' said she, 'I heard mamma and papa say that you were leading a double life.'"—New York Tribune.

HAIR SPLITTER

"The hair splitter has his uses," Judge Ben B. Lindsay once declared in an address at a boys' Fourth of July picnic in Denver. "Don't despise the hair splitter. There is usually something in what he says."

Judge Lindsay held up an orange.

"I once asked a boy," he continued, "which he would rather have—one-half of an orange or eight-sixteenths.

"'One-half,' he replied.

"I smiled, for I thought I had him.

"'And why?' I asked.

"'Because,' said he, 'with the sixteenths you would lose nearly all the juice.'"—New York Tribune.

IN WRONG

"Ralph Moss, chairman of the House Committee on Expenditures in the Department of Agriculture, got in bad with his wife, soon after he arrived here," said an Indiana colleague of Mr. Moss's.

"It was like this: Ralph came down here, got busy making laws and forgot to go to church. When his wife arrived—that being Saturday night—she wanted to know where they would go to church the next day. Ralph thought and thought, like Br'er Fox, and the only church he could recall was one at the foot of Capitol Hill and, exclaiming that he had been there several times, he suggested that they go. So they did and took a front seat. A half-hour later, when they turned to look the congregation over, they found themselves surrounded by colored people."—Washington correspondence, New York World.

MEGAPHONES IN OIL

Robert Henri, the well known painter, was discussing in New York a very mediocre "old master" for which a Chicago promoter had paid an exorbitant sum.

"The man is content with his bargain," said Mr. Henri. "I am sure of that. To a millionaire of that type, you know, an 'old master' is surely a megaphone for his money to talk through."—Washington Star.

SAUCE HOLLANDAISE

Into a cup of good drawn butter beat the yolk of an egg freed from the white entirely. Beat for a minute and add, drop by drop, as for mayonnaise dressing, a dessertspoonful of the best salad oil. After another minute's beating the sauce should have the appearance of mayonnaise.

Now drop in two teaspoonfuls of lemon juice; a pinch of paprika or, if you prefer, a smaller dust of cayenne, half a saltspoonful of salt and as much sugar. Do all this in a bowl set in hot water and serve immediately.

A MUTUAL OPINION

Mrs. Knagger—I remember the time when you were just crazy to marry me.

Mr. Knagger—So do I, but didn't realise it at the time.—London Opinion.

SAUCE TARTARE

Make a coffeecupful of mayonnaise dressing. Stir into it a teaspoonful (scant) of French parsley, a more liberal teaspoonful of chopped cucumber pickle and one of chopped capers, and one and one-half teaspoonful of onion juice.

You must omit the last ingredient if the fish be very delicate in flesh and flavour. The sauce without the onion is particularly nice for softshell crabs.

PLAIN EGG SAUCE

Heat a cupful of milk (adding a bit of soda) in a farina boiler. Put into a frying pan a tablespoonful of butter, and when it bubbles stir in a tablespoonful (all at once) of sifted flour. Stir steadily from the sides toward the center of the pan until the mixture is smooth. Then stir in the hot milk. Beat the yolks of two eggs into the thickened milk with the yolk and the white of a hard-boiled egg, minced very fine; lastly, a teaspoonful of minced parsley. Stir vigorously for half a minute and serve.

This goes well with boiled fish.

DOCTORS ADVISE MEDICATED AIR

It Cures Catarrh, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Throat Troubles, Hoarseness.

For diseases of the lungs, throat and nasal passages mountain air has always been deemed salutary because of its pureness and freedom from disease germs. The air of pine forests, laden with minute particles of volatile germ-destroying principles, has enjoyed an almost unexampled reputation in these diseases also.

A MARVELLOUS DISCOVERY.

After years of exhaustive study a chemist devised a means of supplying right at home a healing balsamic remedy that is even more effective in catarrhal diseases than the air of the pine woods. Of course, this remedy was copyrighted in every civilized country and was at once offered to the public under the name of "Catarrhozone." Its success has been phenomenal.

Just think of it! A healing, soothing substance capable of destroying those noxious organisms which excite and maintain disease. Capable, also, of allaying congestion and of stimulating the healing processes of nature, which are combined in that invaluable compound so well and so favorably known to the medical world as "Catarrhozone."

CATARRHOZONE CURES.

Catarrhozone is simply the concentrated qualities of the air of pine woods. If you breathe it you will derive more benefit in one hour than you could possibly get from the woods in a year.

This great advantage arises from the fact that, in addition to those healing emanations from pine, other ingredients distilled from the vegetable kingdom are so united as to give results that could not possibly be derived in the simple form in which nature supplies medicated air.

20,000 PHYSICIANS ENDORSE IT.

For all diseases of the nose, ear, throat, bronchial tubes and air passages—for catarrh in every form—cure is certain with Catarrhozone, which is not a nostrum, but a high-class scientific treatment. Large size, sufficient for two months' use (guaranteed), price $1.00; smaller size 50c, at all dealers or the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

A MATTER of MATHEMATICS

An Adventure of Peter Crewe—"The Man with the Camera Eyes."

By Harold Carter.

(Copyright, 1911, by W. G. Chapman in the United States and Great Britain.)

Of the many problems which were solved through the aid of Peter Crewe, I think that which involved the capture of Rowell, the defaulting bank cashier, was the most remarkable. Crewe's skill rested in the main upon a certain optical gift by virtue of which he was enabled at any time to call up before his mental vision the picture of any person or thing that he had once inspected, and that completely and in every detail perfect. But while this faculty was largely instrumental in Rowell's capture, this case involved besides so clear and close a piece of mathematical reasoning that it deserves to be set down as one of the masterpieces of detective induction.

Crewe and I were in England upon some business at the time when the robbery of the Penny and Shilling bank startled the country. Rowell, the cashier, had somehow managed to obtain possession of no less a sum than a hundred and sixty thousand pounds, or $800,000 in American money. He had quietly secreted this in his suit case, walked out of the bank on Saturday at noon, and completely disappeared by the time the discovery of the theft was made on Monday.

Rowell had no relatives and no close friends. He had no ties, no acquaintances among the criminal class. He looked like many another young Englishman of the middle classes: Of medium height, stalwart, alert, aggressive, clean. He left no photograph behind. There seemed to be no way in which he could be traced.

The superintendent of Scotland Yard made a happy suggestion to the bank manager. I had been called into consultation as the bank's attorney, and I had brought Crewe to the conference with me. We both strongly approved the plan.

"Every Englishman who has committed a felony makes the United States his ultimate objective," the superintendent said. "Why this should be so I do not pretend to know. I do not mean to cast a slur upon your country. Still, the fact remains that, when he thinks the hue and cry has died away, he takes ship for America.

Now, the proposition is to here him into what I will call a rat trap. So long as he is loose in England he is never likely to be discovered. But if we make the chase hot at every point except the western ports, if we publish items in the newspapers stating that no guard is being kept at Liverpool or Southampton, because the fugitive is believed to be in France if we do this, he will be tempted, he will investigate, to discover whether this is true; finally, emboldened, he will take ship for New York."

"And then?" asked Crewe.

"We arrest him as he disembarks."

This plan was carried out and worked to perfection. Although Rowell could not be positively identified, there was every reason to believe in a cabled statement from the captain of the Pentannic to the effect that the fugitive had taken passage on his ship. The information was cabled back to New York and a couple of detectives were detailed to arrest Rowell the moment that he landed.

Unfortunately the plan miscarried. As we learned afterward, Rowell had somehow possessed himself of the uniform of a ship's officer, and attired in this guise, had stepped boldly ashore under the noses of the detectives and disappeared among the four million inhabitants of the city.

The bank urged me to hasten to American in order to assist in the work of recapture. I had, however, interested the manager in Crewe by recounting some of my companion's former successes, and, at his invitation, I brought my friend to the scene of the robbery.

"You say you have no photograph of the thief?" asked Crewe when he heard the details of the story.

"None whatever. And I may," said the manager, "that you will not obtain much of a clue by examining his stool and counter."

"I hope you are mistaken," answered Crewe, laughing. "May I ask you a few questions?"

"With pleasure."

"What was Rowell's salary?"

"Two hundred pounds," answered the manager with some hesitancy. "We had intended to increase it on the first of the year."

"Still, a single man could live well on that," said Crewe. "Did he dress well?"

"Not extravagantly, but neatly. He usually wore a suit of blue serge, a collar of moderate height, and a gray tie."

"That is very important," said Crewe. "But here is a more important matter still. Has the height of this stool been changed since Rowell vacated it?"

"No. It is an immovable seat, as you will see, and nicely apportioned to the height of the counter."

"In that case," said Crewe, "I think that we shall catch your man. By the way, did he ever wear anything but blue serge?"

"Rarely. That was his office coat and he also wore it upon the streets. As you know, Mr. Crewe, the habit of the silk hat and morning coat is not insisted upon now by many places of business."

"And—one more question—you have had an unusually sunshiny summer, I believe?"

"They say so," answered the manager suavely, but looking at me as though to ask, "Is the fellow a dangerous lunatic?"

Without further remark Crewe seated himself upon the stool and leaned over the desk. The sunlight streamed through the grille in front of the desk and in upon Crewe. He adjusted his position until he was seated exactly in the center of the stool; then, after an instant's silence, as though he were lost in meditation, he slipped down to the ground.

"Good morning, Mr. Simpson," he said, extending his hand to the bank manager. "If we get to New York before the police capture him, I hope to have the pleasure of presenting Mr. Rowell to you. And that," he added, "is probable enough, since the police are dealing with an extremely astute gentleman."

We made our way to New York and had an interview with the head of the police department. He informed me of the situation in regard to the missing man.

That he was in the city was a certainty. Had any authentic portrait of him existed, he would undoubtedly have been captured long before. At present it seemed almost impossible to take him. But if Rowell was immune from arrest, he, in turn, could not leave New York. Detectives were watching every road, every railroad station, every ferry house from which boats left for the New Jersey shore. Rowell's only possible point of escape was Long Island. He could doubtless evade the detectives and cross the Brooklyn bridge during the rush hour. But that would be a risky proceeding, for, though Brooklyn lay open to him, he could not cross from any point of Long Island to the Connecticut shore, while his return to New York itself would be fraught with dangers. It was highly probable, therefore, that Rowell was still within the limits of the borough of Manhattan.

"Where are you searching?" Crewe asked the police chief.

"We have two dozen men looking through the whole city," said the latter. "We're raking it as fine as though we used a toothcomb. Sooner or later he must be found."

"The only drawback to that scheme is that while you are raking one district Rowell is likely to be in another."

"Well, how would you do better?" asked the police chief, nettled.

"Why," said Crewe, "search all districts simultaneously."

"Let me tell you," said the chief of police, "that the number of detectives at my disposal for this case is twenty-four, not twenty-four thousand."

"Nevertheless, if you will place four of your two dozen at my disposal for a week I will guarantee to find Rowell if he is within the limits of Manhattan borough," said Crewe. "And the glory's yours," he added.

The police chief looked at me. He knew Crewe and his work, but his pride was hurt. He would have liked to see him for once unsuccessful. I nodded.

"I say nothing for the newspaper," I announced. "You stand to win either way. Either you score off Crewe or you get the credit for the capture."

The police chief pressed a bell. "Send Cohen, O'Rourke, Murphy and Kelly here at once," he said to the messenger. Almost at once the four policemen came in and saluted.

"You will place yourselves under the orders of this gentleman," said the chief, indicating Crewe. "It's the Rowell case, and he thinks he can work on it better than I can."

"Report to me here tomorrow morning at nine," said Crewe. "You may take the day off. I want to think. I suppose you're all proficient in simple arithmetic?" he added. "I'm glad to hear it. You may have a little adding to do."

I did not see Crewe again until the second afternoon, when me met by appointment and lunched together. After the meal I asked him how he was progressing with his case.

"I've got the town staked out," Crewe answered, "and I think that the fourth day will witness Mr. Rowell's arrest. Of course, I could take him earlier by haphazard means, but I prefer to utilise the scientific method."

"Will you inform me how, with four detectives, you can possibly have 'staked out' the town, as you phrase it?" I asked, a little exasperated.

"It is a matter of pure mathematics, Langton," Crewe answered, a slight amusement disclosing itself in his voice. "But come with me and you shall see for yourself."

We took the elevated to Forty-second street and walked over to Broadway. On the southwest corner one of the detectives, in plain clothes, whom I recognised as Murphy, was lazily scanning the passers by.

"How many, Murphy?" Crewe asked him.

"Two hundred and seventy-three, sir," Murphy responded. "Seventy-four," he added, as a man hurried by, almost brushing into us.

"You are keeping the three parts of the day separate, Murphy?" asked Crewe. "Good. Keep up your count and report to me tomorrow morning at five. At the stroke of midnight you vacate your post."

"Five o'clock till midnight seems long hours, Crewe," I said.

"It is. But it is only for three days, and the men are trained to such periods of work. Besides, they understand that they share in the reward and, somehow or other, I have been able to persuade them that they can trust in me. I happened to know something of the past history of each," he added, smiling.

"You remember them all?"

"Assuredly. I told Murphy that in 1906 he was on duty at the intersection of Forty-first street and Broadway when the explosion occurred in the subway and that he helped to carry up the victims. I reminded him of an unpleasant little incident connected with a fruit peddler's license last year. Langton, it is a fine thing to remember faces. I have convinced all four men, I believe, that I have some supernatural knowledge about them—and merely because, in my strolls about the city, I have encountered almost all the police force at some time or another, and remembered them. But let us hurry southward. Our next objective is the Brooklyn bridge."

We emerged at the bridge subway station, in front of which, leaning against the railings of the City Hall park, I recognized O'Rourke. He straightened himself and came up to us.

"Eighty-seven this morning and thirty-nine up to this moment," he said.

"I see you know your business," Crewe responded. "Don't let any one pass, O'Rourke. Remember your share of the reward will pay the mortgage on that house of yours."

O'Rourke leaped back in astonishment. His mouth opened and he looked at Crewe in amazement.

"Don't jump like that," said Crewe. "You frighten me. I mean the house in Jamaica." Then, as we turned away, he added: "I saw him talking to his wife one afternoon two years ago when he was off duty. It was a long shot, though—the house might have been paid for. Now for our other two."

We took the elevated to Sixth avenue and Twenty-third street, where we found Kelly looking ostentatiously into a shop window.

"Very good," said Crewe, slapping him upon the back. "You saw us coming? Some men are too dense to know that one can see the passers-by just as well when they are reflected in a plate-glass window. Happily the precaution is unnecessary, but I am glad to see so much intelligent zeal in your work, Kelly. You are keeping the numbers separate?"

"Seventy and thirty—thirty-one this instant, sir," said Kelly, and we moved away.

A cross-town car and a brisk walk soon landed us at the Fourteenth street subway entrance, where Cohen was seated in a shoeblack's chair getting a polish.

"Sixty-eight and twenty-seven, sir," he whispered as we passed by. Crewe nodded almost imperceptibly and we turned back into Union park. At Crewe's invitation we took our seats upon a bench.

"And now, Langton," he said, "you want to know what this apparently unintelligible process means and I will let you into the secret. You may have observed that I chose four points in New York at which to station my detectives. The selection of those points was influenced by two causes. In the first place, they are the four chief places where men walk, by preference, on one side of the street alone, and consequently it is easier to count the passers-by than if my men had to watch both sides of the street. At the juncture of Broadway and Forty-second street everybody who is not bent upon business—and Rowell is distinctly a pleasure-seeker in these days—walks on the west side of the street, because extensive building operations are in process upon the east side. At our southern point, the subway entrance to the Brooklyn bridge, almost every one enters and emerges on the city hall side. At Sixth avenue and Twenty-third street our populace walk on the south side, because that side of the thoroughfare is devoted to large stores whose windows hold a tempting array of goods. And on Fourteenth street everybody walks on the south side in order to pass the numerous moving picture shows, which afford a spectacle of some interest, externally, even to the man who affects to despise them.

"So much for the minor reason of my selection. Now for the major reason. These four points embrace practically the entire amusement and shopping district of the city. Where would a stranger go, an Englishman without a friend in town, but in this region? Would he seek his amusement in the dreary wastes of Harlem? Would he moon all day in Central park, a prey to his thoughts? No, Langton, it is the surest prophecy in the world that Rowell, a victim of a bad conscience and an overfull purse, spends all his waking life within this region. And it is safe to say that he alternates between the Fourteenth street region and Broadway, with the preference for Broadway. Now I have told you enough for the present. Dine with me on Friday evening at seven. I will be in the lobby of the Hotel Memphis, and I think I shall be able to afford you an evening's entertainment."

I knew better than to attempt to question my companion further, but I was in a fever of anxiety during the three ensuing days to understand Crewe's purpose. His reasoning was excellent upon an abstract plane. But how did this counting of faces go toward the capture of Rowell?

It was not until after dinner that my curiosity was gratified. Crewe rinsed his fingers in the silver dinner bowl, folded his napkin leisurely, and took from his pocket a pad of paper upon which were jotted several series of figures.

"Do you believe in statistics, Langton?" he asked abruptly.

"I have heard it said that they can prove anything."

"They can; but not in the derogatory sense you mean. Are you aware that, while small numbers are apt to fluctuate, in the aggregate they are practically unvarying?

"For instance, in the gambling palace at Monte Carlo, red may turn up fifty times more than black during a single day. But in a week the relative numbers will be almost equal. In a month they will be practically equal; at the end of a year there is usually hardly a sensible difference between the number of times that each has to its credit.

"Take life insurance. Individually a human life is a most uncertain thing. But when you take ten thousand lives you can state with mathematical precision that a definite number of these ten thousand persons will die at thirty, a certain number at forty, increasing number at fifty, and so on, until, at the age of ninety-six, the last survivor perishes.

"Langton, I have simply applied this fact to the search for Rowell.

"What do we know of him? That he is an average-appearing Englishman and wears a blue serge suit. Undoubtedly he possesses other suits; but equally surely he will be astute enough to wear blue as differentiating him less than a suit with a check, stripe, or patterns. Thus his own cleverness assists in his undoing.

"We want you, Mr. Rowell."

"My orders to those detectives were to count all the men in blue serge suits who passed them, excluding those whose age obviously excluded the possibility of their being Rowell. I ordered each man to make three lists—one for the morning hours, one for the afternoon, and one for the evening, up to twelve o'clock, after which the number of men in blue serge suits abroad is too limited for us to draw deductions from it. Here are the results:

"Passing Forty-second street: Morning, 156; afternoon, 112; evening, 177. Total, 445.

"Passing the Brooklyn bridge subway entrance: Morning, 84; afternoon, 46; evening, 88. Total, 218.

"Passing Twenty-third street and Sixth avenue: Morning, 72; afternoon, 28; evening, 70. Total, 170.

"Passing the subway entrance on Fourteenth street: Morning, 80; afternoon, 29; evening, 85. Total, 194.

"What do you deduce from these figures, Langton?"

"That a surprisingly small number of men blue serge suits emerge from the entrance to the Brooklyn bridge during the rush hours," I answered.

"My dear Langton, you are flying off at a tangent. That is not relative to the matter at all. Many take surface cars from Brooklyn and never pass the subway entrance. And Brooklyn is barred from our consideration. No, do you not see that at three points the morning and evening traffic is astonishingly even? At Twenty-third street 72 men pass in the morning and 70 in the evening. At the Fourteenth street subway 80 pass in the morning and 85 in the evening. At the Brooklyn bridge subway entrance 84 pass in the morning and 88 in the evening.

"Therefore we can proceed by striking out like figures on either side of our equation. These men in blue serge suits are office workers; they go and return by the same routes morning and evening. Emphatically Rowell is not to be found among this lot.

"At our northern point, Forty-second street, the conditions are not quite so even. The men who pass in the morning number 156; in the evening 177—a difference of twenty-one. Now we begin to see daylight at last after working out these figures. We have to postulate the average man, the average unemployed man. Let us discover him from among the figures that we have left.

"Passing Twenty-third street in the afternoon, 28. Passing Fourteenth street in the afternoon, 29. Passing the Brooklyn bridge subway entrance in the afternoon, 46. But these latter we must disregard, for that is in the office district and these 46 are probably all workers.

"Our final statement, therefore, is that 28 men stroll of an afternoon from Twenty-third street to Fourteenth street, where their numbers are augmented to 29. During the same period of the day 112 men stroll up Broadway to Forty-second street, where, by nightfall, their numbers have increased to 177.

"Therefore our average man will most assuredly be found somewhere in the theater district after the lights are lit. Rowell will be there tonight. I have demonstrated this infallibly. Come, Langton, we are going to arrest him."

I rose in bewilderment. Crewe's figures were falling over one another in my brain, and only one clear impression remained to me: That Rowell was obligingly waiting to tumble into our arms at the juncture of Forty-second street and Broadway. But surely this was a case in which one could not predicate the individual from the universal. Suppose he had decided to vary his itinerary for that evening, suppose he had gone home. Suppose he were sick, or at a theater, or in a taxicab, or restaurant. Suppose he had taken a fancy to sit in Central park until the hour of midnight. Suppose he had escaped from the city and were at that moment speeding westward. I glanced at Crewe. His face was resolute, set into its usual decisive lines. I had known him to solve greater mysteries—but always by his optical gift, never by pure induction. And I could not help feeling that there was a sad disillusionment in store for him.

At Forty-second street and Broadway we found Murphy on duty. Crewe drew him aside. I saw him whisper and saw Murphy touch the pocket of his coat. I heard the clink of steel. Then we three posted ourselves immediately beneath a bright electric light and engaged in trivial conversation, as of three pleasure-seekers.

Half an hour must have gone by. At least fifty men in blue suits had passed us, a good half of whom might have been the missing cashier. All at once I saw Crewe touch Murphy's arm, and the two swung round and walked leisurely after a good-looking young fellow who was passing briskly up the thoroughfare. At the Forty-second street crossing he hesitated a moment, pulled out his cigarette case, and began to smoke. An electric light beat down full upon his face, and shoulders.

Crewe went up to him, fixed his eyes on his collar, signalled Murphy, and touched his captive on the shoulder. The man started violently and let his cigarette fall.

"We want you, Mr. Rowell," said Crewe. At the same instant Murphy snapped the handcuffs upon the cashier's wrists.

"I can understand that your mathematical reasoning would, as you said, enable you to postulate the average man," I remarked to Crewe subsequently. "But how could you positively identify Rowell among your 117 men in blue serge? And how could you know for sure that he was strolling up Broadway?"

"I didn't. It was not until I got him under the electric light that I was able to pronounce him Rowell with certitude."

"But how?"

"Do you remember the cashier's seat at the London bank, with its projecting grille?"

"Yes."

"Do you remember that the manager told us they had had an unusual quantity of sunshine in London?"

"I do."

"Do you remember that Rowell wore a blue serge suit?"

"Well, what of it?"

"Don't you know blue serge fades?"

"In sunlight?"

"Precisely. And in consequence, since he sat always in the same spot and bent over his counter at the same elevation, the bars of the grille would leave thin stripes of unfaded material in the discolored cloth. Langton, to your eyes Rowell's suit may have looked like any other man's but to mine his breast and shoulders were striped like a zebra's."

"How did you know he would need order a new suit?"

"He had no time. The tailors are rushed at this season."

"But he might have bought one ready-made."

"The ready-made clothing trade is exclusively an American institution," Crewe answered suavely. "No Englishman can ever be persuaded that he will look like anything but a tramp in a suit of ready-made clothes."

NEARLY AS GOOD AS TITLE

Harry Was Colonel on Governor's Staff and Could Wear Most Gorgeous Uniform.

"Have you ever thought that you would care to marry a man with a title?" he asked.

"Really," she replied, pretending to make light of it, "I have never thought much about it."

"Still, I suppose if a man with a title were to come along you would not treat him coldly merely because he happened to have a handle to his name?"

"Well, I have no doubt that there are some very good men who possess titles."

"Let us suppose, for instance, that I had a title."

"I can't imagine such a thing."

"But if such a thing could be?"

"I hardly know what you mean."

"Why, if I had a title and came to you with a proposal of marriage, would you be disposed to listen to me kindly?"

"But you haven't any title, and you are never likely to have one."

"You are mistaken; I have a title."

"Silly! Why do you say that?"

"It's a fact. I've been appointed a colonel on the governor's staff."

"Why, you can't be serious?"

"I am serious. I'll show you my commission if you wish to see it."

"Do you get a salary for being a colonel on the governor's staff?"

"No, but I have the right to wear a splendid uniform at public functions."

"Oh, Harry! Did you really mean it when you proposed a moment ago?"

Anything to Please.

A lady was seeking to rent a room, and the little boy, who in the absence of his mother, was doing the honors of the house, was most anxious to please.

"Have you any rats or mice?" asked the lady, presently.

"No, ma'am, we haven't now," was the hesitating reply of the public, "but," with a gleam of hopeful determination, "I think I could get some, if you like!"

Love of Nature.

It is a mistake to conclude that men are insensible to those beauties which they are not continually talking about and analyzing—that the love of Nature is a new feeling because the taste for the picturesque is a modern taste. When the mountaineer descends into the plain, he soon begins to pine for his native hills, and many have been known to fall sick—nay, even to die, of that love. Yet had he never left the hills, you would never have heard him prate about them.—Julius Charles Hare.

UNCLE HENRY GOT THE FACTS

County Visitor Soon Learned All About the Neighbor of His City Nephew.

"Robert," said Uncle Henry, who was visiting his city nephew, "who's that man in the house on the other side of the street? He stands in front of his window and shaves himself every morning. He's done it now for three days runnin'."

"And he's probably done it for the last ten years, for all I know, uncle," replied Robert, in a tone that lacked interest.

"Has he lived there all that time?"

"Yes; and longer than that I suppose. He was there when I came here ten years ago."

"Who is he?"

"I don't know."

"What does he do?"

"I haven't the slightest idea, uncle."

Whereupon Uncle Henry put on his hat and went out. In about fifteen minutes he was back in the house again.

"Robert," he said, "that chap's name is Findlater. He runs an insurance office on Benton street. He's probably worth twenty-six thousand dollars, owns that house, belongs to the Methodist church, has three boys, is a widower, fifty-one years old, a member of the Masonic order, has a farm on Long Island, and is engaged to his stenographer. I believe living in the city has made you stupid about getting information."—Youth's Companion.

How It Works.

Hsu Ping-Chou, the popular Chinese consul at San Francisco, discussed at a recent dinner his country's customs.

"There is one custom," said a young girl, "that I can't understand—and that is the Chinese custom of committing suicide by eating gold leaf. I can't understand how gold leaf can kill."

"The partaker, no doubt," smiled the consul, "succumbs from a consciousness of inward guilt."

KIT'S COLUMN

It is said that one good result of the defeat of reciprocity is that it has started a great wave of Canadian patriotism. Not before it was wanted. One of the things which strike a newcomer as strange is the apparent lack of that deep and fervent love of country which is characteristic of some other nations and races. Perhaps it comes from British reticence, perhaps because Canada is too busy commercially just now, occupied as she is with self-development; perhaps the sentiment is there but lies

"too deep for tears."—

There is no need for the tears, thank God. This land is too bright, and young, and sunny, too charged with hope and enterprise for any doleful nonsense of that sort—but—couldn't we turn aside for a moment now and then to cheer her on, to wave our own good red flag, to exploit our Beaver and our Maple Leaf a little more? One thing I honor our neighbors for is their devotion to Old Glory. Not one whit more than we, deep in our hearts, honor the Jack and the Beaver—but they exploit it more. They teach the children love of flag and country: they wave their stars and stripes on, every occasion and in every place they can—and here in Canada we give them the liberty to do it far too often. Raise the Jack over there and what a storm is stirring! You and I more than once have felt the wave of anger rise when our emblem was torn down or disfigured by alien hands; indeed, I had my best hat knocked over my eyes defending the old flag from a herd of small boys once in a border town, and if there is any enemy in this world I would run from it is the Small Boy of any nation. A regular Giant he is—out for the blood of any unfortunate woman who may happen to interfere with his games. To be hailed with "Hello, old Pie Face!" is not an agreeable salutation to any woman of sensibility, even if it has a semblance of truth to back it, but "old Pie Face" rescued the Jack that day and whacked the Small Boy with the handle of it "good and plenty."

To return to our flags. Canada stopped in her self-developing process long enough to assure Old Glory that this was no place for an alien ensign, and she did it soundly and to the admiration of old Britain, but let her do more. Let her make a science of educating patriotism and all that it stands for, into the hearts of the young people. For instance, we do not celebrate Dominion day the way we should. There are no house decorations, no little "flag-buttonholes" for sale; very few Jacks flown, and fewer of the Canadian emblem. People go away to spend the holiday. There is no patriotic enthusiasm. It might be any sort of a holiday, instead of the Birthday of the greatest Dominion in all the world. For that is what Canada is. Every year one's love for her and pride in her grows. It is a grand feeling, that glowing loyalty which burns in the heart when, abroad, one hears them speaking of Canada, her progress and her prospects. "I have a stake or two in her," you say to yourself, when they are talking of Canada over in Ireland—and you tell them what a great girl she is—how full of spring and hope and all that is bright and beautiful and strong, until one turns jealous eyes on you and says, acidly: "It's a great pity entirely you weren't born there, and you so fond of it." And you answer: "And maybe it is, only I'd rather have come to it through Ireland than any other way." Often, the other day, when I was "over," when leaning across all that is left to me of kin—a grave or two under a sea wall along a western coast, and watching the great sun dipping to the breast of the restless ocean—I would think of the bright land to which he seemed to be going—far—far west, and whisper—to the shamrocks and the rough grasses—a stave about the Maple Leaf under which I hope to be one day lying. If then, one who came here a stranger, has learned to love so deeply and purely, the land that restored that which was lost—Home, how much greater should be your love and loyalty towards her, you who were born here, who "belong," who can claim Canada for your motherland. Express that love. Let the people of other countries see your pride and joy in Canada. It cannot affect your loyalty towards old Britain, but rather deepen it—that you so glory in your own motherland. And, mind you, "I'd hate awfully," as the girls say, to be considered an outsider.

Hulburt Footner, the author of "Two on the Trail"—one of the year's best sellers, by the way, has just returned from a trip to the Land of the Silences, our great Lone Land to the north—so much of which is as yet unexploited by railroad or tourist. With a companion, Mr. Footner spent about three months on the trip; covered 2,500 miles or thereabouts, and took dozens of snapshots. It was the writer's privilege to see these, and to hear many a snappy story of that long and lonesome trail in farthest Alberta by the Peace river and the lonely shores of Hay river, untraversed by white men since, fifteen years before, a party had passed there. The pictures convey in no small measure the beauty of forest primeval, of great waterfalls, and little lonely lake. The story, which will be related in a series of articles in Outing, begins in the March issue of that magazine. We heard it in part, and it took a vivid hold on one's imagination by reason of the quaintness and humor with which it was told, and some sense conveyed of the mysticism and fascination of those mighty spaces, the great silence, the sort of life the few Indians out there live, and the astonishment of the beasts of the lonelier haunts at sight for the first time of the face of man—the super-animal, their over-lord and sometimes destroyer. I confess to being haunted by visions of wood-fringed lakes, weird cleft crags, great forests and the wide river reaches of a land that one can never see, save in picture and story.

"And were you ever lonely? And did you feel the stirring of elemental instincts? And did you think of the Cave Man and the Stone Age?" Were some of the questions we hurled at the author.

"No," he said, smiling in a whimsy way he has. "No. An odd time the thought of the immense distance that divided us from civilization, friends—everything—stirred, but our principal anxiety was about getting on and about—grub. You have no idea of how important a thing sugar or salt or matches or bo on can become. As to flour. To see that diminishing from pound to ounce and know you were so many days from another supply—that was tragic. And how we slept! You never sleep like that in your towns and cities. And work! cooking and firing, and camp striking, and dish-washing! Then packing, and the long road or the long paddle—the greatest life in the world! I would like to live it for eleven months in the year—

"And the twelfth!"

"Ah——" And there was a volume in that little exclamation. It meant the call of art, and beauty and music, and—delicate dishes. We could not quite return to the cave life. We would hear and obey the imperious call of civilization back to the light and the laughter, and the dancing. These things we have educated into us, but how little progress they have made after all when for eleven months of the year one man says he could well do without them. But I wish you could have heard the long cry of the wolf-pack, the mournful wailing of the coyote, the crash of the moose through the thicket, the thunder of undiscovered waterfalls as my soul heard them while sitting there by the fire in the shadowy room.

Will the time come, I wonder, when each one can sit in a picture gallery of his own, not of pretended "old masters" purchased at great price from some old cheat of a dealer, but copies printed on the very walls by the new process of porcelain painting; imperishable pictures such as Pompeii knew of old. The process is about to be patented, and painted porcelain walls will constitute the fabric of the latest in houses. Think of designing the walls of every room after your favorite paintings or tales of romance. What would you have your hall walls made of, and your den, and bed chamber, and living room? Of course you would have dear Peter Pan in the nursery along with Alice and the White Rabbit and perhaps "A Ghost Upon a Battlement." It would be nice to think out a picture house. I know one picture I would have in a certain room—The Blessed Damosel. I always loved her, leaning from Heaven across her balcony. And there are Sheogs that would fit in another corner, and funny pictures of a sort utterly unlike the "comic sections." And wouldn't you paint your skeleton out of the cupboard wall and put some cheery body in his place? Mr. Pickwick and Sam Weller for choice. To line the house walls with pictured porcelain slabs will cost no more than ordinary panelling, architects tell us, and one gentleman in England has already placed an order to have his dining room treated appetisingly with oysters on the half shell, canvas-back duck, turtles un-souped, barons of beef, larks sans culottes, and other delicacies. But how would you like to be looking at oysters on a broiling July day, or at ducks of a sort you can never procure, therefore want outrageously? And might there not arrive an obstreperous moment when you would love to shy a plate at the beef-baron or hurl the salt at the turtle?

I can see you, my dear madam, rushing off to the shop with me to buy chintz curtains to cover the tiresome things.

Alack! we are so human that unless we are mightily transformed, we would tire of heaven itself. The restless human cry is always for change. Satiety is what most besets us. Even Love, whom we call immortal, is not immune. Satiety is the moth which pierces with holes his royal garment.

And talking of assaults; a man was recently charged at a London police court with having violently assaulted his wife by hitting her in the face with a clock. He hit her with both hands, and nobody called Time all she while the clock was striking. The husband's defence was that he felt thoroughly wound up. But it was the wife who was wound—ed. Meanwhile the clock ran down.

AFTER TREATMENT

Peter E. Summers relates his experience:

"I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indiscretion and excesses in youth. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me guessed my secret. Imaginative dreams at night weakened me—my back ached, bad pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair loose, memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and the doctor told me he feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first-class physicians, wore an electric belt for three months, but received little benefit. I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the NEW METHOD TREATMENT and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could feel the vigor going through the nerves. I was cured mentally and physically. I have sent them many patients and continue to do so.

WASTED AWAY TO A SHADOW

"Fruit-a-tives" saved me after 12 years Suffering

HULL, Que. Dec. 24th. 1910.

"For the past twelve years, I had painful attacks of Dyspepsia. Finally, in March 1908, I suffered such tortures that I was compelled to stay in bed. I could not digest my food and everything I ate caused the most agonizing pain in my stomach. I also had a fearful attack of Constipation, and at times I had no movement of the bowels for two weeks.

Three doctors attended me for two years and gave me all kinds of medicine but did me no good. My weight came down to only 80 pounds and everyone thought I was going to die. Finally I had the good fortune to buy 'Fruit-a-tives' and as soon as I began to take them, I felt better. I persisted in the treatment and to my great joy and to the astonishment of my friends, I improved.

Now I feel very well, weigh 115 pounds (and this is more than I ever weighed, even before my illness) I attribute my cure solely to 'Fruit-a-tives'."

Ezra's Journey to Jerusalem. Ezra viii: 15:36.

Golden Text—The hand of our God is upon all them for good that seek him. Ezra viii: 22.

(1) Verses 15-20—Who, and what, was Ezra?

(2) If several generations of the same family are engaged in the same business or profession, is the last generation more expert at their calling than the first?

(3) What was the special work of the Levites?

(4) How much does any organization depend for its success, upon men of rare ability at its head?

(5) What steps should the present day church take to supply the great lack of ministers?

(6) Verses 21-23—Where was this company of devout men at this time?

(7) Having the fit man for the work, what is the next necessity as suggested by this story?

(8) What results invariably follow when a company of Christians spend several days together in fasting and prayer?

(9) What better guarantee for a safe journey have we, if it is preceded with devout prayer?

(10) What had Ezra told the king which afterward made him ashamed to ask for a company of soldiers on their journey?

(11) Verse 28—How did Ezra know that God had heard their prayer for a safe journey?

(12) How may we know when God hears and answers our prayers?

(13) Verses 24-30—How do you justify the vast expenditure of money for carrying on church and missionary work?

(14) Why ought money for church and missionary work to be as carefully accounted for as money in a bank?

(15) Why is it the duty of every person to feel as much obligation to give his proper share for carrying on God's cause, as to feed and clothe himself and those dependent upon him?

(16) Verses 31-32—Two good men start on a journey and are attacked by robbers, one being killed and the other escaping without injury; which of these men did God love more, and why? (This is one of the questions that may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(17) What rules would you say God adopts in delivering, or not delivering, us from our enemies?

(18) How far was it from Babylon to Jerusalem, and how long did it take them to make the journey?

(19) Verses 33-36—There are a great many more individual churches than there are individual banks; but what is the proportion of defaulting church treasurers, compared with defaulting bank presidents or cashiers?

(20) Which gets the greater happiness, the one who honestly discharges a financial trust, or the one who having kept a lot of the money, is yet not found out?

W.C.T.U. NOTES

A plea for the Women's Christian Temperance Union in Peterborough! Oh! that I should have to make a plea and the need so obvious! Can the wives, mothers, and sisters of this city be sleeping that they can sit contentedly and do nothing to hinder the legality of the bar-room. Yes, the legal road to everlasting ruin of husbands, sons, and brothers. Do you ever think, dear sisters, that it takes one of our sons to make each drunkard of the next generation; and need I put it so far away as that? Are not many of them in their youth deserving that title, and many filling prisons, insane asylums, and premature graves? What a harvest for the drink traffic! How I wish I had the God-given power to wake you to your responsibility. Yes, I say responsibility, for we are responsible for their destiny in so far as we neglect our duty in saving them. Think of our churches, the city full of them, and yet not enough women interested in this momentous question to make a quorum in a W.C.T.U. meeting. Only a little more than a year till we will be privileged to vote again on local option, and everything so dead. Have we studied those grand Sunday School lessons of the Old Testament this year? Can we pass them by and not gather from them the truth that as God punished His ancient people when they wandered from Him, so He will not allow us to go unpunished for a neglected duty? The indifference of it! The lukewarmness of it! It makes me shudder to think who will be responsible to God for giving licenses to those places to make demons of men. The gin palaces created out of the money that should have gone to feed and clothe the destitute wives and children of their victims. I wonder how many have intelligently studied or thought over the terrible things that have happened in this city since we turned down local option, and the drink traffic responsible for it all! If we could pierce those hidden dens unnoticed, those places of ruin to our sons' purity, there would be an awakening to terrible reality. There would be no such excuses as want of time when asked to be a member of the W.C.T.U. or any other temperance society. Lots of time for society balls and the opera, etc. Well might a converted saloonkeeper say it is not in gambling dens our boys learn to gamble, but in their homes. Now, what about the soul-stirring sermon in St. Paul's on Sunday evening on indifference? Must we be branded like Gullio indifference? That we care for none of these things? God grant it be not so, but that we rise nobly to our opportunity both by prayer and service.

Think what Francis Willard did for God, home and country, and rise to the occasion, for this is our day of opportunity!

Our November meeting will be held on Friday, 24th, at 3.30 o'clock.

Eight Years of Bad Eczema on Hands

Miss Mary A. Bentley

Cured by Cuticura Soap and Ointment

Miss Mary A. Bentley, 93 University St., Montreal, writes, in a recent letter: "Some nine years ago I noticed small pimples breaking out on the back of my hands. They became very irritating, and gradually became worse, so that I could not sleep at night. I consulted a physician who treated me a long time, but it got worse, and I could not put my hands in water. I was treated at the hospital, and it was just the same. I was told that it was a very bad case of eczema.

"Well, I just kept on using everything that I could for nearly eight years until I was advised to try Cuticura Ointment. I did so, and I found after a few applications the burning sensations were disappearing. I could sleep well, and did not have any itching during the night. I began after a while to use Cuticura Soap. I stuck to the Cuticura treatment, and thought if I could use other remedies for over seven years with no result, and after only having a few applications and finding ease from Cuticura Ointment, it deserved a fair trial with a severe and stubborn case. I used the Cuticura Ointment and Soap for nearly six months, and I am glad to say that I have hands as clear as anyone. It is my wish that you publish this letter to all the world, and if anyone doubts it, let them write me."

Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. For a liberal free sample of each, with 32-p. book, send to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., 53 Columbus Ave., Boston, U. S. A.

SEEN AND HEARD

MORE PALATABLE

Thomas W. Lawson at a dinner in Boston said of a far-famed financier:

"He is all right at heart, but his outside is prickly, and you must handle him with great caution, as they handled the Tin Can gambler.

"A gambler of Tin aCn borrowed a sum from a money lender, and when the note fell due he said he could not settle.

"'You must settle!' shouted the money lender. 'If you don't settle, I'll——'

"But the gambler, aking a revolver from his boot, pointed it a he money lender and said:

"'Ea that note or I'll let the daylight through you!'

"And the money lender, after a moment's silent thought, crumpled he note ino a ball, pu i in his mouh chewed vigorously, and then, with a gulp, swallowed the pulpy morsel.

"'That dose saved your life,' said the gambler, in a mollified tone, and left him day to find a treat of kick and paid the money lender in full.

"The money lender was much pleased with his honesty, and when the gambler a few weeks later called and asked for a new loan he was readily accommodated.

"The gambler, having pocketed the new loan, sat down, dipped a pen in the ink, and selected a sheet of paper, whereon to write the usual asknowledgement. But the money lender hastily interposed.

"'Hold on, my friend,' he said, and h ran o a cupboard.

"'Wait A minute, my friend. Would you mind writing it on this soda cracker?'"—Washington Sar.

MRS. NEWED'S QUANDARY

"All these young ladies here," he said, 'will be married some day. They will all some day—for race suicide is the thing no longer—be in the quandary of Mrs. Newed. Let them not, however, emulate her.

"Mrs. Newed sat one day in a public library turning over he leaves of the directory. An old gentleman entered. He, too, wanted to consult the directory, and he frowned on seeing it in use. Then he began to pace the floor impatiently.

"Two or three other persons entered. They also wanted the directory, bu Mrs Newed still continued o turn the leaves.

"Finally a business man entered, line of waiting people, and taking in the situation at a glance he approached the young woman and said politely:

"'Pardon me, but I, as a business man, am accustomed to consuling the directory almost daily. I perceive you are a novice, madam. Let me help you in your search.'

"'Ah!' thank you,' said Mrs. Newed, and with a smile and a t a of relief, she surrendered he huge volume. 'Thank you ever so much, sir, I am trying to find a nice name for my baby.'"—Boston Journal.

IMPRESSED.

Actors frequently receive unexpected proof of the realism of their art. Not long ago, on he occasion of the performance of "Hamlet," by a distinguished English player, there were no more interested and absorbed spectators than wo newsies in the gallery.

The boys had been watching the performance with breathless interest. The las act was drawing to a close. The duel almost dragged the lads from their seats.

Before their eyes the Queen was poisoned, Laertes killed, the King killed, Hamlet killed. On he final tragedy the curtain started down. The audience was spellbound.

In the gallery there was a clatter and a crash as one of the boys mentioned sared for he door.

"COme on, Tommy!" he shoued back to his companion. "Hustle! Dere'll be extras ou on dis!"—Harper's Monthly.

A FOOLISH QUESTION

Thomas A. Edison was explaining to a reporter the tremendous part played by M. Branly, the new French Academician, in he discovery of wireless telegraphy.

The reporter, a little bewildered by all the talk about Hertzian waves, transmitters, volts, ohms, and so forth, ventured on a question that made Mr. Edison smile.

"That question," he said, "reminds me of the city father who rose and said:

"'Mr. Chairman, I'd like to know, for my constituents' benefit, whether this here proposed hydraulic pump is to be run by seam or electricity.'"—New York Tribune.

GALLERY HUMOUR

Sir Charles Santley has a favourite stor yof gallery humour. In "Faust" upon Valenine's death after the duel, Martha had rushed in at the head of the crowd. She raised Valentine's head, and was holding him in her arms. There was a death-like silence in e house, and the audience gazed expectantly at the stage, which was shadowed in darkness. Suddenly a voice from he gallery inquired: "What are ye glowerin' at him for? Loose his weskit, yin o' ye!"—London Globe.

DANIEL AND THE LIONS

And it came to pass that Daniel was cast into the den of lions by order of King Darius.

Early the next morning, King Darius went to the den, rolled away the stone, and called out: "Do the lions bite?"

"Not unreasonably," replied Daniel, who was well up in the legal vernacular of the day.

"Good," ejaculated King Darius as he rolled back the stone. Thereupon he went forth and proclaimed to the multitude that the lion question had been solved.—Puck.

A NICE POINT

"O, surely not all!"

"I think so."

No, no! There's no reason to suppose, for instance, that the Romans were all the time being hunched to do their Saturnalian shopping early."—Puck.

SWASTIKA

According to market action during the past few days, Swastika is one of the gold mines the investing public have limited knowledge of, and at this time we wish to point out the excellent speculative possibilities, as well as the practically safe investment features, contained in this security.

First and foremost, Swastika is a proven gold mine, with sufficient ore blocked out above the 200-foot level to warrant the installation of a big stamp mill, and, once in operation, to continue the production of gold bullion for many years. It should be borne in mind the Swastika Mine is developed to a greater extent than probably any mine in Porcupine, with the exception of Hollinger.

The time is not far distant, we believe, when market values will equal actual mine values, and when such a movement begins, the advance in Swastika stock will likely be as pronounced as in any of the proven gold mines of Northern Ontario.

Considering the splendid mine management, a directorate made up of upright and successful business men, a conservative capitalization, strong treasury resources, the immensity of high-grade ore already in sight, & the present low price of this stock, we unhesitatingly advise the immediate purchase of Swastika.

A sharp rise is predicted by reliably-informed mining men who have recently examined the lower levels in this mine. Place your orders while market prices drag on bottom. If you desire to enjoy a substantial profit, which is practically assured within a comparatively short time.

We will be pleased to execute your orders in this stock, either for cash or on a marginal basis of 33 1-3 per cent., and would suggest sending all orders by wire at our expense.

The EDISON PHONOGRAPH

Musically—the Amberola has the truest, surest, smoothest tone, the most lifelike reproduction. Exactly the right volume of sound for the home. It has the sapphire reproducing point, which is permanent—no changing needles. Artistically—a masterpiece of the cabinet maker's art, as beautiful to look at as it is wonderful to hear. You have your choice of four finishes, Circassian Walnut, Mahogany, Golden Oak and Mission Oak.

Mechanically—perfect. The silent motor will play five Amberol Records, each four-and-one-half minutes long, without rewinding.

There are various other styles of Edison Phonographs at almost any price you wish to pay—and each offers definite Edison advantages. But the Amberola is the greatest of all. Hear it today.

There are Edison dealers everywhere. Go to the nearest and hear the Edison Phonograph play both Edison Standard and Edison Amberol Records. Get complete catalogs from your dealer or from us. SPLENDID LECTURE BY REV. F. O'SULLIVAN

Opening Meeting of Canadian Series Under Auspices of St. Peter's Ladies' Literary Society Held Last Night

Despite the inclemency of the weather last evening, the first meeting of the St. Peter's Ladies' Literary Society was well attended, and if the enthusiasm displayed may be accepted as a criterion of the succeeding meetings, a very successful winter is assured.

At last evening's meeting a splendid lecture was given by the Rev. Fr. F. J. O'Sullivan, on "The Influence of the French Regime on our Canadian Life." The lecture was not without its musical element as a splendid pianforte duet was rendered by the Misses McNamara and Giroux, while Mr. Huycke, in a rich baritone voice rendered Stephen Adams "Roses," with marked effect. The lecture was interspersed by selections by Dr. Drummond's famous poems in the French Canadian dialect, ably rendered by the lecturer. It is intended that the ensuing season should be a "Canadian winter," that is to say all the subjects selected will be strictly Canadian.

"Canada is a nation we are told."

"It is generally accepted that every nation has its own peculiar traits and characteristics. Canada is a religious country; Canadians are religious people. This is probably due to the fact that the history of the country was closely associated with religion. The influence of the French missionaries who worked assiduously at the advent of the country is felt even in the present day. It may also be due to the increasing intercourse during recent years between the people of Quebec and those of the provinces. Hence it is that there is a greater religious feeling prevailing in this country than, say, in the country to the south of us.

There is prevailing in this country a conservative spirit. I do not imply this in a political but in a logical sense. This is due to our association with the mother country, because England is a conservative country. In our House of Commons there prevails a certain political decorum and etiquette, and it is also well known that the eloquence issuing therefrom is of a very high standard, by reason of the inclusion of oratory in the subjects taught at the colleges in Quebec. This high standard of efficiency in oratory still exists in the present day."

Referring to literature, the speaker said:

"This is chiefly French Canadian, either as regards author, or as regards subject. Our authors are mostly French. Thus you will see that we owe a lot to the French people for literature.

French Canada has had great influence in making wholesome family life throughout Canada. Quebec has the largest birthrate in the Dominion and Ontario the lowest. Only the other day a pioneer writer said: 'Our people do not laugh—the only time they laugh is while in places of amusement where laughs are made to order.' That is not the case in lower Canada. It is there that laughter is found in the home. The younger members of French Canada find homely amusement round the family hearth. Another predominant feature in their disposition is their respect for their parents.

Father McColl ,in thanking the lecturer for his interesting discourse, paid a high tribute to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who was, he said, a thorough gentleman and one of the foremost orators that ever lived, both in the English and French languages.

Fr. McColl also made an announcement that a further hundred dollars were now spent on books to augment the T.A.S. library.

The Rev. Dr. O'Brien rendered a short but well worded address and, referring to antipathy in a man towards those of another nationality, said: A man that is difficult to understand is one who is constantly dwelling upon the good points of his nation but who cannot see any good in the people of other nationalities.

Y.M.C.A. EXHIBITION A GREAT SUCCESS

Big Crowd Watched With Interest the Clever Work

From a viewpoint of success, the demonstration of physical work, held in the gymnasium of the Y.M.C.A., last night, was a complete triumph, expressing it mildly. It was not only a demonstration of the physical training the boys get, but it was evident proof of the efficiency they have attained under the splendid directorship of Mr. J. J. Thompson. The programme was well planned and well carried out, every number going off without a hitch, and delighting the spectators, they bringing down the house with enthusiastic applause. The gallery was crowded until there was not even standing room, and chairs were placed around the edge of the room. Among the many amusement manufacturers were L. Soden and C. Brown ,two boys dressed as clowns and acting in the same capacity. They were very worthy of the name, and their gaudy attire, painted faces, and comical antics, were responsible for peals of laughter from the gallery. About 60 boys took part, and it may be said that each and all are worthy of great praise for their remarkable exhibition of skill and efficiency, which was truly wonderful for ordinary school boys. Some of their exercise could scarcely have been improved upon by the most skilled acrobats, a statement which reflects the greatest credit upon the Y.M.C.A. and its officers.

The Programme.

The first item on the programme was the overture by Arthur Skelleter, his rendering bringing forth great applause. Marching by the intermediate class and junnior leaders came next and aw salso very interesting. Messrs. S R. and G. Hall, D. Loomis and J. S. Thompson, senior leaders, gave an exhibition on the parallel bars which was a most praiseworthy exercise and the enthusiasm of the audience was exhibited in the usual manner. An instrumental selection by Messrs. H. Cooke and J. Brightman was greatly appreciated and enlivened the proceedings very much .Calesthenics drill by business and junior boys, led by Mr. E. Hanwell, proved very interesting, and the efficiency of the boys was displayed in a very conspicuous manner. Pyramid building by junior leaders, A. Horsefield, K. and C. Brown, C. Stewart, M. Sucee and C. Arnott was a very artistic performance, showing a good amount of skill, and in short was one of the star items of the programme. It consisted of shoulder climbing and such performances. Group games by the business, junior and intermediate boys was a very popular item. It consisted of a few of the many games played by the different classes, including "Pass the ball," "Skin the snake," "Magic wand," "Bear walk race," and "Fatigue race.' the performances met with loud applause from the audience. A tumbling exhibition was the next number introduced. Those taking pa ' were L. Soden and C. Brown, assisted by J. S. Thompson. This item was also greatly appreciated. Horse and spring board, by the business boys class which was in charge of Mr. G. Galley was a splendid success and reflected credit on the officer in charge. Pyramids on parallel bars by nine intermediate leaders, was a most interesting performance ,which won the very enthusiastic applause of the assembled guests. An exhibition of mat work by a mass of classes, followed by the national anthem, completed a programme of exceptional merit and skill, and was the crowning number of a most successful evening's entertainment.

The whole programme reflected great credit upon the Physical Director of the Y.M.C.A., Mr. J. J. Thompson, and he is deserving of praise for the efficient and creditable manner in which the boys are trained. It reflected credit upon the Y.M.C.A. as an association, demonstrating very clearly the great benefits to be derived from such a splendid training as is given in the institution. It is a place of enjoyment, but more than that it is a place where young men and smaller boys receive an education which proves invaluable to them in later years. That the exercise they receive displayed last evening in the prostrengthens them, was conspicuously gramme before described. In concluding, it may be said that too much praise cannot be given to the officers of the Y.M.C.A., whose splendid work clearly manifests itself when it is brought to the notice of the public.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

Allegorically speaking, the editor is a happy medium between a soupbone and a porterhouse steak. Nobody ever saw a rich editor and on the other hand no one ever encountered an editor who didn't head every subscription paper in circulation with a donation of four bits and a stub pen. The editor is said to belong to the fourth estate because that is the only kind he ever leaves. He is also one of the most cheerful and overworked prevaricators now passing as legal tender. He has to be. Whenever a girl with a face like a cream puff marries a youth who never earned a dime outside of the shooting gallery, the editor has to paint the bride as a radiant vision of blushing beauty and the groom as one of our rising young business men or else disappoint an expectant circle of delinquent subscribers. If the editor fails to spread a two-column obituary over the death of a prominent citizen who never paid a grocery bill outside of the justice court, he is liable to be waited on by some two-fisted relative of the deceased with an injured air and a punch in either hand. It has been libelously reported that the editor's diet is confined mainly to sight drafts and summer squash taken on subscription, but he appears to be as resigned to his lot as a man whose wife has gone to the seashore and the only thing that can cause him to change his occupation is a sheriff's sale or an untimely death. Few editors go to the case nowadays and set up their editorials in long primer with a three-point lead. Modern machinery does everything but meet the pay roll and pay the hired girl. The editor is the most cultured person in the community. He is the only man in the village who can tell "Barriers Burned Away" from "Grant's Memoirs" and get away with it, and as a result he outranks the principal of the High school as a litterateur.

BEARNAISE SAUCE

Drain all the whites from the yolks of two fresh eggs; beat them light and smooth; turn into a round-bottomed saucepan or fireproof bowl and set in a pan of boiling water. Stir into it as for mayonnaise, one drop at a time, three tablespoonfuls of salad oil, keeping the water in the outer vessel boiling and stirring steadily. The oil all in, and the mixture "thick and slab," put in, still by the drop, three tablespoonfuls of boiling water, slightly salted, a tablespoonful of lemon juice and a dainty dust of cayenne.

This is one of the most useful of French sauces and, although more elaborate than some, it will repay the time and care requisite to gain proficiency in the manufacture.

FACTS FOR THE CURIOUS

Confucius used a hair brush for a pen, and his ancestors for centuries before his time. The reed came into use for writing in the marshy countries of the orient. It was hollow and cut in short lengths with sharpened ends, and was some improvement on the hair pen.

A Colorado professor took finger prints from the fingers of his daughter when she was born, 16 years ago, and has taken them every year since. A comparison of these prints by experts shows that there has been absolutely no variation or change in the markings of the fingers since birth. And yet all the investigations have failed to show any two persons in the world yet whose finger markings were perfectly alike.

Two Minute Talks About

PANDORA RANGE

for Coal or Wood

How It Will Save Fuel For You

OF course the Pandora Range is a few dollars more than an ordinary range. But it will soon pay for itself in the fuel it will save for you.

The Pandora Flue System and Wide Fire Box, designed by our brainy stove experts, save about half a ton of coal per year, because they supply more air than the flue systems and fire boxes of ordinary ranges, causing better combustion of fuel.

The Steel Oven saves some more fuel, because it heats up more rapidly than a cast iron oven. The heavy Fire Clay Coating on the main bottom of range prevents any heat wasting towards the floor. It drives the heat back into the oven, and thus saves still more fuel.

But the big economizing feature is this: The draft for cooking on top of the range is also the draft for baking in the oven. The heat does double duty and your fuel bill is largely reduced.

Get the Pandora---the range that pays for itself. No other range is high-class enough for you.

ON TRIAL FOR MURDER

SPRINGFIELD, MASS., NOV. 17.—The trial for murder of Bertram G. Spencer, the clerk accused of leading a Jekyll and Hyde life, in which while in the guise of a burglar, he is said to have murdered Miss Martha B. Blackstone, promises to be one of the most speedy Massachusetts has ever known.

When court proceedings opened on Wednesday with 17 witnesses already called, there were indications that the prosecution might close its case before the day's session ended.

Attorney Stapleton, chief counsel for the defence, is bending every effort to convince the jury that Spencer is insane and was insane at the time of the slaying of Miss Blackstone. With the confession the defendant made to the police, there is practically no way in which Spencer can save his life other than by a plea of insanity.

A pathetic scene took place at the trial of Spencer on Wednesday when the confession of the young man was related on the witness stand by Inspector James H. Boyle.

MOTHER COMFORTS SON

Spencer rocked in his cage and sobbed. His mother tried to calm him, but failed. Then she, too, buried her face in her handkerchief and sobbed in sympathy for her frenzied son. The outburst was so violent that it impeded the progress of the trial.

The court room was packed and the audience was keyed to a pitch of excitement. Boyle told about the arrest of Spencer. This had followed the finding of a locket with the initials "B. G. S." on it and the city directory did the rest.

"When he was arrested and taken to the station, I talked to Spencer," said Boyle. "He asked me what the charge was against him and I told him that he was charged with the murder of Miss Blackstone.

"He said to me that I had made a serious mistake, that he was an innocent man. He said that he could tell just where he had been that night and he told me about his movement. He said that he had been out and bought candy that night and had walked on Main street. He said he had returned home about 8.30 or 9 o'clock. I told him I thought I could fix the charge against him and he was locked up. Then I telephoned to Mrs. Dow and Miss Dow. They came to the station, but they could not identify Spencer as the man who murdered Miss Blackstone and shot Miss Harriet Dow.

LOOT IDENTIFIED

"The two women looked at the loot that had been obtained in the Spencer home and Miss Lucy Dow exclaimed: 'Why, mother, this is my belt!' Then after a time the mother exclaimed; 'Lucy there is your pearl brooch!'

"I took the Indian bead belt and the brooch to Spencer and asked him where he got them. He said that he had bought the belt from an Indian woman in New Mexico four years before and that he had bought the brooch on Worthy street, Springfield, about six months before.

"Later that day, I saw him and he said he had a headache and I got Dr. Joseph N. Boyer to attend him. Boyer gave him something and he went to sleep.

LAYS BLAME ON BEATING

Boyle, continuing his testimony, said that Spencer had sent for him the next day and said: "You've got the right man, Captain, that the police have been looking for a long time. I shot those two women up on Round Hill and I'm the masked burglar that has been terrorizing Springfield.

"'When I was a boy down in Connecticut, my father used to beat me terribly. Once he struck me with the butt end of the whip on my head. The blow was so severe that it broke the butt off, and left me weltering in blood on the floor. I was never right afterwards, because from that time I had to steal and I could not get away from it.

"'I was at my work in Springfield last year. I committed all those robberies in the evening and in all these houses. That Indian belt I took from the Dow house. I lied to you when I said I bought it in New Mexico. The pearl pins I took also from the Dow house. I found them both in a bureau in the bedroom.

"'I left my own house that night about 7 o'clock. I took a car from West Springfield and went up to Round Hill. I had no particular place to go except to rob a house somewhere. I went up there to the house and around the side of the house I saw a shed.

DESCRIBES CRIME

"'I had on my new overcoat and a derby hat. I had a belt and a revolver buckled about me and in my overcoat pocket I had my flashlight, the soft black hat and the black muffler that I used for a mask. I took off my overcoat and derby hat behind the shed. I took off my shoes, also. I put them in a pile by the corner of the shed and I put on the soft felt hat, masked myself with the muffler and with the flashlight in my trousers pocket made my way barefooted to the back of the house.

"'I found one window open and climbed in. It led to a bedroom. The room was dark and I did not think there was any one in the house. I found the Indian bead belt on the dresser in the bedroom and put it in my pocket. I flashed my light about and saw a door. I opened this and there I saw four women in a lighted room, playing a game. I was as much surprised as they were.

"'One woman screamed. I told them to be quiet; that all I wanted was their money and did not intend to hurt them. I put my flashlight in my pocket and drew my revolver. I thought I could scare them into silence.

FIRED TO ESCAPE

"'Then they all screamed. One grabbed me by the leg and another hit me with a chair. I heard voices all around me. I thought the house was surrounded and then I fired so as to escape. When two of the women dropped to the floor, that left my way to a door clear. I ran into the hall and I quickly opened the front door, jumped over the piazza and ran to the shed where I had left my clothes.

"'I grabbed my overcoat, hat and shoes and ran through the woods behind the house. I went to my home and cleaned and reloaded my revolver and put it under my pillow. I put the flashlight under the pillow also. My wife was asleep. She had a coal fire burning in the stove and I burned the soft felt hat in the fire.

"'I then went to sleep and slept soundly during the night. I awoke at 6 o'clock in the morning and at 6.15 went to work.'"

Three Miles a Minute

NEW YORK, NOV. 15.—Three miles a minute sounds rather like the product of a vivid imagination, but that is the speed "Bob" Burman expects to make with his new 300-horse power German automobile. Burman returned from Germany yesterday on board the George Washington, of the North German Lloyd line, after a visit to the factory, where he purchased the new machine and gave it a preliminary try-out before ordering it shipped to America.

"The new machine is a wonder," he said, "and from the short trial I gave it, I am sure that it will develop more speed than the old Blitzen."

"How fast do you think you can push it?"

"Some past three miles a minute, I am sure," he said.

Burman says he will race the new wonder against time at Daytona Beach this winter, providing the other new racers attempt to lower his mile and two mile records.

To-day Burman leaves for Savannah, where he will participate in the automobile classics which are to be run off there at the end of this month.

Mons. Victor Hemery, another member of the team, which will endeavor to hang up some new records at Savannah, was also on board the George Washington, and with him and Burman was E. A. Moross, manager for the Benz drivers.

Louis Wagner, who has a Vanderbilt Cup race among his laurels, was also on board. He is coming over to pilot one of the big automobiles in the Vanderbilt Cup race at Savannah, and has expressed great confidence in the ability of his new racer, declaring that it would set a new road race mark against any field.

DENTAL SURGERIES

STOCKHOLM, NOV. 11.—Sweden, with its 5,500,000 inhabitants, has about thirty complete dental surgeries for school children, while Germany, with 65,000,000, has only 100.

In Sweden's dental surgeries for school children a journal is kept in regard to every child. Surgeries are open every day and the young patients are treated by a dental surgeon and his assistant. Hitherto dental surgery has been free of charge but it is now proposed to charge those children able to afford it a small sum yearly for the treatment of their teeth.

Experience proves that both the children and their parents value the dental treatment more if they do not get it quite free of charge.

In order to find out the effect of dental treatment upon school children in different respects a circular containing a series of questions was distributed among the teachers in one of the largest schools in Stockholm. From the replied it has been discovered that absence from school on account of toothache has, since the establishment of dental surgeries, been almost nil.

The fact that the children are quieter and more attentive, since the opening of the surgeries, has also been elicited from the replies, and various other improvements from a bygienic point of view have been experienced.

After doing any kind of dirty work well grease the hands with vaseline or cold cream, rubbing it well in, especially round the finger tips. Then wash in warm water with either soap or oatmeal, and the hands will be perfectly clean.

CROWN'S OWN WITNESSES PROVED DEFENDANTS INNOCENT OF ANY WRONG-DOING

Neither Mr. Warren Nor Mr. Stratton Called Any Witnesses in Farmers' Bank Case—Interview With Mr. Stratton.

CASE IS ALL OVER

Mr. Stratton returned from Toronto last evening, at the conclusion of the case of the charge of conspiracy, in connection with the obtaining of the charter of the Farmers Bank, preferred against himself and Mr. J. J. Warren, Managing Director of the Trusts and Guarantee Company.

When asked by a reporter of The Examiner if he had any statement to make in regard to the matter, Mr. Stratton said:

"No, I have nothing particular to say, especially as judgment has been reserved on points of law. I have nothing more to say than what I have always said: That so far as Mr. Warren and I are concerned, as officers of the Trusts and Guarantee Company, we had done no wrong. Mr. Warren merely loaned Mr. Travers, of the Farmers' Bank, $80,000 on the security of good Farmers' notes, which were afterwards returned, on the repayment of the loan. It was an ordinary loan, such as is made by Banks, Trust Companies, and other financial institutions.

"It was supposed," said the reporter to Mr. Stratton, "that your case and Mr. Warren's would be dealt with at the Assizes together with that of the provisional directors, and others connected with the organization of the Farmers Bank?

Mr. Stratton—"Well, Mr. Warren and myself had not elected before which court, and in what manner the case should be tried, as we had the right to do. And, as we had nothing to do with the provisional directors, or the Farmers Bank, we elected that the matter should come before the County Judge. We did not want our case mixed up with the directors, and others, with whom we had had no connection in any manner, shape, or form. We wished our case to be tried where it could be dealt with by itself, ad on its merits, without being mixed up with other matters with which we had nothing to do. In making a loan through the Trusts and Guarantee Company we either did wrong, or did not, and we wanted that matter settled. In due course, the case came before Judge Winchester on Thursday morning, Mr. G. H. Watson, K.C., was my solicitor, and Mr. N. W. Rowell, K.C., represented Mr. Warren, and Mr. F. E. A. Du Vernet, K.C., and Mr. R. H. Greer, County Crown Attorney, acted for the Crown.

"Did the case take long?"

"Well, the Court spent five hours on Thursday, and about an hour on Friday. The evidence of Mr. Travers, manager of the bank, and Mr. Stockdale, manager of the Trusts Company, taking most of the time."

"Were there any witnesses besides the Crown witnesses?"

"No; neither Mr. Warren nor I called any witnesses. The Crown called Mr. D. Hughes Charles, former manager of the Bank of Commerce, Peterborough. He, it appears, had been present at a "pink tea," at a private house one Sunday afternoon in Peterborough, when a chaffing conversation took place between him and myself. In the presence of fifteen or twenty others, mostly ladies, who could remember nothing of the casual conversation. But Mr. Charles, seemingly, had taken the chaff seriously; though, as it has turned out, I never had any stock of the Farmers' Bank, and had none for sale, and never received any commission, as was attempted to be shown at the preliminary hearing."

The case would have been over the first day, but that the Crown had subpoenaed Mr. W. R. Morris, Peterborough, who had been present at the tea, to tell what he knew about it. When called on Friday morning, he said that he was present, and, while he heard the Farmers Bank jocularly mentioned, he had paid no attention to the gossip, on this, or any other topics. Mr. Stockdale, accountant at the time, explained the whole loan transaction.

"What about Mr. Travers' evidence?"

"Well, Mr. Travers explained the whole matter from his standpoint and the case was practically at an end when Mr. Watson asked Mr. Travers, witness for the Crown: "Have you any reason to believe that Mr. Stratton or Mr. Warren, or any one connected with the Trusts and Guarantee Company was acting with any lack of bonafides." Mr. Travers replied: "No, I believe both Mr. Stratton and Mr. Warren acted bona fide. Mr. Stratton, or Mr. Warren, had no knowledge of the preparation of the document that deceived the Finance Minister." This was the whole substance of the charge which thereupon absolutely failed, in the light of this evidence, the strongest the Crown had to offer.

At the conclusion of Mr. Travers' evidence, the Judge asked the Crown Attorney if he thought "there was any necessity of going any further," and Mr. Du Vernet, replying for him, said that it was his duty to present the facts fairly to the court and this he had done.

"Did you and Mr. Warren call any witnesses?"

Mr. Stratton — No; we rested our cases entirely on the witnesses brought by the prosecution. As there was not a tittle of evidence to connect either of us with any wrong doing in connection with the obtaining of the charter of the Farmers Bank, it was considered unnecessary to call any witnesses on our behalf. The Crown witnesses, themselves had disproved the charges the Crown had brought.

"Is the case all over?"

"Yes, so far as we are concerned. After counsel had addressed the Court, Judge Winchester said he would look into the cases quoted, and give his decision later.

As far as Mr. Warren and myself are concerned, there was never anything in the charges, but as the matter is still sub-judice, I won't say anything more about it; but it is just as I always said, there never was anything in the charges."

SOLDIERS WANT PAY

Examiner Special:

PEKIN, CHINA, Nov. 18.—Premier Yuan Shi announced this morning that the rebels attacked the Imperial forces at Hankow yesterday, and were repulsed with considerable loss after fierce fighting. Reliable intelligence from Peking is that there is a strong conspiracy among he Chinese to assassinate the Premier.

PEKIN, NOV. 18.—General Tian, commander of the second army, has been ordered to proceed to Hankow, and suppress the rebellion, with the idea of forcing the rebels to a compromise, under which the Man-Chu dynasty may be retained.

The Imperial and Revolutionist are expected to come together in a decisive battle before night, between Chin Kiang and Manking. The Revolutionists are in excellent shape, while the Imperial soldiers are said to be prly equipped. The Governor of Yo Han states that unless the Imperial troops in that section are paid immediately the soldiers will join the Revolutionist party.

AN ELEVENTH HOUR BLUFF

What does the Whitney Government mean by its pretended eleventh hour repentance on the Peterborough power question?

The Ontario Government Hydro-Electric Commission is just six years late in its starry bluff at lighting up Eastern Ontario like an Indian rapt in his crown jewels and providing it with enough power to move mountains.

It was six years ago that Cecil B. Smith, then chief engineer of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, examined and reported on the water powers of the Trent Valley district.

Cecil B. Smith reported that there was altogether 43,000 horse power between Hastings and Trenton, of which only 4,000 was developed.

He recommended that this unused power be developed, and that the Hydro-Electric Commission seize this splendid opportunity to string transmission wires to every town, city or village in the Midland district between Orillia and Kingston.

Cecil B. Smith's idea lacked nothing in size and his recommendations lacked nothing in scope. If the Hydro-Electric Power Commission had been as big as Adam Beck's professions, then was its chance to cut a figure and do business at the same time.

But the Hydro-Electric Commission did nothing. Like the god Baal, it slumbered and slept. It let the chance go by, either because it didn't want it, or because it had enough trouble with Hydro-Electric in Western Ontario.

Meanwhile private enterprise has spent upwards of 4,000,000 dollars giving Peterborough power and light. When private competition came into the field there were four hundred householders in Peterborough using electric light, and the price made it a luxury.

To-day there are four thousand householders and merchants using electric light.

The price puts it within the reach of every mechanic and workingman.

Peterborough is better lit to-day than any other city of its size in the world, and has a larger percentage of power users. The Review has been challenged to refute this statement.

Private enterprise has done this, while the Hydro-Electric Power Commission was snoring. It has put up its good money while the Hydro-Electric was putting up bluff.

The Hydro-Electric Power Commission comes in at the heel of the hunt. It suggests reaping what it has not sown.

It keeps on putting up bluffs. The Whitney Government does not say let there be more light and power for Peterborough—except at election times. After that it can sleep again for six years.

BANK MONTREAL PREMISES WORTH OVER $9,000,000

New Departure Made in Very Strong Annual Report Issued by the Big Bank To-day

For years past the statements of the Bank of Montreal have contained this item, "Bank premises, $600,000.

The figure was, of course, absurdly low, but it was ultra conservative and characteristic of the ultra conservative Bank of Montreal.

Shareholders and critics have railed for years past, and have asked the bank to show what its premises and buildings were worth. Now they know.

In the annual statement issued today the big bank shows its land holdings to be worth no less than $4,735,000, and the buildings $4,353,000, or a total of $9,088,000. This is enormous, and to say the least, will agreeably surprise the shareholders, many of whom have thought the buildings to be worth perhaps about $6,000,000.

The bank now takes its $9,088,000 valuation, cuts more than half of it off, and writes the bank premises account in the new statement at $4,000,000.

This is an increase of $3,400,000 over last year, and of this amount $3,000,000 is added to the rest, which is now $15,000,000, or equal to the capital, of what the capital will be very shortly when the new stock just issued is fully paid up. The balance, amounting to $400,000, is carried forward.

As for the past year's results, profits are put down at $2,276,518 against $1,797,992 last year, and a balance of no less than $1,855,000 goes into next year's account. A magnificent showing even for Canada's premier bank!

The statement shows a slight increase in non-interest bearing deposits during the year, and a falling off in deposits bearing interest.

Circulation shows an increase, so do current loans, which are nearly $10,000,000 greater than last year Call loans outside the country are very much smaller, indicating that the bank is now employing more money in Canada than ever before.

A few of the most important items in the statement, which shows the bank to be in exceptionally strong shape, compare as follows:

HOW THE FARMER CAN HELP THE TOWN COST OF LIVING

North Monaghan Electors Listen to Mr. R. R. Hall's Plan for Bringing Town and Country Together for the Benefit of Each—Mr. O'Connell Asks Better Treatment for the Little Red Schoolhouse.

Chairman ex-Reeve Mr. T. Hunter presided over a good-sized audience at Mr. R. R. Hall's meeting in North Monaghan Town Hall, last night. The heavy roads, the driving sleet, the slushy November-December weath Premier Whitney reckoned on to keep country voters away from election meetings, is not producing its calculated effect.

The candidate laid special stress on his plan to bring town and cuntry closer together, to the benefit of each, by means of a demonstration farm, located near Peterborough, and an expert demonstrator, who could act as soil analyzer, drainage engineer, farm doctor, land healer, and general diagnostician and technical adviser to the farmers roundabout.

Helping the Farmer Helps the Town.

"My idea is," said Mr. Hall, "that if we make life both profitable and attractive, we keep the boy on the farm, to that extent we solve the problem of hired help, we repopulate the country district—the rural population has shrunk sadly in the last ten years—we increase the productiveness of the soil, we cause the farmer to grow more and sell more, and consequently make more money, and we enlarge the sources of supply, and decrease the cost of living in cities."

"I want you to get that," said Mr. Hall. My plan is to increase the efficiency of farms and farmers, not only for the farmers' sake, but for the sake of the consumer in the city—the man who has to eat and has to pay."

"Someone objects," said Mr. Hall, "that we have experimental farms and agricultural colleges already. Quite true. We have—good ones, too. We must have spent millions of money on them. The experimental farms have made excellent and illuminating experiments. The agricultural colleges have got the best information together from all over the world. And the information is sent to the farmers, too, but nothing comes of it. You might as well chuck all that garnered wisdom in the Otonabee river. Why? Because nobody looks at it."

"You see, it's this way," explained Mr. Hall. "The knowledge is put in pamphlets and circulars, and thick books with blue-gray covers. The pages bristle with technical words, and the tired farmer doesn't want to pile a headache on top of his backache looking up their meaning in the dictionary."

Knowledge That Goes Astray.

"Yes," commented Mr. Hall, "the Agricultural Department may send out good books, but it might as well be Egyptian hieroglyphics for all the farmer reads it. He probably blows the dust off the top of one of those blue books, once a week, when he wants a leaf of shaving paper."

"That's no way to get practical information to the farmer. You might as well dump Mr. O'Connell's new library down on the farmers' table, and tell him to become a lawyer that way, as to tell the farmer how to become a farmer by reading blue books. The way to learn how to do a thing is by doing it. The way to learn to farm is by farming. Briefly, the method is object lessons."

This is where my demonstration farm and my local demonstrator in the Riding of West Peterborough comes in," continued Mr. Hall. "The farm is there under your eyes, for you all to see and steer by. The demonstrtor is there, the man-on-the-spot, information on top, so to speak, always there, and always ready, like a dentist or a doctor, or any other emergency member of society."

Information on Top.

"He is not only ready with advice and information, but with active help," explained Mr. Hall. "For instance, Farmer Jones comes to Demonstrator Brown, and says, 'I have a run-down apple orchard. What will I do with it?' And Demonstrator Brown claps on his hat and says, 'I'll go out with you and look at it'. And so the farmer and the farm-doctor go together to his apple-orchard and Demonstrator Brown shows him how and where to prune, and tells him when to spray, and comes out at spraying time and helps him with it, and one way and another, gives Farmer Smith assistance and advice that multiply the quantity and quality of his apples, and his returns therefrom from three hundred to four hundred per cent."

"Or, perhaps," continued Mr. Hall, "it's weeds that bother you. You nearly break your back grubbing them out. The demonstrator comes

CONSTITUTIONAL HISTORY OF CANADA DISCUSSED BY HON. MR. JUSTICE RIDDELL

Canadian Club, of Peterborough, Made a Good Start for the Season, Opening With an Enthusiastic Meeting Last Night.

A SPLENDID ADDRESS

The formal opening of the Canadian Club for the fall and winter season was held last night at the Hotel Oriental, and was marked by a splendid gathering and an educative address by Hon. Mr. Justice Riddell, on "The Constitutional History of Canada." The spacious dining hall was filled with enthusiastic members of the Club and others, evidencing a growing interest in the Club, and in what it stands for.

After those present had partaken of the many good things provided on the menu, Dr. Cameron, President of the Club, took the chair, and in a few well-chosen remarks, gave a brief, verbal report of the financial standing of the Club. He then announced the report of the nominating committee, which will be found in another column.

Mr. E. L. Goodwill, Vice-President, on being called upon to speak, gave a brief outline for the coming winter, intimating that there would be two meetings in January, two in February, and one in March. Mr. Goodwill also paid a glowing tribute to the excellent work accomplished by the retiring President during the past year.

Hon. Mr. Justice Riddell was then called upon to address the gathering.

Hon. Justice Riddell's Address.

In commencing the speaker of the evening referred to the great pleasure that was his, in having to address the Canadian Club of Peterborough. "It may astonish, and even, amuse, those of my friends, who are here," said His Honour, by way of explanation, "to see me read an address, but when it devolves upon you to address a Canadian Club, you have got to give them more than froth".

System of Government.

He commenced by describing the system of government in New France, which much resembled the old France across the sea. The Intendant was entrusted with much power. He was assisted by a Council, not elected, but appointed. The King of France could nullify any acts of the Intendant and Council. There was nothing like a Parliament in the English sense. The Noblesse and the Seigneurs ruled the land. The Habitants were under them. The Seigneurs generally owned the land, but the Crown reserved the timber and certain lands for military purposes. The Seigneur administered justice. The Habitant was bound to take his grain to be ground at the Seigneur's mill, or to pay the toll to him, even if he took his grain to another mill. The Habitant was liable to the corvee, or forced labour. Dickens graphically describes the condition of the people under this system in Old France in his "Tale of Two Cities." The lot of the Canadian Habitant was much superior, however, to the lot of the peasant in Old France at that time. They all loved Canada. No one who had not mingled amongst the French Canadians could understand the depth of their devotion to their country. Next to, if not above, the Seigneur was the Cure, the only one besides the Seigneur who could read or write. After a century and a half the Cure still occupied this place of influence and honour. It had been said that the Seigneur in Canada exercised the powers that were exercised in France by the King and Nobles and Judges. There was nothing like a Constitution in those days. In 1759 Quebec was taken by Wolfe. The military commanders then governed the country. French civil law was continued, but English criminal law was substituted for the French, which permitted torture, breaking upon the wheel and arbitrary imprisonment. The Treaty of Paris of February 10th, 1763, settled the question as to the ownership of Canada by Great Britain. A further proclamation was issued in 1763, appointing Governors for different parts of Canada, and giving them and the Councils power to make laws as near as might be to the laws of England. Courts of Justice were to be erected. This proclamation introduced a tremendous change in the system of government. The people had nothing to do with the selection of the members of the Council, for they were all Roman Catholics, and according to British law, at that time they could not have a vote. Imagine what our condition in Ontario would be if the people had no votes and were compelled to live un-

TO-NIGHT'S LIBERAL RALLY.

THE LETTER OF THE LAW.

The vigilance of the city police in enforcing the law is a salutary contrast to the apathy of the Whitney government's department of justice. But in law enforcement, as in everything else, discretion is not a bad quality.

When we see the law of the land and by-laws of the city broken repeatedly and no undue enthusiasm manifested in bringing offenders to justice one is somewhat surprised to see a boy engaged in a noble work singled out as an example. Yesterday morning, Mr. T. F. Matthews was arraigned in the police court and fined $50 and costs, his offence consisting in permitting his son, who is a few days short of seventeen years of age, to run Mr. Matthews' auto car on Tag Day, Nov. 11. Mrs. Matthews and other ladies were using the auto in supervising the work of the collectors at different points, and the lad, who is a boy of steadiness and good judgment, was considered quite competent to conduct the car.

While his employment, under age, may have been a technical breach of the law, the selection of an exemplary victim who was engaged in a good work, did not reveal a very great sympathy with the work of the Children's Aid Society. This prosecution for a breach of the statute governing autos would not seem so invidious if the opportunities for prosecuting other infractions of the law were taken advantage of. Every hour of the day, it is safe to assert, the law in regard to speed is broken by apparently qualified drivers of autos, and we have among the thousands of chances that justice, has had fairly thrust upon it, not a solitary record of prosecution or punishment of a single offender, within the past three months. This circumstance, and the prosecution of the lad give an air of earnest to the joke that the small boy and the drunk are the favourite objects of attention on the part of the helmetted guardians of the peace.

SHOWING THEM UP.

(Montreal Herald.)

It cannot be said that the Liberal front bench betrays any excessive anxiety to make it possible for Mr. Borden and Mr. Monk to dwell together in unity. There is a sort of "Let no man join together those who are so far asunder," air about nearly all the questions. This may be annoying, but nobody can say it isn't fair. It is perfectly fair, for example, in view of the claims made concerning the influence of the no remere decree upon the result of the elections, to ask the beneficiaries of the agitation in regard to it what they mean to do. It is fairly pertinent to those who voted against Laurier because he talked with Mgr. Sbaretti that they should know whether Mr. Borden has been talking with Mgr. Begin, somebody else with Mgr. Langevin. It goes to the very essence of the principle of cabinet government that men who were saying opposite things about the navy should enter together a cabinet as members of which they must say the same thing. In short, the Liberals who were the victims of many varieties of duplicity have a perfect right to expose the nature and workings of it to their hearts' content. The fact is that, on all the surface indications, a cabinet with both Mr. Borden and Mr. Monk in it, with Mr. Hughes and Mr. Pelletier in it, with Mr. Rogers and Mr. Nantel in it, ought to be outside the limits of the possible, and it is a service to the public not to allow the fact to be forgotten.

Ex-Minister Of Labour Speaks On Workmen's Compensation Law

The masterly grasp of Hon. Mackenzie King, formerly Minister of Labor, on matters pertaining to workmen's physical welfare is strikingly illustrated by the address he delivered in Toronto Tuesday night. Not only that, but Mr. King's condemnation of the Whitney Government's handling of that important issue shows in no uncertain way the general laxity of the present government towards labor interests. After calling attention to the appalling statistics which show that 20,000 men industrially engaged were killed in Canada every 10 years, Mr. King pointed out the economic loss not only to labor, but in the homes of those cut off.

Continuing, Mr. King said:

These deaths are not voluntary, they are inevitable, they are incidental to the industrial processes of to-day. The question naturally arises if they are incidental and inevitable to any industry, why should the industry not bear the cost? Railway companies set aside a sum for loss and damage to rolling stock; manufacturers put aside something in addition to interest to provide for accidents and wear and tear to machinery. The industry carries this. Why should human life be differently estimated? Why should the victim if his life is spared be forced to an action at law with all the harassments and hazards of litigation to get compensation for a life-long injury, or a fatherless family be forced into court to gain some momentary redress for the loss of a life to which they have looked for support, and which has been claimed by the money-making processes of the day? This is the question which hundreds of thousands of workingmen on the mines, factories, the buildings, the metal trades, the several branches of transportation have been asking themselves for years, and this is the question which they look to those who are seeking their support to answer. What answer has Mr. Whitney given? None. He has shelved the whole question. He has appointed a Chief Justice of one of the courts to report upon it, and the Chief Justice has been a year upon the job, and has not reported yet. Now the new Minister of Labour at Ottawa ostentatiously informs him through the press that he will be glad to place the library of the Federal Department of Labour at his disposal. If a library is necessary for this purpose, why has the Bureau of Labour in the provincial buildings not such a library? Because Sir James Whitney, true to Tory tradition, has abolished the bureau, except in name. What the workingmen of Ontario want is not reports by any Chief Justice. They have had enough to do with judges and law courts. They want to get away from law and all its associations. They wnt justice, but not justice obtained through litigation. Now this is what Mr. Rowell and the Liberal party are pledged to give them. Nothing could be more complicated or in some respects unfair than the law on Workmen's compensation, as it is in Ontario today. It is as respects similar legislation in other provinces, far behind the legislation of Alberta, Manitoba, Nova Scotia and British Columbia. The Liberal party promises a law modelled after recent legislation in Britain. Wherein is that legislation different from our own? In Ontario, under the law as it stands, the onus is on the workingman or his representative to prove that the employer was guilty of negligence. In the English law the onus is on the employer to prove that the fault was the workman's. Moreover, instead of leaving it to a jury to fix the amount of damages the statute fixes specific sums for specific injuries with the result that employers have found it profitable to insure their workmen against accident and settle in the majority of cases on the basis fixed in the schedule instead of going into court. The English Act further extends the provisions of the act to injury occasioned through certain occupational diseases. To my mind it should be possible to have all cases of death and injury and industrial disease adjusted without litigation at all, either by a state board appointed for the purpose or in some other way, and this I take is what Mr. Rowell has in mind when he speaks of insuring in all cases payment of such compensation. What chance has an injured workman against a corporation? And how much less chance the dependent of a deceased workman? These industrial accidents are inevitable to certain industrial processes, humanity demands that the pain and injury be not aggravated through litigation, and justice demands a known compensation for a known loss. This certainly would lead to a more effective prevention of accidents. If this is what the workingman of Ontario wants, let them support the party that is pledged to give them this long needed redress.

The speech of the ex-Minister of Labour has the right ring about it. It is far different from the deliverances of Ontario's Premier or his following. It will be the Liberal party working for labour's interests that will bring a speedy end to the present inactive indifference of Whitney administration, if not to the administration itself.

ADDRESS OF G. H. WATSON, K.C. TO COURT IN THE MATTER OF FARMERS' BANK CASE

Strong Argument of Counsel of J. R. Stratton Showing That Neither He Nor Mr. J. J. Warren Had Done Any Wrong as Charged, in Connection With Obtaining Bank Charter or Otherwise.

The following is the address to the Court of Mr. G. H. Watson K. C., counsel for Mr. Stratton, at the conclusion of the evidence in the trial of the charges preferred against Mr. Stratton, president, and Mr. J. J. Warren, managing director of the Trusts and Guarantee Company, in respect of the conspiracy in the obtaining of the charter of the Farmers Bank. Mr. Watson said:

It is, I think, manifest beyond any reasonable question or controversy that there is no foundation whatever for these proceedings as against my client, the Hon. Mr. Stratton, and in speaking of my client in that way I am not distinguishing him from his co-defendant, Mr. Warren. My learned friend for the Crown has given vent to many inflammatory expressions with regard to the failure of this bank and the mal-administration of its affairs.

The Court—I did not hear any inflammatory words.

Mr. DuVernet—No, they were not necessary in addressing Your Honour.

Mr. Watson—I thought that they were pretty strong.

The Court—Not inflammatory; forcible, perhaps.

Mr. Watson—But in connection with that my learned friend, I think, has practically conceded that in this case he has not presented to the Court any evidence of any evil or wrongful intention, much less of any fraudulent intention, on the part of the defendant here. And my learned friend seeks now rather to put it apart from any wrongful intention and apart from any wrongful agreement, as a matter of law solely and entirely and in the interests of the public, as a matter of the construction of the provisions of the Banking Act. That is, my learned friend in effect now comes to this Court and asks solely for the construction of the Statute. It seems very extraordinary that the Crown seeking merely what my learned friend now asks (that is an interpretation of the law) should not have taken a proceeding by special case or otherwise to have the law interpreted by the Court instead of instituting proceedings under the Criminal Code against prominent business men, with no foundation in fact for the charges, and in the absence from the country and otherwise of those who actually participated in and committed the wrongful acts that are referred to. It is most extraordinary, I think, that the Crown should ever have been advised to do such a grievous wrong to honourable and prominent men in the community. Here there is not only an absence of evidence as against the defendants but there is on the part of the Crown actual affirmative evidence adduced before the Court of the non-existence of any wrongful intention and of the non-existence of any agreement or concurrence between the parties such as to maintain the criminal charge which has been presented before you. It goes without saying that in all cases of this kind the onus is upon the Crown to establish what is known as mens rea. There must be an illegal or a wrongful intention on the part of the defendant to justify proceedings invoking the criminal procedure. There is a total absence of that. I feel, Your Honour, that it is almost an offence to the Court to continue observations upon that point, because it is so clear upon the evidence, upon all the evidence that has been adduced here, that there is a total absence of any foundation for the charge. The only witness who has been called upon that point is the witness, Mr. Travers, who was the General Manager of the Bank. His testimony is clear and distinct; testimony that no doubt has been within the knowledge of the Crown for almost a year past; perhaps quite that long. And that testimony, manifestly to the knowledge of the Crown was such, and before the Court is such, as absolutely and positively acquits the defendant, Mr. Stratton, and equally his co-defendant, of any possible wrongful intention, much less of any agreement. The loan referred to was an ordinary, simple, business transaction by the officers of a financial institution. If my learned friend could with success invoke what he has presented to Your Honour this morning, then Your Honour, it might equally well be invoked against every banking and financial institution in the country that it was an illegal act to advance money to a customer if that customer afterwards applied that money for any illegal or wrongful purpose, because, as my learned friend suggests in argument—the one who obtains the money, the customer of the bank, for instance, after securing the money, had the means in that way of doing the wrong and if he had the means of doing the wrong by the obtaining of the money upon—no difference what kind of a loan—the party making the loan would be answerable as for a conspiracy. Your Honour, that is an extraordinary proposition to be carried into the daily commercial transactions of business men and of banking and other financial institutions. It is manifest that could never have been intended. Your Honour has referred to the cases with which you are no doubt very familiar, showing that it is necessary in all such charges under the Code that there should be the evidence of a wrongful, or at all events, of an illegal intention and of a wrongful or illegal agreement between the parties. Take for instance such a case as Reg. v. Tolson, 16 Cox Criminal Cases, also reported in 23 Q. B. D., 168, which is an indictment for bigamy, and it is a very apt illustration of the doctrine that Your Honour has stated during my learned friend's address. In this case the defence was that the defendant, although marrying again within seven years, had reasonable ground for believing that her husband was dead. Justice Hawkins said: "She did so"—that is marry again—"believing in good faith and upon reasonable grounds that her first husband was dead"—that was the question upon which she was tried—"I am clearly of the opinion that she did, and that she ought to have been acquitted. The ground upon which I have arrived at this conclusion is simply this: that, having contracted her second marriage under an honest and reasonable belief in the existence of a state of things which, if true, would have afforded her a complete justification, both legal and moral, there was an absence of that mens rea which is an essential element in every charge of felony." Then he refers to the Statutes. Then there are many other cases. The case of Chisholm v. Doulton in 22 Q. B. D. at page 736. In the judgment it is stated by Field, J. and Cave, J.:

"It is a general principle of our criminal law that there must be as an essential ingredient in a criminal offence some blameworthy condition of mind. Sometimes it is negligence, sometimes malice, sometimes guilty knowledge—but as a general rule there must be something of that kind which is designated by the expression mens rea." That is, an intention to carry out an illegal act. I can cite, Your Honour, if necessary, many other cases to the same effect, but I am doing this merely by way of confirming the view, that I think my learned friend himself quite frankly admits, of the law in that respect.

Now, just a word further. This is not a question of law. It should not be so treated. As I submit it is a question of fact pure and simple and should be so dealt with. If the Crown should be permitted to come by way of criminal procedure to have questions of law determined it would be a most serious thing for the public and would disturb and unsettle the whole administration of the law and to the injury of people interested. Here it is the simple question of fact whether the evidence shows that this defendant did any wilful or intentional wrong or had any such thing in his mind. Now, applyiig that for a moment; it is apparent upon the evidence that no wrong whatever was contemplated by anyone in connection with this bank; on the other hand, that everything was deemed to be perfectly proper and legal until some time after this loan had been made and the money received by the Farmers Bank. In further connection with that, it is fair to say in respect to those who were in management of the bank that apparently they were acting upon legal advice. It would be monstrous if citizens should afterwards be brought before a court and made subject to criminal procedure under the Criminal Code if they are honestly and bona fide acting upon the legal advice of prominent and competent solicitors in the city or community. Apparently this bank and these officials were acting upon competent advice in the course they pursued and that the same continued during the time of the application for and the granting of the loan and the first departure from it was when the time came for the literal compliance with what the Minister of Finance in the exercise of his discretion required. In connection with that I think it is manifest that the Statute does not call for all that the Minister of Finance in the exercise of his discretion called for. The Statute does not direct that he shall have such material—and it is a matter solely in his discretion in the interests of the public and for the protection of the public that he goes to the extent that he did in this case of asking for further evidence. He actually went beyond what is prescribed by the Statute, and everybody would have been protected and no evil would have followed but for the wrfong that was then done by one or two or more, whoever they may be, in making the false statements for the deliberate purpose of deceiving the Minister of Finance. Now, Your Honour, it is not suggested in the slightest degree that the defendant had any connection for a moment directly or indirectly or any knowledge whatever most remotely of these wrongs that were done. The whole gist of this case is and it has no existence in fact at all as to any wrong beyond that done at that or about the 30th of November in the making of the declaration and in the writing of the letter and in the preparation of the false list. There is the whole case; the whole wrong. The one that did the wrong—one of those at all events that committed the wrong is now suffering the penalty; but, Your Honour, it is a grievous sin that others should have been dragged in here as they have been and subjected to this dishonour and to this indignity without any foundation in f t as shown by the evidence.

My client, the Hon. J. R Stratton, is recognized as one of the most prominent men of Canada. He has occupied the highest position of public honour. His reputation and standing are unimpeachable. It is surely to be deplored that he should have been made to suffer for the omissions and the sins of others. Justice demands for him an unqualified vindication.

Constitutional History Of Canada

der French or German law. Justices of the Peace were appointed with inferior jurisdiction. The English emigrant practically monopolised the administration of law in the country. Complaint and counter-complaint were made to the King about this condition of things. An Executive Council was formed, and on it many of the French Noblesse found a place. It was not thought practicable to institute a representative chamber under the circumstances. The people did not take kindly to the idea of trial by jury. They did not think their liberty or property would be as safe in the hands of shoemakers and tailors as in the hands of the Seigneur.

Troublesome Times.

The generals of the British Army, under military rules, governed the country from 1760 until 1763. Then, for a short time, the government was by Royal Proclamation under King George. In 1774 the Quebec Act was passed by the British Parliament. This Act defined the Province of Quebec and Ontario, their hinterland, and a large section of country on both banks of the Mississippi. The botanical name of many plants, Canadiensis, reminded us of that time, for they grew along the Mississippi, but are unknown in what is now Canada. Under the Quebec Act matters of property and Civil Rights were to be under the Canadian law, but the criminal law of England was to continue. There was a Council of five, but it was not yet thought to be safe to trust power to a Roman Catholic executive. The Catholic religion was publicly referred to as a "bloodthirsty, idolatrous, and hypocritical creed." It is a remarkable fact that in the United States which is thought to be so tolerant, the Roman Catholic religion was not tolerated. Canada was the first country under the British flag, or on the American continent, to give liberty of worship, and she has kept up that spirit. It was the Quebec Act which reconciled Canada to British rule, and saved Canada to the Empire, when the Thirteen Colonies revolted. When the American rebels issued their proclamation it had no effect upon the Habitants. One reason for that was that they could not read, but they were loyal to Britain. The American people used the French peasants of Quebec in a dastardly manner. They not only openly showed contempt for their priests, but in many cases, used personal violence. It was not to be wondered at that under these conditions the clergy would not ask the people to follow the Americans. There was some dissatisfaction amongst the English speaking people because the Civil Law was French, but as law is and must be based upon common sense, there is very little difference in the laws of all civilised countries.

Until about 1780, almost everybody in Canada was French. About that time many people came from the south to Canada because they were loyal to Britain and they wanted to live under the flag. These United Empire Loyalists came from the New England States and elsewhere, and they were devoted to freedom of government and mighty little government at that. Their numbers increased until in 1790 there were about twenty thousand of them in Canada.

In 1790 Canada was divided into two parts, Upper and Lower Canada. Each part had a legislative chamber. The Crown nominated all the public officers. The free exercise of the Roman Catholic religion was guaranteed One-seventh of the land was reserved for the support of the Protestant clergy. In Upper Canada the first Parliament met in what is now Niagara. In Lower Canada the English and French continued to quarrel until the war of 1812.

Constitutional Government.

The learned judge in a most interesting manner continued to sketch the constitutional history of Canada until the Rebellion, in 1837. Then he referred to the historical report of Lord Durham. He spoke in terms of praise and admiration of this report, and said that it was an inexhaustable well of facts from which all Canadian historians must draw. Canada owes Lord Durham an eternal debt of gratitude. His broad, imperial views made a deep impression upon Lord John Russell, who then occupied a high position in the British Cabinet. It may be said that constitutional Government was actually granted to Canada by the British Act of 1841. This constitution was based upon that of Great Britain. Quebec, or Lower Canada, as it was then called, had a population of 630,000. Upper Canada had only 470,000. This discrepancy did not long continue as Upper Canada grew in population by emigration much faster than did Lower Canada. Lord Durham had said "that it must be the first and steady purpose of the English Government to establish an English Government in Canada with English laws and an English Legislature, but this object failed of fulfilment. The French remained French and their influence steadily increased. The first council of twenty-four contained eight Frenchmen. Before long prominent French Canadians not only became members, but they became masters of the Government. So long as the French Canadian woman does her duty as she has been doing for the last one hundred years, this condition of things might be expected to continue. The speaker gave a number of selections from the works of Southey, the great English poet, to show how extremely conservative not only he was, but also the bulk of the British people of that day. Southey was very strongly opposed to the repeal of the Test Act which excluded Roman Catholics from the Houses of Parliament. As late as 1820 he spoke of the liberal spirit as "an infernal spirit that must be crushed, if not," he says "the dissenters will get into Parliament, and then farewell to all our greatness." He declared in 1833 that 'the cholera morbus would be a lighter affliction than the passage of the Reform Bill." The speaker observed that the men of the Southey type were not all dead in Britain yet.

When the people came from the Old Countries they claimed the right to govern themselves, a right which Canadians have always demanded and enjoyed. Canadians had always favoured British connection. Britain had never said to us "go," but on more than one occasion prominent public men had said: "If you want to leave we will not fire a gun to prevent you, and will bid you God speed." Imagine saying to your wife "I am very fond of you but if you want to go and set up house for yourself apart from me, I will do nothing to hinder you." The average would be likely to go. Two things are settled in Canada, she will remain British, and she will govern herself. Self government and British connection are insisted on by all Canadians. We are now a nation governing ourselves, but we are within the Empire and form an integral part of the Empire.

A Bright Era.

The speaker continued to give very interesting details of Canadian history. In 1850 the Upper Provinces overtook and passed the Lower Province in population. Then the cry for representation by population became popular. In 1842 Lord Ashburton in his celebrated treaty gave away a large part of Canada, which is now part of the State of Maine. The learned Judge then gave a sketch of the events leading to the building of the Intercolonial Railway. Sir Alexander Galt as early as 1858, advocated a union of the Colonies. Mr., afterwards, Sir John A. Macdonald, took a very important and leading part in the discussion of the questions about the future of Canada. He made an agreement in 1864 with his strongest political opponent, Mr. Geo. Brown, partly as a result of which the British North America Act of 1867 was passed, establishing the Union of the four Provinces into the Dominion of Canada. Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick formed the first Confederation, which dates from July 1st, 1867. Prince Edward Island did not come in until 1873. In 1870 the Dominion bought out the Hudson Bay Company's land in the North West, and established the Province of Manitoba. British Columbia promised to come in if the Dominion would connect the East and West with a transcontinental railway, and so the Canadian Pacific Railway was built. Saskatchewan and Alberta were advanced from Territories to Provinces in 1905.

Strictly speaking, Canada has no Constitution. Canada has self government and is mistress in her own house. Canadians are subjects, not of the people of England, but of the King of England, an important distinction. It is frequently said that Canadians are subjects of England. Nothing of the kind. We are, along with the Scotch, English, and Irish, subjects of that magnificent man, King George V. The King forms the bond of union between all British countries. We pay no tribute to that King, but a tribute of love and well-deserved loyalty. We are free, happy and prosperous under that King, and do not desire to change our allegiance for any people on earth. We are glad to know that that for which our forefathers in the old land fought, and some of them died, and that for which our predecessors in this land laboured for many years, freedom to govern ourselves, freedom to think as we please, to say what we please, and to fear the face of no man, so long as we trespass on no man's rights, is now so well assured to us that we never think of it. That freedom is as natural to us as the free air we breathe, or the free water we drink. With the consciousness of this fact we shall go forward as a British nation, continuing a part of the British Empire and continuing at the same time to govern ourselves.

Vote of Thanks.

His Honour Judge Hayeke, in moving a vote of thanks, expressed the hope that the good work of the Club would be duplicated this year and the years to come. The eloquent, learned address, which we have heard tonight, has been a source of great knowledge to us. By reading history we learn of the wars of the land, but gain no knowledge of the peaceful periods. That is the time when history is being made, said the speaker.

Canon Davidson very appropriately seconded Judge Huycke's motion and it was carried unanimously by those present.

The singing of the National Anthem concluded the evening.

Good Word For Y.M.C.A.

A prominent business man in the city of Peterborough remarked recently that he could always depend on a Y.M.C.A. boy; and a Y.M.C.A. man, too. "A young man," said he, "who spends his spare hours around the Young Men's Christian Association, I have noticed, seems bound to make good. I wish the boys every success in their campaign for new members."

Words of encouragement and appreciation of the work of the Y. such as these, coming as they do from men who have made good in the business world, are a great source of encouragement to the young fellows who are conducting the campaign for new members.

The boys want 189 new members. They say they are going to get them, too. A few names are already added to the list of members. But the campaign has hardly begun.

A man trained to use his mind muscles and is strong and clean is a valuable man in the world. He is the kind of man who wins in the race. The man who pulls the big salary and makes a name for himself.

Last night the Y.M.C.A. boys gave an exhibition of physical prowess such as can not be seen any other place in the city of Peterborough. They are trained physically. Trained by a physical instructor who knows his business.

In the literary classes of the Y. and in the reading rooms they have an opportunity to develop their minds, become informed on present day problems. All necessary to make good citizens.

The boys appreciate these advantages. They are urging their friends to take full advantage of the building. They can't see how anyone should refuse to invest $5 in a membership that gives them such an opportunity to fit themselves for the battle of life.

"Oh, yes, we have good talking points," said one of the boys, "and you can plan to tell the Examiner readers about what a howling success our campaign has been some of these days."

Can't Trifle With Nature

Sleeplessness, shaky nerves, stomach trouble, weak heart, headaches, etc., are effects often caused by tea and coffee drinking.

There can be no relief until the cause—if it be tea or coffee—is removed.

Then Nature will repair the damage; and the return to health can be hastened by using well-boiled

POSTUM

—the pure liquid food drink containing the nourishing elements of wheat, including the phosphate of potash (grown in the grain) which Nature requires in rebuilding body and brain.

How The Farmer Can Help

along and shows you an easy, inexpensive, perhaps, chemical, way of doing what costs you so much labour. If its not weeds, it may be drains. Well, the demonstrator understands levels, and he tells you where to put your drains, where they will drain, instead of spending time, toil and money, on drains that plug up, because they are laid wrong."

"And so, all along the line," Mr. Hall went on, "the demonstrator is your guide, philosopher, and practical assisting friend. He analyses soil, shows you what each field will grow best, give you the best farming methods on new experiments, like alfalfa, tells you how to improve your live stock, make your butter better, build hen coops, and produce eggs that costs 10 cents a dozen to raise in the winter and can be sold for 40 cents."

Keeping the Boy on the Farm.

"What happens," asked Mr. Hall, "when the boy on the farm sees that the farm can be made to pay like a departmental store—when he sees that the hundred, or hundred and fifty, or two hundred acres can be made to do ten times as much as it did before at one-tenth the previous expense to the fertility of the soil? Why, he stays on the farm, instead of filling up the cities. He stays on the farm, and leads his healthy, open-air life there instead of cluttering up the stuffy, health-destroying cities. He stays at home and helps to run the farm on business principles. He specialises. He does intensive farming. He goes into partnership with his father and makes the old man's heart glad."

The Cost of Living.

"I have no time," said Mr. Hall, to touch on the sentimental side of this question. The economic results are what I am trying to show. Keeping the boy on the farm, repopulating the rural districts, producing more farm stuff and making prices more reasonable to the consumer in the city.

"You will observe that I have good roads and radial railways in my platform," said Mr. Hall. "That is because they are part and parcel of my policy of making farm life more profitable and more attractive. Good roads and radial railways make farm life more attractive, because they put the farm in easier touch of the town, and they make farming more profitable, because they decrease the cost of hauling to market. How much money a farmer saves by having a good road, or a convenient radial to despatch his goods cheaply is a matter I have figured out, but the figures will keep till another meeting. Suffice it to say there is a very considerable saving."

"Remember," said Mr. Hall, "that this farm policy of mine is just as much for the city consumer as it is for the rural producer. If the benefit were not a mutual one I would not be advocating it. I take it to be the duty of a member or the Legislature, actual, or prospective, to plan for the interests of all the people whom he represents. If, under my plan, the farmer makes more money, because he will grow more, and have more to sell, the consumer will save money, because he will draw from a larger source of supply and the cost of living will come down."

Slighting the Red Schoolhouse.

Mr. Daniel O'Connell, K.C., followed up Mr. Hall's remarks, by pointing out to the farmer how the Whitney government, in abolishing county model schools, had deprived the farmer's son and daughter of their opportunity to get a teacher's education at a small cost. He also pointed out that the Whitney Government contributed almost $150 a head to the support of Toronto University and about $1 a head to primary schools.

"The little red school-house," said Mr. O'Connell, "isn't getting its fair share. The utlit of aristocrats up in Queens Park obviously prefers giving a costly higher education to the children of the few than a good elementary education to the children of the many."

The meeting closed with cheers for the King and the candidate.

ARGOS AHEAD AT THE HALF

Score Was 6-1 in Favour of Oarsmen Half Way Through To-day's Game

Special to The Examiner:

TORONTO, NOV. 18.—Hamilton Alerts, champions of the O.R.F.U. and Toronto Argonauts, champions of the Inter-provincial Union met here this afternoon in a game in the semi-finals for the Dominion championships. The winner will meet Varsity, the Inter-Collegiate winners, next Saturday. There was an enormous crowd present this afternoon in spite of the bad weather. The field was slushy and muddy, being anything but conducive of good rugby. The game was close and hard fought from the start. The Alerts surprised the fans by scoring a point in the first quarter while they held the Argos scoreless. The Oarsmen came back in the second period, scoring six while the Hamilton bunch were blanked. Argos thus lead at half time by 6 to 1.

Third quarter—Argos 0, Alerts 1.

GRAY HAIR MAKES YOU LOOK OLD

A Simple Remedy Brings Back the Natural Colour—Dandruff Quickly Removed

How often one hears the expression, "She is gray and beginning to look old." It is true that gray hair usually denotes age and is always associated with age. You never hear one described as having gray hair and looking young.

The hair is generally the index of age. If your hair is gray, you can't blame your friends for referring to you as looking old. You can't retain a youthful appearance if you allow your hair to grow gray. Many persons of middle age jeopardize their future simply by allowing the gray hairs to become manifest. If your hair has become faded or gray, try Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a preparation which a chemist by the name of Wyeth devised a few years ago. It is simple, inexpensive and practical, and will banish the gray hairs in a few days. It is also guaranteed to remove dandruff and promote the growth of the hair.

It is pleasant dressing for the hair, and after using it a few days itching and dryness of the scalp entirely disappear.

Don't neglect your hair. Start using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur to-day and you will be surprised at the quick results.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

ARGENTINE PREFERABLE SAY DEBATERS

That Argentina offers better inducements to the European settler than Western Canada was the decision given in a debate at St. Peter's School yesterday. The affirmative was upheld by Master Tom McCabe and Willie McDonald, who gave a glowing picture of the natural resources, fine climate and progressive spirit of the Yankee-land of the South. The charms of Western Canada, as the debators termed it, were loyally although unsuccessfully upheld by Masters Casimir Donoghue and Emmett Sheehan of the negative. All four youthful debators spoke with a fluency and self-possession that would do credit to boys many years their seniors. Master Joe Clancy occupied the chair.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Breckenridge, of Landbrick, Alta., and Mr. Jas. Breckenridge, of Edmonton, are guests at the Oriental.

RECORD RUN

MONTREAL, NOV. 16.—(Special.)—Hitting the tracks for a speed of over fifty miles an hour, a special C.P.R. train covered the distance between Montreal and Lennoxville to-day in the time of two hours and twenty-five minutes. The special train carried Dr. W. J. Jamieson of this city to Lennoxville to perform a critical operation on a patient in that place. Windsor station officials were given orders regarding the train at 11.45 a.m. for one o'clock and the train left there sharp on time. It is one hundred and ten miles from Montreal to Lennoxville and had it not been for the fact that the train had to stop at Lachine bridge and slow down for a number of level diamond crossings the time would have been cut down a great deal lower than two hours and twenty-five minutes. As it was the train reached Lennoxville at 3.25 p.m. after having lost over a 5 min. stop. This is nearly an hour faster than the time made by the regular passenger trains between these points. Conductor Sheldon was in charge of the train, while Engineer Langstreth drove Engine 199019 for the distance.

BAILEYISMS

DON'T SEE ANY.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Insurance agents, or employment agents, might chase the young girls, but I go about a good deal and don't see any. The authorities might inquire into the long hours worked by young girls for wages not sufficient to pay for clothes and board. They might prevent the trespass on the railways and make the boys behave better. I was stoned while bathing the other day.

Yours, etc.,
W. A. Bailey.

STRIKE AT MONTREAL

Serious Strike Ties Up Shipping 1000 Men Have Left Their Work

TIE-UP COSTLY

Montreal, Nov. 18.—All the longshoremen, to the number of nearly a thousand, stopped work on the seventeen vessels now in port yesterday afternoon and left the steamers to shift as best they might in unloading and getting cargo aboard in an effort to make a quick getaway before the official close of navigation a week hence, when insurance policies lapse.

As a result of the strike, of which there is at present no indication of a settlement, every ocean shipping company that owns vessels plying to Montreal is face to face with the serious situation of having their vessels delayed at a time when a break in the weather is liable to come at any moment and they might have to fight through bad weather to get out of the river before it freezes up.

Neither warning nor reason, it is claimed by the shipping men, was given for the action of the longshoremen, and before the former hardly knew what was happening, the latter had been called out from every ship in port. The strike began with the C.P.R. men working on the Mount Temple and Lake Manitoba, the latter in the last stages of loading prior to sailing this morning. At 2 o'clock word was passed through the C.P.R. sheds and then the men working in the holds of the vessels that the officials of the Longshoremen's Union had called a strike, the response to which on the part of the men was instantaneous.

The strike, the men claim, is the outcome of unfair treatment of the Longshoremen's Union by the Shipping Federation. The men claim that two years ago an agreement was made and that the shipowners have not kept to the terms. They recently brought an action in court to have the Federation forfeit a $2,000 deposit, made at the time of the agreement, for not sticking to its terms.

FIVE MINUTES PRAYER.

Suggested to Celebrate Anglo-Saxon Peace Centenary.

New York, Nov. 18.—Absolute cessation, so far as possible, of the activities of 150,000,000 English-speaking people throughout the world for five minutes for silent prayer and contemplation, is a suggestion which Senator Root of New York has made for the celebration of the one-hundredth anniversary of peace among English speaking peoples.

The suggestion came out last night in connection with the appointment by Mayor Gaynor of a committee of one hundred prominent New York men to have charge of the celebration of the centennial so far as this city is concerned. The national committee plans to commemorate the peace anniversary by the erection of permanent memorials, rather than through the celebration of pageants. For this reason it has been necessary to organise far in advance of the time of celebration, which will extend from Feb. 17, 1915, until some time in the summer, during which Great Britain, Canada and other parts of the English-speaking world will participate in the celebration.

The date suggested for the five minutes' stoppage of activities of English-speaking people is Feb. 17, 1915, the date of the ratification by the American and British Governments of the treaty signed at Ghent, Belgium.

Among the suggestions for permanent memorials of the century of peace one is the building of a watergate, to be erected on the Canadian and American sides of the Detroit River, at Detroit and Windsor, Ont.; another, that an arch be built on the the Canadian frontier over the New York to Montreal highway, now under construction; still another proposal is for the erection at local points along the international border of boundary monuments of artistic design and permanent character.

Whips Appointed.

Ottawa, Nov. 18.—John Stanfield, chief Conservative whip, yesterday morning announced the names of the assistant whips for this session. A. B. Goodeve will be assistant chief whip, and W. D. Staples is western whip. The Ontario whips are W. S. Middlebro, Sam Sharpe, Claude Macdonell and Dr. Edwards. T. A. Hartt, the new member for Charlotte, N.B., is whip for the Maritime Provinces, and the Quebec whips are Dr. Paquet and G. H. Baker, son of the late Senator Baker, who defeated Hon. Sidney Fisher.

Liberal whips were also appointed. Mr. F. F. Pardee, chief whip, will be assisted by Duncan Ross, Middlesex; R. J. Papineau, Beauharnois; G. W. Kite, Richmond; S. B. Carvell, Carleton, N.B.; J. G. Turiff, Assiniboia; Dr. Mallery, Provencher, and Mr. Douglass, Strathcona.

More Pay For C.P.R. Men.

St. John, N.B., Nov. 18.—Wage matters between the Canadian Pacific Railway Co. and the Railway Freight Handlers' Union were adjusted at a conference yesterday. The men formerly received 17 cents per hour and asked 25 cents. An agreement for a year at 21 cents was reached.

Strengthening Jamaica's Defences.

Kingston, Jamaica, Nov. 18.—Owing to the decision of the United States Government to fortify the Panama Canal, the defences on the Island of Jamaica are being improved. The forts commanding the outer channels to Port Royal and Kingston will be remodeled and more guns placed in them, and when this work is completed the island will be one of the most strongly fortified of the British possessions.

Mr. Rowell Promises a Broad Temperance Plank—Leader Refers to Power Ministry Menace

A VIGOUROUS SPEECH

Guelph, Nov. 18.—N. W. Rowell, K.C., the new Liberal leader, declared here last night at the opening meeting of his Ontario tour, that a broader policy with regard to the temperance question would soon be formulated by himself and colleagues upon which the party would stand or fall. He also attacked the proposal of Sir James Whitney to make the Hydro-electric system a Government department, declaring that that act would injure it seriously by rendering it subject to the spoils system, and other abuses.

Mr. Rowell met some trouble with a heckler. For a time it looked as if there would be trouble, for the audience tried to cry the interrogator down. It was only by pleading with them that Mr. Rowell succeeded in quieting the hisses and cries of "Put him out," and "Shut up."

The opera house, where the meeting was held, which holds about 1,200, was not quite full. Dr. Angus MacKinnon was in the chair. J. I. McIntosh, the Liberal candidate in this riding, also spoke.

On the proposed change in the Hydro-Electric Department Mr. Rowell said: "When Sir James Whitney says he will take the Hydro-electric department, which at present is the agent of the municipalities and make it a political department of his Government he says he will do something which will be unfair to the municipalities, and he will do that which is not in the best interests of the province.

Shortly before he concluded, Samuel Carter, chairman of the local light and heat commission, a warm temperance advocate, asked Mr. Rowell to show his full attitude on the temperance question.

"That is the point that the Liberal party has fallen down on during the past twenty years," said Mr. Carter. "What are you going to do about it?"

"When I cease to be able to give a reason for the faith that is within me and the policy on which I stand then I will retire from the leadership of the Liberal party," said Mr. Rowell when he had calmed the tumult. "I am not the Liberal party, I am only the leader. I have had no opportunity to consult with the Liberal candidates on that question. The position I have taken on that matter is on my own convictions. I was too busy to confer with my colleagues, and I came out the way I did without any help.

"Should I have pledged the Liberal party on my own initiative to a broad policy on that question?"

"Yes," yelled some one.

"We will take it into consideration so soon as the opportunity is given us. We will formulate a policy upon that question upon which we will stand or fall." (Great applause.)

Turning to the tax question, he reviewed its recent history. Sir James was too good a Conservative to wish to have anything to do with such a democratic proposal as was made in the Liberal platforms, said Mr. Rowell.

"We want to give every municipality throughout the province the power to exempt improvements," he declared. The audience applauded him after he had outlined the measure. In support of it Mr. Rowell told of many Conservative newspapers which had expressed themselves in favor of it.

J. I. McIntosh, the Liberal candidate in the riding, told why Mr. Rowell had not gone further with regard to temperance. It was because it would have been presumptuous in Mr. Rowell to have formulated a larger policy in that respect without the consent of the party, he thought.

Princess Leaves Lion Tamer.

New York, Nov. 18.—Jack Bonavitta, the lion tamer, in private life John Frederick Gentner, was served with papers yesterday at Tenafly, N.J., in a suit for divorce, brought by his wife, who, before her marriage, was the Princess de Montglyon of Belgium. Mrs. Gentner has been living at Bergenfield, N.J., where she is known as Mercy de Argenteau Gentner.

Bonavitta met the princess in Paris some ten years ago, about the time he lost almost his entire right arm in an attack by a lion, and they were married in that city in 1903. The princess during most of her stay in this country has been raising blooded dogs and cats and exhibiting under the name of Princess de Montglyon.

Terrorized by Woman.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 18.—Farmers notified the police yesterday that an unknown demented woman was terrorizing people living on Welland County farms. She refuses to tell to people what she wants.

Captain Klaus Larsen, who three weeks ago navigated the Whirlpool Rapids; is here to-day after abandoning his motor boat trip to Detroit. Larsen is broke. Thieves stole his newspaper clippings and clothes while he was in Welland, he claims.

By the arrest over the river of William Schultz, the police believe they have a member of a gang that has been systematically smuggling goods both ways for months. Nushor Justukian obtained a warrant for Schultz's arrest, claiming he stole two hundred pounds of tobacco he had agreed to smuggle into Canada.

Fifteen Are Lost.

Quebec, Nov. 18.—The Norwegian bark Antiqua, which was loading at one of the ports below Quebec, was driven ashore at Martin River during the night and went to pieces. It is believed that fifteen of the crew were drowned. Three were saved.

JESSIMAN MUST HANG.

Slayer of Lougheed Says It Was Forced on Him.

Toronto, Nov. 18.—"You will be taken back to the place from whence you came, there to be kept in close confinement until Thursday, Feb. 22, 1912, when you will be taken to the place of execution and there hanged by the neck until you are dead."

Joseph Jessiman was thus sentenced to suffer the full penalty of the law by Mr. Justice Riddell yesterday morning for having shot and killed James Lougheed on Hayter street on August 29 last.

When asked if he had anything to say before sentence was passed, the prisoner burst out into an excited and incoherent babble.

"No, I have nothing to say," he declared, "I know I did it and that it was forced on me. It was no delusion and I am satisfied to go out without a word. I have never been a coward and I never will be a scoundrel."

After sentence had been passed the prisoner stuck both hands in his trousers pockets and, squaring his shoulders, followed his jailer out of the court with almost a swagger.

During the trial medical evidence was put in to show that Jessiman was insane and had been insane at the time of the murder. His lordship promised to make a full report to the proper quarters and to defer sentence until a late date in order that such steps might be taken as the Governor-General thought right.

Wriggle Must Go.

London, Nov. 18.—Oriental twisting and wriggling, styled on the bills "dancing" appears to be losing its fascination for the London music hall public. The London County Council also at last seems to have developed a conscience on the subject.

A so-called "dawn of love" dance introduced at the Palladium on Monday night had to undergo drastic alterations before the committee of councillors would sanction its repetition. The committee witnessed a private performance of the modified version, and it intends to give its attention to the contortions of women on every vaudeville stage in the metropolis.

This new style of alleged dancing has grown into something like a general scandal. A playgoer can scarcely enter a music hall or even some of the high-class theatres without beholding a girl or a woman rushing about the stage seemingly trying to shake her head off or break her back, —and wearing nothing except a flimsy sara and girdle of ribbons.

MAY ROBSON,
The greatest comedienne on the stage, who comes to "The Grand" next Wednesday and Thursday in "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary" and "A Night Out." Seats on sale Monday.

In the screaming comedy of errors and adventure, laughter and tears, "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary" one of the big successes is booked at "The Grand" on Wednesday next, Nov. 22.

Miss Robson is a New England type of old maid, is a very potent figure of fun, and the majority of people who possess a sense of humour are kept in a continuous roar of laughter by the errors and adventures of "Aunt Mary." The play appears to everyone as presented by Miss Robson. The success of this most excellent actress in America, is well known and she has presented her present success from New York to Maine, from Maine to California and thence to London, opening at Terry's Theatre for two weeks and remaining over three months. The press were more than usually generous, recognizing the usual ability of Miss Robson in her characterization of a difficult role. "The London Gentleman," a very conservative paper, circulating in the higher circles of society, published the following.

"If it had been possible to transport one self in imagination to the Bijou Theatre, New York, and to have adopted for this once the temperament of the time from America the full appreciation of the above farcial comedy could then have been secured. It's the whole atmosphere, its language, its humour, are all essentially a trans-atlantic product and the huge success which it achieved, judging from the uproarious applause which accompanied almost every sally. The fun is fast and furious and there is not a moment of idleness throughout the three acts. Even the English critics were forced to admit that there was an artistic genius and truth to tell, the whole farce depended almost exclusively for its success on Miss Robsons clever acting. "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary" can be listened to with interest by people of all nationalities because of its powerful study of human nature. The latter is a farce pure and simple, redeemed by the genius o fan extremely clever actress.—Criticism from the London Gentleman, Sept. 3, 1910.

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

Saves Worry, Saves Money, Saves the Hair

If you want to free your head of dandruff and stop falling hair, you must sooner or later resort to Newbro's Herpicide.

By using Herpicide first you save yourself worry, which is desirable, you save money, which is a consideration, and you save your hair, which is the most important of all.

Why not profit by the experience of Mrs. S. A. Lee, of 110 South 4th St., Richmond, Va., who writes:

"Four years' residence in India ruined my hair until it was but two inches long and very thin. I tried everything in Europe and America without benefit until I was induced to use Herpicide. My hair is now long, soft and silky and natural colour, while before it was quite gray. My friends never tire of admiring my hair."

Mrs. Lee's story is a typical history of hair troubles. After everything else fails Newbro's Herpicide brings relief. It would be just as effective if used first.

One dollar size bottles guaranteed.

Send 10c. for sample bottle to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich.

POST CARD COLUMN

BILINGUAL SCHOOL PLEDGES.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—I understand that Mr. Peck and Mr. Hall, both gave to the Protestant Federation in Peterborough, a statement, in writing, of their views upon the bilingual school matter. For my own information and the information of a great many who would like to know, I should like if you would obtain and publish in your paper a copy of each of the statements made by each of the candidates. The public are anxious to know what these gentlemen have said.

Yours truly
Elector.

All we can do is to ask Mr. Peck and Mr. Hall to let the Examiner have a copy of their respective statements for publication, on Monday. If they can be got, they will be published then.—Editor Examiner.

A POWER QUESTION.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—I notice in the press a statement that the Western Fair Board of London, Ontario, installed Hydro-electric power at a cost of $1,260 for equipment, and $1,100 for power, "at cost." The despatch also says that the Fair Board had paid previously to the London Electric Light Company, a private company that develops electricity by steam power, only $800 a year for the same service. The Board has a deficit of $1,500. Is that the kind of electric "power at cost," the Hydro-electric people proposes to supply Peterborough with?

Yours truly,
Power Wanted.

JOHNNIE CANUCK WRITES.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—You state with considerable truth in your editorial columns last evening that many of us Liberals misplaced our confidence in the Whitney government in the past, but you will have to admit that the Liberal party in Ontario to-day and that of the last two general elections are vastly different. We have now a party who, in my opinion, understands the true spirit of Liberalism, and if in the past some of us were led astray the lack of a progressive policy along the lines of the true Liberal principle of government for the people and by the people is to blame.

The Whitney government has been a disappointment in the past and they themselves and their candidate in this riding admit that there are many things that are not satisfactory. I have waited for a statement from the Conservative party as to how they were going to remedy those evils. Can any one tell me what they are going to do if they go back into power? From the promises they are making they know as well as any working man knows what should be done with the Compensation Act. They are astraddle the fence with the workingman on one side and the Manufacturers' Association on the other, and the one that is the most advantageous to 'Toryism' is the side they will get down on. That is why they do not announce their policy.

It is not considered good business in buying or selling an article (or labour that produces the article) to pay or ask the worth. No; in order to compete in business to-day you must take all that circumstances will permit and the law will allow, and it matters not whether those circumstances have been created by just, unjust, natural or unnatural means. Let the working man create circumstances that will compel the candidates to come out openly and above board with their opinions on these questions of tax on land values, the Workingman's Compensation Act and others affecting our interests. Let the Trades and Labour Council call a public meeting, ask our candidates what they will stand for and by what manner they intend to look after our interests. The sooner the working man understands that politics is a business the better. Sometimes I believe that it would take a stronger pen than Mr. John Carlisle commands to stop some of the working men at election time from making monkeys of themselves.

Race and creed cries have the same effect upon some of us as the waving of a red flag in a pasture field on stated occasions, and our enemies know this weakness and don't forget to take advantage of it.

After the vote was taken on the local option by-law, how often did we hear the temperance people condemn the Whitney government for placing upon their party such an unjust handicap as the three-fifths clause. I understand that a large percentage of them are going to fall in behind the brewery waggon, and after the election, if the liquor interests are successful, some of their sons will bring home to them their first jag of free beer, as was the case with many a boy after the celebrating of the Dominion elections, and some of the fathers again will slip off the water waggon that they have been on for years. What encouragement has any party had to stick by the temperance party in Ontario. They have a chance to carry local option in this city that may never come again. There are strong temperance advocates that have very little confidence in the local option party, because they believe that they will not act independent of politics. I firmly believe that it will never carry until we get rid of the handicap.

JOHNNIE CANUCK.

BETTER EMPLOYMENT FOR WORKINGMEN.

Tothe Editor of the Examiner:

Sir,—I noticed in the papers a few days ago, that the independent labour league of Hamilton have obtained $15,000 from John D. Rockefeller for the election of a Dominion Labour Temple in Brantford. Do the workingmen of Peterborough ever think of anything like this being done for Peterborough? Are the workingmen of Peterborough not as intelligent as those of Brantford? Could not Peterborough working men do something more in their own interests than allowing themselves to be used in the organization of "leagues" of different kinds that are destructive to the harmony of the community?

Yours truly,
LABOUR.

IMPORTED LABOUR.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir,—Are the working men of Peterborough going to take any interest in the action of the Borden government, in withdrawing the charges against the breach of the immigration law in regard to the illegal importation of Labour from England to compete with Canadian working men and mechanics?

The law passed by the Laurier government to prevent this competition and prevent old country mechanics being deceived by false promises of situations in Canada was a good one. Is the Borden government going to destroy it?

CANUCK.

THEY ACT QUICKLY AND ALWAYS CURE

POSTMASTER TELLS OF QUICK RELIEF DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS GIVE.

Two of them taken before going to bed clears away his Pain in the Back — Why they always cure more serious Kidney Diseases.

Back Lake, Ont, Nov. 17.—(Special.)—How quickly Dodd's Kidney Pills relieve pain in the back when taken in time is evidenced by Mr. James Thomas, the well known and highly respected postmaster here.

"I wish to inform you that I always find relief for pains in the back by taking Dodd's Kidney Pills," says Postmaster Thomas. "Sometimes in the mornings I cannot straighten up for hours, but if I take two Dodd's Kidney Pills before going to bed the pain all disappears and I have no trouble in the morning."

Dodd's Kidney Pills act directly on the Kidneys. Where pain in the back is caused by slight Kidney disorders the pain is relieved at once. Where the complaint is of longer standing and the Kidneys are diseased the cure takes longer, but Dodd's Kidney Pills never fail. Thousands of Canadians tell of the cure of Kidney Disease of all forms, from pain in the back to Bright's Disease, by Dodd's Kidney Pills. There is not on record a single case of Kidney Disease or of diseases resulting from diseased Kidneys, such as Rheumatism or Dropsy which Dodd's Kidney Pills have failed to cure if taken regularly and according to directions.

Local People In Western Wreck

Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Gillespie, of Pearl avenue, returned last evening on the C.P.R. midnight from Saskatoon, where they spent the summer. They left early this morning for Bethany, where Mrs. Gillespie's father lies at the point of death. The Examiner did not have the opportunity of interviewing Mr. Gillespie before he left the city this morning, but some interesting information has been received indirectly from him. It appears that he and Mrs. Gillespie had the misfortune of being on the train which was derailed out west, the information of which was in the Examiner a few days ago. Fortunately however they were not in the cars derailed. It will be remembered that the accident was caused by a broken rail, and all the train but the last three coaches safely passed over it. Mr. and Mrs. Gillespie were in the last car that remained on the rails. They were uninjured, but in the next coach, the one in front of the derailed ones, three people were hurt but not seriously injured. It is understood that Mr. Gillespie is very much impressed with the possibilities of the West.

A rare treat is guaranteed the public at an Organ and Vocal Recital to be held in St. Andrew's church Friday evening, November 24th. Herbert C. Treneer, A.T.C.M., will preside at the organ, the vocal numbers being rendered by choir and other local talent. A silver collection of ten cents and upwards will be taken at the door. 1d

Keep Your Books Covered

The patrons of the Public Library are requested to keep books covered when returning them to the Library in stormy weather. Several times, of late, books have been returned in a badly water-soaked condition, owing to having been exposed to the rain, or snow. It is an easy matter to wrap a book up in paper, or other covering, and thereby protect it from the elements, when carrying it to and from the Library. Patrons returning books damaged in this manner, in the future, will be assessed accordingly.

Is your husband cross? An irritable, fault finding disposition is often due to a disordered stomach. A man with good digestion is nearly always good natured. A great many have been permanently cured of stomach trouble by taking Chamberlain's Tablets. For sale by all druggists.

Hunters Are Back Again

Messrs. John W. Anderson, E. Gregory and Rev. Dr. Shorey were with the follwing: Rev. Geo. Henderson, Peterborough, and Messrs. R. Neil, Felix Brownscombe, J. D. Collins, F. Mason, Peterborough, A. Mansell Irwin, Cannington, E. McCallum, Cobourg, W. E. Beman, Newcastle, J. Shannon, Toronto. The party camped on Green Island, in Lake Memeagamesing, Parry Sound. They went in via North Bay and Lake Nipissing to Chaudiere Falls, and then across the Reserve ot the camp. The party succeeded in securing their full number of deer, reporting a good time. Everything was all right, but the weather, which behaved rather badly in the section where the party was hunting.—Lindsay Post.

Pasquale Piucci, a native of Sunny Italy, left this city yesterday for the front, where he will don a fighting suit and engage in combat with the terrible Turk. He is paying his own passage to Chiete, Central Italy for that purpose. Several others will follow him later on should conditions warrant such action. Many Italians are leaving Ontario for Italy with the intention of spending the winter there. Many of them propose to take a hand in the hostilities as a side issue, on their arrival.

Mr. Minnicolo stated to the Examiner yesterday that probably about seventeen Italians would leave Peterborough for home at the end of this month.

Allan Campbell In The Limelight

Allan Campbell is making a name for himself as a Rugby referee in the West. He has acted in a number of games in the Western Canada League, and is officiating in the final game for the championship to-day. The Manitoba Free Press says: "Ray Montague and Allan Campbell, of Winnipeg, will handle the semi-final match for the Western Canada championship between Regina and the Rowing Club on Saturday. These names were submitted to Manager Crown by Secretary Galvin of the Regina team, and they are quite satisfactory to the locals. Mr. Montague is well known as an official, and Mr. Campbell is a brother of Pete Campbell, the famous quarter-back of Toronto Varsity, and a player himself. With two good officials the game should be made fast and clean."

Former Residents Bereft Of A Son

Word was received yesterday by Mr. Frank Degen of the Peterborough Fire Department that his nephew and namesake, Frank Degen of Berlin, had passed away after a lingering illness. Deceased was the eldest son of Mr. Charles Degen and was in his 14th year. He is survived by two brothers and two sisters. His parents are well known here, having resided here for some time. They returned to Berlin about ten years ago and have resided there ever since.

Great Speculation

Considerable speculation is rife as to what the aldermanic slate has to offer this year. Mayor Morrow has announced his intention of retiring after two years in harness, and Ald. Bradburn has publicly announced that he will make a trial for the mayoralty goal. From that on, the question is veiled in mystery. Ald. Buller when approached by the Examiner with the suggest ion that he might be a possible candidate, was very reticent and indefinite as to what action he might take. "The fact is, we haven't much to say in the matter," declared Ald. Buller. "The people do the talking and they run us."

Ald. Metheral has also been mentioned as a possible contestant for mayoralty honors. The Examiner tried in vain to locate him to get a definite statement from him.

The Aldermanic Field.

There will be six openings for those who aspire to aldermanic honours, if Ald. Bradburn enters the mayoralty contest. Those dropping out will be Ald. Buller, Ald. Metheral, Ald. Edgar, Ald. Kerneghan, Ald. Anderson and Ald. Bradburn.

Those who will continue in office another year by reason of having headed the poll in the last election in their respective wards are, Ald. Duncan, Ald. Brown, Ald. Graham and Ald. Morgan.

UNABLE TO COME

In Monday's issue of the Examiner it was stated that at the celebration of the second anniversary of the opening of the Sacred Heart Church to-morrow the Rev Fr. O'Reilly, the eloquent Redemptorist would be the preacher. It is now learned with regret that Fr. O'Reilly is indisposed and will consequently be unable to preach. Fr. Shonehard of the Redemptorist order of Toronto will therefore deliver sermons, one at the 10.30 mass and another at evening devotions at 7.30. The subject of the latter sermon will be "The Real Presence."

Try the Want Advt. Columns of The Examiner—Small price, Big Returns.

MAY ROBSON,

The greatest comedienne on the stage, who comes to "The Grand" next Wednesday and Thursday in "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary" and "A Night Out." Seats on sale Monday.

In the screaming comedy of errors and adventure, laughter and tears, "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary" one of the big successes is booked at "The Grand" on Wednesday next, Nov. 22.

Miss Robson is a New England type of old maid, is a very potent figure of fun, and the majority of people who possess a sense of humour are kept in a continuous roar of laughter by the errors and adventures of "Aunt Mary." The play appears to everyone as presented by Miss Robson. The success of this most excellent actress in America, is well known and she has presented her present success from New York to Maine, from Maine to California and thence to London, opening at Terry's Theatre for two weeks and remaining over three months. The press were more than usually generous, recognizing the usual ability of Miss Robson in her characterization of a difficult role. "The London Gentleman," a very conservative paper, circulating in the higher circles of society, published the following.

"If it had been possible to transport one self in imagination to the Bijou Theatre, New York, and to have adopted for this once the temperament of the time from America the full appreciation of the above farcial comedy could then have been secured. It's the whole atmosphere, its language, its humour, are all essentially a trans-atlantic product and the huge success which it achieved, judging from the uproarious applause which accompanied almost every sally. The fun is fast and furious and there is not a moment of idleness throughout the three acts. Even the English critics were forced to admit that there was an artistic genius and truth to tell, the whole farce depended almost exclusively for its success on Miss Robsons clever acting. "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary" can be listened to with interest by people of all nationalities because of its powerful study of human nature. The latter is a farce pure and simple, redeemed by the genius o fan extremely clever actress.—Criticism from the London Gentleman, Sept. 3, 1910.

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

Saves Worry, Saves Money, Saves the Hair

If you want to free your head of dandruff and stop falling hair, you must sooner or later resort to Newbro's Herpicide.

By using Herpicide first you save yourself worry, which is desirable, you save money, which is a consideration, and you save your hair, which is the most important of all.

Why not profit by the experience of Mrs. S. A. Lee, of 110 South 4th St., Richmond, Va., who writes:

"Four years' residence in India ruined my hair until it was but two inches long and very thin. I tried everything in Europe and America without benefit until I was induced to use Herpicide. My hair is now long, soft and silky and natural colour, while before it was quite gray. My friends never tire of admiring my hair."

Mrs. Lee's story is a typical history of hair troubles. After everything else fails Newbro's Herpicide brings relief. It would be just as effective if used first.

One dollar size bottles guaranteed.

Sold by all druggists. Applications at good barber shops

BILINGUAL SCHOOL PLEDGES.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—I understand that Mr. Peck and Mr. Hall, both gave to the Protestant Federation in Peterborough, a statement, in writing, of their views upon the bilingual school matter. For my own information and the information of a great many who would like to know, I should like if you would obtain and publish in your paper a copy of each of the statements made by each of the candidates. The public ar anxious to know what these gentlemen have said.

Yours truly,
Elector.

All we can do is to ask Mr. Peck and Mr. Hall to let the Examiner have a copy of their respective statements for publication, on Monday. If they can be got, they will be published then.—Editor Examiner.

A POWER QUESTION.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—I notice in the press a statement that the Western Fair Board of London, Ontario, installed Hydro-electric power at a cost of $1,600 for equipment, and $1,100 for power, "at cost." The despatch also says that the Fair Board had paid previously to the London Electric Light Company, a private company that develops electricity by steam power, only $800 a year for the same service. The Board has a deficit of $1,500. Is that the kind of electric "power at cost," the Hydro-electric people proposes to supply Peterborough with?

Yours truly,
Power Wanted.

JOHNNIE CANUCK WRITES.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—You state with considerable truth in your editorial columns last evening that many of us Liberals misplaced our confidence in the Whitney government in the past, but you will have to admit that the Liberal party in Ontario to-day and that of the last two general elections are vastly different. We have now a party who, in my opinion, understands the true spirit of Liberalism, and if in the past some of us were led astray the lack of a progressive policy along the lines of the true Liberal principle of government for the people and by the people is to blame.

The Whitney government has been a disappointment in the past and they themselves and their candidate in this riding admit that there are many things that are not satisfactory. I have waited for a statement from the Conservative party as to how they were going to remedy those evils. Can any one tell me what they are going to do if they go back into power? From the promises they are making they know as well as any working man knows what should be done with the Compensation Act. They are astraddle the fence with the workingman on one side and the Manufacturers' Association on the other, and the one that is the most advantageous to 'Toryism' is the side they will get down on. That is why they do not announce their policy.

It is not considered good business in buying or selling an Article (or labour that produces the article) to pay or ask the worth. No, in order to compete in business to-day you must take all that circumstances will permit and the law will allow, and it matters not whether those circumstances have been created by just, unjust, natural or unnatural means. Let the working man create circumstances that will compel the candidates to come out openly and above board with their opinions on these questions of tax on land values, the Workingman's Compensation Act and others affecting our interests. Let the Trades and Labour Council call a public meeting, ask our candidates what they will stand for and by what manner they intend to look after our interests. The sooner the working man understands that politics is a business the better. Sometimes I believe that it would take a stronger pen than Mr. John Carlisle commands to stop some of the working men at election time from making monkeys of themselves.

Race and creed cries have the same effect upon some of us as the waving of a red flag in a pasture field on stated occasions, and our enemies know this weakness and don't forget to take advantage of it.

After the vote was taken on the local option by-law, how often did we hear the temperance people condemn the Whitney government for placing upon their party suc han unjust handicap as the three-fifths clause. I understand that a large percentage of them are going to fall in behind the brewery waggon, and after the election, if the liquor interests are successful, some of their sons will bring home to them their first jag of free beer, as was the case with many a boy after the celebrating of the Dominion elections, and some of the fathers again will slip off the water waggon that they have been on for years. What encouragement has any party had to stick by the temperance party in Ontario. They have a chance to carry local option in this city that may never come again. There are strong temperance advocates that have very little confidence in the local option party, because they believe that they will not act independent of politics. I firmly believe that it will never carry until we get rid of the handicap.

JOHNNIE CANUCK.

BETTER EMPLOYMENT FOR WORKINGMEN.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir,—I noticed in the papers a few days ago, that the independent labour league of Hamilton have obtained $15,000 from John D. Rockefeller for the election of a Dominion Labour Temple in Brantford. Do the workingmen of Peterborough ever think of anything like this being done for Peterborough? Are the workingmen of Peterborough not as intelligent as those of Brantford? Could not Peterborough working men do something more in their own interests than allowing themselves to be used in the organization of "leagues" of different kinds that are destructive to the harmony of the community?

Yours truly,
LABOUR.

IMPORTED LABOUR.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir,—Are the working men of Peterborough going to take any interest in the action of the Borden government, in withdrawing the charges against the breach of the immigration law in regard to the illegal importation of Labour from England to compete with Canadian working men and mechanics?

The law passed by the Laurier government to prevent this competition and prevent old country mechanics being deceived by false promises of situations in Canada was a good one. Is the Borden government going to destroy it?

CANUCK.

THEY ACT QUICKLY AND ALWAYS CURE

POSTMASTER TELLS OF QUICK RELIEF DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS GIVE.

Two of them taken before going to bed clears away his Pain in the Back — Why they always cure more serious Kidney Diseases.

Back Lake, Ont, Nov. 17.—(Special.)—How quickly Dodd's Kidney Pills relieve pain in the back when taken in time is evidenced by Mr. James Thomas, the well known and highly respected postmaster here.

"I wish to inform you that I always find relief for pains in the back by taking Dodd's Kidney Pills," says Postmaster Thomas. "Sometimes in the mornings I cannot straighten up for hours, but if I take two Dodd's Kidney Pills before going to bed the pain all disappears and I have no trouble in the morning."

Dodd's Kidney Pills act directly on the Kidneys. Where pain in the back is caused by slight Kidney disorders the pain is relieved at once. Where the complaint is of longer standing and the Kidneys are diseased the cure takes longer, but Dodd's Kidney Pills never fail. Thousands of Canadians tell of the cure of Kidney Disease of all forms, from pain in the back to Bright's Disease, by Dodd's Kidney Pills. There is not on record a single case of Kidney Disease or of diseases resulting from diseased Kidneys, such as Rheumatism or Dropsy which Dodd's Kidney Pills have failed to cure if taken regularly and according to directions.

Local People In Western Wreck

Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Gillespie, of Pearl avenue, returned last evening on the C.P.R. midnight from Saskatoon, where they spent the summer. They left early this morning for Bethany, where Mrs. Gillespie's father lies at the point of death. The Examiner did not have the opportunity of interviewing Mr. Gillespie before he left the city this morning, but some interesting information has been received indirectly from him. It appears that he and Mrs. Gillespie had the misfortune of being on the train which was derailed out west, the information of which was in the Examiner a few days ago. Fortunately however they were not in the cars derailed. It will be remembered that the accident was caused by a broken rail, and all the train but the last three coaches safely passed over it. Mr. and Mrs. Gillespie were in the last car that remained on the rails. They were uninjured, but in the next coach, the one in front of the derailed ones, three people were hurt but not seriously injured. It is understood that Mr. Gillespie is very much impressed with the possibilities of the West.

A rare treat is guaranteed the public at an Organ and Vocal Recital to be held in St. Andrew's church Friday evening, November 24th. Herbert C. Treneer, A.T.C.M., will preside at the organ, the vocal numbers being rendered by choir and other local talent. A silver collection of ten cents and upwards will be taken at the door. 1d

Keep Your Books Covered

The patrons of the Public Library are requested to keep books covered when returning them to the Library in stormy weather. Several times, of late, books have been returned in a badly water-soaked condition, owing to having been exposed to the rain, or snow. It is an easy matter to wrap a book up in paper, or other covering, and thereby protect it from the elements, when carrying it to and from the Library. Patrons returning books damaged in this manner, in the future, will be assessed accordingly.

Messrs. John W. Anderson, E. Gregory and Rev. Dr. Shorey were with the follwing: Rev. Geo. Henderson, Peterborough, and Messrs. R. Neil, Felix Brownscombe, J. D. Collins, F. Mason, Peterborough, A. Mansell Irwin, Cannington, E. McCallum, Cobourg, W. E. Beman, Newcastle, J. Shannon, Toronto. The party camped on Green Island, in Lake Memeagamesing, Parry Sound. They went in via North Bay and Lake Nippissing to Chaudiere Falls, and then across the Reserve ot the camp. The party succeeded in securing their full number of deer, reporting a good time. Everything was all right, but the weather, which behaved rather badly in the section where the party was hunting.—Lindsay Post.

DEATHS.

SMITH.—At Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough, Canada, on Wednesday evening, the 15th of November, 1911, Elizabeth de Codin Haselwood Smith, daughter of the late Frederick Ferguson of Peterborough and "White Park" Ulster, Ireland, and great granddaughter of the Baron de Codin of Demerara, British Guiana. Funeral (private) at 10 o'clock Friday from 357 Stewart St., to All Saints church.

Former Residents Bereft Of A Son

Word was received yesterday by Mr. Frank Degen of the Peterborough Fire Department that his nephew and namesake, Frank Degen of Berlin, had passed away after a lingering illness. Deceased was the eldest son of Mr. Charles Degen and was in his 14th year. He is survived by two brothers and two sisters. His parents are well known here, having resided here for some time. They returned to Berlin about ten years ago and have resided there ever since.

Great Speculation

Considerable speculation is rife as to what the aldermanic slate has to offer this year. Mayor Morrow has announced his intention of retiring after two years in harness, and Ald. Bradburn has publicly announced that he will make a trial for the mayoralty goal. From that on, the question is veiled in mystery. Ald. Buller when approached by the Examiner with the suggest ion that he might be a possible cand. late, was very reticent and indefinite as to what action he might take. "The fact is, we haven't much to say in the matter," declared Ald. Buller. "The people do the talking and they run us."

Ald. Metheral has also been mentioned as a possible contestant for mayoralty honors. The Examiner tried in vain to locate him to get a definite statement from him.

The Aldermanic Field.

There will be six openings for those who aspire to aldermanic honours, if Ald. Bradburn enters the mayoralty contest. Those dropping out will be Ald. Buller, Ald. Metheral, Ald. Edgar, Ald. Kerneghan, Ald. Anderson and Ald. Bradburn.

Those who will continue in office another year by reason of having headed the poll in the last election in their respective wards are, Ald. Duncan, Ald. Brown, Ald. Graham and Ald. Morgan.

UNABLE TO COME

In Monday's issue of the Examiner it was stated that at the celebration of the second anniversary of the opening of the Sacred Heart Church to-morrow the Rev Fr. O'Reilly, the eloquent Redemptorist would be the preacher. It is now learned with regret that Fr. O'Reilly is indisposed and will consequently be unable to preach. Fr. Shonehard of the Redemptorist order of Toronto will therefore deliver sermons, one at the 10.30 mass and another at evening devotions at 7.30. The subject of the latter sermon will be "The Real Presence."

STRIKE AT AN END

Longshoremen and Shippers Arrive at an Agreement

TO IMPROVE CONDITIONS

Montreal, Nov. 20.—To-day it is expected, the majority of 1,800 longshoremen who quit work on Friday, will return to work on practically the same terms that obtained before the strike, and the loading and unloading of ships that have been held up for the past 48 hours will go on with a rush, as every one of the 16 ships now in port is anxious to get away this week.

The settlement of the difficulties between the syndicate longshoremen and the Shipping Federation was brought about by officials of the Department of Labor, Messrs. Victor Debreuil, fair wage officer, and Gerald Brown, assistant deputy minister of labor, who was despatched to Montreal by Minister Crothers, in answer to an appeal from the shipping companies.

Major George W. Stevens, president of the harbor board, also returned hurriedly from a trip to New York on hearing of the trouble. Both sides seemed satisfied with the agreement, and it is assumed there will be no hitch in signing the agreement to-day.

The longshoremen at a meeting yesterday afternoon, put themselves on record to the effect that unless the document was signed by noon to-day by the federation, by every shipping company outside the federation as well, they would go on strike again at 1 o'clock.

Full details of the agreement were withheld, but it is known that the men did not hold out for the increase in pay first demanded, and are returning to work at the old rate, 30 cents per hour (day) and 35 cents per hour (night). The conditions under which the men work, however, will be considerably ameliorated.

All day Saturday the hold-up liners made the best shift they could to get cargo aboard. The stewards and crews were worked as longshoremen, and a number of Italians were taken on to work. There was no disorder.

The agreement was that the men return to work at 7 o'clock Saturday night, and about 100 of them turned up. Most of the others had held a celebration with their Saturday pay, and even yesterday a large number were still absent from duty. The men have ratified the agreement, but it could not be signed yesterday, being Sunday.

Five ships managed, however, to complete their cargoes, despite the absence of most of the longshoremen, the Lake Manitoba, Teutonic, Inishowen Head, Rakaia and Ausonia, with the aid of their crews, completing the work of loading. The two former got away Saturday, the next two yesterday, and the last named sailed this morning at daylight.

WILL RENEW THE ATTACK

War of Republic Lies in the Hands of the Premier

NANKING IN STORM'S EYE

Pekin, Nov. 20.—Demands for the throne's abdication are crowding upon Premier Yuan Shi Kai, who doubtless will be forced to make a decision within a week. It seems to be a case of fight or ask the court to depart from the capital. Every suggestion for abdication is accompanied by promises of protection and ample pension.

It is reported to-day that the Premier has ordered a renewed attack upon Hanyang and Wu Chang. If this is true, it signifies his choice. The Government has succeeded in ridding the Lan Chau troops of both revolutionary generals. Chang Shao Tseng and Lan Tien Wei. The former is now at Tien Tsin. The latter, who commanded the third division, has been dismissed and is proceeding southward, not as Yuan Shi Kai's envoy to submit further proposals to Gen. Li, the rebel commander, as previously reported, but to join the rebel forces.

There has been an unexpected display of patriotism during the last day or two. Instead of rivalry among the provinces, there have been evidences of remarkable unanimity in an effort to establish a union government quickly, in order to prevent the dangers from foreign complications.

Rear Admiral Murdock telegraphs the American legation from Nanking that the American consul, with the archives, is aboard the New Orleans, and that all Americans have left the city with the exception of a few members of the Red Cross. It would be impossible, says the admiral to protect American property in Nanking, without landing 300 marines prepared to sustain a siege. For this reason he had sent none of his men ashore.

Various efforts to starting negotiations looking to peace have up to the present failed. Yuan Shi Kai's lieutenant, Tsai Tink Kan, has returned here from a fruitless attempt to negotiate with Gen. Li at Wu Chang. The commander of the revolutionaries seems determined not to yield in the slightest degree.

The foreign banks have practically decided to establish a banking committee at Shanghai, as in 1900, to meet the extraordinary conditions and adjust the payments of the indemnity and other claims.

An edict published yesterday announces that the regent, representing the Emperor, will, on Nov. 26, swear before the Emperor's tablets in the Ancestral Temple, that he will adhere to the 19 constitutional articles.

It is reported that the Imperialists have routed a rebel force of 3,000 Hunanese. The rebels' casualties, as reported, were 800 and the Imperialists 200.

Unrest In South.

Shanghai, Nov. 20.—The situation in Southern China is becoming more involved each day. The Republicans apparently are determined to secure their independence from the Manchu dynasty, but there are grave doubts of their ability to establish a stable government in time to avoid the consequences of continued disorganization and the absence of revenue and a coherent administration.

The local organizations generally are preserving order. Shanghai is a centre of business for the entire Yangtse Valley, which is stagnant, while the military operations around Wu Chang and Nanking are proceeding. The situation at Pekin has little influence on the rest of the country. The power of Yuan Shi Kai's name is waning, because it is believed that he deserted from the cause of the people.

The provinces which have declared independence are organizing separate governments, but each refuses recognition to the responsibilities incurred by the central Government, Nanking, the ancient capital, is still firmly in the possession of the Imperialists, therefore, the assertion of southern supremacy is not taken seriously. Even the reformers recognise the importance of Nanking, and both they and the Imperialists are directing all their efforts to this centre, where a victory may mean either an end of the Manchu dynasty or a serious setback to the revolutionary cause.

The revolutionary forces approaching Nanking number many thousands. From Anking, on the north side of the river, 4,000 revolutionists with 41 guns are marching to Pukow, which lies opposite Nanking. From Wuhu, on the south side of the river, 2,000 men are advancing. Above Chin Kiang there is a force of 4,000 revolutionaries with 100 guns, and it is estimated that 3,000 more are proceeding down the line of the Tien Tsin-Pukow Railroad. Fifteen warships, now in the river, under command of the rebels, are awaiting the signal for the attack.

The Imperialist garrison in Nanking, under command of Gen. Chang, numbers about 11,000 men, well trained, well armed and strongly entrenched and fortified. It is believed that all the republican forces are within one day's striking distance of the city.

Reports received here direct from Nanking, say that all foreigners north of Pukow are safe. The consuls have recommended that all Americans in the Yangtse Valley come in immediately to Shanghai.

London's Railway Subsidy.

London, Nov. 20.—London electors will vote at the coming municipal elections on the question of granting $25,000 to the proposed North Midland Railway for use in the construction of a terminal station to be used by all radial lines entering the city. They also will be asked to provide a free right of way through the city streets.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

About $5,000 surplus was the gratifying report of the proceeds of the Central Canada Exhibition at Ottawa.

Great Britain's 21st battleship of the Dreadnought typt, the Centurion, was launched at Davenport, Eng., on Saturday.

George Whiting Hebard, of New York, vice-president of the Westinghouse Electric Co., and widely known as a philanthropist, is dead.

The big new Grand Trunk Railway station at Ottawa, it is now thought, will not be opened to the public before a few days preceding Christmas.

A slight earthquake was felt in Mexico City Saturday. It caused some alarm, but no damage was done. The movement was from west to east.

Mrs. Porter, widow, aged 75, living in Northeast Malahide, near Aylmer, Ont., walked into an open trap door leading to the cellar. She was terribly injured.

Twelve thousand barrels of Kentucky whisky, let loose by fire, which destroyed a bonded warehouse in Owensboro, Ky., were licked up by the flames or lost.

Mrs. Roy Pugh, 18, a bride of ten months, fatally shot Pugh and killed herself at Denton, Tex., Saturday, after a fruitless attempt to effect a reconciliation with him.

Prominent Engineer Dead.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Nov. 20.—Caryl Davis Haskens of Schenectady, N.Y., one of the most prominent electrical engineers in the United States died here Saturday of pneumonia, after two days' illness.

Commission on Farmers' Bank?

Ottawa, Nov. 20.—It is believed by Conservative members that the Government will appoint a royal commission to investigate the circumstances attending the establishment and failure of the Farmers' Bank. This is in accord with the position taken by members of the Government when in Opposition last session.

Until the commission has investigated and made its report it is unlikely that the Government will come to a definite decision as to what relief, if any, is to be given the Farmers' Bank sufferers.

Collision on Rock Island.

Dalhart, Texas, Nov. 20.—A passenger train and freight train collided near Tucumcari, N.M., Saturday on the Rock Island Railroad. A relief train was sent from here. Ten persons were injured, but no fatalities occurred.

VOTES FOR WOMEN

Will be Subject to Liberal Consideration, Says Rowell

GOOD MEETING AT DRUMBO

Drumbo, Ont., Nov. 20.—"Votes for Women" was discussed by N. W. Rowell, K.C., the new Liberal leader, before an audience partly composed of women here on Saturday night. He nearly made a stand on the question, saying it was a matter that was being considered by statesmen the world over and that it would in time come. He promised to bring the subject before his colleagues at the coming session of the Legislature with the object of formulating a policy on it.

Mr. Rowell also outlined more fully his attitude on the trust question, saying it was time the Government took steps to prevent Ontario from reaching the stage of thraldom to the trusts that the United States is now in.

In the afternoon at Platteville he declared that the liquor law was being administered corruptly in Ontario. "The time has come when political influence must be eliminated from the administration of the liquor law," he said.

E. W. Nesbitt, M.P., declared that Sir James Whitney was a dictator and the reason was probably that he had been too successful. Mr. Nesbitt also charged the Government with favoritism in the running of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway.

"I am not here to-night to make an announcement on the question of votes for women," said Mr. Rowell, "and I am not in a position to say that the Liberal party will champion it at the coming session. But it is a question that is forcing itself on thoughtful statesmen all the world over. It is a question that is coming rapidly to the front. Over in England it is engaging the attention of the leaders on both sides.

"Perhaps it is not out of place to look forward to the time when women will enjoy the franchise. The question is one which public men must consider in the near future.

"When the Liberal members meet in the coming Legislature I hope we will be able to reach a conclusion on the question of votes for women that will be satisfactory," said Mr. Rowell.

The meeting was held in the town hall and there were about 250 present.

Mr. Rowell spoke in the afternoon for the first time in the riding he hopes to represent at the next session of the Legislature. The place was Platteville, about eight miles from Drumbo.

"In the Province of Ontario," he said, in the course of his address at Drumbo, "we are passing through the incipient stage of the formation of such companies as have done so much wrong in the States. One of the duties of the Government is to see that by legislation we do not permit ourselves to be placed in the same position as the people of the United States. We should fix the rights of the people so firmly by law that they can never be imperilled by corporations," he said. "We should seek to control those organizations and keep them from unduly enhancing the price of food, interferring with legislation, etc.

"The Liberal party will, to the full limit of power of the Legislature of the province, do its best to pass laws prohibiting any such gifts to either party. We will require both parties to publish a list of all campaign contribution. Publicity will be one of the best means of preventing interests who expect later favors, from giving contributions," said Mr. Rowell.

Brantford Rally.

Brantford, Nov. 20.—H. M. Mowat, K.C., Toronto, and Lloyd Harris, ex-M.P., addressed Brantford Liberals here on Saturday night.

Mr. Mowat defended Mr. Rowell for his failure to enunciate a definite temperance policy and declared that his attitude on bilingual schools was a sensible one. Mr. Harris expressed belief that the Hydro-electric policy would not turn out as profitable as expected for the Government. Thomas McPhail, president, was chairman.

MACDONALD ACQUITTED.

Commander of Niobe Is Exonerated of Any Blame.

Halifax, Nov. 20.—The court-martial on the Niobe Saturday afternoon concluded the series of three trials, which have engaged its attention by giving a decision that the charge against Commander W. B. MacDonald of the Canadian cruiser was not proven. The president of the court in rendering this judgment and handing back his sword to the commander, stated that it gave him great pleasure to state that MacDonald was honorably acquitted. It came out in the defence of Commander MacDonald that the court-martial had been personally asked for by him. The commander explained this in the following terms:

"On October 19, not having heard that any steps had been taken by which I could vindicate my conduct and realising that it was a critical time in my imperial service career, I sent the following telegram:

"'Admiralty, London: Respectfully submit convenience of service admits lord's commissioners of the Admiralty may be pleased to try me by court-martial, grounding Niobe'."

Commander MacDonald in the course of his defence submitted a statement of what occurred from the time of leaving Yarmouth up to the time of the grounding and the subsequent steps that were taken to save the ship.

"At 9.45 after getting away from Yarmouth, I rounded Blonderock buoy," he said, "and shaped course S. 75 E. The night was very clear. Up to this time no abnormal tide had been encountered and nothing to lead me to suppose that any corrections other than those allowed for the time tide would be necessary. I am firmly of the opinion that Lieut. White's computation of tides was the correct one which the point of our stranding proves and that, had there not been an abnormal tide, the ship would have made the southwest ledge buoy, even in the thick weather, about 10.15 p.m.

"I gave my night order book to the officer of the watch on the forebridge and pointed out to him, that the ship was making the southwest ledge buoy and to see that the ship was not set in to the northward and on no account to get to port of his course, but to keep generously to starboard. At this time the night was extremely fine and starry. I then went into my cabin on the forebridge. On being called at midnight I came out of my cabin and found that the ship had run into a fog. I called out Lieut. White's name and was informed that he was not on the upper bridge. I sent for him.

"As my reduced speed had not enable me to hear the southwest ledge buoy's whistle, I determined to haul out and went into the chart house to determine a course and had just leaned over a chart when the ship took ground. The time from my first being informed that the southwest ledge buoy was sighted to the time of the grounding was about twenty minutes. I beg to state that the cause of our grounding was an abnormal tide, due either to the gale the previous night in the Bay of Fundy, or perhaps to a hurricane on the West Indies.

"I would ask the members of the court to place themselves in my position on the night in question, to remember that at 10.15 o'clock, when I gave my order book and instructions to the officer of the first watch the night was fine, exceptionally clear, that no abnormal tide had been experienced, and that I was kept in ignorance of the fact that Cape Sable light had not been seen when we were closely approaching it."

The British squadron sailed yesterday afternoon for Bermuda.

Charged With Treason.

San Antonio, Texas, Nov. 20.—Gen. Bernardo Reyes, commander-in-chief of the Mexican army duting the regime of former President Diaz, temporarily residing in San Antonio because he said he considered his life was not secure in the southern republic, was arrested late yesterday on an indictment returned by the federal grand jury at Laredo, charged with conspiring against a friendly Government.

The general describes his arrest as "ridiculous."

"I consider it persecution," he said, "and the animus is not hard to find. As I have always done, I again deny that I have in any manner led, aided, abetted or considered a revolution in Mexico, nor have I joined in any conspiracy to start one." He placed the blame on the Maderists.

Must Not Pluck Live Chickens.

London, Ont., Nov. 20.—As the result of a recent revelation in regard to the packing and shipping of live poultry from points around London to the different markets for the winter trade, it is likely that some action will be taken by the local branch of the S.P.C.A. to put an end to the cruelties that have been practiced. One of these cruelties, it is said, consists of plucking the chickens whilst they are alive. Sometimes a spike is fastened to their heads, which is supposed to deaden the pain of the plucking. It is stated that many of the feathers are pulled out while the fowls are alive. A police court test case is to be made of cases in a few days.

Ex-Mayor Patterson Nominated.

Galt, Ont., Nov. 20.—Thomas Patterson of this town, who was Saturday nominated as the Liberal candidate in the coming elections for South Waterloo, has not yet decided whether he will accept the nomination. Mr. Patterson is one of Galt's best-known citizens, and for a number of years took an active part in municipal affairs, and for two years was mayor of the town.

A convention of all the labor men of the riding of South Waterloo has been called to be held on Tuesday evening, Nov. 28, to consider putting a candidate in the election.

BASKED IN ROYAL FAVOR.

Twenty-Five Hundred at "Drawing-Room" in Ottawa.

Ottawa, Nov. 20.—The most splendid pageant in Canada's social history took place here on Saturday evening, when the first drawing-room of the royal regime attracted all the leading society and near-society people in the Dominion to the capital. The women were in a subdued state of excitement all day and the drawing-room was the only subject of conversation. Ostrich feathers were at a premium and every wax figure in the drygoods windows displayed a different mode of wearing the same, while a leading stationer who advertised the correct card on which to present your humble name to the A.D.C., was besieged with customers.

In the evening carriages to convey the nervous fair ones to Parliament Hill began arriving before 7 o'clock, and women wearing their best gowns, with feathers and veils at every imaginable angle, and accompanied by sheepish-looking men, scurried from the elevator to the door.

A little before nine o'clock two or three bars of "God Save the King" announced the arrival of the duke and duchess, the band ceasing as they entered the room and proceeded to their seats in a dead silence, broken only by the craning of necks and squeaks of curiosity from the gallery. Her Royal Highness' dress was of cloth of gold, brocaded with flowers and softened with folds of mallines at the decolletage. She wore a magnificent high tiara, necklace and a number of ornaments, all of diamonds also the following orders: Ribbon and Order Victoria and Albert, King Edward's Family Order, King George's Family Order, St. John of Jerusalem and the Crown of India. The court train, three and a half yards long, was of stiff gold brocade woven in a conventional pattern of flowers and foliage in rich metallic shades.

Col. Sherwood, with an A.D.C., took his stand at the lower end of the hall, and next to the throne, sturdy Col. Lowther had his post beside a huge waste paper basket, into which he threw the cards after announcing each name. The Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, his family, the Premier and Mrs. Borden, the Cabinet Ministers and their families who had the honor of the first presentations, came from behind the throne and passed quickly across, taking up their stations at each side of the aisle of soldier, then the lower doors were thrown open to the crowd outside, and headed by the Senators and their families, the 2,400 people were presented, being hustled through at a quick march by the energetic A.D.C.'s.

"THE AVENGER"

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

"It depends," he answered. "I do not suppose your brother would have found it so. A bachelor can do himself pretty well on two thousand a year."

"I only hope I get hold of it," Mr. Sydney Barnes declared fervently. "This is the way I should like to live this is."

"I hope you will," Wrayson answered. "An income of that sort could scarcely disappear into thin air, could it? By the bye, Mr. Barnes, that reminds me of a very important circumstance which, up to now, we have not mentioned. I mean the way your brother met with his death."

The young man nodded thoughtfully.

"Ah!" he remared, "he was murdered, wasn't he? Some one must have owed him a nasty grudge. Morris always was a one to mae enemies."

"I don't now whether the same thing has occurred to you," Wrayson continued, "but I can't help wondering whether there may not have been some connexion between his death and that mysterious income of his."

"I've thought of that myself," the young man declared. "All the same, I can't see what he could have carried about with him worth two thousand a year."

"Exactly," Wrayson answered, "but you see the matter stands like this: He was in receipt of about 500 pounds every three months, as his bank proves. This sum would represent 6 per cent interest on forty thousand pounds. Now, considering your brother's position when he left you at Cape Town, and the fact that you cannot discover at his bankers or elsewhere any documents alluding to property or shares of any sort, one can scarcely help dismissing the hypothesis that this payment was the result or dividends or interest. At any rate, let us put that out of the question for the moment. Your brother received five hundred pounds every three months from some one. People do not give money away for nothing now-a-days, oyu know. From whom and for what services did he receive that money?"

Mr. Sydney Barnes looked puzzled.

"Ask me another," he remarked facetiously.

"You do not know of any secrets, I suppose, which your brother may have stumbled into possession of?"

"Not I." He went about with his eyes open and his mouth closed, but I never heard of his having that sort of luck."

"He could not have had any adventures on the steamer, for he came back sterage," Wrayson continued thoughtfully, "and he was in funds almost from the moment he landed in England. I am afraid, Mr. Barnes, that he must have been deceiving you in Cape Town."

"If I could only have a dozen words with him," the young man uttered savagely.

"It would be useful," Wrayson admitted, "but unfortunately it is out of the question. Either he was deceiving you or he was in possession of something which turned out to be far more valuable than he imagined."

"If so, where is it?" Mr. Sydney Barnes demanded. "If it was worth that to him, it may be to me."

"Exactly," Wrayso nremarked, "but the question of your brother's murder comes in there. People don't commit a crime like that for nothing, you know. If it was information which your brother had it died with him. If it was documents, they were probably stolen by the person who killed him."

"Come, that's cheerful," the young man declared ruefully. "If you're guessing right, where do I come in?"

"I'm afraid you don't come in," Wrayson answered, "but remember I am only following out a surmise. Have you looked through your brother's papers carefully?"

"I've gone through them all," Mr. Sydney Barnes answered, "but, of course, I was looking for scrip or a memorandum of investments, or something of that sort. Perhaps if a clever chap like you were to go through them, you might come across a clue."

"It seems hard to believe that he shouldn't have left something of the sort behind him," Wrayson remarked. "It might be only an address or a name, or anything."

"Will you come around with me and see?" Mr. Barnes demanded eagerly, "It wouldn't take you long. You're welcome to see everything there is."

Wrayson called for the bill.

"Very well," he said, "we will take a hansome round there at once."

They left the place a few minutes later, and drove to Battersea.

"There's a quarter to run, the landlord says, so I'm staying here," Barnes explained, as he unlocked the front door. "I can't afford a servant or anything of that sort of course, but I shall just sleep here."

The rooms had a ghostly and unkempt appearance. The atmosphere of the sitting room was stuffy and redulent of stale tobacco smoke. Wrayson's first action was to throw open the window.

"There isn't a sign of a paper anywhere, except in that desk," the young man remarked. "You'll find things in a mess, but whatever was there is there now. I've destroyed nothing."

Wrayson seated himself before the desk, and began a careful search. There were restaurant bills without number, and a variety of ladies' cards more or less soiled. Ther were Empire nd Alhambra programmes, a bundle of racing wires, and an account from a bookmaker showing a small debit balance. There were other miscellaneous bills, a plaintive epistle from a lady signing herself Flora, and begging for the loan of a fiver for a week, and an invitation to tea from a spinster who called herself Poppy. Amongst all this mass of miscellaneous documents, there were only three which Wrayson laid on one side for further consideration. One of these was a note dated from the Adelphi a few days before the tragedy, and was written in a stiff legal heand. It contained only a few lines—

"Dear Sir:

"My client will be happy to meet you at any time on Thursday you may be pleased to appoint, either here or at your own address. Please reply, making an appointment, by return of post

"Yours faithfully
"W. Bentham."

The second document was also in the shape of a letter from a firm of private detective agents and was dated only a day earlier than the lawyer's letter. It ran as follows—

"My Dear Sir,—

"In reply to your inquiry, our charges for watching a single person in London only are three guineas a day including all expenses. For that sum we can guarantee that the person with whose movements you desire to eep in touch will be closely shadowed from roof to roof, so long as the persn remains within seven miles of Charing Cross. A daily report will be made to you, and should legal proceedings ensue from any information procured by us, you may rely upon any witness whom we might place in the witness box.

"rusting to hear from you,
"We are,
"McKenna & Foulds."

The third document which Wrayson had preserved was the Cunard sailing list for the current month, the plan of a steamer which sailed within a week of the murder, and a few lines from the steamship company respecting accommodation.

"These, at any rate, will give you something to do," Wrayson remarked. "You can go to the lawyer and find out who his client was who desired to see your brother. There is a chance there. You can go to McKenna & Foulds and find out who it was whom he wanted shadowing, and you can go to the Cunardo ffice and see whether he really intended sailing for America."

Mr. Sydney Barnes looked a little doubtful.

"I suppose," he suggested timidly, "you couldn't spare the time to go round to these places with me? You see, I'm not much class over here, even in Morris's togs. They'd take more notice of you, being a gentleman. Good God! what's that?"

Both men had started, for the sound was unexpected. Some one was fitting a latch-key into the door!

CHAPTER XIV.

At the sight of the two men who awaited her entrance, the Baroness stopped short. Whatever alarm or surprise she may have felt at their presence was effectually concealed from them by the thick veil which she wore, through which her features were undistinguishable. As though ourposely, they left to them the onus of speech.

Wrayson took a quick step towards her.

"Baroness!" he exclaimed. "What are you—I beg your pardon, but what are you doing here?"

She raised her veil and looked at them both attentively. In her hand she still held the latch key by means of which she entered.

"Do you know," she answered very quietly, "I was just going to ask you the same thing?"

"Our presence is easily explained," Wrayson answered. "This is Mr. Sydney Barnes, the brother of Mr. Barnes, who used to live here. He is keeping the flat on for a short time."

The Baroness was surprised, and showed it. Without a moment's hesitation, however, she accepted Wrayson's words as an introduction to the young man, and held out her hand to him with a brilliant smile.

"I'm very glad to meet you, Mr. Barnes," she said, "even under such painful circumstances. I knew your brother very well, and I have heard him speak of you."

Mr. Sydney Barnes did not attempt to conceal his surprise. He shook hands with the Baroness, however, and regarded her with undisguised admiration.

"Well, this licks me!" he exclaimed frankly. "Do you mean to say that you were a friend of Morris's?"

"Certainly," the Baroness answered. "Why not?"

"Oh! I don't know," the young man declared. "I'm getting past being surprised at anything. It suppose it's the oof that makes the difference. A friend of Morris's, you said. Why, perhaps—"

He hesitated and glanced towards Wrayson.

"There is no harm in asking the Baroness, at any rate," Wrayson replied. "The fact of the matter is," he continued, turning towards her, "that Mr. Sydney Barnes here finds himself in a somewhat extraordinary position. He is the sole relative and heir of his brother, and he has come over here from South Africa, naturally enough, to take possession of his effects. Now, there is no doubt from his bank book and his manner of life, that Morris Barnes was possessed of a considerable income. According to his bank book it was 2,000 ponds a year."

The Baroness nodded thoughtfully. "He told me once that he was worth as much as that," she remarked.

"Exactly, but the curious part of the affair is that, up to the present, Mr. Sydney Barnes has bene unable to discover the slightest trace of any investments or any sum of money whatever. Now can you help us? Did Morris Barnes ever happen to mention to you in what direction his capital was invested? Did he ever give you any idea at all as to the source of his income?"

The Baroness stood quite still, as thought lost in thought. Wrayson watched her with a curious sense of fascination. He knew very well that the subtle brain of the woman was occupied in no fruitless attempt at reminiscence—he was convinced that the Baroness had never exchanged a single word with Morris Barnes in her life. She was thinking her way through this problem—how best to make use of this unexpected tool. Their eyes met and she smiled faintly. She judged rightly that Wrayson, at any rate, was not deceived.

"I cannot give you any definite information," she said at last, "but ——"

She hseitated, and the young man's eagerness escaped all bounds.

"But what?" he creid leaning breathlessly towards her. "You know something! What is it? Go on! Go Go on!"

"I think that if I can remember it," shecontinued, "I can tell you the name of the solicitor whom he employed."

The young man dashed his fist upon the table. He was pale almost to the lips.

"By God! you must remember it," he creid; "don't say that you have forgotten. It's most important. Two thousand a year!—pounds! Think!"

She turned towards Wrayson. She wished to conciliate him, but the young man was not a pleasant sight.

"It was something like Benton," she suggested.

Wrayson glanced downward at one of the three documents which he had preserved.

"Bentham!" he exclaimed. Was that it?"

The face of the Baroness cleared at once.

"Of course it was! How stupid of me to have forgotten. His offices are somewhere in the Adelphi.

Barnes caught up his hat.

"Where is that?" he exclaimed. "I am off."

Wrayson held out his hand.

"Wait a moment," he said. "There is no hurry for an hour or so. This affair may not be quite so simple after all."

"Why not?" the young man demanded fiercely. "It's my money, isn't it? I can take out letters of administration. It belongs to me. He'll have to give it up."

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

Women are very often deceived and mistaken in regard ot kidney disease. The pains in the back are attributed to other derangements, and kidney disease is allowed to run on and on until beyond the reach of medical science.

There is needless suffering, and life itself is risked, because backache is not recognized as the most marked symptom of kidney disease.

There is no treatment which so quickly relieves and cures kidney pains in the back as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. As proof of this read Mrs. Patterson's letter:

Mrs. Richard Patterson, Haldimand, Gaspe Co., Que., writes: "I will gladly say that I was cured of kidney trouble by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. When I began using this medicine I was crippled with sore back and did not know what was the trouble. In looking over Dr. Chase's Almanac I saw Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills advertised and decided to try them.

"I had not used two boxes before my back was all right, and before I had completed the third box was entirely cured. There has been no return of the old kidney trouble, and I therefore believe the cure to be permanent."

One pill a dose, 25c a box, at all dealers, or Edmandson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Which?

DO you know the history of the rolled oats in the scoop?

From the mill those oats went into bags. The bags went into cars more or less clean. The cars emptied the bags into a wagon. The wagon drove the bags through dusty streets to the grocer. He put the bags into his storeroom, or maybe up against his counter where the cat may have slept upon them, the mice nibbled at them, the dust of the store settled on them and the shoes of customers rubbed against them.

Now compare this with the history of the rolled oats in the Tillson package.

From the time Tillson's Oats are harvested in the field to the time you receive the package in your home, those oats are never touched by the hand of man; nor are they exposed to any unsanitary, unappetizing environment. You receive them absolutely clean.

Which kind of oats will you eat?

AS IT MIGHT BE

"Jack, dear, we will have to get a new girl. Norah is getting very careless; breakfast is late again."

"I'm afraid we will, Pum. I had indigestion all day yesterday from bolting my food."

"You did? You said nothing about it last night."

"What was the use of worrying you about it?"

"You poor boy! I'll see if I can't hurry her up a little."

"What did she say?"

"It will be ready in a few minutes."

"I expect you have your own troubles trying to keep help in this out-of-the-way place."

"Indeed, I do, but that's no reason why you should be made ill."

"Why is it, dear? Are we suburbanites not good enough to work for?"

"I have often wondered. They get just the same wages, have better rooms, the same time off, and everything else, but I really believe they would rather work in a boarding-house in the city than to work for a family of two in the suburbs."

"Something must be done, dear; I have only fifteen minutes now to catch my train. I'm afraid it means indigestion again to-day."

"I'll go in town to-day and try to get another girl. If I can't, I'll let her go and do the necessary work myself until we find one."

"No, you don't, Pum. I didn't marry a cook or a laundress."

"Don't I know that, you saucy boy. I'll start in by being in the kitchen more—especially in the morning, so your breakfasts won't be late."

"I approve of that, but I don't want you to try to do it all alone. You are not strong and I don't want you to get sick."

"There goes the bell now. Hurry up, Jack, so that you can have as much time as possible. We have liver and bacon this morning, and you know how fond you are of it."

"I've only eight minutes left to eat it in. I suppose I shouldn't touch it, but I can't resist the temptation."

"I don't believe a little will hurt you, dear."

"Give me very little, Pum."

"Jack, leave me a little more money. I am going to give Norah her notice in the shape of a week's pay and let her go."

"All right. Is this enough?"

"Plenty. I shall go in town and spend the day trying to get someone who will at least get your meals on time."

"If you do that, I will meet you at the Astorbilt and we will have a bite of dinner together, then take in some play."

"That will be delightful! You are a darling, Jack! I dreaded the day so. Now I shall be so happy thinking of the good time we are going to have that I shan't mind the disagreeables a bit."

"Well, I'll meet you about six-thirty. Don't dress up, as I shall have to wear my business clothes."

"Of course, I won't dress up. Think of me haunting the intelligence offices in evening clothes—that's too funny!"

"I forgot for a minute. Well, give me a kiss. Try not to get too tired, so you will be able to enjoy to-night."

Wit And Wisdom

"Mrs. Jollaby treats her husband like a dog." "Lucky fellow, I wish my wife would treat me as she treats her dog."

He—"Darling, I don't know what to say to your father." She—"Just say: 'Mr. Munn, I wish to marry your daughter'—then dodge."

May—"Why is that church so near the golf links?" Meta—"Its the pastor's own idea. You can hear his preaching from every 'tee.'"

"I hadn't been talking with him three minutes before he called me an ass. What sort of a person is he?" "Well, I never knew him to tell a lie."

Doctor—"Mr. Butting, I fear your wife's mind is gone." Butting—"That doesn't surprise me; she's been giving me a piece of it every day for seven years."

"A great many people owe their lives to that doctor," said Peter. "Is he an able physician?" "Oh, it isn't that I refer to. He is never in when you want him."

"Man, Wullie, they tell me they've got a three-leggit calf up at Jeemie Samson's." "Do ye tell me? He'll be awfu' prood about it?" "Prood! Man, he's prooder than the auld coo herael'."—Punch.

Magistrate—"You say this man stole your coat? Do I understand that you prefer the charge against him?" Prosecutor—"Well, no, your honour, I prefer the coat, if it's all the same to you."

The Minister—"And does your papa say grace at the table, too?" The Angel Child—"Yes, sir; but he doesn't say it like you do." "What does he say?" "He sits down an' looks round an' says, 'Great Scot, what a dinner!'"

"Doctor, what did you tell me was your special treatment for sleeplessness?" "We strike at the cause or the origin of the trouble." "You don't say so! Well, you will find the baby in the other room. Only don't strike at him too hard."

The Judge—"Can you describe any specific act of cruelty on the part of your husband?" The Complainant—"I should say I can! Whenever he had anything to say to me he'd call me up on the telephone and say it, and then disconnect before I had a chance to talk back to him."

Millionaire (to ragged beggar)—"You ask alms and do not even take your hat off. Is that the proper way to beg?" Beggar—Pardon me, sir.

A Smart Boy—School children know a great deal more than they used to do. In fact, some of them, in their own opinions, at least, are quite capable of tutoring their tutors. "Those kiddies I teach are as knowing as an encyclopædia!" said a teacher a week or so ago. "In what may?" asked his friend. "Well," replied the scholastic person, "the other day I set a problem in arithmetic. 'A rich man dies, and leaves £1,000,000. One-fifth is to go to his wife, one-fifth to his son, one-eighth to his brother, and the rest to the hospitals. What does each get?'" "Yes," queried the friend, not very interested. "Back came the reply from the smallest boy in the class: 'A lawyer, sir.'"

Tripoli Proverbs.—Here are some Tripoli proverbs: "Do not run after destiny; it will find you." "Sweet words sometimes break the mouth." "Everything is gall to him who has bitterness in his mouth." "If I expect nothing from thee in adversity, I want nothing in prosperity." "He who obliges promptly confers a double favour." "Death is the consolation of the poor." "The wise man possesses humility, the foundation of all virtues." "If the stars shot bread we should spend our nights out of doors." "The sick man is the physician's granary." "The partridge loves beans, but not those with which he stews in the pot."

Farm And Garden

The average length of a dog's life is 15 years.

Russia leads the way in planting forests. America in devastating them.

The cocoanut tree is very valuable. Its wood furnishes beams and planks; its leaves clothing; its fruit food, oil and sugar; its shells domestic utensils; its fibre ropes, sails and matting.

It is said that the nut trees of the world could furnish nourishment for the entire population of the globe. Brasil nuts grow in such profusion that great quantities are wasted every year.

In some potatoes the eyes lie rather deep in the tuber, while in others they are near the surface or quite on the outside. When these two characters are brought together in fertilization the deep-eye character is dominant over the other.

The annual production of apples in this country is actually falling off. The crop of 1896 was 69,070,000 barrels, or 177,675,000 bushels. Two years later, in spite of the boasted improvements in orchard culture, the total product was 25,000,000 barrels, or 62,500,000 bushels.

If manure is hauled away from the stables to piles in the field as it is made during the winter one should be very careful to drive the team so frequently as possible over the pile, so as to have it well tramped in all places. It is also well to include as many snowdrifts as possible, as this furnishes moisture, which prevents burning.

Married Life As It Is

"For goodness sake, Mabel, what's the matter; isn't breakfast most ready?"

"I guess so."

"'You guess so!' I should think it was your business to know."

"You seem to think a lot of things my business. And you are always finding fault about the meals."

"Don't talk so much, and go and hurry that breakfast. I'll have to bolt it again this morning, or miss my train."

"It's too bad about you!"

"Why not get a servant that can get meals on time?"

"That's so easy! Servants are so anxious to work in the country. Why, I am fairly on my knees to Norah half the time. Now, if we lived in the city it would be different——"

"We don't live in the city, so what's the use of talking? But you needn't tell me that you couldn't get someone to get our meals on time if you tried. Only the two of us—the work can't be so hard."

"'If I tried, and only two of us!' Why, they would rather work in town for ten in the family than out here for two."

"Something's got to be done!"

"Supposing you do it, then. I'm sure I'm not going to get up and get breakfast."

"I don't think it would be doing so much if you did."

"Now, see here, Jack Henderson, if you wanted a housekeeper or laundress, why didn't you marry one?"

"I would at least have had my meals on time if it had! It's only fifteen minutes to train time and that bell hasn't rung yet!"

"It will in a minute."

"Well, I'm not going to wait for it. I'll go down and maybe that will hurry things up a little."

"Don't you dare say a word to Norah! If you say anything she will sulk all day."

"For heaven's sake, I wouldn't stand in such awe of any human being as you do of Norah for anything."

"You don't have to!"

"Neither do you. If you were half as decided with her as you are with me, she would soon know her place."

"Yes, and that place would be the city."

"Let her go. 'There are as good fish in the sea as ever were caught.' I guess that applies to servants as well as to other things."

"There goes the bell."

"At last! I've just eight minutes in which to swallow my breakfast."

"If you will live away out here, you will have to put up with things the same as I do."

"What do you have to put up with so terrible? All day to do as you please."

"All day to be alone."

"You should have married a millionaire; then you needn't have lived in the suburbs."

"I will next time, don't you worry!"

"You'll soon have a chance if this way of making me eat keeps up."

Tells Dramatic Story of America's Part in the Chinese Uprising

Mrs. Jane Douglas Champlin Talks of Noted Figures in War Riven Empire.

[Special Despatch.]
PEKIN, Saturday.

GLIMPSES of the men and affairs concerned in the present crisis in China are given by Mrs. Jane Douglas Champlin, who has returned to America until the uprising is settled. Before departing she talked freely with your correspondent, telling many inside facts. She said:—

"The Chinese themselves are not talkative. The newspapers last summer were filled with attacks on the rule of the Manchus. But more in their manner than by word of mouth one could read what was filling the minds of the people. There were only surface indications of the fires which raged beneath the surface.

"Significant signs none the less were they, and one felt that it would only be a question of a few weeks when the whole land would be shaken by war.

"I grew to love China for its aspirations, and its ideals are of the highest, and its educated men are striving with all their power to make life better for the masses.

"The power in China, as every one felt would be the case, has fallen into the hands of graduates of the American and English universities. The Western learning had been spreading through China for fifty years, but the young men who had come within the last ten or fifteen years from the colleges of the West have been the chief factors.

"The Viceroys of the provinces are native Chinese and with each is usually a Tartar General. Over all was the power of the Manchu rule, which resulted in the people being bowed down under the burden of heavy taxes. Against the Manchu dynasty were arrayed the hundreds of trained and educated Chinese from Japan, England, the United States and Germany. While at Shanghai I met many of the educated Chinese, who even then were busy in the forming of a new nation, although they gave so little sign of what they were doing.

"What a remarkable man is Lieutenant General Wen Tsung Yao! What grasp of political affairs he showed! It was no surprise to me to see him prominent in the new régime. Among the older men was the Taotai, S. T. Tseng, generally known to the American and English residents as "Spencer," a classmate of the President of the United States at Yale University. His mother, Mme. Tseng Laisun, who is eighty-six years old, is a woman of resolute nature and of great culture and is with him. He and she once lived at Springfield, Mass., where they acquired their remarkable knowledge of English.

"Yale University is also the alma mater of Mun Yow Chung, who did much to develop the Chinese railroads. The Indemnity School, which is supported by the sums which the United States remitted from the Boxer indemnity, has given energetic and influential men to the nation even in the short time in which it has been organized. One of the best known of these is Mr. Y. C. Teng.

"It is astonishing to see how the graduates from the colleges of the Occident assimilate themselves into the activities of the nation. They were everywhere, it seemed to me, working into positions of influence and power. The stage of political transition through which China is at present passing promises good for the future of the empire—for the men of merit, for the men who count.

"The death of the Viceroy, Chang Yen Chun, would mean the close of the career of one who was of the greatest service to his own land and was as well the stanch friend of the United States. A keen and able man, he was a representative of the old Chinese race.

"When China was being swept by famine I had a plan for aiding the sufferers by means of the sale of stamps, and I succeeded in having an audience with this great Viceroy. He lived at Nanking, a city of illustrious past and deplorable present. I succeeded in reaching the yamen of the Viceroy and was ushered into the reception room, where I met Lieutenant General Wen Taung Tao, now the advisor of the Viceroy. He was gentility personified, gracious and kind.

"He heard of my mission with considerable interest. He said I think that the Viceroy will see me." I ventured. 'Certainly,' was his reply. 'Just excuse me a minute.' He disappeared for a few minutes. He came back with several officials. One was formerly Minister to Germany, Mr. Yang Cheng, and the other Mr. Wen Shih Tsien, secretary to the Viceroy. All spoke English fluently. They said the Viceroy would see me soon and hardly had they spoken, than there came from without a cry announcing the approach of His Excellency.

"Chang Yen Chun came to the room, and when the introductions were over proved himself to be a man with a heart. He had the striking type of Chinese face. A merry eye, a ruff, hearty laugh, and over a kindly smile. His gray mustache and beard gave him the final touch of the old pictures of Chinese officials. His seventy years sat lightly upon him and his preservation was wonderful when it is remembered how strenuous the life of a Viceroy is, how beset it is with dangers in times of popular disturbance and with constant opposition to official acts. Chang Yen Chun found comfort in the knowledge that what he did was right, and that preserved his peace of mind. Not all the opposition of the provincial Assembly, which recently resigned because he would not alter the budget to suit them, affected his tranquility, and their impeachments and their censures but amused him.

"The Viceroy sat at the end of the table and, putting me in the place of honor, tea and cakes and champagne and fruit were brought in, and over the cups I outlined to him the benefits of an issue of famine stamps and the possibilities of gaining cash from a sale of scrolls and embroidery if he would present them and seal with his seal of office. He took a lively interest in each plan, and promised there and then to give me what scrolls I would select in the Yamen, and to give assistance in the issue of stamps. The conversation ran on to various topics, and especially did he show marked interest in American affairs. As for myself, he would do everything to make my stay interesting. He arranged a visit for me to the Ming tombs, and generally ordered that I should be protected under the official wing during my stay in Nanking.

"In this old Yamen, originally the site of the palace of the Taiping Kings, there was much to interest the stranger. On the walls of the Yamen were scrolls, magnificent in design and workmanship.

"'Do you like these?' asked General Wen. 'Yes,' I boldly replied, 'that is beautiful.' 'You can have it. This one, and this—and do you like that?' 'Yes.' 'Well you can have that.' They were ready to strip the walls for me, and then we came to a magnificent embroidered picture of His Excellency, the Viceroy. Without any thought of request in my voice I admired it. 'Well, you can have it,' answered the General, and, though I protested, it was without avail. 'It was presented to the Viceroy, but that is nothing. If it will bring money for the famine sufferers you can take it,' and it was useless to argue. All the scrolls mentioned, and more, with the picture of the Viceroy, ultimately followed me to Shanghai; and I was overwhelmed. Where I scarcely expected welcome I found that the generous hearted Viceroy would have given me the Yamen could I have transported it to America, and I was afraid to express admiration of anything after the first experience."

TEA REJECTIONS ROUSE JAPANESE

Charge of Adulteration Under Exceptionally Severe Test May Be Severe Blow to Export Trade.

[Special Despatch.]
TOKIO, Saturday

THE news received here that shipments of tea to the United States made from Shimizu and other ports of the T. K. K. liner Tenyo Maru have been rejected, on the ground of adulteration, has created something like a mild panic in tea producing circles.

An official investigation conducted by the Central Tea Traders' Guild reveals the fact that the adulterated tea thus rejected and sent back to the consignors from Shizuoka and Shimizu in the first tea season, from April 1 to July 31 last, amounted to more than fifteen thousand pounds, for the most part from Fumamoto, Miye and Gifu prefectures, while that rejected and sent back in the period from August 1 to September 4 amounted to some twenty-five thousand pounds, making a total of more than forty thousand pounds.

In explanation of the transportation to Shizuoka of such large quantities of adulterated tea from the Kwansai district, it is said that considerable disparity exists between the standard of comparison enforced by the Shizuoka Tea Traders' Guild and that adopted by the corresponding guild in the Kwansai district, and it is also known that dishonest brokers have made frequent attempts to export inferior tea through Shimizu.

Fortunately these efforts have hitherto ended in failure, thanks to the rigorous examination enforced by the Shizuoka Tea Inspection Office and the steps taken to send back to the consignors all tea disqualified by the examiners. The warehouses of the tea firms in the above district are also visited by examiners and adulterated tea is seized.

In the case of the consignment by the Tenyo Maru, therefore, it is surmised that the adulterated tea rejected must have been shipped from Kobe, and that no colored or otherwise adulterated tea was consigned from Shimizu.

As is known, the Japanese Department of Agriculture and Commerce has done its best from the first to compel observance of the American law bearing on the importation of colored teas, and in this case also it has taken steps to issue a caution to the Central Tea Traders' Guild as to the advisability of a rigorous enforcement of the examination of tea for export, and similar instructions have been issued to the provincial governments concerned.

English Girl to Ride at New York Horse Show

MISS HELEN PREECE.

Miss Helen Preece, Whom Queen Mary Complimented for Bravery, Is Already in New York to Take Part in the Last Madison Square Garden Show.

[Special Despatch.]
LONDON, Saturday.

NOT the least of the attractions of the Horse Show which opened to-day in Madison Square Garden, New York city, will be the appearance of Miss Helen Preece, of London, who has gone to America for the purpose of riding some of the blue ribbon winners which have been entered by James Dunn, of Surrey, England. Not in the whole of England, where horsewomen are much in evidence, is there a more daring enthusiast, especially as a cross country rider, and the fact that she was personally complimented by Queen Mary on her bravery has added still further to her laurels.

It was at Islington last summer that Miss Preece insisted on carrying out her announced intention of riding Merriman, a horse of uncertain temper, despite the fact that on the previous day he had become uncontrollable and had leaped over the rail and killed a bystander. The daring young woman controlled him with the ease which bespeaks true horsemanship. King George and his consort were there, and when the news of this exploit reached Queen Mary she summoned Miss Preece before her and commended her cordially for her bravery.

Among the horses Miss Preece will ride are Biskra, winner of the high jump at Olympia last summer, and Cousin Jack and Skyscraper, also famous jumpers from the stables of Mr. Dunn. She will also ride Premier, winner of the Diana cup for horses at Olympia, and Sylvia Gray and Dartmoor Shepherd, two well known English saddle horses.

MARINERS' CLUB IS AN OCEAN BREEZE

Organization Formed in Commemoration of the Coronation of the King.

ADMIRALS AS MEMBERS

Captain Hastings Neale, the Honorary Secretary, Explains the Object of the Institution.

[Special Despatch.]
LONDON, Saturday.

"BEAR westward along Piccadilly Channel until you are abreast of the Ritz. Then put your helm hard over to starboard and cast anchor where the port and starboard lights shine from the doors of No. 5 Arlington street."

This is the way members of the Mariners' Club direct you to their headquarters.

It is difficult to steer clear of sea talk with the members of the Mariners' Club. When you cross the threshold you have the distinct feeling of stepping aboard ship and get into the way of walking across the rooms with a slightly nautical roll.

The Mariners' Club has been formed in commemoration of the coronation of King George, the "Sailor King," and its purpose is to bring together men connected with or interested in shipping, yachting and seafaring matters generally, and to provide a London home for the country yacht and sailing clubs of the United Kingdom.

No. 5 Arlington street is quite a historic house, for here Sir Robert Walpole, Earl of Orford, lived from 1676 to 1745, a period in which Britain was most active in striving for the supremacy of the sea.

"We have more than sixty naval officers in the club," said Captain Hastings Neale, the honorary secretary, "from admiral to midshipman, as well as officers of most of the big ocean liners. It will be an 'ebb and flow' club; members will come and go; there will always be some abroad, but many at home. Excuse me a moment."

The captain walked to the foot of the stairs, or "companion way," where hung a ship's bell, and struck three double strokes and a single. Seven bells!

The "companion way" leads to the smoking and dining "saloons," the walls of which are hung with historic sea pictures, lent or gifted to the club by its members, and an interesting picture gallery it makes.

The anteroom is lighted by the "anchor" light, a real ship's riding light, all through the night.

"Ladies! No!" said Captain Neale. "No ladies are allowed in this club, but we are taking a house at Ryde where ladies will be admitted during the yachting season."

WHITE BEARD CALL PRODUCES RESULTS

Remarkable Scene in Answer to an Advertisement for "One Hundred Clean Old Men."

[Special Despatch.]
LONDON, Saturday.

An advertisement in the London newspapers for "One hundred clean old men with long gray or white beards and one hundred with bald heads," wanted for Professor Reinhardt's production of "The Miracle" at Olympia next month, resulted in an extraordinary scene at the Clavier Hall, off Hanover square.

All morning the square was packed with bearded patriarchs who strode or hobbled or were led to the hall. All the world seemed to have grown old. Hundreds of old men, many of them poor, starved looking creatures, came eager and expectant, with the hope of earning seven and a half dollars a week. And for once it was a time when age and weakness triumphed and when the younger men had to stand down.

Nearly all had sad stories of misfortune to tell, and pitiful were their pleadings for the "job."

"My beard is not much to-day," said one, "for I have just had it clipped. Give me a chance; it will grow before Christmas." He got it.

Another who had been rejected was going disconsolately out when he heard a young voice singing the "Jewel Song" from "Faust." He straightened himself up, and rushing back to the examiner's room cried, "I'm an old professional. I've often sung in 'Faust,' and I want a job." It was "The Fallen Star" in real life, and the manager relented.

Herr Reinhardt wants to have everything real in his production, and that is why he is collecting an army of shiny-pated stage débutants.

MR. HILTON FOOLED BY A CLEVER TRICK

Champion Golfer Is Pitted Against a Man Apparently Dumb and Nearsighted.

[Special Despatch.]
LONDON, Saturday.

Mr Harold Hilton, the amateur golf champion, got a severe shock the other day in a match which was got up in his honor between representatives of "The Pen" and "The Brush," and which took place on the links of the West Middlesex Club. Mr Hilton was the leading representative of "The Pen" team, and a stranger, a "Norwegian artist," named "A Zorn" was pitted against him as the champion of "The Brushes."

The "distinguished foreigner," with his long curls, flaxen hair and blue glasses, aroused a deal of attention, and Mr. Hilton's surprise increased when he discovered that his opponent was also dumb.

The spectators looked for a walkover for Mr. Hilton against a player who was not only dumb but weak sighted as well, but the amateur champion did not remain under any such delusion long. The first tee shot showed the "distinguished foreigner" was far from being a novice. He showed surprising skill in driving and pitching and putting, and the amateur champion succeeded in winning his match only at the last green.

Then the "murder came out." The artists had arrived on the course one man short, and in the dilemma hit upon the ingenious scheme of pressing Ralph Smith, the local professional, who has often represented Scotland in international matches, into the team. With powder and paint Mr Smith was effectually disguised, and Mr. Hilton was quite in ignorance of his personality until the match was finished.

"We each are taking two horses," said Lieutenant Walwyn to your correspondent just before leaving, "and we have great hopes of repeating the success which

Lieutenant Geoffrey Brooke gained in the jumping class with Harriet.'
Lieutenant Walwyn is the finest cross country horseman in the English army and has won many important open races here.

PADDINGTON DAISY LITTLE BUT BRAVE

[Special Despatch.]
LONDON, Saturday.

Paddington Daisy, a black and tan terrier which weighs only twelve ounces, is said to be the smallest dog in the world. Her owner, Mr. G. R. Skinner, of Paddington, London, has already refused several big offers for the little creature. In spite of her diminutive size Daisy is a plucky morsel. In canine arguments with her brother, Nip, and her sister, Quenie, each

NEW OPERA HOUSE FOR MUSIC LOVERS

American Builds Gorgeous Home of Art in Very Midst of London's Mayfair.

[Special Despatch.]
LONDON, Saturday.

Those who have studied with admiring eyes the fine exterior of the London Opera House will not be surprised to learn that the interior has been planned with strict regard for the dignity of the purpose to which the building is dedicated. The vast auditorium embodies everything which the lucid and honorable application of Mr. Oscar Hammerstein with grand opera can suggest, says the London Daily Telegraph. As that gentleman says, it is like that of no other opera house. It has been designed not merely for the wealthy patrons of musical art but for the cultured masses, who in the London Opera House will find that a very large portion of the seating accommodation is available for them.

The man with an unreserved seat in the gallery, for which he will pay 2s (about half a dollar), has as good a chair as a fashionable lady who can afford a guinea (5 dollars) for a stall. From all parts of the house the lines of sight are perfect.

Though great consideration is paid to the demand for moderate-priced seats, the interests of the wealthy are not altogether ignored. Tiers are fitted with private boxes, some of them with sitting rooms behind them. Each of these boxes will seat six. The Royal box, which is approached by a special entrance in Kingsway, is on the level of the stage on the first tier, and consequently appears in the back of the Royal Mayor and Corporation of London, an arrangement in theatre planning which the new directories will doubtless fully appreciate. The box of the Diplomatic Corps is in the centre of the first tier.

CANADIAN EDITOR ON THE WARPATH

Strikes a Hard and Stinging Blow at the English System of Caste.

[Special Despatch.]
LONDON, Saturday.

THE Watchdog having swallowed M. A. P., the weekly founded by "Tay Pay," begins under its new name by barking at Americans. It confesses that it is irritated by a criticism of Mons. Hilaire Belloc, who, it appears, has declared that "the English language can have no classic future," but the Watchdog's yap becomes an ominous growl when it tells us that Mons. Belloc "holds up the Yankee town of Washington as the true home of the finest English: Why, the very accent would be enough to rule out any such notion even if the ordinary decencies of style were observed. I refuse to take a man seriously when he has the assurance to come forward and speak in defence of that barbarism, the split infinitive. That, however, can only be an impertinent beast."

You will note that the Watchdog's final snarl makes it look funny rather than fierce.

In these days when the average Englishman is exulting over the defeat of reciprocity by Canada and proclaiming loudly that the Dominion is gathered to the motherland by hooks of steel—please don't put an "a" in steel—it is refreshing to read a few homely although unpalatable truths about "The Englishman as a Canadian Sees Him," from the pen of Mr. J. R. Bone, managing editor of the Toronto Daily Star, who, in Everybody's Weekly, after criticising the clammy, cold, repellant greeting of the average Englishman to the stranger within London's gates, strikes a hard blow at the English system of caste.

As an introductory Mr. Bone tells how, one night, as he was standing in the lobby of a London hotel among a group of a dozen Englishmen, "typically well fed, well groomed and physically attractive"—but, oh, so cold—"there appeared through the doorway an American stripling, flamboyant in dress and aggressive in manner, with America written all over his features and figure. An uncomplimentary reference on the part of one of the English group attracted attention to the Yankee. I looked at my companions and then at him," said Mr. Bone, "and I have to confess that my impulse was to go over and shake him by the hand." Of course, that's one way of getting warm when you are surrounded by Englishmen.

However, let Mr. Bone speak for himself:—

"The average Canadian finds himself altogether out of sympathy with the system of caste that prevails in England. History declares that feudalism died with the Wars of the Roses. A visitor to England to-day comes away with the conviction that feudalism, at least in spirit, is still far from dead.

"You do not find us democratic?" a London editor asked me. 'In Scotland,' I began, in answer, when he interrupted:—'Ah, Scotland is democratic, but England, no!' 'In England,' said I, 'we respect a man according to his birth; in Canada and America we judge him by his ability.'

"It seems to me this does not meet the issue. Even in America it is doubtful if wealth secures the respect paid it in England. And it seems further, that wealth in England, particularly landed wealth, has much more to do with fixing caste than has birth. If one goes back a few centuries it will be found that all the genealogical trees have their roots in gold."

• • •

Having enjoyed that slap by the Canadian editor, you will no doubt be interested to learn how he regards the average English newspaper. Recalling the many flings by English journalists at the American press, the following criticism by Mr. Bone should, as Silas Perkins would put it, "make mighty interesting reading":—

"It is doubtful if even the yellow journals of the United States would report divorce cases as frankly as one may find any day in respectable English papers.

"Further, there are papers published in England and on sale openly everywhere which, if published in Canada, would be refused the use of the mails and would be confiscated wherever found. Indeed, attempts have been made to publish here papers which in vulgarity and obscenity were mild as water compared to those which can be found in England, but the authorities speedily stamped them out. And in this authority represents public opinion just as, I take the failure to take such action in England reflects the desire of the public that there shall be freedom even if it approaches to license."

Here are a few thoughts by Mr. Bone on drinking in England:—

"The Canadian is appalled at the amount of drinking that is to be seen in England. In Canadian restaurants and clubs the use of even light wine is exceptional at luncheon and infrequent at dinner. In Canada it is advisable for a workingman to be an absolute teetotaler. Many large employers of labor insist on total abstinence, and practically all prefer it.

"The other day a Toronto man engaged half a dozen newly arrived Englishmen to work on the top of a building he was constructing. In the afternoon he went up to see how they were progressing. He was surprised to find two of the men missing. He was more than surprised when they reappeared laden with beer for the refreshment of the company. They were promptly dismissed.

"The number of saloons, the evident custom they enjoy, the presence of women in them, either as barmaids or as customers, come as a severe shock to a Canadian on his first visit."

• • •

Will the English journalistic world be upset by this rather savage, if truthful, criticism by their Canadian brother? Not 'alf!

When you wander into press circles this is about the conversation that you will hear:—

"Oh, I say, old chap, did you read what that 'rotter' from Canada had to say about English journalism in Everybody's Weekly?"

"Rather! Silly bounder, isn't he?"

"Quite. I should call him a cad, but you can't expect anything else from a Colonial 'fellow,' I say."

Sermon by CHARLES T. RUSSELL Pastor Brooklyn Tabernacle.

GOD'S PROMISES TO THE CHURCH

Value of Worldly Trouble —Chastening Brings Joy, Peace and Increased Faith.

Nov. 19.—Pastor Russell on the Atlantic homeward bound. "Well as usual, thank God," was Pastor Russell's word of greeting by wireless to the millions of readers of his sermons in the secular press. His message for Sunday was from Psalm xlii, 5-9; "Why art thou cast down, oh my soul, and why art thou disquieted in me? Hope thou in God for I shall yet praise Him. All Thy billows are gone over me.' We quote as follows:

The Psalmist's knowledge of the sea was probably limited to the vicinity of Jaffa (then Joppa), where tradition says King Solomon once had a little harbor, now filled in and cultivated with orange groves.

King David's knowledge of sea billows was probably confined to the huge waves which sometimes break over the massive stones on the sea front of Jaffa, the result of strong north winds. Nowhere have I ever seen the majestic power of the sea more strongly contrasted with human weakness than at Jaffa Port. The water is deep and the billows follow one another with seemingly irresistible force.

In the Psalm of which our text is a part, the Prophet likened his trials and difficulties and his own helplessness to those of a swimmer battling with the stormy sea at Jaffa; wave after wave of trouble having rolled over him, yet his faith in God continued. He was suffering for righteousness' sake—because of his faithfulness to God. He knew that Divine providence permitted his troubles for some wise purpose. He called upon his soul, yea every power within him, to exercise faith, trust, confidence, and to rejoice in his tribulations, knowing that they were not marks of disfavor, but to the contrary—proofs of his loyalty; and that thus God was fitting and preparing him for His future service.

"Why art thou cast down, Oh! my soul? Why art thou disquieted with in me? Hope thou in God, for I shall yet praise Him"—for these very experiences and the helpful blessing which they will bring to me. "The Lord will command His loving kindness in the day time"—in the glorious day of Emmanuel, when Satan will be bound, sin will be uprooted and the Sun of Righteousness will beam forth with healing rays of restitution.—Acts iii, 19-21; Matthew xiii, 43.

But what about the night time of the present, while Sin and Death still reign, and while Satan is still the Prince of this world? How should David and all whom he typically represented conduct themselves in this present time, while waiting for the glorious day? Should they bemoan their lot and be unhappy and repine? Nay, says the Prophet: "In the night His song shall be with me, and my prayer shall be unto the God of my life."

Only God's children can rejoice in the trials and difficulties of the night of darkness which covers the earth, and the gross darkness which involves the heathen. Only these can sing with the spirit and with the understanding, because only these may understand clearly respecting the coming glorious world-wide blessings which God has promised.

The unregenerate, even though good and moral, upright and noble cannot appreciate the deep things of God. They do indeed find temporary pleasures of various kinds, and even have less tribulation than the Lord pours into the cup of His faithful ones, but after all their pleasures are shallow and fleeting. Their chief pleasure is in seeking joy and not in realization.

The world understands practically nothing about these things—this spirit of a new mind or will in accord with righteousness. It understands nothing about the anointing of the Holy Spirit, under the influence of which old things pass away and new hopes and aims and objects in life take their places. But each one who has passed through these experiences understands them; each one begotten again is aware of the change in his mind, his will—knows that he has consecrated his life to righteousness and to the Lord's service, and realizes that an anointing has come to him.

According to the Bible none have ordination of God to act as His mouthpieces except they have received this anointing. Such may be known by the fruits of the Spirit, which all the Spirit-begotten ones will soon be able to detect, and which will more or less be manifest also to the world, although the world will not know how to make allowances for having the treasure of the new mind in an imperfect human vessel, although the world will not know how to sympathize with the weaknesses of the fallen flesh, and may often be apt to denounce and condemn those who are walking to the best of their ability, not after the flesh, but after the Spirit.

We fear, however, that if this line were distinctly seen, sharply drawn, many who are now prominent ministers, reverends, doctors of divinity, would be seen to be barred from the Lord's service. Many of them have had ordination from men, but have never had the ordination of God, and hence are unable to see spiritual things themselves and equally incompetent to present such things to others. They have not been anointed or ordained of the Lord to preach.

On the other hand, many of the Lord's people, misled by the human distinctions between clergy and laity and the privileges and limitations accorded to these by Churchianity, fail to recognize that they are ordained to preach, and that unless they are continually preaching they are failing to accomplish the Divine will—failing to fulfil the ordination which was granted them of the Lord when they received the anointing of the Holy Spirit.

This does not mean, however, that all who are anointed of the Holy Spirit are appointed of the Lord to preach in the same manner, for, as the Apostle explains, we have gifts differing one from another, and, as our Lord's parable explains, we have talents differing one from another, and our opportunities in life are among these talents. For instance, some may have the talent for presenting the Divine message of mercy and truth in a private manner, and may be very effective in their ministries, in their service; others may have the talents and opportunities for more public service. The sisters, for instance, are not scripturally authorized to engage in the more public functions of preaching, but they, nevertheless, have glorious opportunities in a more private way of showing forth the praises of Him who has called us from darkness into His marvelous light and who has anointed us to preach, to declare, to make known the good tidings.

Well did the Master say that those hungering and thirsting for righteousness should come to Him if they would be filled. This is the class described by the Psalmist. In the context he likens himself to an antelope, famished for water and seeking a spring. He declares, "My soul thirsteth for God, for the living God"; yet he was misunderstood, his opponents pointed to the waves of trouble which rapidly buried him, and they said, "Where is thy God?" If, as you say, you are His servant, His child, surely He would not permit adversities to cross your way.

But the Psalmist continued to hope; and all true Christians, whom he typically represented, have continued to trust, continued to sing songs of thanksgiving in the night, continued to wait for the morning of the New Dispensation, very early in which will come their own resurrection change. So the Prophet said, "When shall I come and appear before God?" and again, "I shall be satisfied when I awake in Thy likeness."

St. David's experiences were not only profitable to himself, but they were typical—illustrative of the experiences of Messiah—Jesus, the Head, and the Church, His Body. For nearly nineteen centuries the waves of adversity have been overwhelming the Lord's Anointed—first the Head, and since, His Members, each in his turn. St. Paul tells us the value of these tribulations. Of our Lord he says, "Yet He learned obedience by the things which He suffered"; "He humbled Himself unto death, even the death of the cross; wherefore God also hath highly exalted Him"—to the heavenly glory and divine nature.

God has made similar promises to the Church: "If we suffer with Him, we shall also reign with Him." If it was necessary that Jesus should suffer before entering into His glory, assuredly it will be necessary for all those who constitute His glorious Bride class to demonstrate their love and loyalty by suffering for righteousness' sake before they can enter into glory with Him—before "the marriage of the Lamb."

Although the present time is the judgment day or trial day for the spirit begotten, the new creation only, nevertheless, the effects of the reign of Sin and Death and the waves of sorrow and trouble are not confined to the Church. Although God's children receive extra waves of trouble as part of their special training, the world has a heavy load, too. St. Paul speaks of the groaning creation and we can readily understand why the world's fewer waves of trouble are much more troublesome than the many of the Christian. Those Divine providences teach the Christian his lessons in the night. When he passes through deep waters the Lord is with him. The chastening of his soul brings peace and joy and increasing faith and love.

None of these ameliorating conditions are possible to the world. Our Lord's invitation, "Come unto Me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest," is open, of course, to all who have the ear of understanding to hear, and the responsive conditions of heart; but the great mass hear not, neither do they understand. Alas! poor world, you should have the sympathy of every Christian and not his imprecations and threats of further and eternal torture in the future. The world is surely losing the great "prize of the high calling" which the Church will obtain. It deserves sympathy in respect to this loss; and as our eyes open to see the true Plan of God, we may give to the world the message of God's Word—"Good tidings of great joy, which shall be unto all people."—Luke ii, 10.

The lessons taught by the present reign of Sin and Death, sorrow and pain, are heart-breaking. God represents man as originally created in His own likeness and of tender sympathy—tender-hearted. Sin, depravity, selfishness, have gradually hardened men's hearts, some more and some less. The coming Age of Messiah's Kingdom is declared to be a time for the taking away of the stony heart from mankind and giving back instead hearts of flesh.—Jeremiah xxxi, 32.

Meantime the trials and difficulties of life are heart-breaking to all who are still tender-hearted. The message of the Gospel is for this class, weary, the heart-broken, the discouraged, those not satisfied with the rewards of sin and selfishness, but hungering and thirsting after righteousness—satisfied only with the glorious hopes of the future set forth in God's Word, which they grasp with the arms of faith.

The Lord, through the Prophet, tells us that the Gospel message is to this tender-hearted, broken-hearted class, at the present time; and each, as his own heart is healed with the Divine blessing, becomes the authorized and qualified agent for the seeking out of other heart-broken ones and the binding up of their hearts with the promises of God. Thus we read of the Divine commission to Christ, the Head, and the Church, His Body: "The spirit of the Lord God is upon Me, for He hath sent Me to preach the Good Tidings to the meek, and to bind up the broken hearted."—Isaiah lxi, 1.

Our present mission, then, is not that of heart breaking! The stony-hearted are doing that work continually. Our mission is to lay down life itself in assisting all the broken-hearted to a true knowledge of God and a true appreciation of His Plan for the Church, and His subsequent Plan for the world. We, then, as ambassadors for God, beseech men to be reconciled to God and to come into harmony with him. But even though our words be scattered broadcast we know that only the tender-hearted and broken-hearted are likely to hear and to respond. The message once confined to the Jews, as God's "chosen people," is no longer confined to them. It was to the Jew first, now equally to the Gentiles: "He that hath an ear to hear, let him hear."

Those who have not the ear cannot hear this message, even though the sound thereof has gone out into all the earth, and the words of the message to the ends of the earth. In due time, during Messiah's Kingdom, all the blind eyes will be opened and all the deaf ears will be unstopped, and the knowledge of God shall be world-wide and ocean-deep. But not yet! So long as Satan rules in this world he will blind the minds of those who believe not, in order to hinder the true light from shining into their souls. God has permitted him success in respect to the world; because the Divine message at the present time is intended only for the special class who hunger and thirst after righteousness. These are called with the message, "Gather My saints unto Me, saith the Lord, those who have made a covenant with Me by sacrifice."

We have seen that the Church's present mission is merely to gather from the world the broken-hearted class, which hears and responds to the Divine message. Thus the present work of the Church is merely to complete her own numbers—to gather in a sufficient number to complete the elect Church. So the Scriptures declare that in the end of this age shall come the union of the Church with her Lord, by the power of the First Resurrection: "The marriage of the Lamb has come, for His Wife hath made herself ready." The work of the Church is not only to find a sufficient number of humanity willing and glad to walk in Jesus' footsteps, but also to instruct these, building them up in the most holy faith and preparing them for the glorious consummation, and for their future work.

The future state of the Church will be devoid of waves of trouble, trials, sorrows and tears. Her triumph will come; she shall enter into the joys of her Lord and hear the Bridegroom's voice, saying, "Well done, good and faithful!" But the joys of the Lord upon which she will enter will be a career of usefulness for a thousand years. She will be with her Lord, and engage with Him in the world's enlightenment, and in their uplifting by restitution to all that was lost in Eden and redeemed at Calvary.

Free grace will then be proclaimed: "Whosoever will may come, and take of the Water of Life freely." And everyone drinking may say, "Come," to others. The whole world will be filled with the knowledge of the glory of God, and the whole world may join in acclaiming, "Glory, honor, dominion and might and power be to Him that sitteth upon the Throne, and to the Lamb, forever." The whole world of mankind will be blest with the opportunities of this glorious Epoch, in which all the willing and obedient may attain full perfection and Divine favor, while all who refuse the Divine favor will be totally destroyed in the Second Death.—II. Peter ii, 12.

AN APPEAL TO PORT HOPERS

Port Hope Guide, 16th Nov.

Merchants are receiving mail from Spain these days and on perusing the contents they learn that the communications are from "Alexander Sadrowsky," who, it is alleged, is a Russian banker, imprisoned in a Spanish prison. As will be seen by the letter an "appeal" has been made for assistance in order to save the fortune of the imprisoned man, and incidentally that of his "darling daughter."

The proposition is a fake, pure and simple—a frame-up in order to try and hoodwink the recipient to giving the "banker" assistance.

Residents of other centres have, from time to time, been appealed to by this glib-tongued sharper, who certainly pays a poor tribute to the intelligence of Canadians when he imagines that he can work them by such flimflamming methods.

The letter is as follows:

"Dear Sir,—Although I know you only from good reference of your honesty, my sad situation compels me to reveal to you an important affair, in which you can secure a modern fortune, saving at the same time that of my darling daughter.

"Before being imprisoned here I was established as a banker in Russia, as you will see by enclosed article, about me, of many English newspapers, which have published my arrest in London.

"I beseech you to help to obtain a sum of $480,000 I have in America, and to come her to raise the seizure of my baggage, paying to the Registrar of the Court the expenses of my trial and recover my portmanteau containing a secret pocket where I have hidden the document indispensable to recover the said sum.

"As a reward I will give up to you the third part, viz., 160,000 dollars.

"I cannot receive your answer in the prison, but you must send a cablegram to a person of my confidence, who will deliver it to me.

"Awaiting your cable to instruct you in all my secret,—I am, sir,

Yours truly,

"Sadrowsky.

"Direct answer by cable, not by letter, as follows: 'Segundo Peados, Calle Pasion, 11 principal, Valladolid (Spain), Per. Sparling.'"

Domestic Hints

Linseed oil well rubber into oilcloth will make it last twice as long. Wipe it off well, and let it dry thoroughly before using.

Nothing is better than good mutton tallow for softening hands which have become rough or hard from their contact with water.

When shampooing never rub the soap directly on the hair, as it gums and is almost impossible to rub or rinse off. Always have the soap in some liquid form.

Gold is the best conductor of heat, but stands second as a conductor of electricity. Copper is the best conductor of electricity, but stands fourth as conductor of heat.

To clean matting sweep it thoroughly with a stiff broom, following carefully the grain of the straw, then heat a soft broom in warm water and brush across the grain; finally wash the matting with warm water in which a handful of salt has been dissolved. If light in colour borax will aid in brightening and preserving the shade.

"The Liver Pills act So Naturally and Easily."

Such a statement, coming from the cashier of a bank, shows what confidence responsible people have in these pills. Mr. A. L. Wilson after trying them wrote:

"I have used Dr. Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills and also your Anti-Pain Pills, on myself, with good results. The Liver Pills act so naturally and so easily that I scarcely know that I have taken a pill. Frequently being troubled with headache I take an Anti-Pain Pill and get immediate relief in every case."

A. L. Wilson, Sparta, Ill.

Mr. Wilson was for a number of years cashier of the First National Bank of Sparta.

Dr. Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills are different from others. Many kinds of liver pills are "impossible" after one trial on account of their harshness. Dr. Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills do not act by sheer force but in an easy, natural way, without griping or undue irritation. They are not habit forming.

A bottle, would I be without Polson's Nerviline," write J. A. Ruth, a farmer living near Trenton, Ont. "Nerviline is the best household liniment I know. We use it for stomach troubles, indigestion, headache, and Summer complaint. I know of nothing better to take in hot water to break up a cold, or to rub on for rheumatism or neuralgia." Every farmer should keep a few bottles of Nerviline handy, and have smaller doctor bills.

Have Only Five Jurors.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 20.—The sixth court week of the McNamara trial closed yesterday with five sworn jurors and one provisionally accepted. The prediction of Attorney Clarence S. Darrow, chief counsel for J. B. McNamara, that Jan 1. 1912, would see a jury to try his client for the alleged murder of Chas. J. Haggerty, one of the 21 victims of The Los Angeles' Times explosion and fire a year ago, may not come true.

Fourteen jurors finally will be sworn, two acting as supply jurors in case members of the original panel should become incapacitated. Nevertheless it is hoped that the early weeks in January will see a complete jury.

Saturday's arrival in the jury box is J. H. Marshall, a hardware salesman. As he is nearly assured of a peremptory challenge by the defence, his acquisition was not held to be any great step in the process of jury getting. Fred. D. Mayer, the only other man examined, was on the stand when court adjourned. Indications were that he would not be on the final jury.

Another venire, the ninth, was drawn Saturday. The number of names was increased from 40 to 50, and the veniremen were instructed to appear in court this morning.

Eighteen Miners Killed.

Vivian, W. Va., Nov. 20.—Eighteen men were killed in a coal dust explosion, which occurred yesterday in the Bottom Creek Mine of the Bottom Creek Coal Co. at this place. Over 150 men were in the mine at the time of the explosion, but all escaped excepting eighteen of twenty-two who were in the explosion zone. Four of these were rescued alive.

Among the men killed were Engineers W. H. Henderson of Rockville, Md.; E. H. Hervey of Philadelphia; Marvin Williams, of Keystone, W.Va.; and Charles Brewer, of Elkhorn, W. Va., who were in a party of five, making a semi-annual survey of the mine. Alex. Williams, the fifth engineer, was saved. The others killed were negroes or foreigners.

Killed by Gas Explosion.

New York, Nov. 20.—A triple explosion of gas pent up beneath the pavement of a crowded street in the downtown section of Brooklyn, resulted in the killing Friday night of a 13-year-old boy, Joseph Kaiser, and the injury of seven other persons, four of them children, of whom one, Donald Fitzgerald, was removed to the hospital in a serious condition from burns. The Kaiser boy was killed by a falling cobblestone.

Debate on Speech.

Ottawa, Nov. 20.—The debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne will begin to-day. The reply will be moved by R. B. Bennett of Calgary, seconded in French by Arthur Sevigny of Dorchester.

The debate may not be of long duration, although rumors of some sort of amendment on the subject of the navy have been floating about. The Liberals have not yet met in caucus and have not formally subscribed to a line of policy to be followed in the debate. A Ministerial caucus will be held to-morrow.

To Fight Decree.

Ottawa, Nov. 20.—E. A. Lancaster's bill to amend the marriage act is a direct legislative effort to overcome the ne temere decree The Lincoln member proposes to amend chapter 105 of the revised statutes of 1906 by adding two sections as follows:

"Every ceremony or form of marriage heretofore or hereafter performed by any person authorized to perform any ceremony of marriage by the laws of the place, where it is performed, and duly performed according to such laws, shall everywhere within Canada be deemed to be a valid marriage notwithstanding any differences in the religious faith of the persons so married, and without regard to the religion of the person performing the ceremony.

"The rights and duties of the respective persons married as aforesaid as married people, and of the children of such marriage shall be absolute and complete, and no law or canonical decree or custom of or in any province of Canada shall have any force or effect to invalidate or qualify any such marriage or any of the rights of the said parties or their children in any manner whatsoever."

Drowned In Thames.

Chatham, Nov. 20.—Returning from a dance in Raleigh, Harry McQueen, aged 27, of Dover Township, was drowned in the Thames River shortly after midnight about eleven miles below this city. With his brother, Grant, young McQueen attempted to cross the river in a flat-bottomed boat. The boat commenced to leak and both occupants becoming frightened jumped into the river. Grant after a hard struggle reached the shore, when he found that the other brother impeded by heavy overcoat had gone to the bottom. The body has not yet been recovered.

MARKET REPORTS.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Higher—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 13.—There were further signs of congestion in December, which at the opening was 1-2d higher, while the other months were 1-8d lower. Shorts covered in December on the firmness in America, while the distant months were under pressure of realizing due to the decline in Buenos Ayres yesterday at the opening and also the lower closing with favorable weather there. During the morning there was heavy covering by shorts, particularly in December, and the entire markets was influenced upward with offerings light and prices advanced 1-2d to 5-8d. The forecast is for light shipments to Europe this week, indicated lighter American shipments as shown by Bradstreets, no pressure of Plate offerings and an increasing demand for forward shipments. Spot markets were all 1-2d higher with cargoes in better demand and more firmly held. The poor quality of Canadian crop and some unfavorable reports from Argentine tend to keep shorts nervous. At the close the market was very firm, December 1 1-8d higher and otherwise 1-4d to 3-8d higher.

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—Efforts of a group of commission houses to undo a big spread made wheat shorts anxious to-day and forced the market up. The close was ¼c to ⅝c to ⅞c higher than last night. Corn finished a shade to ⅛c to ¼c down, oats off 1-16c to ⅛c, and provisions at 5c to 12½c decline.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Nov. 13.—There was a large demand from foreign buyers for all grades of Manitoba spring wheat, there being orders in the market for over 500,000 bushels. Cables were strong with bid prices 3d to 6d per quarter higher, but the volume of business done was small owing to the fact that exporters found it impossible to buy wheat in the west and besides even at the above advance in prices they were 1½c to 2c per bushel below the actual cost of Nos. 1, 2 and 3 laid down here. In oats the feeling was firmer and there was more enquiry for round lots to arrive. American corn is stronger and prices have advanced 1c per bushel. A fairly good trade was done in all grades of flour. Millfeed is active and firm. Demand for cheese is quiet. Receipts for the week were 23,604 boxes, against 23,431 a year ago. Butter is fairly active and strong. Receipts for the week were 6761 packages, against 1623 a year ago. Eggs, firm and fairly active. Receipts for the week were 4251 cases, against 2233 a year ago. Household Hints.

Much time and labor will be saved if the kitchen table is kept covered with oilcloth.

Paint your tin wash basins on the inside with a good white enamel paint if you would prolong their usefulness.

A feather brush is the best to remove dust from gilt picture frames. On no account use a linen cloth, as it wears the gilt off and deadens its brightness.

Washing lamp chimneys by immersing them in hot water makes them very brittle. A safer way to clean them is to hold them over the steam of a teakettle and polish with an old soft linen cloth.

He Only Touched Their Hearts.

The poet sang a tuneful lay in accents sweet and clear,
And people paused in many lands the melody to hear.
They heard him sing of love and life, of death and cruel wrongs.
They loved the poet; but, alas, they never bought his songs!

PETERBOROUGH MONDAY NOVEMBER 20 1911

THE WORKINGMAN'S RIGHTS IN FRONT, THAT IS THEIR PLACE SAYS MR. HALL

The Saturday Night Rally Shows its Interest in the Workman's Compensation Act---Mr. Stratton and the Candidate Discuss the Power Question.

The rally in R. R. Hall's committee rooms caught a good part of the Saturday night crowd. There were many workingmen present, and they were naturally interested in Mr. Hall's stand on the Workman's Compensation Act, which is the chief plank in his platform. The Workman's Compensation Act, as Mr. Hall and his supporters want it, was cheered to the echo.

Chairman Hartley failed to see why a Compensation Act, based on Mr. Hall's ideas, should not be popular with everybody.

"It doesn't affect the manufacturers," said Mr. Hartley, "because most of the manufacturers insure their men against accidents. So that it's the insurance company, and not the manufacturer, that the workingman has to fight when he wants to collect damages. I don't think you'll ever get a Workman's Compensation Act from the Whitney government that will recompense the injured workman fully and immediately. Sir James Whitney isn't fond of the labouring man or the labour party. I notice that he has issued an edict to the effect that Allan Studholme, the workingman's candidate in Hamilton, must be defeated at all costs. That one act classmes Sir James Whitney. He is not the workingman's friend."

"The workingman," said Mr. Hartley, "is no fool. He can see who is working in his interest and who is not. What the Whitney government needs—failing its defeat—is a strong Opposition that will goad it into humanitarian measures for the good of the common people. Mr. Hall is standing by the workingman and the workingman should stand by him."

Why Mr. Hall Champions Labour.

"About that Whitney edict beheading Allan Studholme," said Mr. Hall, plunging into the uppermost topic, "I observe that the Lord High Executioner, Sir Uames, says "Allan Studholme must be defeated." The labour party says, "Allan Studholme, in the interests of the workingman, must be elected!" What words could make clearer, first Sir James Whitney's attitude toward the labour party, second the attitude of the labour party toward the Whitney government. One of the things Allan Studholme is to suffer political death for, is this Workman's Compensation Act, in which his ideas are identically the same as mine."

"Why," someone asks, "do you seek entrance to that big county council called the Legislature, in Toronto, after four years' experience of the real thing at Ottawa?" "Let me tell you," said Mr. Hall, "that that big county council, as they call it, rules and regulates most of the things that vitally and directly affect the people—civil rights, education, chartered institutions, Factories' Act, Workmans' Compensation Act, and many others."

"If you had been obliged as often as I have been within the last seven years to tell maimed men and women that the laws of Ontario cannot be trusted to give them any money relief for their crushed limbs and lacerated flesh, you too, might be interested in what could be done for the workingman in the Ontario Legislature. It's a very small and stony heart, indeed, that feels no pangs for the workingman's patent wrongs. If there is any softness in my heart, the injured workingman is going to get the benefit of it.

"I want to keep this issue always before you," said Mr. Hall. "It is of paramount importance. When a piece of machinery breaks, the employer repairs it. When a human being is broken in his factory, he is thrown out on the street without repairs and without money. We are, under Providence, going to make the employer as keen to save human life as he is now to save buildings and plant. I'm not going to quit until we have on the statute book a humane, broad-spirited Workman's Compensation Act, which will be a credit to Ontario instead of a disgrace."

The Water Power Bluff.

"I notice," said Mr. Hall, "that they are using the hydro-electric question to draw your minds away from the Workman's Compensation Act and other live issues. The majority of the City Council and Mr. Peck seem to be quite willing to figure as a tail to Adam Beck's kite for campaign purposes."

"The deputation to Ottawa," went on Mr. Hall, "and the hot air from the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, are a dazzling bluff. There is no reason to believe that they'll do anything different with Peterborough's power from what they did six years ago."

"It was then that Cecil B. Smith, acting for the Hydro-Electric Commission, of which he was at that time chief engineer, examined and reported on the water powers in the Trent Valley district. He showed that there was 43,000 horse power altogether between Hastings and Trenton, of which only 4,000 was developed. He recommended that all the power should be developed by the Hydro-Electric Commission, because it could be done more economically that way than by several independent companies."

"What did the Whitney government do with Cecil B. Smith's report?" asked Mr. Hall. "What did they do with this fine chance to string transmission lines and supply every town and village between Orillia and Kingston with light and power? What did they do with the opportunity to provide for Eastern Ontario as they had done for Western Ontario and the Niagara Peninsula? What did they do with the chance Cecil B. Smith shoved up to them—the chance to do big business and cut a wide swath at the same time. They did nothing—that's the answer.

"After that," continued Mr. Hall, "private enterprise came in and spent $4,000,000 on the Hydro-Electric's neglected opportunities, and now at the heal of the hunt, the Whitney government comes in proposing to reap where it has not sown. But it's all a bluff—a bluff for campaign purposes. When the election is over this precious scheme will go to sleep again for another four years. It will be dead as Queen Anne until Mr. Peck or Adam Beck or somebody else wakes it up to catch votes.

Bringing Coals to Newcastle.

"They talk of bringing Hydro-Electric power to Peterborough," said Mr. Hall. "What are they going to do with it? All the big power users have their own power now. They talk of using Dam No. 4. They are equal to any high-handed act. They have been chided before now by their own Toronto News, for rough-shod confiscation of vested interests, as un-British, dishonourable and indecent. But supposing they do take Dam No. 4, how much does Peterborough gain? I say they are welcome to Dam No. 4. At present Dam No. 5 actually develops 1100 horse power. Under a separate head Dam No. 4 is capable of developing 1100 horse power, but Dams No. 4 and 5 under one head would develop 4000 horse power. Under the Hydro-Electric scheme, therefore, Peterborough stands to lose on the two dams, just 1900 horse power.

Feeling the Taxpayer.

"What kind of bargain is that," asked Mr. Hall. "Don't you be led away by their wild-cat schemes, until they can show you that they are doing it in our interest, and also just how far Peterborough is going to be saddled with debentures to finance their gold and purple dreams."

"Who'll pay the interest on the money," asked a voice in the audience.

"Oh," answered Mr. Hall, "they'll add it some way or other to the Peterborough tax payers' bills. They'll probably do as they are doing in Western Ontario, where they are adding the deficits to the capital expenditure instead of paying them out of current provincial revenue in an honest, open way. But a pay day comes, when Peterborough will be saddled with the responsibility just the same."

"My connection with the Otonabee Power Co. has been mentioned," said Mr. Hall. "When the Otonabee Power Company came into the field there were 500 householders using electric light in Peterborough, and the price made it a luxury. Now there are 4,000 and the price puts it within the reach of every mechanic and workingman. There is no town in the world of the size of Peterborough that is as well lit or has more homes lighted in proportion to population. Anything I have done in any power company has added to the beauty, attractiveness and commercial success of Peterborough."

Radial Railways and the Cost of Living.

"Water powers," said Mr. Hall, "lead naturally to radial railways. In a county studded with water powers as this is, it is a calamity that we haven't more radial railways. All this water that might be turned into silver and gold is flowing, flowing, flowing away forever.

"It is to remedy this waste," Mr. Hall continued, "that I have a plank in my platform urging provincial aid to radial railways. The government will be secured by a lien on the radials lines and plant and the radials can pay back the principal when they reach a dividend footing."

"What a splendid route for a radial would be from Peterborough, up through Smith to Young's Point, to Buckhorn back by the way of Chemong to Peterborough. See how it would help the farmer, by providing him with a cheap haul over a convenient radial. He would be able to come to town and transact his business and be home, at the most remote point, within three or four hours. He would have a comfortable and rapid ride and would save wagon tires and horse flesh. Reaching market more inexpensively, he would be able to sell for less ,and the cost of town living would go down."

"Not to mention the fact," added Mr. Hall, "that radials increase the value of the farm, the earning power of the farmer and the attractiveness of country life.

Playing the Long Shots.

Mr. Hall discussed Sir James Whitney's attitude towards tax reform and primary education.

"The Whitney government," said Mr. Hall, "contributes $150 a head to every student in Toronto Univer'y, but only $3 a head for every Public school pupil in the villages, towns and cities of Ontario. The Whitney government, in other words, makes the workingman's son or daughter take a 150 to 1 shot in the Public schools about the same way as the Workman's Compensation Act makes him take the same chances in a factory."

Hon. J. R. Stratton, fresh from his triumphant Farmers Bank vindication, was greeted with hearty cheers.

"I always told you," he said, "that there was nothing to it. In spite of the bad wishes of some of our opponents, I am still at large and at liberty to assist my good friend Mr. Hall in his championship of popular rights."

"I notice that the City Council has been geting a move on. They went down to Ottawa at your expense, the other day and tailed in after Adam Beck and Mr. Peck to ask favours of Mr. Cochrane. The plan, I believe, is to give Peterborough—also at Peterborough's own expense—Dam No. 4 and Dam No. 5."

A Pig in a Poke.

"If I were you," Mr. Stratton continued, "I wouldn't be bothered with Dam No. 4. It only produces 1,000 horse power. I'd take Dam No. 8. I had a good arrangement—and Peterborough will never get a better one—with Hon. George Graham, the Minister of Railways, in the late administration, by which Peterborough would have had five hundred horse power free for house and street lighting, which ever way the city desired to apply it. That arrangeemnt would have gone through if the Laurier government had been sustained. But the electors had another bee in their bonnet and the good intention got no chance of blossoming. The City Council and the present member for West Peterborough can get no such arrangement as that from the government now at Ottawa. They dont' know how."

"The present bluff by Messrs. Cochrane, Beck, Peck and sundry other vote catchers," said Mr. Stratton, "will result in the same conditions existing next year as now. Nothing will be done. Mr. Hall has told you what the government did with its hydro-electric opportunity for Eastern Ontario six years ago. They will do the same again. They make one grand stand play every election and then they lose the ball."

Look Before You Leap.

"Don't let them pull the wool over your eyes," Mr. Stratton advised. "Don't get carried away by Adam Beck's talk. It's all talk. The government has too much trouble on its hands with the Hydro-Electric in Western Ontario now to be sincere in its efforts to take on any more. If Peterborough requires, 2,000 horse power more, she can get it, and at a fair price. The price is not regulated by the power companies, but by the Railway Commission, headed by Judge Mabee, whoe decisions have always been on the side of the people.

"Besides," continued Mr. Stratton, $1 or $2 extra for horse power doesn't cut any figure with the manufacturers. It is location, factory sites, reasonable exemptions, railway facilities and comfortable conditions for the workingman that are the big factors. Don't mortgage your homes for the development of power which the manufacturers can get whenever they want it. To do business and get industries the City Council should be more alert in providing suitable sites and urging the advantages of Peterborough upon manufacturers who are looking around."

An Arm Chair Patriot.

"Mr. Peck is a very decent fellow," said Mr. Stratton, "but he is one of those arm chair patriots, who cheer the volunteers off to the wars, but do no fighting themselves. If he has made no mistakes, it is because he has done nothing. Mr. Peck will see the other fellow spend money and take risks, but he sits tight himself. It is all very well for Mr. Peck, the Review and others, to find fault and disparage the work and efforts of an enterprising citizen like Mr. Hall. But there's no one can show that Mr. Hall in all his promotions, did not have at heart the success of his undertakings and the interests of the city. Those who are now endeavouring to cold blanket Mr. Hall, are just those who never stirred a finger to advance or promote anything."

Artful Dodging Versus Plain Speaking

"Mr. Peck's address to the electors," said Mr. Stratton, "is what the Chinese laundryman calls wishy washy. It says nothing. It dodges everything. You can't nail him down to any one statement. He merely promises to do as much as the great autocrat, Sir James Whitney will let him. If he goes beyond that Sir James will tell him, as he did the member for Ottawa, with his tax reform bill—to go away back and sit down. And Mr. Peck will go. He can't do any more than Sir James could do, and Sir James doesn't promise to do anything."

"On the other hand," said Mr. Stratton, "Mr. Hall's address is strong, definite and to the point. He means what he says, and says what he means. He says that no matter which side of the House he sits on, he will stand by his platform and will not quit urging until the reforms he advocates become law. There can be no reasonable objection to compensation being allowed to the workingman in proportion to the injury sustained; there can be no objection to an effective Factories' Act that will promote the health and welfare of employees. Everybody in Ontario is anxious to have his children taught English in the schools. Provincial aid to radial railways is a highly desirable policy. Radial railways, under certain conditions, are nowadays just as necessary as a trunk line of railways. The platform Mr. Hall presents to Peterborough, and pledges himself to support, is probably the most advanced, the most original and the most definite platform presented by any candidate in Ontario. So far as I am concerned, I am heartily in accord with Mr. Hall, in the advanced position he is taking.

"The Peterborough workingman, in this campaign, has the chance of his life to help himself by helping Mr. Hall with his vote and influence."

The meeting closed with cheers for the King and the candidate.

President of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition, Who Died Very Suddenly at His Home on Saturday Night.

CHICAGO, NOV. 20.—Speaking before a Sunday night audience here on the subject: "The Man and the Crowd," Rev. Dr. J. A. Macdonald of Toronto used Canada as an illustration, saying the voters were swayed by the unintelligent emotion of the crowd when they rejected reciprocity. He said Canada had now returned to sober thinking and was sorry she rejected reciprocity and also in a repentant mood about it.

ELECTION STATISTICS

Special Wire to The Examiner.

OTTAWA, NOV. 20.—Returns published to-day by the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery, indicate that a million and a quarter votes were cast at the last election and that the Conservatives had a popular majority of forty-three thousand, three hundred and eighty-three. The Liberals had a majority of the popular vote in all the provinces except Ontario, Manitoba and Prince Edward Island.

SIR WILFRID CELEBRATES HIS SEVENTIETH BIRTHDAY TO-DAY

Liberal Chieftain Spends Morning Reading Showers of Letters, Cablegrams and Telegrams of Congratulation---Will Receive an Enthusiastic Welcome in House of Commons This Afternoon.

Special Wire to the Examiner.

OTTAWA, NOV. 20.— Sir Wilfrid Laurier celebrated his seventieth birthday, rising bright and early, by devoting this morning to the reading of showers of letters, cablegrams and telegrams with which he was literally bombarded, including cables from King George, President Failleries of France, President Taft and other notables. The chief was in finest spirits and in glowing health. It is probable that he will move an amendment to the address from the throne, possibly in regard to the navy, but this is not yet definitely decided. After the mover, R. P. Bennett, of Calgary, and seconder, Arthur Sevigny of Dorchester, will come Sir Wilfrid, who will be followed by Premier Borden, after which either Dr. Pugsley, Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux or Hon. Charles Murphy will continue the debate. It is not likely that the debate will end before Thursday.

Sir Wilfrid's entrance into the Commons chamber this afternoon will be marked by great demonstration. His desk will be covered with flowers, and the Liberals will make the roof ring with their cheers as they greet their leader. The formal celebration of the birthday will be deferred until Wednesday evening, when the Liberals, Senators and members will entertain Sir Wilfrid at a banquet in the Parliament restaurant. There are rumours that there may be some sort of a financial presentation, but the point has not yet been definitely settled. The presentation may take that form, or it may be in the shape of a similar gift for Lady Laurier.

The Conservatives have called their first caucus for to-morrow, but the Liberals have not yet convened their caucus. They will probably wait to see how circumstances develop and take time to see where the most vulnerable points are in their opponents' armour.

JEWELS FOR DURBAR STOLEN IN BOLD TRAIN ROBBERY

Examiner Special:

PARIS, NOV. 20.— The committing of one of the most daring mail robberies in the history of the European police, was revealed this morning, when it was found that the mail train going sixty miles an hour to Brindisi was robbed of some hundred thousand dollars worth of money and valuables destined for India to be used in the Durbar festivities. It is believed that the robbers secreted themselves on the top of the train when it was leaving Paris station, entered by the window, chloroformed the mail clerks and dropped off when the train slowed down. Included in the loot were some valuable jewels forgotten by King George and Queen Mary's party, and being rushed overland.

"THE REJUVENATION OF AUNT MARY" WEDNESDAY NIGHT

If you wish to spend a thoroughly enjoyable two hours or so, be sure and attend the Opera House on Wednesday evening, when "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary," will be presented by May Robson. She is now numbered as one of the best American comediennes ever produced before a cultivated audience in a London theatre. It was an odd type of character as given by Miss Robson, one of a class found in the New England States, and nowhere else, and yet this genuine actress, with an alert apprehension of humour, ease and fluency, presents the eccentric old lady so vividly that the majority of the audience recognizes the special type, as the counterpart even exists in Peterborough. The situations and the incidents developing them are very funny and yet consistent and entertaining."

"NE TEMERE" CASE HAS BEEN DROPPED BY HEBERT

MONTREAL, NOV. 20.—That it will be practically impossible to test the validity of the Ne Temere decree before the Privy Council by the continuation of the famous Hebert-Cloutre case, was evidenced this morning when Hebert withdrew because he said he had no funds to carry it further, being unable to get guarantee expenses from organizations especially interested. This leaves the situation, "Are mixed marriages legal under law, but adjudged and held illegal by Roman Catholic church?"

SUDDEN DEATH

Mr. R. H. Leary Well-known President of Peterboro Industrial Exhibition Dies From Heart Failure

SHOCK TO THE CITY

Mr. Robert H. Leary, president of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition, and one of the best known and most popular residents of Peterborough passed away from heart disease with startling suddenness, at his home, 189 McDonnell street, shortly after 10 o'clock Saturday evening. Apparently, in his usual good health, throughout the day and early evening, Mr. Leary had been about as usual attending to his business affairs. In the afternoon, he had shipped a carload of horses to Toronto, where they were to have been sold to-day, and in the evening he attended an informal meeting of the Exhibition directors in R. Dame's store. Returning to his home shortly before 10 o'clock, Mr. Leary found that the other members of the household had retired, and announced his intention of reading for a while, as he thought it was too early to go to bed. He inquired as to where he would find the evening papers, and went to the dining room. A few minutes later the family were startled by a strange noise downstairs and on going down found Mr. Leary in his arm-chair, dead. Medical assistance was immediately summoned, but nothing could be done.

The sad news spread quickly throughout the city, and was a terrible shock to everyone. Mr. Leary was such a familiar figure and was apparently, in such robust health, that the announcement of his sudden taking-off caused astonishment and grief everywhere. Few citizens of Peterborough were better known or more liked than the deceased, whose frank, jovial, affable disposition, whose anxiety to do everything in his power for his friends, whose energetic and sincere efforts in anything he took hold of, had earned him the liking and respect of everyone who knew him.

The late Robert H. Leary was born in Peterborough, in 1861, and was the son of the late Christopher Leary, who passed away at an advanced age, several years ago. Sometime after the birth of the deceased the family moved to North Monaghan, where they resided for a considerable time, afterwards taking up residence in Minden. When Mr. Leary was married to Miss Rose W. Wright, of Cobourg, he took up a farm in the Township of Emily, where he lived for about eighteen months. He then purchased the livery business on Water street, now carried on by Mr. R. Gibbs, and returned to Peterborough some eighteen years ago. He had since been a resident of this city.

Mr. Leary met the Scriptural requirement — "diligent in business". He was an energetic and successful business man. But he found inclination and time to be a public-spirited citizen, in a most practical way, taking especial interest in the promotion of the welfare of agriculture. At the time of his death he was President of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition Board. When he undertook the presidency, three years ago, the affairs of the Society were at so low an ebb that the presidency was an honour that was not greatly sought. But Mr. Leary took the responsibility of the position, and by dint of energy and prudent enthusiasm, set the Exhibition upon its feet and he leaves it flourishing, with its affairs in good condition, and with a hopeful outlook. Very few, except those internally connected with the Exhibition, can appreciate how much it and the interests it represents, owe to his initiative and exertions. Mr. Leary's other affiliations with public and semi-public interests included membership in the Canadian Club, and two years' creditable connection with the City Council, as Alderman. He had a lively interest in military matters, and until about a year ago held a commission as Lieutenant in the 24th Battery of Canadian Field Artillery.

Since retiring from the livery business, Mr. Leary had been dealing in horses on a large scale, and his activities in this respect had brought him into touch with affairs in Western Canada, which he visited several times each year. As a result he was interested to a considerable extent in real estate in Saskatoon and other western centres.

In politics, Mr. Leary was an ardent Liberal, taking an active part in the promotion of the interests Liberalism represents. He was an Anglican in religion and a member of St. Luke's congregation. His public spirit and active business career and associations with the promotion of public interests, gave him a wide circle of acquaintanceship, and to the many that knew him, only to respect and esteem him in all the capacities of citizenship, the intelligence of Mr. Leary's sudden death will bring deep regret.

Mr. Leary is survived by his wife and one daughter, Miss Katie, residing at home. Four brothers are left to mourn his loss: Mr. Chas. Leary, of Banning, Cal.; Mr. Thos. Leary, of Corpus Christi, Texas; Mr. Daniel Leary, of San Antione, Texas; and Mr. John Leary of Cheyenne, Oklahoma.

The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon. There will be a service at the house at 2.30, after which the funeral cortege will proceed to the Little Lake Cemetery for interment. The Rev. F. J. Sawers will officiate.

SIR WILFRID'S BIRTHDAY.

This day, Nov. 20th, seventy years ago, Sir Wilfrid Laurier was born at St. Lin, Quebec. He entered the world of action as a lawyer, in 1860, graduating from McGill University. During his early professional life he qualified himself for the career of greatness that has made his name "familiar in our mouths, as household words, throughout the English-speaking world by editing and writing for newspapers. He entered politics in 1871, and has given forty faithful years of service to the Canada he loves so well. He is still very much in politics; still with his harness on his back, and his back to the wall, dauntlessly facing duty as leader of His Majesty's Liberal Opposition. He is still in the thick of the political fight; in fact, Sir Wilfrid would rather fight than eat. His political friends at Ottawa wanted to give him a birthday dinner to-day, but the Chief preferred to spend the day in fighting. The debate on the address is on this afternoon, and Sir Wilfrid wants to be on hand to return the blows that will be dealt by the mover and seconder of the address. This is characteristic of the man, who has always made, "duty before pleasure" his watchword. Though one of the oldest members of the House in years, Sir Wilfrid ranks among the youngest in the vigour of his intellect, personal alertness, and keenness of political perception. Age has not withered him, nor custom staled his infinite variety. Sir Wilfrid celebrates his seventieth birthday by a political fight in parliament. Here's to many happy returns and many more years of the splendid life of usefulness Sir Wilfrid Laurier has spent in the service of his country.

HONEST SIR JAMES.

Sir James Whitney's admirers claim—and even himself does not resent the claim—that he is "bold enough to be honest." He is bold enough and brusque enough on occasion, but his honesty is not always conspicuous. He is not always bold enough to be not misleading and not employ language tending, if not intended, to deceive. In his manifesto, a carefully considered document, in referring to the subject of the "utilization of electric power," he declares that,

"The great scheme for the utilization of electric power, after many vicissitudes and in the face of bitter and relentless opposition, has been accomplished."

The inference is that the "bitter and relentless opposition" came from the Liberals. But Sir James in insinuating this, is not quite ingenuous. It is no cabinet secret that Hon. Adam Beck found in the development of his power scheme that his "foes were of his own household." It is an open secret that Sir James Whitney himself was not an unwilling ally of the "interests that opposed hydro-electric development." The opposition, as the premier says, may have been "bitter and relentless"—bitter, perhaps, but not "relentless." The "Tory" Toronto News, which was one of the most active foes of hydro-electric development in Toronto at one time posed as the mouthpiece of the "interests," largely of Conservative complexion, that antagonised the scheme. Now it has relented and has become in this, as in other respects, the slavish apologist of Sir James Whitney and all his works. Sir James has repeated upon the public platform the insinuation of his manifesto, that Liberals were alone in opposition to his hydro-electric scheme. Will he be bold enough to confess that he himself, and the interests represented in his cabinet, did not always take the hydro-electric scheme to their bosoms. Let him be honest enough to be bold enough to put matters in their true light.

"There could be no better medicine than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. My children were all sick with whooping cough. One of them was in bed, had a high fever and was coughing up blood. Our doctor gave them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and the first dose eased them, and three bottles cured them," says Mrs. R. A. Donaldson, of Lexington, Miss. For sale by all dealers.

IN THE WRONG DIRECTION.

(London Advertiser)

LaDevoir, which is in close touch with the Ottawa Government, having really a proprietary interest in it, says that morning and evening the ministers are harassed by a crowd of office-seekers, and flooded with letters and telegrams from partisans and soi-disant friends, demanding Government jobs. Here is a racy revelation:

"One of the ministers received by a single mail more than five hundred demands of this kind. His secretary and three aides can scarcely dispatch each day the answers to all these annoying letters. One of the correspondents who at 9 o'clock telegraphed to the minister to obtain a situation, telegraphed again two hurs later, saying: 'Have you received dispatch relative to such a place? I await immediate reply.'"

The same writer adds that it is astonishing to find among all these applicants a great number of young men. It is not more astonishing than depressing. If the Government could direct to the land these thousands of husky young chaps who wish to vegetate in the civil service, it would be doing something for the country. The land is crying for men, while men flee from it to jostle one another in the cities and towns. Not to soil his hands and to wield nothing heavier than a pen is the ambition of the Canadian youth. It is time for a change.

The apoils system in our Government is responsible for this condition, to a large extent. The Whitney Government, especially, is a foe to civil service reform, such as would result from an application in a wider way, of the legislation on this subject, passed by the late Laurier Government. If the public were led to believe that appointments in the civil service were based on qualification, and that appointments to Government positions were to be made on other qualifications than party service there would not be so many thousands of mouths gaping for the party plums of office. "Back to the land," as suggested by the Advertiser, would be a good cry to oppose to the practically insane eagerness, on the part of young Canadians, to be converted into vegetables, to stagnate and vegetate in a government office.

With the whole wide Ontario north beckoning settlers to its fertile acres, the Whitney Government, according to a good and not unfriendly authority, the Tory Toronto Telegram, has been asleep, in regard to its development, for the past six years. Sir James Whitney takes the broad and statesmanlike view of his duty towards New Ontario, that it is not right to develop its agricultural possibilities, because the Provincial Treasury would not profit by an influx of settlers into that country. His reasoning is this. Speaking at the opening campaign, at Cobourg, Sir James puts the matter in this way:

"Suppose we spend a large sum in bringing in one hundred immigrants and settling them upon the land in New Ontario, where there are no municipal institutions, what is the consequence? The Provincial Government does not levy any taxes and there is no municipality to levy them. The only results are two: The Dominion Government has an increased revenue through these one hundred men, because they consume additional quantities of goods they pay duty on. The Dominion Government gets that money, and we pay out money to get the settlers there, pay money to maintain school houses, lock-ups, police magistrates and everything of that account.

Great statesmanship that. What live elector can sympathise with a policy that degrades the work of developing and building up a country like Ontario, to the beggardly level of the consideration of revenue. Sir James Whitney forgets, or ignores, the fact that filling the North of Ontario with settlers, will create demands for supplies from every commercial and industrial establishment in olderOntario and promote an interchange of trade infinitely greater and more important than the expenditure upon a few lock-ups. What can be hoped, in the way of promotion of the interests of agriculture and general provincial interests from a government whose head takes such a "pin-head" view of his responsibility? Is it any wonder that rural Ontario has lost population during the seven years' sleep of the Whitney Government?

HORSE MARKET

Special Wire to The Examiner.

Toronto, Nov. 18, 1911.

The last week was one of the slowest weeks in point of business that has been seen this year. The market was very dull, and scarcely a buyer of large lots put in an appearance. Prices are down very much from quotations, and consignors are very anxious to sell out. Supplies are coming in well, and many consignors are holding back shipments for better market conditions. Heavy horses are slow. The serviceably sound class make up the bulk of the sales.

The following is Burns' and Sheppard's weekly report of prevailing prices: Single roadsters, 15 to 16 hands, $100 to $225; Single cobs and carriage horses, 15 to 16.1 hands, $80 to $300; Matched pairs, carriage horses, 15 to 16.1 hands, $200 to $800; Delivery horses, 1100 to 1200 lbs., $130 to $180; General purpose and express horses, 1200 to 1350 lbs., $140 to $200; Draught horses, 1350 to 1750 lbs., $150 to $250; Serviceable second hand workers, $50 to $150; Serviceable second hand drivers, $30 to $75.

"CONSTRUCTION'S" FIGURES SHOW A HEAVY GAIN

Construction says: A heavy gain in building operations has become such a regular thing, so far as the Canadian field is concerned, as to resolve itself into a mere matter of monthly record. To say that a new mark has been established is to use a much worn phrase that repeatedly suggests itself as each succeeding period comes around. There are few communities in the Dominion that cannot boast of substantially increased investments, and a still less number, it might be said, which have not extremely promising prospects immediately ahead. September found nothing to stay the remarkable progress that has signalised development up to the present time. On the contrary, the returns from thirty-one cities reporting to Construction show an average gain of 69 per cent, the total investment amounting to $12,478,990, as against $7,311,577 in the corresponding month of last year. Not only was the force of activity previously reached fully sustained, but in several cases the totals are such as to denote a growth entirely without parallel as regards ratio of increase.

For the fourth consecutive time, Winnipeg, with a total of $2,547,000, representing a gain of 212 per cent, registered the heaviest amount from a standpoint of investment. Toronto was second in order with an expenditure amounting to $1,904,810, which is 42 per cent in excess of her comparative figures; while Vancouver came third with an aggregate value for new work amounting to $1,736,568 equivalent to a gain of 134 per cent over the amount recorded in the same month last year. Montreal, where permits were issued to the extent of $1,157,876, also made a very substantial showing, the gain noted being 16 per cent, which, to say the least, is most satisfactory, especially in view of this city's previous heavy investment and the fact that several important projects have been a trifle slow in materialising.

These figures but indicate the vast improvement experienced in a general way, for aside from the eight cities in the list which failed to equal their corresponding mark, a decided upward trend was manifest on every side. Places such as Guelph, whose total of $103,000, representing a gain of 1,905 per cent. and Nelson, B.C., where an advance of 750 per cent was made, show a condition the direct reverse to that which obtained in these centres a year ago. Ontario witnessed heavy operations in the majority of cases, although five of the nine decreases noted occurred in this Province, viz., Brantford, 3; Fort William, 13; Kingston, 23; London, 23; and Stratford, 16 per cent. These decreases, however, with the possible exception of those of London and Fort William, detract but little from the general investment. On the other hand, Hamilton emulates her past achievement by recording a total of $771,000, which is a gain of 134 per cent or $600,000 more than was invested in the previous September. Ottawa advanced 72 per cent, and Peterborough registered an increase of 306 per cent. Other increases noted are: Windsor, 29; St. Thomas, 39; and Port Arthur, 77 per cent. It might be pointed out in this connection that despite their set-backs, London and Fort William made investments of $114,463 and $147,500 in order named.

Extensive developments were also experienced in a large number of Western cities other than the three previously mentioned; although respective decreases of 65 and 21 per cent were noted at Brandon and Prince Albert. Aside from the gains already noted in the case of Vancouver and Nelson, Victoria has an increase of 103 per cent, while North Vancouver undertook operations amounting to $78,344. In Alberta, all principal centres are ahead. Calgary made a gain of 25 per cent; Edmonton advanced 117 per cent, while Lethbridge and Medicine Hat annexed respective increases of 29 and 958 per cent. Substantial increases were also made in the three principal Saskatchewan cities, viz., Moose Jaw, 440; Regina, 209; and Saskatoon, 80 per cent, the amounts in each case showing a heavy investment.

Of the three eastern cities, St. John, which notes a gain of 16 per cent. is the only one ahead; Halifax and Sydney both registering respective declines of 86 and 16 per cent. The somewhat optimistic comment on the situation volunteered by Building Inspector Thompson, of St. John, that "nothing since Confederation and inauguration of the National Policy looked brighter," indicates that the eastern section has a large volume of important work in prospect. This statement is quite typical of the optimism that prevails in general, and it is quite safe to assume that no serious check in the situation will be felt for some little time to come.

ASSAULT CHARGE

Case of Alfred Cooney Being Tried in the County Court

MUCH EVIDENCE

The case of assault brought by Mark Manley against Alfred Cooney of Otonabee, is being tried before Judge Huycke in the County Court today. It will be remembered that this case was brought before Magistrate Edmison some time ago and the accused would not consent to summary trial. All the evidence was taken in the case and the accused was sent up for trial, by Magistrate Edmison. The charge was that of assault with intent to do bodily harm. This was the case where Cooney was alleged to have hit Mauley over the back of the head with a halter. At the time of the accident, Dr. Frederic was called to attend to his injuries and reported them as being somewhat serious, for a time, and it was thought that he would not survive. The assault is alleged to have been the result of a quarrel between the two men over a piece of land. A great many witnesses have been examined to-day and a great amount of evidence taken, but it is practically a repetition of the evidence taken by Magistrate Edmison. At the time of going to press no decision had been arrived at, and the case was still going on.

OBITUARY

GLADYS MOORE.

Gladys Moore, the eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Moore passed away this morning, after a brief illness. The circumstances surrounding the death of this child are pathetic. It is but four days since the grim reaper paid a visit to this grief-stricken home and removed by death the four-year-old son.

Both children were victims of that dread disease, diphtheria. The remaining child is suffering from the same disease, and is in a serious condition. The mother, also, is in a very precarious condition, being no longer able to bear up under the overwhelming burden of grief. Both the mother and child are under the competent care of Miss Morrison, trained nurse.

The funeral of little Gladys Moore took place this afternoon, to Little Lake cemetery.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

The Physical Director and officers of the Y. M. C. A. will give a physical demonstration at Lakefield on Friday evening in the Town Hall. There will be musical numbers on the programme, as well as the demonstration by the boys and a large crowd is expected.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING

From Farm and Dairy.

If somebody faints this is what to do, says Woman's Home Companion. "If due to the effect of bad air in a close room or the shock of bearing bad news, loosen the clothing of the patient, sprinkle cold water on the face and chest, put a cloth, wet in very cold water, at the back of the neck, and lay the patient down with the head slightly lowered.

"If the victim happens to be sitting upon a chair, or has fallen back upon one in an insensible condition, grasp the back of the chair down near the seat and tip it back slowly, until the head is well lowered and the lower limbs elevated. This treatment, and sufficient fresh air, will, as a rule, restore consciousness quickly.

"It may be wise to administer a stimulant, such as aromatic spirits of ammonia, if obtainable; 20 drops in a tablespoonful of water is a dose which should be repeated in 10 minutes if necessary."

PROFITABLE SHOPPING

In connection with this very interesting subject "Profitable Shopping" we would emphasize QUALITY, this is the key-note of successful buying. Never spare a few cents or even dollars if the higher price gives you quality. Buying quality gives you satisfaction, duration of wear and it also means economy. The same amount of money spent in fewer and better goods always means less money spent during the year and a greater return for the money spent.

For instance, take stockings, and the same principal holds good throughout. Take a pair of stockings at 25c per pair, the making would cost 12½c and the yarn would cost 12½c total 25c, but if you were to buy a fifty cent pair the making would still be 12½c but you would get 37½c worth of yarn, thus for only twice the price you get three times the value and in this case three times the value of yarn means much more than three times the duration of wear, also the added comfort of wearing a finer quality of goods.

Together with the very moderately priced goods, we also carry a very extensive range of qualities that will stand every test of comparison, of wear, quality, and value from every point of view. To-day we are going to talk about the higher qualities, the qualities you like to use, the kind that will give you good service long after they have given you good return for their price.

Ladies' Underwear

We pride ourselves upon the quality and wide choice of our ladies' underwear. We have them from 15c up, but it is the good qualities we want to tell you about to-day.

As you know the Australian Botany wool is the finest grade of wool that can be produced. We have vests made from this wool with low neck and short sleeves for evening wear, also in the same quality with high neck and long sleeves. It is necessary to see these beautiful vests to appreciate their unusual quality. They are $1.50 each, for a suit (vest & drawers) $3.00.
Soft cape wool vests and drawers each $1.25 In natural wool vests and drawers $1.25 & $1.00
White cashmere vests and drawers each 75c White Merino vests and drawers each 50c, also cheaper lines.

Boys' & Girls' Underwear

Our natural wool underwear will live up to every reasonable demand you can make upon them. They do not shrink, are warm and comfortable. The great test of value you will find in their wearing quality. We always have all sizes, 65c to $1.00.

Besides the natural wool we have great qualities in fine Scotch wool, cashmere and other materials, 27 different qualities of them.

Men's Underwear

Our men's underwear section is well supplied with qualities that are well worthy to be placed in this list of sterling values.

Our English natural all wool shirts and drawers at $4.50 per suit or $2.25 each are always trustworthy, warm, comfortable and durable, they have double knees, elbows and double breasts.

They give a feeling of warmth and luxury and yet are not bulky or clumsy.

We have Penman's natural underwear at $1.25 & $1. Scotch wool and many other makes.

Boys' Stockings

Boy's double Saxony wool stockings, this is a stocking that has stood the test of all the time we have been in business (31 years) and it is still the great stand-by. We can find no other stocking to equal it for wear, comfort and value. Sizes 8½, 9, 9½, per pair 60c. Size 10, 75c

Three pairs of these stockings will easily last a dozen of the ordinary kind, not only do they wear well but the cold will hardly go through them.

Something New in Little Hose

We have a new hose for little people, combination silk and wool, sizes 4, 4½, 5, 5½, 6, 6½. These hose are made with a pure silk thread outside and inside, with a soft wool thread between, thus giving weight, warmth and wear and the soft lustre of the silk thread, delicate shades as well as black and white.

Boots

Our boot business is steadily growing. We have boots at all prices. But let us recommend the best qualities to you to-day they are certainly the cheapest in the end. Of course we have ladies boots at $1.25 & $1.50, while we know that they are the very best possible qualities that can be obtained for these prices, yet the wise shopper in this as in all departments will find her greatest profit when she turns to the higher qualities, for $3.00, $3 50, $4.00 per pair, we have boots that will wear with any boots no matter what you may pay for them. They are made from the best solid leather throughout. They are smartly designed and as you wear them they prove their value in their wear, and nice appearance.

Of course we know that for a special purpose a cheap boot is needed, but some ladies will say "I just want a cheap boot to-day, for I'm just going to put them on and wear them every day".

Now don't you think that when any article is intended to stand the strain of continual wear, that it would be wise to select the strong boot? We can give you a strong boot that is also dainty in appearance.

FASHION IN COATS

Coats of all kinds are assuming more and more importance in fashion's realm as the cold weather closes in, and in everything from motor coat to evening wrap one finds amazing variety and undeniable charm.

For the debutante or for the woman whose social life is of a simple kind and whose toilettes are correspondingly simple, a splendid evening coat is out of keeping, an investment as absurd as it is extravagant, but even the simple evening coat to-day may have an artistic and knowing air and one does not need to employ the extremely costly fabrics of the season in order to obtain this result.

For practical purposes there has never been within the average woman's memory anything in the line of evening coats more satisfactory than the coat of handsome black satin cut on simple but graceful lines and trusting to these lines rather than to trimming for its cachet. Lined with bright colour or in some fashion effective if not bright, such a coat has a festive air, yet can be worn for many occasions where a light and perishable evening coat would be out of place, and it will withstand a surprising amount of hard wear.

Of course for the debutante something brighter and more youthful in colouring is preferable, but for the older woman it would be hard to make a better choice, provided she is willing to pay for first class materials. The very cheap black satin coats which appeared last season upon the heels of the handsome and modish black satin coats are here again in great variety, and many of them have a specious charm, being copied from attractive models, but they wear so poorly that a cloth coat is a better investment.

There are some good coats in black satin lined with bright hued broadcloth instead of coloured satin or other silken stuff, and these when well designed are not only very smart but have a very desirable warmth without the introduction of wadding or other interlining which is likely to hamper the grace of the coat folds and lines.—New York Sun.

FOR AND ABOUT WOMEN

THE THREAD OF GOLD

Sorrows humanize our race;
Tears are the showers that fertilize this world;
The memory of things precious keepeth warm
The heart that once did hold them. They are poor
That have lost nothing; they are poorer far
Who, losing, have forgotten; they most poor
Of all, who lose and wish they might forget.
For life is one, and in its warp and woof
There runs a thread of gold that glints fair,
And sometimes in the pattern shows most sweet
Where there are sombre colours. It is true
That we have wept. But O, this thread of gold,
We would not have it tarnish; let us turn
Oft and look back upon the wondrous web,
And when it shineth sometimes we shall know
That memory is possession.
—Jean Ingelow.

THE USE OF PERFUMES

Since perfumes are unpleasant to many people, and are often considered to be in questionable taste, the only certain way of avoiding hostile criticism is not to use them. However, if you feel that you are made happier by them, you may use them—within certain limits! If you buy the really good quality of pure flower perfumes, and use a very small amount, you are comparatively safe; but even then certain kinds should be avoided. Gardenia, heliotrope lily of the valley, are among those to which many people object.

In using any perfume, keep a satchet among your clothes rather than use a form that has to be applied. The best kind of satchet-powder—one that almost everybody likes—is one of pure violet and orris. This gives a fragrance that is pleasant and yet hardly noticeable.

Avoid anything containing musk or ambergris—they are the hall-marks of everything which you do not wish to have associated with you. Remember that if you make yourself conspicuous — as you do if you use strong perfumes—you challenge criticism, and if here is any detail of your appearance that is not quite perfect, it is emphasized. — Youth's Companion.

A COMFORTING THOUGHT

If all your efforts to straighten out your crooked stick of a child prove unavailing, console yourself with the reflection that humanity owes a heavy debt to its eccentrics. Every outward swing of the pendulum of progress takes its impulse from the hand of someone who is not afraid of being adjudged a lunatic. When he succeeds, we cannot speak too well of him, but long before that he will probably have been marked as peculiar, and with an unflattering characterization. Linnaeus wore out his father's patience by his contempt for the conventional studies of his day. At Audobon as a lad friends wagged their heads to think what a fool he was. Young Darwin was so absent-minded that on one of his lonely tramps he walked off an embankment and narrowly escaped being crippled. Watt was scolded for his indifference to the books and sports which interested other boys, and the fascination he found in his aunt's steaming kettle. Trollope, who gave to literature his portraits of English social life in his era, was a school so destitute of the social gift that he was everybody's butt and nobody's companion. Moses and Demosthenes were stammerers, Caesar and Napoleon epileptics, Goldsmith was a sloven, Thoreau a crank, Emerson a mystic dreamer. These men overcame their handicaps of physique of temperament as Lincoln, Burritt, Dickens and Carnegie surmounted the barriers with which poverty had threatened to hem them in.—Francis E. Laupp, in The Atlantic.

A blacksmith strikes several hundred blows on his anvil in a day, and as a matter of course is glad when Sunday comes; but the roller jewel of a watch makes every day, and day after day, 432,000 impacts against the fork, or 157,960,000 blows during the course of a year, without stop or rest, or some 3,153,600,000 blows during the space of 20 years. But the wonder of it does not cease here. It has been calculated that the power that moves the watch is equivalent to only four times the force used in a flea's jump. The watch power is, therefore, what might be termed the equivalent of a four-flea power. One-horse power would suffice to operate 270,000,000 watches.—Scientific American.

The boy's appetite is often the source of amazement. If you would have such an appetite take Chamberlain's Tablets. They not only create a healthy appetite, but strengthen the stomach and enable it to do its work naturally. For sale by all druggists.

THE WEATHER

There was a feeling in the air today that was almost spring-like — more like the end of March than the latter part of November. However, Jack Frost will likely hand out some of his best in a few days. Winter has apparently set in in earnest in the far West, and even in Vancouver, where snow storms are a rarity, one and a half feet of snow recently covered the streets. As corporation snow plows are not in use (being rarely needed) Old Sol's rays did the work of removal.—W.P.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

THREE working girls belonging to what we are pleased to call the "middle class" of society, were discussing what they did with their money.

"Of course, I pay my board at home," said the private secretary—"I pay four dollars a week so that's where eighteen dollars a month goes."

One of the teachers stated that she contributed three dollars towards the family budget, while another gave three and a half.

These girls are all earning good salaries. They all belong to families which made sacrifices to educate them, and which have none too easy a time to get along now.

And yet they mentioned their small contributions with an evident sense of righteousness.

Nor is that so strange after all, for they know many among their circle of friends, who in similar situations do not give their fathers a cent for board, but spend all their money upon themselves, with the exception of spasmodic gifts which they are occasionally moved to present and for which they expect extravagant gratitude.

That is one picture. Now let me paint another.

Our washerwoman has a daughter who has been educated to the extent of the grammar school and five months in business college. She earns eight dollars a week as a stenographer. Her mother is very proud of her. She was telling me all about her.

"And she has a beau, Miss Ruth," she said, "a fine beau that takes her to the theatre, not any moving picture show, but the real theatre, you know. And of course, she likes to dress and look fine on account of him, so I dont' take all her money away from her. I don't think that would be fair. I just take four or five dollars to help with the house and let her have the rest."

Again—Gertie is a telephone girl. She is a very good worker and gets ten dollars a week in a private exchange. Her father is lazy and is often out of work. She was telling me about a pretty waist she wanted to buy. "I'm going to ask mother if she can't manage to let me have the money for it," she said.

"What, don't you buy your own clothes?' I asked, completely misunderstanding.

"What do you mean?' she counter-questioned.

"Why don't you buy the waist with your own money, instead of asking your mother for it?'

She laughed good naturedly. "Because I haven't any money," she said: "I give it all to mother and she gives me back what I need for clothes and carfare."

And she took her doing this quite as a matter of course!

One more instance. Mary is a maid. She gets six dollars a week. Last year her sister died. Mary is still paying the funeral expenses, which were about $150. Think what this means—the pay for twenty-five weeks' hard work. Incidentally, she wants to get married and is longing to save for her wedding clothes and furniture.

When you hear of, or read, or see things like this—for you must as well as I—doesn't it seem to you that there is greater kindness, greater generosity, greater sense of family obligation in which we are pleased to call the "poorer classes" of society?

It certainly does to me.

And doesn't it make you rather ashamed of what we are pleased to call the "middle and higher classes" of society?

It certainly does me.

Ruth Cameron

FOR AND ABOUT WOMEN

MA'S MISTAKE

We'll have a party by-an' by,
'Long 'bout the middle of July,
An' we will have ice cream an' stuff,
We will! Ma said there'd be enough
That we would never want to touch
The stuff again there'd be so much;
I think ma is mistocken there,
I don't think there is anywhere
So much ice cream as that. I know
I couldn't get that much, and so
'F I couldn't, how could such a bunch
As will be here that day for lunch?

Just thinkin' of it might seem
That she could git enough ice cream
To fill us all up thataway
My birthday an' my party day:
Girls won't eat much, they're so polite;
They'll be there all dressed up in white,
An' when ma sats: "Some more?" That way,
They'll put their dishes down an' say:
"No, thank ye, mom," just put their dish
Down on the table; an' they'll wish
An' wish an' wish just all the while
That they could have just one more pile.

But boys—boys ain't much like the girls
With fluffy clothes an' yellow curls
An' such politeness. You can bet
They'll all be standin' 'round to get
Another dish, an' then some more.
An you can bet that long before
They're filled up like mother's plan
She'll hit the bottom of the can!
In all the world there ain't enough
Of cake and ice cream an' such stuff
To fill a boy so rain slam cram
Full he will say: "No, thank ye, mam."

—Jull Mortimer Lewis.

CHARM OF MADAME RECAMIER

Many pen portraits of Mme. Recamier have been drawn by men and woman, and all, almost without exception, have been unanimous in their praise. The Comtesse de Boigne's impression is interesting.

"Mme. Recamier," she says, "was a true type of womanhood as made by the Creator for the happiness of man. She had all the charm, the virtue, the inconsistency and the weakness of the perfect woman.

"If she had been a mother her destiny would have been complete; the world would have heard less of her and she would have been happier. As she had missed this natural vocation she was obliged to find compensation in society.

"Mme. Recamier was the incarnation of coquetry; her talent in this respect amounted to genius, and she was the admirable leader of a detestable school. Every woman who attempted to imitate her has become an object of scandal or disgrace, whereas she always emerged unscathed from the furnace into which it was her delight to plunge.

"The fact is not to be explained by any coldness of heart, for her flirtations were actuated by kindness and not by vanity. She was much more anxious to be loved than to be admired, and this sentiment was so natural to her that she always had some affection and much sympathy to give her numerous adorers in exchange for the admiration which she strove to attract.

"Hence her coquetry avoided the usual accompanying selfishness and was not absolutely barren, if I may use the term. She thus preserved the affection of almost all men who fell in love with her. Nor have I known any one who could more dextrously combine an attitude of exclusiveness with a bearing of general friendliness toward a more numerous circle."—From the Gentlewoman.

STOMACH LIVER LUNGS

Each of the chief organs of the body is a link in the Chain of Life. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link, the body no stronger than its weakest organ. If there is weakness of stomach, liver or lungs, there is a weak link in the chain of life which may snap at any time. Often this so-called "weakness" is caused by lack of nutrition, the result of weakness or disease of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. Diseases and weaknesses of the stomach and its allied organs are cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. When the weak or diseased stomach is cured, diseases of other organs which seem remote from the stomach but which have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, are cured also.

The strong man has a strong stomach. Take the above recommended "Discovery" and you may have a strong stomach and a strong body.

GIVEN AWAY.—Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, new revised Edition, is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or 50 stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

The Good News of Our Great MID-SEASON SALE

Brought Hundreds Here Saturday

Scores upon scores of shrewd buyers hurried to this unexpected saving event on Saturday eager to obtain their share of the bona fide savings which have been provided on our absolutely fresh and desirable new stocks.

And when you consider that these decisively lowered prices have been made on the very goods you have planned to buy, do you wonder that this Sale created such enthusiastic buying among thrifty people? The reason for this forced movement of new merchandise in Mid-Season was clearly set forth in our opening announcement---too heavy purchases in the early part of the season makes it absolutely necessary and urgent that we reduce stocks quickly and effectively.

Good news travels fast---so the good news of such values as we are giving will be bound to bring another throng of shrewd buyers to the sale to-morrow

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

ANNIVERSARY OF THE SACRED HEART CHURCH CELEBRATED

Stirring Sermons were Preached Yesterday While Large Congregations were Present at the Services Throughout the day

SYNOPSIS OF SERMON

The second anniversary of the opening of the Sacred Heart Church was celebrated yesterday.

During the two years the congregation has greatly increased and the work of the parish has accordingly advanced. Various societies in connection with the parish have also been organized, including an independent T. A. S. Statistics show that the number of communicants during the past year was 18,560 and of the preceding year 13,744. In one year, therefore, the communicants have increased by 4,816. A few months ago the magnificent grounds adjacent to the Church became the property thereof.

Special services were held yesterday befitting the occasion, and in the absence of the Rev. Fr. O'Reilly, the eloquent Redemptorist, whose indisposition rendered him unable to preach, the Rev. Fr. Shomhard, of the Redemptorist Order of Toronto, delivered inspiring and highly edifying sermons.

A synopsis of the morning's sermon is here given:

"Our Saviour tells us that the Church is likened unto a mustard seed, which, when it is grown, becometh a tree, so that the birds of the air come and lodge in the branches thereof. Thus, our Saviour foretells the growth of the Church. When Christ was nailed to the Cross, only two there were who remained faithful—Mary and John. Here was the mustard seed, and now, in the present day, there is not a country where the Church is not known. The very bread we eat should remind us of God. Flour is a growth, which, tended by the Almighty, emanates from a tiny grain of wheat.

We have received the leaven of faith; yet there are some Catholics who are not leavened. There are some who take off their faith with their Sunday clothes. This is not proper. You should be a Catholic here and when you go into the street, you should be a Catholic also. A man walking along the street might prepare for a smoke and find he had no matches. He asks a passerby for a match, and is duly accommdated. He is "dying for a smoke," and is, therefore, very grateful to the giver of the match, and says:: "I'm very much obliged to you," and yet he has not time to thank God for body and soul.

Even Oliver Cromwell, weak as he was, always said a prayer. He used to say: There are some people who have good fare, but no appetite; there are others who have good appetite, but no fare; but, thank God, I have both.

Look at a horse. It will labour until its death, and always obeys the call of its master. A little pull of the rein is faithfully answered, and yet all it requires of its master is shelter and a little food and drink. Are men as faithful to their Master? You will therefore, see that faith is necessary in the hearts of men. If we do not serve God, then God owes us no reward.

GRAPHIC WORD PICTURE OF THE CONDITIONS IN CHINA

Mr. J. L. McPherson of the Hong Kong Y. M. C. A. Tells Members of Local Association of the Work That is Being Accomplished by Society in China---Removing the Young Men From the Terrible Temptations That Assail Them Everywhere.

An inspiring, eloquent and interesting address, entitled "A world task for young men," was delivered at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon by Mr. John L. McPherson, graduate of Toronto University, and for the last six years Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. at Hong Kong, China. Mr. McPherson pointed out clearly to the large assemblage the work that had been accomplished by the Association in Hong Kong, and other large coastal Chinese cities. He included, in the course of his remarks, all the large Chinese cities, where the Association had been established, and also touched on the progress of the Association in other Asiatic Empires, but gave a more minute description of China, this being his sphere of labour.

"One thing, and probably the first thing that strikes us upon our arrival, is the different kinds of people," began Mr. McPherson. "Stand at a corner, in Shanghai, for instance, and you can see men of almost every nationality in the world. They are divided into two classes by the Asiatics, however, namely: Europeans, and Chinese. All that are not Chinese are called Europeans by the natives. They call Canadians and Americans, Europeans. At Hong Kong, the Association is growing and should grow, for it is in the very city, where it is most needed. All the coastal cities are in need of the benefits of the Y. M. C. A. The population of these cities, is largely made up of young men sent out from England and other western countries, who engage with the trading companies for a certain length of time. Their employers have said that they do not care what sort of lue the young men lead, so long as they appear at the office on time in the mornings, do their work properly, and keep out of the Police Courts. This is evidence of the great need of the Association. These young men, ... of them coming from good Christian parents, go out there, and, without advisers, or any person to give them the proper coaching, meet with ... ible, monstrous temptations, which they are unable to withstand. The fierce temptation of these cities cannot well be described here. It may be said that it is no social disgrace for young men to live any sort of life they please. The Sabbath is scarcely observed at all east of the Suez Canal. It is no wonder that many young men are unable to live good lives. They keep sinking lower and lower until they are down, and mixed in the terrible disgrace and criminality for which these places are noted. The very best men will fall before these fierce temptations, if they have no person to aid them, or instruct them, and preach to them the right. It is too bad to see young men of promising futures and intelligence go down to destruction. It is a drawback to the Christianizing of the natives, for in these ports, the Chinese and Europeans are drawn together in their course of work on the coast and the Chinese, believing and hearing that United States and Canada are Christian countries, look for an example of what a Christian is, in these young men. And, it is needless to say some of the examples are very bad and not likely to have much influence toward drawing the natives to Christianity. It is the reverse. It widens the space between the Chinese and Christianity, and they pay no attention to the Missionaries, when they see what their own people are like. Therefore, we should set a good example by trying to make the conditions in the coastal cities such that the young men will be looked after, and an opportunity offered them to keep themselves as young Christian men should.

Established for Nearly 20 Years.

"The Association has been established in the East for nearly twenty years, and it has made remarkable strides, at present boasting several thousands of members, and in many places, immense and up-to-date rooms and structures. In Hong Kong, a Chinese Association was formed about nine years ago. At first, it was a great expense, and very hard to keep going; in fact, there was a time when it was nearly closed and counted a failure. However, a large sum was raised, all the debts paid, and a new start made, and it is now a flourishing branch of the Association. The Chinese are a very funny people, in some respects. They hate to be in debt. They do not mind going in debt for the year, but when the end of the year comes, if they are unable to pay all debts, and have everything in good shape, they think it a terrible disgrace. In 1909, the Association was about $500.00 in debt, and the prospects were very discouraging, but as a way out, it was suggested that the money be borrowed. The Treasurer offered a better plan, which consisted of a contest for members, to raise the necessary amount of money. Now, it is a ewll-known fact that Chinese are of a gambling disposition. They love contests and this plan was a complete success.

Fifteen of the members began a contest to raise the money, and in a very short time a large sum, more than the necessary amount, had been raised. Hong Kong, though a British possession, is owned, ninety-five per cent., by Chinese. They are a people, that, when they get down to thinking a thing out, can see through it very intelligently. They wondered why we did not get more members, and, as a result, began a membership campaign, in earnest, with the result that the membership was raised from 250 to over 1,100. They had small rooms, and the business men, and all classes of men, began work, and enlarged the rooms, and made a fine structure. Lots of these men were non-Christian when they joined, but they soon became good, Christian men. Young and old declared their desire to study the life and work of the Lord for themselves. Night school was responsible for the evangelizing of a number of these men."

In concluding, Mr. McPherson said that in March of this year that branch of the Association had $1,400. The members not only paid their fee of $6.00, but donated $25 each for the year, their enthusiasm was so great. They thought they were doing nothing when they only procured general education and enlarged the membership, so a great religious campaign was begun. A large hall was secured and speakers were brought, and every night that hall was filled, and ... turned away. One hundred and thirty young men enrolled in the Bible classes, and many became openly identified as members of the Christian church, at Hong Kong."

"The Young Men's Christian Students' Association is doing much for the good of the Chinese. They are prepared for the ministry, by the volunteer movement. How few of us are willing to go into the ministry. We will go into any sort of business before we will go and preach the ... people. These young ... who get a good western education in our Y.M.C.A., go out in the ministry and they do a vast deal toward the furthering of the work in their own country.

"Our Association at Hong Kong is growing, now, having a membership of over 2,000. There is a steady flow of young men into the church, accounted for, largely, by the work of our association. The Y.M.C.A. is doing as much, accordingly, for evangelizing purposes, as are the other missionaries, and the assistance they receive by the people of America is appreciated."

Mr. McPherson spoke to a large congregation at St. Paul's church, in the morning, also at Knox Church in the evening.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

The final game of the Junior Collegiate Class Basketball League played Saturday morning between the Athletics and White Sox, furnished some good sport. The game was fast and the shooting good, and after one of the closest kind of a contest, the Athletics were declared the winners with a score of 16 to 15, which is a good indication of the play. The Athletics lined up as follows: Stewart and Knapman, forwards; R. Smith, centre; Arnott (capt.) and M. Huycke defence. White Sox—J. Smith and W. Heaslip (capt.) forwards; Cavanagh, centre; Moore and Sucee defence.

The games in the Junior Class League resulted as follows: Beavers 6, Sweet Peas 4, and winners and Fairies played a tie, two points each.

The Intermediate Leaders meet tonight at 7.00 for floor work. Every man is expected out.

SPLENDID SERMON TO THE YOUNG MEN BY REV. MR. COUCH

Rev. I. Couch preached a very eloquent and inspiring sermon to the young men at the George Street Methodist Church last evening. The church was crowded to its full capacity with a very attentive audience. The choir sang "Oh. Where is My Boy To-night?" which made a very appropriate addition to the musical part of the service, and it was very encouraging to note that the young men attended in large numbers.

Mr. Couch chose his text from the fourth verse of the 2nd chapter of Zechariah: "Run, speak to this young man."

In the course of his remarks, the reverend speaker said, in part. This text is a special command to a special young man, and it is in that way we will use it to-night. There may be a young man here to-night, there almost certainly is, who has a great many influences over him, and great temptations appearing to him, and if he stops and looks back, he can see through the haze his dear mother praying for him, and endowing him with holy thoughts. He can imagine himself in his youth, and innocence. Home is always brighter when he is around. His sister says she never could have a kinder brother, yet he is included in this command. There are others. This one—how different has been his experience. No prayer offered on his behalf. He can only remember oaths and curses. He goes out and mixes with people, and at school he gets with other boys, but all the good that he hears is lost when he goes home, and we say metaphorically, he is damned before he was born. If he is here to-night he is welcome."

"There is another:: The young man, who has mocked every warning. Who has brought his father's grey hairs down to the grave. They said his mother died of consumption, but in truth it was he who caused her to die of a broken heart. If he is here to-night, perhaps it is merely to scoff at the service, and laugh when you get out on the street, but if you are here, listen, whether you want to or not.

"There is another young man. One trying to get along in the right; who says: 'Lord, save me!' You are in a good atmosphere, and mercy is in your way. Lord, grant that I speak to these young men in the right way, and if they are here to-night, make them to recognize themselves among those spoken of."

Reasons for Speaking to the Young Men.

"Then, why should I speak to them? Danger awaits him, and it is my duty to warn him, if he is in danger. Young men to-night, you are on the sand bar, and do not forget that the tide of eternity is flowing in, and the waves are battering at your feet. Your very danger compels me to run and warn you. There are dangerous temptations to fall in your way. Rocks, with water enough over them to hide them, and make everything look plain sailing to you. Then it is for me to warn you that there are rocks ahead.

"My second reason is because one wrong leads on to another. There are two roads meeting here to-night. One running to the left, the other to the right. One is a broad, brilliant highway, the other a straight, but narrow, path. The broad highway, though beautiful, has many pitfalls, and the road is a treacherous one, which, eventually, leads to destruction, while the straight, but narrow, path, leads to the city celestial. Then, the Lord says, run, speak to that young man. If I don't, some other person will, and as there are more that will lead him astray, than will set him right, he may probably be led further, on the wrong highway. Satan is here to-night. He is going from pew to pew, and he whispers to you and says:, 'Never mind, he is just preaching a sermon to the young men,' but remember, it is his business to speak to you; but take a more manly and sensible view of it—be sincere!"

My third reason is: Because there is no time for delay. The command is, to run. Why? Because he is running. Men never creep to ruin. They go down swifter than the swiftest. There are numerous temptations to help to lead people down. You are going like an arrow, and if we are to speak to you, we must run. Time is like a ship that never anchors, and like the ocean, that never ends. Whether days are dark or bright: Whether the pendulum wags or stops; time goes on just the same. Life is ticked out, and eternity in: and it is all done in such a short time, the Lord says: 'Run, speak to that young man,' and it is to be hoped he will listen".

"My fourth reason: 'Run, because opportunity is running, also. It is like a man, when he gets so near the river, which has overflowed, that he gets into the current, and is swept down stream, until some person rescues him, by running along the bank, and throwing a rope to him at the first bridge. We must run to grasp the last opportunity, and may God help you to grasp the rope, for it may be the last chance."

Then, my fifth reason: "I am to run because death is running. From the vast multitude here to-night, who will be the first to go? Perhaps it will be the speaker. It may be you. Therefore, the Master says: 'Run, speak to this young man!' I have run, and I have caught up to some of you to-night; and now, what shall I say? You young men of pious parents, your morality will not save you. You must be born again, and experience what conversion means. You have been restrained from the bad elements, but you must receive the Lord. If you have been led, you will be followed. Jesus died for you; then come and cast yourselves at the feet of Jesus. You young men who are getting on in the world, and who are succeeding in business, there is only one thing I have to say to you: 'What shall it benefit a man if he gain the whole world, and loose his own soul?' You pleasure seekers—remember that it is religion that creates the sincerest pleasure. The time will come when you will not get a chance to despise your mother's prayers, but they will say amen to your damnation. If your heart is broken do not be discouraged, for God hath broken it, that He may mend it, again."

With these words Rev. Mr. Couch concluded a most instructive and beneficial sermon, and one which appealed to the young men present.

TWIN ILLS

Stomach Trouble and Bad Health How to Escape Them

Stomach trouble and rundown system go together, usually. If you can get the system built up, the stomach symptoms disappear.

W. H. McAmis, Birmingham, Ala., says: "I had suffered from stomach trouble for years but found nothing that would give more than temporary relief. My druggist said Vinol was the best thing for me to use. It gave me immediate relief, improved my appetite and digestion and now I feel that I am all through with my stomach trouble."

We firmly believe that all forms of stomach trouble due to impaired general health can be permanently cured by the use of Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron preparation without oil. Its remarkable tonic and strengthening effects are exactly what the weakened stomach needs. We guarantee that Vinol will do all that we claim for it and give back your money if it doesn't. SERIOUS CHARGE

Local Man Charged With Theft of $25 Also of Keeping Disorderly House.

POLICE COURT

Albert Crouter was arraigned in the Police Court this morning on a charge of keeping a disorderly house. He pleaded not guilty. His wife, Sarah Crouter, was charged with being an inmate of the house. She also pleaded not guilty. Magistrate Dumble being out of the city, City Clerk Armstrong presided, and remanded both of the accused until to-morrow morning. No evidence was taken in the case. A couple of policemen entered the house on Saturday night, and arrested the couple. Several whiskey bottles were found, only one of which was full. The house was in a filthy state, according to the official report.

SKIN SOFT AS A CHILD'S

"I was a great sufferer from eczema and salt rheum for years," writes Mr John W. Naas, Lunenburg, N.S. "Five years ago three boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment cured me and the old trouble never returned. My skin is soft as a child's now, and I shall always say a good word for this Ointment."

PRESENTED WITH STEAMER RUG

At the conclusion of Charlotte St. church services, Sunday morning, the members of the choir gathered around to present their respects to one of their valued number, Mr. Ridyard, who is shortly to take a trip to his old home in England. Mr. Ridyard was the recipient of a handsome steamer rug, presented to him by the choir, as evidencing, in a small measure, their appreciation of the valuable services he has rendered to that organization.

On behalf of the choir, Mr. D. Fleming conveyed to the departing member, sincere thanks, for his hearty cooperation and activity in choir circles, and wished him "bon voyage" in his visit to the land of his birth.

"We hope that the rug may be a tangible and warmth-giving evidence to you of our feelings, when the breezes of the briny ocean are assailing you," said Mr. Fleming.

Although completely surprised at the turn of affairs, Mr. Ridyard made a suitable reply, and expressed his regret at having to sever his connections with such pleasant associations.

Mr. Ridyard, who has been connected with the choir during the past four years, expects to return to Peterborough early in January.

JUST TRY A TEN CENT BOX OF CASCARETS

Insures you for months against a Sick Stomach, Lazy Liver, Constipation or a Bad Stomach.

Put aside—just once—the Salts, Cathartic Pills, Castor Oil or purgative waters which merely force a passage-way through the bowels, but do not thoroughly cleanse, freshen and purify these drainage or alimentary organs, and have no effect whatever upon the liver and stomach.

Keep your inside organs pure and fresh with Cascarets, which thoroughly cleanse the stomach, remove the undigested, sour and fermenting food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the decomposed waste matter and poisons in the intestines and bowels.

A Cascaret to-night will make you feel great by morning. They work while you sleep—never gripe, sicken and cost only 10 cents a box from your druggist. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never have Headache, Biliousness, coated tongue, Indigestion, Sour Stomach or Constipated bowels. Cascarets belong to every household. SAD SPIRITUAL HOPELESSNESS OF THE DARK CONTINENT

Instructive Address at Bethany Tabernacle by Rev. Mr. Hilford---Who Leaves This Week to Resume His Missionary Labours.

The Rev. Mr. Hilford's address on "Africa," last evening, in Bethany Tabernacle, was most interesting and instructive.

Mr. Hilford spoke of Africa as the "Dark Continent," and of some of the particular features of the sad spiritual darkness and hopelessness.

From the beginning God has seemed to have special interest in that continent, and has many times used the northern portion as a place of shelter for His services. In time of famine Abram and Sarah were sustained there. Joseph was sold as a slave into Egypt, and later, exalted to a position of honour, brought his father and brethren there also, in a time of famine, to preserve their lives. Egypt thus became the birthplace of Israel, as a nation. Jeremiah's life was preserved here, and God used this land also as a hiding place for His own Son, where Herod sought His life.

In the earlier centuries of the Christian era, in no other place was the spread of the Gospel more remarkable than in North Africa, the whole northern portion of the continent having been thoroughly evangelized. Here some of the most nbble of the Church Fathers lived, laboured and wrote but when the churches ceased their missionary labours, spiritual decline speedily followed, and church history bears strong testimony to the fact that when any church ceases to be a missionary church, it soon becomes unspiritual, unfruitful and dead.

The speaker mentioned some of the great difficulties in the way of missionary efforts in that land, and of there being nothing naturally to attract one to labour there, but Christ having commissioned His followers to "preach the Gospel to every creature" we are in duty bound ot obey.

The missionary is not, however, left without encouragement, for God has said that "Ethiopia shall stretch out her hands unto God," and many instances of the marvellous transformation wrought by the blessed Gospel, not only in the lives of individuals, but also of tribes, were spoken of. Although the Africans have not a systematic religion of their own, as the people of India and China have, yet they are pre-eminently a religious people, and the history of missions records many instances of unsurpassed devotion to Christ on the part of the African Christians.

On Thursday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Hilford will give their farewell messages in Bethany Tabernacle.

SUCCESS OF FORMER PETERBORO BOY

An old Peterborough boy, who is carving out an enviable career for himself is Mr. Albert A. Harvie, superintendent of the Nicholl Square Co., and the following clipping from the Iowan Ottumwan, refers to Mr. Harvie's prowess in the inventors' field:

The inventor of a knockdown carpenter's square, a square that comes apart and the tongue slides into the body and locks, so that it can be thrown about, without impairing the accuracy of the tool, has been recently granted letters of patent and the genius is Mr. Albert A. Harvie. Another invention, a means of hardening carpenters squares and similar tools is also the fruit of Mr. Harvie's genius, and the patent rights in this process have been assigned by the inventor to Martin Hardsocg of the Nicholl Square Co., of Iowa and other manufacturing enterprises, who is quite an inventive genius himself.

Mr. Harvie is well known here, having received his early training as a mechanic in the William Hamilton Company's machine shop. He is a son-in-law of Mr. William Finch Miller, Water street.

"It is a pleasure to tell you that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best cough medicine I have ever used," writes Mrs. Hugh Campbell, of Lavonia, Ga. "I have used it with all my children and the results have been highly satisfactory." For sale by all druggists.

ANNUAL MEETING

The annual general meeting of the shareholders of the William Hamilton Company, Limited, was held in the office of the Company, Reid St., at three o'clock, p.m., on Saturday, 18th inst.

A large number of the shareholders were represented in person or by proxy.

The annual report of the Directors for the year ending September 30th, 1911, was presented and showed a satisfactory condition of the Company's business for the past year. On motion, the report was received and adopted.

The net profits of the year were such as to enable the Directors, after providing all repairs, to plant and munitions and for depreciation of Pattern account, to declare the usual dividend of eight per cent. upon the paid-up preference stock of the Company, and carry forward a substantial balance to the credit of Profit and Loss account.

The old Board of Directors were re-elected, viz.: Messrs. Andrew Macfarlane, J. C. Smith, Geo. G. Gladman, David Spence, C. R. Cameron, L. A. Potvin and W. H. Collier, and W. R. Morris, Chartered Accountant, was re-elected Auditor for the ensuing year.

The meeting then adjourned.

TWILIGHT MUSICALE IN CONSERVATORY MUSIC HALL

The first of a series of twilight musicales under the auspices of the Women's Art Association was held in the Conservatory Music Hall on Saturday afternoon and was well attended. A delightful programme was provided, and the Women's Art Association deserve the thanks of the audience for giving an opportunity to be present. The Conservatory Orchestra, which is steadily growing in efficiency and skill and which is heard all too seldom in public, contributed three splendid numbers to the programme. Their first was the sterling overture by Verdi, "Nabucodonosor," which was played with a full appreciation of its beauty. The tuneful selection from Donizetti's "Daughter of the Regiment" was exceptionally brilliantly played, as was the delightful "Reminiscences of Balfe," which concluded the programme. Miss Mary Chalmers sang Guonod's "Ave Maria," to the accompaniment of a beautiful violin obligato by Miss Julia Choate, in splendid voice and with fine expression.

One of the gems of the programme was the rendition of a Schubert serenade played by Miss Choate with the assistance of the string section of the Conservatory orchestra, which capitivated the audience. Mr. Asa Huycke's well controlled and resonant baritone was displayed to advantage in the solo, "A Perfect Day," by Bond, while Miss Katie Leary's feeling reading of Robert W. Service's powerful poem of the Northland, "Call of the Wild" was very effective. Following was the complete programme:

Overture—Nabucodonosor ..... Verdi
Conservatory Orchestra
Reading—"Call of the Wild" ..... Service
Katie Leary
Selection from Daughter of Regiment ..... Donizetti
Conservatory Orchestra
Serenade ..... Schubert
Miss Choate and String Orchestra
Baritone Solo—"A Perfect Day" Bond
Mr. Asa Huycke

When Men Need A Lecture

We are accustomed to listen to whole sermons on the duty and the far-reaching effects of mother-influence; and it is well, for the admonitions cannot come too often or be too earnest.

But there are times when it is father-influence that counts, for, you know, boys are not so very long in reaching a period when it is man they want to copy, his ways, habits, manner of speech, ideals, his very thoughts, if they could.

And then--

Some of us who are not boys can let our thoughts drift backward and as far as they travel they cannot reach one instance in which a word of profanity was heard in the home.

Like some of the other advantages that come our way, we sometimes fail to appreciate just what this means, but perhaps the time may come when a curtain is lifted in another home, and we hear a string of words that shock us into understanding.

And then we appreciate what it means to be a boy or a girl to whom oaths mean nothing in particular because they are so commonly heard. A boy naturally gravitates to the ways of his father, and if it happens that his talk is punctuated with profanity why shouldn't the boy think it an initial step to manhood, something to be proud of, this trick of swearing—the very word is offensive.

For some reason or other it is a fact—and for the sake of the girl we may call it a happy fact—that it is boys who earliest and oftenest offend our ears with words that should be given no place in their little vocabulary, words that shock the listener and unconsciously weaken the standards of the boys themselves.

Often this unseemly manner of talking is picked up on the streets, somewhere, somehow; but what of the false idea of manliness? That must have some foundation, else why does not the little maid oftener follow the ways of the brother? Don't you fancy it is because at her very first lapse from grace, if she happens to fall so badly, the whole family comes to the rescue and proves by every argument that can appeal to childish ears that "little girls must never, never talk that way!" And, too, there is the mother who may at times speak impatiently, slangily, but never with profanity—that is the girl's pattern.

But the boy? Of course he is rebuked a bit, but of what great avail is rebuke when it is offset by other standards of manliness? And if a father and a father's friends are not the standards, what then?

Probably it is true that men who have grown accustomed to profanity, through long usage, do not dream how harshly it falls upon ears unused to the sound. Except in rare instances men are certainly differential to woman's exemption from profanity, and it is only chance that permits a woman to hear a trail of words destined for other ears. But one wishes they might understand just how it shocks most of us when chance makes us open our eyes in awful astonishment.

We have not the license, nor do we covet it. Along with some other high fences that have been built around womankind, to keep her as sweet and as true as may be, we have nothing to say but "thanks." But we think it would be very wholesome and very healing if something or somebody would absolutely and for all time revoke man's license in this regard.

Whatever a man may be willing to stand tor on his own account, there are his boys to reckon with, and mothers may talk all they like of the beauties of pure language, but nothing quite takes the place of a boy's own father as a type to watch.

If the name of God means to him nothing but a forceful expression, then the small boy will early think it fine and manly to slip in his talk the same irreverent expressions.

Sometimes one sees men who are "square" in their dealings, royal standards for the little fellows in their homes. After that, if things go wrong—but one is unwilling to believe that they can.—Francesca, in Rochester Times.

A LETTER FROM CAMPBELL

In a personal letter received by the Sporting Editor of the Examiner from Pete Campbell, the 'Varsity quarterback says that Frank Hoffernan has developed into a great football player. "He tackles like a fiend, and hits the line like a train," is the way Pete puts it, and from the newspaper accounts of the Ottawa-Varsity game he is not far wrong. He ascribes Ottawa's great success to their wonderful tackling, coupled with the phenomenal kicking of Cornellier. Pete says that he has not been out to practise since the Ottawa game, as he has been suffering from sore legs. He will be all right for Saturday's final against Argos, however.

AMY'S SURRENDER

(Short Story)

When the announcement appeared in the society columns of the daily papers that Jimmie Cheeney had broken down through overwork and had been ordered by his physician to take a rest, it was regarded as one of Jimmie's best jokes.

To Jimmie himself it was no joke. While his acquaintances in society knew him only as a social "butterfly," there were men down in "the Street" who knew that in the three or four hours he generally spent in his office every day, he was more than able to engineer deals in which some of the shrewdest operators in the financial district had been trapped.

It was this double strain which had resulted in his settling down in a quiet little town on the Connecticut River just at a time when some of his biggest operations were coming to a head. He had left careful instructions with his confidential clerk, but even Roberts, accustomed as he was to Cheeney's operations, could not be expected to handle a deal in which more than a million dollars were involved with the same skill and daring as the man who originated the plan.

The first week at Woodale was spent close to the telegraph office. The delivery system consisted of one small boy, whose sister was the operator. If there was a big game of ball on, Sammy Langton delegated his duties to any youngster he could impress into service and failing to secure an understudy, the messages were apt to go undelivered. Jimmie Cheeney decided that it would be better to keep a watch on the office himself, and his standing as the only person in the place who had ever received five telegrams in a single day gave him the freedom of the tiny room in the railroad station where Amy Langton acted as telegraph operator, station agent and baggage and freight clerk.

This was scarcely the routine prescribed by his physician, but there were worse ways of spending one's time than in Amy Langton's society, and long before the end of the first week Jimmie had decided that she was one of the most charming girls he had ever met. By the end of the second week he was honestly in love with her, and Dr. Billingham, making a hurried visit to his patient, was surprised to find him so willing to accept the verdict that several weeks more must be passed in exile.

At the end of the fourth week Jimmie put his fate to the test. It was Sunday and there being no trains on the little branch road, the office was not open. Jimmie and Amy had gone for a walk to the top of the hill that gave the best view up and down the valley.

For one moment her rosy face was close to his shoulder, and Jimmie leaned over to kiss her, when she suddenly drew away, her face now white and tense.

"I appreciate the compliment you do me, Mr. Cheeney," she said, softly, "but I cannot become your wife. You are rich; wonderfully rich, as we understand riches. Your people would not be my people. Up here I am a good comrade and all that, but—it would be different in the city."

"Bother the money, if that's all," said Jimmie, beaming. "I am not compelled to keep it. I can found a college or start a newspaper or do something like that and the money would not bother us long."

He reached out his arms to take her in his embrace, but she resolutely set him aside, and though they talked it over until the sun began to drop behind the western hills, he could not make her alter her decision or even confess that she loved him.

The next day was a gloomy one for Jimmie. He hung about the office as usual, but there was a constraint in their companionship; an entire absence of the good fellowship that had slowly been established between them in the past weeks. Amy's eyes looked as though she had been crying, but this she would not admit nor would she permit Jimmie to reopen the arguments of the day before.

Shortly after the noonday dinner the messages began to come to him thick and fast. They were in cipher and their import she could only guess, but through the long afternoon the gloom on Jimmie's face grew deeper and deeper, until finally one brief message came that he crumpled in his pocket, and snatching up his hat, he started for the door.

"The rest of the messages won't matter," he said, as he paused at the threshold. "Let them lie until you close the office and send them over to the hotel by Sammy."

Before she could speak he was gone, and presently she saw him cross the bridge and start up the steep hill on the other side. It was the road to the place where they had sat the day before, and she longed to close the office, to follow and comfort him.

It was after 7 before the up-train pulled out and gave her the chance. Then she, too, crossed the bridge and presently found herself on the brow of the hill. There Jimmie sat in an attitude of such utter dejection that her heart went out to him.

He did not hear her footfall on the soft moss, and it was not until a tiny hand slipped confidingly into his that he was aware of her presence. Then he sprang up with a glad cry and in a moment she was safe within his encircling arms and was whispering the words of comfort and love she had so longed to give the day before.

So full was he of his happiness that it was a full hour before their minds came back to mundane things. Then she softly asked:

"Is it an awful bad smash, Jimmie?"

He looked up with a laugh. "Why, there was no smash. That last wire I got was to tell me that the big deal had gone through."

She drew away indignantly. "And I thought," she cried, "that you had lost everything from the way you looked. That's why I came to comfort you."

"Little girl," he said soberly, "the thought of all that money piling up was awful. You told me that I would have to get rid of my money before you would marry me, and there was another million tacked on to what I already had. That was what was worrying me. Don't you think it shows that I love you enough to make you feel safe in marrying me?"

Apparently she did, for there is a new operator at Woodale and Jimmie Cheeney's home has a most charming mistress.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

SHOULD REGULATE EXPENDITURES

Virginia Harland.

Every wife who really wishes to be a help to her husband should always regulate her expenditures according to her means. Let the maxim be, as far as it is possible, "Pay as you go." If you can't pay, don't go. A careful and economical wife can help her husband enormously. Her partner will value her clever housekeeping, and if she keeps the expenses down, and manages to save a little, even if it is only a few cents, he will realize and fully appreciate her efforts.

Many a wife by thinking only of what will please her partner, and trying to assist him in every way, will, by that true spirit of sympathy, inspire a husband to do his very best for the dearest little woman in the world.

may be, a wife should endeavor to learn something about it — enough at any rate to enable her to listen to him with interest when he talks about it, and to give him her opinion on certain points when asked.

Many a failure might have been averted had men been more certain of help and sympathy from their wives when danger threatened. So one of the foremost duties of a wife is to try and make him feel that anything he does is of vital interest and importance to her.

Of course, one of the foremost duties of a wife is to strive her utmost to make the home as happy as possible. It is a married woman's privilege to try and make her partner feel that home is the happiest place in which he can possibly be, and that one day passed under his own roof is worth a hundred in another place.

TO GROW A CROP

Dr. J. H. Worst, N. Dakota

It requires approximately seven dollars an acre to grow a crop. This includes interest on the investment, cost of seed, wear and tear on farm machinery, labor, etc. By adding one dollar's worth of labor to each acre, there is little question but that the average profits would be almost doubled. In other words, as much profit should be realized from the one additional dollar's worth of labor as is now realized from the seven dollars worth of unavoidable labor and investment.

If we farmers would devote one-third of our land to growing corn and alfalfa, neither of which interfere with the time and labor employed in farming wheat, and put one-third more labor, thus made available on only two-thirds as many acres of wheat, we would grow more wheat than where they spread their energies over one-third larger acreage.

The corn and alfalfa fed to live stock would ensure us a large additional income, and one that is not often adversely influenced by climatic conditions, while the fertility deposited upon the farm resulting from feeding the corn and alfalfa to live stock would vastly improve the productiveness of the soil.

FOREIGNERS MASSACRED

Two European Missionaries Are Dead at Sianfu

ROYAL PRINCESS ELOPES

Pekin, Nov. 21.—Chinese officials confirm the report that a massacre of foreigners, as well as Manchus, has occurred at Sianfu. The legations believe that the report will prove true. There were forty foreigners in Sianfu and many missionaries in the smaller Shensi towns. Up to the present only Chinese reports have been received regarding the massacre. There has been no telegraphic or postal communication with Sianfu for more than three weeks.

Sunday night the Swedish missionaries, Messrs. Sandberg and Erickson, arrived here from Tien Tsin. They said that a telegram had been received from Sianfu before their departure from southern Shensi, announcing the murder of Mrs. Beckman, a school mistress, and five foreign children. Many Chinese girls in Mrs. Beckman's school, who were mistaken for Manchus because of their big feet, were also reported to have been murdered. A German, Philip Manners, who is in the Chinese postal service, was among others killed.

The legations have taken no action as yet, but they have the reported killing of foreigners under consideration. Without a strong invading force, however, nothing can be accomplished beyond the reach of the Yangtse gunboats. Most of the legations advised their people in the interior to escape three weeks ago. Many disobeyed, believing they were in no danger. Some of the women and children were sent to the coast.

Disgrace to Dynasty.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 21.—Princess Laik, mother of the baby Emperor of China, and wife of the Prince Regent, has eloped with an actor, Yung Shu Lu, according to Chinese newspapers received yesterday. A number of newspapers published in China refer to the "disgrace that has come to the royal family," but only one, The Min Lu Po, the largest newspaper published in China, gives the princess' name and an account of the elopement.

The mother of the Emperor, the paper says fell in love with the actor and corresponded with him for some time before the rebellion began. The paper draws the conclusion that the princess believed that the Manchu cause was lost and decided to flee. The princess is said to have taken a fortune in jewels with her and to be living with Yung in Mukden.

An actor and a barber are classed with the lowest of castes of China, and Chinese here said yesterday that the elopment of the princess was the greatest disgrace that could come to the Manchu dynasty.

BETTER ROADS ARE NEEDED

Ontario's Highways Are Unworthy of Name, Says Mr. Rowell

TAKES A STRONG STAND

Bowmanville, Nov. 21.—Upon the question of good roads N. W. Rowell, K.C., the Liberal leader, took a decided stand here last night.

"If we are to more abreast of the times, if we are to get ahead of the procession we must take an advanced stand with the view of providing the country with a good roads system and keeping of the same in repair," said Mr. Rowell. "The Liberal Government started the movement forward, and if you put us in power the Liberal party will extend and carry on the good roads project on a broad basis," he said.

Referring to the present Government, he said: "The Government that has not eyes to see, feet to move, and hands to act is not the one to be in power in Ontario."

A. A. Powers, Liberal candidate in West Durham, spoke before Mr. Rowell.

"The state of affairs with regard to the schools of Ontario is nothing short of deplorable, and it should be remedied," he said. "On the bilingual school question he declared that English should be taught exclusively in all the schools. He did not, he said, know whether or not that was the stand of the Liberal party, but that was his opinion. He favored the exemption of improvements from taxation."

The meeting was held in the town hall, and there were about 500 present. W. J. Bragg, president of the West Durham Reform Association, was in the chair.

Practically all the good things that have been done by the present Government were inaugurated by their Liberal predecessors, said Mr. Rowell. The good roads movement was started by a Liberal Government, the local improvement act was planned by a Liberal Government, but the bulk of the roads now stand as they were before the passing of the Highway Act. Mr. Rowell brought in another charge against the Conservatives. They were exploiting New Ontario, he said, instead of endeavoring to build and open it up. A strong policy should be adopted with regard to opening it to settlement, he said.

Those who had been in England, France, Germany and other European countries, knew what good roads were like. The roads of Ontario in comparison were no roads at all. These countries had adopted a different system with regard to the building of roads. They decided that good roads were so important to the country that they should be carried on on a national scale. The value of good roads was as great to the residents of the city as to the farmer, said Mr. Rowell. They enabled the farmer to bring his produce to the city much easier, and they made the city man's journey to the country much more pleasant. The time has come when the Government should provide a course in connection with the engineering schools in highway engineering.

Prof. Macphail, the Versatile.

Kingston, Nov. 21.—Prof. Alexander MacPhail, elected Independent Conservative in Prince Edward Island, has returned and has resumed his classes in the school of mining. He says he will not resign from Queen's staff. The P. E. I. House convenes about the end of April each year, and as the professor's duties at Queen's end about that time, the two will not conflict. Prof. Macphail says he would not accept a portfolio were it offered, as he does not want to undertake anything that will interfere with his work at the university. He was mentioned as Minister of Agriculture.

Keeping Out Foreign Cattle.

London, Nov. 21.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—A Dublin correspondent says that Bonar Law's promise to the Commons to support the present embargo against the importation of foreign cattle has given intense satisfaction.

His further statement that he is prepared, under tariff reform, to give Irish cattle preference over Canadian, is the first substantial guarantee Ireland has received that the Unionist fiscal policy is likely to be adaptable to her needs.

TO CLEAN UP MONTREAL.

Dominion Alliance Thinks Saloons Are Too Plentiful.

Montreal, Nov. 12.—The Dominion Alliance are entering upon a big campaign against the liquor traffic in view of the approaching session of the board of license commissioners.

The secretary of the Dominion Alliance, Mr. John H. Roberts, yesterday issued a statement which is in part as follows:

"To-morrow the board of license commissioners will begin its sittings for the purpose of taking into consideration applications for licenses for the year commencing May 1, 1912. In view of these forthcoming deliberations and speaking only in the public interest, I most earnestly and solemnly appeal to the license commissioners to give the citizens of Montreal, especially the tempted poor, some relief from the intolerable conditions that prevail as a result of the over-licensing of our city.

"No other city in Canada has so many licenses for sale of intoxicating liquors as Montreal. The over-saloooning of Montreal amounts to what is nothing less than a grave scandal of immense magnitude.

"It will show how far we are behind the other cities of Canada if a comparison is made between the number of licenses in Montreal and those of other communities.

"Montreal has 105 more licenses than the next 11 largest cities of Canada combined. In other words, while the next 11 largest cities of Canada, with a combined population of 1,059,588 have 867 licenses, or one to every 1,234 of the population, this commercial metropolis of the Dominion, with a population of 466,197, has 1,061 licenses, or one to every 440 of the population. Surely I am the reverse of fanatical when I say the time has come when this enormous number should be reduced to more reasonable proportions."

The statement, including a table giving population and number of licenses of Canadian cities: Toronto retains its title as "Toronto the Good," having only one license for every 2,351 inhabitants ,as compared with Montreal's 440, Ottawa's 1,151, London's 1,358, and Quebec's 711.

OUT FOR ASQUITH.

Suffragettes Mobilizing For Attack In Great Britain.

London, Nov. 21.—The suffragettes are preparing to renew their attacks on Parliament with a battle to-night, which will surpass all previous campaigns. A few days ago a delegation of suffragettes interviewed Premier Asquith and attempted to obtain a pledge that the Government would undertake to pass a bill giving equal suffrage to both sexes. Premier Asquith declined to make such a pledge, but told the women instead that he had always been opposed to woman suffrage.

At a subsequent meeting, the suffragettes decided to inaugurate a "war of demonstration" in Parliament square on Nov. 21. They have summoned all their followers and male sympathizers to assemble around the Parliament building at 6 o'clock in the evening. The fact that the gathering is fixed for after dark may make unusual trouble for the police. Mrs. Peethick Lawrence explains it thus:

"The gathering has been arranged late for the express reason that the decent honest working man will be in the streets. We have found that their presence affords women moral protection against violence by the police and hooligans."

Miss Christobel Pankhurst declared last night that women certainly will push their way to the floor of the House of Commons this time, to make their protest against "the great insult Mr. Asquith has given."

It is reported that another women's movement, incited by a Conservative newspaper, is preparing for a monster meeting and is sending out a petition, signed by several members of the nobility in addition to many others, against the feature of Chancellor Lloyd George's insurance bill, compelling women employed to make joint contribution of six pence weekly on the German plan.

Valuable Picture Stolen.

Florence, Italy, Nov. 21.—Fra Angelico's "Madonna Della Stella," valued at $500,000, has been stolen from the Muzo Di St. Marco, formerly the Monastery of St. Marco, which was occupied before its suppression by Silvestrine monks.

A window of the museum was discovered open at midnight on Sunday, with a rope dangling to the ground, and it is supposed that thieves secured the picture in this way. Five suspects are under arrest.

OUTLOOK IS BAD

Nationalist-Conservative Government is Getting Into Deep Water

WHAT ABOUT NAVY PLANS?

Ottawa, Nov. 21.—Whether the anti-Imperial and anti-naval. Nationalist element in the Cabinet shall dominate the new Administration in determining the one vital question now before the country was the issue raised by Sir Wilfrid Laurier in the Commons yesterday afternoon. It was the first trial of debating strength between the new Opposition and the new Government, and the vulnerability of the Nationalist-Conservative Cabinet was strikingly disclosed. It was Sir Wilfrid's seventieth birthday, and as a preliminary to the speeches from both Government and Opposition sides graceful references were made to the occasion.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who moved an amendment to the address, dealing with the navy and denouncing what he termed dissension in the Cabinet, devoted himself considerably to Mr. Monk, whose leap to the Treasury benches he described as a marvelous acrobatic feat. If the Government had a new naval policy he claimed that it was the duty of the Premier to inform the House, otherwise he could not see how the two (Borden and Monk) could sit in the same Cabinet.

Mr. Borden denied any dissension in the Cabinet. His difference with Mr. Monk two years before had been on the existence of an emergency, not on a question of policy. The latter and those with him if an emergency arose would do their duty to the Empire.

They would present their naval policy at the right time, and the people should decide. The absurd and wasteful expenditure contemplated by the late administration should be put a stop to.

R. H. Bennett (Calgary), the mover of the address, is a rushing torrent of western eloquence, reminding one, as Sir Wilfrid Laurier said, of the crystal flood of the Bow River.

He paid a tribue to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who yesterday celebrated his 70th birthday, and expressed the hope "that he may long be spared to serve the nation."

The west needed a system of great trunk highways. It was encouraging to find the new Government grappling at the outset with these problems of aid to agriculture.

He expressed the hope that they would see fit to establish a department of public health, to create such conditions as would conserve, not only the natural resources, but also the vital energies of the people.

"We rejoice," said Mr. Bennett, "that at last we have a Government that has the courage of its conviction to lift the tariff to some extent at least out of politics, to create a commission that shall deal with the tariff upon a proper scientific basis." The men of the west equally with the men of the east believed in a tariff.

Arthur Sevigny (Dorchester), the seconder of the address, speaking in French, bore witness to the "sentiment of solidarity" among all provinces of the Dominion.

Mr. Sevigny closed with an eloquent declaration of the loyalty of French-Canadians to the British flag.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier was greeted by loud applause when he arose to reply. After a semi-humorous reference to Mr. Bennett's flow of oratory, he devoted himself for a moment to Mr. Sevigny, who was, he declared, well-known to them as a fervid Nationalist orator, opposed to naval expenditure in any shape or form.

"I should like to contrast his speech of to-day," said Sir Wilfrid, "with those which he carried on his election."

With regard to trade with the British West Indies and British Guiana, he did not think much was to be gained, but he did not want to discourage the Government.

Great obligations rested on the present administration. The conditions which induced the Liberal Government to negotiate the reciprocity pact were not new, but they had received added impetus from the rapid growth of the country, which felt the need of a market for its increasing surplus natural products. The British preference and the treaties with Japan and France were examples of the measures being taken to relieve this need.

Far from rendering a service to England by the defeat of reciprocity, Canada had done an injury to England and the Empire. In the contest of the future, a contest not of war but of peace, the friendship of the United States would have been the greatest asset to Great Britain. The Canadian people had done nothing at which the Americans could take umbrage, but human nature was human nature. In support of the argument he quoted the statement of The New York Times, that President Taft's plan of arbitration with Great Britain seemed deader than the wool bill. An impression was growing in the west that western interests had been sacrificed to eastern interests.

"There is a naval question," the Liberal leader continued, "of which not a word has been heard in the speech from the throne."

He recalled the amendment to the naval proposals of the late Government moved by Mr. Borden, which, he took it, laid down the policy of the present Government. The House should know what course they were going to pursue.

Is it the Imperialist lion that has swallowed the Nationalist lamb, or is it the Nationalist lamb that has swallowed the Imperialist lion?" he asked amid general laughter.

Mr. Monk has not opened his mouth on the naval question since the election. In an address at Hull the other day, he had advised the young people to eschew the civil service. Why had he not advised them to eschew the naval service?

Had the Government no naval policy to thus abdicate responsibility and say "we wash our hands of it."

"It is a scandalous and immoral violation of the elementary rules of Parliamentary Government," he declared.

Sir Wilfrid then moved an amendment to the address approving of the principle of Imperial naval defence and expenditure therefore, and declaring that the inclusion in the Cabinet of members holding diametrically opposite views to be a violation of the principles of responsible government.

Hon. R. L. Borden rose amid enthusiastic Conservative applause. He twitted Sir Wilfrid Laurier on his hallucination that the prosperity of Canada was due to him rather than to the resources of the country, and the independence of its people.

Mr. Borden took straight issue with Sir Wilfrid on his declaration that the opposition to reciprocity had been carried on the national and not economic lines, quoting paragraphs of his own manifesto to prove the contrary.

The verdict of the people was not the result of an appeal to prejudice, but of well reasoned consideration of the arguments placed before them.

Sir Wilfrid thought that the Government should have come down with a full-fledged naval policy. In 1909 he met Parliament with not a single measure to present, though he had had more time to formulate a policy than the present Government, and had the whole Ottawa platform before him. The new administration had, however, come down with a pretty full program. As to the naval policy Mr. Borden declared that he stood still where he did on his manifesto to the electors. The measure proposed by the late Government meant the expenditure of $35,000,000 in the next ten years, the creation of a fighting force that would be useless in time of war, and established the principle of a disunited navy, and by the time the ships were completed they would be obsolete.

"There is only one thing to be done," declared Mr. Borden, "and that is to stop such an absurd and wasteful expenditure. It is better to be right than to be in a hurry."

The Government would formulate their policy, and the people would be given a chance to pronounce upon it.

It was quite true, said Mr. Borden, that in the debate of two years ago he and Mr. Monk did not see eye to eye on the emergency then suggested but that was not a question of policy, but of fact. In the meantime conditions had changed, and there was no emergency.

Mr. Borden concluded with a protest against the attempt of the leader of the Opposition to excite dissensions which did not exist and to bolster up fortunes which were reduced to a very low ebb.

Hugh Guthrie and Hon. George E. Foster also spoke.

F. B. Carvel (Carleton, N.B.) will resume the debate to-day.

ANSWERS
By. J. W. BROWETT, Optometrist
Q. Why do school children with good sight require glasses?
A. Mainly to rest the eyes. The eye does not obtain its growth until the child is about the age of twelve. The growing eye is taxed beyond its strength; the proper glasses rest and preserve the eyes.
Q Why do children squint?
A By squinting or frowning the muscle in the eye is relieved of strain; this is Nature's way. Study-glasses relieve this strain, and thus prevent squint.
Q Why do children have eye headaches?
A An eye headache is a reflex pain caused by straining the eyes; the pain may be over the eyes or through the temples. The remedy for eye headaches is relief glasses, to be worn while studying.

OPERATIONS AVOIDED

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Bellerive, Que. — "Without Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I would not be alive. For five months I had painful and irregular periods and inflammation of the uterus. I suffered like a martyr and thought often of death. I consulted two doctors who could do nothing for me. I went to a hospital, and the best doctors said I must submit to an operation, because I had a tumor. I went back home much discouraged. One of my cousins advised me to take your Compound, as it had cured her. I did so and soon commenced to feel better, and my appetite came back with the first bottle. Now I feel no pain and am cured. Your remedy is deserving of praise." — Mrs. EMMA CHAPEL, Valleyfield, Bellerive, Quebec.

Another Operation Avoided.

Poughkeepsie, N.Y.—I run a sewing machine in a large factory and got all run down. I had to give up work for I could not stand the pains in my back. The doctor said I needed an operation for womb trouble but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did more for me than the doctors did. I have gained five pounds. I hope that everyone who is suffering from female trouble, nervousness and backache will take the Compound. I owe my thanks to Mrs. Pinkham. She is the working girl's friend for health, and all women who suffer should write to her and take her advice.—MISS TILLIE PLEMING, 3Jay St., Poughkeepsie, N.Y.

Thirty years of unparalleled success confirms the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to cure female diseases.

"THE AVENGER"

BY E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

"In the long run I should say that he will—if he has it," Wrayson answered. "But before you go, remember this. He has sen the account of your brother's death. He did not appear at the inquest. He has taken no steps to liscover his next of kin. Both of these procedings were part of his natural duty."

"Mr. Wrayson is quite right," the Baroness remarked. "Mr. Bentham has not behaved as an honest man. He will have to be treated firmly but carefully. You are a little excited just now. Wait for an hour or so, and perhaps Mr. Wrayson will go with you."

Barnes turned towards him eagerly and Wrayson nodded.

"Yes! I'll go," he said. "I know Mr. Bentham slightly. He once paid me rather a curious visit. But never mind that now."

"Was it in connexion with this affair?" the Baroness asked him quietly.

Wrayson affected not to hear. He passed his cigarette case to Barnes, who was stumping up and down the room, muttering to himself.

"Look here, you'd better have a smoke and calm yourself down, young man," he said. "It's no use going to see Bentham in a state like this."

The young man threw himself in a chair. Suddenly he sat up again, and addressed the Baroness.

"I say," he exclaimed, "how is it that you have a key to this flat? What did you come for here this afternoon?"

The Baroness laughed softly.

"Well, I got the key from the landlord a few days ago. I told him that I might take the flat, and he told me to come in and look at it and return the key—which you see I haven't done. To be quite honest with you, though, I had another reason for coming here."

The young man looked at her with mingled suspicion and admiration. She had raised her veil now, and even Wrayson was aware that she had scarcely realized how beautiful a woman she was. Her tailor made gown of dark green cloth fitted her to perfection; she was turned out with all that delightful perfection of detail which seems to be the Frenchwoman's heritage. Her smile, half pathetic, half appealing, was certainly sufficient to turn the head of a dozen young men such as Sydney Barnes.

"I have told you," she continued that your brother and I used to be very good friends. I wrote him now an dthen some rather foolish letters. He promised to destroy them, but—men are so foolish, you know, sometimes—I was never quite sure that he had kept his word, and I meant to take this opportunity of looking for myself that he had not left them about. You do not blame me, Mr. Sydney? You are not cross?"

He kept his eyes upon her as though fascinated.

"No," he said. "No! I mean of course not."

"These letters," she continued, "you have not seen them, Mr. Sydney? No? Or you, Mr. Wrayson?"

"We have not come across any letters at all answering that description," Wrayson assured her.

The Baroness glanced across at Barnes, who was certainly regarding her in smoewhat peculair fashion.

"Why does Mr. Sydney look at me like that?" she asked, with a little shrug of the shoulders. "He does not think that I come here to steal? Why Mr. Sydnye," she added, "I am very, very much richer than ever your brother was."

"Richer—than he was- Richer than two thousand a year!" he gasped.

The Baroness laughted softly, but heartily. She stole a sidelong glance at Wrayson.

"Why, my dear young man," she said, "it costs me—oh! quite as much as that each year to dress."

Barnes looked at her as though she were something holy. When he spoke there was awe in his tone. The problem which had formed itself in his thoughts demanded expression.

"And you say that you were a pal—I mean a friend of Morris's? You wrote him letters?"

The Baroness smiled.

"Why not?" she exclaimed. "Women have queer tastes, you know. We like all sorts of men. I think I must ask Mr. Wrayson to bring you in to tea one afternoon. Would you like to come?"

"Yes!" he answered.

She nodded a farewell, and turned to Wrayson.

"As for you," she said under her breath, "you had better come soon if you want to make your peace with Louise."

"May I come this afternoon?" he asked.

She nodded, and held out her exquisitely gloved hand.

"I knew you were going to be an ally," she murmured under her breath. "Don't let the others get hold of him."

She was gone before Wrayson could ask for an explanation. The others! If only he could discover who they were.

He turned back into the room.

"Do you mind coming down to my flat for a moment, Barnes?" he asked. "I want to telephone to the office before I go out with you again."

The young man followed him heavily. He seemed a little dazed. In Wraysons sitting room, he stood looking about him as though appraising the value of the curios, pictures and engravings with which the apartment was crowded. Wrayson, while waiting for his call, watched him curiously. In his present state his vulgarity was perhaps less glaringly apparent, but his lack of attractiveness was accentuated. His ears seemed to have grown larger, his pinched Semitic features more repulsive, and his complexion sallower. He was pitchforked into a world of which he knew nothing, and he seemed stunned by his first contact with it. Only one thing remained—the greed in his eyes. They seemed to have grown narrower and brighter with desire.

He did not speak until they were in the cab. Then he turned to Wrayson.

"I say," he exclaimed, "what was her name?"

Wrayson smiled.

"The Baroness de Sturm," he answered.

"Baroness! Real Baroness! All O. K. I suppose?"

"Without a doubt," Wrayson answered.

"And Morris knew her—she wrote letters to him," he continued, "a woman—like that."

He was silent for several moments. It was obvious that his opinion of his brother was rising rapidly. His tone had become almost reverential.

"I've got to find where that money is," he said abruptly. "If I go through fire and water to get it, I'll have it. I'll kep eon Morris's fiat. I'll go to his tailor! I'll—you're laughing at me but I mean it! I've had enough of grubbing along on nothing a week, and living in the gutters. I want a bit of Morris's luck."

Wrayson put his head out of the cab. The young man's face was not pleasant to look at.

"We are there," he said. "Come along."

CHAPTER XV

The offices of Mr. Bentham were situated at the extreme end of a dingy, depressing looking street which ran from the Adelphi to the Embankment Gardens. It was a street of private hotels which no one had ever heard of, and where apparently no one ever stayed. A few cranky institutions, existing under the excuse of charity, had their offices there and a firm of publishers, whose glory was of the past, still dragged out their uncomfortable and profitless existence in a building whose duty windows and smoke-stained walls sufficiently proclaimed their first approaching extinction. They found the name of Mr. Bentham upon a rusty brass plate outside the last building in th estreet, with the additional intimation that his offices were upon the first floor. There they found him, without clerks, without even an errand boy, in a large bare apartment overlooking the Embankment. The room was darkened by the branches of one of a row of elm trees, and the windows themselves were curtainless. There was no carpet upon the floor, no paper upon the walls, no rows of tin boxes, none of the usual surroundings of a lawyer's office. The solicitor, who had bidden them enter, did not at first offer them any salutation. He paused in a letter which he was writing and his eyes rested for a moment upon Wrayson, and for a second or two longer upon his companion.

"Good afternoon, Mr. Bentham!" Wrayson said. "My name is Wrayson—you reme aber me, I daresay."

"I remember you certainly, Mr. Wrayson," the lawyer answered. His eyes were resting once more upon Sydney Barnes.

"This," Wrayson explained, "is Mr. Sydney Barnes, a brother of the Mr. Morris Barnes, who was, I believe, a client of yours."

"Scarcely," the lawyer murmured, "a client of mine, although I must confess that I was anxious to secure him as one. Possibly if he had lived a fe wmore hours, the epithet would have ben in order."

Wrayson nodded.

"From a letter which we found in Mr. Barnes' desk," he remarked, "we concluded that some business was pending between you. Hence our visit."

Mr. Bentham betrayed no sign of interest or curiosity of any sort.

"I regret," he said, "hat I cannot offer you chairs. I am not accustomed to receive my clients here. If you care to be seated upon that form, pray do so."

Wrayson glanced at the form and declined. Sydney Barnes seemed scarcely to have heard the invitation. his eyes wer eglued upon the lawyer's face.

"Will you tell me precisely," Mr. Bentham said, "in what way I can be of service to you?"

"I want to know where my brother's money is," Barnes declared, stepping a little forward. "Two thousand a year he had. We've seen it in his bankbook. Five hundred pounds every quarter day! And we can't find a copper! You were his lawyer, or were going to be. You must have known something about his position."

Mr. Bentham looked sraight ahead with still, impassive face. No trace of the excitement in Sydney Barnes' face was reflected in his features.

"Two thousand a year," he repeated calmly. "It was really as much as that, was it Your brother had, I believe, once mentioned the amount to me. I had no idea, though, that it was quite so large."

"I am his heir," the young man declared feverishly. "I'll take my oath there's no one else. I'm going to take out letters of administration. eH hadn't another relation on God's earth."

Mr. Bentham regarde dthe young man thoughtfully.

"Have you any idea, Mr. Barnes," he asked, "as to the source of this income?"

"Of course I haven't," Barnes answered. "That's why we're here. You must know something about it."

"Your brother was not my client," the lawyer said slowly. "If his death had not been quite so sudden, I think that he might have been. As it is, I know very little of his affairs. I am afraid that I can be of very little use to you."

"You must know something," Barnes declared doggedly. "You must tell us what you do know."

"Your brother was," Mr. Bentham said, "a very remarkable man. Has it never occurred to you, Mr. Barnes, that this two thousand a year might have been money received in payment of services rendered—might have been, in short, in th enature of a salary?"

"Not likely," Barnes answered contemptuously. "Morris did no work at all. eH did nothing but just enjoy himself and spend money."

"Nothing but enjoy himself and spend money," Mr. Bentham repeated. "Ah! Did you see a great deal of your brother during the last few years?"

"I saw nothing of him at all. I was out in South Africa. I have only just got back. Not but that I'd been back here long ago," the young man added, wih a note of exasperation in his tnoe, "if I'd had any idea of the luck he was in. Why, I lent him a bit to come back with, though I was only earning thirty bob a weke, and th ebrute only sent it me back in bits, and not a farthing over."

"That was not considerate of him," Mr. Bentham agred—"not at all considerate. Your brother had the command of considerable sums of money. In fact, Mr. Barnes, I may tell you, without any breach of confidence, I think that if he had kept his appointment with me on the night he was murdered, I was prepared, on behalf of my client, to hand him a cheque for ten thousand pounds!"

Barnes struck the table before him with his clenched fist.

"For what?" he cried, hystriecally. "Ten thousan dpounds for what?"

"Your brother," Mr. Bentham said calmly, "was possessed of seeurities which were worth that much or even more to my client."

"And where are they now?" Barnes gasped.

"I do not know," Mr. Bentham answered. "If you can find them, I think it very likely that my client might make you a similar offer."

It was the first ray of hope. Barnes moistened his dry lips with his tongue, and drew a long breath.

"Securities!" he muttered. "What sort of securities?"

"There, unfortunately," Mr. Bentham said, "I am unable to help you. I am an agent only in the matter. They were securities which my client was anxious to buy, and your brother was not unwilling to sell for cash, notwithstanding the income which they were bringing him in."

"But how can I look for them, if I don't know what they are?" Barnes protested.

"There are difficulties, certainly," the lawyr admitted, carefully polishing his spectacles with the corner of his silk handkerchief "but, then, as you have doubtless surmised, the whole situation is a difficult one."

"You can get to know," Barnes exclaimed. "Your client would tell you."

Mr. Bentham sighed gently.

"If course," he said, "I am only quoting my own opinion, but I do not think that my client would do anything of the sort. These securities hapen to be of a somewhat secret nature. Your brother was in a position to make an exceedingly clever use of them. It appears incidentally to have cost him his life, but there are risks, of course, in every profession."

Barnes stared at him with wide-open eyes. He seemed, for the moment, struck dumb. Wrayson, who had been silent during the greater part of the conversation, turned towards he lawyer.

"You believe, then," he asked, "that Morris Barnes was murdered for the sake of these securities?"

Teacher Cured of Barber's Itch

Tells of Cures Among His Pupils That Were Remarkable

Raw, Inflamed, Itching Skin is Soothed and Healed by

Dr. Chase's Ointment

Barber's Itch is a form of Ringworm, which, when once started, is most annoying and unsightly, and most difficult to cure. Barbers often refuse to shave anyone having this disease, for fear of passing it on to other customers.

But you can cure Barber's Itch and keep the skin wonderfully soft, and healthy by applying Dr. Chase's Ointment. Just read what this teacher has to say about the healing power of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mr. Chas. C. Poirier, Upper Caraquet, N. B., writes: "Two years ago while teaching at Shippegan I caught Barber's Itch. A friend told me Dr. Chase's Ointment would cure me, as it had him. When I went for a box I thought it dear, but when I found how good it was I thought it cheap.

"Not only was I cured by that single box, but it also cured two of my pupils, and this too quickly to be believed. One of them, a girl, had a running sore on the chin, which the doctor had tried in vain to cure. The other had a sore on the ear; water running out of it all the time. I can certify to the cure of these cases."

Wherever there is itching skin or a sore that refuses to heal you can apply Dr. Chase's Ointment with positive assurance that the results will be entirely satisfactory. The soothing, healing power of this great ointment is truly wonderful. 60c a box, at all dealers, or Edmandson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Two Minute Talks About

PANDORA RANGE

for Coal or Wood

Its Long Life

THE Pandora Range is for those who desire to make a permanent investment. The high quality of the materials and the superior method of construction assure long life.

The Body of the Pandora is very heavy. The Rods and Bolts are on the outside where they cannot burn or rust out. The Expansion Rings of the cooking section provide ample allowance for extreme expansion and contraction and eliminate the possibility of the metal cracking.

The Cooking Top is Burnished which toughens the surface of the metal and increases its strength. McClary Oil Cement is used between the joints. Unlike cheap, ordinary cement, it will not dry out and need replacing. The Nickelling will not tarnish and is many times more durable than the single coat of nickel on ordinary ranges.

The Semi-Steel Fire Box Linings are twenty per cent. heavier than cast or gray iron linings. Sulphur fumes, so destructive to cast iron, cannot penetrate the hard, smooth as glass surface of Semi-Steel. The Grates have Three Faces, which allows the wear to be distributed on three sides, insuring triple durability.

If you want a range of guaranteed quality get the Pandora. It's built to give you lasting service.

MONTREAL, 22nd February, 1909.

I HEREBY CERTIFY that I have drawn by my own hand ten samples of the St. Lawrence Sugar Refining Co's EXTRA STANDARD GRANULATED SUGAR, indiscriminately taken from fous lots of about 150 barrels each and six lots of about 450 bags each. I have analyzed same and find them uniformly to contain 99-99/100 to 100 per cent of pure cane sugar, with no impurities whatever.

HASTINGS ITEMS OF INTEREST

Examiner Special:

HASTINGS, NOV. 18.—The fowl supper, which was held in the town hall on Monday evening last, was, as usual, a grand success. The tables were made very attractive and inviting, cut flowers and house-plants being used in profusion, and were waited on by a score of winsome lads and lassies, while the viands were of such a nature as to suit the most fastidious taste, both as to quantity and quality. After ample justice had been done to the feast the Company repaired to the church, where a good programme was given by the Havelock Choir, assisted by Mr. G. Andrews of Albert College, as elocutionist; also the resident ministers, who made some pleasing remarks. On the following evening a social was held, which added materially to the proceeds. The committee in charge have every reason to be proud of their success.

Owing to the inclemency of the weather on Friday evening, only a very few of our people attended the annual "at home" in the Norwood High School.

Mrs. Stanford, widow of the unfortunate man, who met death by drowning, recently, left during the week for her home in England.

The funeral of the late Mr. Rivard was held on Saturday morning to the R. C. Church for service and from thence to the cemetery for interment. Deceased had been ailing for some time, and death was not wholly unexpected. He leaves to mourn his loss, besides his widow, two sons and two daughters, who have the sympathy of all in their bereavement.

Quite a depth of snow fell on Friday, which was immediately followed by rain, which soon made it disappear.

Miss Gertie Huycke, of Peterborough, has been a guest at the home of her uncle, Mr. L. T. Huycke.

Mr. Arnold Edison returned on Thursday from Western Canada, where he has spent several months.

Several of the deer hunters have arrived home, some well laden with spoils, but others not so fortunate.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Scriver of Keene, spent the week end with their daughter, Mrs. D. Scriver.

Rev. Mr. Grey and Mr. R. Honey of Warkworth, were in town on Monday.

Mr. E. J. Laing of Norwood, gave us a call on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Greenbank, of Norwood, spent Monday with Mrs. J. Valleau.

Mr. and Mrs. Best of Toronto, are visiting under the parental roof.

Mr. J. Andrews and daughter, Mabel, of Norwood, spent Monday in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Julian Carter of Havelock, have been visiting the former's mother, Mrs. J. Carter, town.

Miss Mabel Buchanan, of Havelock, was the guest of her friend, Miss Flossie Carter.

Miss Laura Buck, of Norwood, has been holidaying at the home of her uncle, Mr. Jas. Buck.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Buchanan, of Havelock, spent Monday with friends in town.

We are sorry to say that Mr. Bingham's condition is not improving and his friends view his illness with alarm.

Rev. J. R. and Mrs. Real of Havelock, attended the fowl supper on Monday evening.

Rev. Mr. Richards of Westwood, gave us a call through the past week.

TIT-BITS

SPONTANEOUS GENERATION

The controversy over spontaneous generation will be precipitated afresh by the announcement of Professor Henry Charlton Bastian, senior fellow of the Royal Society and professor emeritus of the principles and practice of medicine at University College, London, that he has succeeded in producing living organisms from a saline solution. Professor Bastian has long been working in this field, and is undaunted by the storm of opprobrium that has overwhelmed fellow scientists who have from time to time published tentative results pointing in the same direction. All of them, without exception, have been promptly squelched, but if Bastian or any successor to Bastian should triumph, they would of course be dug up out of the mire of oblivion and hailed as great pioneers of the greatest of all scientific discoveries. In their attitude in this matter it is the orthodox scientists who are unscientific in losing their tempers. It is a matter perfectly susceptible of proof or refutation by sufficient experimenting, and there is no danger of the spread of a pernicious heresy. They may be right in believing that life comes only from life, but a negative in such a case cannot be demonstrated like the impossibility of squaring the circle. The quest is bound to go on, and while busy scientists may be excused from troubling with nobodies who lay claim to the production of life, they can hardly ignore Professor Bastian, and merely to denounce him contributes more heat than light on the subject.—Springfield Republican.

ARTIFICIAL WOOD

Mr. Louis Carre, in England, has invented a process for the artificial production of wood from straw or dried grass. It is proposed to use the wood only in the manufacture of matches, for which purpose it is said to be cheaper than natural wood. The straw is passed through crushing rolls and then through cylindrical cutters, which divide it into strips. Afterwards, supplied with an adhesive, the strips, enclosed on top and bottom with layers of paper, are passed between other rolls, and through linked moulds in the form of a chain, where they are subjected to pressure and heat, from which they issue in the form of round splints, which are then cut into the proper length for matches.—Scientific American.

NOTED MEN OF GREAT AGE

Noted men of great age are Sir Joseph Hooker, a celebrated botanist and John Bigelow, American journalist and diplomatist, both ninety-three years old; Bishop Thomas Bowman and Lord Wenyes, the oldest British peer, both ninety-two; John Tenniel, the famous cartoonist, and Lord Strathcona, each ninety; Sir Charles Tupper and Clara Barton, Civil war nurse, both eighty-nine, and Professor Alfred R. Wallace, eighty-eight.

The Rev. Dr. Robert Collyer, ex-Senator Henry G. Davis, of West Virginia, and ex-Confederate General Buckner are all living at the age of eighty-seven. Ex-Vice-President Levi P. Morten is eighty-six.

Sir William Aiken, pathologist; Emile Olivier, French Academician, and General Daniel E. Sickles are eighty-five. Pere Hyacinthe, Lord Lister and Nehemiah D. Sperry, M.C., are eighty-three. Sir Henry James, lawyer; De Freycinet, French statesman; ex-Senator Edmunds, ex-President Dwight, of Yale, and James B. Angell are eighty-two. General Booth, Salvation Army leader; Senator Cullom, and Viscount Peel are eighty-one. Ex-President Diaz, of Mexico; Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria, Salvini, tragedian; ex-Secretary Tracy, Bishop Doane, ex-Senator Jones, of Nevada; ex-Senator Teller, Justin McCarthy, Henry M. Flagler, and ex-Governor William Sprague, of Rhode Island, have reached the age of eighty.—New York Evening Post.

A NOVEL BIRTH CERTIFICATE

Since the old-age pension act has been in operation in England, says a writer in the November Strand Magazine, there has been a great search for birth certificates in order to enable those entitled to its benefits to claim their pension. As the registration of births more than seventy years ago was not carried out as now, there has been a difficulty in many cases in proving the age of the applicant, and in one instance at least a certificate of an exceedingly novel character was in an exceedingly novel character was presented. At any rate, the local pensions officer said he had never come across one like it, and he was quite prepared to take it as a proof of the age of the applicant. When a child was born in this particular family a clear glass bottle was procured and partly filled with salt; then the letters and figures forming the names of the child and date of birth were cut out of a newspaper and placed inside the bottle, being put in their correct position with a piece of wire, and then more salt was carefully added to keep them in place. Sprays of flowers and other ornamental designs, cut from cretonne, were also tastefully arranged around the inside of the bottle, and then the whole was tightly packed with salt, and corked and sealed. It was then placed in a prominent position on the dresser or in a corner cupboard, where it has been for more than seventy years. The white salt shows up the letters and ornaments in relief, and the whole effect is novel and pleasing.

BOOM IN SHINTOISM IN JAPAN

Recent advice from Japan puts a less encouraging interpretation on the action of the government in encouraging religious observances than many at first hoped, says the Missionary Review of the World. The anarchist plot startled Japan, and led some to express the idea that the Japanese people must be religious in order to be safe, and that all religions should be impartially recognized. The fact seems to be that the feeling of insecurity induced by the trial of the plotters resulted in a desire to make the Shinto beliefs and observances supreme by way of assuring belief in the divinity of the mikado. The minister of education is reported to have said, "In imparting education the most careful attention should be directed to encouraging the people to reverence the Shinto deities, placing great importance on religious services held in commemoration of their ancestors." A missionary writes that in consequence of this teachers are taking their children to the Shinto shrines and some are trying to keep children from attendance on the Christian Sunday schools. The Christians are opposing this, and there is danger of a clash. It seems impossible that Japan should turn back to the legends on which Shinto is founded, and withdraw religious liberty from its subjects and their children.

MOTHERS!
DO YOU KNOW

That when you put a salve into your child's skin, it passes through the pores and enters the blood, just as surely as if you put it into the child's stomach?

You would not put a coarse mass of animal fat, colored by various mineral poisons (such as many crude salves are) into your child's blood by way of the stomach? Then why do so by way of the pores?

Take no risk. Use always the pure herbal essences provided in Zam-Buk. Zam-Buk contains no trace of any animal oil or fat, and no poisonous mineral coloring matter. From start to finish it is purely herbal.

It will heal sores, ulcers, abscesses, eruptions, varicose ulcers, cuts, burns and bruises more quickly than any other known preparation. It is antiseptic, quickly stops the smarting of a sore or cut, cures piles, inflamed sores and blood-poisoning. It is a combination of healing power and scientific purity. Ask those who have proved it.

CARE OF THE PEN

From Farm and Dairy.

The care of the pen makes quite a difference about keeping the calf's digestion right.

The calves require more bedding than other stock. If they are permitted to lie on a cold, damp bed, they take cold and that they are out of condition is shown by their rough, staring coat, running noses and general unhealthy appearance.

Nature provides an abundance of sunlight, good ventilation and chance for exercise. Look out for all these things, as they all mean something to the dairy calf in keeping the digestion right and the building up of a good, strong physical frame.

The good old song "Let the blessed sunshine in," is just as applicable to our cow stables and calf stables as our Sunday schools.

Young animals need especial care, as their growth and development require all the nourishment there is in feed.

Don't forget the exercise. Where calves are kept in a little four by six pen, with conditions just the reverse of what they should be—dark, damp, -uoa ɹɐɯ ɹɐ—ɯɐɯɹoxɐ ɹoɟ ɔonɹsɯ ou gloomy, ammonia-filled air to breathe, der that the average production of our cows is so low when they have been brought up under these adverse conditions?

The fall calves usually make the best growth; possibly one reason being that we are around the barn more and notice their condition and can give them proper attention at the right time.

One quite common trouble with the spring calf is that we want to get it out on pasture altogether too soon, and skimmilk, grass, flies and hot weather make a mighty poor combination. We would rather keep them in through the summer, feeding them on good oats and clover and milk, and by paying attention to the stable conditions and exercise, they will make a better growth than if turned out.

Neglected Colds Lead to Consumption

Unless a complete cure is effected the inflammation passes rapidly to the throat's bronchial tubes and then to the lungs.

You can't make new lungs any more than you can make new fingers or a new nose—hence consumption is practically incurable.

But Catarrh can be cured, except in its final and always fatal stage.

In using Catarrhozone you don't take medicine into the stomach—you just breathe a healing piney vapor direct to the lungs and air passages.

Catarrhozone Guaranteed to Cure

The purest balsams and the greatest antiseptics are thus sent to every spot where catarrhal trouble exists—germs are killed, foul secretions are destroyed, nature is given a chance and cure comes quickly.

Colds and throat troubles can't last if the pure healing vapor of Catarrhozone is breathed—sneezing and coughing cease at once, because irritation is removed.

Use Catarrhozone to prevent—use it to cure your winter ills—it's pleasant, safe, and guaranteed in every case, 25c., 50c., and $1.00 sizes. Sold by all dealers. By mail from the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

NOT A BRANT RELIC

The Indian Chief Died Before the War of 1812

Mr. F. O. Loft does not believe the announcement from Ottawa that Mr. Newton J. Ker, Ottawa's city engineer, has come into possession of the original musket used by Chief Joseph Brant at the battles of Queenston Heights, Landy's Lane, and others in which he fought with General Brock; also a Masonic apron, once his own, which is stated to be over a hundred years old.

"Captain Joseph Brant," said Mr. Loft, "died on November 24, 1807, which was five years previous to the war of 1812. If it was a Brant who carried this particular musket, it must have been John Brant, the second son, who personally identified himself with the war of 1812, but not as a recognised leader of the 'Five Nations,' because we were not Six Nations until 1817, when the Tuscaroras were accepted and adopted into the Confederacy of the Five Nations known as the Iroquois.

"Capt. Joseph Brant was a Mason, but I am not in a position to say definitely if any of his sons, Jacob, John, Joseph and Isaac, were. The great Mohawk warrior and leader was the Master and presiding officer of a lodge that had a meeting place in the Mohawk village on the Grand River near Brantford. The village was founded and settled by the Mohawas in 1873.

"In his 'History of Masonry,' by John Ross Robertson, there appear some interesting facts relative to Capt. Joseph Brant's record as a Mason, how he was presented by King George IV. with a Masonic apron on the occasion of Brant being made a Mason upon one of his visits to England, and as a guest of his Majesty. The apron was not of Indian design or workmanship.

"The warrant of authority for the lodge at Mohawk village was obtained by Capt. Joseph Brant by certificate from King George IV.

"From this it would appear that the great warrior's ambitions were directed in various channels. In this respect it would be equally interesting to know if there were other Indians in that lodge or whether he was the presiding officer and Master of a lodge composed of Anglo-Saxon settlers who were encouraged to settle on the Indians' land by Brant, whose object in allowing it was to teach the Indians the art of tilling the soil.

"It would seem then, under these circumstances, that the Masonic apron—which is spoken of as of Indian design and workmanship—and the musket, now in the hands of Mr. Newton J. Ker of Ottawa, can hardly be reckoned as authentic Brant relics."

NURSERY IN CHURCH

Boon Avenue Methodist Pastor Makes Innovations

During the evening services at Boon Avenue Methodist Church, mothers enjoy the sermon in quietness while their infants are looked after in the nursery, which the pastor, Rev. P. P. Bryce, and his wife, have introduced as a part of the church equipment. This church has a cradle roll of 460, likely the largest in the Dominion. Among other schemes to benefit his people, Pastor Bryce has devised the plan of inducing the children to give him the pennies they save, and then in the winter he will buy them shoes with the money. The parents are invited to put in their savings, too, and stoves will be provided for those needing them out of the fund thus gathered.

INDIANS OF THE NORTH

A Tale of Hardship Related by MacDonald to Elbert Hubbard.

A man named MacDonald who has spent thirty years as agent for the Hudson Bay Company in the North described the Indians as follows to Elbert Hubbard:

"No, Indians are not bad people if you treat them about half right. They may be savages, but they are not as savage as white men. I never had a gun argument with an Indian. He is a child by nature, and responds to kindness. It pays to tell the truth to children, and I may be wrong, but I believe in keeping faith with Indians. This was always my policy, and Indians for hundreds of miles around were my friends. They even told me their troubles, which is a very unusual thing for an Indian to do.

"The last few winters have been very severe, and my Indian friends have suffered greatly. Two squaws came into the Post last spring, just when the leaves had begun to come out. One of them had a papoose on her back, and with her was an eight year-old girl. I remembered the year before when she came here her husband was with her, also a grown up boy and several children beside.

"The squaws sat around all day and said nothing. I guessed they wanted to tell me something. At night, they disappeared, but in the morning they came back and told me a tale of hardship that really melted my stony heart, used as I am to suffering.

"Winter had set in early and the snows fell. This woman, with the grown up boy who had just killed his first deer, and, therefore, was a man, had laid in quite a stock of frozen rabbits, but a wandering band of trappers coming along and needing food she had given them all the rabits. She was sure that her husband and could get more. But the snows kept falling, and the winds blew and drifted the snow so that it was unsafe to leave the tepee.

They had eaten the dogs, all save one old favorite. The food was all gone, and after waiting two days the man and boy started forth to hunt. Not a track could be found, for the snow was falling and drifting beside. They did not return, and during the night the dog came back alone. The mother left her children and went forth, following the dog to find her husband and boy. They had been famished for food and were overcome by the cold before they had gone a mile. The boy was dead, but the man was still alive. The woman carried and dragged him home.

"Something must be done. She placed the man upon a toboggan, strapped the five-year-old child on top of her back, and with the eight-year-old girl helping to pull the toboggan, she started for her nearest neighbor's, ten miles away. All day she moved steadily forward. She arrived and entered the tepee of her friend. One glance told her—her neighbor was even in greater distress than herself, for all of her household were dead and the woman was alone, just ready to let the fire go out and lie down and sleep the long sleep. The woman who had just arrived killed the dog, and this kept them alive for a few days. But the man and the five-year-old child died, and the women, the papoose and the eight-year-old girl were alone. The snow ceased to fall, and they caught rabbits and ate bark for food.

"At last spring arrived, and when the ice melted they came to the Post to tell me of their loss. There were no tears—just a plain recital of the facts. They wanted nothing only that I should know. They did not even wish me to condole with them, for after telling me their tale they disappeared in the forest and I sat there, dumb."

EDUCATION IN BERLIN

Controversy Between the "Classicals" And "Moderns."

The long-standing controversy between the supporters of "Classical" and "modern" education has resulted in the establishment of commercial schools and colleges in Berlin where the classics, especially Greek, can be entirely dropped. The Minister of Education has now come forward with an edict applying to all higher Government schools and aiming generally at wider and better acquaintance among the scholars of classical authors and particularly at reducing the time and attention given merely to grammar.

OUR FAR NORTH

Mr. Stupart Believes the Land will be Inhabited and Cultivated.

"Canada's Northland," was the subject of an interesting illustrated lecture of Mr. R. F. Stupart, Toronto, who took his audience over an imaginary trip in the northern parts of the Dominion. Mr. Stupart has travelled over the greater portion of the North territory, and was enabled to enrich his lecture with a wealth of detail as to the resources of the country and the manners and customs of its inhabitants, in addition to many humorous incidents which he witnessed. He spoke in very high terms of the Peace River district and the so-called "Barren Lands." Although very severe in winter, its climate compared very favorably with that of Alberta. It was a fine country for game, and its agricultural possibilities were very great. His warmest tribute, however, was for Northern Ontario, with its inestimable resources in minerals, timber, fisheries and game, and, by no means the least, its agriculture potentialities.

A close study of the climatic conditions of the northland revealed the fact that the widest difference in temperature between it and the southern portions of the province existed only during the Winter. During the Spring and Summer the average temperature of the north was only 5 degrees cooler than Toronto or Ottawa. The period of good Summer weather was quite ample for the ripening of cereals and all kinds of garden produce. Northern Quebec was equally favored. In that province the untilled agricultural lands exceeded the tilled, and probably far exceeded the untilled lands of Ontario. He predicted that in the course of a few years all these lands would be inhabited and made productive. He also pointed out the value of the Hudson Bay Railway and the bay itself as a medium for the transportation of the grain and other produce of the North-West to European markets.

HE COPIED CRIPPEN

A Gruesome Murder is Reported from Versailles.

A murder that in some of its gruesome details recalls the Crippen case, was committed at Versailles. The remains of the victim, a girl of sixteen, Marie Delrieu, were found on the pavement in the Rue de Romilly. The body was mutilated and the murderer had evidently tried to get rid of it by cutting it up. For some reason he abandoned the work, it seems, and then took the body out into the street at a moment when no one was about. The girl was employed at a newspaper shop to deliver papers, and was murdered while out on this duty. The police have found traces of blood leading from the spot where the body was found to a villa about twenty yards further along in the same street. This villa belongs to a lawyer who is at present in the south of France, and it was left in charge of a valet named Jean Caron. Suspicious traces have been found on the walls and floor of the kitchen of the villa. The valet left Versailles early this morning saying he was going to Nice to join his master.

THE SARCEE INDIANS

The Ancient Habits And Customs of the Tribe.

Within twelve miles from Calgary, a city of fifty thousand people, and with telephone communication with that city, the Sarcee Indians pursue their lives and observe exactly as their forefathers the ancient habits and customs of their tribe.

Two years ago there was a great festival, at which seven of the oldest chiefs related the stories of their exploit, which the painter of the tribe preserved for posterity on two immense deer hides, as shown in the accompanying photograph. These hides are now carefully preserved at the office of the agent on the Sarcee Reserve.

While the history of the palefaces has been in the daily newspaper, the magazine an dthe Government archives, the Indians have no such means of collecting, preserving and disseminating information of their great men. The Indian led relies on camp-fire stories and a well-tanned deer hide covered with queer characters painted crudely with a sort of ink made from the juices of plants.

These records are not haphazard, but they are not altogether regular. When several chiefs and medicine men of the tribe are growing old an assembly is arranged, where a famous Indian interpreter and painter meets the aged men. One by one the old men stand forth before the people and recount the stories of their lives. They tell thrilling tales of the battles in which they have fought, of the scalps they have taken, and the horses they have stolen. These three achievements are regarded as the three most honorable and valorous exploits of the great men. Compared with these, the white man's election to Parliament, his appointment to high office, and his great commercial achievements are as nothing.

Sometimes their meetings last several days. The old men are enthusiastic in their descriptions of bygone days; they recite rapidly and gesticulate much. The members of the tribe, sitting about them, listen eagerly, storing the details to be told over and over again to their sons and their sons' sons, until they are tribal traditions of the long past. As they talk the painter sits upon the ground with his steer hide spread before him and paints with his wyes rude pictures to illustrate the incidents.

One of them had a papoose on her back, and with her was an eight year-old girl. I remembered the year before when she came here her husband was with her, also a grown up boy and several children beside.

"The squaws sat around all day and said nothing. I guessed they wanted to tell me something. At night, they disappeared, but in the morning they came back and told me a tale of hardship that really melted my stony heart, used as I am to suffering.

"Winter had set in early and the snows fell. This woman, with the grown up boy who had just killed his first deer, and, therefore, was a man, had laid in quite a stock of frozen rabbits, but a wandering band of trappers coming along and needing food she had given them all the rabits. She was sure that her husband and could get more. But the snows kept falling, and the winds blew and drifted the snow so that it was unsafe to leave the tepee.

They had eaten the dogs, all save one old favorite. The food was all gone, and after waiting two days the man and boy started forth to hunt. Not a track could be found, for the snow was falling and drifting beside. They did not return, and during the night the dog came back alone. The mother left her children and went forth, following the dog to find her husband and boy. They had been famished for food and were overcome by the cold before they had gone a mile. The boy was dead, but the man was still alive. The woman carried and dragged him home.

"Something must be done. She placed the man upon a toboggan, strapped the five-year-old child on top of her back, and with the eight-year-old girl helping to pull the toboggan, she started for her nearest neighbor's, ten miles away. All day she moved steadily forward. She arrived and entered the tepee of her friend. One glance told her—her neighbor was even in greater distress than herself, for all of her household were dead and the woman was alone, just ready to let the fire go out and lie down and sleep the long sleep. The woman who had just arrived killed the dog, and this kept them alive for a few days. But the man and the five-year-old child died, and the women, the papoose and the eight-year-old girl were alone. The snow ceased to fall, and they caught rabbits and ate bark for food.

"At last spring arrived, and when the ice melted they came to the Post to tell me of their loss. There were no tears—just a plain recital of the facts. They wanted nothing only that I should know. They did not even wish me to condole with them, for after telling me their tale they disappeared in the forest and I sat there dumb."

EDUCATION IN BERLIN

Controversy Between the "Classicals" And "Moderns."

The long-standing controversy between the supporters of "Classical" and "modern" education has resulted in the establishment of commercial schools and colleges in Berlin where in the classics, especially Greek, can be entirely dropped. The Minister of Education has now come forward with an edict applying to all higher Government schools and aiming generally at wider and better acquaintance among the scholars of classical authors and particularly at reducing the time and attention given merely to grammar.

OUR FAR NORTH

Mr. Stupart Believes the Land will be Inhabited and Cultivated.

"Canada's Northland," was the subject of an interesting illustrated lecture of Mr. R. F. Stupart, Toronto, who took his audience over an imaginary trip in the northern parts of the Dominion. Mr. Stupart has travelled over the greater portion of the North territory, and was enabled to enrich his lecture with a wealth of detail as to the resources of the country and the manners and customs of its inhabitants, in addition to many humorous incidents which he witnessed. He spoke in very high terms of the Peace River district and the so-called "Barren Lands." Although very severe in winter, its climate compared very favorably with that of Alberta. It was a fine country for game, and its agricultural possibilities were very great. His warmest tribute, however, was for Northern Ontario, with its inestimable resources in minerals, timber, fisheries and game, and, by no means the least, its agriculture potentialities.

A close study of the climatic conditions of the northland revealed the fact that the widest difference in temperature between it and the southern portions of the province existed only during the Winter. During the Spring and Summer the average temperature of the north was only 5 degrees cooler than Toronto or Ottawa. The period of good Summer weather was quite ample for the ripening of cereals and all kinds of garden produce. Northern Quebec was equally favored. In that province the untilled agricultural lands exceeded the tilled, and probably far exceeded the untilled lands of Ontario. He predicted that in the course of a few years all these lands would be inhabited and made productive. He also pointed out the value of the Hudson Bay Railway and the bay itself as a medium for the transportation of the grain and other produce of the North-West to European markets.

HE COPIED CRIPPEN

A Gruesome Murder is Reported from Versailles.

A murder that in some of its gruesome details recalls the Crippen case, was committed at Versailled. The remains of the victim, a girl of sixteen, Marie Delrieu, were found on the pavement in the Rue de Romilly. The body was mutilated and the murderer had evidently tried to get rid of it by cutting it up. For some reason he abandoned the work, it seems, and then took the body out into the street at a moment when no one was about. The girl was employed at a newspaper shop to deliver papers, and was murdered while out on this duty. The police have found traces of blood leading from the spot where the body was found to a villa about twenty yards further along in the same street. This villa belongs to a lawyer who is at present in the south of France, and it was left in charge of a valet named Jean Caron. Suspicious traces have been found on the walls and floor of the kitchen of the villa. The valet left Versailles early this morning saying he was going to Nice to join his master.

THE SARCEE INDIANS

The Ancient Habits And Customs of the Tribe.

Within twelve miles from Calgary, a city of fifty thousand people, and with telephone communication with that city, the Sarcee Indians pursue their lives and observe exactly as their forefathers the ancient habits and customs of their tribe.

Two years ago there was a great festival, at which seven of the oldest chiefs related the stories of their exploit, which the painter on the tribe preserved for posterity on two immense deer hides, as shown in the accompanying photograph. These hides are now carefully preserved at the office of the agent on the Sarcee Reserve.

While the history of the palefaces has been in the daily newspaper, the magazine an dthe Government archives, the Indians have no such means of collecting, preserving and disseminating information of their great men. The Indian had relies on camp-fire stories and a well-tanned deer hide covered with queer characters painted crudely with a sort of ink made from the juices of plants.

These records are not haphazard, but they are not altogether regular. When several chiefs and medicine men of the tribe are growing old an assembly is arranged, where a famous Indian interpreter and painter meets the aged men. One by one the old men stand forth before the people and recount the stories of their lives. They tell thrilling tales of the battles in which they have fought, of the scalps they have taken, and the horses they have stolen. These three achievements are regarded as the three most honorable and valorous exploits of the great men. Compared with these, the white man's election to Parliament, his appointment to high office, and his great commercial achievements are as nothing.

Sometimes their meetings last several days. The old men are enthusiastic in their descriptions of bygone days; they recite rapidly and gesticulate much. The members of the tribe, sitting about them, listen eagerly, storing the details to be told over and over again to their sons and their sons' sons, until they are tribal traditions of the long past. As they talk the painter sits upon the ground with his steer hide spread before him and paints with his wyes rude pictures to illustrate the incidents.

NOT A BRANT RELIC

The Indian Chief Died Before the War of 1812

Mr. F. O. Loft does not believe the announcement from Ottawa that Mr. Newton J. Ker, Ottawa's city engineer, has come into possession of the original musket used by Chief Joseph Brant at the battles of Queenston Heights, Lundy's Lane, and others in which he fought with General Brock; also a Masonic apron, once his own, which is stated to be over a hundred years old.

"Captain Joseph Brant," said Mr. Loft, "died on November 24, 1807, which was five years previous to the war of 1812. If it was a Brant who carried this particular musket, it must have been John Brant, the second son, who personally identified himself with the war of 1812, but not as a recognized leader of the 'Five Nations,' because we were not Six Nations until 1817, when the Tuscaroras were accepted and adopted into the Confederacy of the Five Nations known as the Iroquois.

"Capt. Joseph Brant was a Mason, but I am not in a position to say definitely if any of his sons, Jacob, John, Joseph and Isaac, were. The great Mohawk warrior and leader was the Master and presiding officer of a lodge that had a meeting place in the Mohawk village on the Grand River near Brantford. The village was founded and settled by the Mohawks in 1873.

"In his 'History of Masonry,' by John Ross Robertson, there appear some interesting facts relative to Capt. Joseph Brant's record as a Mason, how he was presented by King George IV. with a Masonic apron on the occasion of Brant being made a Mason upon one of his visits to England, and as a guest of his Majesty. The apron was not of Indian design or workmanship.

"The warrant of authority for the lodge at Mohawk village was obtained by Capt. Joseph Brant by certificate from King George IV.

"From this it would appear that the great warrior's ambitions were directed in various channels. In this respect it would be equally interesting to know if there were other Indians in that lodge or whether he was the presiding officer and Master of a lodge composed of Anglo-Saxon settlers who were encouraged to settle on the Indians' land by Brant, whose object in allowing it was to teach the Indians the art of tilling the soil.

"It would seem then, under these circumstances, that the Masonic apron—which is spoken of as of Indian design and workmanship—and the musket, now in the hands of Mr. Newton J. Ker of Ottawa, can hardly be reckoned as authentic Brant relics."

NURSERY IN CHURCH

Boon Avenue Methodist Pastor Makes Innovations

During the evening services at Boon Avenue Methodist Church, mothers enjoy the sermon in quietness while their infants are looked after in the nursery, which the pastor, Rev. P. P. Bryce, and his wife, have introduced as a part of the church equipment. This church has a cradle roll of 460, likely the largest in the Dominion. Among other schemes to benefit his people, Pastor Bryce has devised the plan of inducing the children to give him the pennies they save, and then in the winter he will buy them shoes with the money. The parents are invited to put in their savings, too, and stoves will be provided for those needing them out of the fund thus gathered.

INDIANS OF THE NORTH

A Tale of Hardship Related by MacDonald to Elbert Hubbard.

A man named MacDonald who has spent thirty years as agent for the Hudson Bay Company in the North described the Indians as follows to Elbert Hubbard:

"No, Indians are not bad people if you treat them about half right. They may be savages, but they are not as savage as white men. I never had a gun argument with an Indian. He is a child by nature, and responds to kindness. It pays to tell the truth to children, and I may be wrong, but I believe in keeping faith with Indians. This was always my policy, and Indians for hundreds of miles around were my friends. They even told me their troubles, which is a very unusual thing for an Indian to do.

"The last few winters have been very severe, and my Indian friends have suffered greatly. Two squaws came into the Post last spring, just when the leaves had begun to come out. One of them had a papoose on her back, and with her was an eight year-old girl. I remembered the year before when she came here her husband was with her, also a grown up boy and several children beside.

"The squaws sat around all day and said nothing. I guessed they wanted to tell me something. At night, they disappeared, but in the morning they came back and told me a tale of hardship that realy melted my stony heart, used as I am to suffering.

The boy was dead, but the man was still alive. The woman carried and dragged him home.

"Something must be done. She placed the man upon a toboggan, strapped the five-year-old child on top of her back, and with the eight-year-old girl helping to pull the toboggan, she started for her nearest neighbor's, ten miles away. All day she moved steadily forward. She arrived and entered the tepee of her friend. BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Harry Bravery, a mute, employed in the Brantford Carriage Works, was severely injured yesterday, when he was crushed by a heavy case which fell on him. His recovery is doubtful.

Attacked by a wounded moose, Edward Lodgard of Grand Falls, N.D., saved himself from death only by engaging in a fierce combat with the animal and finally slaying it with a knife.

Representatives of the shipping companies and the Syndicated Longshoremen have signed an agreement and the strike of the dock laborers is now at an end. The men are all back at work.

The second prize for hunters at the New York Horse Show, $100, was handily won by Hon. Adam Beck's Sir Edward, while Hon. Clifton Sifton's "The Wasp" was the winner of third money, $50.

After confessing to the theft of $40 from Russell Lawless, milk dealer, and a quantity of jewelry in Hamilton, James Parker was sentenced to two years in the Central Prison by Magistrate Frater at Niagara Falls.

The Railway Commission, which has shown the express companies where they get off and put the telephones and telegraph companies in their places, will now take up the question of railway cartage charges.

The body of James Smith was found lying in the middle of the road in Marlboro Township, five miles from Dwyer Hill postoffice, on Saturday afternoon. Marks on the body suggest foul play. An investigation is being held.

"The order of the Toronto city fathers that those attending the Connaught reception wear evening dress," says The Kinston Standard, "should be revoked. It is not necessary that a man should be a clothes horse to be respectable."

Found Dead In Bed.

Barrie, Nov. 21.—Mrs. Fanny Outram, a widow, 68 years of age, and living alone at her home on Nelson street, was found dead in bed here yesterday morning. The old lady had complained to neighbors on Sunday evening of not feeling well, and as there was no stir around the house during the early part of the morning, suspicion was aroused and on raising a window it was found death had taken place during the night.

The chief of police was notified, and the coroner called. Death was pronounced due to heart failure. One son, Alfred, at present in Winnipeg, survives.

U. S. Plans Big Ships.

Washington, Nov. 21.—The finishing touches yesterday were put on the plans which will be submitted to Congress next month for two battleships of 30,000 tons displacement each. This action on the part of the naval board is taken as a repudiation of the theories of the eminent British authority, Sir William H. White, who in a recent address before the Society of Naval Architects in New York, advocated the construction of smaller ships.

On the point of coal endurance, the new American battleships are expected to excel those of other nations. Admiral Dewey shares with Sir William the latter's disapproval of the so-called cruiser battleship. With their lighter armor, cruiser battleships would stand no chance in an encounter with American ships, and it also is pointed out that their extremely limited fuel capacity would make it easily possible for American ships to run them down in a long chase.

After Corrupt Politicians.

New York, Nov. 21.—Justice Scudder of the Queen's County Supreme Court, yesterday ordered the issuance of warrants for the arrest of Joseph Cassidy, leader of Queen's County; William Willett, jr., late candidate for Supreme Court justice on the Democratic ticket in the second judicial district, and Louis T. Walter, jr., following the investigation as to whether certain politicians received large sums of money for Willett's nomination. The warrants in the case of Willett and Walters will charge bartering and purchase of nomination, and in the case of Cassidy, conspiracy will be charged.

Walter placed Willett in nomination for the justiceship and it was testified at the investigation that Willett drew large sums of money from the bank at or about the time of his nomination.

PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN FOR A BAD STOMACH

If you had some Diapepsin handy and would take a little now your stomach distress or Indigestion would vanish in five minutes and you would feel fine.

This harmless preparation will digest anything you eat and overcome a sour, out-of-order stomach before you realize it.

If your meals don't tempt you, or what little you do eat seems to fill you, or lays like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of indigestion.

Ask your Pharmacist for a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and take a little just as soon as you can. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach. Nausea, Debilitating Headaches, Dizziness or Intestinal griping. This will all go, and, besides, there will be no undigested food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odours.

Pape's Diapepsin is a certain cure for out-of-order stomachs, because it prevents fermentation and takes hold of your food and digests it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there.

Storm Bothers Freighters.

Kingston, Nov. 21.—The steamer Ames, grain laden, from Fort William, came into port leaking badly as the result of striking the bottom between seas at the Ducks, Lake Ontario, a few miles from this port. The mishap occurred in one of the worst gales of the season, in which the crew were knocked out of their bunks and the compass put out of business. Divers repaired the damage and the vessel went on to Montreal.

The barge Dorchester, one of the barges of the Montreal Transportation Co., which broke lapse from the tug Bronson in the storm and went ashore on Howe Island, was released by the Calvin Co. The other two will likely be taken off in a day or so.

Shot In Knee; Dead.

Tavistock, Ont., Nov. 21.—A shooting accident occurred on the 16th concession of East Zorra, about three miles east of here on Saturday, which proved fatal to Henry Schumm, a popular farmer of East Zorra Township.

Mr. Schumm, together with John K. Somer of the same place, were going to shoot a horse on the victim's farm and the gun was in Mr. Somer's hands, when it accidentally discharged, the shot entering Mr. Schumm's knee, taking fatal effects in about twenty minutes. The victim lately had been troubled with a weak heart, and it is thought the shock hastened his death.

Mr. Somers and the victim are both well-known throughout the township. An inquest will be held.

New York's Pure Food War.

New York, Nov. 21.—Eighty alleged violators of the sanitary code in keeping for sale impure food, faced the Court of Special Sessions yesterday, as the result of a campaign waged by the City Health Department.

The court made short work of the cases. One butcher, who sold tainted mutton at four cents a pound, was fined $100, and similar fines were levied against a baker who used decayed eggs, and a dairyman who sold milk that was ten per cent. solids. The dairyman was unable to pay his fine and went to jail for thirty days. There was but one acquittal in all the list of cases.

Johnson For La Follette.

Sacramento, Cal. Nov. 21—Governor Hiram Johnson, Progressive Republican, came out for Senator La Follette for President and a direct Presidential primary, in a formal statement issued yesterday. He declared that "while a joker," in the primary law of 1909 gave the party in power full responsibility to send a solid delegation for La Follette if it choose, he would sacrifice politics to principle and insist that the people have the right to name their choice for President.

Holiday For Montreal.

Montreal, Nov. 21.—"I have decided," said Mayor Guerin yesterday, "to issue a proclamation naming Dec. 12 a public holiday. It will be in honor of the visit to the City of Montreal of His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught. I shall also ask citizens in the proclamation to decorate their homes on this date."

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Nov. 20.—There was an active demand from foreign buyers for Manitoba spring wheat, and, as bids were 2d to 4d and in some cases 4d higher than Saturday's, sales of over 200,000 bushels were made for December-January shipment. There was also a good inquiry from New York exporting houses. Business in coarse grains on spot was quiet, but the tone of the market is firm.

The inquiry from European sources for flour was better and some business was worked. The local market is active and firm. Demand for millfeed is brisk. A fair business is passing in cheese. Exports for week, 20,494 boxes, against 70,011 a year ago. Demand for butter good. Eggs active. Potatoes strong and 10c per bag higher.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Union Stock Yards.

TORONTO, Nov. 20.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards were 166 carloads, consisting of 2606 cattle, 1069 hogs, and 50 calves.

Exporters.

Alexander McIntosh bought 2 loads of exporters at an average of $6 per cwt.

Butchers.

The Swift Canadian Co. bought 870 butchers' cattle as follows: 200 steers, 1188 to 1250 lbs., at $5.60 to $5.85; 200 steers and heifers, 800 to 900 lbs., at $5.75 to $6.00; 470 canners and cutter cows, at $3.50 to $4.50.

Stockers and Feeders.

Good steers sold at $4.50 to $5; steers, 800 to 900 lbs., sold at $4.25 to $4.75; stockers, $3.50 to $4.

Springers and Milkers.

A moderate supply of milkers and springers sold at $45 to $70 each.

Veal Calves.

A light run of calves sold at $3 to $7.50 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

There were 1995 sheep and lambs on sale, which was far too many, considering that there were 12,057 sold on the two Toronto markets last week. Nearly all of the leading buyers having bought heavily last week, were slow to operate to-day unless at lower prices. The result was that lambs sold from $5 to $5.25 and we heard of one selected lot sold at $5.35 per cwt.; sheep, at $3.25 to $3.75; rams, and culls, at $2.50 to $3 per cwt.

Hogs.

Selects, fed and watered, sold at $6.25 at the market to-day. Early in the day W. J. Johnston was paying $6.75, fed and watered, and $6.50, f.o.b., cars, at country points, but later on advanced the fed and watered price to $6.75.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Nov. 20.—At the Montreal Stock Yards west end market the receipts of live stock for the week ending Nov. 18 were 2360 cattle, 1725 sheep and lambs, 2250 hogs and 675 calves. The offerings on the market this morning amounted to 1250 cattle, 1250 sheep and lambs, 1250 hogs and 400 calves.

A weaker feeling developed in the market for butchers' cattle this morning, and prices declined 25c per 100 pounds, as compared with those of Wednesday last, which was due to the increased supplies, the run being one of the heaviest this month. The top price quoted was only realized for picked lots of really choice steers.

The gathering of buyers was fairly large, but owing to the milder weather prevailing the demand was not so keen as last week, and some were left unsold. The demand from packers for canning stock continues good, and, as the offers were again large, an active trade was done, and prices show no change.

The market for hogs was stronger again and prices show an advance of 25c to 25c per 100 pounds since last Wednesday, which is attributed to the decreased receipts, the improved condition of the stock coming forward, and the continued good demand from packers, notwithstanding the fact that they all received extra large supplies last week. The prospects are that prices will rule still higher in the near future.

The undertone to the market for lambs was stronger, and sales of some choice lots were made at an advance of 25c per 100 pounds. The demand from butchers is good, as they are now putting supplies away in cold storage for winter requirements. Sheep were steady under a fair demand and small offerings. Calves were scarce, and sales of some choice milk-fed ones were made at as high as $12 and $15.

Prices per 100 pounds as follows:

Butchers' cattle, choice, $6 to $6.25; butchers' ...attle, medium, $5.50 to $5.75; butchers' cattle, common, $4.50 to $5; canners, $1.75 to $2.25; butchers' cattle, choice cows, $5.25 to $5.50; butchers' cattle, medium, $4.50 to $5. butchers' cattle, bulls, $4.50 to $5. milkers, choice, each, $75; milkers, common and medium, each, $30 to $60; springers, $30 to $40. sheep, ewes, $3.25 to $3.75; bucks and culls, $3 to $3.25; lambs, $5.25 to $5.50; hogs, f.o.b., $6.25 to $6.75; calves, $3 to $10.

DON'T LET THAT COUGH ROB YOU OF SLEEP

You probably know all too well how it goes. Just as you doze off, the tickling starts in your throat. A gentle cough, still asleep. A harder cough, and then another. First thing you know, you're wide awake, coughing your head off.

A few nights of that and you're so worn out and weakened that the cough takes a tight grip on you.

But why endure it?

Na-Dru-Co Syrup of Linseed, Licorice and Chloradyne will soothe that exasperating tickling, loosen the phlegm and cure the inflammation of the mucous membrane. It not only stops the cough quickly, allowing you to get sound, refreshing sleep, but it goes to the root of the trouble and drives out the cold completely. Children willingly take Na-Dru-Co Syrup of Linseed, Licorice and Chloradyne, because it tastes so good. Your Druggist has it or can quickly get it for you in 25c. and 50c. bottles. NEED OF MORE ASSISTANCE FROM THE ONTARIO GOVERNMENT FOR FARMERS

Mr. Hall in Meeting at Young's Point Shows Where the Policy of the Department of Agriculture Has Been Found Wanting—Strongly Advocates the Location in Peterborough of a Government Demonstrator Who Would Show Farmers Just How Things Should be Done.

There is no doubt of Mr. R. R. Hall's popularity at Young's Point after last night's enthusiastic meeting. There have been occasions before when he has received a warm welcome from this portion of the riding, but never one warmer or more spontaneous than that which greeted him in Heard's Hall last night. Another significant fact was that the platform got just as hearty a welcome as the visitor himself.

Mr. Kearney presided over the meeting, and in the course of a few brief remarks he introduced the first speaker of the evening, Mr. R. R. Hall.

A General Review.

The candidate, in his opening remarks, outlined briefly and concisely his position on certain political issues which are facing the electors of the west riding of Peterborough to-day. He showed them conclusively and to their evident satisfaction, that his position in this respect was an advanced and progressive one. Premier Whitney came in for a scathing denunciation at the candidate's hands, for the manner in which he had forced the election upon the people at this unseasonable time of the year. Figuratively speaking, the province stood to lose many thousands of dollars as a direct result, besides the incalculable loss that would be incurred by a depression in business.

Farm Demonstration.

Mr. Hall then launched onto his plan for bringing the city and country closer together ,to the benefit of each, by means of a demonstration farm, manned by an expert, located near Peterborough. The expert demonstrator could act as a soil analyser, drainage engineer, farm doctor and technical adviser to the farmers in a general way.

If we make life on the farm both profitable and attractive, continued the speaker, we keep the boy on the farm and to that extent we solve the problem of hired help, we repopulate the country district—the rural population has shrunk sadly in the last ten years—we increase the productiveness of the soil, we cause the farmer to grow more and sell more, and consequently make more money, and we enlarge the sources of supply, and decrease the cost of living in cities. The Agricultural Department may send out good books and reports to the people, but they offer no practical solution to the more scientific methods of farming. As a matter of fact it is almost impossible to farm according to the rule contained in the blue books. That's no way to get practical information to the famer. You might as well dump Mr. O'Connell's law library down on the farmers' table, and tell him to become a lawyer that way, as to tell the farmer how to become a farmer by reading blue books. The way to learn how to do a thing is by doing it. The way to learn to farm is by farming. The blue book contains merely theoretical knowledge. To supplement the useful knowledge contained in the government reports, I would suggest and advocate a demonstrator, continued Mr. Hall. He would be able to supply first hand information. He would not only be ready with advice and information, but with active help, explained Mr. Hall.

For instance, a farmer has a run-down apple orchard. He sends for the demonstrator, who goes out and looks over the orchard. He suggests where pruning might be done to advantage and tells him how and when to spray and goes out and helps him with it at spraying time, and in one way or another gives the farmer such assistance as will multiply the quantity and quality of his apples, and his returns therefrom will be from three hundred to four hundred per cent.

"Or, perhaps,' 'continued Mr. Hall, "it's weeds that bother you. You nearly break your back grubbing them out. The demonstrator comes along and shows you an easy, inexpensive, perhaps chemical, way, of doing what costs you so much labour. If it's not weeds, it may be drains Well, the demonstrator understands levels, and he tells you where to put your drains, where they will drain, instead of spending time, toil and money on drains that plug up, because they are laid wrong."

"And so, all along the line," Mr Hall went on, "the demonstrator is your guide, philosopher and practical assisting friend. He analyzes soil, shows you what each field will grow best, give you the best farming methods on new experiments, like alfalfa."

Keep the Boy on the Farm.

Mr. Hall here touched on that live question of keeping the boy on the farm. When the boy sees that the farm can be made to pay a reasonable profit in return for the toil expended, he becomes enthusiastic. When he sees that the one hundred or hundred and fifty or two hundred acres, can be made to do ten times as much as it di dbefore at a fraction of the previous expense to the fertility of the soil, why he stays on the farm, instead of filling up the cities. He stays on the farm and leads his healthy, open-air life there instead of cluttering up the stuffy, health-destroying cities. He stays at home and helps to run the farm on business principles. He specializes. He does intensive farming. He goes into partnership with his father and makes the old man's heart glad. I have no time to touch on the sentimental side of this question. The economic results are what I am trying to show. Keeping the boy on the farm, repopulating the rural districts, producing more farm stuff and making prices more reasonable to the consumer in the city.'

Good Roads.

"You will observe that I have good roads and radial railways in my platform," said Mr. Hall. "That is because they are part and parcel of my policy of making farm life more profitable and more attractive. Good roads and radial railways make farm life more attractive, because they put the farm in easier touch of the town, and they make farming more profitable, because they decrease the cost of hauling to market.

"Remember," said Mr. Hall, "that this farm policy of mine is just as much for the city consumer as it is for the rural producer. If the benefit were not a mutual one I would not be advocating it. I take it to be the duty of a member or the Legislature, actual, or prospective, to plan for the interests of all the people whom he represents. If, under my plan, the farmer makes more money, because he will grow more, and have more to sell, the consumer will save money, because he will draw from a larger source of supply and the cost of living will come down."

Mr. Hall in conclusion, dealt briefly with the educational question. He called attention to the fact that a large percentage of teachers in Ontario were unqualified. The condition of affairs he attributed to the abolition of the Model schools. He advocated remedies to overcome these difficulties and expressed himself as ready and willing to act for the betterment of this rotten piece of legislation.

Good Service Rendered.

Mr. Daniel O'Connell, on rising to speak, received a very enthusiastic reception. He followed up Mr. Hall's remarks, by pointing out to the gathering how the Whitney Government, in abolishing Model Schools, had deprived the farmers' sons and daughters of their opportunity to get a teacher's education at a small cost. He also referred to the good service rendered by Mr. Hall to the Riding, during his term of office in the Federal House.

It is much more practical to send a tried and tested man to Parliament than an untried one. Mr. O'Connell emphasized the need of a good Opposition. He characterized Whitney's action in bringing on the election as an unfair one. "He is trying to get a snap verdict," declared the speaker. Referring to the Laurier regime, he said that there never was sixteen years in the history of the Dominion productive of so much good. During that period, this country of ours, had been raised from insignificance to one of vast importance. Ontario is one of the best provices in the Dominion, one of the oldest and most fertile, contains the largest area of arable land, and there is no reason why it should not go ahead with leaps and bounds. Yet, during the six or seven years of Conservative administration the population of the rural districts of Ontario has shown a marked decrease. The inactivity of the Whitney Government was, in a large measure, responsible for this lamentable condition.

That autocratic gentleman who holds sway in Queen's Park with an unheard-of majority of 70 at his back, has announced his intention of remaining pat, as regards the development of New Ontario. It is a crying shame that such a condition of affairs should be tolerated. These and many other phases of the political situation were elucidated by Mr. O'Connell.

He concluded his address by a stirring appeal to the electors of the West Riding of Peterborough, to weigh the questions carefully, as outlined by Mr. Hall, and he ventured to say, if they did, they would show their antipathy towards the retrogressive attitude of the Whitney Government in no unmistakable manner on December 11th. (Cheers).

After a hearty vote of thanks had been extended to the Chairman, the meeting closed with cheers for the King and the candidate.

MR. MASON IS NOT CANDIDATE

Despite rumours to the contrary, Mr. R. F. Mason will not be a candidate for the mayoralty of Peterborough at the coming municipal elections. For the past few days street talk has mentioned Mr. Mason's name as a prospective candidate, but when called up by the Examiner this morning, he said he had no intention of seeking to be Mayor Morrow's successor. "I have been approached by a number of citizens to allow my name to be brought forward,' 'said Mr. Mason, "but you can say emphatically that I will not be a candidate."

GOES TO TRIAL

Albert Crouter Committed on a Charge of Stealing $25 From William Stewart, of Emily Township

EVIDENCE HEARD

Albert Crouter was arraigned in court this morning on a charge of stealing $25 from Wm. Stewart of Emily. He elected to be tried by a jury and the witnesses were examined, after which he was sent up for trial at the coming assizes.

Det. Newhall was examined by the Crown Attorney and gave evidence as follows: "Officers Meharry and Meagher were with me when the arrest of Crouter and wis wife was effected. I made the arrest at their home on Saturday night about 9 o'clock. This action was taken, as the result of a call at the station of Stewart, who stated that he had lost money. When we entered the house, Crouter seemed to be sleeping very soundly, and when asked if he had any money in the house, replied, "No, not a cent," and Mrs. Crouter said not a cent except 26 cents belonging to the child! I told Crouter that we were going to search the house and that he had better be careful, but he maintained that he had no money. Meagher then searched the trousers pockets and drew out three $5 bills and a dollar in silver. The bills were on the Toronto bank, and answered to the description of the bills lost by Stewart. We brought both of them to the police station, and Crouter admitted taking the money out of Stewart's pocket, but said that he only got $15.00. On searching the house, we found a sealed $1.00 bottle of whiskey at the foot of the bed, where the couple had been sleeping and three empty bottles of the same size were lying on the floor, and they smelled strong, indicating that they had been recently emptied. Crouter said that he had purchased the bottle out of Stewart's money."

Stewart's Evidence.

Wm. Stewart was next in the box and gave the following information: "I was in Peterborough on Thursday last, staying at a local hotel and I met Crouter. He took my grip and brought me up to his house, where I had often been before for meals. I had $30 with me, and after telling me about a fine that had been imposed on him for supplying liquor to a blacklister, he said he had no money and asked me for some to get some stuff for the house. I gave him $5.00 and he gave me back the change ,but I don't know how much. He later asked me for $1.00 to get a bottle and I gave him that. He went out the second time to get the bottle, and while he was gone I went to bed. I laid down with my clothes on. He had treated me out of another bottle previous, but I was not drunk. I was lying on the bed, and I heard some person come into the room. It was Crouter and I moved, and he went out again. Later he came back and put his hand in my breast pocket. I asked him what he wanted and he asked me what I did with the bottle, that he wanted a drink. I said I did not have it and he went out again. He came back a few minutes later and put his hand in my trousers pocket, and I asked him what he wanted again, and he said he wanted my pipe. I jumped up and put my hand in my pocket and discovered that my money was gone and I came here to the station and told my story." The rest was related by Det. Newhall.

Sent Up For Trial.

The charge against Crouter for keeping a disorderly house was withdrawn and the charge against Mrs. Crouter for being an inmate, was dismissed. No evidence was taken in either charge. The Magistrate deemed that there had been sufficient evidence to send Crouter up for trail. The case will come up at the next jury sittings, which will likely be in December.

SCENE OF ACCIDENT

Water and Murray streets.

Time, about 8 o'clock.

Steersman of the sleigh, Carl Gumpricht.

Above are the outstanding features of an accident which occurred last night when a coasting sled laden down with human freight crashed into an automobile which crossed their path at the foot of the Murray street incline at the corner of Water street. The boys had confined their tobogganing propensities within the limits of Victoria Park, but later in the evening they decided that the road was better, accordingly they adjourned thereto, and had made the descent of the grade which runs from the Central School to Water street several times when the accident took place. Just how it happened nobody seems to know any more than that the bobsleigh struck the auto broadside at the corner of Murray and Water streets, and the boys were precipitated over the roadway. One of them stated to the Examiner this morning that when he recovered from the shock he found himself under the auto. Another is under the impression that a wheel of the car ran over his back, but the nature of his injuries hardly bear out this assertion, as he was able to attend school this morning.

The driver of the car when seen this morning gave his version of the accident as follows: "I was proceeding south on Water street about 8 o'clock. Just after I had crossed Murray street I heard a scream. I quickly threw on the brakes and was able to stop the car within the length of itself. On investigation I found what had happened. The worst injured of the party proved to be George Richardson. He was removed to Dr. McPherson's office, where his injuries were temporarily attended to, after which he was removed to his home in the same car.

The boy was seen by the Examiner this morning, and he expressed himself as being thankful that he was alive to tell the tale. This escape was a miraculous one. He further states that the accident was unavoidable and attaches no blame to any of the parties concerned. His injuries, while of a painful nature, are not serious.

The practice of coasting on the road is one that the authorities have been endeavouring to stamp out. It is an infringement of one of the city by-laws and Chief Thompson has announced his intention of dealing severely with delinquents in the future.

Temiskaming Deputation Tells Premier That the Government is Disfranchising Voters

Special Wire to The Examiner.

TORONTO, NOV. 21.—There was a warm passage between Premier Whitney and James Maguire, the Socialist candidate, in Temiskaming, when Mr. Maguire waited on the Premier, with a deputation of Temiskaming people in connection with the voters' lists. Maguire told the Premier it was a deliberate attempt on the part of the Government to disfranchise, and throw down a forty-foot petition, with names from the district. Whitney indignantly stopped him in his speech and told him he must be civil, or get out. As for the voters' list that was a question for municipal authorities.

REPLIES OF MESSRS. HALL AND PECK TO PROTESTANT CONFEDERATION DEPUTATION

In Answer to a Request From the Editor of the Examiner Candidates in Provincial Election Make Public Their Opinion in Regard to Bilingual School Question.

On Saturday, in compliance with the request of a correspondent, the editor of the Examiner wrote to Mr. E. A. Peck and Mr. R. R. Hall, the Conservative and Liberal candidates respectively, asking them to forward a copy of their reply to a deputation of the Protestant Federation, which had requested both of them to submit in writing their respective views on the question of the teaching of English in the public schools of the Province. The letter intimated that if their answers were received yesterday morning they would be published simultaneously in yesterday's issue. The answer of Mr. Hall was received yesterday morning, but Mr. Peck had been prevented from sending in his reply earlier, and it was handed in to-day and will be found below, following that of Mr. Hall.

MR. HALL STRENGTHENS REPLY

The Editor of the Examiner:

Sir,—As requested, I enclose you herewith a copy of my letter of the 2nd inst., addressed to Mr. W. J. Johnston, representing the Protestant Federation, and also a copy of the enclosure therein referred to, giving my views upon the educational policy of the Whitney Government which appeared in the Examiner of the 31st of October last.

To emphasize and make clearer, if possible, my position on the matter, I might add that under the Whitney Government upwards of 2,000 French children a year have been added to our population for this last seven years who cannot speak a word of English. The fact is the Whitney Government have not enforced "the intention of the existing law," which expressly imposes a duty on every teacher of a public school "to use the English language in instruction and in all communications with the pupils in regard to discipline and the management of the school, except where it is impracticable to do so by reason of the pupil not understanding English, but recitations, requiring the use of a text-book may be conducted in the language of the text-book."

The seven years' neglect of the Whitney Government gives no assurance that the existing law or any other law regarding the teaching of the English language in our primary school will be carried out.

Sir James Whitney, in his letter to W. K. McNaught, M.P.P., bearing date Nov. 13th, says "there is no such thing in the Province as a bilingual school." If that is true, then there is nothing to abolish but there is a great chance for the Whitney supporters to quibble over the use of words. My pledge on this question is clearly set forth in my address to the electors, wherein I say:

Two great general principles should underlie our educational system in this English-speaking Province which forms such an important part of this English-speaking continent, namely:

(a) Every child in the Province should have a thorough elementary education.

(b) Every child should have a thorough knowledge of the English language.

To attain this end necessary laws and regulations should be passed and enforced and liberal aid should be given to provide further adequate training schools and a sufficient supply of competent and qualified teachers for every school section in every part of the Province.

Were this done tens of thousands of our fellow-citizens would not be as they are now, deprived of the opportunity of acquiring any knowledge of the English language.

Yours truly,
R. R. HALL.

Peterborough, Nov. 20, 1911.

LETTER TO MR. JOHNSTON

W. J. Johnston, Esq., 637 Aylmer st., City.

Dear Mr. Johnston,—Herewith I beg to enclose you my views upon the educational policy of the Whitney Government and as to the necessity of adopting the English language in our schools. I note that Sir James Whitney does not deal with bilingual schools, and I would infer that he proposes to continue his present educational policy which is so much condemned.

Yours faithfully,
R. R. HALL.

Peterborough, Nov. 2, 1911.

MR. HALL'S REPLY.

(Enclosure referred to in reply to Mr. Johnston on behalf of the deputation).

Mr. R. R. Hall, the candidate, after thanking his supporters for the interest they were manifesting in his candidature, and, after referring to the excellent support he was receiving from those who had not been on the Liberal side at the last provincial election, he entered into a general discussion on the issues of the present contest. In dealing with the question of education, he pointed out how the public schools of the country had been demoralized. The abolition of the model schools, said Mr. Hall, was one of the most short-sighted steps that the Whitney Government has ever taken. It has had the effect of demoralising our public school system. It had wrought a great injury to the rural population in depriving pupils of the advantage of being taught by trained and experienced teachers. It has worked a great injustice to the poor man's son and daughter, who desire to enter the teaching profession, by placing the obtaining of a certificate entirely out of their reach. Moreover, the Whitney Government have admitted their folly and are again restoring some of our model schools. They should restore more. In order to appreciate the extent to which the rural population has suffered, we have, he said, only to look at the reports of the different inspectors of public schools, showing the large proportion of unqualified teachers in them.

UNQUALIFIED TEACHERS

Mr. Hall presented a list of a number of the inspectorates giving the number of rural school teachers in each, and the number of unqualified teachers in each, and the percentage of unqualified teachers in each:

Inspectorate	No. of Rural School Teachers	No. of Unqualified Teachers	Perc'tage of Unqualified Teachers
Frontenac and Addington	79	61	70%
Hastings, N.	88	57	60
Parry Sound, S.	80	52	65
Haliburton, Parry Sound, Muskoka, E.	93	59	63
Nippissing, N.	50	31	62
Manitoulin Island	74	45	60
Muskoka, W.	83	44	53
Peterborough, E.	74	31	42
Leeds and Grenville (No. 2)	59	20	33
Algoma	84	34	40
Hastings Centre	76	25	32
Bruce, E.	93	26	29
Durham, W.	71	21	29
Lennox	89	23	25
Carleton, N., and Lanark, E.	94	24	25
Grey, E.	93	23	24
Grey, W.	74	16	21
Galway and Cavendish	5	2	40

It was apparent, said Mr. Hall, that in a large number of our public schools the proper education of children is being neglected, not only that of French pupils, but English pupils as well. In Nippissing, Manitoulin Island, and Parry Sound, where there are large French settlements, it is evident that the French people were being deprived of the advantage of receiving a thorough knowledge of the English language. The Government should take proper steps to remove that handicap so that they would have the opportunity of acquiring a proper knowledge of the English tongue.

EDUCATIONAL POLICY DENOUNCED

The educational policy of the Whitney Government during the past seven years had been a standing disgrace to the Province, which once boasted of having the finest educational system in the world. It will be remembered that on the occasion of the visit of the present Lord Chief Justice of England to Ontario during the Chicago Exhibition, in 1893, he made the pronouncement that the educational system in the Province of Ontario was one of the finest systems in use in the world.

"I regret," said Mr. Hall, "to assert that it is now one of the worst and it has become so bad, and is so rapidly declining that there is a widespread, deep-rooted dissatisfaction with the Whitney Government in every city, town and village, and in every township in the Province of Ontario. Even some of their own candidates in the present campaign are condemning their educational policy and are hastening the fall of the Government. It is a standing disgrace to the fair fame of the Province of Ontario that under the Whitney Government a thorough elementary education is not being given in our public schools, and that a thorough knowledge of the English language cannot be obtained."

The Whitney Government were seeking to avoid the just condemnation that awaits them by prematurely dissolving the house and seeking to take advantage of the Borden wave

SIR JAMES AND BILINGUALISM.

Sir James Whitney declares that there is "no such thing as bilingual schools in Ontario." This, if it is presented as a statement of fact, is an extraordinary statement. If it is intended as a quibble, it is an unworthy of a man occupying a position of responsibility, in regard to a matter which lies at the base of good and effective Ontario citizenship, that is to say, the efficient teaching of English, in all our state-aided elementary schools. Sir James Whitney says there are no bilingual schools in Ontario. Will he believe if we show him one? Here it is! In yesterday's Globe appeared the following advertisement, under the heading: "Teachers Wanted":

A PRINCIPAL—MALE OR FEMALE—for R. C. bilingual separate school, Chapleau: one qualified to teach continuation classes; duties to commence January 1, 1912. Apply stating qualifications, etc. to D. C. Payette, Chapleau, Ont.

Here is ocular demonstration that the trustees of a bilingual school classify it as such. What does Sir James Whitney mean by the absurdly extraordinary statement that there are no bilingual schools in Ontario? He can hardly be blamed for taking this position, for, as a matter of fact, he has no official knowledge of them; that is, he has neglected them; so allowed them to go to seed, by his indifference that there are scores and indifference, that there are scores and scores of schools in Ontario, where the English language is not taught, effectively, and other scores in which it is not taught at all.

CONDEMNED BY A FRIEND.

The Toronto Telegram is out in condemnation of the proposal to reduce the numerical representation of the committees of the House of Commons, regarding it as an opening for graft and corruption and autocratic methods. The Telegram, which is a Tory of the Tories, also comes out strongly in condemnation of the corrupt trafficking in senatorships, as bribes or rewards for party service, having, no doubt, in mind the openly, avowed surrender of his seat by Mr. George Taylor, M.P., to give to Hon. T. W. White, Minister of Finance, the condition being that Mr. Taylor is to be pensioned at $2,500 a year, by giving him a seat for life in the Senate. The Telegram, upon this point, says::

> The independence of the House of Commons is corrupted by a realising sense that SENATORSHIPS ARE PATRONAGE IF NOT BRIBES, and that the M. P. who displeases his leader by the vigour and independence of his Parliamentary career will never spend his last years in the blissful and lucrative abode which serves as a climax to parliamentary careers of uselessness, or worse.
>
> The independence of the House of Commons is always threatened by the certainty that PORTFOLIOS ARE PATRONAGE, that OFFICES ARE PATRONAGE IF NOT BRIBES, and that the M. P. who displeases his leader may die in the depths of neglect even if his poverty should cry from the streets of defeat.
>
> PORTFOLIOS, SENATORSHIPS, OFFICES—these three sufficiently threaten the dibertiee of andependence of the private member of Parliament without arming the Government or Opposition leadership with power ot deprive a representative of the people of opportunities tobe useful to the constituency he represents (by reducing the number of members of committees.)

THE BILINGUAL QUESTION.

In another place in this issue will be found the replies of Messrs. Peck and Hall, the Conservative and Liberal candidates, respectively, sent in answer to the request of the "Protestant Fderation," for a statement of their views upon the subject of "bilingual schools." Both candidates agree generally in their estimation of the importance of our elementary schools being so equipped and administered as to give facilities for every child in the Province receiving a sound, elementary English education.

There is a difference, however. Mr. Peck suggests no remedy, except the favourite Whitney expedient of delay—waiting for the report of a commissioner appointed to investigate bilingual schools, who can furnish little information that could not have been supplied by the inspectors appointed by the Government, and would have been supplied, if the Whitney Government had taken sufficient interest in education to seize the opportunities available for keeping themselves informed as to conditions.

Mr. Peck places himself in the hands of the Whitney Government on the subject, under which, during the seven years of their administration there have been allowed to develop conditions that have practically sidetracked the effective teaching of English, in many schools, and in many schools, the teaching of no English at all. During the past seven years over 2,000 French children, who grew up without a knowledge of English, have been added to the population of Ontario, and no adequate supervision, oversight, or promise, has been employed, to insure that the bilingual schools should fulfil their intention—provide opportunity for every child to acquire an education in English. Mr. Peck turns over the question to the Whitney Government, and, no matter how well disposed he may be, personally, toward the insuring of the proper teaching of English in our state-aided schools, he is the supporter of a Government that, for seven years, has shown a sleepy indifference to the welfare of the schools in question; a Government headed by a man who, from long experience, knows how to "shut up" and "turn down" a supporter who assumes to have a will, or opinion of his own, that does not dovetail with the policy, or whim, of the autocrat of Queen's Park.

On the other hand, Mr. Hall provides a remedy, and is a supporter of, the Liberal leader, whose policy is in line with his own, and in sympathy with the adoption of measures, which he will adopt if in power, and urge, out of power, that will insure the acquirement of an English education of every child in the Province. Mr. Hall's remedy will be expressed in his own words, as found in his reply. He says:

> It is inconceivable why the Whitney Government has not taken steps long ago to train up a body of teachers having the special qualifications and knowledge necessary to teach French, German, or other pupils of foreign extraction the English language along with their elementary education. On account of the fact that these teachers would have special qualifications, they naturally should receive larger remuneration than is usually paid to the ordinary rural school teacher, and inasmuch as the whole Province is interested in having all its citizens able to speak the English language, the Provincial Government should supplement such teachers' salaries, according to the successful results attained. By pursuing such a course our French, German, and other foreign fellow citizens would be placed on an equal footing with the English-speaking people in the Province, and in a short time every man, woman and child would be able to speak the English tongue.

The comparison between the positions of the two candidates is as instructive, as the contrast between the means to which they respectively look for improvement.

REPLIES OF MESSRS. HALL AND PECK

of victory, but the awakened public indignation against them on their educational policy was so strong and so irresistable that they would be overwhelmed in the undertow of the Borden wave.

TRAINED QUALIFIED TEACHERS

It was inconceivable why the Whitney Government had not taken steps long ago to train up a body of teachers having the special qualifications and knowledge necessary to teach French, German, or other pupils of foreign extraction the English language along with their elementary education. On account of the fact that these teachers would have special qualifications, they naturally should receive larger remuneration than is usually paid to the ordinary rural school teacher and inasmuch as the whole Province is interested in having all its citizens able to speak the English language, the Provincial Government should supplement such teachers' salaries, according to the successful results attained. By pursuing such a course our French, German, and other foreign fellow citizens would be placed on an equal footing with the English-speaking people in the Province, and in a short time every man, woman and child would be able to speak the English tongue.

MR. PECK'S REPLY.

Peterborough, Nov. 1st, 1911.

W. J. Johnston, Esq.,
637 Aylmer St., Peterborough.

Dear Sir:

In reply to the questions put to me by yourself and other electors of West Peterborough regarding my position with respect to "Bilingual Schools" in Ontario, I beg to state:

1. Bilingualism has to some extent been recognised by the Education Department for many years, probably under every government since Confederation, but we have not as yet full information as to the extent to which the French language is at present used in the schools. A representative of the Education Department was deputed some time ago to make an investigation, but his report is not yet completed. It is known, however, that there are some three hundred schools which are referred to in the Department as bilingual, and I have heard it stated, although this does not come from official source, that in about twenty per cent. of these schools English is rarely, if ever, spoken. If this is true, the situation is a very serious one. We are all interested in having one language as a medium of communication. While we may expect foreigners imperfectly acquainted with our language to come and reside amongst us, we all know that their ignorance in this regard is a serious handicap to their advancement, and we should not for a moment countenance any eglect to educate the childre of the province so that they may be thorough English scholars. It is a great duty that we owe these children to see that they, of whatever language, rich or poor, are given a good English, practical education to enable them to compete on an equal footing with others in their subsequent business life.

2. I do not consider that it can possibly be urged with any force that the French in Ontario have any rights to the user of their language. If any such rights might be considered to have existed they would certainly have been claimed when the British North America Act was prepared, but the paragraph in that Act defining the extent of these rights does not grant or recognise any privilege in Ontario to the use of the French language.

3. That the English language should be used in our Public Schools is made plain by reference to a provision of our Public School Act (now consolidated in Chapter 89 of Statutes of 1909, Section 82, sub-section (b), being a re-enactment of the former law on the subject). The sub-section reads as follows: "It shall be "the duty of every teacher to use the "English language in instructions, "and in oll communications with the "pupils in regard to discipline and the "management of the school, except "where it is impracticable to do so "by reason of the pupil not under-"standing English; but recitations re-"quiring the use of text-books must "be conducted in the language of the "text-book."

4. My view is that this provision should be very strictly enforced, that the first duty placed upon the teacher should be to instruct the children in the use of the English language, that the use of French text-books should be prohibited, and every possible effort made to place the French children on an equal footing with those of English speaking descent, that teachers violating this principle should be severely penalised, and that, if necessary, special inspectors should be appointed to superintend these particular schools.

5. Sir James Whitney has not yet expressed himself on this point, and he cannot well do so until the Commissioner's Report is before him. You will notice that he occupies, as it were, a judicial position, and should have the definite facts under his hand before he is called upon to express an opinion, but I feel satisfied that if it should appear that any such evils exist as are indicated in my letter he will manfully and unhesitatingly proceed to their removal. At any rate, feeling as I do that the children of the province are to be regarded as the wards of the province, and that it is, therefore, our manifest duty to endeavour to adequately equip them for the battle of life, I intend, if elected, to take the position I have above indicated, and to press my views as vigorously as possible upon the other members of the House.

6. I should, however, point out that, just as a person long sick cannot be brought back immediately to good health, even under the best teratment, so any change in these schools cannot be carried into full effect instantly. It will take time and tact to bring the French teachers and French parents to what we consider the reasonable view. To act in a manner which might be deemed arbitrary might bring about a condition of things in the nature of a boycott of the schools by the parents, which for a time would rather intensify than ameliorate the evil. Patience and good judgment must be shown in bringing matters into a healthy condition, and thereafter constant watchfulness will have to be exercised to prevent again a lapse into an unsatisfactory state of affairs.

Yours sincerely,
E. A. PECK.

Peterborough, Nov. 1st, 1911.

GRIPPE LEFT HIM A CONFIRMED INVALID

BUT HE FOUND A CURE IN DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Quebec Postmaster was confined to bed when he started to use Dodd's Kidney Pills—They cured him.

Tippins, Pontiac Co., Que., Nov. 20. (Special).—Postmaster F. Tippins, of this place, who for three years has been more or less of an invalid, and who for some time was confined to his bed, is up and around again, a healthy and hearty man. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured him.

"After recovering from an attack of Grippe," the Postmaster says in telling the story of his cure. "I took a pain in my back and I suffered for nearly three years, finally getting so bad that I was confined to my bed.

"One day I told my wife to go and get me some Dodd's Kidney Pills, as that would be the last medicine I would try. After using about half the box I began to feel better, so I kept on taking them. When I had taken two boxes I was able to get up, and ten boxes cured me completely.

The principal danger of Grippe is the after effects. The way to guard against this is strengthen the Kidneys so they can strain all the dregs of the disease out of the blood. Dodd's Kidney Pills are always the last medicine anyone takes for Kidney Disease. It always cures and no other medicine is needed.

WOMEN'S SUFFRAGE

The Young People's Association of St. Andrew's church held a very interesting meeting last night, the feature of which was a debate on the subject, "Resolved, that Womens' Suffrage would be a decided advantage to the community." The affirmative was taken by Miss Currie, Miss Lees and Miss Mowat, while the negative was supported by Messrs. Jack Sharpe and Fred Doan. There were many brilliant ideas both for and against women's suffrage, but the judges, Misses Shearer and Gillespie, and Mr. Will Miller, decided that the ladies had beam the better debaters, and the verdict was given accordingly. Mr. Neil Rutherofrd occupied the chair.

PROFITABLE SHOPPING

In connection with this very interesting subject "Profitable Shopping" we would emphasize QUALITY, this is the key-note of successful buying. Never spare a few cents or even dollars if the higher price gives you quality. Buying quality gives you satisfaction, duration of wear and it also means economy. The same amount of money spent in fewer and better goods always means less money spent during the year and a greater return for the money spent.

For instance, take stockings, and the same principal holds good throughout. Take a pair of stockings at 25c per pair, the making would cost 12½c and the yarn would cost 12½c total 25c, but if you were to buy a fifty cent pair the making would still be 12½c but you would get 37½c worth of yarn, thus for only twice the price you get three times the value and in this case three times the value of yarn means much more than three times the duration of wear, also the added comfort of wearing a finer quality of goods.

Together with the very moderately priced goods, we also carry a very extensive range of qualities that will stand every test of comparison, of wear, quality, and value from every point of view. To day we are going to talk about the higher qualities, the qualities you like to use, the kind that will give you good service long after they have given you good return for their price.

Ladies' Underwear

We pride ourselves upon the quality and wide choice of our ladies' underwear. We have them from 15c up, but it is the good qualities we want to tell you about to-day.

As you know the Australian Botany wool is the finest grade of wool that can be produced. We have vests made from this wool with low neck and short sleeves for evening wear, also in the same quality with high neck and long sleeves. It is necessary to see these beautiful vests to appreciate their unusual quality. They are $1.50 each, for a suit (vest & drawers) $3.00.
Soft cape wool vests and drawers each $1.25 In natural wool vests and drawers $1.25 & $1 00
White cashmere vests and drawers each 75c White Merino vests and drawers each 50c, also cheaper lines.

Boys' & Girls' Underwear

Our natural wool underwear will live up to every reasonable demand you can make upon them. They do not shrink, are warm and comfortable. The great test of value you will find in their wearing quality. We always have all sizes, 65c to $1.00.

Besides the natural wool we have great qualities in fine Scotch wool, cashmere and other materials, 27 different qualities of them.

Men's Underwear

Our men's underwear section is well supplied with qualities that are well worthy to be placed in this list of sterling values.

Our English natural all wool shirts and drawers at $4.50 per suit or $2.25 each are always trustworthy, warm, comfortable and durable, they have double knees, elbows and double breasts.

They give a feeling of warmth and luxury and yet are not bulky or clumsy.

We have Penman's natural underwear at $1.25 & $1. Scotch wool and many other makes.

Boys' Stockings

Boy's double Saxony wool stockings, this is a stocking that has stood the test of all the time we have been in business (31 years) and it is still the great stand-by. We can find no other stocking to equal it for wear, comfort and value. Sizes 8½, 9, 9½, per pair 60c. Size 10, 75c

Three pairs of these stockings will easily last a dozen of the ordinary kind, not only do they wear well but the cold will hardly go through them.

Something New in Little Hose

We have a new hose for little people, combination silk and wool, sizes 4, 4½, 5, 5½, 6, 6½. These hose are made with a pure silk thread outside and inside, with a soft wool thread between, thus giving weight, warmth and wear and the soft lustre of the silk thread, delicate shades as well as black and white.

Boots

Our boot business is steadily growing. We have boots at all prices. But let us recommend the best qualities to you to-day they are certainly the cheapest in the end. Of course we have ladies boots at $1.25 & $1.50, while we know that they are the very best possible qualities that can be obtained for these prices, yet the wise shopper in this as in all departments will find her greatest profit when she turns to the higher qualities, for $3.00, $3.50, $4.00 per pair, we have boots that will wear with any boots no matter what you may pay for them. They are made from the best solid leather throughout. They are smartly designed and as you wear them they prove their value in their wear, and nice appearance.

Of course we know that for a special purpose a cheap boot is needed, but some ladies will say "I just want a cheap boot to-day, for I'm just going to put them on and wear them every day".

Now don't you think that when any article is intended to stand the strain of continual wear, that it would be wise to select the strong boot? We can give you a strong boot that is also dainty in appearance.

ELLIOT'S

HOCKEY

A meeting of the executive of the Peterborough Hockey Club will be held at the latter end of this week, either Friday or Saturday night, for the purpose of taking up some important matters in connection with the opening of the season. Arrangements will be made with the management of the Brock street rink for games and practise purposes will be taken up and it is likely that practice hours will be arranged. Another important matter is that of arranging for the services of a skater for the club as it is thought advisable to have this appointment made before the season actually opens. If the 1911-12 winter follows the traditions of the past, the players should be out on the steel blades in three weeks time.

At the annual meeting of the O. H. A. in Toronto, on Saturday, Mr. R. M. Glover of Peterborough, was elected a member of the executive. Mr. A. C. Simpson, of Lindsay, who was nominated as a candidate, was unsuccessful in the election. In the election of Mr. Glover this district is represented by a gentleman well and favourably known in Lindsay. He has always been a supporter of good clean sport, and is one of the best known players in the Province.

"Pete" Spratt will turn out this year with St. Marys team. He should prove a tower of strength to the seven.—Lindsay Post.

A move is being made by local hockey enthusiasts to organize an intermediate O.H.A. team in Lindsay. The proposition is now under consideration and an announcement will be made in a few days.—Lindsay Post.

St. Mary's Club may place a hockey team in the Intermediate O.H.A. series. A meeting was held recently when the question was discussed, and another one will be held at an early date, when it is expected a decision will be reached.—Lindsay Post.

RUGBY

The star of the game was Ross Craig, of Dundas, the Alerts' great line plunger. He is undoubtedly the best line plunger in Canadian football to-day. He and Rajah Wigle had a great struggle. A dozen times Wigle hurled Craig bodily backwards, but finally Wigle was laid out by the terrific impact of the hard plunging Craig and he had it easier from then on. Craig gained yards for his side three times, unaided, and made gains of from 5 to 8 yards a dozen times. —Toronto Star.

IN GREAT FORM

57th Regimental Band Gets Two More Trombone Players

The 57th Regimental Band had a splendid rehearsal last night, at which a considerable amount of new music was taken up. Mr. Gliddon's organization was never in better shape than at the present time. The instrumentation has been strengthened within the past two weeks by the addition of two splendid trombone players, one from England and the other from Montreal. Both are very capable musicians, and, as a result, the trombone section of the band is stronger than at any time in its history. The band is taking up, among other things, Sousa's descriptive number: "Dwellers in the western World," featured by the March King's organization, wherever they go and an Evans' suite, "A Day in Venice". In a lighter vein are a new medley of song hits and the selection from "The Chocolate Soldier." The band will be heard in concert, with an entirely new programme, in the course of a few weeks.

CONFIDENCE

We Back Up Our Statements With Our Personal Reputation and Money.

We are so positive that we can relieve constipation, no matter how chronic it may be, that we offer to furnish the medicine free of all cost if we fail.

We think that it is worse than useless to attempt to cure constipation with cathartic drugs. Cathartics may do much harm. They may cause a reaction, irritate and weaken the bowels, and make constipation more chronic.

Constipation is often accompanied and may be caused by weakness of the nerves and muscles of the large intestine or colon. To expect a cure you must therefore tone up and strengthen those parts and restore them to healthier activity.

The discovery of the active principle of our remedy involved the labour of skilful research chemists. This remedy produces results such as are expected from the best of the best-known intestinal tonics, and it is particularly prompt in its results.

We want you to try Rexall Orderlies on our guarantee. They are exceedingly pleasant to take and are ideal for children. They apparently act directly on the nerves and muscles of the bowels, having, it would seem, a neutral action on other organs or glands. They do not purge or cause inconvenience. If they do not positively cure chronic or habitual constipation and thus relieve the myriads of associate or dependent chronic ailments, your money will be refunded. Try Rexall Orderlies at our risk. CAMPAIGN NOTES

Where is the best place for a young man to spend his spare hours? This is how a former Peterborough young man answered the question: A few years ago he came to Peterborough, a country boy, without any knowledge of town ways, without friends, but with lots of courage and a great big determination to make good.

He avoided the pitfalls that cause so many of our young men to lose their ambition. And a few years later, only three years later, he was sent onto the road as a traveller by the company that employed him, at a salary that the most of us would covet.

There were a dozen young men in the concern just as good, apparently. Now, why did they choose this young fellow above them all.

The manager had had his eye on all those fellows. But the successful one had spent his spare hours improving himself mentally, physically and spiritually at the Y.M.C.A. The others were found more frequently in the moving picture shows or on the streets.

Abe Lincoln once said: "I will study and get ready and perhaps some day my chance will come." This young man got ready by making use of the Y.M.C.A. His chance came and he was fitted for it.

"The Peterborough Y.M.C.A. has had a lot to do with my success," said he to his friends when he left town. On his visits here he never forgets his old friends at the Y.M.C.A.

There are young fellows working in the campaign now who are preparing themselves for bigger things by making use of the Y.'s privileges. They consider their $5 memberships their best investment. They want other young men to benefit likewise. Hence they are going to get 189 new members by Nov. 30.

The Y. needs new members. There are about 2,000 fellows in Peterborough who need the Y. more than the Y. needs them. The boys are trying to get some of those fellows to form a partnership that will be mutually advantageous. They are telling their friends that if they won't believe them to ask any good business man in town whether he doesn't consider the Y. a good place or not.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

THE lady across from us had on a summer hat and an unusually heavy winter ulster.

Said my companion: "Well, if I were going to have one of those ridiculously heavy winter coats, I certainly wouldn't wear my summer hat with it."

Wouldn't she? I wonder. Suppose, for instance, that her one summer suit got caught in a big shower and positively ruined, and she had to buy her winter coat early, but simply couldn't afford a hat. Now just what would she do in a case like that?

Why take it for granted that the lady across the aisle liked the peculiar combination of a winter coat and summer hat? Why not reckon that she was the victim of compelling circumstances, under which we would probably have done the same thing ourselves?

How often we all say loftily, "I wouldn't do this or that." How do we know we wouldn't under the same circumstances? We don't.

It seems to me that one of the big lessons of life is to realize what a difference it makes what side of the fence we are on, and not try to say what we would or wouldn't do under circumstances of which we know nothing.

It is often amusing to see people suddenly transplanted into the position of others, whom they have previously criticised, and to see how very much the same they act themselves, and what a different point of view they get.

Some friends of mine who used to own a horse and drive a good deal, have recently purchased an automobile. When they owned the horse, they could not say anything too strong against their natural enemies, the automobilists.

"This speeding is outrageous. There ought to be a jail sentence instead of a fine." "Automobiles ought not to be allowed to go more than ten or fifteen miles an hour." "The way some of these chauffeurs try to see just how close they can come to your carriage wheels is abominable." "It makes me disgusted the way the automobilists keep on tooting when you are already giving them three-quarters of the road" —these were a few of their strictures.

They have only been in the ranks of the automobilists about six weeks, and already the man of the house, who runs the machine has been arrested for speeding. Incidentally, I did not hear any pleading for a jail sentence instead of a fine.

I was out with them the other day, and don't think we went as slowly as ten miles an hour, even in the city streets. Furthermore, they came so close to the wheels of one carriage that my heart came up in my mouth. Once we passed a carriage which was giving us at least three-quarters of the road, tooting vigorously. A bit timorous lest he should suspect sarcasm, I ventured to ask why he tooted when the team was giving him ample room. "Oh, it isn't to make them give me any more room," he explained loftily; "simply to let them know I am coming so they won't swerve out into the road or start to turn round. You know so many of these drivers are absolutely reckless that way. They expect us to take all the care."

I needn't have feared his suspecting sarcasm.

One of the finest men I know is a baker. Although he abides by it perfectly, he does not approve of the law requiring that every loaf of bread shall be wrapped in paraffine paper. He says it is a foolish law, because the bread is contaminated quite as much while wrapping as it would be if it were left unwrapped. He thinks the people who agitated the law were either short-sighted or self-interested.

Now, this man is a thoroughly sincere, splendidly honest man, and yet I can't help wondering if he were not a baker, if he might not see things differently.

What a difference it does make what side of the fence we are on!

It is simply impossible that it shouldn't. The human equation can't help but enter into the judgments of the best and most just of men.

But I do think we can remember not to say, "I wouldn't," of anything.

Perhaps we "would" twice as much as if we were on that side of the fence.

A HARMLESS WAY TO DARKEN THE HAIR

A Little Sage and Sulphur Makes Gray Hair Vanish—A Remedy for All Hair Troubles

Who does not know the value of sage and sulphur for keeping the hair dark, soft, glossy and in good condition? As a matter of fact, sulphur is a natural element of hair, and a deficiency of it in the hair is held by many scalp specialists to be connected with loss of colour and vitality of the hair. Unquestionably, there is no better remedy for hair and scalp troubles, especially premature grayness, than sage and sulphur, if properly prepared. The Wyeth Chemical Company of New York put up an ideal remedy of this kind called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, and authorize druggists to sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

If you have dandruff, or if your hair is thin or turning gray, get a bottle of this remedy from your druggist today, and see what it will do for you.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists,

POST CARD COLUMN

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir—You will, I trust, excuse my taking up your valuable space, yet, nevertheless, I hope you will give me a chance to express myself in giving my expression to the feeling derived from the rally held on Saturday night. We, workingmen, must have learned from the speeches made that Mr. R. R. Hall is working to become the member of West Peterborough, not from any motive of selfishness for the honour which he will derive from the position as Member, but from that sentiment of fellow feeling derived from twenty years' experience of the profession which enables him to arrive at a conclusion that a gross injustice has and is being done the working men in this Province. We, as working men, cannot get away from facts, as they were laid down on Saturday last—laid down in such a manner that the wayfaring man, though a fool to the intricate points, which the law contains, need not err therein.

Mr. Hall has set his face like flint. His purpose is to obtain justice for the workingmen. There is no political dissimulation. His speech on Saturday did not savour of one who was trying to gain the privilege of representing us by any selfish motive. If workingmen have any comprehension they must have seen for themselves that the oratorical expressions which came from the lips of Mr. Hall were the expressions gained by the fact of twenty years' experience as a lawyer. The law has compelled him to refuse that compensation which was due to the maimed, and the bereaved. We working men know when sympathy is the power which brings forth the oratory, which we heard from Mr. Hall, and trust that Mr. Hall will receive the just support of those in whose interests he is working. I am, dear Editor,

Yours respectfully,
Workman.

RAILWAY NEWS

Latest word from Toronto is to the effect that 'Daddy' Haskill, the popular Conductor of the Grand Trunk flyer, who has been sick for some time, is improving slowly.

Supt. P. J. Lynch and Trainmaster Dan McMillan of the G. T. R., were in the city to-day.

Mr. Herbert McMillan of Toronto, late of the Canadian Express Co., of Peterborough, and a former member of the Strathcona Hockey team, has been promoted. He is now Canadian Express messenger on the Toronto-North Bay route, and is running in conjunction with Mr. G. Telford, who is also an old Peterborough boy.

Mr. Frank Pratt of the Canadian Express Co., who has been spending a few days in Toronto, returned last evening.

Mr. Louis LeGrandeur, motorman, Radial Railway Co., is leaving Peterborough shortly, to carry on similar duties in Detroit, Mich. He is one of the oldest of the Company's employees, having been a motorman since the very early days of the Company. While regretting his departure his many friends wish him every success.

Mr. Arthur St. John, late operator of the Grand Trunk in Peterborough, is in the city on business.

SHE GAINED 25 LBS.

Mrs. George Bradshaw, Harlowe, Ont., writes: "I was troubled for many years with weak, watery blood and dropsy. I had nervous headaches, dizziness, and sinking spells, and was, in fact, a semi-invalid. Doctors told me my heart and kidneys were diseased and gave me up. By using 10 boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I have been cured of many of my old complaints and gained 25 pounds in weight."

SPLENDID ATTRACTION

The funniest comedies that have been seen in this city for many moons are "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary," which appears at the Grand Opera House to-morrow night, and also "A Night Out," which will be given on Thursday night. "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary" is full of quaint sayings and ludicrous situations, and the events arising from the mistakes of Aunt Mary, in her introduction into high life, in New York City, are very funny.

Every one enjoys a good laugh. It does you as much good as a tonic. So if you really wish to be benefitted don't miss seeing Aunt Mary to-morrow night. There has already been a large sale of seats for the attraction and the management ask that every one be in their seats as promptly around a quarter after eight as possible, so as to avoid interruption during the acts.

Our Great Mid-Season Sale Has News of Vital Importance to All Economizers.

As stated in our former ads this unexpected money savings event is brought about by over-stocks. So unusual is an event of this nature which brings such emphatic savings on seasonable goods in Mid-season that it has stirred economizers to such enthusiastic buying that the amount of goods we have already sold has exceeded our very highest expectations.

Modern merchandise demands that a certain limit be put on the amont of stock a merchant should carry, whether in Mid-season, or the tail-end of the season, and it is for this reason, and this reason alone that these decisive reductions have been made to force sales when most stores insist on the regular prices.

BOUGHT MANY ARTICLES BUT HAD NO MONEY TO PAY

An aged East City lady, who, for some time, has been visiting, or staying with relatives near Warsaw, came into the city yesterday morning, proceeded to the store of J. C. Turnbull & Co., and purchased a large amount of goods, for which she offered no money. On account of her age, and the suspicious nature of a story she told, regarding owning a house in East City, in which was a tenant, she intended to put out, and a similar line of talk, including the statement that she was starting up housekeeping, the saleslady, from whom she made the purchase, called up the police in quest of any information that they might have regarding her career. As a result, a police officer took her to the station, where this morning she was remanded for medical examination on a charge of being insane. It has been learned that she has a house and lot in East City. She is in gaol for the present.

ST. MICHAEL'S COLLEGE CRITICS CALL VARSITY TO WIN

In a letter received by the Sporting Editor of the Examiner from Mr. W. O'Brien, of St. Michael's College, he says:

"I think that Varsity will win next Saturday's game, Lawson or no Lawson. They have a fast and heavy enough team, and the very fact that they are college men is the big factor in their favour. They have the discipline, and the motive; they are pure amateurs whose only reward is the knowledge that winning the game means a boost for the University they represent. Now that the Argonauts are not fired with a supreme desire to become Champions of Canada, for the sake of the name, and for the good of their club, but they have only a small disorganized following as compared to Varsity. But moral support is a much bigger thing than I thought it was, before coming here. When you go to a big four game here you get a real dollar's worth of football. When you go on the following Saturday to the Stadium you get the same value in football, another dollar's worth of music, song and sights, and on top of that about ten dollars' worth of enthusiasm.

Varsity has just as good a team as Argonauts, and I think they will win, because they have a half-dozen advantages over their city rivals.

Duten Gonter, who played for the Peterborough Ball Club last summer, and who was one of the mainstays of the St. Michael's College team, in a letter to the Examiner Sporting Editor, also calls Varsity to win from Argonauts on Saturday.

IMMENSE NEW GAS WELL AT BOW ISLAND

Daily Production of New Well 5,000,000 Cubic Feet

Widespread interest is being manifested in the opening of another new gas well, at Bow Island, which is producing natural gas at the rate of 5,000,000 cubic feet every 24 hours. Attention was first attracted to Bow Island when the gas well, known as "Old Glory" was discovered. At the time of its discovery, "Old Glory," with its daily production of 8,365,000 cubic feet of gas, was the largest natural gas well on the American continent. But in addition to "Old Glory," Bow Island has four other gas wells, one of which is producing 28,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily.

The opening of this new gas well gives Bow Island a daily production of 61,365,000 cubic feet of gas every 24 hours and the distinction of being the world's greatest natural gas field.

The Canadian Western Natural Gas Co., which controls the Bow Island gas field, and in which the Canadian Pacific Railway is understood to be interested, is to supply natural gas to Calgary and the work of piping the gas from Bow Island to Calgary is now under way.

In its enormous supply of natural gas, Bow Island, with its practically unlimited supply of cheap fuel, will be able to offer unusual inducements to manufacturers and it is generally conceded that Bow Island will become an important manufacturing centre. The town, although less than two years old, already has a population of 400 and presents to the eye of the visitor a scene of remarkable activity and development.

The Grand Trunk Pacific Land Co., Limited, with head offices in Winnipeg, Man., controls a part of the townsite of Bow Island and has appointed Geo. Ruth & Co., 395 Water street, Peterborough, as its exclusive Peterborough representative for the sale of Bow Island lots. Complete information as to the World's Greatest Natural Gas Field and the opportunities for profitable investment in Bow Island may be had by calling upon or writing Geo. Ruth & Co., at Peterborough, or the Grand Pacific Land Co., Limited, at Winnipeg.

T.A.S. NOTES

At a meeting of the T.A.S. Athletic Club last evening Mr. Geo. Lilly was engaged as physical director for the coming year.

Geo. Daly was elected president of the athletic club, to succeed L. J Picard, who has resigned.

The committee also decided to enter a team in the City Hockey League if one is organized.

The first gymnasium classes will be on Friday evening of this week, and will be held on every Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings.

FOR MEN MUST WORK AND WOMEN MUST WEEP YES! BUT HOW MUCH?

Charles Kingsley once wrote a poem with the haunting refrain, "For men must work and women must weep."

Under modern industrial conditions Kingsley's sadly beautiful sentiment is doubly true. Women must not only weep but they must work too.

In this manufacturing and commercial town of Peterborough there are one thousand girls and women who work in factories and take all the dangers and risks of such employment

But they take more risk of their health than men for their constitutions are not as strong. It is true physically that they are the weaker sex.

They incur more danger to life and limb than men because their dress is more likely to be caught in the machinery.

And when it comes to compensation they stand less chance than men to collect damages for their injuries because it seems more easy to prove contributory negligence against them.

The other day a young girl had her hand maimed in a Peterborough factory. It was her right hand—the Master hand—more than half her working capital. She was advised that she might have legal recourse and the action came on for trial, but the Judge decided against her. She and her friends were out the costs.

That girl goes out into the world only half equipped. She lost her job, of course. She will have difficulty in getting another, for employers are not eager to have one-handed girls. When an employer "hires a hand" he means that he hires the full activity and co-operation of two hands belonging to one person. He has no place for the maimed or the partly efficient.

The law gives this poor girl no money for an injury that will cripple her for life. She has worked. She must weep. The Workman's Compensation Act as it stands at present turns away from her tears.

All the girls and women who work in factories in Peterborough are interested in the effective Workman's Compensation Act that R. R. Hall stands for. A Workman's Compensation Act that pays cash on the nail, full value, without costly blood-sucking delays from law suits and appeal courts.

All the girls and women who do not work in factories but who stay at home and keep house for their fathers and brothers and sons and daughters who do work in factories are interested too.

All the children who are able to go to school and prepare themselves to get on in the world so long as father has a job, are likewise interested. They never know when an accident is going to kill or permanently disable their bread winner.

If there is not to be weeping and starving as well as working for the widows and orphans for many a long day after, they must have a Workman's Compensation Act that will give them enough money to see them through until they get on their feet.

Every practical citizen is interested in a Workman's Compensation Act that does not cheat and mock the injured worker because a law that leaves the workers' dependents helpless and penniless only makes them burdens on public charity. The unthrifty state is dollars behind on this false economy.

Finally every honest-hearted man and woman is interested in a fair and square Workman's Compensation Act, because Justice, Mercy and Human Brotherhood all point that way.

Men must work—Yes. And Women must weep—Yes. But let us have as much work and as little weeping as possible, and a Workman's Compensation Act that means the minimum of tears and the maximum of satisfaction.

Giant Snake Under Medical Attention

London, Nov. 18.—A second operation has just been performed on the great python at the Zoological Gardens, who fractured his jaw while swallowing a goat a few years ago.

After the jaw and head had been enveloped in a rigid casing for a couple of weeks, he began to shed his skin. It was impossible for the patient to complete the shedding while the head was bound up, and the bandage was therefore removed. The bones of the jaw, it was found, had partly reunited.

With his head free again, the python was evidently in the best of spirits, and celebrated the occasion by swallowing a duck. The skin of the head was then shed, including the transparent outer lenses of the eye. Afterward it was decided to replace the plaster of Paris.

Awaiting a moment when the giant reptile was coiled in his tank, six heavy keepers crawled into his cage, each carrying a stout board. These were swiftly slid over the top of the tank while the operator sought for the injured head through an opening between two of the boards. Once the neck was seized the heavy keepers sprang on the board and were ordered to "sit tight," thus forming a living roof. As the powerful coils heaved about in the tank, the heavy keepers were lifted up bodily, but their combined weight was too great for the python and the splint and bandages were rapidly replaced.

It will be some weeks before the bandages are removed, and meantime the python will not be able to eat or see.

SUCCESSFUL RALLY

A most encouraging and successful congregational rally was held at St. James' church last evening at 8 p.m. The Rev. J. G. Brown took the chair and the following programme was rendered:

Selection—Male Quartette.
Recitation—Mr. Williams.
Solo—Mrs. M. Rehill.
Recitation—Mrs. Bacon.
Selection—Male Quartette.
Recitation—Mr. John.

Two excellent numbers were also rendered by the Brotherhood class, undr the direction of Mr. G. Baker.

The meeting was also the occasion of the consideration of the matter of the church debt. A brief report on the present standing was made. The Rev. Isaac Couch, the pastor of the George street church, delivered an address, and in a very happy manner undertook the task of inviting subscriptions. Mr. Couch succeeded in arousing a great deal of enthusiasm in the congregation and subscriptions were rapidly made, totalling $3200 covering the period of the next three years Encouraged by this sum, the congregation hope that, within the three years their entire indebtedness will be wiped out.

The Ladies' Aid served luncheon during the meeting and a very enjoyable time was spent by all present.

WEDDING BELLS

HITCHINS—BIRCHALL.

A pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Birchall, Stewart street, last evening, at 7 o'clock, when Miss Lucy Birchall, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Birchall, was united in marriage to Mr. W. Hitchins, of Havelock.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Riddiford in the presence of immediate friends. The bride was given away by her father and was unattended. After the wedding a dainty dejeuner was served, after which the party adjourned to the drawing room and indulged in games and social intercourse for the remainder of the evening. The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful pearl sunburst pendant.

The Crop Report

OTTAWA, NOV. 20.—The report to the Census and Statistics office for the month ending October 31, shows that the total area in potatoes, roots, fodder crops, hay and clover this year was 9,007,492 acres, with a total products value of $219,055,000. This is $1,600,000 more than last year, and there is a decrease of $3,120,000 in hay and clover. The largest increase is shown in potatoes, which is nearly $6,000,000 more than last year, although the product is less by 8,000,000 bushels—the average selling price being 60 cents per bushel, as compared with 45 cents a year ago. The value of this year's product of hay and clover and fodder corn is $159,065,000, which is less than last year's value by $2,608,000. Potatoes, turnips and other roots and sugar beets have a value of $59,990,000, being more than last year's value by $4,213,000. The quality of all the crops this year is 90 per cent. and over excepting sugar beet, which is 88 per cent., and last year all crops, excepting potatoes, turnips and other roots were over 90. The values of all root and fodder crops this year by provinces were $5,754,000 in Prince Edward Island, $12,228,000 in Nova Scotia, $12,596,000 in New Brunswick, $73,315,000 in Quebec, $99,468,000 in Ontario, $5,583,000 in Manitoba, $3,790,000 in Saskatchewan and $6,321,000 in Alberta.

The area sown to fall wheat this season is 1,097,900 acres, being 797,200 acres in Ontario and 300,700 in Alberta. This is 2.93 per cent. less than a year ago.

The per cent. of fall ploughing completed ranges from 73.57 in Ontario to 90.40 in Prince Edward Island for the eastern provinces, and from 18.73 in Alberta, to 34.12 in Manitoba for the western provinces, which is less than the averages of last year at the same date. For summer fallowing the average in all the provinces is well over 90 per cent. for each of the three years, 1909-11.—Archibald Blue, Chief Officer.

Our Great Mid-Season Sale Has News of Vital Importance to All Economizers.

As stated in our former ads this unexpected money savings event is brought about by over-stocks. So unusual is an event of this nature which brings such emphatic savings on seasonable goods in Mid-season that it has stirred economizers to such enthusiastic buying that the amount of goods we have already sold has exceeded our very highest expectations.

Modern merchandise demands that a certain limit be put on the amont of stock a merchant should carry, whether in Mid-season, or the tail-end of the season, and it is for this reason, and this reason alone that these decisive reductions have been made to force sales when most stores insist on the regular prices.

BOUGHT MANY ARTICLES BUT HAD NO MONEY TO PAY

An aged East City lady, who, for some time, has been visiting, or staying with relatives near Warsaw, came into the city yesterday morning, proceeded to the store of J. C. Turnbull & Co., and purchased a large amount of goods, for which she offered no money. On account of her age, and the suspicious nature of a story she told, regarding owning a house in East City, in which was a tenant, she intended to put out, and a similar line of talk, including the statement that she was starting up housekeeping, the saleslady, from whom she made the purchase, called up the police in quest of any information that they might have regarding her career. As a result, a police officer took her to the station, where this morning she was remanded for medical examination on a charge of being insane. It has been learned that she has a house and lot in East City. She is in gaol for the present.

ST. MICHAEL'S COLLEGE CRITICS CALL VARSITY TO WIN

In a letter received by the Sporting Editor of the Examiner from Mr. W. O'Brien, of St. Michael's College, he says:

"I think that Varsity will win next Saturday's game, Lawson or no Lawson. They have a fast and heavy enough team, and the very fact that they are college men is the big factor in their favour. They have the discipline, and the motive; they are pure amateurs whose only reward is the knowledge that winning the game means a boost for the University they represent. Now that the Argonauts are not fired with a supreme desire to become Champions of Canada, for the sake of the name, and for the good of their club, but they have only a small disorganized following as compared to Varsity. But moral support is a much bigger thing than I thought it was, before coming here. When you go to a big four game here you get a real dollar's worth of football. When you go on the following Saturday to the Stadium you get the same value in football, another dollar's worth of music, song and sights, and on top of that about ten dollars' worth of enthusiasm.

Varsity has just as good a team as Argonauts, and I think they will win, because they have a half-dozen advantages over their city rivals.

Dutch Gonter, who played for the Peterborough Ball Club last summer, and who was one of the mainstays of the St. Michael's College team, in a letter to the Examiner Sporting Editor, also calls Varsity to win from Argonauts on Saturday.

IMMENSE NEW GAS WELL AT BOW ISLAND

Daily Production of New Well 5,000,000 Cubic Feet

Widespread interest is being manifested in the opening of another new gas well, at Bow Island, which is producing natural gas at the rate of 5,000,000 cubic feet every 24 hours. Attention was first attracted to Bow Island when the gas well, known as "Old Glory" was discovered. At the time of its discovery, "Old Glory," with its daily production of 8,365,000 cubic feet of gas, was the largest natural gas well on the American continent. But in addition to "Old Glory," Bow Island has four other gas wells, one of which is producing 28,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily.

The opening of this new gas well gives Bow Island a daily production of 61,365,000 cubic feet of gas every 24 hours and the distinction of being the world's greatest natural gas field.

The Canadian Western Natural Gas Co., which controls the Bow Island gas field, and in which the Canadian Pacific Railway is understood to be interested, is to supply natural gas to Calgary and the work of piping the gas from Bow Island to Calgary is now under way.

In its enormous supply of natural gas, Bow Island, with its practically unlimited supply of cheap fuel, will be able to offer unusual inducements to manufacturers and it is generally conceded that Bow Island will become an important manufacturing centre. The town, although less than two years old, already has a population of 400 and presents to the eye of the visitor a scene of remarkable activity and development.

The Grand Trunk Pacific Land Co., Limited, with head offices in Winnipeg, Man., controls a part of the townsite of Bow Island and has appointed Geo. Ruth & Co., 396 Water street, Peterborough, as its exclusive Peterborough representative for the sale of Bow Island lots. Complete information as to the World's Greatest Natural Gas Field and the opportunities for profitable investment in Bow Island may be had by calling upon or writing Geo. Ruth & Co., at Peterborough, or the Grand Pacific Land Co., Limited, at Winnipeg.

T.A.S. NOTES

At a meeting of the T.A.S. Athletic Club last evening Mr. Geo. Lilly was engaged as physical director for the coming year.

Geo. Daly was elected president of the athletic club, to succeed L. J. Picard, who has resigned.

The committee also decided to enter a team in the City Hockey League if one is organised.

The first gymnasium classes will be on Friday evening of this week, and will be held on every Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings.

FOR MEN MUST WORK AND WOMEN MUST WEEP YES! BUT HOW MUCH?

Charles Kingsley once wrote a poem with the haunting refrain, "For men must work and women must weep."

Under modern industrial conditions Kingsley's sadly beautiful sentiment is doubly true. Women must not only weep but they must work too.

In this manufacturing and commercial town of Peterborough there are one thousand girls and women who work in factories and take all the dangers and risks of such employment

But they take more risk of their health than men for their constitutions are not as strong. It is true physically that they are the weaker sex.

They incur more danger to life and limb than men because their dress is more likely to be caught in the machinery.

And when it comes to compensation they stand less chance than men to collect damages for their injuries because it seems more easy to prove contributory negligence against them.

The other day a young girl had her hand maimed in a Peterborough factory. It was her right hand—the Master hand—more than half her working capital. She was advised that she might have legal recourse and the action came on for trial, but the Judge decided against her. She and her friends were out the costs.

That girl goes out into the world only half equipped. She lost her job, of course. She will have difficulty in getting another, for employers are not eager to have one-handed girls. When an employer "hires a hand" he means that he hires the full activity and co-operation of two hands belonging to one person. He has no place for the maimed or the partly efficient.

The law gives this poor girl no money for an injury that will cripple her for life. She has worked. She must weep. The Workman's Compensation Act as it stands at present turns away from her tears.

All the girls and women who work in factories in Peterborough are interested in the effective Workman's Compensation Act that R. R. Hall stands for. A Workman's Compensation Act that pays cash on the nail, full value, without costly blood-sucking delays from law suits and appeal courts.

All the girls and women who do not work in factories but who stay at home and keep house for their fathers and brothers and sons and daughters who do work in factories are interested too.

All the children who are able to go to school and prepare themselves to get on in the world so long as father has a job, are likewise interested. They never know when an accident is going to kill or permanently disable their bread winner.

If there is not to be weeping and starving as well as working for the widows and orphans for many a long day after, they must have a Workman's Compensation Act that will give them enough money to see them through until they get on their feet.

Every practical citizen is interested in a Workman's Compensation Act that does not cheat and mock the injured worker because a law that leaves the workers' dependents helpless and penniless only makes them burdens on public charity. The unthrifty state is dollars behind on this false economy.

Finally every honest-hearted man and woman is interested in a fair and square Workman's Compensation Act, because Justice, Mercy and Human Brotherhood all point that way.

Men must work—Yes. And Women must weep—Yes. But let us have as much work and as little weeping as possible, and a Workman's Compensation Act that means the minimum of tears and the maximum of satisfaction.

Giant Snake Under Medical Attention

London, Nov. 18.—A second operation has just been performed on the great python at the Zoological Gardens, who fractured his jaw while swallowing a goat a few years ago.

After the jaw and head had been enveloped in a rigid casing for a couple of weeks, he began to shed his skin. It was impossible for the patient to complete the shedding while the head was bound up, and the bandage was therefore removed. The bones of the jaw, it was found, had partly reunited.

With his head free again, the python was evidently in the best of spirits, and celebrated the occasion by swallowing a duck. The skin of the head was then shed, including the transparent outer lenses of the eye. Afterward it was decided to replace the plaster of Paris.

Awaiting a moment when the giant reptile was coiled in his tank, six heavy keepers crawled into his cage, each carrying a stout board. These were swiftly slid over the top of the tank while the operator sought for the injured head through an opening between two of the boards. Once the neck was seized the heavy keepers sprang on the board and weer ordered to "sit tight," thus forming a living roof. As the powerful coils heaved about in the tank, the heavy keepers were lifted up bodily, but their combined weight was too great for the python and the splint and bandages were rapidly replaced.

It will be some weeks before the bandages are removed, and meantime the python will not be able to eat or see.

SUCCESSFUL RALLY

A most encouraging and successful congregational rally was held at St. James' church last evening at 8 p.m. The Rev. J. G. Brown took the chair and the following porgramme was rendered:

Selection—Male Quartette.
Recitation—Mr. Williams.
Solo—Mrs. M. Rehill.
Recitation—Mrs. Bacon.
Selection—Male Quartette.
Recitation—Mr. John.

Two excellent numbers were also rendered by the Brotherhood class, undr the direction of Mr. G. Baker.

The meeting was also the occasion of the consideration of the matter of the church debt. A brief report on the present standing was made. The Rev. Isaac Couch, the pastor of the George street church, delivered an address, and in a very happy manner undertook the task of inviting subscriptions. Mr. Couch succeeded in arousing a great deal of enthusiasm in the congregation and subscriptions were rapidly made, totalling $3200 covering the period of the next three years. Encouraged by this sum, the congregation hope that, within the three years their entire indebtedness will be wiped out.

The Ladies' Aid served luncheon during the meeting and a very enjoyable time was spent by all present.

WEDDING BELLS

HITCHINS—BIRCHALL.

A pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Birchall, Stewart street, last evening, at 7 o'clock, when Miss Lucy Birchall, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Birchall, was united in marriage to Mr. W. Hitchins, of Havelock.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Riddiford in the presence of immediate friends. The bride was given away by her father and was unattended. After the wedding a dainty dejeuner was served, after which the party adjourned to the drawing room and indulged in games and social intercourse for the remainder of the evening. The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful pearl sunburst pendant.

The largest increase is shown in potatoes, which is nearly $6,000,000 more than last year, although the product is less by 8,000,000 bushels—the average selling price being 60 cents per bushel, as compared with 45 cents a year ago. The value of this year's product of hay and clover and fodder corn is $158,065,000, which is less than last year's value by $2,608,000. Potatoes, turnips and other roots and sugar beets have a value of $59,990,000, being more than last year's value by $4,213,000. The area sown to fall wheat this season is 1,097,900 acres, being 797,200 acres in Ontario and 300,700 in Alberta. This is 2.93 per cent. less than a year ago.

The per cent. of fall ploughing completed ranges from 73.57 in Ontario to 90.40 in Prince Edward Island for the eastern provinces, and from 18.73 in Alberta, to 34.12 in Manitoba for the western provinces, which is less than the averages of last year at the same date. MR. R. R. HALL SAYS HE WAS UNFAIRLY ATTACKED

Gives Facts in Connection With William Hamilton Company and Canadian Cordage Company to Which References Were Made by Mr. L. M. Hayes at Conservative Meeting

Peterborough, Nov. 21st, 1911.
To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—Mr. L. M. Hayes at Mr. Peck's Saturday evening meeting, as reported in Monday evening's Review, made an unfair attack upon me on account of my connection with the William Hamilton Company and the Canadian Cordage Company.

I am very much surprised that Mr. Hayes, who knows all the facts in connection with both of these concerns, should have so far forgotten the duty that he owes to himself and the citizens of Peterborough, that he would wilfully conceal from his audience the true facts of my connection with these concerns.

Mr. Hayes knows that I undertook to organize the William Hamilton Company in the spring of 1907, but through no fault of my own, I was unexpectedly stuck with a personal liability of $240,000.00, being the amount of the purchase price. Then I offered to forfeit my deposit of $5000.00 and drop out, but the liquidator would not accept it, but compelled me in the midst of a financial crisis that prevailed in this country, to make a further deposit of $25,000.00 on account, and close down the works, or else they would sue me and close both myself and the works down at the same time.

Had the financial statement of the William Hamilton Company, Limited, been correct, I could have carried through the transaction without closing down the works, as Mr. Hayes well knows, but on account of their financial statement being untrue, I was forced to sue the liquidator, and after forced to see the liquidator, and after the expense of a 26 days' law suit, I finally recovered judgment against the liquidator for $45,000.00.

In my eager desire to preserve this important industry to Peterborough, I regret to say that my public spirit of enterprise has been rewarded with the meanest and most vicious lying abuse.

It is true I helped to organise the Canadian Cordage and Manufacturing Company Limited, and it is true that for nearly ten years these works have given employment to upwards of 200 hands. During the time the works were being organised I, from time to time, acquired stock in the company to the extent of $20,000 and after nearly every shareholder had invested his money in the Company, I took an additional $15,000.00 of stock in order to increase the Company's working capital, but on account of the fact that binder twine was upon the free list and that the company was subjected to a world-wide competition, and on account of the violent drop that took place in the fibre market following the financial crisis of 1907, this company, in common with other companies in the United States, was forced into liquidation.

Until the Company is wound up it is impossible to say whether or not the shareholders have actually lost their money in the Company. At all events I have reasonable grounds to believe that the shareholders will be able to get something out of it. In the meantime, however, the working men in Peterborough have nothing to complain of in connection with these two institutions, because the William Hamilton Company has been preserved to the city and is still running giving employment to men, and the Canadian Cordage will be running full blast in the course of a few weeks time, giving employment to its old staff of employees.

I sincerely trust that my opponent, Mr. Peck, will see that malicious slanders are not used by his friends as one of his weapons in this campaign, as my earnest desire is to conduct this campaign on its merits.

Yours truly,
R. R. HALL.

PETERBORO' MAN RECEIVES SPLENDID APPOINTMENT

Mr. Ryerson Ritchie of This City is Made Head of the Commerce Body of San Francisco and Has Taken Charge of His Important Duties---A Tribute to His Great Ability

SAN FRANCISCO, NOV. 14.—Ryerson Ritchie, of Peterborough, Ont., Canada, was tendered and accepted the position of executive director of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce at a special meeting of the board of directors yesterday. His task will be to conduct the administrative and executive work of the chamber and establish it on a sound and constructive basis.

The directors regard the Chamber of Commerce as exceedingly important, as it will be San Francisco's main agency in promoting the material advancement of the city and the principal means whereby it will take its proper place in relation to the trade that will result from the completion of the Panama canal. They felt that the work required the highest organizing ability available and after a correspondence with leading organizations all over the country they invited Ritchie to come to San Francisco for a conference. He reached the city last week and has been quietly looking over the ground. He has held several conferences with with the board of directors, and the impression made on them by his views convinced them he was the man the chamber needed during its formative period.

Ritchie has been identified in an executive way with the organizing of the Kansas City Commercial Club, the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce, the Detroit Board of Commerce, the Chicago Association of Commerce and the Boston Chamber of Commerce. These organizations are among the most efficient and influential commercial bodies in the United States, with a public conscience and a sense of civic obligation. Yet each differs from all the others as each is adapted to the needs of its own community. San Francisco's Chamber of Commerce will be peculiar to San Francisco and modeled on its own lines.

Note.—Mr. Ritchie's many friends in Peterborough will be pleased to learn of the appreciation of his special ability in dealing with the question of the organization and reconstruction of boards of trades. The new Chamber of Commerce in San Francisco is an amalgamation under Mr. Ritchie's direction and supervision of the separate commercial bodies. Mr. Ritchie's presence is not permanent in San Francisco, as his work is merely to establish the new Chamber of Commerce on an efficient basis.

THE ABOLITION OF DEPOSIT IN DOMINION ELECTIONS

OTTAWA, NOV. 21.— Mr. J. H. Burnham, the member for West Peterborough in the House of Commons, will endorse the proposal of the Brockville Socialists that the election deposit be abolished. The Brockville branch of the Socialists have written Mr. John Webster, M.P., reminding him of his promise to introduce a bill to abolish the deposit. Mr. Burnham states that if the bill is introduced he will support it. "It is the only logical conclusion to manhood suffrage," he said, "If the franchise is free there should be no barrier to the rest of it. I am prepared to give my hearty support to a bill to do away with the deposit."

Prior to his departure for Ottawa to take his seat as member for West Peterborough, Mr. Burnham was waited upon by a deputation from the Trades and Labour Council who asked that he endorse the proposal that the election deposit be abolished. Mr. Burnham gave an affirmative reply. The present law provides that a candidate before being qualified to accept nomination must deposit $200, and in the event of his inability to secure half the number of votes his next opponent receives, the deposit is not returned. This, in the opinion of the Trades and Labour Council, is detrimental to members of the organization, who might otherwise offer themselves for nomination.

The requirement of the election law of the Dominion that a candidate should make a deposit of $200 is a relict of the primitive and hazardous days of responsible government and should be abolished. The Ontario election law makes no such demand. What Mr. Burnham should have been asked to do was to introduce a bill to abolish the deposit. Then the matter would be advanced beyond the realm of talk to a square issue.—Editor of the Examiner

New Scale Williams Piano

November, 1911.

The Williams Piano Co. Limited,
Oshawa, Ontario.

Gentlemen:—

As Rubenstein once said when asked to designate the three most important qualities in a piano, "The first" he replied, "is tone", "The second, is tone, and the third, is tone", and in the New Scale Williams you have given the public a piano that fulfills its ideals.

After using your instrument at all my recitals in Canada on my farewell tour, and giving them a thorough trial, I do not hesitate to pronounce the New Scale Williams a beautiful piano.

Sincerely yours,
V. de Pachmann.

FUNERAL OF MR. LEARY

The funeral of the late Mr. Robert H. Leary took place at the Little Lake cemetery this afternoon. The Rev. F. J. Sawers officiated at a very impressive service at the late residence of the deceased, 182 McDonnell street, after which the funeral cortege proceeded to the cemetery, where the remains were laid to rest.

The procession was a large one and contained, besides many relatives from various parts, a number of the most prominent citizens, who assembled to show a last mark of esteem for one who was universally beloved, and sympathy for the relatives.

The large number of floral tributes seldom equalled on any similar occasion, evidenced the great respect in which the deceased was held. Both in public and private life his influence was for good, and few men in this community, in passing beyond, leave a better memory of sterling manhood and good citizenship.

The Lindsay Agricultural Society sent a beautiful wreath and the Fair directorate was represented by Messrs. John Carew and G. A. Williamson of Lindsay.

The pallbearers were: Messrs. T. A. S. Hay, T. Cruickshanks, James Storey ,J. H. Garbutt, George E. Elliott, R. Denne, W. E. Conway and Dr. King.

Among the out-of-town visitors attendant at the funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. Ingles, of Ingles Falls, Ont.; Messrs. Tom and Jack Douglas, of Owen Sound; Mr. Ray Leary, of Buffalo (nephew of the deceased); Mr. Frank Stewart and Miss Mable Stewart of Toronto, and Mr. W. Wright of Cobourg.

OBITUARY

MRS. ANDREW McFALL.

The death took place at Bolton, Ont., on Saturday last, Nov. 18, of Mary McNeil, relict of the late Andrew McFall, in her seventy-third year. The deceased was the mother of Dr. McFall, formerly of Peterborough, and now of Toronto, and her death will be regretted by many residents of Peterborough.

The funeral took place yesterday afternoon, from her late residence, to Laurel Hill cemetery.

JOSEPH IRA BAKER.

There passed away in St. Joseph's Hospital, yesterday, Joseph Ira, the fourteen-year-old son of Mr. H. Baker of Peterborough, after an illness of one week.

He is survived by his parents and one sister.

The funeral will leave the residence of his aunt, Mrs. Adolph A Picard, 375 Queen street, to-morrow morning, at 9 o'clock, to St. Peter's Cathedral, and from thence to St. Peter's cemetery, for interment.

DANIEL CADIGAN.

A sad death occurred in Ennismore yesterday, when Daniel Cadigan, son of Daniel Cadigan, of that township, passed away after an illness of only six days. Death was due to pneumonia.

The deceased was only twenty-one years of age and his death, coming so suddenly, was a severe shock to his relatives, who have the sympathy of a large number of friends.

He is survived by a mother and father, and several sisters and brothers.

The funeral took place this morning to St. Martin's church, at nine o'clock, and from thence to St. Martin's cemetery, for interment.
